1325

THE JAMMU & KASHMIR UNIVERSITY
LIBRARY.

DATE LOAND

Class No. _____ Book No _____

Vol. _____ Copy _____

Accession No. _____

DONATED By PANDIT SHAMBOO NATH DAR,
(1901 — 1969)
ADVOCATE, and former President
SRINAGAR MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

THE JAMMU & KASHMIR UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

DATE LOAND

Class No. _____ Book No _____

Vol. _____ Copy _____

Accession No. _____

INDIAN CASES

CONTAINING

FULL REPORTS OF DECISIONS

OF

The Privy Council, the High Courts of Allahabad, Bombay, Calcutta and Madras, the Chief Courts of Lower Burma and the Punjab, the Courts of the Judicial Commissioners of Central Provinces, Oudh, Sind and Upper Burma

REPORTED IN

The following 22 Legal Periodicals:

Allahabad (1) Indian Law Reports, (2) Law Journal; Bombay (1) Indian Law Reports, (2) Law Reporter; Burma (1) Law Times, (2) Lower Burma Rulings, (3) Upper Burma Rulings; Calcutta (1) Indian Law Reports, (2) Law Journal, (3) Weekly Notes; Madras (1) Indian Law Reports, (2) Law Journal, (3) Law Times, (4) Law Weekly, (5) Weekly Notes; Nagpur Law Reports; Oudh (1) Cases, (2) Law Journal; Punjab (1) Law Reporter, (2) Record, (3) Weekly Reporter; Sind Law Reporter

WITH

A large number of extra Rulings not reported elsewhere.

S. N. Das
Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar.

VOLUME XXVI, 1915.

EDITOR:

S. D. CHAUDHRI, B.A., LL.B.,

PLEADER, CHIEF COURT, PUNJAB, LAHORE.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY THE MANAGER, AT THE "LAW PUBLISHING PRESS," LAHORE.

Books Checked

K UNIVERSITY LIB.
K DIVISION
Acc No 75395
Date 15-12-1969

CONSOLIDATED

Comparative Tables showing seriatim the Volumes and Pages of all Indian Law Journals and Reports, for the months of January and February 1915, with the corresponding Volumes and Pages of Indian Cases.

Table 1

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

(A).—37 I. L. R., ALLAHABAD SERIES, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 37 I. L. R., All. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.		Page of Vol. 37 I. L. R., All. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.
		V.	P.			V.	P.
1	Maqbul Fatima v. Amir Hasan Khan ...	25	193	40	Masih-ud-din v. Imtiaz-un-nissa Bibi ...	27	533
7	Thamman Singh v. Dal Singh ...	27	34	41	Ram Singh v. Girraj Singh ...	26	731
9	Municipal Board of Agra v. Sudarshan Das Shastri ...	26	206	45	Jhandu v. Tarif ...	27	892
12	Ram Charan Lal v. Karim-un-nissa Bibi ...	26	121	49	Jambu Prasad v. Muhammad Aftab Ali Khan ...	28	422
13	Baldeo Prasad v. The Collector of Pilibhit ...	26	91	57	Pachkauri Raut v. Ram Khilawan Chaube ...	26	25
20	Emperor v. Govind Sahai ...	26	647	59	Banwari Lal v. Khubi Ram ...	26	458
22	Basdeo v. Ulfat Rai ...	26	21	65	Bansidhar v. Kharagjit ...	26	926
26	Farzand Ali v. Hakim Ali ...	26	632	69	Narain Dat v. Superintendent of Dehra Dun ...	26	795
30	Emperor v. Mul Chand ...	26	653	72	Ganesh v. Babu Ram ...	26	427
31	Emperor v. Ghasite ...	26	635	76	Sheo Harakh v. Ram Chandra ...	26	783
33	Emperor v. Brijnandan Prasad ...	26	638	81	Rupan Singh v. Champa Lal ...	26	521
				86	Niamat Ali v. Ali Raza ...	26	778

(B).—13 ALLAHABAD LAW JOURNAL, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 13 A. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Ras Behari Lal v. Akhai Kunwar	26	445
4	Emperor v. Jiwan ...	27	208
6	Kuer Sen v. Sukhkho ...	27	503
9	Ganesh v. Babu Ram ...	26	427
14	Rupan Singh v. Champa Lal ...	26	521
19	Baldeo Sahai v. Behari Lal ...	27	509
21	Daya Shankar v. Hub Lal ...	27	497
24	Parmeshwar Dat v. Anardan Dat	26	507
26	Niamat Ali v. Ali Raza ...	26	778
31	Suraj Mal v. Hira Kunwar ...	27	511
34	Kashi Ram v. Het Singh ...	26	4 7
38	Anupa Kuar v. Achhaibar Singh...	26	597
4·	Sheo Harakh v. Ram Chander ...	26	7 3
47	Stamp Reference ...	27	501
49	Lachmi Narain v. Kalka Prasad ...	26	419
53	Gur Baksh Singh v. Kashi Ram ...	27	223
55	C. Simpson v. E. Bachman ..	27	622
57	Muhammad Wali Khan v. Muhammad Mohiuddin Khan ...	27	378
58	Indar Mal v. Budha ...	27	629
60	Pahlad Das v. Collector of Jaunpur ...	27	922
66	East Indian Ry. Co. v. Binda ...	26	620
69	Deo Narain Singh v. Ganga Prasad	26	871
73	Mangal Sen v. Mohammad Husain	27	737
79	Ramji v. Koman Das ...	27	646
81	Singer Manufacturing Co. v. E. Flyun ...	27	637
85	Roshan Lal v. Mool Chand ...	27	697
91	Niadri v. Kura ...	27	707
94	Kalyan Singh v. Pitambar Singh	27	687
96	Shambhu Dayal, In the matter of	27	731
98	T. C. Mukerji v. Afzal Beg ...	27	694
102	Chet Ram v. Sahaba ...	27	532
104	Ram Chandra v. Emperor ...	28	103
105	Ram Dulari v. Balakram ...	27	696
109	Bishan Prasad v. Emperor ...	26	646
110	Mohammad Hashmat Ali v. Kaniz Fatima ...	27	701
111	Mangat Rai v. Emperor ...	27	203
113	Shoharat Singh v. Jafri Bibi ...	24	499
117	Moosa Hajee Hassam v. Secretary of State for India ...	27	26
121	Karmali Abdulla Allarakhia v. Karimji ...	26	915
129	Jambu Prasad v. Muhammad Nawab Aftab Ali Khan ...	28	422
136	Bhagwant Datt v. Rajab Chaudhry	27	804
138	Lal Bahadur Singh v. Abharan Singh ...	27	795
150	Jokhan Choubey v. Mahesh Singh	27	720
154	Raghunath Das v. Sundar Das ...	24	304
162	Kalian Singh v. Jagan Prasad ...	27	950
166	Chhatarpalman v. Prem Nath Tewari ...	27	865
168	Abdul Haq v. Datti Lal ...	26	446
179	Bhagwan Dayal v. Param Sukh Das ...	27	623
185	Munni v. Madan Gopal ...	27	733
190	Jawahir v. Neki Ram ...	28	502
196	Kunwar Bahadur v. Bindraban ...	26	737
204	Ahmad Raza Khan v. Ram Lal ...	26	922
209	Bachcha v. Shiam Lal ...	28	622
211	Indar Pal v. Imperial Bank ...	28	593
217	Jehangir Dadabhoy v. Kaikhushru Kavasha ...	27	53
223	Hari Kishen Bhagat v. Kashi Pershad Singh ...	27	674
229	Mohammed Musa v. Aghore Kumar Ganguli ...	28	930
236	Digambar Singh v. Ahmad Sayeed Khan ...	28	34
246	Gaya Prasad Tewari v. Ram Phal Misir ...	28	21
249	Narain Sarup v. Nanda ...	28	568
251	Naurang v. Emperor ...	28	651
252	Jagannath Gir v. Tirguna Nand ...	28	139
254	Emperor v. Paras Ram ...	28	658
255	Amina Bibi v. Najm-un-nissa ...	27	712
263	Har Prasad v. Sukhdevi Kuar ...	28	561
268	Raja Singh v. Emperor ...	28	734
270	Khushhali Ram v. Bholar Mal ...	28	573
272	Richha v. Emperor ...	28	737

S. N. Das
Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar.

Table 2

BOMBAY HIGH COURT.

(A).—39 I. L. R., BOMBAY SERIES, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 39 I. L. R., Bom. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Chhogmal Balkissondas v. Jainarayan Kanaiyalal ...	24	743
16	Poineer Bank Limited, In the matter of ...	25	264
20	Joshi Laxmiram Lallubhai v. Mehta Balashankar Veniram ...	26	262
26	Manjunath Subrayabhat v. Shankar Manjaya ...	28	139
29	Sundra v. Sakharam Gopalshet Gandhi ...	26	444
34	Harchand Panaji v. Gulabchand Kanji ...	26	265
41	Rama v. Bhagchand Motiram ...	27	249
47	Tulsidas Lallubhai v. Bharat Khand Cotton Mill Co., Ltd. ...	27	44
52	Nathabhai Tricamlal v. Ranchhodlal Ramji ...	27	165
55	Venkaji Narayan Kulkarni v. Gopal Ramchandra Deshponde ...	27	613
58	Emperor v. Hanmaraddi ...	26	138
68	Yellava Sakreppa Barki v. Bhimappa Gireppa Desai ...	28	12
73	Laxmandas Harakchand v. Baban	27	59
80	Umabai v. Amritrao Anant ...	28	18
87	Basangavda v. Basangavda ...	27	167
113	Bhagwat Bhaskar Koranne v. Nivratti Sakharam Bhadule ...	27	356
119	Madhavrao Keshavrao v. Sahebrao Ganpatrao ...	26	751

(B).—17 BOMBAY LAW REPORTER, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 17 Bom. L. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Nalini Kanta Lahiri v. Sarnamoyi Debya ...	24	294
5	Rai Dwarka Nath Sarkar v. Haji Mahomed Akbar ..	24	307
13	Shoharat Singh v. Musammat Jafri Bibi ...	24	499
18	Ekradeshwar Singh v. Musammat Janeshwari Bahuasin ...	25	417
32	Secretary of State for India v. Sri Raja Kirtibas Bhupati Harichandan Mahapatra ...	26	676
44	Jhandhu v. Tariff ...	27	892
49	Anandibai Bhaskar Nilkanth v. Narayan Dhonddev Tattoo ...	27	478
56	Blanche Somerset Taylor v. Charles George Bleach ..	27	494
63	Dayabhai Narandas v. Pestanji Jamshedji ...	27	497
65	Hirji Khetsey v. Indian Specie Bank, Ltd. ...	27	505
68	Emperor v. Bhagwan Chhagan ...	27	552
69	——— v. Appa Ragho Bhogle ...	27	545
72	——— v. Chunilal Manilal ...	27	836
75	——— v. Bhagu Dhondi ...	27	837
79	Kareppa Chanbasappa, In re ...	27	767
82	Emperor v. Anandrao Balkrishna Rangnekar ...	27	657
100	Hamabai Framji Petit v. Secretary of State for India ...	27	26
103	Karmali Abdulla Allarkhia v. Vora Karimji ...	26	915

(B).—17 BOMBAY LAW REPORTER, 1915—concld.

Page of Vol. 17 Bom. L. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
115	Bayabai Sakalkar v. Haridas Ranchhordas ...	27	946
128	Yellava Sakreppa Barki v. Bhimappa Gireppa Desai ...	28	12
133	Umabai Shankar Godbole v. Amritrao Anant ...	23	18
141	Subappa Shenkareppa v. Venkappa Golappa ...	28	24
144	Dhondo Ramchandra Kulkarni v. Bhikaji Gopal ...	27	1005
153	Antaji Vasudev Kelkar v. Vinayak Keshav Bhise ...	27	927
157	Purushottam Daji Mandlik v. Tandurang Chintaman Biwalkar ...	28	921
169	Kashinath Parashram Gadgil v. Gourabai Mallappa Warad ...	28	473
178	Balaram Vithalchand Gujar v. Maruti Devji Dubal ...	23	478
182	Ahmedabad Municipality v. Sakarchand Mohakamchand ...	28	480
187	Dattajirao Shidhojirao Ghorpade v. Nilkantrao Santajirao Ghorepade ...	28	485
192	Bhagwandas Nagindas v. Special Land Acquisition Officer ...	28	489
197	Jehangir Dadabhoy v. Kaikhusru Kavasha ...	27	53
203	Sadashiv Venkaji Joshi v. Narsingrao Konherrao ...	28	493
207	Damodar Moholal Ginning and Manufacturing Company, Limited v. Nagindas Maganlal ...	28	359
209	Tribhovandas Narotamdas v. Abdullally Hakimji Paghdivalla ...	28	506
212	Emperor v. Adurji and Brothers...	28	517
217	——— v. Ramava Channappa ..	28	641
222	——— v. Rajappa Ramappa Kalal ...	28	645

Table 3

BURMA (LOWER) CHIEF COURT.

(A)—7 BURMA LAW TIMES, FOR DECEMBER, 1914.

Page of Vol. 7 Bur. L. T. 1914.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
287	P. L. M. Subramonian Chetty v. Vellian Chetty ...	24	132
290	King-Emperor v. Kotiya ...	24	601
292	——— v. Po Ba ...	24	946
293	Maung Tha Zan v. Maung Ba Gale	24	588
294	Matilda Hindle v. Richard James Hindle ...	24	710
298	Mahomed Esoof v. Hajee Mahomed Esoof ...	24	915
301	King-Emperor v. Kamali Khan ...	24	960
304	Second Grade Pleader, In the matter of a ...	25	339
304	I. A. Sofaer, In the matter of ...	25	222
308	R. M. A. R. Firm v. M. R. M. S. Firm ...	25	220
310	Ma Tha v. P. L. M. M. Chetty Firm ...	26	240

(B).—7 LOWER BURMA RULINGS, FROM OCTOBER TO DECEMBER, 1914.

Page of Vol. 7 L. B. R. 1914.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.	Page of Vol. 7 L. B. R. 1914.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
301	Rathna Pille v. N. P. Firm ...	24	60	339	Chas. R. Cowie & Co. v. W. H. A. Skidmore ...	23	833
304	U Ga Zan v. Hari Pru ...	24	777	343	Hardandass v. Rani Mohori Bibi...	23	322
306	Seena M. Haniff and Co., v. Liptons Ltd. ...	23	689	347	Savuriammal v. Santiago ...	23	242
319	King-Emperor v. A. J. Cooke ...	23	175	351	Zaw Ta v. King-Emperor ...	24	170
333	Mahomed Salay Naikwara v. Mulla Goolam Mahomed ...	23	111	356	Catherine Thaddeus, In re ...	24	793
336	Manackjee Pallanjee v. S. A. Meyappa Chetty ...	28	462	359	Chin Ah Yaing, In re ...	24	823
				362	Chit Maung v. Ma Yait ...	24	638
				367	Palaneappa Chetty v. M. S. Somasundram Chetty ...	28	468

Table 4

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

(A).—42 I. L. R., CALCUTTA SERIES, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 42 I. L. R., Cal. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.	Page of Vol. 42 I. L. R., Cal. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Balmer Lawrie & Co. v. Jadunath Banerjee ...	27	644	67	Intu Meah Mistry v. Darbuksh Bhuiyan ...	25	380
10	Annapurna Dasee v. Nalini Mohan Das ...	23	556	72	Raghunath Das v. Sundar Das Khetri ...	24	304
19	Abhayeswari Debi v. Kishori Mohan Banerjee ...	23	700	85	Madras Steam Navigation Co., Ld. v. Shalimar Works, Ld. ...	28	463
25	Ashraf Ali v. Emperor ...	27	839	109	J. M. Lucas, In re ...	28	469
28	Jogendra Nath Goswami v. Chandra Kumar Mozumdar ...	24	193	116	Maha Prasad Singh v. Ramani Mohan Singh ...	25	451
35	Abdullah Hossein Chowdhury v. Administrator-General of Bengal	24	273	151	Forbes v. Secretary of State for India ...	26	893
46	Paul v. Robson ...	24	300	158	Manipur Dey v. Bidhu Bhushan Sarkar ...	26	146
56	Bijraj Nopani v. Pura Sundary Dasee ...	24	296	164	Jibananda Chakrabarty v. Kalidas Malik ...	26	213

(B).—21 CALCUTTA LAW JOURNAL, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 21 C. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Rai Dwarka Nath Sarkar Bahadur v. Haji Mahomed Akbar ...	24	307
4	Shoharat Singh v. Musammat Jafri Bibi ...	24	499
9	Ekradeshwar Singh v. Musammat Janeshwari Bahuasin ..	25	4 7
23	Nalini Kanta Lahiri v. Sarnamoyi Debya ..	24	294
26	Jhandu v. Tarif ...	27	892
31	Secretary of State for India in Council v Sri Raja Kirtibas ...	26	676
42	Benode Behari Patnaik v. Manmathe Nath Bose ...	13	425
45	Raja Makund Deb v. Gopi Nath Sahu ...	25	286
53	Faujdar Thakur v. Kasi Chaudhury ...	27	186
65	Jogesh Chunder Patitunda v. Rohini Kumar Roy Chowdhry ...	To be reported.
68	Mohini Mohan Misser v. Surendra Narain Singh ...	26	296
75	Kartik Chandra Sarkar v. Hara Gobind Ghose ...	27	813
79	Khagaram Das v. Ram Sankar Das Pramanik ...	27	815
88	Sailaja Prosad Chatterjee v. Jadu Nath Bose ...	27	715
96	Achyutananda Das v. Jagannath Das ...	27	739
104	Dhakeswar Prosad Singh v. Hari-Har Prosad Narain Singh ...	27	780
112	Gulli Sahu v Emperor ...	26	335
116	Bhagat Pershad v. Ramrup Karmarkar ...	27	224
118	Munna Lal Parruck v. Sarat Chunder Mukerji ...	27	683

Page of Vol 21 C. L J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
122	Karmali Abdulla Allarakhia v. Vora Karimji Jiwanji ...	26	915
134	Hamabai Franjee Petit v. Secretary of State for India in Council ...	27	26
137	Seth Ramlal v. Narsingdas ..	26	924
141	Srimati Parameswari v. Jagat Chandra Das ...	27	972
144	Chota Bahira Saheba v. Purna Chunder Chaudhuri ...	27	982
154	Sukhia Bewa v. Secretary of State for India in Council ...	27	821
157	Mohendra Nath Biswas v. Shamsunnessa Khatun ...	27	954
167	Nripendra Nath Sahu v. Asutosh Ghose ...	29	128
174	Rajendra Prosad Jha v. Upendra Nath Jha ...	27	805
177	Akhoy Kumar Banerjee v. Corporation of Calcutta ...	27	261
185	Muhammad Nassaruddin Sarcar v. Sheikh Isab ...	27	1003
187	Amulya Ratan Sircar v. Tarini Nath Dey ...	27	235
192	Faizuddin Khan v. Reju Akab ...	28	22
195	Suprintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Monmohan Ray ...	26	307
198	Deputy Legal Remembrancer and Public Prosecutor, Behar and Orissa v. Ram Udar Singh ...	28	334
201	Harsha Nath Chatterjee v. Emperor ...	26	313
210	Jehangir Dadabhoy v. Kaikhushru Kavasha ...	27	53
218	Jambu Parshad v. Muhammad Nawab Aftab Ali Khan ...	28	422

(C).—19 CALCUTTA WEEKLY NOTES, FROM NOVEMBER TO FEBRUARY, 1914-15.

Page of Vol. 19 C. W. N. 1914-15.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	G. S. Hannah v. Messrs. Jagannath and Co. ...	27	483

Page of Vol. 19 C. W. N. 1914-15.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
18	Kalikanund Mukerjee v. Biprodas Pal Choudry ...	26	436

(C).—19 CALCUTTA WEEKLY NOTES, 1914-15—contd.

Page of Vol. 19 C. W. N. 1914-15.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
25	Charu Chandra Ghosh v. Chandi Charan Ray Chowdhury ...	27	492
28	Ram Ranjan Ray v. King-Emperor	27	554
33	Ram Churn Law v. Shahibzada Fatima Begum ...	27	442
35	Ramdas Mukerjee v. Biprodas Pal Choudhery ...	27	446
37	Akhoy Kumar Banerjee v. Corporation of Calcutta ...	27	261
43	Srimati Aminunnessa v. Jinnat Ali ...	27	271
45	Haji Cassim Mamooji v. K. B. Dutt and P. Chaudhuri ...	27	459
52	Nistarini Debya v. Behary Lal Mukherjee ...	27	239
54	Ramadhin Singh v. Jadunandan Singh ...	27	268
56	Katyayani Debi v. Port Canning and Land Improvement Co. ...	25	274
62	Radha Kishen Chooni Lal v. The East Indian Railway Co. ...	21	970
64	Hurchand Ray Gobourdhon Das v. Bengal-Nagpur Railway Co. ...	28	838
65	Secretary of State for India v. Kirtibas Bhupati Harichandan	26	676
76	Rahimunissa Bibi v. Shaikh Manik Jan ...	27	96
79	Doyamayee Chowdhurani v. Narendra Kishore Roy ...	27	114
80	E. H. Stevens v. Janki Ballabh ...	22	304
84	Rashmoni Dassi v. Ganoda Sundari Dassi ...	26	275
89	Haradhone Debnath Bhagabati Dassi ...	23	214
95	The East Indian Railway Co. v. Nilkanta Roy ...	22	679
97	Ravi Veeraraghavulu v. Sri Raja Bomma Devara Venkata Narasimha Naidu ...	25	305
102	Biswanath Gorain v. Surendro Mohon Ghose ...	To be printed.
112	Rup Chand Ghose v. Narendra Krishna Ghose ...	28	683
117	W. M. Grant v. Har Sahay Singh	20	53
118	Damodar Misra v. Hrishi Naik ...	27	227
120	Hari Nama Dass v. Sheikh Naju ...	23	618
121	Dwarka Singh v. King-Emperor	28	732
123	Chintamoni Jena v. Jagannath Ramanuja Das ...	28	651
124	Sadananda Mondal v. Krista Mondal ...	27	672
125	Asrabuddin Sarkar v. Kalidayal Mullik ...	28	645
127	Emperor v. Raffi Raut ...	28	656
129	Narendra Nath Basu v. H. L. Stephenson ...	To be printed.
136	Panchkari Chatterjee v. Maharaj Bahadur Sing ...	28	708
138	A. H. Forbes v. Secretary of State for India in Council ...	26	893
140	Gopini Debi v. Ram Taran Tewary	11	696
143	Protap Chandra Roy v. Judhistir Das ...	23	69
149	H. Manners v. Harihar Koer ...	22	563
152	Moharaj Bahadur Singh v. Surendra Narain Singh ...	28	898
157	Nripendra Nath Sahu v. Ashutosh Ghose ...	29	128
161	Ramchandra Martand Waikar v. Vinayak Venkatesh Kothekar ...	24	290
162	Lala Mahabir Prasad v. Musammat Taj Begam ...	23	642
165	Co-operative Hindustan Bank Ld. v. Bhola Nath Borooch ...	To be printed.
170	Bhairo Prosad v. Gojadhar Prosad Sahu ...	23	587
174	Luchmi Missir v. Deoki Kuar ...	18	752
178	Musammat Chandrabati v. Madho Prosad ...	27	365
179	Emperor v. Saber Akunji ...	27	184
181	Deputy Superintendent & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Kailash Chandra Ghosh ...	27	184
184	Faujdar Thakur v. Kasi Choudhuri ...	27	186
193	Seth Ramlal, v. Narsingdas ...	26	924
197	Jhandu v. Tarif ...	27	892
200	Thakur Madan Mohan Nath Sahi Deo v. Maharaja Pratap Udai Nath Sahi Deo ...	22	778
203	Kunja Behary Seal v. Durga Prosad Singh ...	25	819
205	Nirod Barani Debi v. Chamatkarini Debi ...	27	617
208	Mohamaya Debi v. Haridas Haldar	27	400
217	Jung Rai v. King-Emperor ...	28	649
220	Akbar Ali Mahomed v. King-Emperor ...	28	663
221	Gulli Sahu v. Emperor ...	26	335
223	Ram Deo Pande v. Emperor ...	28	648
224	Mohajan Sheikh v. Emperor ...	28	672
225	Shoharat v. Musammat Jafri Bibi	24	499
229	Lal Bahadur Sahi v. Mr. Mackenzie	20	781
233	Ambika Prosad Singh v. Pardip Singh ...	28	446
234	Sreemutty Ayatan Nessa Bibi v. Kulfu Khalifa ...	22	677

(C).—19 CALCUTTA WEEKLY NOTES, 1914-15—concld.

Page of Vol. 19 C. W. N. 1914-15.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
237	Bitari Ram v. Kanji Singh ...	20	857
240	Sailaja Prosad Chatterjee v. Jadu Nath Bose ...	27	715
246	Akhil Chandra Biswas v. Hasan Ali Sadagar ...	20	698
248	Rakkal Das Sinna v. King-Emperor ...	15	655
250	Mahomed Musa v. Aghore Kumar	28	930
260	Abdul Gofur Mandal v. Umakanta Pandit ...	24	266
263	Guru Ch. Saha v. Surendra Krista Ray Chowdry ...	22	650
265	Nabin Chandra Saha v. Hem Chandra Ray ...	20	248
268	Raghunath Singh v. Mr. William Cox ...	27	564
270	Uma Charan Mandal v. Midnapore Zemindary Co. ...	26	182
273	H. Meredith v. Sanjibani Dasi ...	28	1000
282	Jambu Parshad v. Muhammad Aftab Ali Khan ...	28	422
287	Christiana Sens Law v. Benarashi Proshad Chodhury ...	22	685
290	Baser Sheikh v. Fazle Karim Biswas ...	28	703
290	Monijan Bibi v. District Judge, Birbhum ...	25	229
295	Sashi Rajbunshi v. King-Emperor ...	26	657
305	Hamabai Framjee Petit v. Secretary of State for India in Council ...	27	26
313	Rameswar Mondal v. Provabati Debi ...	25	84
321	Bata Mondal v. Maharaja Manindra Chandra Nandi Bahadur ...	25	829
325	Esahuq Chowdhry v. Abadennissa Bibee ...	29	692
326	Abdul Aziz v. Tafazuddin Sheikh	23	839
329	Prasanno Kumar Chuckerbutty v. Prokash Ch. Dutt ...	28	560
330	Hare Krishna v. King-Emperor ...	28	795
332	Sarojebashini Debi v. Shripati Charan Chowdhry ...	28	799
334	Purna Chandra Moulik v. Dengar Chandra Pal ...	28	658
335	Emperor v. Sarath ...	28	799
337	Karamali Abdulla Allarakhia v. Vora Karimji ...	26	915
345	Kumar Krishna Mitter v. Amulya Charan Mitter ...	To be printed.
347	Hemanta Kumari Debi v. Midnapur Zemindari Co. ...	28	879
356	Hem Chandra Chowdhury v. Hemanta Kumari Debi ...	23	442
359	Chamed Sheikh v. Naba Gopal Ghosh ...	23	12
361	Kanai Lal Jalan v. Rasik Lal Sadhukhan ...	23	762
366	Monorama Chowdhrani v. Shiva Sundari Majumdar ...	28	886
370	Hari Kishan Bhagat v. Kashi Pershad Singh ...	27	674
375	Nowaghur Coal Co., Ld. v. Sashi Bhusan Ray ...	28	811
383	Amjadennessa Bibee v. Rahim Bakhsh Shikdar ...	28	713
386	Hem Chandra Chaudhuri v. Atul Chandra Chakrabartty ...	21	179
389	Prokash Chandra Ghosh v. Hassan Banu Bibi ...	28	450
391	Corporation of Calcutta v. Monmotha Nath Sett ...	28	653
393	Kunwar Digambar Singh v. Kunwar Ahmad Sayeed Khan...	28	34
401	Garden Reach Spinning and Manufacturing Co. v. Secretary of State ...	28	865
407	Dakhyani Dassi v. Mono Raut ...	22	666
410	Maheshri Proshad Singh v. Baij Nath Hazari ...	21	779
412	Ashu Tosh Singha Ray v. Banomali Sain ...	21	104
415	Bande Ali Fakir v. Amud Sarkar	26	380
419	Peary Choudhury v. Sonoo Dass ...	27	628
422	C. Balthasar v. Emperor ...	26	131

Table 5

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

(A).—38 I. L. R., MADRAS SERIES, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 38 I. L. R., Mad. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.		Page of Vol 38 I. L. R., Mad. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.
		V.	P.			V.	P.
1	Konda Reddi v. Ramasami Reddi	17	112	108	Secretary of State v. Raghunatha Tathachariar ...	18	41
6	Basaweswaraswami v. Bellary Municipal Council ...	17	158	114	Kolathu Ayyar v. Ranga Vadhya	18	203
15	Chidambaram Chetty v. Nagappa Chetty ...	16	820	118	Doraisami Serumadan v. Nondisami Saluvan ...	21	410
18	Syed Ibrahim Sahib v. Arumugathayee ...	16	877	134	Venkataramana Iyer v. Narasinga Rao ...	18	135
25	Sankararama Iyer v. Padmanabha Iyer ...	17	425	138	Varahaswami v. Ramachandra Raju ...	18	520
33	Appalanarasimhulu v. Sanyasi ...	17	120	141	Venkiah v. Krishnamoorthy ...	19	80
36	Govindappa v. Hanumanthappa...	17	420	149	Ramasawmy v. Rasi ...	21	62
41	Valli Ammal v. Corporation of Madras ...	16	971	153	Lingayya v. Kanakamma ...	28	200
45	Kamala Bai v. Bhagirathi Bai ...	16	939	155	Sri Rajagopalaswami Temple v. Jaganadha Pandiajiar ...	18	719
48	Krishnan Nair v. Damodaran Nair ...	17	769	158	Vencataraju v. Ramanamma ...	21	258
67	Mammali v. Kunhipakki Haji ...	17	337	160	Sri Rajah Prakasarayanim Garu v. Venkata Rao ...	21	319
71	Tirupatirayudu Naidu v. Lakshminarasamma ...	17	597	163	Atchaparaju v. Velugoti Govinda Krishnayachendrulavaru ...	19	225
79	Naku Amma v. Raghava Menon...	18	1	166	Krishnamachariar v. Krishnamachariar ..	19	452
86	Kunhi Sou v. Mulloli Chathu ...	17	933	178	Natesa Aiyar v. Appavu Padayachi	19	462
92	Srinivasa Ayyangar v. Secretary of State ...	18	617	199	Balasubramania Chetti v. Swarnammal ...	21	32
101	Ramakrishna Chetty v. Subbarayer Iyer ...	18	64	203	Chinnayya v. Ramanna ...	19	579

(B).—28 MADRAS LAW JOURNAL, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 28 M. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and Page of Ind. Cas.		Page of Vol. 28 M. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.
		V.	P.			V.	P.
1	Nachiappa Gounden, v. Rangasami Gounden ...	26	757	67	Srinivasa Ranga Rao Pantulu v. Raja Kumara Venkata Perumal Raju ...	28	64
44	Hattikudure Narain Rao v. Andar Sayad Abbas Sahib ...	27	785	72	Kakerla Chukkamma v. Kakerla Punnamma ...	27	775
51	Sri Rajah Jaghapathiraju v. Secretary of State for India ...	26	692	75	Jaganatha Bhupathi Deo v. Appalaswamy ...	23	576
58	Venkayya v. Venkataramiah ...	26	460

(B).—28 MADRAS LAW JOURNAL, 1915—concld.

Page of Vol. 28 M. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
81	Rajah Kumara Vencata Perumal Raju v. Ramudu ...	27	688
92	Gadian Chetti v. Veerappa Chetti ...	26	899
96	Gopammal v. Srinivasa Iyengar...	27	921
98	Maharajah of Venkatagiri v. Secretary of State for India ...	26	800
115	Peruma Gowndan v. Rama Gowndan ...	28	378
118	Arunachalam Chetty v. Rangasamy Pillai ...	28	79
123	Avasarala Venkata Hanumantha Rao v. Achanna ...	28	97
127	Ponammal v. Ramamirtha Aiyar...	27	679
132	Meyyaru Ammal, In re ...	22	721
134	Venkatappayya v. Venkatramanayya ...	27	220
136	Lodd Govindass v. Chinnappa Naidu ...	27	869
138	Vellayam Chetty v. Jothi Mahalinga Aiyar ...	28	83
140	Venkatachallan Chetty v. Narayanan Chetty ...	26	740
147	Municipal Council of Kumbakonam v. Veeraperumal Padayachi ...	28	45
154	Jagannaikulu v. Manager Nandigam Estate ...	27	122
167	Jehangir Dadabhoy v. Kavasha ...	27	53
174	Sivagnana Desika Gnanasambhanda Pandarasannadhi v. Advocate-General of Madras ...	27	874
179	Harmabai Framjee Petit v. Secretary of State for India ...	27	26
184	Thekkamannengath Raman alias Kochu Poduval v. Kakkasseri Pazhiyot Manakkal Karnavan...	27	989
197	Chockalingam Chetti v. Periakaruppan ...	28	141
199	Ramaswamy Chetti v. Alagappa Chetti ...	28	135
204	Venkatarama Aiyar v. Krishna Iyer ...	27	192
209	Thiruvengadatha Aiyangar v. Ponnapa Aiyangar ...	25	965
217	Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi v. Sreeminakshy Devastanam ...	26	841
251	Sowcar Kamurudeen Sahib v. Noor Mohamed Usman Sahib .	28	205
256	Lakshmi Narayana Aiyar v. Ulagammal ...	26	528
260	Darbha Lingayya v. Darbha Kanakamma ...	28	200
262	Karunakara Menon v. Krishna Menon ...	27	952
266	Kalliani Amma v. Narayanan Nambiar ...	28	69
285	Chidambara Mudaliar v. Krishnaswami Pillai ...	28	221

(C).—17 MADRAS LAW TIMES, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 17 M. L. T. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Secretary of State for India v. Bhupati Harichandan Mahapatra	26	676
10	Jhandu v. Tariff ...	27	892
15	Kristnamma v. Chitturi Chinna Perraju ...	27	179
18	Grace Rosamund Rhodes v. Padmanabha Chettiar ...	26	369
29	Venkata Simhadri Jagapathi Raju v. Secretary of State ...	26	692
35	Karmali Abdulla Allarakhia v. Vora Karimji ...	26	915
45	Seth Ramlal v. Narsingdas ...	26	924
48	Narayanaswami Aiyar v. Krishnamurti Aiyar ...	26	927
57	Penumetsa Subbaraya v. Veegisena Satharamaraza ...	28	232
61	S. G. Ramanatham Chetty v. A. S. Ragammal ...	27	849

(C).—17 MADRAS LAW TIMES, 1915—concld.

Page of Vol. 17 M. L. T. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.	Page of Vol. 17 M. L. T. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
76	Hamabai Framji Petit v. Secretary of State for India in Council ...	27	26	143	Mahomed Musa v. Aghore Kumar Ganguli ...	28	930
78	Visvanatha Santhasingaro v. Sri Ramchandra Mardraja Deo ...	27	44	148	Jambu Parshad v. Muhammad Namab Aftab Ali Khan ...	28	422
80	Jaganadha Sahu v. Rama Sahu ...	27	747	154	Arunachalam Chetty v. Rangasamy Pillai ...	28	79
83	Sessions Judge of Madura, In re ...	26	152	158	Kumadeen Sahib v. Noor Mahomed Isman Sahib ...	28	205
84	Vellore Taluq Board v. Gopalaswami Naidu ...	26	226	160	Chitturi Suriah v. Boddu Ramayya	28	57
85	Kolakudi Veeranna Reddy v. Vasudeva Reddy ...	26	991	164	Venkatarama Iyer v. Krishna Iyer	27	192
85	Venkatasuryanarayana v. Sivasankara Narayana ...	27	861	168	Rangaswami Kavundan v. Alagayammal ...	28	85
87	Nachiappa Gounden v. Rangasami Gounden ...	26	757	170	Kallani Amma v. Narayanan Nambiar ...	28	69
115	Hari Kishen Bhagat v. Kashi Pershad Singh ...	27	674	186	Gandi Ramaswami v. Puramsetti Pedamunayya ...	27	1001
120	Munna Lal Parruck v. Sarat Chunder Mukerji ...	27	683	188	Bala Tripura Sundaramma v. Suryanarayana ...	28	349
125	Ponnammal v. Ramamirda Aiyar...	27	679	190	Kajana Venkoba Row v. Sastha Aiyer ...	28	269
129	Venkata Perumal Raju v. Ramudu ...	27	688	191	Rangayya Naidu v. Chinnaswami Iyer ...	28	898
138	Kathaperumal Thevan v. Ramalinga Thevan ...	27	695	191	Mahomed Kasim v. Emperor ...	28	156
139	Ramakrishna Chetty v. Venkatasubbiah Chetty ...	28	15	193	Kunwar Digambar Singh v. Kunwar Ahmad Sayeed Khan ...	28	34
142	Doraiswamy Mudaliar v. Sudarsana Chariar ...	27	767	202	Latifa Bibi v. Narayana Chari ...	26	271

(D).—2 LAW WEEKLY, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY 1915.

Page of Vol. 2 L. W. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.	Page of Vol. 2 L. W. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Arunachalam Chetty v. Kothandapani Pillay ...	27	789	27	Chengalavala Gurrazu v. Madapati Venkateswara Row ...	27	920
4	Khande Subbayya v. Nara Subba Reddy ...	27	792	29	Jagaddevu Raja v. Jagannatha Singi Santo ...	26	888
8	Ramasami Iyer v. Srirangaraja Iyengar ...	26	622	31	Secretary of State v. Venkata Simhadri Jaghapathiraju Bahadur Garu ...	26	692
11	Secretary of State v. Bhupati Harichandan Mahapatra ...	26	676	38	Muthukaruppa Pillai v. Sellathammal ...	26	785
22	Khaddam Venkata Rao, In re ...	26	650	45	Rajagopala Krishna Yachendralavaru v. Secretary of State ...	26	800
24	Kakerla Chukkamma v. Kakerla Punnamma ...	27	775

(D).—2 LAW WEEKLY, 1915—concld.

Page of Vol. 2 L. W. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
61	Chathappa Nambiar v. Kalloor Koman ...	26	946
62	Aiyarappa Mudaliar v. Kajarat Kibulai Syed Gulam Ghouse ...	26	831
64	Palaniyappa Chetti v. Ramanathan Chetti ...	26	834
66	Arasalwar Peria Tiruvadi Aiyangar v. Muthammal Janaki ...	27	777
67	Ali Mahomed Mukri, In re ...	26	645
69	Nachiappa Gounden v. Rangasami Gounden ...	26	757
101	Achanta Venkatasuryanarayana v. Yellapragadu Shiva Sankara Narayana ...	27	861
102	Thunkunni Achan v. Manchu Nair	27	863
103	Annasami Sastrigal v. Ramasami Sastrigal ...	27	824
105	Majeti Nagaratnam v. Pachigella Ramayya ...	27	882
107	Kandasami Asari v. Narayana Asati ...	26	644
109	Salicheemala Venkataswami Naidu v. Gunturu Rangappa Naidu ..	26	944
113	Jhandu v. Tarif ..	27	892
117	Mallikarjuna Nayudu Bahadur v. Rayalapati Somayya ..	27	77
127	Amritheswara Pandithar v. Murugappa Chettiar ...	27	886
133	Karamali Abddulla Allarakdio v. Vara Karimji Jivanji ..	26	915
142	Lodd Govind Doss v. Chinnappa Naidu ...	27	869
145	Udayal v. Arunachala Chettiar ...	27	872
148	Sivagnana Desika v. Advocate-General ...	27	874
152	Cunniah Chetti v. Elamanda Chetti ...	27	877
155	Sankaran Nair v. Ramaswami Patter ...	27	889
157	Thavasi v. Arumugam ...	28	1
163	Ramlal v. Narsingdas ...	26	924
166	Vellayan Chetty v. Mahalinga Iyer ...	28	83
169	Rangasawmi Kavundan v. Alagayamman ...	28	85
172	Seshayya v. Mallesam ...	28	88
177	Sennava Reddiar v. Venkatachala Reddiar ...	28	91
180	Venkata Hanumantha Rao, In re	28	97
185	Guravadu v. Kristina Reddy ...	27	560
188	Sundaresa Gurukkal v. Sambasiva Iyer ...	28	93
191	Hamabai Framjee Petit v. Secretary of State ...	27	26
194	Narayanaswami Naidu v. Sundararamiah ...	27	937
196	Karunakara Menon v. Krishna Menon ...	27	952
200	Venkatarama Aiyar v. Krishna Iyer ...	27	192
206	Narasimha Chetti v. Vijiapala Nainar ...	27	944
208	Dadabhoy v. Kaikhushru ...	27	53
212	Venkataramanachari v. Thirunaranachari ...	27	930
219	Hari Kishen Bhagat v. Kashi Pershad Singh ...	27	674
224	Appala Suryanarayana v. Venkatasiva Rao Pantulu ...	28	186
230	Subramania Pattar v. Narayana Pattar ...	28	189
233	Mahomad Kasim v. Emperor ...	28	156
236	Malayappier v. Pitchai Asari ...	28	195
239	Marayya Chetty v. Sami Chetty...	28	210
241	Chidambara Mudaliar v. Krishnasami Pillay ...	28	221
255	Venkoba Rao v. Sastha Aiyar ..	28	269
257	Venkatesam Chetty v. Subbiah ...	28	266
258	Mahomed Musa v. Aghore Kumar Ganguli ...	28	930
265	Subbadu v. Emperor ...	28	522
269	Dasi Swarnam v. Deivanayagam Pillai ..	28	271
270	Kakarapalli Pothuraju, In re ..	28	277
272	Alagu Chetty v. Palaniappa Chetty ...	28	278

(E).—(1915) MADRAS WEEKLY NOTES, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY.

Page of (1915) M. W. N.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Zamindar of Chellapalli v. Rajalapati Somayya ...	27	77
8	Rukamani Sundarammal v. Muthuammal ...	26	489
12	Somiammal v. Vellaya Sethurayan	26	347
15	Lanka Gopalam v. Lanka Ratnamma ...	26	353
17	Balakrishna Mudaliar v. Raju Mudaliar ...	27	736
19	Kakerla Chukkamma v. Kakerla Punnamma ...	27	775
21	Ponnuranga Mudaliar v. Thandavaraya Mudaliar ...	26	274
22	Subbier v. Chinnappa Rowthen ...	26	366
23	Arunachelam Chetty v. Raman Chetty ...	27	807
25	Sadini Kondayya v. Kosagani Peda Swami ...	27	919
26	Alamelu v. Balu Ammal ...	26	455
29	Sinnasami Gounden v. Subbana Gounden ...	26	904
31	Kuppusamy Iyer v. Muthusami Iyer ...	27	891
33	Dupageentla Subba Rao v. Gallapudi Ethirazulu ...	26	360
34	Parvatanenikamayya v. Emperor	26	318
34	Muniandi v. Emperor ...	26	332
37	Chengalavala Gurraza v. Madapati Venkateswara Row ...	27	920
39	Secretary of State v. Cockerall ...	27	723
45	Munisawmy Mudaly v. Abbu Reddy	27	323
48	Muthukaruppa Pillai v. Sellathammal ...	26	785
53	Nachiappa Gounden v. Rangasami Gounden ...	26	757
76	Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi v. Anantanarayana Iyer ...	26	841
101	Srinivasa Ranga Row v. Varadachariar ...	28	64
105	Kalliani Amma v. Narayanan Nambiar ...	28	69
118	Arunachalam Chetty v. Rangasamy Pillai ...	28	79
122	Narayanaswami Aiyar v. Krishnamurthi Aiyar ...	26	927
130	Ponnammal v. Ramamirda Aiyar...	27	679
132	Varadachariar v. Ramudu ...	27	688
140	Kristnamma v. Chinna Perraju ...	27	179
143	Municipal Council of Kumbakonam v. Veeraperumal Padayachi	28	45
148	Devaramani Bhogappa v. Pedda Bhinaka Gowd ...	28	51
150	Chitturi Suriah v. Boddu Ramayya ...	28	57
154	Ramaswami Iyer v. Secretary of State for India ...	26	863
157	Subramania v. Muthiah Chettiar...	26	279
159	Reddi Venkapasubbiah v. Tangatoor Subbian ...	28	62
162	Veeraragava Iyer v. Muga Sait ...	26	287
170	Thavasi v. Arumugam ...	28	1
174	Subbaraju v. Seetharamaraju ...	28	232
177	Hanumantha Rao v. Emperor ...	28	97
180	Bank of Bengal v. Ramanadhan Chetty ...	28	260
181	Venkatarama Iyer v. Krishna Iyer ...	27	192
185	Gnanasambanda Pandara Sannadi v. The Advocate-General ...	27	874
187	Krishnamurthi Iyer v. Subramania Iyer ...	28	240
188	Venkatachalapathi Row v. Pedaviraswami ...	28	244
189	Plott Chandu v. Kolathum Karaammal ...	28	248
190	Udayal v. Arunachala Chettiar ...	27	872
192	Venkataratnam v. Varadarajah Appa Rao ...	28	252
201	Vellayan Chetty v. Mahalinga Iyer ..	28	83
203	Kumbola Guruvadu v. Kristna Reddy ...	27	560
204	Kumadeen Sahib v. Noor Mahamed Ismam Sabib ...	28	205
208	Malayappier v. Pitchai Asari ...	28	195
209	Kasidass Subbaraya v. Narayana Reddi ...	28	492

Table 6

NAGPUR JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

11 NAGPUR LAW REPORTS, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 11 N. L. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.		Page of Vol. 11 N. L. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.
		V.	P.			V.	P.
1	Dalchand v. Chandkhan ...	27	859	16	Musammat Bayabai v. Purshottam	27	919
4	Bhioraj v. Narayan ...	27	861	18	Murlidhar v. Mulu ...	27	935
8	Musammat Amba v. Sheoram ...	27	864	21	Chandan Singh v. Fakirgir ...	27	940
9	Haria v. Manakchand ...	27	866	25	Sadashiv v. Musammat Rukhmabai	27	969
13	Shriram v. Chunnilal ...	27	988	31	Ganaji v. Dhansingh ...	27	977

Table 7

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

(A).—18 OUDH CASES, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 18 O. C. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.		Page of Vol. 18 O. C. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.
		V.	P.			V.	P.
1	Mahmud Ali v. Gobind Prasad ...	28	184	43	Brijraj Singh v. Ganga Bakhsh Singh ...	28	855
5	Bhan Partab Sahi v. Manohar Lal	28	236	48	Kalap Nath v. Mata Din ...	28	859
10	Sundar Dei v. Thakur Baldeo Bakhsh Singh ...	28	161	51	Ram Sarup v. Bindeshuri ...	27	938
30	Raj Raghubar Singh v. Bikramajit Singh ...	28	171	55	Deputy Commissioner, Fyzabad v. Sant Bakhsh Pathak ...	27	72
34	Imam-ud-din v. Mumtaz-un-nissa	27	118	58	Niranjan Singh v. Jagan Nath ...	28	862
38	Mohammad Nasim v. Mohammad Ahmad ...	27	389	61	Sheoambar Singh v. Balbhadra Singh ...	28	357

(B).—2 OUDH LAW JOURNAL, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

Page of Vol. 2 O. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.		Page of Vol. 2 O. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.
		V.	P.			V.	P.
1	Lal Bahadur v. Zalim Singh ...	27	581	14	Tribhuwan Dat v. Balak Ram ...	27	587
10	Mansa Din v. Thakur Prasad ...	27	585	18	Badri Prasad v. Gauri Nath ...	27	597
11	Nawab Sultan Husain v. Swak Singh ...	27	586	20	Gajraj Singh v. Gauri Shankar ...	27	609
				22	Manik Ram v. Ram Autar ...	27	611

(B).—2 OUDH LAW JOURNAL, 1915—concld.

Page of Vol. 2 O. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.		Page of Vol. 2 O. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.
		V.	P.			V.	P.
27	Hanwant Ram v. Bhagwati Prasad Singh ...	27	516	71	Badal v. Abdul Wahab ...	27	950
30	Kamta v. Bhagirath ...	27	517	73	Suraj Kishan v. Ajudhya Prasad Singh ...	27	960
41	Lachhman Singh v. Mahdo Prasad ...	27	532	88	Muhammad Baqar v. Sheo Mohan Singh ...	27	974
42	Muhammad Ashraf v. Gaya Prasad ...	27	534	94	Jagan Nath v. King-Emperor ...	28	158
44	Jit Singh v. Ram Bakhsh Singh ...	27	537	97	Ali Bakhsh v. Ghurai ...	28	180
46	Gajraj Singh v. Raghubar ...	27	540	101	Abdul Karim v. Abdul Razzak ...	28	201
50	Bhagwan Bakhsh Singh v. Suraj Bali Singh ...	27	561	109	Narendra Bahadur Singh v. Wali Muhammad ...	28	208
51	Iqbal Narain v. Suraj Narain ...	27	543	112	Sheoraj Sonar v. Raja Pratab Bahadur Singh ...	28	211
55	Baba Din v. Bansraj ...	27	567	113	Amir Mirza v. Nawab Haider Mirza ...	28	217
57	Itraj Kuar v. Raja Ram ...	27	570	121	Raushan Zaman Khan v. Rama Nand Misra ...	28	229
63	[illegible]ahesh v. Rudra Pratab Singh ...	27	525	123	Bhan Pratab Sahi v. Manohar Lal	28	236
65	Jagdamba Singh v. Bhagwan Baksh Singh ...	27	935	127	Piarey Lal v. Babban Lal ...	28	239
67	Ram Sarup v. Bindeshuri ...	27	938

Table 8

PUNJAB CHIEF COURT.

(A).—16 PUNJAB LAW REPORTER, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1915.

No. of Vol. 16 P. L. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.		No. of Vol. 16 P. L. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas.
		V.	P.			V.	P.
1	Shib Ram v. Hamir Singh ...	27	645	12	Hakam Singh v. Indar ...	27	699
2	Narain Das v. Musammat Daropti	27	673	13	Nanak Singh v. Crown ...	28	281
3	Ahmad Khan v. Musammat Bakhtawar ...	27	647	14	Dharam Singh v. Duni Chand ...	Not reportable.
4	Crown v. Ahmad ...	27	219	15	Khaista Khan v. Mira Khan ...	Ditto.
5	Muhammad v. Crown ...	27	221	16	Mohay-ud-din v. Nowroz ...	Ditto.
6	Muhammad Ali v. Sham Lal ...	27	650	17	Ganda Singh v. Crown ...	27	559
7	J. Rustomji v. Guranditta Mal ...	27	639	18	Nasib Singh v. Harnam Singh ...	28	919
8	J. Rustomji v. Guranditta Mal ...	27	637	19	Liquidators of the Marwar Bank, Ltd. v. Panna Lal ...	27	635
9	Guranditta Mal v. J. Rustomji ...	27	630	20	Kishen Chand v. Sohan Lal ...	26	913
10	Musammat Misri v. Musammat Chauli ...	27	640	21	Kaisth Bank, Limited v. Iqbal Hussain ...	28	50
11	Muhammad Hasan v. Yusaf ...	27	642

16 PUNJAB LAW REPORTER 1915—concld.

No. of Vol. 16 P. L. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
22	Piara Singh v. Peshawar Bank, Ltd. ...	28	53
23	Gopal Das v. Ghulam Mohy-ud-din ...	27	579
24	Bua Ditta v. Musammat Rattan Devi ...	28	12
25	Muhammad v. Ram Dial ...	28	14
26	Hakim v. Ghasita ...	27	20
27	Hira v. Jowala Das ...	27	1008
28	Hira Lal v. Crown ...	27	550
29	Mela Ram v. Musammat Rukman	27	572
30	Nur Khan v. Musammat Bakhtawar	27	574
31	Muhammad Din v. Ahmad Din ...	27	577
32	Ayaz-ud-din v. Musammat Mahfuzan Nisa ...	27	542
33	Ata Muhammad Khan v. Musammat Jiwani ...	26	492
34	Nanak Singh v. Kesho Das ...	28	281
35	Nur Muhammad v. Musammat Allah Wasai ...	27	562
36	Mathra Dass v. Muharram Din ...	27	561
37	Buta Singh v. Lal Singh ...	27	565
38	Babu Lal v. Chanda ...	27	589
39	Girdhari Lal v. Abdul Rahman ...	28	87
40	Thakar Das v. Official Liquidator	28	90
41	Kanshi Ram v. Peshawar Bank, Limited ...	28	95
42	Messrs. Meugens v. Sutlej Flour Mills, Ferozepur ...	27	625
43	Thuman v. Musammat Basanti ...	27	980
44	Anup Singh v. Sohan Singh ...	27	749

(B).—50 PUNJAB RECORD, FOR JANUARY, 1915.

No. of Vol. 50 P. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
	Civil.
1	Godha Ram v. Devi Das ...	28	273
2	Sukh Raj v. Kanhaya Lal ...	28	113
3	Diwan Shib Nath v. Alliance Bank of Simla, Ltd. ...	25	480
4	Alliance Bank of Simla, Ltd. v. Bhai Kahan Singh ...	25	856

(C).—10 PUNJAB WEEKLY REPORTER, FOR JANUARY-FEBRUARY 1915.

No. of Vol. 10 P. W. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
	Civil.
1	Nanak Singh v. Kesho Das ...	27	608
2	Ata Muhammad Khan v. Musammat Jiwani ...	26	492
3	Ayaz-ud-din v. Musammat Mahfuzan Nisa ...	27	542
4	Mathra Dass v. Muharram Din ...	27	561

(C).—10 PUNJAB WEEKLY REPORTER, 1915—concld.

No. of Vol. 10 P. W. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
	Civil—contd.
5	Nur Muhammad v. Musammat Allah Wasai ...	27	562
5	Buta Singh v. Lal Singh ...	27	565
6	Babu Lal v. Chanda ..	27	589
7	Karm Ilahi v. Nur Mahi ...	27	593
8	Mehra v. Mangal Singh ...	27	393
9	Munshi Ram v. Musammat Misri	27	598
10	Ram Singh v. Nanak Chand ...	27	603
11	Mahia Mal v. Ghulam Kadir ...	27	607
12	Thakar Das v. Chuni Lal ...	27	606
13	Allah Dad v. Mehra ...	27	622
14	Ahmad Khan v. Musammat Bakhtawar ...	27	646
15	Ghaman v. Kanhya Mal ...	26	426
16	Kalu v. Sowaria ...	27	703
17	Bhagwan Kaur v. Harnam Kaur	26	430
18	Hakam Singh v. Indar ...	27	699
19	Bhagat Singh v. Jai Ram ...	26	402
20	Jawahir Singh v. Naurang Singh	27	620
21	Hira v. Muhamadi ...	26	404
22	Chela Ram v. Mengh Raj ...	27	621
23	Sahab Din v. Daswandhi Beg ...	27	722

No. of Vol. 10 P. W. R. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
	Civil—concld.
24	Mula v. Hoshiara ...	27	723
25	Messrs. Meugens v. Sutlej Flour Mills Co., Ferozepore ...	27	625
26	Ahmad v. Sultan ...	27	927
27	Gopi Kishen v. Gopi Kishen ...	27	701
	Criminal.
1	Kadir Bakhsh v. Sundar Lal ...	27	837
2	Ahmad v. Crown ...	27	219
3	Muhammad v. Crown ...	27	221
4	Sita Ram v. Crown ...	27	838
5	Pahlwan v. Crown ...	27	840
6	Bega Singh v. Crown ...	27	754
7	Arura v. Crown ...	27	762
8	Nur Khan v. Crown ...	27	764
9	Teku v. Buta Singh ...	27	766
10	Ronki v. Crown ...	27	846
11	Balmokand v. Crown ...	28	738

Table 9

SIND JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

8 SIND LAW REPORTER, FROM AUGUST TO OCTOBER, 1914.

Page of Vol. 8 S. L. R. 1914.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
199	Lokumal v. Emperor ...	27	902
203	Punhu v. Crown ...	27	905
207	Farid v. Piru ...	27	907
213	Crown v. Aslum ...	27	910
215	Farid v. Piru ...	28	105
218	Gobindram v. Sabghatullah ...	27	999
222	Ghulam Muhammad v. Sahebsing	28	5
229	Jumo v. Crown ...	28	108
233	Gagandas v. Yusif ...	28	95
235	Karachi Trading Company v. Firm of Tejbhandas ...	28	82
238	Lurindaram v. The Karachi Municipality ...	28	111

Page of Vol. 8 S. L. R. 1914.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
241	Usto Sahebdino v. Ghulam Kadir...	27	924
247	Chattamal v. Rewachand ...	28	40
257	Hiromal v. Tahiliomal ...	28	49
260	Seumal v. Mulomal ...	28	60
264	Musammat Chandulbai v. Basarmal ...	28	67
267	Tahilram v. Pitamberdas ...	28	101
269	Pamanmal v. Hotanbai ...	28	85
270	Husseinally v. Secretary of State for India ...	28	92
272	Bherumal v. Duhlanomal ...	27	933
275	Shivandas v. Pamanmal ...	27	942

Table 10

CRIMINAL LAW JOURNAL OF INDIA.

16 CRIMINAL LAW JOURNAL, FROM JANUARY TO MARCH, 1915.

Page of Vol. 16 Cr. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
1	Kohmi v. Emperor ...	26	305
2	Nga Pan Hlaing v. Emperor ...	26	306
3	Kuppili Prakasarow, In re ...	26	307
3	Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Manmohan Roy ...	26	307
5	Munian Chetty v. Emperor ...	26	309
5	Sreemanta Chatterjee v. Surendra Nath Biswas ...	26	309
7	Emperor v. Ganapathy Iyer ...	26	311
9	Harsha Nath Chatterjee v. Emperor ...	26	313
14	Parvatneni Kamayya, In re ...	26	318
15	Mir Sheh Nawaz Khan v. Emperor	26	319
19	Muhammad Sirdar v. Emperor ...	26	323
20	Rasammal, In re ...	26	324
24	Janaki Nath Chakravarti v. Jnanendra Nath Chakravarti ...	26	328
25	Nga po Thein v. Emperor ...	26	329
28	Muniandi v. Emperor ...	26	332
31	Gulli Sahu v. Emperor ...	26	335
32	Kanukayya v. Emperor ...	26	336
33	Beja v. Emperor ...	26	625
39	Suppaya Tharagan, In re, ...	26	631
39	Pwa Me v. San Hla ...	26	631
40	Farzand Ali v. Hakim Ali ...	26	632
42	Harnarain Sardar v. Emperor ...	26	634
43	Emp ror v. Ghasite ...	26	635
44	Po Mya v. Emperor ...	26	636
46	Brijnandan Prasad v. Emperor ...	26	638
49	Dick v. Emperor ...	26	641
52	Kandasami Asari v. Narayana Asari ...	26	644
53	Ali Mahomed Mukri, In re ...	26	645
54	Bishan Prasad v. Emperor ...	26	646
54	Bhawani Singh v. Emperor ...	26	646
55	Gobind Sahai v. Emperor ...	26	647
56	Jafar Husain v. Emperar ...	26	648
58	Khaddam Venkata Rao, In re ...	26	650
59	Mo abir Das v. Gaya Municipality	26	651
60	Mihan Singh v. Emperor ...	26	652
61	Sinna Karuppan, In re ...	26	653
61	Mul Chand v. Emperor ...	26	653
62	Dal v. Emperor ...	26	654
65	Sashi Rajbanshi v. Emperor ...	26	657
72	Raghu v. Emperor ...	26	664
73	Mohammad v. Ali Raza ...	26	665
74	Abdul Karim v. Emperor ...	26	666

Page of Vol. 16 Cr. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
74	Sundarsanam Aiyangar v. Elayavalli Srinivasachari ...	26	666
75	Nadir v. Emperor ...	26	667
76	Kali Prasad Banerjee v. Emperor...	26	668
78	Ram Nath v. Municipal Board of Muttra ...	26	670
79	Muthukaruppan Servai v. Vellayya Kudumban ...	26	671
80	Chanda v. Rama Misari ...	26	672
81	Hasta v. Emperor ...	26	993
83	Ismail Alibhai v. Emperor ...	26	995
84	Nga Tun E v. Mi Chon ...	26	996
86	Phula Khan v. Emperor ...	26	998
88	Emperor v. Gana Krishna Walunj ...	26	1000
89	Chuhar Singh v. Emperor ...	26	1001
91	Bhau Savalaram Kotasthane v. Emperor ...	26	1003
91	Shahamat Khan v. Gulab Khan ...	26	1003
92	Nga Myo v. Nga Kyan ...	26	1004
93	Gul Shah v. Emperor ...	26	1005
95	Nga Kan Hla v. Emperor ...	26	1007
97	Mahammad Ibrahim v. Emperor...	27	145
97	Nga Saw Ko v. Emperor ...	27	145
98	Bhagubhai Dwarkadas v. Emperor ...	27	146
99	Emperor v. Narayan Ganpaya Havnik ...	27	147
100	Muhammad Ibrahim v. Emperor...	27	148
103	Surjan Singh v. Emperor ...	27	151
104	Chenga Reddi v. Ramasamy Gounden ...	27	152
104	Emperor v. Khubomal ...	27	152
106	Manku Bala Patil, In re ...	27	154
106	Jhandu Ram v. Emperor ...	27	154
107	Sangappa Gadigeppa, In re ...	27	155
108	Mr. M., First Grade Pleader of the Chief Court, Punjab, Lahore, In the matter of ...	27	156
111	Visa Samta, In re ...	27	159
111	Kotayya Pillai, In re ...	27	159
112	Jelagan Subramania Naidu v. Singara Mudali ...	27	160
113	Kashinath v. Shanker Ram ...	27	177
114	Emperor v. Govinda Babaji Babde ...	27	178
114	Kedar Mullick v. Emperor ...	27	178
115	Krishnamma v. Chitturi Chinna Perraju ...	27	179

16 CRIMINAL LAW JOURNAL 1915—concld.

Page of Vol. 16 Cr. L. J. 1915.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
117	Mulo v. Emperor ...	27	181
120	Emperor v. Saber Akunji ...	27	184
120	Deputy Superintendent & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Kailash Chandra Ghosh ...	27	184
122	Faujdar Thakur v. Kasi Choudhuri ...	27	186
128	Venkatarama Aiyar v. Krishna Aiyar ...	27	192
131	Narsing Charan Mahapatra v. Emperor ...	27	195
132	Puttu v. Emperor ...	27	196
134	Emperor v. Krishna Pandaram ...	27	198
135	Harihar Singh v. Moheswar Proshad ...	27	199
136	Gandalal Murarji v. Emperor ...	27	200
136	Emperor v. Chuni ...	27	200
137	Gandella Ramudu, In re ...	27	201
138	Aslum v. Emperor ...	27	202
139	Mangat Rai v. Emperor ...	27	203
139	Ahmada v. Emperor ...	27	203
141	Murlidhar Jeramdass v. Narayendas ...	27	205
144	Emperor v. Jiwan ...	27	208
146	Moola v. Emperor ...	27	210
147	Birendra Nath Das Gupta v. Emperor ...	27	211
148	Achambit Mondal v. Mahatab Singh ...	27	212
149	Deputy Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Sital Chandra Pal ...	27	213
151	Bal Chand v. Tarak Nath Sadhu ...	27	215
152	Lachhman Das v. Emperor ...	27	216
154	Subramania Pillay v. Vital Nachiappa Chetty ...	27	218
155	Ahmad v. Emperor ...	27	219
156	Duggirala Venkatappaya v. Mulpuri Venkatramanayya ...	27	220
157	Muhammad v. Emperor ...	27	221
159	Gur Baksh Singh v. Kashi Ram ...	27	223
160	Bhagat Pershad v. Ramrup Karmokar ...	27	224
161	Appa Ragho Bhogle v. Emperor ...	27	545
161	Shioshankarpuri v. Emperor ...	27	545
166	Hira Lal v. Emperor ...	27	550
167	Nattava Parankusam, In re ...	27	551
167	Wadhawa Singh v. Emperor ...	27	551
168	Emperor v. Bhagwan Chhagan ...	27	552
169	Ramadhin v. Emperor ...	27	553
169	Muthu Ibrahi, In re ...	27	553
170	Ram Ranjan Roy v. Emperor ...	27	554

Page of Vol. 16 Cr. L. J. 1914.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding Vol. and page of Ind. Cas. V.	P.
174	Bulchand Tahilram v. Chandhoomal Ramrakhiamal ...	27	558
175	Ganda Singh v. Emperor ...	27	559
176	Kumbola Guravadu v. Yeragatipalli Kristna Reddy ...	27	560
177	Anandrao Balkrishna v. Emperor	27	657
184	Jowala Sahai v. Emperor ...	27	664
190	Abdul Gafur v. Emperor ...	27	670
192	Sadananda Mandal v. Krista Mandal ...	27	672
193	Abdur Rahiman Sahib v. Official Assignee ...	27	753
194	Bega Singh v. Emperor ...	27	754
195	Mahammod Khasim v. Emperor ...	27	755
202	Arura v. Emperor ...	27	762
203	Hardeo Prasad v. Ram Sarup ...	27	763
204	Nur Khan v. Emperor ...	27	764
206	Teku v. Buta Singh ...	27	766
207	Doraiswamy Mudaliar v. Sudarsana Chariar ...	27	767
207	Kareppa Chanbasappa, In re ...	27	767
209	Agra v. Emperor ...	27	833
211	Suppa Thevan v. Ramaswami Aiyar	27	835
212	Chunilal Mani Lal v. Emperor ...	27	836
213	Kadir Bakhsh v. Sundar Lal ...	27	837
213	Bhagu Dhondi v. Emperor ...	27	837
214	Sita Ram v. Emperor ...	27	838
215	Ashraf Ali v. Emperor ...	27	839
216	Pahlwan v. Emperor ...	27	840
217	Ma Shwe Hmyin v. Mg. Po Chat	27	841
218	Emperor v. Bhagwan Das ...	27	842
219	Pavallimanakkal Narayan Nampudripad, In re ...	27	843
220	Emperor v. Fazal Din ...	27	844
221	Chainsukh v. Emperor ...	27	845
222	Ronki v. Emperor ...	27	846
222	Nabibux Khan Ahmedkhan v. Emperor ...	27	846
224	Ram Behari v. Muneshar ...	27	848
225	Municipal Committee, Jhang v. Muhammad Hayat ...	27	897
228	Singri Bhima, In re ...	27	900
229	Emperor v. Khuda Bakhsh ...	27	901
230	Lokumal v. Emperor ...	27	902
232	Mannar Chetti, In re ...	27	904
233	Punhu v. Emperor ...	27	905
234	Madiga Pothugadu, In re ...	27	906
235	Farid v. Piru ...	27	907
237	Natesa Padayachi, In re ...	27	909
238	Emperor v. Aslum ...	27	910
239	Thumbalabed Hampanna v. Parisi Gangamma ...	27	911

THE JAMMU & KASHMIR UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

DATE LOAND

Class No. _____ Book No _____

Vol. _____ Copy _____

Accession No. _____

I

TABLE

OF

Cases reported in Volume XXVI of Indian Cases, 1915.

An asterisk (*) denotes cases not reported yet elsewhere.

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Abbas Bandi Bibi v. Sarju Pande ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 531 ...	95
Abdul Basit v. Khoda Bakhsh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 714 ...	717
Abdul Hamid v. Maseetullah ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 966; 36 A. 573 ...	70
Abdul Haq v. Datti Lal ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 168 ...	446
Abdul Kadir v. Shahabazpur Co-operative Bank ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1140 ...	81
Abdul Karim v. Abdus Sobhan ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1264 ...	360
Abdul Karim v. Emperor ...	s. c. 32 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 74 ...	666
Abdul Rahman Khan Laudie v. Ma Kye ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	102
Adaikulam Chetti v. Subban Chetti ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 279; (1914) M. W. N. 684; 27 M. L. J. 621 ...	35
Adhar Chandra Dey v. Subodh Chandra Ghosh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1212; 15 Cr. L. J. 728 ...	176
Agnihotram Venkata Appala Charlu v. Kumbum Pakiru ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 724 ...	367
Ahmad Raza Khan v. Ram Lal ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 204 ...	922
Ahmed Moola Dawood v. Fatima Bee Bee ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	505
Aiya Gounden v. Jayan Mandalathipathi Gopanna Mauradiyar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 726; 16 M. L. T. 253; 27 M. L. J. 480; (1914) M. W. N. 832 ...	57
Aiyarappa Mudaliar v. Gulam Ghose ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 62 ...	831
Aiyasami Udayan v. Appasami Udayan ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 983; (1914) M. W. N. 889; 28 M. L. J. 542 ...	249
Akkamma v. Kopparam Rangappa ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 875 ...	368
Akkaraju Narayana Rao v. Akkaraju Seshamma	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 677 ...	33
Akola Gin Combination v. Northcote Ginning Factory ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 98 ...	613
Alamelu Ammal v. Balu Ammal ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 592; (1915) M. W. N. 26; 28 M. L. J. 685 ...	455
Alavala Balayya v. Alavala Guruvayya ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 874 ...	55
Ali Mahomed Mukri, In re ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 67; 16 Cr. L. J. 53 ...	645
Allahabad Bank v. Suraj Kuar ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 544 ...	177

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Alwar Chetty v. Chidambara Mudali ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 231; (1914) M. W. N. 642; 27 M. L. J. 400 ...	792
Amar Singh v. Bhola ...	s. c. 240 P. L. R. 1914 ...	341
Ambalavana Pandara v. Kuppachi Janki ...	*Madras High Court ...	618
Ambalavana Pandarasannadhi Avergal v. Minakshy Sundareswara Devastanam ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 76; 28 M. L. J. 217; 17 M. L. T. 271 ...	841
Amirbibi v. Azizabibi ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 977 ...	906
Anantha Iyer v. Ramaswami Iyer ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 444; (1914) M. W. N. 891 ...	71
Anantha Padiyara, In re ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 695 ...	143
Angad Das v. Ghasiti ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 548 ...	108
Anukul Chandra Roy v. Kamarali Sardar ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1271; 15 Cr. L. J. 697 ...	145
Anupa Kuer v. Achchaihar Singh ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 38; 37 A. 97 ...	597
Arjun Raghu Narole v. Krishnaji Venimadhav Valimbe ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 637; 38 B. 673	266
Arunachala Pillai v. Sampurna Thachi ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 485 ...	208
Asiat-Ullah v. Sadat-Ullah ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	368
Ata Muhammad Khan v. Jiwani ...	s. c. 2 P. W. R. 1915; 33 P. L. R. 1915 ...	492
Ayyasami Iyengar v. Kylasam Pillai ...	*Madras High Court ...	409
Azhimanila Veettil Kannu Pillai v. Kayinari Gopalan Nair ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 883 ...	337
Badri Prashad v. Gambhir Kunwar ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	500
Bahadri v. Emperor ...	s. c. 3 P. R. 1914 Rev. ...	756
Baikunta Gui v. Lal Chand Samanta ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	511
Bairagi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 727 ...	175
Baishnab Charan Shaha v. Bank of Bengal ...	s. c. 19 C. L. J. 581 ...	866
Baiznath Lala v. Ramadoss ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 952; 16 M. L. T. 509; 27 M. L. J. 640 ...	219
Bakkha Singh v. Gaya Din Singh ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 339; 2 O. L. J. 148...	517
Balabhadra Priste v. Jagannath Mahaprabhoo	*Calcutta High Court ...	908
Baldeo v. Ulfat Rai ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1153; 37 A. 22 ...	21
Baldeo Prasad v. Chet Ram ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 703 ...	706
Baldeo Prasad v. Collector of Pilibhit ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1119; 37 A. 13 ...	91
Balgobind v. Ram Sarup ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 892; 36 A. 505 ...	83
Balkishan v. Atmaram ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 150 ...	701
Balthasar v. Emperor ...	s. c. 41 C. 844; 15 Cr. L. J. 683; 19 C. W. N. 422 ...	131
Bandi Ali Fakir v. Amud Sarkar ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 227; 19 C. W. N. 415 ...	380
Bank of Rangoon, Ltd. v. Somasundaram Chetty ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	253
Bansi Singh v. Kishun Lall Thakur ...	s. c. 41 C. 632 ...	203

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Bansidhar v. Kharagjit ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1273, 37 A. 65 ...	926
Banwari Lal v. Khubi Ram ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1265; 37 A. 59 ...	458
Bapu v. Bhiwaji ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 161 ...	709
Barhamdeo Singh v. Harmanoge Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 772 ...	946
Basant Kumar Bose v. Khulna Loan Company ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 1 ...	197
Basunta Kumar Chuckerbutty v. Gopal Chunder Das ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1136 ...	21
Bateman v. Bateman ...	s. c. 41 C. 963 ...	488
Bazu v. Raika Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1244; 15 Cr. L. J. 722 ...	170
Bechai v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 937; 15 Cr. L. J. 705 ...	153
Beja v. Emperor ...	s. c. 13 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J 33 ...	625
Beni Madho v. Kanhaiya Lal ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 583 ...	536
Beni Ram v. Ram Chandra ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 959; 36 A. 560 ...	302
Bhagat Singh v. Jai Ram ...	s. c. 19 P. W. R. 1915; 66 P. L. R. 1915: 22 P. R. 1915 ...	402
Bhagwan Bakhsh Singh v. Shafiq-uz-Zaman...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 707 ...	709
Bhagwan Kaur v. Harnam Kaur ...	s. c. 17 P. W. R. 1915; 69 P. L. R. 1915 ...	430
Bhagwati Prasad Singh v. Suraj Bali ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 579 ...	263
Bhau Savalaram Kotasthane v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 943; 16 Cr. L. J. 91 ...	1003
Bhavanishankar v. Talukdari Settlement Officer	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 766 ...	749
Bhawani Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1004; 16 Cr. L. J. 54 ...	646
Bhim Singh v. Jot Ram ...	s. c. 42 P. W. R. 1915 ...	530
Bhure Lal v. Jagan Nath ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	933
Birjnandan Prasad v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1246; 16 Cr. L. J. 46; 37 A. 33 ...	638
Bishan Prasad v. Emperor ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 109; 37 A. 128; 16 Cr. L. J. 54 ...	646
Bisheshar Prasad v. Gobindram ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 833 ...	42
Bombay Gas Company and Bombay Electric Supply, Re ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 964; 39 B. 124	892
Brindavana Chandra v. Jagannadha Singi Santo ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 29 ...	888
Chanda v. Rama Misari ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 80 ...	672
Chanmalsawami Rudraswami v. Gangadharappa Baslingappa ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 954 ...	885
Charagh Din v. Ahmad Din ...	s. c. 38 P. W. R. 1915 ...	497
Chattar Singh v. Nand Kishore ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1139 ...	107
Chauli v. Municipal Board of Muzaffarnagar...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1102 ...	781

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Cherukat Madathil Edakramancheri v. Mangathaya Damodaram Nambudri ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 250; (1914) M. W. N. 834 ...	207
Chidambaram Chetti v. Ramaswami Chettiar	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 631 ...	911
Chipurapalli Appayya v. Kakarlapudi Ramachandra Raju Bahadur Garu ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 763; 16 M. L. T. 362; 27 M. L. J. 490 ...	732
Chiranji Lal v. Poorna ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1114 ...	84
Chokkalinga Chetty v. Kannusami Pillai ...	*Madras High Court ...	938
Chowbe Jaigopal v. Rameshwar ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 89 ...	606
Chuhar Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 40 P. W. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 89 ...	1001
Chullile Pettikayil Nammad v. Othenam Nambiar ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 239 ...	508
Churaman v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1024; 15 Cr. L. J. 724 ...	172
Court of Wards v. Gauri Shankar ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 697 ...	624
Crompton & Co. v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 26 M. L. J. 549 ...	610
Dal v. Emperor ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 687; 16 Cr. L. J. 62	654
Dambar Singh v. Murari Lal ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1148 ...	95
Datla Venkatasubba Raju Garu v. Gattem Venkatarayada ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 580; 16 M. L. T. 508 ...	61
Deo Narayan Singh v. Ganga Prasad ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 69 ...	871
Dharmalinga Mudali, In re ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 911; 15 Cr. L. J. 723	171
Dick v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1258; 16 Cr. L. J. 49 ...	641
Digambar Das v. Harendra Narayan Pandey	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 112 ...	992
Dinabandhu Jana v. Chintamoni Jana ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 476 ...	697
Dino Nath Das v. Jogendra Nath ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	890
Dinyar D. Hirji Khorshed v. Maung Inn ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	877
Diwan Chand v. Jiwan Mal ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	910
Diwan Singh v. Randhera ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1322 ...	718
Doraisami Reddi v. Venkatachallam Pillai ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 734 ...	267
Dulare Lal v. Hazari Lal ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 853 ...	56
Dupaguntla Subba Rao v. Gollapudi Ethirajulu ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 33 ...	360
Durga Prasad Pande v. Fateh Bahadur Singh ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 725; 36 A. 451 ...	494
Duvvur Subba Reddy v. Kakuturu Venkatarami Reddy ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 370 ...	983
East Indian Railway Co. v. Binda ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 66 ...	620
Edayagiri Gopalaratnam v. Chokalingam Setti	*Madras High Court ...	365
Elias v. Ezakiel ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 687 ...	135
Emperor v. Dalu Sardar ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1279; 15 Cr. L. J. 709 ...	157

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Emperor v. Gana Krishna Walunj ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 939; 16 Cr. L. J. 88 ...	1000
——— v. Ganapathy Iyer ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 585; 27 M. L. J. 732; 16 Cr. L. J. 7 ...	311
——— v. Ganesh ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 336; 15 Cr. L. J. 696 ...	144
——— v. Ghasite ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1244; 37 A. 31; 16 Cr. L. J. 43 ...	635
——— v. Hanmaraddi Ramaraddi ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 603; 39 B. 58; 15 Cr. L. J. 690 ...	138
——— v. Kangal Mali ...	s. c. 41 C. 601; 15 Cr. L. J. 713 ...	161
——— v. Rice ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 695 ...	143
Esoof Ebrahim Moolla v. Esoof Sulaiman Aboo	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	743
Ettisheri Edathil v. Pothera Kalloor ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 61 ...	946
Farzand Ali v. Hakim Ali ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1241; 37 A. 26; 16 Cr. L. J. 40 ...	632
Farzand Ali Khan v. Amir Haider ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 709 ...	714
Forbes, A. H. v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 138; 42 C. 151 ...	893
Gadian Chetti v. Veerappa Chetti ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 92 ...	899
Gadian Chettiar v. Gadian Chettiar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 799 ...	43
Gajja v. Emperor ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 559; 15 Cr. L. J. 685	133
Gandla Pedda Naganna v. Sivanappa ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 310; 27 M. L. J. 520 ...	232
Ganesh v. Babu Ram ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 9; 37 A. 72 ...	427
Ganga Prasad v. Jwala Prasad ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	815
Ganga Prasad v. Ram Prasad ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	862
Gaya Prasad v. Chotoo ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 941 ...	68
Gaya Roy v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1272; 15 Cr. L. J. 703 ...	151
Genu Manjhi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1276; 15 Cr. L. J. 704 ...	152
Ghaman v. Kanhiya Mal ...	s. c. 15 P. W. R. 1915 ...	426
Girish Chandra Chowdhury v. Kunja Behari Kowar ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	781
Gobind Sahai v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1136; 37 A. 20; 16 Cr. L. J. 55 ...	647
Gobinda Chandra v. Dwarka Nath ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 455; 19 C. W. N. 489 ...	962
Gobinda Mal v. Santa ...	s. c. 83 P. R. 1914 ...	441
Gokal Singh v. Kanhaya Lal ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 137 ...	816
Gul Shah v. Emperor ...	s. c. 41 P. W. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 93 ...	1005
Golak Chandra Chowdhury v. Prabhat Chandra Ray ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	612
Gollamudi Venkatasubba Rao v. Chaparala Rosayya ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 714 ...	76

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Gopala Aiyar v. Rama Venkatasubba Iyer ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 977 ...	223
Gopala Kristna Yachendrula Varu v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 597; 2 L. W. 45; 28 M. L. J. 98 ...	800
Gopala Mooppanar v. Subramania Iyer ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 253; 1 L. W. 675; (914) M. W. N. 822 ...	7
Gottepati Subbanna v. Gottepati Narasamma	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 486 ...	16
Govinda Doss v. Rajah Venkata Perumal ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 195 ...	537
Govindan Nair v. Nanu Menon ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 782; 27 M. L. J. 595 ...	750
Grace Rosamund Rhodes v. Padmanabha Chettiar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1033; (1914) M. W. N. 921; 17 M. L. T. 18 ...	369
Gulli Sahu v. Emperor ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 221; 21 C. L. J. 112; 16 Cr. L. J. 31 ...	335
Guptar Tewari v. Debi Saran Tewari ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 842; 36 A. 514 ...	65
Haijnath v. Raghunath ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 93 ...	608
Harchand Panaji v. Gulabchand Kanji ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 620; 39 B. 34 ...	265
Harnarain Sardar v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1274; 16 Cr. L. J. 42 ...	634
Harsha Nath Chatterjee v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 9; 21 C. L. J. 201	313
Hasta v. Emperor ...	s. c. 29 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 81 ...	993
Hayat Khatun v. Sharm Khatun ...	s. c. 93 P. R. 1914 ...	524
Himat Singh v. Hulas Singh ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	23
Hira v. Muhamadi ...	s. c. 21 P. W. R. 1915; 16 P. R. 1915; 64 P. L. R. 1915 ...	404
Hla Dun v. Chetty Firm ...	s. c. 7 L. B. R. 294 ...	684
Husen v. Rajaram ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 133 ...	813
Inayat Hussain v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 894 ...	86
Indar Singh v. Kartar Singh ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	423
Ishan Chandra Kar v. Ram Charan Pal ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 445 ...	960
Ishar Devi v. Bindraban ...	s. c. 5 P. R. 1915 ...	686
Ismail Alibhai v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 934; 16 Cr. L. J. 83 ...	995
Jafar Husain v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 736; 16 Cr. L. J. 56 ...	648
Jagannath v. Lachman Das ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 889; 36 A. 549 ...	32
Jagannath v. Ram Nath ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 913 ...	52
Jagat Hari-Bepin Behary Poddar v. Moran & Co. ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	73
Jagrani Misrani v. Bisheshar Dube ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1316 ...	791
Jahangir Singh v. Hira ...	s. c. 157 P. W. R. 1914; 283 P. L. R. 1914 ...	282
Jai Ram v. Sardar Singh ...	s. c. 195 P. L. R. 1914; 23 P. R. 1914 ...	512

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Jairam v. Sunderlal ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 146 ...	698
Jamna Das v. Paiku ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 170 ...	715
Janaki Nath Chakravarti v. Jnanendra Nath Chakravarti ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 24 ...	328
Jibananda Chakrabarti v. Kalidas Mallik ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 97; 18 C. W. N. 1296; 42 C. 164 ...	213
Jiwanlal v. Chudaman ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 111 ...	835
Jodi Bibi v. Vajiar Khan Saheb ...	*Madras High Court ...	407
Jogesh Chandra Chaudhuri v. Mohini Chandra Ray ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1078 ...	30
John King and Co., Ltd. v. Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners of Howrah ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 898; 27 M. L. J. 20; 20 C. L. J. 407 P. C. ...	949
Joti Prasad v. Balwant Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 684 ...	880
Kailasa v. Raghubar ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 331; 1 O. L. J. 735 ...	526
Kailash Chandra v. Gopal Chandra ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1204 ...	125
Kali Prasad v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 76 ...	668
Kalikananda Mukherjee v. Bipro Das Pal Choudhury ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 18; 21 C. L. J. 265 ...	436
Kalyan Singh v. Dammar Singh ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	752
Kamaravutu Mrutyunjayudu v. Raja of Pittapuram ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 936 ...	78
Kamta Singh v. Parmeshwar ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	734
Kanai Lal Ghose v. Besir Pramanik ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	498
Kanchan Mallik v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1215; 15 Cr. L. J. 686 ...	134
Kandasami Asari v. Narayana Asari ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 107; 16 Cr. L. J. 52 ...	644
Kandasami Chetti v. Murugappa Chetti ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 547 ...	472
Kanhai Lal v. Mul Chand ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	808
Kannu Chetty v. Amirthammal ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 877 ...	418
Kanthu v. Dasa Upadhya ...	*Madras High Court ...	376
Kanti Venkanna v. Chelikani Rama Row Garu ...	*Madras High Court ...	510
Kanukayya v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 32 ...	336
Karaga v. Devappa ...	*Madras High Court ...	442
Karar Hassan v. Mustafa Hassan ...	s. c. 86 P. R. 1914 ...	743
Karmali Abdulla Allarkhia v. Bora Karimji...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 35; 2 L. W. 133; 17 Bom. L. R. 103; 19 C. W. N. 337; 13 A. L. J. 121; 21 C. L. J. 122; 28 M. L. J. 515 P. C. ...	915
Karumuru Venkateswami v. Lanka Tripuriah ...	*Madras High Court ...	359
Kashi Ram v. Het Singh ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 31; 37 A. 101 ...	417
Kasivasi Somasundara Thambiran v. Venkatanarayana Pillai ...	*Madras High Court ...	356

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Kathiresan Chettiar v. Ramasawmy Chettiar...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 302; (1914) M. W. N. 871 ...	93
Kavutu Purnanandam v. Lakshminarasimha Charyulu ...	*Madras High Court ...	429
Khaddam Venkata Rao, In re ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 22; 16 Cr. L. J. 58 ...	650
Khaira v. Jaggu Shah ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	833
Khemchand v. Malloo ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 81 ...	601
Kirpa Ram v. Kirpa Ram ...	s. c. 156 P. W. R. 1914; 282 P. L. R. 1914 ...	89
Kishen Chand v. Sohan Lal ...	s. c. 20 P. L. R. 1915 ...	913
Kishen Dyal Gir v. Mahomed Amirul Hussein	*Calcutta High Court ...	673
Kishen Singh v. Church Missionary Trust Association ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	936
Kohmi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 24 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 1 ...	305
Kolakudi Veerama Reddi v. Vasudeva Reddi	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 85 ...	991
Kosuri Suraparaju v. Mandapaka Narasimham	s. c. 1 L. W. 932 ...	81
Krishna Reddi v. Sundara Reddi ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 931 ...	384
Kulsum-un-nisa-Bibi v. Chaube Basdeo ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	6
Kumaraswamia Pillai v. Vairavanatha Pillai	*Madras High Court ...	14
Kunwar Bahadur v. Bindraban ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 196 ...	737
Kuppili Prakasarow, In re ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 3 ...	307
Kuttayakath Vira Varma Valia Rajah Avergal v. Erinhal Karuvanta Valappil Ayisoumma ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 503; 1 L. W. 981; (1914) M. W. N. 909 ...	239
Lachmi Chand Jhowar v. Hemendra Prasad Ghosh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1260 ...	736
Lachmi Chand Jhowar v. Hemendra Prasad Ghosh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1260 ...	935
Lachmin Narain v. Kalka Prasad ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 49 ...	419
Lakshmi Ammal v. Ramaswamy Iyengar ...	*Madras High Court ...	754
Lakshminarayana Aiyar v. Ulagammal ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 256 ...	528
Lal Hanwant Ram v. Muhammad Abul Hasan Khan ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 708 ...	712
Lala Ram v. Man Singh ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1032 ...	128
Lala Singh v. Hazari Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 574; 17 O. C. 343 ...	242
Lalji v. Ganga Prasad ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 549 ...	204
Lanka Gopalam v. Lanka Ratnamma ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 15; 28 M. L. J. 666 ...	353
Latifa Bibi v. Narayanachari ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 202 ...	271
Latifunnissa Bibi v. Majidunnissa Bibi ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	358
Laxmiram Lallubhai Joshi v. Bhalashankar Veniram Mehta ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 612; 39 B. 20 ...	262
Ma Shwe La v. Mg. Kyin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	111
Ma Tha v. P. L. M. M. Chetty Firm ...	s. c. 7 Bur. L. T. 310 ...	240

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Ma Thaw v. Emperor ...	s. c. 7 L. B. R. 116; 15 Cr. L. J. 701	149
Madhavrao v. Sahebrao ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 769; 39 B. 119	751
Madho Chowdhury v. Turab Mian ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1211; 15 Cr. L. J. 726 ...	174
Mahadei Kuar v. Sant Bakhsh Singh ...	s. c. 1 C. L. J. 570 ...	237
Mahanta Mohabir Das v. Gaya Municipality...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 59 ...	651
Mahbub Ali v. Taj Khan ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	969
Man Singh v. Amantaka Prasad ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	879
Mandal & Co. v. Fazul Ellahie ...	s. c. 41 C. 825 ...	209
Manghi Ram v. Ram Saran Das-Maman Chand ...	s. c. 35 P. W. R. 1915; 23 P. R. 1915; 100 P. L. R. 1915 ...	415
Mani v. Komalan Kannan ...	*Madras High Court ...	443
Manipur Dey v. Bidhu Bhusan Sarkar ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1086; 15 Cr. L. J. 698; 42 C. 158 ...	146
Manjula v. Shankar ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 144 ...	830
Maung Pu v. Lucy Moss ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	39
Maung Ta Te v. Maung Nyin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	273
Maung Yin v. Ma Saw Myaing ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	700
Med Singh v. Kabir-un-Nissa ...	s. c. 88 P. R. 1914 ...	486
Mg. Hyin Ba v. Mg. Pe U Kin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	264
Mihan Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 26 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 60 ...	652
Mir Shah Nawaz Khan v. Emperor ...	s. c. 8 S. L. R. 1; 16 Cr. L. J. 15...	319
Mir Syed Hasan v. Taiyaba Begam ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 591 ...	547
Mohammad v. Ali Raza ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 73 ...	665
Mohammad Husain v. Bashiran ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1141 ...	109
Mohini Mohan Misser v. Surendra Narain Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1189; 21 C. L. J. 68 ...	296
Moideen Kuppai v. Ponnuswamy Pillai ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 882; 16 M. L. T. 430 ...	63
Motan Das v. Morni Bai ...	s. c. 37 P. W. R. 1915 ...	450
Mottai Reddy v. Thanappa Reddy ...	s. c. 37 M. 385 ...	181
Muhammad v. Muzaffar ...	s. c. 28 P. W. R. 1915; 98 P. L. R. 1915 ...	388
Muhammad Najib Ullah v. Jai Narain ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 908; 36 A. 529 ...	59
Muhammad Sirdar v. Emperor ...	s. c. 25 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 19 ...	323
Muhammade v. Mayi Kunhi Haji ...	*Madras High Court ...	127
Muktakeshi Dasi v. Srinath Das ...	s. c. 19 C. L. J. 614 ...	215
Mukunda Lal Chuckerbutty v. Manmohini Debi ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 472 ...	903
Mul Chand v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1262; 37 A. 30; 16 Cr. L. J. 61 ...	653
Mulpuri Veerayya v. Sanagavarapu Sivayya...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 482 ...	121

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Kathiresan Chettiar v. Ramasawmy Chettiar...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 302; (1914) M. W. N. 871 ...	93
Kavutu Purnanandam v. Lakshminarasimha Charyulu ...	*Madras High Court ...	429
Khaddam Venkata Rao, In re ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 22; 16 Cr. L. J. 58 ...	650
Khaira v. Jaggu Shah ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	833
Khemchand v. Malloo ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 81 ...	601
Kirpa Ram v. Kirpa Ram ...	s. c. 156 P. W. R. 1914; 282 P. L. R. 1914 ...	89
Kishen Chand v. Sohan Lal ...	s. c. 20 P. L. R. 1915 ...	913
Kishen Dyal Gir v. Mahomed Amirul Hussein	*Calcutta High Court ...	673
Kishen Singh v. Church Missionary Trust Association ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	936
Kohmi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 24 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 1 ...	305
Kolakudi Veerama Reddi v. Vasudeva Reddi	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 85 ...	991
Kosuri Suraparaju v. Mandapaka Narasimham	s. c. 1 L. W. 932 ...	81
Krishna Reddi v. Sundara Reddi ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 931 ...	384
Kulsum-un-nisa-Bibi v. Chaube Basdeo ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	6
Kumaraswamia Pillai v. Vairavanatha Pillai	*Madras High Court ...	14
Kunwar Bahadur v. Bindraban ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 196 ...	737
Kuppili Prakasarow, In re ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 3 ...	307
Kuttayakath Vira Varma Valia Rajah Avergal v. Erinhal Karuvanta Valappil Ayisoumma ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 503; 1 L. W. 981; (1914) M. W. N. 909 ...	239
Lachmi Chand Jhowar v. Hemendra Prasad Ghosh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1260 ...	736
Lachmi Chand Jhowar v. Hemendra Prasad Ghosh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1260 ...	935
Lachmin Narain v. Kalka Prasad ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 49 ...	419
Lakshmi Ammal v. Ramaswamy Iyengar ...	*Madras High Court ...	754
Lakshminarayana Aiyar v. Ulagammal ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 256 ...	528
Lal Hanwant Ram v. Muhammad Abul Hasan Khan ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 708 ...	712
Lala Ram v. Man Singh ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1032 ...	128
Lala Singh v. Hazari Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 574; 17 O. C. 343 ...	242
Lalji v. Ganga Prasad ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 549 ...	204
Lanka Gopalam v. Lanka Ratnamma ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 15; 28 M. L. J. 666 ...	353
Latifa Bibi v. Narayanachari ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 202 ...	271
Latifunnissa Bibi v. Majidunnissa Bibi ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	358
Laxmiram Lallubhai Joshi v. Bhalashankar Veniram Mehta ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 612; 39 B. 20 ...	262
Ma Shwe La v. Mg. Kyin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	111
Ma Tha v. P. L. M. M. Chetty Firm ...	s. c. 7 Bur. L. T. 310 ...	240

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Ma Thaw v. Emperor ...	s. c. 7 L. B. R. 116; 15 Cr. L. J. 701	149
Madhavrao v. Sahebrao ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 769; 39 B. 119	751
Madho Chowdhury v. Turab Mian ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1211; 15 Cr. L. J. 726 ...	174
Mahadei Kuar v. Sant Bakhsh Singh ...	s. c. 1 C. L. J. 570 ...	237
Mahanta Mohabir Das v. Gaya Municipality...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 59 ...	651
Mahbub Ali v. Taj Khan ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	969
Man Singh v. Amantaka Prasad ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	879
Mandal & Co. v. Fazul Ellahie ...	s. c. 41 C. 825 ...	209
Manghi Ram v. Ram Saran Das-Maman Chand ...	s. c. 35 P. W. R. 1915; 23 P. R. 1915; 100 P. L. R. 1915 ...	415
Mani v. Komalan Kannan ...	*Madras High Court ...	443
Manipur Dey v. Bidhu Bhusan Sarkar ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1086; 15 Cr. L. J. 698; 42 C. 158 ...	146
Manjula v. Shankar ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 144 ...	830
Maung Pu v. Lucy Moss ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	39
Maung Ta Te v. Maung Nyin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	273
Maung Yin v. Ma Saw Myaing ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	700
Med Singh v. Kabir-un-Nissa ...	s. c. 88 P. R. 1914 ...	486
Mg. Hyin Ba v. Mg. Pe U Kin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	264
Mihan Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 26 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 60 ...	652
Mir Shah Nawaz Khan v. Emperor ...	s. c. 8 S. L. R. 1; 16 Cr. L. J. 15...	319
Mir Syed Hasan v. Taiyaba Begam ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 591 ...	547
Mohammad v. Ali Raza ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 73 ...	665
Mohammad Husain v. Bashiran ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1141 ...	109
Mohini Mohan Misser v. Surendra Narain Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1189; 21 C. L. J. 68 ...	296
Moideen Kuppai v. Ponnuswamy Pillai ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 882; 16 M. L. T. 430 ...	63
Motan Das v. Morni Bai ...	s. c. 37 P. W. R. 1915 ...	450
Mottai Reddy v. Thanappa Reddy ...	s. c. 37 M. 385 ...	181
Muhammad v. Muzaffar ...	s. c. 28 P. W. R. 1915; 98 P. L. R. 1915 ...	388
Muhammad Najib Ullah v. Jai Narain ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 908; 36 A. 529 ...	59
Muhammad Sirdar v. Emperor ...	s. c. 25 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 19 ...	323
Muhammade v. Mayi Kunhi Haji ...	*Madras High Court ...	127
Muktakeshi Dasi v. Srinath Das ...	s. c. 19 C. L. J. 614 ...	215
Mukunda Lal Chuckerbutty v. Manmohini Debi ...	s. c. 9 C. W. N. 472 ...	903
Mul Chand v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1262; 37 A. 30; 16 Cr. L. J. 61 ...	653
Mulpuri Veerayya v. Sanagavarapu Sivayya...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 482 ...	121

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Munia Konan v. Perumal Konan ...	s. c. 37 M. 390 ...	195
Munian Chetty v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 5 ...	309
Muniandi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 535; 1 L. W. 1007; (1915) M. W. N. 34; 16 Cr. L. J. 28 ...	332
Municipal Board, Agra v. Sudarshan Das Shastri ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1137; 37 A. 9 ...	206
Municipal Council of Tirupati v. Prayag Dossjee Varu ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 513; 16 M. L. T. 98; 27 M. L. J. 231 ...	96
Munni Lal v. Bhagwan Das ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	24
Munshi Ram v. Gainda Mal ...	s. c. 45 P. W. R. 1915 ...	390
Murugappa Chettiar v. Ramanathan Chettiar	s. c. 1 L. W. 881 ...	60
Muthiah Chettiar v. Bawa Sahib ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 605; 1 L. W. 969 ...	46
Muthu Pillai v. Maria Sandanam Pillai ...	s. c. 15 M. L. T. 505; (1914) M. W. N. 910 ...	507
Muthukaruppa Pillai v. Sellathammal ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 587; 2 L. W. 38; (1915) M. W. N. 48 ...	785
Muthukaruppan Chettiar v. Muthuraman Chettiar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1012; (1914) M. W. N. 899 ...	282
Muthukaruppan Servai v. Vellayya Kudumban	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 778; 16 Cr. L. J. 79 ...	671
Muthammal v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 529; 16 M. L. T. 432 F. B. ...	817
Nabi Bakhsh v. Mehr Bibi ...	s. c. 89 P. R. 1914 Cr; 15 Cr. L. J. 610 ...	797
Nachiappa Gounden v. Rangasami Gounden ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 1; (1915) M. W. N. 53; 2 L. W. 69; 17 M. L. T. 87; F. B. ...	757
Nachiyappa Chetty v. Ramasami Chetty ...	*Madras High Court ...	383
Nadir v. Emperor ...	s. c. 43 P. W. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 75 ...	667
Nagaraja Pillai v. Secretary of State ...	*Madras High Court ...	723
Nageshar v. Ram Tahal ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 692 ...	722
Nagindas Jekisondas v. Nanabhai Dullabhram	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 774 ...	753
Nallury Krishnamma v. Kamapalli Ramalingam ...	*Madras High Court ...	54
Nanjundiah v. Venkata Subbayya ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 670; 16 M. L. T. 239; 27 M. L. J. 618 ...	87
Nand Lal v. Kishori ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1270 ...	895
Narain Dutt v. Superintendent of Dehra Dun	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1319; 37 A. 69 ...	795
Narayan v. Mahadeo ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 173 ...	720
Narayanaswami Aiyar v. Krishnamurti Aiyar ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 122; 17 M. L. T. 48 ...	927

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Narayanaswamy Naidu Garu v. Kamuri Ramayya ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 713, 870; 16 M. L. T. 244 ...	475
Narendra Chandra Lahiri v. Nalini Sundari Debi ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	939
Narpat Singh v. Gur Bakhsh Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 589 ...	686
Natha Singh v. Mangal ...	s. c. 90 P. R. 1914 ...	812
Nathi Mall v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 890; 36 A. 513; 15 Cr. L. J. 693 ...	141
Nathu Mistry v. Nari Lal Mistry ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 712 ...	160
Neamatulla v. Bajiulla ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	619
Nga Kan Hla v. Emperor ...	s c. U. B. R. (1914) II, 28; 16 Cr. L. J. 95 ...	1007
Nga Kya Thin v. Emperor ...	s. s. 15 Cr. L. J. 681 ...	129
Nga Myo v. Nga Kyan ...	s. c. U. B. R. (1914) II, 31; 16 Cr. L. J. 92 ...	1004
Nga Pan Hlaing v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 2 ...	306
Nga Pi v. Nga Kyan Tha ...	s. c. 7 Bur. L. T. 282 ...	974
Nga Po Thein v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 25 ...	329
Nga Tun E v. Mi Chon ...	s. c. U. B. R. (1914) II, 23; 16 Cr. L. J. 84 ...	996
Niamat Ali v. Ali Raza ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 26; 37 A. 86 ...	778
Nimmagadda Peda Naganna, In re ...	*Madras High Court ...	355
Nirode Barani Debya v. Bholanath Sarkar ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	300
Nisarul Rahman v. Tikam Das ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 680 ...	860
Nobin Chander Bose v. Gadda Berhai ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 931 ...	77
Official Assignee of Madras v. Ponnusawmy Mudali ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1028 ...	421
Osmond Beeby v. Khitish Chandra ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 631; 41 C. 771...	284
Pach Kauri Raut v. Ram Khelawan Chaubey ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1277; 37 A. 57 ...	25
Pachai Gounden, In re ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 710 ...	158
Pachi v. Charni ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 529 ...	344
Palaniappa Chetti v. Rama Nathan Chetti ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 64 ...	834
Panchanadam Pillai v. Sella Pillai ...	*Madras High Court ...	194
Papachar Sethumathavachariar v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 941 ...	187
Parankusa Zatindra Mahadesikaswami v. Subramania Pillai ...	*Madras High Court ...	117
Parbhu Dyal v. Harcharan ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	689
Parmeshwar Dat v. Anardan Dat ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 24; 37 A. 113 ...	507
Parvataneni Kamayya, In re ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 34; 16 Cr. L. J. 14 ...	318
Peddibhotla Kameswaramma v. Bezwada Chelapathi ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 864 ...	50
Perumal Naidu, In re ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 694 ...	142

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Phula Khan v. Emperor ...	s. c. 46 P. W. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 86 ...	998
Po Mya v. Emperor ...	s. c. 7 L. B. R. 272; 16 Cr. L. J. 44 ...	636
Ponaka Balarami Reddi v. Hazi Mahomed Abdul Aziz ...	s. c. 26 M. L. J. 499 ...	532
Ponnuranga Mudaliar v. Thandavaraya Mudaliar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1025; (1915) M. W. N. 21 ...	274
Ponnusawmy Iyer v. Permaye ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 530 ...	246
Prabhat Chandra Chatterjee v. Prasanna Kumar Sen ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1088; 15 Cr. L. J. 700 ...	148
Prem Narain v. Ram Lal ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 561 ...	225
Prem Singh v. Mokand Singh ...	s. c. 151 P. W. R. 1914; 281 P. L. R. 1914 ...	345
Promode Ranjan Ghosh v. Aswini Kumar Nag	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1138 ...	23
Pusarala Sanyasi v. Guntur Cotton, Jute and Paper Mills Co., Ltd. ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 538 ...	349
Pwa Me v. San Hla ...	s. c. 7 L. B. R. 270; 16 Cr. L. J. 39	631
Raghava Naidu v. Muthyalu Naidu ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 301 ...	364
Raghu v. Emperor ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 711; 16 Cr. L. J. 72	664
Raghu v. Madhgia ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 139 ...	819
Raghubar Charan v. Krishen Baldeo ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	515
Raghunath Kuar v. Court of Wards ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 587 ...	683
Rahim Bakhsh Mandal v. Sajjad Ahmad Chowdhary ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	466
Rai Charan Mandal v. Biswanath Mandal ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 107 ...	410
Raja of Kalahasti v. Venkataramiah Row Bahadur Garu ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 873 ...	273
Raja Ram v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 881; 15 Cr. L. J. 700 ...	148
Rajab Ali v. Rajjoo Khan ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 963 ...	122
Rajah of Vizayanagaram v. Dokara Paidayya	*Madras High Court ...	891
Rajani Bala Dasi v. Bhaja Hari Koley ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1076 ...	126
Rajani Kanta Das v. Kali Prasanna Mukherjee	s. c. 41 C. 809 ...	281
Rajaram v. Vithal Rao ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 166 ...	712
Rajendra Kumar Ghosh v. Adinadi ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	860
Rajendra Nath Roy v. Nanda Lal ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1206; 19 C. L. J. 595 ...	977
Rajmao v. Brahm Surat ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 336 ...	621
Ram Charan Lal v. Karim-un-nissa Bibi ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1131; 37 A. 12 ...	121
Ram Gopal Sen v. Abhoya Charan Ghosh ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	485
Ram Narain v. Muhammad Shah ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 899 ...	62
Ram Nath v. Municipal Board of Muttra ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 740; 16 Cr. L. J. 78 ...	670

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Ram Prasad v. Sarjoo ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 585 ...	542
Ram Singh v. Girraj Singh ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1252; 37 A. 41 ...	731
Ramakrishna Aiyar v. Chinna Vengammal ...	*Madras High Court ...	110
Ramakrishna Pattar v. Narayana Patter ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 634; (1914) M. W. N. 912 ...	883
Ramakrishnam Pillai v. Robert Fischer ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 414 ...	797
Ramala Venkataswami v. Kanumalla Narasimhayya ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 596 ...	357
Ramasami Aiyer v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 154 ...	863
Ramasami Iyer v. Srirangaraja Iyengar ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 8 ...	622
Ramasawmy Aiyar v. Vanamamalai Aiyar ...	*Madras High Court ...	873
Rambilas, In re ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 505; (1914) M. W. N. 894; 15 Cr. L. J. 688 ...	136
Ramchandra v. Latchman Pillay ...	s. c. 7 Bur. L. T. 277 ...	941
Ramchandra v. Musammat Radha ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 91 ...	598
Ramdas Gopaldas v. Baldevdas Kaushalydas	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 757; 39 B. 168	607
Ramineedi Ramachandrayya v. Bobba Jankiramayya ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 805; (1914) M. W. N. 874 ...	66
Ramjan Ali v. Maharam Ali Khondkar ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	406
Ramlal v. Narsingdas ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 163; 19 C. W. N. 193; 17 M. L. T. 45; 21 C. L. J. 137; 28 M. L. J. 448; 11 N. L. R. 53
	P. C. ...	924
Ramlal v. Tirbeni Sahai ...	*Allahabad High Court ...	454
Ras Behari Lal v. Akhai Kunwar ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 1; 37 A. 91 ...	445
Rasammal, In re ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 20 ...	324
Rashmoni Dasi v. Ganada Sundari Dasi ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 213; 19 C. W. N. 84 ...	275
Ratti Ram v. Kundan Lal ...	s. c. 87 P. R. 1914 ...	543
Ravulapati Papi Reddi v. Nanduru Peda Venkatacharyulu ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 247; (1914) M. W. N. 794; 27 M. L. J. 567 ...	67
Reajaddin Molla v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1245; 15 Cr. L. J. 725 ...	173
Rijhumal v. Michumal ...	s. c. 8 S. L. R. 65 ...	424
Ripley, P. H. v. Vaithenatha Iyer ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	270
Rukmani Sundarammal v. Muthammal ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 8 ...	489
Rupan Singh v Champa Lal ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 14; 37 A. 81 ...	521
Sadasib Mandal v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1150; 15 Cr. L. J. 720 ...	168
Sagarman v. Emperor ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 698 ...	146
Saheb Din v. Jang Bahadur Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 557 ...	231
Salem Town Bank, Ltd. v. Ramaswamy Aiyar ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 236 ...	362
Salicheemala Venkatasawmi Naidu v. Gunturu Rangappa Naidu ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 109 ...	944

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Saminathan Chetty v. Palaniappa Chetty ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 617; 17 New Law Reports 56; 83 L. J. P. C. 131; (1914) A. C. 618; 41 I. A. 142 P. C. ...	228
Sanwal Singh v. Prag Dat ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 517 ...	86
Sanyasi Charan Mandal v. Asutosh Ghosh ...	s. c. 42 C. 225 ...	836
Sardakar Podh v. Bisseswar Goantia ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	476
Saripalli Venkatarayagopala Raju v. Fota Narasayya ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 779 ...	747
Sarju Pandey v. Mulloo Chaudhry ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1279 ...	909
Sarupa v. Karam Ullah ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 682 ...	872
Sashi Rajbanshi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 295; 16 Cr. L. J. 65 ...	657
Sashi Sekhareswar Roy Bahadur v. Rani Sashibala Debi ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	480
Satvaji Balajirao v. Sakharlal Atmaram Shet	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 778; 39 B. 175	754
Secretary of State v. Kirtibas Bhupati Harichandan Mahapatra ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 65; 2 L. W. 11; 17 M. L. T. 1; 21 C. L. J. 31; 17 Bom. L. R. 32; 28 M. L. J. 457 P. C. ...	676
——————— v. Mikklineni Chinna ...	*Madras High Court ...	961
——————— v. Simhadri Jaghapathiraju	s. c. 2 L. W. 31; 17 M. L. T. 29; 28 M. L. J. 51 ...	692
Seetharama Iyer v. Robert Fischer ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 415 ...	809
Sellappa Koundan v. Gurumoorti ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 396 ...	790
Sessions Judge, Madura, In re ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 83; 15 Cr. L. J. 704 ...	152
Sethna v. Jwalaprasad Gayaprasad ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 972 ...	896
Shahamat Khan v. Ghulab Khan ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 309; 1 O. L. J. 568; 16 Cr. L. J. 91 ...	1003
Shaibunnissa v. Karamat Ali ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 693 ...	722
Shajan Bibi v. Saffiruddin ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	412
Shambhu v. Chetram ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1017 ...	119
Sheo Dat Singh v. Sidhau Kunwar ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 327 ...	503
Sheo Harakh v. Ram Chander ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 41; 37 A. 76 ...	783
Sheo Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 541; 15 Cr. L. J. 721 ...	169
Sherati Sheikh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1213; 15 Cr. L. J. 693 ...	141
Shuja-ud-din v. Aishabi ...	s. c. 100 P. R. 1914 ...	342
Singaram Chettiar v. Kalyanasundaram Pillai	s. c. 1 L. W. 687; (1914) M. W. N. 735 ...	1
Sinna Karuppan, In re ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 303; 16 Cr. L. J. 61 ...	653
Sinnasami Gounden v. Subbana Gounden ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 29 ...	904

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Sitaram Morappa Nawale v. Shri Khandoba	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 756; 39 B. 165	606
Sivagami Ammal v. Louis Gnana Prakasa Mudaliar ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 504 ...	261
Sivasailam Iyer v. Ramakrishna Aiyar ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 788 ...	18
Somai Ammal v. Vellayya Sethurangam ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 12; 16 M. L. T. 532; 1 L. W. 1047 ...	347
Somanchi Venkatasubbarayudu v. Somanchi Pullamma ...	*Madras High Court ...	363
South Indian Industrials v. Mindi Ramajogi...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 501 ...	822
Sreemanta Chatterjee v. Surendra Nath ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 5 ...	309
Subans Singh v. Mahabir Proshad Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1277; 15 Cr. L. J. 707 ...	155
Subbaraya Aiyar v. Kolandavelu Mudali ...	*Madras High Court ...	958
Subbayya v. Rachayya ...	s. c. 37 M. 477 ...	519
Subbiah Pillai v. Kailasam Pillai ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 905 ...	19
Subbier v. Chinnappa Rowthen ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 22 ...	366
Subkaran Singh v. Raghubans ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 581 ...	523
Subramania Chetty v. Kulayappan ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 668 ...	90
Subramania Pethar.nar Bhoopathi v. Muthian Chettiar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1004; (1915) M. W. N. 157 ...	279
Sukumari Gupta v. Bharat Mandal ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 148 ...	980
Sundaramma v. Kamakotiah ...	*Madras High Court ...	514
Sundarsanam Aiyangar v. Elayavalli Srinivasachari ...	s. c. 17 Cr. L. J. 74 ...	666
Sundra Bahu Shetye v. Sakharam Gopalshet Gandhi ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 616; 39 B. 29 ...	444
Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Manmohan Roy ...	s. c. 21 C. L. J. 195; 16 Cr. L. J. 3	307
Suppaya Tharagan, In re ...	s. c. 37 M. 317; 16 Cr. L. J. 39 ...	631
Suraj Bakhsh v. Chhab Kuar ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 532 ...	98
Suraj Bali v. Govinda ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 701 ...	904
Suraj Bali v. Dan Bahadar Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 681 ...	736
Surajpal Singh v. Gajraj Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 698 ...	600
Surja Bibi v. Tarap Mandal ...	*Calcutta High Court ...	788
Thaithottahil Pokkar v. Ramachandra Shenoy	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 478 ...	124
Thalagara Ramanne v. Kalagare Gangayya ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 132 ...	178
Thambikilan Muthirian v. Muthu Reddi ...	*Madras High Court ...	284
Thangavelu Pillai v. Doraisami Pillai ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 272; 16 M. L. T. 393 ...	211
Thayammal v. Kuppanna Koundan ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 285 ...	179
Thiraj v. Kasim ...	s. c. 48 P. W. R. 1915 ...	481
Thomas G. G. French v. Julia French ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 754; 39 B. 136	599
Thuri Kothandarama Reddiar v. Thesu Reddiar	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 446; 1 L. W. 928	779
Tikaram v. Ghasiram ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 129 ...	810
Tirath Singh v. Ram Chand ...	*Punjab Chief Court ...	519

Names of cases reported.	Where reported.	Page of Ind. Cas. Vol. XXVI.
Twinzas Oil Co. Ltd. v. Mower & Co. ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	478
Udit Narain Singh v. Gur Charan ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 717 ...	719
Uma Charan Mandal v. Midnapore Zemindary Company ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 11; 19 C. W. N. 270	182
Umacharan Bhattacharjee v. Hironmoyee Debi ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 770 ...	943
Vadivelu Pillai v. Maruda Pillai ...	*Madras High Court ...	413
Vaithianath Aiyar v. Suppalu Ammal ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 939; 15 Cr. L. J. 703	156
Valli Ise Amanji v. Mahmad Adam Asmal ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 763 ...	746
Varadarajulu Chetty v. Dhanalakshmi Ammal	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 365 ...	184
Vasa Narayanaswamy v. Ananthaye ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court ...	272
Vasudeva Ravi Varma v. Athi Kottil Eazhuvan Kannanur ...	*Madras High Court ...	51
Veeraraghava Iyer v. Muga Sait ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 535; 1 L. W. 887; 16 M. L. T. 479; (1915) M. W. N. 162 F. B. ...	287
Vellore Taluq Board v. Gopalasami Naidu ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 84 F. B. ...	226
Vengala Venkayya v. Thallam Venkataramiah ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 58; 17 M. L. T. 369; 2 L. W. 446 ...	460
Venkata Rao v. Marwadi Motiram ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 937 ...	125
Venkatachalam Chetty v. Narayanan Chetty...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 140 ...	740
Venkatachallam Pattar v. Parasu Pattar ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 156; (1914) M. W. N. 614 ...	106
Venkatakrishnamurthi v. Bheemakka ...	*Madras High Court ...	295
Venkatamma v. Manikkam Nayani Varu ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 399 ...	244
Venkatarajagopala Surya Row v. Basvi Reddy ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 785; (1914) M. W. N. 771; 16 M. L. T. 407 ...	986
Venkatarama Raju v. Bapamma ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 911; 27 M. L. J. 638 ...	888
Venkataramiah Pantulu v. Subramaniam Pillai ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 489 ...	393
Venkatesha Mallia v. Bammampalli Ramayya Hegade ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 241 ...	202
Vinjamuri Veera Venkayya v. Yenamurthi Veerabhadrudu ...	*Madras High Court ...	735
Vishunath Kuar v. Ladli Prasad ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 518 ...	26
Vishwanath v. Sitaram ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 159 ...	708
Viswanathier v. Aiyavier ...	*Madras High Court ...	383
Waryam Singh v. Mahtab Singh ...	s. c. 21 P. R. 1915 ...	433
Yaran v. Gulrang ...	s. c. 164 P. W. R. 1914 ...	882
Yatindra Nath v. Hari Charan ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 426 ...	954
Yusuf Ali v. Wahajuddin ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1022; 15 C. L. J. 719 ...	167
Zemindar of Kapileswarapuram v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 37 M. 355 note ...	590

Comparative Table

OF

Cases Reported in Volume XXVI of Indian Cases, 1915.

Cases marked with an asterisk (*) have not yet been reported elsewhere.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
1	Singaram Chettiar v. Kalyanasundaram Pillai ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 687; (1914) M. W. N. 735.
6	Kulsum-un-nisa Bibi v. Chaube Basdeo ...	*Allahabad High Court.
7	Gopala Mooppanar v. Subramania Iyer ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 253; 1 L. W. 675; (1914) M. W. N. 822.
14	Kumaraswamia Pillai v. Vairavanatha Pillai ...	*Madras High Court.
16	Gottepati Subbanna v. Gottepati Narasamma ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 486.
18	Sivasailam Iyer v. Ramakrishna Aiyar ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 788.
19	Subbiah Pillai v. Kailasam Pillai ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 905.
21	Baldeo v. Ulfat Rai ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1153; 37 A. 22.
21	Basunta Kumar Chuckerbutty v. Gopal Chunder Das ..	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1136.
23	Himat Singh v. Hulas Singh ...	*Allahabad High Court.
23	Promode Ranjan Ghose v. Aswini Kumar Nag ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1138.
24	Munni Lal v Bhagwan Das ...	*Allahabad High Court.
25	Pach Kauri Raut v. Ram Khelawan Chaubey ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1277; 37 A. 57.
26	Vishunath Kuar v. Ladli Prasad ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 518.
30	Jogesh Chandra Chaudhuri v. Mohini Chandra Ray ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1073.
32	Jagannath v. Lachman Das ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 889; 36 A. 549.
33	Akkaraju Narayana Rao v. Akkaraju Seshamma ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 677.
35	Adaikulam Chetti v. Subban Chetti ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 684; 16 M. L. T. 279; 27 M. L. J. 621.
39	Maung Pu v. Lucy Moss ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
42	Bisheshar Prasad v. Gobindram ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 833.
43	Gadian Chettiar v. Gadian Chettiar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 799.
46	Muthiah Chettiar v. Bawa Sahib ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 605; 1 L. W. 969.
50	Peddibhotla Kameswaramma v. Bezwada Chelapathi ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 864.
51	Vasudeva Ravi Varma v. Athi Kottil Eazhuvan Kannanur ...	*Madras High Cohrt.
52	Jagannath v. Ram Nath ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 913.
54	Nallury Krishnamma v. Kamapalli Ramalingam ...	*Madras High Court.
55	Alavala Balayya v. Alavala Guruvayya ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 874.
56	Dulare Lal v. Hazari Lal ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 853.
57	Aiya Gounden v. Jayan Mandalathipathi Gopanna Mauradiyar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 726; 16 M. L. T. 253; 27 M. L. J. 480; (1914) M. W. N. 832.
59	Muhammad Najib Ullah v. Jai Narain ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 908; 36 A. 529.
60	Murugappa Chettiar v. Ramanathan Chettiar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 881.
61	Datla Venkatasubba Raju Garu v. Gattem Venkatarayadu ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 580; 16 M. L. T. 508.
62	Ram Narain v. Muhammad Shah ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 899.
63	Moideen Kuppai v. Ponnuswamy Pillai ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 882; 16 M. L. T. 430.
65	Guptar Tewari v. Debi Saran Tewari ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 842; 36 A. 514.
66	Ramineedi Ramachandrayya v. Bobba Jankiramayya ...	T. c. 1 L. W. 805; (1914) M. W. N. 874.
67	Ravulapati Papi Reddi v. Nanduru Peda Venkatacharyulu ...	s. c. 16 W. L. T. 247; (1914) M. W. N. 794; 27 M. L. J. 567.
68	Gaya Prasad v. Chotoo ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 941.
70	Abdul Hamid v. Maseetullah ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 966; 36 A. 573.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
71	Anantha Iyer v. Ramaswami Iyer ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 444; (1914) M. W. N. 891.
73	Jagat Hari-Bepin Behary Poddar v. Moran & Co. ...	*Calcutta High Court.
76	Gollamudi Venkatasubba Rao v. Chaparala Rosayya	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 714.
77	Nobin Chander Bose v. Gadda Berhai ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 931.
78	Kamaravutu Mrutyunjayudu v. Raja of Pittapuram	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 936.
81	Abdul Kadir v. Shahabazpur Co-operative Bank ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1140.
81	Kosuri Suraparaju v. Mandapaka Narasimham ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 932.
83	Balgobind v. Ram Sarup ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 892; 36 A. 505.
84	Chiranji Lal v. Poorna ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1144.
86	Sanwal Singh v. Prag Dat ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 5 7.
86	Inayat Hussain v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 894.
87	Nanjundiah v. Venkata Subbayya ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 670; 16 M. L. T. 239; 27 M. L. J 618.
89	Kirpa Ram v. Kirpa Ram ...	s. c. 156 P. W. R. 1914; 202 P. L. R. 1914.
90	Subramania Chetty v. Kulayappan ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 668.
91	Baldeo Prasad v. Collector of Pilibhit ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1119; 37 A. 13.
93	Kathiresan Chettiar v. Ramasawmy Chettiar ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 302; (1914) M. W. N. 871.
95	Abbas Bandi Bibi v. Sarju Pande ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 531.
95	Dambar Singh v. Murari Lal ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1148.
96	Municipal Council of Tirupati v. Prayag Dossjee Varu ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 513; 16 M. L. T. 98; 27 M. L. J. 231.
98	Suraj Bakhsh v. Chhab Kuar ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J 532.
102	Abdul Rahman Khan Laudie v. Ma Kye ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
106	Venkatachallam Pattar v. Parasu Pattar ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 156; (1914) M. W. N. 614.
107	Chattar Singh v. Nand Kishore ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1139.
108	Angad Das v. Ghasiti ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 548.
109	Mohammad Husain v. Bashiran ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1141.
110	Ramakrishna Aiyar v. Chinna Vengammal ...	*Madras High Court.
111	Ma Shwe La v. Mg Kyin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
117	Parankusa Zatindra Mahadesikaswami v. Subramania Pillai ...	*Madras High Court.
119	Shambhu v. Chetram ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 10 7.
121	Ram Charan Lal v. Karim-un-nissa Bibi ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1131; 37 A. 12.
121	Mulpuri Veerayya v. Sanagavarapa Sivayya ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 4 2.
122	Rajab Ali v. Rajjoo Khan ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 963.
124	Thaithottahil Pokkar v. Ramachandra Shenoy ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 478.
125	Kailash Chandra v. Gopal Chandra ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1204.
125	Venkata Rao v. Marwadi Motiram ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 937.
126	Rajani Bala Das v. Bhaja Hari Koley ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1076.
127	Muhammade v. Mayi Kunhi Haji ...	*Madras High Court.
128	Lala Ram v. Man Singh ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1032.
129	Nga Kya Thin v. Emperor ...	s. c. 5 Cr. L. J. 681.
131	Balthasar v. Emperor ...	s. c. 41 C. 844; 15 Cr. L. J. 683; 19 C. W. N. 422.
133	Gajja v. Emperor ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 559; 15 Cr. L. J. 685.
134	Kanchan Mallik v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1215; 15 Cr. L. J. 686.
135	Elias v. Ezakiel ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 687.
136	Rambilas, In re ...	s. c. 16 M. L. J. 505; (1914) M. W. N. 894; 15 Cr. L. J. 688.
138	Emperor v. Hanmaraddi Ramaraddi ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 693; 39 B. 58; 15 Cr L. J. 690.
141	Nathi Mall v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 890; 36 A. 513; 15 Cr. L. J. 693.
141	Sherati Sheikh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W.N. 12 3; 15 Cr. L. J. 693.
142	Perumal Naidu, In re ...	s. c. 5 Cr. L. J. 694.
143	Anantha Padiyara, In re ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 695.
143	Emperor v. Rice ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 695.
144	Emperor v. Ganesh ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 336; 15 Cr. L. J. 696.
145	Anukul Chandra Roy v. Kamarali Sardar ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1271; 15 Cr. L. J. 697.
146	Sagarman v. Emperor ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 698.
146	Manipur Dey v. Bidhu Bhusan Sarkar ...	s. c. 42 C. 158; 18 C. W. N. 1086; 15 Cr. L. J. 698.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
148	Raja Ram v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 881; 15 Cr. L. J. 700.
148	Prabhat Chandra Chatterjee v. Prasanna Kumar Sen ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1088; 15 Cr. L. J. 700.
149	Ma Thaw v. Emperor ...	s. c. 7 L. B. R. 116; 15 Cr. L. J. 701.
151	Gaya Roy v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1272; 15 Cr. L. J. 703.
152	Sessions Judge, Madura, In re ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 83; 15 Cr. L. J. 704.
152	Genu Manjhi v Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1276; 15 Cr. L. J. 704.
153	Bechai v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 937; 15 Cr. L. J. 705.
155	Subans Singh v Mahabir Proshad Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1277; 15 Cr. L. J. 707.
156	Vaithianath Aiyar v. Suppalu Ammal ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 939; 15 Cr. L. J. 708.
157	Emperor v. Dalu Sardar ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1279; 15 Cr. L. J. 709.
158	Pachai Gounden, In re ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 710.
160	Nathu Mistry v. Nari Lal Mistry ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 712.
161	Emperor v. Kangal Mali ...	s. c. 41 C. 601; 15 Cr. L. J. 713.
167	Yusuf Ali v. Wahajuddin ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1022; 15 Cr. L. J. 719.
168	Sadasib Mandal v Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1150; 15 Cr. L. J. 720.
169	Sheo Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 541; 15 Cr. L. J. 721.
170	Bazu v. Raika Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1244; 15 Cr. L. J. 722.
171	Dharmalinga Mudali, In re ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 911; 15 Cr. L. J. 723.
172	Churaman v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J, 1024; 15 Cr. L. J. 724.
173	Reajaddin Molla v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1245; 15 Cr. L. J. 725.
174	Madho Chowdhury v Turab Mian ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1211; 15 Cr. L. J. 726.
175	Bairagi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 15 Cr. L. J. 727.
176	Adhar Chandra Dey v. Subodh Chandra Ghosh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 12.2; 15 Cr. L. J. 728.
177	Allahabad Bank v. Suraj Kuar ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 544.
178	Thalagara Ramanne v. Kalagare Gangayya ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 132.
179	Thayammal v. Kuppanna Koundan ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 285.
181	Mottai Reddy v. Thanappa Reddy ...	s. c. 37 M. 385.
182	Uma Charan Mandal v. Midnapore Zemindary Company ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 11; 19 C. W. N. 270.
184	Varadarajulu Chetty v. Dhanalakshmi Ammal ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 365.
187	Papachar Sethumathavachariar v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 941.
194	Panchanadam Pillai v. Sella Pillai ...	*Madras High Court.
195	Munia Konan v. Perumal Konan ...	s. c. 37 M. 390.
197	Basant Kumar Bose v. Khulna Loan Company ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 1.
202	Venkatesha Mallia v. Bammampalli Ramayya Hegade ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 241.
203	Bansi Singh v. Kishun Lall Thakur ...	s. c. 41 C. 632.
204	Lalji v. Ganga Prasad ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 549.
206	Municipal Board, Agra v. Sudarshan Das Shastri ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1137; 37 A. 9.
207	Cherukat Madathil Edakramancheri v. Mangathaya Damodaram Nambudri ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 250; (1914) M. W. N. 834.
208	Arunachala Pillai v. Sampurna Thachi ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 485.
209	Mandal & Co. v. Fazul Ellahie ...	s. c. 41 C. 825
211	Thangavelu Pillai v. Doraisami Pillai ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 272; 16 M. L. T. 393.
213	Jibananda Chakrabarti v. Kalidas Mallik ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 97; 18 C. W. N. 1296; 42 C. 164.
215	Muktakeshi Dasi v. Srinath Das ...	s. c. 19 C. L. J. 614.
219	Baiznath Lala v. Ramadoss ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 509; 27 M. L. J. 640; 1 L. W. 952.
223	Gopala Aiyar v. Rama Venkatasubba Iyer ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 977.
225	Prem Narain v. Ram Lal ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 561.
226	Vellore Taluq Board v. Gopalasami Naidu ...	s c. 17 M. L. T. 84 F. B.
228	Saminathan Chetty v. Palaniappa Chetty ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 617; 17 New Law Reports 56; 83 L J. P. C. 131; (1914) A. C. 618; 41 I. A. 142, P. C.
231	Saheb Din v. Jang Bahadur Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 557.
232	Gandla Pedda Naganna v. Sivanappa ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 310; 27 M. L. J. 520.
237	Mahadei Kuar v. Sant Bakhsh Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 570.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
239	Kuttayakath Vira Varma Valia Rajah Avergal v. Erinhal Karuvanta Valappil Ayisoumma ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 981; 16 M. L. T. 503; (1914) M. W N. 909.
240	Ma Tha v. P. L. M. M. Chetty Firm ...	s. c. 7 Bur. L. T. 310.
242	Lala Singh v. Hazari Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L J. 574; 17 O. C. 343.
244	Venkatamma v. Manikkam Nayani Varu ...	s. c. 16 M. L T. 399.
249	Aiyasami Udayan v. Appasami Udayan ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 983; (1914) M. W. N. 889; 28 M. L. J. 542.
253	Bank of Rangoon, Ltd., v. Somasundaram Chetty ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
261	Sivagami Ammal v. Louis Gnana Prakasa Mudaliar	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 504
262	Laxmiram Lallubhai Joshi v. Bhalashankar Veniram Mehta ...	s. c. 16 Bom L. R. 612; 39 B. 20.
263	Bhagwati Prasad Singh v. Suraj Bali ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 579.
264	Mg. Hyin Ba v. Mg. Pe U Kin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
265	Harchand Panaji v. Gulabchand Kanji ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 620; 39 B. 34.
266	Arjun Raghu Narole v. Krishnaji Venimadhav Valimbe ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 637; 38 B. 673.
267	Doraisami Reddi v. Venkatachallam Pillai ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 734.
270	Ripley, P. H. v. Vaithenatha Iyer ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
271	Latifa Bibi v. Narayanachari ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 202.
272	Vasa Narayanaswamy v Ananthaye ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
273	Raja of Kalahasti v. Venkataramiah Row Bahadur Garu ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 873.
273	Maung Ta Te v. Maung Nyin ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
274	Ponnuranga Mudaliar v. Thandavaraya Mudaliar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1025; (1915) M. W. N. 21.
275	Rashmoni Dasi v. Ganada Sundari Dasi ...	s. c. 20 C. L J. 213; 19 C. W. N. 84.
279	Subramania Pethannar Bhoopathi v. Muthian Chettiar ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1004; (1915) M. W. N. 157.
281	Rajani Kanta Das v. Kali Prasanna Mukherjee ...	s. c. 41 C. 809.
282	Jahangir Singh v. Hira ...	s. c. 157 P. W. R. 1914; 283 P. L. R. 1914.
282	Muthukaruppan Chettiar v. Muthuraman Chettiar...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1012; (1914) M. W. N. 899.
284	Thambikilan Muthirian v. Muthu Reddi ...	*Madras High Court.
284	Osmond Beeby v. Khitish Chandra ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 631; 41 C. 771.
287	Veeraraghava Iyer v. Muga Sait ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 479; 27 M. L. J. 535; 1 L. W. 887; (1915) M. W. N. 162 F. B.
295	Venkatakrishnamurthi v. Bheemakka ...	*Madras High Court.
296	Mohini Mohan Misser v. Surendra Narain Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1189; 21 C. L. J. 68.
300	Nirode Barani Debya v. Bholanath Sarkar ...	*Calcutta High Court.
302	Beni Ram v. Ram Chandra ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 959; 36 A. 560.
305	Kohmi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 24 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 1.
306	Nga Pan Hlaing v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 2.
307	Kuppili Prakasarow, In re ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 3.
307	Superintendent and Remembrancer of LegalAffairs, Bengal v. Manmohan Roy ...	s. c. 21 C. L. J. 195; 16 Cr. L. J. 3.
309	Munian Chetty v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 5.
309	Sreemanta Chatterjee v. Surendra Nath ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 5.
311	Emperor v. Ganapathy Iyer ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 732; 16 M. L. T. 585; 16 Cr. L. J. 7.
313	Harsha Nath Chatterjee v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 9; 21 C. L. J. 201.
318	Parvataneni Kamayya, In re ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 34; 16 Cr. L. J. 14.
319	Mir Shah Nawaz Khan v. Emperor ...	s. c. 8 S. L. R. 1; 16 Cr. L. J. 15.
323	Muhammad Sirdar v. Emperor ...	s. c. 25 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 19.
324	Rasammal, In re ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 20.
328	Janaki Nath Chakravarti v. Jnanendra Nath Chakravarti ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 24.
329	Nga Po Thein v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 25.
332	Muniandi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 535; 1 L. W. 1007; (1915) M. W. N. 34; 16 Cr. L. J. 28.
335	Gulli Sahu v. Emperor ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 221; 21 C. L. J. 112; 16 Cr. L. J. 31.
336	Kannkayya v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 32.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
337	Azhimanila Veettil Kannu Pillai v. Kayinari Gopalan Nair ...	s c. (1914) M. W. N. 883.
341	Amar Singh v. Bhola ...	s. c. 240 P. L. R. 1914.
342	Shuja-ud-din v. Aishabi ...	s. c. 100 P. R. 1914.
344	Pachi v. Charni ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 529.
345	Prem Singh v. Mokand Singh ...	s. c. 151 P. W. R. 1914; 281 P. L. R. 1914.
346	Ponnusawmy Iyer v. Permaye ...	s c. 16 M. L. T. 530.
347	Somai Ammal v. Vellayya Sethurangam ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 532; 1 L. W. 1047; (1915) M. W. N. 12.
349	Pusarala Sanyasi v. Guntur Cotton, Jute and Paper Mills Co., Ltd. ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 538.
353	Lanka Gopalam v. Lanka Ratnamma ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 15; 28 M. L. J. 666.
355	Nimmagadda Peda Naganna, In re ...	*Madras High Court.
356	Kasivasi Somasundara Thambiran v. Venkata-narayana Pillai ...	*Madras High Court.
357	Ramala Venkataswami v. Kanumalla Narasimhayya	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 596.
358	Latifunnissa Bibi v. Majidunnissa Bibi ...	*Calcutta High Court.
359	Karumuru Venkateswami v. Lanka Tripuriah ...	*Madras High Court.
360	Dupaguntla Subba Rao v. Gollapudi Ethirajulu ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 33.
360	Abdul Karim v. Abdus Sobhan ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1264.
362	Salem Town Bank, Ltd., v. Ramaswamy Aiyar ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 236.
363	Somanchi Venkatasubbarayudu v. Somanchi Pullamma ...	*Madras High Court.
364	Raghava Naidu v. Muthyalu Naidu ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 301.
365	Edayagiri Gopalaratnam v. Chokalingam Setti ...	*Madras High Court.
366	Subbier v. Chinnappa Rowthen ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 22.
367	Agnihotram Venkata Appala Charlu v. Kumbum Pakiru ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 724.
368	Akkamma v. Kopparam Rangappa ..	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 875.
368	Asiat-ullah v. Sadat-Ullah ...	*Calcutta High Court.
369	Grace Rosamund Rhodes v. Padmanabha Chettiar...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1033; (1914) M. W. N 921; 17 M L. T. 18.
376	Kanthu v. Dasa Upadhya ...	*Madras High Court.
380	Bandi Ali Fakir v. Amud Sarkar ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 227; 19 C. W. N. 415.
383	Nachiyappa Chetty v. Ramasami Chetty ...	*Madras High Court.
383	Viswanathier v. Aiyavier ...	*Madras High Court.
384	Krishna Reddi v. Sundara Reddi ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 931.
388	Muhammad v. Muzaffar ...	s. c. 28 P. W. R. 1915; 98 P. L. R. 1915.
390	Munshi Ram v. Gainda Mal ...	s. c. 45 P. W. R. 1915.
393	Venkataramiah Pantulu v. Subramaniam Pillai ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 489.
402	Bhagat Singh v. Jai Bam ...	s. c. 19 P. W. R. 1915; 66 P. L. R. 1915; 22 P. R 1915.
404	Hira v. Muhamadi ...	s. c. 21 P. W. R. 1915; 160 P. R. 1915; 64 P. L. R. 1915.
406	Ramjan Ali v. Maharam Ali Khondkar ...	*Calcutta High Court.
407	Jodi Bibi v. Vajiar Khan Saheb ...	*Madras High Court.
409	Ayyasami Iyengar v. Kylasam Pillai ...	*Madras High Court.
410	Rai Charan Mandal v. Biswanath Mandal ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 107.
412	Shajan Bibi v. Saffiruddin ...	*Calcutta High Court.
413	Vadivelu Pillai v. Maruda Pillai ...	*Madras High Court.
415	Manghi Ram v. Ram Saran Das-Maman Chand ...	s. c. 35 P. W. R. 1915; 23 P. R. 1915; 100 P. L. R. 1915.
417	Kashi Ram v. Het Singh ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 34; 37 A. 101.
418	Kannu Chetty v. Amirthammal ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 877.
419	Lachmin Narain v. Kalka Prasad ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 49.
421	Official Assignee of Madras v. Ponnusawmy Mudali ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 1028.
423	Indar Singh v. Kartar Singh ...	*Punjab Chief Court.
424	Rijhumal v. Michumal ...	s. c. 8 S. L. R. 65.
426	Ghaman v. Kanhiya Mal ...	s. c. 15 P. W. R. 1915.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
427	Ganesh v. Babu Ram ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 9; 37 A. 72.
429	Kavutu Purnanandam v. Lakshminarasimha Charvulu ...	*Madras High Court.
430	Bhagwan Kaur v. Harnam Kaur ...	s. c. 17 P. W. R. 1915; 69 P. L. R. 1915
433	Waryam Singh v. Mahtab Singh ...	s. c. 21 P. R. 1915.
436	Kalikananda Mukherjee v. Bipro Das Pal Choudhury ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 18; 21 C. L. J. 265.
441	Gobinda Mal v. Santa ...	s. c. 83 P. R. 1914.
442	Karaga v. Devappa ...	*Madras High Court.
443	Mani v. Konalan Kannan ...	*Madras High Court.
444	Sundra Bahu Shetye v. Sakharam Gopalshet Gandhi	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 616; 39 B. 29.
445	Ras Behari Lal v. Akhai Kunwar ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 1; 37 A. 91.
446	Abdul Haq v. Datti Lal ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 168.
450	Motan Das v. Morni Bai ...	s. c. 37 P. W. R. 1915.
454	Ram Lal v. Tirbeni Sahai ...	*Allahabad High Court.
455	Alamelu Ammal v. Balu Ammal ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 592; (1915) M. W. N. 26; 28 M. L. J. 685.
458	Banwari Lal v. Khubi Ram ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1265; 37 A. 59.
460	Vengala Venkayya v. Thallam Venkataramiah ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 58; 17 M. L. T. 369; 2 L. W. 446.
466	Rahim Bakhsh Mandal v. Sajjad Ahmad Chowdhary	*Calcutta High Court.
472	Kandasami Chetti v. Murugappa Chetti ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 547.
475	Narayanswamy Naidu Garu v. Kamuri Ramayya ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 244; (1914) M. W. N. 713, 870.
476	Sardakar Podh v. Bisseswar Goantia ...	*Calcutta High Court.
478	Twinzas Oil Co. Ltd. v. Mower & Co. ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
480	Sashi Sekhareswar Roy Bahadur v. Rani Sashibala Debi ...	*Calcutta High Court.
481	Thiraj v. Kasim ...	s. c. 48 P. W. R. 1915.
485	Ram Gopal Sen v. Abhoya Charan Ghosh ...	*Calcutta High Court.
486	Med Singh v. Kabir-un-Nissa ...	s. c. 88 P. R. 1914.
488	Bateman v. Bateman ...	s. c. 41 C. 963.
489	Rukmani Sundarammal v. Muthammal ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 8.
492	Ata Muhammad Khan v. Jiwani ...	s. c. 2 P. W. R. 1915; 33 P. L. R. 1915.
494	Durga Prasad Pande v. Fateh Bahadur Singh ...	s. c. 36 A. 451; 12 A. L. J. 725.
497	Charagh Din v. Ahmad Din ...	s. c. 38 P. W. R. 1915.
498	Kanai Lal Ghose v. Besir Pramanik ...	* Calcutta High Court.
500	Badri Prashad v. Gambhir Kunwar ...	* Allahabad High Court.
503	Sheo Dat Singh v. Sidhau Kunwar ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 327.
505	Ahmed Moola Dawood v. Fatima Bee Bee ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
507	Muthu Pillai v. Maria Sandanam Pillai ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 910; 15 M. L. T. 505.
507	Parmeshwar Dat v. Anardan Dat ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 24; 37 A. 113.
508	Chullile Peetikayil Nammad v. Otheuam Nambiar...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 239.
510	Kanti Venkanna v. Chelikani Rama Row Garu ...	*Madras High Court.
511	Baikunta Gui v. Lal Chand Sumanta ...	*Calcutta High Court
512	Jai Ram v. Sardar Singh ...	s. c. 23 P. R. 1914; 195 P. L. R. 1914.
514	Sundaramma v. Kamakotiah ...	*Madras High Court.
515	Raghubar Charan v. Krishen Baldeo ...	*Allahabad High Court.
517	Bakkha Singh v. Gaya Din Singh ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 339; 2 O. L. J. 148.
519	Tirath Singh v. Ram Chand ...	*Punjab Chief Court
519	Subbayya v. Rachayya ...	s. c. 37 M. 477.
521	Rupan Singh v. Champa Lal ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 14; 37 A. 81.
523	Subkaran Singh v. Raghubans ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 581.
524	Hayat Khatun v. Sharm Khatun ...	s. c. 93 P. R. 1914.
526	Kailasa v. Raghubar ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 331; 1 O. L. J. 735.
528	Lakshminarayana Aiyar v. Ulagammal ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 256.
530	Bhim Singh v. Jot Ram ...	s. c. 42 P. W. R. 1915.
532	Ponaka Balarami Reddi v. Hazi Mahomed Abdul Aziz ...	s. c. 26 M. L. J. 499.
536	Beni Madho v. Kanhaiya Lal ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 583.
537	Govinda Doss v. Rajah Venkata Perumal ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 195.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Jaurnals.
542	Ram Prashad v. Sarjoo ...	s. c 1 O. L. J. 585.
543	Ratti Ram v. Kundan Lal ...	s. c. 87 P. R. 1914.
547	Mir Syed Hasan v. Taiyaba Begam ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 591.
590	Zemindar of Kapileswarapuram v. Secretary of State ..	s. c. 37 M. 355 note.
597	Anupa Kuer v. Achchaihar Singh ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 38; 37 A. 97.
598	Ramchandra v. Musammat Radha ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 91.
599	Thomas G. G. French v. Julia French ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 754; 39 B. 136.
600	Surajpal Singh v. Gajraj Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 698.
601	Khemchand v. Malloo ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 81.
606	Sitaram Morappa Nawale v. Shri Khandoba ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 756; 39 B. 165.
606	Chowbe Jaigopal v. Rameshwar ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 89.
607	Ramdas Gopaldas v. Baldevdas Kaushalydas ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 757; 39 B. 168.
608	Haijnath v. Raghunath ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 93.
610	Crompton & Co. v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 26 M. L. J. 549.
612	Golak Chandra Chowdhury v. Prabhat Chandra Ray ...	*Calcutta High Court.
613	Akola Gin Combination v. Northcote Ginning Factory ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 98.
618	Ambalavana Pandara v. Kuppachi Janaki ...	*Madras High Court.
619	Neamatullaa v. Bajiulla ...	*Calcutta High Court.
620	East Indian Railway Co. v. Binda ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 66.
621	Rajman v. Brahm Surat ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 336.
622	Ramasami Iyer v. Srirangaraja Iyengar ...	s. c. 2 L. W. S.
624	Court of Wards v. Gauri Shankar ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J 697.
625	Beja v. Emperor ...	s. c. 13 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 33.
631	Suppaya Tharagan, In re ...	s. c. 37 M. 317; 16 Cr. L. J. 39.
631	Pwa Me v. San Hla ...	s. c. 7 L. B. R. 270; 16 Cr. L. J. 39.
632	Farzand Ali v. Hakim Ali ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1241; 37 A. 26; 16 Cr. L. J. 40.
634	Harnarain Sardar v. Emperor ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1274; 16 Cr. L. J. 42.
635	Emperor v. Ghasite ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1244; 37 A. 31; 16 Cr. L. J. 43.
636	Po Mya v. Emperor ...	s c 7 L B. R. 272; 16 Cr. L. J. 44.
638	Birjnandan Prasad v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1246; 16 Cr. L. J. 76; 37 A. 33.
641	Dick v. Emperor ...	s. c 12 A. L. J. 1258; 16 Cr. L. J. 49.
644	Kandasami Asari v. Narayana Asari ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 107; 16 Cr. L. J. 52.
645	Ali Mahomed Mukri, In re ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 67; 16 Cr. L. J. 53.
646	Bishan Prasad v. Emperor ...	s. c 13 A. L. J. 109; 37 A. 128; 16 Cr. L. J. 54.
646	Bhawani Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1004; 16 Cr. L. J. 54.
647	Gobind Sahai v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J 1136; 37 A. 20; 16 Cr. L. J. 55.
648	Jafar Husain v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 736; 16 Cr. L. J. 56.
650	Khaddam Venkata Rao, In re ...	s c. 2 L. W. 22; 16 Cr. L. J. 58.
651	Mahanta Mohabir Das v. Gaya Municipality ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 59.
652	Mihan Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 26 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 60.
653	Sinna Karuppan, In re ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 303; 16 Cr. L. J. 61.
653	Mul Chand v. Emperor ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1262; 37 A. 30; 16 Cr. L. J. 61.
654	Dal v. Emperor ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 687; 16 Cr. L. J. 62.
657	Sashi Rajbanshi v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 65; 19 C. W. N. 295.
664	Raghu v. Emperor ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J 711; 16 Cr. L. J. 72.
665	Mohammad v. Ali Raza ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 73.
666	Abdul Karim v. Emperor ...	s. c. 32 P. R 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 74.
666	Sundarsanam Aiyangar v. Elayavalli Srinivasachari	s. A. 16 Cr. L. J. 74.
667	Nadir v. Emperor ...	s. c. 43 P. W. R. 1914. Cr; 16 Cr. L. J. 75.
668	Kali Prasad v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 76.
670	Ram Nath v. Municipal Board of Muttra ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 740; 16 Cr. L. J. 78.
671	Muthukaruppan Servai v. Vellayya Kudumban ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 778; 16 Cr. L. J. 79.
672	Chanda v. Rama Misari ...	s. c. 16 Cr. L. J. 80.
673	Kishen Dyal Gir v. Mahomed Amirul Hussein ...	*Calcutta High Court.
676	Secretary of State v. Kirtibas Bhupati Harichandan Mahapatra ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 65; 2 L. W. 11; 17 M. L. T. 1; 21 C. L. J. 31; 17 Bom. L. R. 32; 28 M. L. J. 457 P. C.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
683	Raghunath Kuar v. Court of Wards ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 587.
684	Hla Dun v. Chetty Firm ...	s. c. 7 L. B. R. 294.
686	Narpat Singh v. Gur Bakhsh Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 589.
686	Ishar Devi v. Bindraban ...	s. c. 5 P. R. 1915.
689	Parbhu Dyal v. Harcharan ...	*Allahabad High Court.
692	Secretary of State v. Simhadri Jaghapathiraju ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 29; 2 L. W. 31; 28 M. L. J. 51.
697	Dinabandhu Jana v. Chintamoni Jana ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 476.
698	Jairam v. Sunderlal ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 146,
700	Maung Yin v. Ma Saw Myaing ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
701	Balkishan v. Atmaram ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 150.
706	Baldeo Prasad v. Chet Ram ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 703.
708	Vishwanath v. Sitaram ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 159.
709	Bhagwan Bakhsh Singh v. Shafiq-uz-Zaman ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 707.
709	Bapu v. Bhiwaji ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 161.
712	Lal Hanwant Ram v. Muhammad Abul Hasan Khan	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 708.
712	Rajaram v. Vithal Rao ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 166.
714	Farzand Ali Khan v. Amir Haider ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 709.
715	Jamna Das v. Paiku ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 170.
717	Abdul Basit v. Khoda Bakhsh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 714.
718	Diwan Singh v. Randhera ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1322.
719	Udit Narain Singh v. Gur Charan ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J, 717.
720	Narayan v. Mahadeo ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 173.
722	Nageshar v. Ram Tahal ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 692.
722	Shaibunnissa v. Karamat Ali ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 693.
723	Nagaraja Pillai v. Secretary of State ...	*Madras High Court.
731	Ram Singh v. Girraj Singh ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1252; 37 A. 41.
732	Chipurapalli Appayya v. Kakarlapudi Ramachandra Raju Bahadur Garu ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 763; 16 M. L. T. 362; 27 M. L. J. 490.
734	Kamta Singh v. Parmeshwar ...	*Allabahad High Court.
735	Vinjamuri Veera Venkayya v. Venamurthi Veerabhadrudu ...	*Madras High Court.
736	Lachmi Chand Jhowar v. Hemendra Prasad Ghosh	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1260.
736	Suraj Bali v. Dan Bahadar Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 681.
737	Kunwar Bahadur v. Bindraban ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 196.
740	Venkatachalam Chetty v. Narayanan Chetty ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 140.
743	Esoof Ebrahim Moolla v. Esoof Sulaiman Aboo ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
743	Karar Hassan v. Mustafa Hassan ...	s. c. 86 P. R. 1914.
746	Valli Ise Amanji v. Mahmad Adam Asmal ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 763.
747	Saripalli Venkatarayagopala Raju v. Fota Narasayya	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 779.
749	Bhavanishankar v. Talukdari Settlement Officer ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 766.
750	Govindan Nair v. Nanu Menon ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 782; 27 M. L. J. 595.
751	Madhavrao v. Sahebrao ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 769; 39 B. 119.
752	Kalyan Singh v. Dammar Singh ...	*Allahabad High Court.
753	Nagindas Jekisondas v. Nanabhai Dullabhram ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 774.
754	Lakshmi Ammal v. Ramaswamy Iyengar ...	*Madras High Court.
754	Satvaji Balajirao v. Sakharlal Atmaram Shet ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 778; 39 B. 175.
756	Bahadri v. Emperor ...	s. c. 3 P. R. 1914 Rev.
757	Nachiappa Gounden v. Rangasami Gounden ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 87; 2 L. W. 69; 28 M. L. J. 1; (1915) M. W. N. 53 F. B.
778	Niamat Ali v. Ali Raza ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 26; 37 A. 86.
779	Thuri Kothandarama Reddiar v. Thesu Reddiar ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 446; 1 L. W. 928.
781	Chauli v. Municipal Board of Muzaffarnagar ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1102.
781	Girish Chandra Chowdhury v. Kunja Behari Kowar	*Calcutta High Court.
783	Sheo Harakh v. Ram Chander ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 41; 37 A. 76.
785	Muthukaruppa Pillai v. Sellathammal ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 587; 2 L. W. 38; (1915) M. W N. 48.
788	Surja Bibi v. Tarap Mandal ...	*Calcutta High Court.
790	Sellappa Koundan v. Gurumoorti ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 396.
791	Jagrani Misrani v. Bisheshar Dube ...	s c. 12 A. L. J. 1316.

Pages of Vol. XXVI of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
792	Alwar Chetty v. Chidambara Mudali ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 23'; (1914) M. W. N. 642; 27 M. L. J. 400.
795	Narain Dutt v. Superintendent of Dehra Dun ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1319; 37 A 69.
797	Ramakrishnam Pillai v. Robert Fischer ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 4'4.
797	Nabi Bakhsh v. Mehr Bibi ...	s. c. 89 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 15 Cr. L. J. 610.
800	Gopala Kristna Yachendrula Varu v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 16 M. L. T. 597; 2 L. W. 45; 28 M. L. J. 98.
808	Kanhai Lal v. Mul Chand ...	*Allahabad High Court.
809	Seetharama Iyer v. Robert Fischer ...	s. c. 27 M. L. 7. 415.
810	Tikaram v. Ghasiram ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 129.
812	Natha Singh v. Mangal ...	s. c. 90 P. R. 1914.
813	Husen v. Rajaram ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 133.
815	Ganga Prasad v. Jwala Prasad ...	*Allahabad High Court.
816	Gokal Singh v. Kanhaya Lal ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 137.
817	Muthammal v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 529; 16 M. L. T. 432.
819	Raghu v. Madhgia ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 139.
822	South Indian Industrials v. Mindi Ramajogi ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 501.
830	Manjula v. Shankar ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 144.
831	Aiyarappa Mudaliar v. Gulam Ghose ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 62.
833	Khaira v. Jaggu Shah ...	*Punjab Chief Court.
834	Palaniappa Chetti v. Rama Nathan Chetti ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 64.
835	Jiwanlal v. Chudaman ...	s. c. 10 N. L. R. 111.
836	Sanyasi Charan Mandal v. Asutosh Ghosh ...	s. c 42 C. 225.
841	Ambalavana Pandarasannadhi Avergal v. Minakshy Sundareswara Devastanam ...	s. c (1915) M. W. N. 76; 28 M. L. J. 217; 17 M L. T. 271.
860	Nisarul Rahman v. Tikam Das ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 680.
860	Rajendra Kumar Ghosh v. Adinadi ...	*Calcutta High Court.
862	Ganga Prasad v. Ram Prasad ...	*Allahabad High Court.
863	Ramasami Aiyar v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 154.
866	Baishnab Charan Saha v. Bank of Bengal ...	s. c. 19 C. L. J. 58'.
871	Deo Narayan Singh v. Ganga Prasad ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 69
872	Sarupa v. Karam Ullah ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 682.
873	Ramasawmy Aiyar v. Vanamamalai Aiyar ...	*Madras High Court.
877	Dinyar D. Hirji Khorshed v. Maung Inn ...	*Lower Burma Chief Court.
879	Man Singh v. Amantaka Prasad ...	*Allahabad High Court.
880	Joti Prasad v. Balwant Singh ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 684
882	Yaran v. Gulrang ...	s. c. 164 P. W. R. 1914.
883	Ramakrishna Pattar v. Narayana Patter ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 634; (19:4) M. W. N. 912
885	Chanmalsawmi Rudraswami v. Gangadharappa Baslingappa ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 954.
888	Brindavana Chandra v. Jagannadha Singi Santo...	s. c. 2 L. W. 29.
888	Venkatarama Raju v. Bapamma ...	s. c. (1914) M. W. N. 911; 27 M. L. J. 638
890	Dino Nath Das v. Jogendra Nath ...	*Calcutta High Court.
891	Rajah of Vizayanagaram v. Dokara Paidayya ...	*Madras High Court.
892	Re Bombay Gas Company and Bombay Electric Supply ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 964; 39 B. 124.
893	Forbes A. D. v. Secretary of State ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 138; 42 C. 151.
895	Nand Lal v. Kishori ...	s c. 12 A. L. J. 1270.
896	Sethna v. Jwalaprasad Gayaprasad ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 972.
899	Gadian Chetti v. Veerappa Chetti ...	s. c. 28 M. L. J. 92.
903	Mukunda Lal Chuckerbutty v. Manmohini Bebi ...	s. c. 19 C. W. N. 472.
904	Suraj Bali v. Govinda ...	s. c. 1 O. L. J. 701.
904	Sinnasawmi Gounden v. Subbana Gounden ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 29.
906	Amirbibi v Azizabibe ...	s. c 16 Bom. L. R. 977.
908	Balabhadra Priste v. Jagannath Mahaprabhoo ...	*Calcutta High Court.
909	Sarju Pandey v. Mulloo Chaudhry ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1279.
910	Diwan Chand v. Jiwan Mal ...	*Punjab Chief Court.
9.1	Chidambaram Chetti v. Ramaswami Chettiar ...	s. c. 27 M. L. J. 631.
913	Kishen Chand v. Sohan Lal ...	s. c. 20 P. L. R. 1915.

Page of Vol. XXV of Ind. Cas.	Names of Parties.	Corresponding pages of other Reports and Journals.
915	Karmali Abdulla Allarkhia v. Bora Karimji ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 35; 2 L. W. 133; 17 Bom. L. R. 103; 19 C. W. N. 337; 13 A. L. J. 121; 21 C. L. J. 122; 28 M. L. J. 515 P. C.
922	Ahmad Raza Khan v. Ram Lal ...	s. c. 13 A. L. J. 204.
924	Ramlal v. Narsingdas ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 163; 19 C. W. N. 193; 17 M. L. T. 45; 11 N. L. R. 53; 21 C. L. J. 137; 28 M. L. J. 448 P. C.
926	Bansidhar v. Kharagjit ...	s. c. 12 A. L. J. 1273; 37 A. 65.
927	Narayanasawami Aiyar v. Krishnamurti Aiyar ...	s. c. (1915) M. W. N. 122; 17 M. L. T. 48.
933	Bhure Lal v. Jagan Nath ...	*Allahabad High Court.
935	Luchmi Chand Jhowar v. Hemendra Prasad Ghosh	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1260.
936	Kishen Singh v. Church Missionary Trust Association ...	*Punjab Chief Court.
938	Chokkalinga Chetty v. Kannusawmi Pillai ...	*Madras High Court.
939	Narendra Chandra Lahiri v. Nalini Sundari Debi...	*Calcutta High Court.
941	Ramchandra v. Latchman Pillay ...	s. c. 7 Bur. L. T. 277.
943	Umacharan Bhattacharjee v. Hironmoyee Debi ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 770.
944	Salicheemala Venkatasawmi Naidu v. Gunturu Rangappa Naidu ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 109.
946	Ettisheri Edathil v. Pothera Kalloor ...	s. c. 2 L. W. 61.
946	Barhamdeo Singh v. Harmanoge Singh ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 772.
949	John King and Co., Ltd. v. Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners of Howrah ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 898; 27 M. L. J. 20; 20 C. L. J. 407 P. C.
954	Yatindra Nath v. Hari Charan ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 426.
958	Subbaraya Aiyar v. Kolandavelu Mudali ...	*Madras High Court.
960	Ishan Chandra Kar v. Ram Charan Pal ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 445.
961	Secretary of State v. Mikkelineni Chinna ...	*Madras High Court.
962	Gobinda Chandra v. Dwarka Nath ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 455; 19 C. W. N. 489.
969	Mahbub Ali v. Taj Khan ...	*Punjab Chief Court.
974	Nga Pi v. Nga Kyan Tha ...	s. c. 7 Bur. L. T. 282.
977	Rajendra Nath Roy v. Nanda Lal ...	s. c. 18 C. W. N. 1206; 19 C. L. J. 595.
980	Sukumari Gupta v. Bharat Mandal ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 148.
983	Duvvur Subba Reddy v. Kakuturu Venkatarami Reddy ...	s c. 16 M. L. T. 370.
986	Venkatarajagopala Surya Row v. Basvi Reddy ...	s. c. 1 L. W. 785; (1914) M. W. N. 774; 16 M. L. T. 407.
991	Kolakudi Veerama Reddi v. Vasudeva Reddi ...	s. c. 17 M. L. T. 85.
992	Digambar Das v. Harendra Narayan Pandey ...	s. c. 20 C. L. J. 112.
993	Hasta v. Emperor ...	s. c. 29 P. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 81.
995	Ismail Alibhai v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R 934; 16 Cr. L. J. 83.
996	Nga Tun E v. Mi Chon ...	s. c. U. B. R. (1914) II, 23; 16 Cr. L. J. 84.
998	Phula Khan v. Emperor ...	s. c. 46 P. W. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 86.
1000	Emperor v. Gana Krishna Walunj ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 939; 16 Cr. L. J. 88.
1001	Chuhar Singh v. Emperor ...	s. c. 40 P. W. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 89.
1003	Bhau Savalaram Kotasthane v. Emperor ...	s. c. 16 Bom. L. R. 943; 16 Cr. L. J. 91.
1003	Shahamat Khan v. Gulab Khan ...	s. c. 17 O. C. 309; 1 O. L. J. 568; 16 Cr. L. J. 91.
1004	Nga Myo v. Nga Kyan ...	s. c. U. B. R. (1914) II, 31; 16 Cr. L. J. 92.
1005	Gul Shah v. Emperor ...	s. c. 41 P. W. R. 1914 Cr.; 16 Cr. L. J. 93.
1007	Nga Kan Hla v. Emperor ...	s. c. U. B. R. (1914) II, 28; 16 Cr. L. J. 95.

TABLE

OF

Cases Cited in Volume XXVI of Indian Cases, 1915.

A

Page.

Aaron's Reefs Limited v. Twiss, (1896) A. C. 273; 65 L. J. P. C. 54; 74 L. T. 794 ... 352

Abbey v. Lill, (1829) 5 Bing 299 at p. 304; 2 M. & P. 534; 7 L. J. (o. s.) C. P. 96; 130 E. R. 1076 ... 965

Abdul Aziz v. Chairman of the Municipal Board of Pilibhit, A. W. N. (1905) 79; 2 A. L. J. 222 ... 781

Abdul Aziz Khan v. Appayasami Naicker 27 M. 131 (P. C.); 31 I. A. 1; 18 C. W. N. 186; 6 Bom. L. R. 7 ... 74

Abdul Ghafoor v. Ghulam Husain; 18 Ind. Cas. 959; 35 A. 296; 11 A. L. J. 297 ... 96

Abdul Ghani v. Muhammad Fasih, 28 A. 95; A. W. N. (1905) 200; 2 A. L. J. 667 ... 83

Abdul Hakim v. Ganesh Dutt, 12 C. 323 ... 808

Abdul Kadar v. Mahomed, 15 M. 15 ... 443

Abdul Rahim v. Madhavrav Apaji, 14 B. 78 ... 834

Abdulbhai v. Kashi, 11 B. 462 2, 72

Abdulla v. Ram Lal, 12 Ind. Cas. 601; 34 A. 129; 8 A. L. J. 1318 ... 773

Abdullah v. Ashraf Ali, 7 C. L. J. 152 ... 381

Abinash Chandra Mozumdar v. Harinath Shaha, 32 C. 62; 9 C. W. N. 25 ... 739

Achal Ram v. Kazim Husain Khan, 32 I. A. 113 (P. C.); 27 A. 271; 9 C. W. N. 477; 8 O. C. 155; 15 M. L. J. 197 ... 982

Achhar Singh v. Mehtab Singh, 81 P. R. 1907; 134 P. L. R. 1908 ... 493

Achut Ramchandra Pal v. Nagappa Balb Balgaya, 21 Ind. Cas. 337; 38 B. 41; 15 Bom. L. R. 902... 33

Achutaramaraju v. Subbaraju, 25 M. 7; 11 M. L. J. 370 ... 717

Adaikka Maistry v. Muthusami Ambalagaran, 25 Ind. Cas. 144; 27 M. L J. 24 ... 758

Adaikkalam Chetti v. Marimuthu, 22 M. 326; 9 M. L. J. 31 ... 36

Adansonia Fiber Co., In re, Mile's Claim, 9 Ch. 635; 43 L. J. Ch. 732; 31 L. T. 9; 22 W. R. 889 920

Adhur Chunder Banerjee v. Aghore Nath Aroo, 2 C. W. N. 589 ... 354

Adipuranam Pillai v. Gopalasami Mudaly, 31 M. 354; 3 M. L. T. 281; 18 M. L. J. 259 ... 3

Adusmulli Suryanarayana v. Acchuita Potanna, 22 Ind. Cas. 339; 26 M. L. J. 99; 15 M. L. T. 268 357, 618

Afridi v. Empress, 9 P R. 1880 Cr. ... 627

Agarchand v. Rakhma, 12 B. 678 ... 427

Ahmadjee v. Mahamadjee, 1 Bom. L. R. 218 ... 410

Ahmed Hossein v. Queen-Empress, 27 C. 692; 4 C. W. N. 750 ... 316

Ahmed Wali Khan v. Shamsh-ul-Jahan Begam, 28 A. 482; 10 C. W. N. 626; 3 A. L. J. 360; 3 C. L. J. 48; 1 M. L. T. 143; 8 Bom. L. R. 397; 16 M. L. J. 269 (P. C.) ... 280

Akhoy Chunder Bagchi v. Kalapahar Haji, 12 C. 406; 12 I. A. 198; 9 Ind. Jur. 400; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 678 939, 957

A—contd.

Page.

Akima v. Azeem, 9 W. R. 334 ... 301

Alagappa Mudaliyar v. Thiyagaraja Mudaliyar, 7 Ind. Cas. 864; (1910) M. W. N. 477; 8 M. L. T. 299 414, 520

Alagirisami Naickar v. Sundareswara Ayyar, 21 M. 278 ... 859

Alathoor Badruddeen v. Gulam Mohideen, 12 Ind. Cas. 562; 36 M. 357; 24 M. L. J. 54; 10 M. L. T. 396; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 473 ... 945

Alderson v. White, (1858) 2 De. G. & J. 97; 4 Jur. (N. S.) 125; 6 W. R. 242; 44 E. R. 924; 119 R. R 38 ... 754

Alexander John Forbes v. Meer Mahomed Tuquee, 13 M. I. A. 438; 14 W. R. 28 (P. C.); 5 B. L. R. 529 ; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 358; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 588; 20 Eng. Rep. 614 ... 79

Ali Ahmad v. Rahmat-ullah, 14 A. 149; A. W. N. (1892) 42 ... 707

Ali Bakhsh v. Allahdad Khan, 6 Ind. Cas. 367; 7 A. L. J. 567; 32 A. 551 ... 109

Ali Muhammad Khan v. Aziz-ullah Khan, 6 A. 50; A W. N. (1883) 204 ... 110

Aliba v. Nanu, 9 M. 218 ... 939

Aligirisami Naicken, In re, 5 Ind. Cas. 831; 33 M. 514; 11 Cr. L. J. 254; 7 M. L. T. 121; (1910) M. W. N. 5 ... 659

Allah Dei Begam v. Kesri Mal, 28 A. 93; A. W. N. (1905) 199; 2 A. L. J. 576 ... 520

Allahabad Bank, Ld. v. Syed Mohammad Jawad, 2 O. C. 37 ... 177

Amarendra Nath Chatterjee v. Kashi Nath Chatterjee, 27 C. 169 ... 555

Ambalavana Chetty v. Singaravelu Odayar, 15 Ind. Cas. 146 (1912) M. W. N. 669 at p. 680... 348

Ambalavana Desigar Pandara Sannidhi v. Bappu Row Jagadap, 9 M. L. J. 93 ... 3

Aminabi v. Sidu, 17 B. 547 ... 756

Amir Hassan Khan v. Sheo Bakhsh Singh, 11 C. 6 (P. C.); 11 I. A. 237; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 559; Rafique and Jackson's (P. C.) No. 83 ... 106

Amir Kazim v. Darbari Mal, 24 A. 475; (1902) A. W. N. 145 ... 354

Amjad Ali v. Ali Husain, 6 Ind. Cas. 574; 12 C. L. J. 519; 15 C. W. N. 353 ... 958

Amritolal Bose v. Rajoneekant Mitter, 2 I. A. 113; 15 B. L. R. 10; 23 W. R. 215 ... 530

Anandrao Ganpatrao v. Vasantrao Madhavrao, 9 Bom. L. R. 595; 5 C. L. J. 338; 11 C. W. N. 478; 2 M. L. T. 151; 17 M. L. J. 184 (P. C.)... 789

Anant Ram v. Hukman Mal, 62 P. R. 1902; 102 P. L. R. 1902 ... 452

Anant Singh v. Durga Singh, 6 Ind. Cas. 787; 14 C. W. N. 770; 7 A. L. J. 704; 12 C. L. J. 36; 13 O. C. 163; 37 I. A. 191; 12 Bom. L. R. 79; 20 M. L. J. 604; 32 A. 363 (P. C.) ... 101

Anderson Wright & Co. v. Kalagarla Surjinarain, 12 C. 339 .. 210

A—contd.

Page

Andiappa Pillay v. Muthukumara Thevan, 14 Ind. Cas. 140; (1914) M. W. N. 450; 11 M. L. T. 241; 36 M. 477 ... 50, 58
Annapaganda v. Sangadigyapa, 26 B. 221 (F. B.); 3 Bom. L. R. 817 ... 400
Anne Casement v. John Williamson Fulton, 3 M. I. A. 395; Moore P. C. 130; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 293; 70 R. R. 19; 18 E. R. 549; 13 E. R. 439 ... 588
Anonymous case, 10 C. 272 at p. 282 ... 343
Anundomoyee v. Sheeb Chunder, 9 M. I. A. 287 at p. 301; 2 W. R. (P. C.) 19; Marsh. 455; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 485; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 854; 19 E. R. 750 ... 410
Apaya v. Rama, 3 B. 210 at p. 213 ... 339
Appa Pillai v. Ranga Pillai, 6 M. 71 ... 212
Appasami Aiyar v. Secretary of State, 6 Ind. Cas. 265; (1910) M. W. N. 107; 7 M. L. T. 349 ... 693
Appovier v. Rama Subba Aiyan, 11 M. I. A. 75; 8 W. R. (P. C.) 1; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 657; 2 Sar. P. C. J 218; 20 E. R. 30 ... 391
Arcangelo v. Thompson, (1811) 2 Camp. 620 at p. 623; 12 R. R. 758 ... 965
Archibald Orr Ewing and William Miller v. Govinchunder Sein, 1 Boul. 534; 3 Ind. Dec. (o. s.) 324 ... 826
Ariyaputhira v. Muthukumaraswamy, 15 Ind. Cas. 343; 37 M. 423; (1912) M. W. N. 854; 23 M. L. J. 339; 12 M. L. T. 425 ... 458
Arsadullah v. Museb Ali, 14 Ind. Cas. 349; 16 C. L. J. 539; 16 C. W. N. 831 ... 440
Arthur Average Association, Ex parte; Cory, In re, 10 Ch. 542; 44 L. J. Ch. 569; 32 L. T. 713; 23 W. R. 939 ... 616
Arunachella Chetti v. Sithayal Ammal, 19 M. 327 ... 521, 714
Arunachellam Chettiar v. Kadir Rowthan, 29 M. 556; 16 M. L. J. 486; 1 M. L. T. 315 ... 270
Arunachellam Chettiar v. Manicka Varaher Desikar, 3 Ind. Cas. 437; 6 M. L. T. 238 ... 987
Asghar Ali Khan v. Khurshed Ali Khan, 24 A. 27; 3 Bom. L. R. 576; 28 I. A. 227 (P. C.) ... 742
Ashgar Raza Khan v. Mahamad Mehdi Hossein Khan, 30 C. 556 (P. C.); 7 C. W. N. 482; 30 I A. 71 ... 18
Ashiq Husain v. Muhammad Jan, 22 A. 329; A. W. N. (1900) 116 ... 935
Ashraf Ali v. Jagan Nath, 6 A. 497; A. W. N. (1884) 186 ... 123
Ashraf-un-nissa v. Parbhu Narain, Select Case No. 140 ... 518
Ashutosh Banerjee v. Lukhimoni Debya, 19 C. 139 ... 940
Assanullah Bahadur v. Mohini Mohan Das, 26 C. 739 ... 216
Assistant Sessions Judge of North Arcot v. Ramaswami Asari, 22 Ind. Cas. 991; 1 L. W. 302; (1914) M. W. N. 324; 15 Cr. L. J. 207; 26 M. L. J. 235 ... 137
Atherstone v. Bostock, (1841) 2 M. & G. 511; 10 L. J. C. P. 115; 2 Scott. (N. S.) 637; 1 Drink. 96; 133 E. R. 850 ... 963
Athikarath Nanu Menon v. Erathanikat Komu Nayar, 21 M. 42 ... 49, 351
Attar Singh v Prem Singh, 12 P. R. 1906; 108 P. L. R. 1906 ... 688

A—concld.

Page.

Attorney-General v. Birmingham, Tame and District Drainage Board, (1912) A. C. 788; 82 L. J. Ch. 45; 107 L. T. 353; 76 J. P. 481 ... 411
Attorney-General v. Drummond, (1842) 1 Dr. & War. 353 at p. 368; 3 Id. 162; 1 Com. & L. 210; 2 Id. 98; 58 R. R. 292 ... 468
Attorney-General v. Earl of Londsdale, 7 Eq. 377; 38 L. J. Ch. 335; 20 L. T. 64; 17 W. R. 219 ... 807
Attorney-General v. Emerson, (1891) App. Cas. 649; 61 L. J. Q. B. 79; 65 L. T. 564; 55 J. P. 709 ... 439
Avancha Lakshminarasamma v. Avancha Lakshamma, 21 Ind. Cas. 394; 14 M. L. T. 325; (1913) M. W. N. 836; 25 M. L. J. 531 ... 220
Awadh Bihari Lal v. Ishri Prasad, 4 A. L. J. 662; A. W. N. (1907) 172 ... 120
Ayyadorai Pillai v. Solai Ammal, 24 M. 405 ... 739
Ayyavayyar v. Rahimansa, 14 M. 170 ... 2

B

Baboo Beer Pertab Sahee v. Maharajah Rajendeer Pertab Sahee, 12 M. I. A. 1 at p. 28 9 W. R. (P. C.) 15; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 114; 2 Sar. P. J. 398; 20 Eng. Rep. 241 ... 15
Babu Gunga Prasad v. Babu Inderjit Singh, 23 W. R. 390 (P. C.) ... 85
Babu Ram v. Ram Dayal, 12 A. 54'; A. W. N. (1890) 99 ... 741
Badaricharya v. Ramchandra, 19 B. 113 ... 48
Baha-ud-Din v. Moti Lal, 27 P. R 1878 ... 745
Bai Kashibai v. Shidappa Anapa, 21 Ind. Cas. 13; 37 B. 682; 15 Bom. L. R. 823 ... 59
Bai Kesserbai v. Hansraj Morarji, 30 B. 431; 10 C. W. N. 802; 4 C. L. J. 9; 8 Bom. L. R. 446; 3 A. L. J. 484; 1 M. L. T. 211; 16 M. L. J. 446 (P. C.); 33 I. A. 176 ... 765
Bajrang Singh v. Daulat Singh, 7 O. C. 134 at p. 135 ... 102
Bajrangi Singh v. Manokarnika Bakhsh Singh, 30 A. 1; 3 M. L. T. 1; 12 C. W. N 74; 9 Bom. L. R. 1348; 6 C. L. J. 766; 5 A. L. J. 1; 35 I. A. 1 (P. C.); 17 M. L. J. 605 ... 3, 758
Bakhshi Ram v. Liladhar, 21 Ind. Cas. 619; 11 A. L. J. 371; 35 A. 353 ... 85
Bakhtawar v. Bhagwana, 5 Ind Cas. 270; 32 A. 176; 7 A. L. J. 121. ... 773
Baksu Lakshman v Govinda Kanji, 4 B. 594 ... 718
Balabux v. Rukhmabai, 30 C. 725 (P. C.); 30 I. A. 130; 7 C. W. N. 642; 5 Bom. L. R. 469 ... 44, 601
Balaram v. Mangta Das, 34 C. 941; 6 C. L. J. 237; 11 C. W. N. 959 ... 375
Balasubramania Nadar v. Sivaguru Asari, 11 Ind. Cas. 629; 21 M. L. J. 562 ... 275, 938
Baldeo Dhanrup Marvadi v. Ramchandra Balwant Kulkarni, 19 B. 121 ... 509
Baldeo Singh v. Dharam Kunwar, 26 A. 234; A. W. N. (1904) 6 ... 957
Balkaran Rai v. Gobind Nath Tiwari, 12 A. 129 at p. 151 (F. B.); A. W. N. (1890) 39 ... 33
Balkishan v. Kishan Lal, 11 A. 148; A. W. N. (1889) 42; 13 Ind. Jur. 309 ... 410

B—contd.

Page.
Balkishen Das v. W. F. Legge, 22 A. 149; 27 I. A. 58; 4 C. W. N. 153; 2 Bom. L. R. 523; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 601 ... 2, 707, 718
Balwant Rao v. Puran Mal Chaube, 10 I. A 90; 6 A. 1; 13 C. L. R. 39; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 435 ... 846
Bank of England v. Vagliano, (1891) A. C. 107; 60 L. J. Q. B. 145; 64 L. T. 353; 39 W. R. 657; 55 J. P. 676 ... 918
Bank of Hindustan, China and Japan, In re, (1873) 9 Ch. App. 1 at p. 25; 43 L. J. Ch. 1; 29 L. T. 519; 22 W. R. 113 ... 819
Bansgopal Singh v. Rup Narain Singh, 19 Ind. Cas. 384 ... 186
Banu Singh v. Emperor, 33 C. 1353; 10 C. W. N. 962; 4 Cr. L. J. 145 ... 142
Banwari Lal v. Sheo Sankar Misser, 1 Ind. Cas. 670; 3 C. W. N. 8 5 ... 411
Baptis Missionary Society v. Ratnakaro Patro, 12 Ind. Cas. 777; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 5 7 ... 510
Barhamdeo Prasad v. Tarachand, 21 Ind. Cas. 961; 15 M. L. T. 62 at p. 65; (1914) M. W. N. 38; 12 A. L. J. 82; 18 C. W. N. 345; 19 C. L. J. 132; 16 Bom. L. R. 89; 26 M. L. J. 243 41 C. 654 ... 221
Barka Chandra Dey v. Janmejoy Dutt, 32 C. 948; 9 C. W. N. 860; 2 Cr. L. J. 550 ... 169
Barrs v. Lea, (1864) 12 W. R. 525; 33 L. J. Ch. 437; 10 L. T. 567; 3 N. R. 635 ... 382
Basant Singh v. Mahabir Pershad, 19 Ind. Cas. 340; 17 C. W. N. 669; (1913) M. W. N. 481; 11 A. L. J. 469; 15 Bom. L. R. 525; 16 O. C. 136; 14 M. L. T. 64; 25 M. L. J. 301; 40 I. A. 86; 17 C. L. J. 566; 35 A. 273 ... 958
Basarat Ali Khan v. Manirullah, 2 Ind. Cas. 416; 10 C. L. J. 49; 36 C. 745 ... 24
Batak Nath v. Munni Dei, 23 Ind. Cas. 644; (1914) M. W. N. 437; 18 C. W. N. 740; 12 A. L. J. 596; 19 C. L. J. 574; 16 Bom. L. R 360; 27 M. L. J. 1; 16 M. L. T. 1; 36 A. 284; 1 L W. 729 (P. C.) ... 760
Bateman v. Phillips, 15 East 270; 104 Eng. Rep. 847 ... 828
Bava Jeer v. Rangasami Chetti, 12 Ind. Cas. 618; 36 M. 402; 22 M. L. J. 52; 10 M. L. T. 433; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 480 ... 283
Bavah Meah Saib v. Khajee Meah Saib, 4 M. H. C. R. 218 ... 226
Baxter v. Chapman, (1873) 29 L. T. 642; 2 Asp. M. C. 170 ... 898
Beanland v. Bradley, (1854) 2 Sm. & G. 339; 65 Eng. Rep. 427 ... 41
Beatson v. Skene; 5 H & N. 838; 29 L. J. Ex. 430; 6 Jur. (N. S.) 780; 2 L. T. 378; 8 W. R. 544; 120 R. R. 839 ... 727
Beattie v. Johnstone, (1841) 1 Ph. 17 at p. 34; 10 L. J. Ch 300; 5 Jur. 671; 41 E. R. 537 ... 301
Beauchamp Brothers, In re, (1894) 1 Q. B. 1; 63 L. J. Q. B. 101; 9 R 35; 69 L. T. 646; 4 W. R. 110; 10 Marrell 277 ... 838
Bechi v. Ahsan-ullah Khan, 12 A. 461; A. W. N. (1890) 149 ... 820
Behari Lal, In the matter of the petition of, 24 A. 443; A. W. N. (1902) 111 ... 156
Behari Lal v. Madho Lal Ahir Gayawal, 19 C. 236; 19 I. A. 30 3, 759

B—contd.

Page.
Behari Lal v. Makhdum Bakhsh, 18 Ind. Cas. 744; 35 A. 194; 11 A. L. J. 221 ... 69
Belat Ali v. Abdur Rahim, 8 C. W. N. 143; 1 Cr. L. J. 70 ... 147
Beni Madho Singh v. Jagat Singh, 16 Ind. Cas. 337; 10 A. L. J. 33 ... 3
Beni Madho Singh v. Pran Singh, 14 Ind. Cas. 456; 15 C. L. J. 187 890, 987
Beni Madhub Kurmi v. Kumud Kumar Biswas, 30 C. 123; 9 C. W. N. 799 ... 1005
Beni Ram v. Kundan Lal, 21 A. 496; 26 I. A. 58; 1 Bom. L. R. 400; 3 C. W. N. 502; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 523 ... 477
Bennett v. Hamill, (1806) 2 Sch. & Lef. 566 at. p. 577 ... 374
Bentley v. Craven, (1853 52 Eng. Rep. 29; 18 Beav. 75; 104 R. R. 373 ... 479
Berridge v. Ward, (1860) 2 Fos. & Fin. 208; 10 C. B. (N. S.) 400; 30 L. J. C. P. 218; 7 Jur. (N. S.) 876; 142 E. R. 507; 128 R. R. 764 ... 214
Bhabhuti v. Kuar Sumer Singh, Select Decision No. 20 of 1892 ... 244
Bhag Singh v. Narain Singh, 11 Ind. Cas. 406; 87 P. W. R. 1911 ... 688
Bhagat Hira Nand v. Lal Khan, 169 P. R. 1889 ... 435
Bhagwan Das v. Karam Husain, 11 Ind. Cas. 145; 33 A. 708 at p. 719 8 A. L. J. 854 ... 219
Bhagwan Sahai v. Bhagwan Din, 12 A. 387 (P. C.); 17 I. A. 98; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 557 2, 706
Bhagwan Sahai v. Bhagwan Din, 9 A. 97; A. W. N. (1886) 303 ... 3
Bhagwanta v. Sukhi, 22 A. 433 (F. B.); A. W. N. (1899) 159 ... 739
Bhagwantappa v. Visvanath, 28 B. 378; 6 Bom. L. R. 342 ... 293
Bhaiaji Thakur v. Jharula Das, 24 Ind. Cas. 501; 18 C. W. N. 1020; 27 M. L. J. 100; 1 L. W. 549; 16 M. L. T. 210; (1914) M. W. N. 636; 12 A. L. J. 1176 (P. C.) ... 858
Bhala Nahana v. Prabhu Hari, 2 B. 67 ... 251
Bhaskaruni Kesavarayadu v. Bhaskaruni Chalapatirayudu, 31 M. 3 8; 18 M. L. J. 343; 8 Cr. L J. 205; 4 M. L. T. 301 ... 645
Bhau v. Raghunath, 30 B. 229; 7 Bom. L. R. 936 ... 787
Bhau Babaji v. Gopala, 11 B. 325 ... 598
Bhawani Kuwar v. Mathura Prasad Singh, 16 Ind. Cas. 210; 16 C. W. N. 985; 23 M. L. J. 311; 12 M. L. T. 352; (1912) M. W N. 944; 14 Bom. L. R. 1046; 16 C. L. J. 606; 40 C. 89 at p. 93 (P. C.) ... 3
Bhikuo Koer v. Chamela Koer, 2 C. W. N. 191 ... 180
Bhogilal v. Amritlal, 17 B. 173 ... 127
Bhola Nath Bhuttacharjee v. Kanti Chundra Bhuttacharjee, 25 C. 311; 1 C. W. N. 676 ... 755
Bhujendro Bushan Chatterjee v. Trigunanath Mookerjee, 8 C. 761 ... 235
Bhup Kunwar, In the matter of the petition of, 26 A. 249; A. W. N. (1904) 15; 1 Cr. L. J. 73 ... 631
Bhuray v. Lala Vishwanath, 2 N. L. R. 170 ... 812
Bhyrub Nath Tye v. Kally Chunder Chowdhry, 16 W. R. 112 ... 281
Bidder v. Bridges, (1884) 26 Ch. D. 1 at p. 3; 50 L. T. 287; 32 W. R. 445 ... 278

B—contd.

Page.
Bija v. Bishan Singh, 45 P. R. 1897 ... 436
Bijoy Gopal Mukerjee v. Girindra Nath Mukerjee, 23 Ind. Cas. 162; 18 C. W. N. 673; 12 A. L. J. 711; (1914) M. W. N. 430; 19 C. L. J. 620; 16 Bom. L. R. 425; 16 M. L. T. 68; 27 M. L. J. 123; 1 L. W. 533; 41 C. 793 (P. C.) ... 758
Bijoy Gopal Mukerji v. Srimati Krishna Mahishi Debi, 34 C. 329; 9 Bom. L. R. 602; 11 C. W. N. 424; 5 C. L. J. 334; 2 M. L. T. 133; 17 M. L. J. 154; 4 A. L. J. 329; 34 I. A. 87 (P. C.) ... 759
Binad Lal Pakrashi v. Kalu Pramanik, 20 C. 708 ... 980
Bindesri Naik v. Ganga Saran Sahu, 20 A. 171 (P. C.); 25 I. A. 9; 2 C. W. N. 129; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 273 ... 791
Bipra Das Giri v. Niradamoni Bewa, 12 C. W. N. 577; 7 Cr. L. J. 372 ... 132
Bipul Chandra v. Hazi Nasib Ali, 1 Ind. Cas. 655; 13 C. W. N. 638 ... 617
Birch v. Joy, (1851) 3 H. L. Cas. 565 at pp. 590, 591; 10 Eng. Rep. 222 at p. 233; 88 R. R. 212 at p. 224 ... 878
Bishen Dass v. Ram Dhan, 7 Ind. Cas. 483; 63 P. R. 1910; 100 P. W. R. 1910; 112 P. L. R. 1909 ... 513
Bisheswar Dayal v. Harbans Sahay, 6 C. L. J. 659; 3 M. L. T. 38 ... 900
Bissessuri Dabea v. Baroda Kanta Roy Chowdry, 10 C. 1076 ... 348
Bithal Das v. Nand Kishore, 23 A. 106 at p. 110; A. W. N. (1901) 4 ... 220
Blackburn v. Caine, 52 Eng. Rep. 1245; 22 Beav. 614; 111 R. R. 506 ... 704
Blackburne v. Somer, (1879) 5 Ir. 1 ... 215
Blain, Ex parte; Sawers, In re, 12 Ch. D. 522; 41 L. T. 46; 28 W.R. 334 ... 288
Blandy Jenkins v. Earl of Dunroven, (1899) 2 Ch. 121; 68 L. J. Ch. 589; 81 L. T. 209 ... 439
Boddu Sanyasiraju v. Kotra Ramamurthi, 21 Ind. Cas. 543; (1913) M. W. N. 874 ... 429
Bodhraj Shah v. Sirdar Amrikh Singh, 137 P. R. 1890 ... 745
Bodger v. Bodger, 11 W. R. 160 ... 988
Boissiere and Co. v. Brockner and Co., 6 T. L. R. 85 266, 291
Bommidi Bayyan Naidu v. Bommidi Suryanarayana, 17 Ind. Cas 445; 37 M. 70; 12 M. L. T. 500; 23 M. L. J. 543; (1913) M. W. N. 1 ... 876
Borries v. Imperial Ottoman Bank, 9 C. P. 38; 43 L. J. C. P. 3; 29 L. T. 689; 22 W. R. 92 ... 830
Bottomley, Ex parte, (1909) 2 K. B. 14; 78 L. J. K. B. 547; 100 L. T. 782; 73 J. P. 246; 25 T. L. R. 271 ... 387
Bowen v. Evans, (1844) 1 Jo. & Lat. 178 at p. 259; 6 Ir. Eq R. 569; 68 R. R. 242 ... 374
Bowen v. Evans, (1848) 2 H. L. C. 257; 9 E. R. 1090; 81 R. R. 136 ... 374
Braja Lal Mitra v. Upendra Krishna Mitra, 6 C. L. J. 214 ... 519
Brajeshware Peshakar v. Budhanuddi, 6 C. 268 at p. 277; 7 C. L. R. 6 ... 900
Brignall v. Whitehead, (1861) 30 Beav. 229; 8 Jur. (N. S.) 183; 5 L. T. 301; 10 W. R. 69; 132 R. R. 250; 54 Eng. Rep. 876 ... 278
Brij Indar Bahadur Singh v. Ranee Janki Koer, 5 I. A. 1; 1 C. L. R. 318 ... 552

B—concld.

Page.
Brij Lal v. Inda Kunwar, 23 Ind. Cas. 715; 36 A. 187 (P. C.); 26 M. L. J. 443; 18 C. W. N. 649; 12 A. L. J. 495; 19 C. L. J. 469; (1914) M. W. N. 405; 15 M. L. T. 395; 16 Bom. L. R. 352; 1 L. W. 794 67, 380
Brijratan v. Jaynarain, 7 Ind. Cas. 876; 37 C. 649 at p. 659 ... 947
Brindabun Chunder Sircar v. Brindabun Chunder Dey, 1 I. A. 178; 13 B. L. R. 408; 21 W. R. 324 (P. C.) ... 201
Bristow v. Cormican, (1878) 3 App. Cas. 641 at p. 668 ... 439
Bristow v. Whitmore, 9 H. L. C. 391; 31 L. J. Ch. 467; 8 Jur. (N. S.) 291; 4 L. T. 622; 9 W. R. 621; 131 R. R. 242; 11 Eng. Rep. 781 ... 830
British India Steam Navigation Co. v. Secretary of State, 8 Ind. Cas. 107; 38 C. 230; 15 C. W. N. 87; 12 C. L. J. 505 ... 958
British Linen Co. v. Alexander, (1853), 15 D. 277 ... 921
Broder v. Sailard, 2 Ch. D. 692; 45 L. J. Ch. 414; 24 W. R. 1011 ... 803
Bromley v. Holland, (1802) 7 Ves. (Jr.) 3 at pp. 21, 22; 32 Eng. Rep. 2 at p. 9; 6 R. R. 58 at p. 65 ... 235
Brooks v. Purton, (1841) 4 Beav. 494; 11 L. J. Ch. 73; 49 E. R. 430 ... 278
Brown v. Peto, (1900) 2 Q. B. 653; 69 L. J. Q. B. 869; 83 L. T. 303; 49 W. R. 324; 16 T. L. R. 561 ... 382
Browne v. Dawson, (1840) 12 A. & E. 624; 4 P. & D. 355; 10 L. J. Q. B. 7; 113 E. R. 950 ... 171
Bryant, Powis and Bryant, Ld. v. La Banque du Peuple, (1893) A. C. 170; 1 R. 336; 62 L. J. P. C. 68; 68 L. T. 546; 41 W. R. 600 ... 255
Buchanen v. Greenway, 50 Eng. Rep. 1097; 12 Beav. 355; 85 R. R. 187 ... 704
Budh Singh v. Niradbaran Roy, 2 C. L. J. 431 at p. 437 ... 277
Budhai Sheik v. Emperor, 33 C. 292; 10 C. W. N. 32; 3 Cr. L. J. 126 ... 637
Bungsee Singh v. Soodist Lall, 7 C. 739; 10 C. L. R. 263 ... 37
Bunyad Ali v. Faiz Muhammad, 173 P. R. 1889 ... 494
Burathagunta Pentadee v. Thurlapatti Rajamma, 8 Ind. Cas. 868; (1911) 1 M. W. N. 105; 9 M. L. T. 204 ... 58
Burgess v. Clark, (1851) 3 Ind. 250 ... 965
Button v. Thompson, 4 C. P. 330; 38 L. J. C. P. 225; 20 L. T. 568; 17 W. R. 1069 ... 271

C

Caledonian Railway Co. v. Walker's Trustees, (1882) 7 A. C. 259; 46 L. T. 826; 30 W. R. 569; 46 J. P. 676 ... 209
Campbell, Ex parte, Catheart, In re, 5 Ch. 703; 23 L. T. 289; 18 W. R. 1056 ... 727
Campbell v. Holyland, 7 Ch. D. 166; 47 L. J. Ch. 145; 38 L. T. 128; 26 W. R. 109 ... 704
Campbell v. Moxhay, 18 Jur. 641 ... 704
Canning's Trial, (1754) 19 How. St. Trial 370 ... 966
Cape Breton Co., In re, (1885) 29 Ch. D. 795; 54 L. J. Ch. 822; 53 L. T. 181 ... 478

C—contd.

Page.
Carrick v. Hancock, 12 T. L. R. 59 ... 289
Cavendish Bentinck v. Fenn, (1887) 12 App. Cas. 652; 57 L. J. Ch. 552; 57 L. T. 773; 36 W. R. 641 ... 478
Chajmal Das v. Brij Bhukan Lal, 17 A. 511; 22 I. A. 199 ... 124
Chalavadi Katiah v. Paloori Alimelammah, 31 M. 71; 18 M. L. J. 46; 3 M. L. T. 328 ... 247
Challa Subbiah Sastri v. Palury Pattabhiramayya, 31 M. 446 .. 758
Chandarsang Verabhai v. Khimabhai Raghabai, 22 B. 718 ... 487
Chandi Charan Laha v. Manoranjan Chattopadhya, 12 Ind. Cas. 275; 17 C. L. J. 416 ... 49
Chandra Kunwar v. Chaudhri Narpat Singh, 29 A. 184 (P. C.); 4 A. L. J. 102; 11 C. W. N. 321; 5 C. L. J. 115; 17 M. L. J. 103; 2 M. L. T. 109; 9 Bom. L. R. 267 101, 504
Chapman v. Bluck, 4 Bing. (N. C.) 187; 5 Scoth 513; 1 Arn. 15; 7 L. J. C. P. 100; 2 Jur. 206; 132 E. R. 760 ... 468
Charu Chandra Dutt v. Sarat Chandra Singh, 8 Ind. Cas. 87; 12 C. L. J. 537 ... 958
Chaudhri Abdul Majid v. Jawahir Lal, 23 Ind. Cas. 649; 36 A. 350; 12 A. L. J. 624; 16 Bom. L. R. 395; 16 M. L. T. 44; 18 C. W. N. 963; 19 C. L. J. 626; 27 M. L. J. 17; (1914) M. W. N. 485; 1 L. W. 483 (P. C.) ... 756
Chaudhri Mohammad Mehdi Hasan Khan v. Sri Mandir Das, 17 Ind. Cas. 396; 17 C. W. N. 49; 12 M. L. T. 392; 15 O. C. 278; (1912) M. W. N. 1052; 34 A. 511; 14 Bom. L. R. 1073; 10 A. L. J. 373; 16 C. L. J. 629; 23 M. L. J. 741; 39 I. A. 68 (P. C.) ... 900
Chedambara Chetty v. Banja Krishna Muthu Vira Puchanja Naikar, 1 I. A. 241; 13 B. L. R. 509; 22 W. R. 148 ... 958
Chhagan Lal v. Bapubhai, 5 B. 68 ... 941
Chidambara Rao v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 26 M. 66 ... 189
Chimnaji v. Dinkar, 11 B. 320 ... 598
Chinnasami Mudaliar v. Ambalavana Mudaliar, 29 M. 48 234, 527
Chinnasami Mudaly v. Arumuga Goundan, 27 M. 432 ... 58
Chinnery v. Evans, (1864) 11 H. L. C. 115; 4 N. R. 520; 10 Jur. (N. S.) 855; 11 L. T. 68; 13 W. R. 20; 145 R. R. 79; 11 E. R. 1275 . 400
Chintaman Nilkant v. Gangabhai, 27 B. 284; 5 Bom. L. R. 90 ... 487
Chintaman Rao Natu v. Vithabai, 11 B. 588 ... 355
Chiranji Mal v. Nathia, 4 A. L. J. 473; A. W. N. (1907) 195 ... 923
Chockalingam Pillai v. Emperor, 13 Ind. Cas. 819; (1912) M. W. N. 119; 11 M. L. T. 162; 13 Cr. L. J. 131 ... 693
Chooramoni Dey v. Howrah Mills Company, 11 C. 696 ... 979
Chowdhri Murtaza Hussein v. Bechunnissa, 3 I. A. 209 at p. 215; 26 W. R. 10 ... 339
Chowdhry Heerasutoollah v. Brojo Soondur Roy, 18 W. R. 77 ... 378
Chowdhury Ram Prosad Singh v. Chowdhury Pawan Singh, 21 Ind. Cas. 354; 18 C. L. J. 97 ... 184

C—concld.

Page.
Chunder Kant Mookerjee v. Ramcoomar Koondoo, 22 W. R. 138; 13 B. L. R. 530 ... 298
Chunder Kant Mukerjee v. Hem Lal Mondal, 1 C. W. N. 463 ... 892
Chuni Lal v. Ram Kishen Sahu, 15 C. 460 ... 486
Chuni Lal Bose v. Usmond Beeby, 30 C. 1044 ... 22
Chunilal v. Mangaldas, 16 B. 592 ... 976
Chunni v. Lala Ram, 16 A. 5; A. W. N. (1893) 141 ... 25
Churaman v. Balli, 9 A. 591; A. W. N. (1887) 121 ... 128
Clifford v. Hoare, (1874) 9 C. P. 362; 43 L. J. C. P. 225; 30 L. T. 465; 22 W. R. 828 ... 214
Clough v. London and North Western Railway Company, 7 Ex. 26; 41 L. J. Ex. 17; 25 L. T. 708; 20 W. R. 189 ... 352
Cocker v. Bevis, 22 Eng. Rep. 695; 1 Ch. Cas. 61 ... 704
Collector of Madura v. Moottoo Ramalinga Sathupathy, 12 M. I. A. 397; 1 B. L. R. 1 (P. C.); 10 W. R. (P. C.) 17; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 135; 2 Sar P. C. J. 361; 20 Eng. Rep. 389 ... 786
Collector of Masulipatam v. Cavalry Vencata Narrainapah, 8 M. I. A. 529; 2 W. R. 61 (P. C.; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 476; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 820; 19 E. R. 631 ... 759
Collinson v. Jeffery, (1896) 2 Ch. 644; 65 L. J. Ch. 375; 74 L. T. 78; 44 W. R. 322 ... 704
Constable v. Nicholson, (1863) 14 C. B. (N. S.) 230; 32 L. J. C. P. 240; 11 W. R. 698; 143 E. R. 434; 135 R. R. 672 ... 214
Cooke v. Charles A. Vogeler Co., (1901) A. C. 102; 70 L. J. Q. B. 181; 84 L. T. 10; 17 T. L. R. 153; 8 Manson 113 ... 288
Coombe v. Stewart, 51 Eng. Rep. 44; 13 Beav. 111 ... 704
Coopoosami Chetty M. v. A. T. Duraisawmy Chetty, 17 Ind. Cas. 527; (1912) M. W. N. 1220 ... 461
Coppinger v. Norton, (1902) 2 Ir. Rep. 241; 35 I. L. T. R. 250; 6 Irish Law Rep. 701 ... 674
Corea v. Appuhamy, (1912) A. C. 230; 81 L. J. P. C. 151; 105 L T. 836 ... 923
Cornwall v. Henson, (1899) 2 Ch. D. 710; 68 L. J. Ch. 749; 48 W. R. 42; 81 L. T. 113; 15 T. L. R. 544 ... 227
Corporation of Preston v. Fullwood Local Board, (1886) 2 T. L. R. 60 ... 957
Corporation of the Town of Calcutta v. Anderson, 10 C. 445 ... 69
Cotterell v. Jones, (1851) 11 C. B. 713; 138 E. R. 655; 87 R. R. 754; 21 L. J. C. P. 2; 16 Jur. 88 298
Cox v. Hakes, 15 A. C. 506 at pp. 517, 523, 528; 60 L. J. Q, B. 89; 63 L. T. 392; 39 W. R. 145; 17 Cox C. C. 158; 54 J. P. 820 ... 288
Cropper v. Smith, (1884) 26 Ch. D. 710; 53 L. J. Ch. 891; 51 L. T. 733; 33 W. R. 60 ... 339
Crowshay v. Collins, 15 Ves. 228; 10 R. R. 61; 33 Ehg. Rep. 736 ... 839
Cuppusami Chetty v. A. T. Doraisawmy Chetty, 3 Ind. Cas. 955; 33 M. 67; 6 M. L. T. 290; 19 M. L. J. 714 ... 461

D

Page.

Daddapaneni Narayanappa, In re, 8 Ind. Cas. 268; (1910) M. W. N. 668; 9 M. L. T. 91 ... 748
Dagdu v. Pancham Singh Gangaram, 17 B. 375... 354
Dallu Patel v. Madho Patel, 3 C. P. L. R. 158 ... 699
Dalo v. Mohlu, 3 Ind. Cas. 593; 87 P. R. 1909; 131 P. L. R. 1909; 105 P. W. R. 1909 513, 688
Dalton v. Fitzgerald, (1897) 2 Ch. 86; 66 L. J. Ch. 604; 76 L. T. 700; 45 W. R. 685 ... 456
Damodar v. Sarat Chandra, 3 Ind. Cas. 468; 13 C. W. N. 846 ... 413
Dantuluri Rayapparaz v. Malapudi Rayudu, 2 M. H. C. R. 360 ... 787
Darlington Wagon Co. Ltd. v. Harding, (1891) 1 Q. B. 245 at p. 247; 60 L. J. Q. B. 110; 64 L. T. 409; 39 W. R. 67 ... 288
Daswandi v. Mahant Krishen Dev, 9 Ind. Cas. 841; 34 P. R. 1911; 109 P. L. R. 1911; 119 P. W. R. 1911 ... 513
Datla Venkatasubba Raju Garu v. Gattem Venkatarayudu, 26 Ind. Cas. 61; 16 M. L. T. 508; 27 M. L. J. 580 ... 872
Datto Dudheshvar v. Vithu, 20 B. 408 (F. B.) ... 605
Dave Harishankar v. The Town Municipality of Umreth, 9 B. 27 ... 651
Davis v. Duke of Marlborough, 36 Eng. Rep. 555 at p. 569; 2 Swans. 108; 2 Wils. Ch. 130; 35 R. R. 29 ... 987
Davlatram Shriram v. Bulakidas Khemchand, 6 B. H. C. R. O. C. J. 24 at. p. 29 ... 898
Day, Ex parte, Day In re, 1 Ch. D. 699; 45 L. J. Bk 53 ... 616
Deba v. Rohtagi Mal, 28 A. 479; 3 A. L. J. 334; A. W. N. (1906) 95 ... 923
Debendra Nath v. Syama Prosunna, 11 C. W. N. 1124 ... 964
Debi Bakhsh Singh v. Chandrabhan Singh, 7 Ind. Cas. 724; 14 C. W. N. 1010; 12 C. L. J. 303; 8 M. L. T 273; 7 A. L. J. 1122; 12 Bom. L. R. 1015; 20 M. L. J. 917; 32 A. 599; 13 O. C. 316; 37 I. A. 168 ... 552
Debi Mangal Prasad Singh v. Mahadeo Prasad Singh, 14 Ind. Cas. 1000; 39 I. A. 121; 9 A. L. J. 263; 11 M. L. T. 217; 16 C. W. N. 409; (1912) M. W. N. 324; 14 Bom. L. R. 220; 15 C. L. J. 344; 22 M. L. J. 462; 34 A. 234 (P. C.) ... 786
Debi Pershad Singh v. Jaynath Singh, 24 C. 865; 24 I. A. 60; 1 C. W. N. 401 ... 975
Debi Prosad Chowdhry v. Golap Bhagat, 19 Ind. Cas. 273; 40 C. 721 at 746; 17 C. W. N. 701; 17 C. L. J. 499 ... 760
De-Feucheres v. Dawes, (1849) 11 Beav. 46; 50 E. R. 733 ... 278
Deokali Koer v. Kedar Nath, 15 Ind. Cas. 427; 16 C. W. N. 838; 39 C. 704 ... 234
Deoki Nandan Singh v. Bansi Singh, 10 Ind. Cas. 371; 16 C. W. N. 124; 14 C. L. J. 35 ... 867
Deputy Commissioner of Fyzabad, for Naneman Estate v. Gur Dayal Singh, 17 Ind. Cas. 464; 15 O. C. 311 ... 243
Deputy Commissioner of Pertab Garh, Manager of Baragaon Estate v. Sheoambar, 1 O. C. 28 ... 242
Deraje Malinga Naika v. Marati Kaveri, 30 M. 400; 2 M. L. T. 344 ... 527

D—concld.

Page.

Devarakonda Narasamma v. Devarakonda Kannaya, 4 M. 134; 5 Ind. Jur. 634 ... 957
Devarayan Chetty v. Muthuraman Chetty, 18 Ind. Cas. 515; 24 M. L. J. 310; (1913) M. W. N. 200; 37 M. 393 ... 780
Devi Ditta Singh v. Dropti, 2 Ind. Cas. 940; 56 P. R. 1909; 129 P. L. R. 1909; 96 P. W. R. 1909 513, 688
Devi Ditta Singh v. Saudagar Singh, 65 P. R. 1900; P. L. R. 1900 p. 322 ... 531
Devidas Jagajivan v. Pirjada Begum, 8 B. 377... 47
Dewan of Travancore v. Vakjiraji, 4 Travancore Law Reports 56 ... 12
Dhala Ghose v. Benode Lal Roy Chowdhury, 5 Ind. Cas. 59; 14 C. W. N. 122 ... 741
Dhani Ram v. Bhagirath, 22 C. 692 at p. 712 ... 339
Dharamdas v. Sambhudas Hafasji, 19 B. 250 ... 745
Dhondhai Singh v. Follet, 31 C. 48; 7 C. W. N. 825; 1 Cr. L. J. 49 (F. B.) ... 156
Dhurm Das Pandey v. Musammat Shama Soondri Debiah, 3 M. I. A. 229; 6 W. R. (P. C.) 43; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 147; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 271; 18 Eng. Rep. 484. ... 35
Dhurmo Narain v. Sreemutty Dassee, 18 W. R. 442 ... 299
Digambar Das v. Harendra Narain Panday, 5 Ind. Cas. 165; 14 C. W. N. 617 at p. 624; 11 C. L. J. 226 ... 186
Dixon, Ex parte, Henley, In re, 4 Ch. D. 133; 46 L. J. Bk. 20; 35 L. T. 644; 25 W. R. 105 ... 830
Doe d. Cornwall v. Mathews, (1851) 11 C. B. 675; 87 R. R. 749; 138 E. R. 640 ... 964
Doe d. King v. Grafton, (1852) 18 Q. B. 496; 88 R. R. 678; 21 L. J. Q. B. 276; 16 Jur. 833; 19 L. T. (o. s.) 108; 118 E. R. 188 ... 964
Doe d. Pearson v. Ries 8 Bing 178; 131 E. R. 369; 1 M. & Scoth 259; 1 L. J. C. P. 73 ... 468
Dorab Ally Khan v. Abdool Azeez, 5 I. A. 116; 2 C. L. R. 529; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 519; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 818; 2 Ind. Jur. 426; 3 C. 806 (P. C.) ... 59
Doraisami Sirumadan v. Nondisami Sulevan, 21 Ind. Cas. 410; 25 M. L. J. 405; 14 M. L. T. 401 ... 383
Dost Muhammad Khan v. Ashraf Ali, A. W. N. (1905) 8 ... 344
Drigbijae Singh v. Court of Wards, Ramnagar Estate, District Gonda and Rup Ram, 5 O. C. 266 ... 518
Drummond v. Attorney-General, 2 H. L. C. 837 at p. 861; 14 Jur. 137; 9 E. R. 1312; 81 R. R. 433 ... 458
Duncan Brothers & Co. v. Jeetmull Greedharee Lall, 19 C. 372 (F. B.) ... 210
Durga Singh v. Naurang Singh, 17 A. 282; A. W. N. (1895) 69 ... 521
Durgi Nikarini v. Gobardhan Bose, 24 Ind. Cas. 183; 20 C. L. J. 448 ... 964
Duri v. Mohanlal, 4 N. P. L. R. 184 ... 820
Dutton v. Marsh, 6 Q. B. 361; 40 L. J. Q. B. 175; 14 L. T. 470; 19 W. R. 754 ... 828
Dwarka Nath Misser v. Barinda Nath Misser, 22 C. 425 ... 74

E

Page.

E. v. E. (1903) P. 88; 72 L. J. P. 44; 88 L. T. 570 947
Eardley v. Knight, 41 Ch. D. 537; 58 L. J. Ch. 622; 60 L. T. 780; 37 W. R. 704 ... 185
Early v. Preston, (1855) 1 Patt. &. H. 228 ... 966
Eastern Morgage and Agency Co., Ld. v. Rakea Khatun, 17 Ind. Cas. 202; 16 C. W. N. 997 ... 987
Economic Life Assurance Society v. Usborne, (1902) A. C. 147; 71 L. J. P. C. 34; 85 L. T. 587 ... 201
Edwards v. Cunliffe, 56 Eng. Rep. 106; 1 Madd. 287 ... 704
Emperor v. Abani Bhushan Chuckerbutty, 8 Ind. Cas. 721; 37 C. 845; 11 Cr. L. J. 702 ... 658
——— v. Asmal Hasan, 4 Bom. L. R. 718 ... 994
——— v. Babaji, 9 Bom. L. R. 366; 5 Cr. L. J. 353 ... 140
——— v. Bala, 25 B. 675; 3 Bom. L. R. 271 ... 658
——— v. Balwant, 27 A. 293; A. W. N. (1904) 231; 1 Cr. L. J. 912; 1 A. L. J. 601 ... 647
——— v. Budhan, 29 A. 24; 3 A. L. J. 615; A. W. N. 1906 258; 4 Cr. L. J. 142 ... 658
——— v. Dhansingh, 3 N. L. R. 53; 5 Cr. L. J. 435 ... 317
——— v. Duming, 5 Bom. L. R. 1034 ... 996
——— v. Hira Singh, 11 P. R. 1907 Cr; 34 P. W. R. 1907 Cr; 6 Cr. L. J. 336; 47 P. L. R. 1908 ... 994
——— v. Jasha Bewa, 11 C. W. N. 904; 6 Cr. L. J. 154 ... 332
——— v. Kadu, 31 P. R. 1904 Cr.; 176 P. L. R. 1905; 1 Cr. L. J. 1082 ... 659
——— v. Kothia, 30 B. 611; 4 Cr. L. J. 346; 8 Bom. L. R. 740 ... 653
——— v. Mathura Prasad, 29 C. 491 ... 651
——— v. Muhammad Hadi, 26 A. 177; 1 Cr. L. J. 357 ... 152
——— v. Narayan Raghunath Patki, 9 Bom. L. R. 789; 32 B. 111; 6 Cr. L. J. 164; 2 M. L T. 414 (F. B.) ... 140
——— v. Nilakanta, 14 Ind. Cas. 849; (1912) M. W. N. 207; 13 Cr. L. J. 305; 22 M. L. J. 490; 35 M. 247; 11 M. L. T. 1 Supp. ... 140
——— v. Ramzan, 28 P. R. 1905 Cr.; 118 P. L. R. 1905; 2 Cr. L. J. 4 0 ... 305
——— v. Satish Chandra Roy, 34 C. 749; 11 C. W. N. 971; 6 Cr. L. J. 227; 6 C. L. J. 751 ... 134
——— v. Tha Byaw, 4 L. B. R. 315; 9 Cr. L. J. 15 (F. B.) ... 637
Empress v. Jahangira, A. W. N. (1886), 16 ... 627
——— v. Kure, A. W. N. (1886), 65 ... 627
——— v Naba Kumar Patnaik, 1 C. W. N. 146 ... 627
——— v. Shibba, A. W. N. (1886), 15 ... 627
Essex v. Daniell, L. R. 10 C. P. 538; 38 L. T. 476 ... 227
Estates Investment Co., Ashley's case, In re, 9 Eq. 263; 39 L. J. Ch. 354; 22 L. T. 83; 18 W. R. 395 ... 352
Eyre v. Hanson, 48 Eng. Rep. 1266; 2 Beav. 478; 9 L. J., Ch. 302; 50 R. R. 253 ... 704

F

Page

Faiyaz Hussain Khan v. Prag Narain, 29 A. 339; 11 C. W. N. 561; 4 A. L J. 344; 5 C. L. J. 563; 17 M. L. J. 263; 9 Bom. L. R. 656; 2 M. L. T. 191; 10 O. C. 314; 34 I. A. 102 (P. C.) 375, 879
Faizar Rahman v. Maimuna Khatun, 20 Ind. Cas. 510; 18 C. L. J. 111; 17 C. W. N. 1233 ... 184
Fakir Chand v. Ram Chand, 13 Ind. Cas. 709; 62 P. W. R. 1912; 128 P. W. R. 1912 ... 513
Fanindra Nath Banerjee v. Emperor, 1 Ind. Cas. 970; 5 M. L. T. 97; 13 C. W. N. 197; 9 C. L. J. 199; 9 Cr. L. J. 452; 36 C. 281 ... 140
Farewell v. Dickenson, (1827) 6 B. & C. 251; 9 D. & R. 345; 5 L. J. (o. s.) K. B. 154; 108 E. R 446 ... 382
Fateh Bakhsh v. Lehna, 4 Ind. Cas. 851; 97 P. R. 1909; 166 P. W. R. 1909; 10 P. L. R. 1910 405
Fateh Singh v. Emperor, 20 Ind. Cas. 140; 14 Cr. L. J. 380; 41 C. 43 ... 159
Felaram Roy v. Bagalanand Banerjee, 6 Ind. Cas. 207; 14 C. W. N. 895 179, 479
Fink v. Buldeo Dass, 26 C. 715; 3 C. W. N 524 ... 741
Fletcher v. Braddyll, (1821) 3 Stark. 64; 23 R. R. 758 ... 965
Folkestone Corporation v. Brockman, (1914) A. C. 338 at p. 349; 83 L. J. K. B. 745 ... 729
Ford v. Wastell, 67 Eng. Rep. 2251; 2 Ph. 591; 17 L. J. Ch. 368; 11Jur. 404 ... 704
Fox v. Hanbury, 2 Cowper, 445 at p. 448; 98 Eng. Rep. 1179 ... 839
Framji Bhicaji v. Mohansingh Dhansingh, 18 B. 263 ... 727
Fraser v. Kershaw, 2 Kay. & J. 496 at p. 499; 25 L. J. Ch. 445; 2 Jur. (N. S.) 880; 4 W. R. 431; 69 Eng. Rep. 878; 110 R. R. 340 ... 839

G

Gajeshri Prasad v. Dharma Dat, A. W. N. (1888) 152 ... 815
Gajpat Rai v. Chimman Rai, 16 A. 189; A. W. N. (1894 19 ... 940
Game v. Kye, 19 Ind. Cas. 209; 7 L. B. R. 6; 6 Bur. L. T. 18 ... 961
Ganapathi Naika v. Mekki Keyi, 1 Ind. Cas. 204; 5 M. L. T. 261 ... 127
Ganesa Ratnamaiyar v. Gopala Ratnamaiyar, 2 M. 270 (P. C); 7 I. A. 173; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 149; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 740; 4 Ind. Jur. 360 ... 889
Ganeshdas v. Shankar, 13 Ind. Cas. 909; 8 N. L. R. 22 ... 708
Ganeshi Lal v. Nand Kishore, 15 Ind. Cas. 319; 13 Cr. L. J. 479; 10 A. L. J. 45; 34 A. 487 ... 137
Ganga Das v. Basant Das, 2 O. C. 319 ... 622
Ganga Din v. Khushali, 7 A. 702; A. W. N. (1888) 179 ... 206
Gangabai v. Baswant, 5 Ind. Cas. 866; 34 B. 175; 12 Bom. L. R. 143 ... 716
Gangamma v. Bommakka, 5 Ind. Cas. 437; 33 M. 253; 7 M. L. T. 231 ... 272
Gangisetti Ramaya v. Kallika Peraya, 16 Ind. Cas. 411; (1912) M. W. N. 559 ... 378
Ganoda Kanta Roy v. Probhabati Dasi, 20 C. 881 ... 500

G—contd.

Page.
Ganoo v. Sidheshwar, 26 B. 360; 4 Bom. L. R. 58 ... 339
Ganpat Pandurang v. Adarji Dadhabhai, 3 B. 312 ... 399
Ganpat Rai v. Kesho Ram, 1 Ind. Cas. 691; 34 P. R. 1909; 181 P. L. R. 1908; 169 P. W. R. 1908 ... 688
Gardner v. Hodgson's Kingston Brewery Co. Ltd., (1901) 2 Ch. 198; 70 L. J. Ch. 504; 84 L. T. 373; 17 T. L. R. 380; 49 W. R. 421 ... 214
Garud v. Hira Ram, 14 C. P. L. R. 40 ... 820
Gavrishankar Parabhuram v. Atmaram Rajaram, 18 B. 611 ... 515
Gaya Din v. Kashi Gir, 19 A. 163; 4 A. L. J. 57; A. W. N. (1907) 7 ... 716
Geldard v. Hornby, 66 Eng. Rep. 1026; 1 Hare 251; 6 Jur. 78; 58 R. R. 60 ... 704
George v. Clagett; 7 T. R. 359; 2 Esp. 557; Peake's Add. Cas. 131; 4 R. R. 462; 101 Eng. Rep. 1019 ... 830
George Langridge v. Grace Atkins, 17 Ind. Cas. 792; 13 Cr. L. J. 856; 10 A. L. J. 43'; 35 A. 29 ... 137
Ghana Kanta Mohanta v. Gereli, 2 Ind. Cas. 550; 32 C. 479; 13 C. W. N. 150 ... 527
Ghanashyam Misser v. Gobinda Moni Dasi, 7 C. W. N. 452 ... 989
Ghanshiam Lalji v. Ram Narain, 29 A. 33 (P. C.); 11 C. W. N. 105; 17 M. L. J. 35; 4 A. L J. 29; 1 M. L. T. 427; 9 Bom. L. R. 1; 5 C. L. J. 7; 34 I. A. 6 ... 736
Gheyt Narain Singh v. Bunwaree Singh, 23 W. R. 395 ... 817
Ghulam Mustafa v. Emperor, 10 Ind. Cas. 833; 68 P. L R. 1911; 45 P. W. R. 1911 Cr; 12 Cr. L. 7. J. 260 ... 627
Ghulam Nabi Khan v. Niaz-un-nissa, 9 Ind. Cas. 140; 8 A. L. J. 119; 33 A. 337 ... 2, 707
Ghulam Nasiruddin v. Herdo Prasad, 14 Ind. Cas. 343; 34 A. 436; 9 A. L. J. 540 ... 270
Ghurphekni v. Purmeshar Dayal Dubey, 5 C. L. J. 653 ... 900
Gibson v. Lupton, (1832) 9 Beng. 297; 2 M. & Sc. 371; 2 L. J. C. P. 4; 131 E. R. 626 ... 918
Gillet v. Johnson, 30 Conn. 180 ... 805
Girdhar Lal v. Bhola Nath, 10 A. 611; A. W. N. (1888) 238 ... 186
Girijanund Datta Jha v. Sailajanunda Jha, 23 C. 645 ... 940
Gnanasambanda Pandara Sannadhi v. Velu Pandaram, 23 M. 271; 2 Bom. L. R. 597; 4 C. W. N. 329; 27 I. A. 69; 10 M. L. J. 29 ... 858
Gobind Koeri v. Emperor, 29 C. 385; 6 C. W. N. 468 ... 143
Gobind Mohan Doss v. Kunja Behary Doss, 4 Ind. Cas. 364; 10 C. L. J. 407; 14 C. W. N. 147 ... 958
Gobinda Chandra Pal v. Dwarka Nath Pal, 35 C. 837; 12 C. W. N. 849; 7 C. L. J. 492 ... 603
Godall v. Little, (1851) 20 L. J. Ch. 132; 1 Sim. (N. S.) 155; 15 Jur. 309; 61 E. R. 60; 89 R. R. 56 ... 727
Gokul v. Shrimal, 6 Bom. L. R. 288 ... 818
Gokul Bagdi v. Debendra Nath Sen, 11 Ind. Cas. 435; 14 C. L. J. 136 ... 440

G—contd.

Page.
Gokul Mandar v. Padmanund Singh, 29 C. 707 at 715; 4 Bom. L. R. 793; 6 C. W. N. 25; 29 I. A. 189 (P. C.) ... 94
Golak Nath Roy Chowdhry v. Mathura Nath Roy Chowdhry, 20 C. 273 ... 24
Golam Ali v. Kali Krishna, 7 C. 479; 8 C. L. R. 517; 4 Shome L. R. 149 ... 979
Gomatham Alamelu v. Komandur Krishnamacharlu, 27 M. 118 ... 414
Gomti Kunwar v. Gudri, 25 A. 138; A. W. N. (1902) 220 ... 732
Gopal v. Govind, 13 C. P. L. R. 113 ... 609
Gopal Das v. Badri Nath, 27 A. 361; 2 A. L. J. 3 ... 38
Gopal Lal v. Banarasi Pershad, 31 C. 428, 8 C. W. N. 385 ... 862
Gopal Narain v. Trimbak Sadashiv, 1 B. 267 ... 4
Gopal Purshotam v. Bai Divali, 18 B. 241 ... 535
Gopal Reddi v. Chenna Reddi, 18 M. 158; 4 M. L. J. 244 ... 808
Gopal Sah v. Janki Koer, 23 C. 217 ... 414
Gopalasami Chettiar v. Fischer, 28 M. 328 at p. 330; 15 M. L. J. 14 ... 959
Gopeekrist Gossain v. Gungapersaud Gosain, 6 M. I. A. 53; 4 W. R. 46 (P. C.); 1 Sar. P. C. J. 493; 19 Eng. Rep. 20 ... 105
Gossain Ramdhan Puri v. Gossain Dalmir Puri, 2 Ind. Cas. 385; 14 C. W. N. 191 ... 958
Gosto Behary v. Shib Nath Dut, 20 C. 241 ... 200
Goura Chowdhrain v. Chummun Chowdhury, (1864) W. R. 340 ... 872
Gourhari v. Bhola Kaibarto, 21 C. 233 ... 979
Gouthwaite v. Duckworth, (1810) 12 East 421; 104 E. R. 164 ... 918
Govinda v. Gangaram, 2 C. P. L. R. 29 ... 703
Govinda v. Perundevi, 12 M. 136 ... 410, 475
Govinda Naicken v. Apathsahaya Iyer, 13 Ind. Cas. 471; 11 M. L. T. 87; (1912) M. W. N. 87; 22 M. L. J. 257; 37 M. 403 ... 984
Govinda Pillai v. Thayammal, 28 M. 57; 14 M. L. J. 209 ... 739
Graham v. Allsopp, (1843) 3 Ex. 186; 77 R. R. 592; 18 L. J. Ex. 85 ... 183
Gray v. Mathias, (1800) 5 Ves. (Jr.) 286; 5 R. R. 48; 31 Eng. Rep. 591 ... 235
Gregory v. Molesworth, (1747) 3 Atk. 627; 26 Eng. Rep 1160 ... 818
Gregory v. Vadakasi, 10 M. 2'; 1 Weir 671 ... 653
Griffiths v. Vezey, (1906) 1 Ch. D. 796; 75 L. J. Ch. 462 ... 228
Growther v. Thorley, 32 W. R. 330; 50 L. T. 43; 48 J. P. 292 ... 617
Guiard v. De Colermont and Donner, 30 T. L. R. 511 ... 291
Gujja Lal v. Fatteh Lall, 6 C. 171; 6 C. L. J. R. 439; 3 Shome L. R. 132 ... 748
Gulab Koer v. Badshah Bahadur, 2 Ind. Cas. 129; 10 C. L. J. 420; 13 C. W. N. 1197 ... 125
Gulbai and Lilbai, In re, 32 B. 50; 9 Bom. L. R. 623 ... 301
Gunnaiyan v. Kannakchi Ayyar, 26 M. 339 ... 88
Gurdeo Singh v. Chandrikah Singh, 1 Ind. Cas. 913; 5 C. L. J. 611 at p. 620; 36 C. 193 ... 48, 278
Guru Gobind Saha v. Anand Lal Ghose, 13 W. R. 49; 5 B. L. R. 15 (F. B.) ... 764

G—concld.

Page.

Gurudas Pyne v. Ram Narain Sahu, 10 C. 860 at p. 864 (P. C.); 11 I. A. 59; 8 Ind. Jur. 322; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 548 ... 219
Gyananda Asram v. Kristo Chandra, 8 C. W. N. 404 ... 361
Gyannessa v. Mobarakannessa, 25 C. 210; 2 C. W. N. 91 ... 457

H

Habib-ullah Khan v. Lalta Prasad, 17 Ind. Cas. 94; 34 A. 612; 10 A. L. J. 190 ... 455
Hadjee Abdoollah, In the matter of the petition of, Reasat Hossein v. Hadjee Abdoollah, 2 C. 131 at p. 140 (P. C.); 3 I. A. 221; 26 W. R. 50 ... 58
Hafezuddin Mandal v. Jadu Nath Saha, 35 C. 298; 12 C. W. N. 820; 7 C. L. J. 279 ... 741
Hafiz Suleman v. Sheikh Abdullah, 16 A. 133; A. W. N. (1894) 13 ... 82
Haji Abdul Rahman v. Haji Noor Muhammad, 16 B. 141 ... 186
Hakim Lal v. Mooshahar Sahu, 34 C. 999; 6 C. L. J. 410; 11 C. W. N. 889 ... 835
Hale, Lilley v. Foad, In re, (1899) 2 Ch. 107; 80 L. T. 827; 47 W. R. 579; 68 L. J. Ch. 517; 15 T. L. R. 389 ... 400
Hall v. Venkatakrishna, 13 M 394 729, 900
Hanmant Ramachandra v. Bhimacharya, 12 B. 105 ... 872
Hanuman Kamat v. Hanuman Nandur, 19 C. 123 at p. 126 (P. C.); 18 I. A. 158 ... 220
Har Prasad v. Raghunandan Prasad, 1 Ind. Cas. 825 at p. 826; 31 A. 166 at p. 168; 6 A. L. J. 67 ... 417
Har Sahai v. Chunni Kuar, 4 A. 14; A. W N. (1881) 105; 6 Ind. Jur. 379 ... 53
Harabati v. Satyabadi Behara, 34 C. 636; 5 C. L. J. 550 ... 520
Harchand v. Gulabchand, 26 Ind. Cas. 265; 16 Bom. L. R. 620 ... 289
Hardei v. Ram Lal, 11 A. 319; A. W. N. (1889) 101 (F. B.) ... 53
Harendra Lal Roy v. Purna Chandra Chatterjee, 14 Ind. Cas. 368; 15 C. L. J. 132 ... 184
Harendra Lal Roy Chowdhry v. Nawab Salimullah Bahadur, 7 Ind. Cas. 21; 12 C. L. J. 336 184, 234
Hari Charan Saha v. Baran Khan, 25 Ind. Cas. 903; 41 C. 746 ... 832
Hari Das Dutt, In the goods of, 11 C. W. N. 193 ... 794
Hari Gobind Kulkarni v. Norsingrao Nauherao, 23 Ind. Cas. 123; 38 B. 194; 16 Bom. L. R. 30 289
Hari Kishore Barna Sarma v. Baroda Kishore Acharja Chowdhry, 8 C. W. N. 754 ... 652
Hari Mohan v. Surendra Narayan Singh, 34 C. 718; 11 C. W. N. 794; 6 C. L. J. 19; 9 Bom. L. R. 750; 17 M. L. J. 361; 2 M. L. T. 399; 4 A. L. J. 497; 34 I. A. 133 (P. C.) ... 297
Haribar Pershad v. Bholi Pershad, 6 C. L. J. 383 ... 383
Harinath v. Mothur Mohun, 20 I. A. 183; 21 C. 8 (P. C.) ... 298

H—contd.

Page.

Harris v. Beauchamp, (1893) 2 Q. B. 534; 63 L. J. Q. B. 99; 69 L. T. 373; 42 W. R. 37; 4 R. 550 ... 838
Harris v. Start, (1838) 4 M. & C. 261; 41 E. R. 102 ... 278
Hawkins v. Carbines, (1857) 27 L. J. Ex. 44; 114 R. R. 1002 ... 215
Hazari Mull v. Janaki Prosad, 6 C. L. J. 92 ... 410
Heap v. Dobson, (1863) 15 C. B. (N. S.) 460; 143 E. R. 864; 137 R. R. 602 ... 918
Hedlot Khasia v. Ka Ran Khasiani, 13 Ind. Cas. 377; 15 C. L. J. 241 ... 411
Heera Lall Ghose v. Ram Taruck Dey, 23 W. R. 323 ... 281
Hem Raj v. Sabiba, 116 P. R. 1901; 178 P. L. R. 1901 ... 493
Hemanta Kumari Debi v. Brojendro Kishore Roy Chowdhry, 17 C. 875; 17 I. A. 65 (P. C.) ... 241
Hemchunder Sanyal v. Sernamoyee Debi, 22 C. 354 ... 759
Heramba Chandra Pal Chowdhary v. Kasi Nath Sukul 1 C. L. J. 199 ... 366
Higgins v. Senior, 8 M. & W. 834; 11 L. J. Ex. 199; 58 R. R. 884 ... 824
High Court Proceedings, 15th November 1880, No. 2301, 2 Weir 99 ... 645
Hira Lal v. Premamoyee Debi, 2 C. L. J. 306 ... 278
Hira Lal Mitra v. Uday Chandra Dey, 14 Ind. Cas. 33; 16 C. W. N. 1027; 16 C. L. J. 103 ... 58
Hira Nand v. Hari Chand, 4 Ind. Cas. 687; 125 P. R. 1908; 10 P. L. R. 1909; 182 P. L. R. 1908 ... 513
Hitchon v. Best, (1819) 2 B. & B. 299; 129 E. R. 737 ... 965
Hla Baw v. S. K. R. Muthia Chetty, 3 L. B. R. 275 ... 274
Holcombe v. Antrobus, (1845) 8 Beav. 405; 14 L. J. Ch. 378; 50 E. R. 159 ... 278
Holker v. Porritt, 8 Ex. 107; 42 L. J. Ex. 85; 21 W. R. 414 ... 805
Holker v. Porritt, L. R. 10 Ex. 59; 44 L. J. Ex. 52;33 L. T. 125; 23 W. R. 400 693, 805
Holmes v. Seely, (1828) 19 Wendell 507 ... 214
Hooper v. Lane, (1857) 10 Eng. Rep. 1368; 108 R. R. 186; 6 H. L. Cas. 443; 27 L. J. Q. B. 75; 3 Jur. (N. S.) 1026, 6 W. R. 146 ... 322
Hopkins v. Worcestor and Birmingham Canal Navigation Co., 6 Eq. 437; 37 L. J. Ch. 729 ... 987
Howard, Ex parte, Leeds Banking Co., In re, 1 Ch. App. 561; 36 L. J. Ch. 42; 14 L. T. 747; 14 W. R. 942 ... 350
Howe v. Smith, 27 Ch. D. 89; 53 L. J. Ch. 1055; 50 L. T. 573; 32 W. R. 802; 48 J. P. 773 ... 227
Hughes v. Vargas, (1893) 9 T. L. R. 551 ... 728
Hukum Chand Boid v. Kamalanand Singh, 33 C. 927 at p. 946; 3 C. L. J. 67 65, 277
Hunoomanpersaud Panday v. Musammat Babooee Munraj Koonweree, 6 M. I. A. 393; 18 W. R. 81 note; Sevestre 253*n*; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 29; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 552; 19 E. R. 147 378, 492, 605
Hurdman v. North-Eastern Railway Company, 3 C. P. D. 168; 47 L. J. C. P. 368; 38 L. T. 339; 26 W. R. 489 ... 803
Huree Persad v. Koonjo Behary, (1862) Marshall 99; 1 Hay 238; W. R. Sp. 29; 1 Ind. Jur. (o. s.) 20 ... 277

H—concld.

Page.
Hurrinath Rai v. Krishna Kumar Bakshi, 14 C. 147 (P. C.); 13 I. A. 123; 10 Ind. Jur. 475; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 751 ... 741
Husaini Begam v. Mulo, 5 A. 84; A. W. N. (1882) 183 ... 53
Hyot v. Kennedy, (1898) 170 Mass. 54 ... 214

I

Ibrahim v. Saiboo, 34 I. A. 167; 35 C. 1 (P. C.); 11 C. W. N. 973; 6 C. L. J. 695; 9 Bom. L. R. 872; 4 A. L. J. 572; 17 M. L. J. 408 ... 471
Ibrahimbhai v. Kabulabhai, 13 B. 72 ... 535
Icharan Singh v. Nilmony Balidar, 35 C. 470; 7 C. L. J. 499; 12 C. W. N. 636 ... 858
Ilahi Bakhsh Khan v. Din Muhammad, 14 P. R. 1897 ... 124
Ilfracombe Permanent Mutual Benefit Building Society, In re, (1901) 1 Ch. 102; 70 L. J. Ch. 66; 84 L. T. 146; 17 T. L. R. 44 ... 6.7
Imami v. Mohammad Yusuf, 10 Ind. Cas. 712; 14 O. C. 65 ... 109
Iman Ali v. Poresh Mundul, 8 C. 468; 10 C. L. R. 396 ... 808
Imrit Chamar v. Sirdhar Panday, 13 Ind. Cas. 120; 17 C. W. N. 108; 15 C. L. J. 7 ... 118
Imtiaz Begam v. Liakat-un-nissa Begam, 6 A. 630; A. W. N. (1884) 209 ... 745
Imtiaz Begam v. Liakat-un-nissa Begam, 7 A. 886; A. W. N. (1885) 267 ... 745
Inderun Valungypooly Tave v. Ramaswamy Pandia Talaver, 13 M. I. A. 14; 3 B. L. R. 1; 12 W. R. 41 (P. C.); 2 Suth. P. C. J. 267; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 498; 20 Eng. Rep. 504 ... 272
Indety China Nagadu v. Potu Kanchi Venkata Subbayya, 8 Ind. Cas. 365; (1910) M. W. N. 639; 8 M. L. T. 376 ... 857
Indu Bhusan Bose v. Annapurna Mitra, 6 C. L. J. 216 ... 499
Irrawaddy Flotilla Co. v. Bugwan Das, 18 C. 620; 18 I. A. 121 (P. C.) ... 185
Ishar Das v. Emperor, 17 Ind. Cas. 543; 36 P. W. R. 1912 Cr.; 13 Cr. L. J. 799; 258 P. L. R. 1912 ... 627
Ishwar Shyam Chand Jiu v. Ram Kanai Ghose, 10 Ind. Cas. 683; 9 M. L. T. 448 (P. C.); 15 C. W. N. 417; 8 A. L. J. 528; 13 Bom. L. R. 421; 38 C. 526; 14 C. L. J. 238; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 231; 38 I. A. 76; 21 M. L. J. 1145 ... 4
Ismail v. Ramji, 23 B. 682 ... 471
Ismail Khan v. Kali Krishna Mondal, 6 C. W. N. 134 at p. 137 ... 968
Ismail Khan Mahomed v. Hari Charan Pal, 9 C. W. N. 60 ... 957
Ismail Mussajee Mookerdam v. Hafiz Boo, 33 C. 773 (P. C.); 10 C. W. N. 570; 3 C. L. J. 484; 8 Bom. L. R. 379; 16 M. L. J. 166; 1. M. L. T. 137; 3 A. L. J. 353 ... 42
Ismoord v. Claypool, 59 E. R. 380; 9 Sim. 316*n* ... 704
Iswar Prasad v. Jagarnath Singh, A. W. N. (1906) 194 ... 935

I—concld.

Page.
Iswaram Pillai v. Taregan, 23 Ind. Cas. 951; 26 M. L. J. 127 ... 224
Ittappan v. Manavikrama, 21 M. 153 at p. 157; 8 M. L. J. 92 ... 303
Ittiachan v. Velappan, 8 M. 484 (F. B.) ... 19

J

Jadunandan Prasad Singh v. Koer Kalyan Singh, 13 Ind. Cas. 653; 16 C. W. N. 612; 15 C. L. J. 61 ... 83
Jafar Husain v. Mashuq Ali, 14 A. 193; A. W. N. (1892) 55 ... 86, 439, 923
Jagan Nath Das v. Birbhadra Das, 19 C. 776 ... 859
Jaganatha v. Gangi Reddi, 15 M. 303 ... 427
Jaganatha v. Ramabhadra, 11 M. 380 at p. 392 ... 905
Jagannath Prasad v. Tori, 29 A. 18, 3 A. L. J. 610; A. W. N. (1906) 253 ... 811
Jagarnath Sahi v. Kamta Prasad, 23 Ind. Cas. 138; 36 A. 77; 12 A. L. J. 38 ... 896
Jagat Narain v. Emperor, 8 Ind. Cas. 818; 7 A. L. J. 1161; 11 Cr. L. J. 719 ... 639
Jaggannath v. Dibbo, 1 Ind. Cas. 818; 31 A. 53; 6 A. L. J. 49; A. W. N. (1908) 284 ... 7[illegible]
Jaggar Nath Pande v. Jokhu Tewari, 18 A. 223; A. W. N. (1896) 43 ... 75[illegible]
Jaggeswar Dutt v. Bhuban Mohan Mitra, 33 C. 425; 3 C. L. J. 205 ... 721
Jaikissondas Gongadas v. Zenabai and Kazi Mahomed Miya Dada Miya, 14 B. 431 ... 987
Jamna v. Ibrahim, A. W. N. (1888) 58 ... 69
Jamnadas v. Lalitaram, 2 B. 294 ... 745
Janki Singh v. Debi Nandan Prasad, 7 Ind. Cas. 772; 15 C. W. N. 776 ... 184
Jena Bapu v. Ram Rao, 15 C. P. L. R. 99 ... 811
Jennings v. Hammond, 9 Q. B. D. 255; 51 L. J. Q. B. 493; 31 W. R. 40 ... 617
Jennings v. President, Municipal Commission, Madras, 11 M. 253 ... 97
Jenning's Estate, In re, (1885) 15 L. R. Ir. 277 ... 201
Jhama v. Deobux, 2 N. L. R. 10 ... 602
Jhanda Singh v. Wahid-ud-din, 9 Ind. Cas. 1013; 8 A. L. J. 389; 33 A. 585 ... 2
Jhula v. Kanta Prasad, 9 A. 441; A. W. N. (1887) 91 ... 739
Joachim v. M'Donall, 59 Eng. Rep. 379; 9 Sim. 314 ... 704
Joachimson v. Meghji Valji, 3 Ind. Cas. 801; 34 B. 292; 11 Bom. L. R. 779 ... 829
Jog Narain Singh v. Badri Das, 13 Ind. Cas. 144; 16 C. L. J. 156 ... 200
Jogendra Nath Chatterjee v. Manmotha Nath Ghose, 15 Ind. Cas. 668; 16 C. L. J. 565; 17 C. W. N. 80 ... 94
Jogendra Nath Roy v. Baladab Das, 35 C. 961; 6 C. L. J. 735; 12 C. W. N. 127 ... 790, 923
Jogendro Chunder v. Dwarka Nath, 15 C. 681 ... 967
Jogeshwar Roy v. Raj Narain Mitter, 31 C. 195; 8 C. W. N. 168 ... 442
Jogeswar Narain Das v. Ram Chandra Dutt, 23 C. 670 (P. C.); 23 I. A. 37 ... 799
Jogodanund Singh v. Amrita Lal Sircar, 22 C. 767 at p. 779 (F. B.) ... 546

J—concld:

Page.

Jogodishury Debea v. Kailash Chandra Lahiry; 24 C. 725 at p. 739; 1 C. W. N. 374 ... 867
Jogonath v. Mohi-ud-din Mirza, 6 Ind. Cas. 371; 37 C. 747 ... 200
Johnstone v. Beattie, (1843) 10 Cl. and Fl. 42 at p. 122; 7 Jur. 1023; 8 E. R. 657; 59 R. R. 23 ... 301
Jones v. Creswicke, 59 Eng. Rep. 374; 9 Sim. 304; 9 L. J., Ch. 113; 4 Jur. 2 6; 47 R. R. 249 ... 705
Jones v. Percival, (1827) 5 Pic. 4c5; 16 Am. Dec. 415 ... 214
Jones v. Pugh, 32 Eng. Rep. 278; 8 Ves. (Jun.) 71 ... 987
Jones v. Williams, 2 M. & W. 326; M. & H. 51; 6 L. J. Ex. 107; 46 R. R. 611 ... 749
Joydee Paramanik, In re, 7 C. L. R. 66 ... 660
Joykishen Mookerjee v. Collector of East Burdwan, 10 M. I. A. 16; 1 W. R. (P. C.) 26; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 542; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 54; 19 E. R. 879 ... 679
Joykisto Cowar v. Nityanundnundy; 3 C. 788; 2 C. L. R. 440; 3 Ind. Jur. 117 ... 838
Judoo Nath Sirkar v. Bussunt Coomar Roy Chowdhury, 19 W. R. 264 ... 787
Jukes, In re; Official Receiver, Ex parte, (1902) 2 K. B 58; 86 L. T. 456; 50 W. R. 560; 9 Manson 249; 71 L. J. K. B. 710 ... 835
Juturi Nagiah v. Ariparala Venkatarama Sastrulu, 15 Ind. Cas. 623; 37 M. 387; 14 M. L. T. 199 ... 984

K

Kadir Buksh v. Jawala Prasad, 1 A. L. J. 288 at p. 291 ... 879
Kadir Mohideen Marakkayar v. Muthukrishna Aiyar, 26 M. 230 at p. 232; 12 M. L. J. 368 ... 288
Kadumbinee Dossee v. Koolash Kaminee Dossee, 2 C. 431 ... 795
Kailash Chandra Basu v. Girija Sundari Debi, 14 Ind. Cas. 299; 39 C. 925; 16 C. W. N. 658 ... 756
Kailash Chandra Haldar v. Bissonath Paramanik, 1 C. W. N. 67 ... 278
Kailash Ghose v. Jugal Lohar, 1 C. L. J. 104; 2 Cr. L. J. 161 ... 172
Kalavagunta Venkata Kristnayya v. Kalvagunta Lakshmi Narayana, 3 Ind. Cas. 554; 32 M. 185; 18 M. L. J. 403; 4 M. L. T. 1 (F. B.) ... 780
Kali Charan Sirdar v. Sarat Chunder Chowdhry, 30 C. 397; 7 C. W. N. 545 ... 106
Kaliappa Gounden v. Deivasgamani Pillai, 18 Ind. Cas. 27; (1913) M. W. N. 795 ... 490
Kalidas Das v. Krishna Chandar Das, 2 B L. R. 103 (F. B.); 11 W. R. 11 (O. C.) ... 872
Kalka Prasad v. Bhuiyan Din, 2 Ind. Cas. 180; 31 A. 300; 6 A. L. J. 222 ... 707
Kaltenback v. Lewis, 10 A. C. 617; 55 L. J. Ch. 58; 53 L. T. 787; 34 W. R. 477 ... 826
Kamakshamma v. Emperor, 21 Ind. Cas. 467; (1913) M. W. N. 862; 14 M. L T. 317; 25 M. L. J. 445; 14 Cr. L. J. 595 ... 248
Kamal Kutty v. Udagavarma Raja Valia Raja of Chirakkal, 17 Ind. Cas. 65; 12 M. L. T. 439; 23 M. L. J. 499; 13 Cr. L. J. 753; (1912) M. W. N. 1154; 36 M. 275 ... 156

K—contd.

Page.

Kamalathammal v. Krishna Pillai, 8 Ind. Cas. 998; 20 M. L. J. 781; 9 M. L. T. 73 .. 858
Kamaraju v. Secretary of State for India 11 M. 309 ... 818
Kamini Dasi v. Secretary of State, 17 C. 380 ... 478
Kamini Debi v. Khettra Mohan Ganguli, 11 Ind. Cas. 382; 15 C. L. J. 690; 15 C. W. N. 681 ... 961
Kamini Moni Debi v. Khetra Mohan Ganguli, 13 Ind. Cas. 43; 15 C. L J. 660; 17 C. W. N. 45 ... 961
Kamta Prasad v. Sheo Gopal Lal, 26 A. 342; A. W. N. (1904) 41 ... 196
Kandalam Rajagopalacharyulu v. Secretary of State for India, 22 Ind. Cas. 107; (1913) M. W. N. 937; 14 M. L. T. 454 ... 193
Kandaswami Pillai v. Avayambal, 7 Ind. Cas. 399; 34 M. 167; (1910) M. W. N. 316; 20 M. L. J. 989; 8 M. L. T. 194 ... 416
Kandoth Mammi v. Neelancherayil, 8 M. H. C. R. 14 ... 289
Kandukuri Mahalakshmana Garu Chetty v. Secretary of State for India, 8 Ind. Cas. 67; 34 M. 295 at p. 300; 8 M. L. T. 389; (1910) M. W. N. 595; 20 M. L. J. 823 ... 693
Kanhaya Lal v. National Bank of India, Ltd, 18 Ind. Cas. 949; 40 I. A. 56; 17 C. W. N. 541; (1913) M. W. N. 406; 13 M. L. T. 406; 11 A. L. J. 413; 17 C. L. J. 479; 15 Bom. L. R. 472; 184 P. L. R. 1913; 25 M. L. J. 104; 40 C. 598 (P. C.) ... 894
Kanhayalal v. Narhar Laxmanshet Varu, 27 B. 297; 5 Bom. L. R. 140 ... 834
Kanhoji Ran v. Gangabai, 9 C. P. L. R. 19 ... 710
Kaniz Fatima v. Wali-ullah, 30 A. 30; A. W. N. (1907) 272; 4 A. L. J. 689 ... 3
Kannan v. Nilakandan, 7 M. 337 ... 859
Kanto Ram Das v. Gobardhan Das, 35 C. 133; 7 Cr. L. J. 159 ... 1004
Kanu Ram Deb v. Kashi Chandra Sharma Chowdhury, 2 Ind. Cas. 660; 14 C. W. N. 226 ... 771
Kanwar Doorganath Roy v. Ram Chunder Sen, 4 I. A. 52 at pp. 62, 63; 2 C. 341 (P. C.) ... 240
Kapildeo Singh v. Ramrikha Singh, 8 Ind. Cas. 484; 33 A. 237; 7 A. L. J. 1191 ... 754
Karampalli Unnikurup v. Thekku Vittil Muthorakutti, 26 M. 195 at p. 196 ... 959
Karetti Brahmanaikudu v. Kareti Mahalakshmi, 17 Ind. Cas. 487; 24 M. L. J. 533; (1913 M. W. N. 433; 13 M. L. T. 468 ... 758
Karimshah v. Nattan Bibi, 7 M. 417 ... 859
Karmi Khan v. Brojo Nath Dass, 22 C. 244 ... 438
Karsondas v. Bai Gungabai, 30 B. 329; 7 Bom. L. R. 965 ... 705
Karupamaya Ananga Bheema v. Sondi Prahaladha Bissoyi Ratno, 21 Ind. Cas. 833; (1914) M. W. N. 179; 14 M. L. T. 562 ... 80
Karuppayee v. Chinnammal, 25 Ind. Cas. 191; 16 M. L. T. 101; 1 L. W. 537 ... 20
Kasham Khan v. Musammat Sawitri, 19 Ind. Cas. 547; 9 N. L R. 38 ... 721
Kashi Nath Dass v. Hurrihur Mookerjee, 9 C. 898; 13 C. L. R. 11; 5 Shome L. R. 75; 8 Ind. Jur. 89 ... 718
Kasturi v. Venkatachalapathi, 15 M. 412 ... 427
Kathama Natchiar v. Dorasinga Tevar, 2 I. A. 169; 23 W. R. 314; 15 B. L. R. 83 (P. C.) ... 234

K—contd.

Page.

Kattai Mahammad Meera Mohideen v. Secretary of State for India, 13 M. L. J. 269 ... 961
Kattamoody Raghupathy v. Kattamoody Kannamma, 16 Ind. Cas. 710; 23 M. L. J. 363; 12 M. L. T. 325; (1912) M. W. N. 1223 ... 758
Kattick Ramunni v. Udayamangalath, 14 Ind. Cas. 279; (1912) M. W. N. 524 ... 961
Kaye, In re, 1 Ch. 387 at p. 389; 12 Jur. (N. S.) 350; 14 L. T. 388; 14 W. R. 597 ... 302
Kedar Nath v. Rakhal Das, 15 C. 674 ... 535
Kesari Venkatasubbiah v. Secretary of State for India 20 Ind. Cas. 804; 14 M. L. T. 131 ... 693
Kesri Narain v. Abdul Hasan, 26 A. 365 A. W. N. (1903) 46 ... 20
Khadersa Hajee Pappu v. Puthen Veettil Ayissa Ummah, 6 Ind. Cas. 50; 20 M. L. J. 288; 8 M. L. T. 4; (1910) M. W. N. 447; 34 M. 511 ... 346
Khankar Abdur Rahman v. Ali Hafez, 28 C. 256; 4 C. W. N. 351 ... 717
Khantomoni Dasi v. Bejoy Chand Mahatap, 19 C. 787 ... 438
Kharada Co. Ld. v. Durga Charan, 5 Ind. Cas. 187; 11 C. L. J. 45 ... 58, 204
Khasay v. Jugla, 28 A. 432; A. W. N. (1906) 79 ... 120
Khemji Bhagvandas Gujar v. Rama, 10 B. 519 ... 603
Khirode Chunder v. Saroda Prosad, 7 Ind. Cas. 436; 12 C. L. J. 525 ... 958
Khub Chand v. Ajodhia Prashad, 21 Ind. Cas. 76; 11 A. L. J. 733 ... 58
Khubsarat Koer v. Sarada Charan Guha, 12 Ind. Cas. 165; 14 C. L. J. 526; 16 C. W. N. 126 ... 987
Kidambi Jagannatheharyulu v. Pidipite Katumbarayudu, 25 Ind. Cas. 891; 27 M. L. J. 233 ... 68, 357, 619
Kidambi Venkatachariar v. Lakshmi Doss, 31 M. 62; 17 M. L. J. 601; 3 M. L. T. 106 ... 269
King-Emperor v. Munna, 24 A. 151 ... 648
Kingsford v. Poile, 8 W. R. 110 ... 704
Kinuram Mandal v. Nitye Chander Sirdar, 6 C. L. J. 208; 11 C. W. N. 400 ... 2
Kishan Chand v. Taj-ud-Din, 1 Ind. Cas. 870; 23 P. R. 1909; 197 P. L. R. 1908; 37 P. W. R. 1909 ... 512
Kishan Lal v. Ganga Ram, 13 A. 28; A. W. N. (1890) 216 ... 604
Kishen Lal v. Charat Singh, 23 A. 114; A. W. N. (1900) 214 ... 82
Kishen Parshad v. Har Narain Singh, 9 Ind. Cas. 739; 33 A. 272; 15 C. W. N. 321; 8 A. L. J. 256 9 M. L. T. 343; 21 M. L. J. 378; 13 C. L. J. 345; 13 Bom. L. R. 359; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 395; 38 I. A. 45 (P. C.) ... 36
Kishore Chunder Sein v. Kally Kinkur Paul Chowdhry, 20 W. R. 333 ... 183
Kishore Lal Dey v. The Administrator-General of Bengal, 2 C. W. N. 303 ... 284
Kishori Dubain v. Mundra Dubain, 10 Ind. Cas. 565; 33 A. 665; 8 A. L. J. 757 ... 692
Kishun Lal v. Muhammad Safdar Ali Khan, 13 A. 383; A. W. N. (1891) 138 ... 59
Kokla v. Pearey Lal, 21 Ind. Cas. 29; 11 A. L. J. 765; 35 A. 502 ... 792
Kolandaya Sholagan v. Vedamuthu Sholaga 19 M. 337; 6 M. L. J. 140 ... 3
Kondappa v. Subba, 13 M. 189 ... 598

K—contd.

Page.

Konnar Doorganath Roy v. Ram Chunder Sen, 2 C. 341 (P. C.); 4 I. A. 52 ... 540
Kosuri Ramaraju v. Ivalury Ramalingam, 26 M. 74; 12 M. L. J. 490 ... 983
Kotaghiri Venkata Subbamma Rao v. Vellanki Venkatarama Rao, 24 M. 1 at p. 10 (P. C.); 4 C. W. N. 725; 27 I. A. 197 ... 64
Koylash Chunder Ghose v. Sonatun Chung Barooie, 7 C. 132; 4 Shome L. R. 144; 8 C. L. R. 281, 5 Ind. Jur. 642 ... 486
Koyyana Chittemma v. Doosy Gavaramma, 29 M. 225; 16 M. L. J. 136 ... 535
Kraal v. Whymper, 17 C. 786 ... 617
Krieto Kissor Neoghy v. Kadermoye Dassee, 2 C. L. R. 583 ... 301
Krishna v. Balia, 14 Ind. Cas. 403; 8 N. L. R. 11 ... 820
Krishna Ayyar v. Krishnasami Ayyar, 23 M. 597 ... 750
Krishna Behari Roy v. Bunwari Lal Roy, 2 I. A. 283 at p. 286; 25 W. R. 1; 1 C. 144; 3 Sar. P. C. J 559; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 213 ... 818
Krishna Iyar v. Secretary of State for India, 5 Ind. 121; 33 M. 173; 6 M. L. T. 306; 20 M. L. J. 71 ... 726
Krishna Patter v. Srinivasa Patter, 20 M. 124 ... 713
Krishna Prasad Roy v. Bipin Behary Roy, 31 C. 288 ... 535
Krishna Subhudi v. Janaki Ram, 20 Ind. Cas. 149; 19 C. L. J. 248 ... 82
Krishnaji v. Maruti, 7 Ind. Cas. 966; 12 Bom. L. R. 762 ... 886
Krishnaji v. Wamnaji, 18 B. 144 ... 929
Krishnaji Ravji Godbole v. Ganesh Bapuji Patvardhan, 6 B. 139 ... 355
Krishnama Chariar v. Veeravelli Krishnama Chariar, 19 Ind. Cas. 452; 24 M. L. J. 517 at p. 521; 13 M. L. T. 385; (1913) M. W. N. 355 ... 407
Krishnasami v. Kesava, 14 M. 63 ... 960
Kristamma Naidu v. Chapa Naidu, 17 M. 410 (F. B.) ... 106
Kristaya v. Kasipati, 9 M. 55 ... 883
Kristo Kissor Neoghy v. Kader Moye Dossee, 2 C. L. R. 583 ... 180
Kullan v. Emperor, 2 Ind. Cas. 343; 32 M. 173; 9 Cr. L. J. 571 ... 659
Kumara Tirumalai Naik v. Bangaru Tirumalai Sauri Naik, 21 M. 310 ... 87
Kumban v. Moorthi, 7 Ind. Cas. 422; 34 M. 406 at p. 415; (1910) M. W. N. 359; 8 M. L. T. 208; 20 M. L. J. 951 ... 208
Kumud Nath v. Jatindra Nath, 9 Ind. Cas. 189; 38 C. 394; 13 C. L. J. 221; 5 C. W. N. 399 ... 413
Kundan Lal v. Dalip Singh, 57 P. R. 1884 ... 745
Kundukuri Mahalakshmamma Garu v. Secretary of State for India, 8 Ind. Cas. 67; 34 M. 295; 8 M. L. T. 389; (1910) M. W. N. 595; 20 M. L. J. 823 ... 189
Kunj Behari v. Keshav Lal, 28 B. 567 at p. 572; 6 Bom. L. R. 475 ... 339
Kunmetta Chinnarrappa v. Kona Thimma Reddi, 8 Ind. Cas. 677; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 111 at p. 113; 9 M. L. T. 55; 21 M. L. J. 559 ... 97
Kunnath Anjumma v. Veluth Ahmed, 2 Weir 616 Cr. ... 672
Kuppa v. Dorasami, 6. M. 76; 7 Ind. Jur. 75 ... 442

K—concld.

Page.

Kuppier v. Kotta Chinnaramier, 16 Ind. Cas. 493; (1912) M. W. N. 758 ... 760
Kuppier alias Venkatasubbier v. Kota Chinnaramier, 10 Ind. Cas. 421; 22 M. L. J. 488; 9 M. L. T. 356 ... 774
Kuppusamy Aiyar v. Venkataramier, 15 M. L. J. 462 (F. B.) ... 623
Kuram Krishnama Chariar v. Veeravelli Krishnama Chariar, 19 Ind. Cas. 452; 13 M. L. T. 385; (1913) M. W. N. 355; 24 M. L. J. 517 ... 900
Kusum Bewa v. Bechu Bewa, 3 C W. N. 322 ... 994
Kylash Chunder Sen v. Ram Lal Mittra, 26 C. 869 ... 633

L

La Banque Jacques Cartier v. La Banque D'Eparone De La Cite Et Du District De Montreal, (1888) 13 App. Cas. 111; 57 L. J. P. C. 42 ... 775
Labhu v. Ganda Singh, 20 Ind Cas. 528; 185 P. W. R. 1913; 2 P. L. R. 1914 ... 405
Lachman Das v. Pahla Mal, 59 P. R. 1908; 121 P. W. R. 1908 ... 688
Lakhamgavda v. Keshav Annaji, 28 B. 305; 6 Bom. L. R. 364 ... 80
Lakshmanasawami Naidu v. Rangamma, 26 M. 31 ... 442
Lakshmichand v. Kachubhai, 11 Ind. Cas. 559; 35 B. 393; 13 Bom. L. R. 517 ... 473
Lal Sheopartab Bahadur Singh, v. Allahabad Bank, Ld., 3 O. O. 130 ... 177
Lalchand Ramdayal v. Gumtibai Ghella Pema v. Gumtibai, 8 B. H. C. R. 140 (O. C.) ... 794
Lalit Mohan Mandal v. Satish Chandra Das, 33 C. 1163; 4 C. L. 234 ... 715
Lalla Bunseedhur v. Kunwar Bindeseree Dutt Singh, 10 M. I. A. 454; 19 E. R. 1044; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 167 ... 492
Lallubhai Bapubhai v. Mankuvarbai, 2 B. 388; 7 I. A. 112 ... 765
Latafut Hossein v. Anunt Chowdhry, 23 C. 517... 989
Latchumammal v. Gengammal, 7 Ind. Cas. 858; 34 M. 72; 8 M. L. T. 233; (1910) M. W. N. 692 458
Laxmi Bai Naikin v. Ramchandra Malhar, 3 N. L. R. 146 at p. 154 ... 702
Leadbitter v. Farrow, (1816) 5 M & S. 345; 17 R. R. 345; 105 E. R. 1077 ... 357
Leather v. Simpson, (1871) 11 Eq. 398; 40 L. J. C. 177; 1 Asp. M. C. 5; 24 L. T. 286; 19 W. R. 431 ... 898
Leelanund Singh v. Munrunjan Singh, I. A. Sup. Vol. 181; 3 C. 251; 2 Ind. Jur. 493 ... 79
Lekraj Kuar v. Mahpal Singh, 5 C. 744 (P. C.); 6 C. L. R. 593; 7 I. A. 63; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 93; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 704; Rafique and Jackson's (P. C.) No. 61; 4 Ind. Jur. 423 ... 101
Lewis v. Cooper, (1847) 2 Phil. 178; 16 L. J. Ch. 265; 41 E. R. 909 ... 278
Lewis v. Fullarton, (1839) 2 Beav. 6 at p. 8; 8 L. J. Ch. 291; 3 Jur. 669; 50 R. R. 84; 48 Eng. Rep. 1080 ... 32
Liffin v. Pitcher, (1843) 1 Dowling (N. S.) 767; 6 Jur. 537 ... 964
Limba bin Krishna v. Rama, 13 B. 548 ... 443

L—concld.

Page

Lodd Govindass v. Rukmani Bhai, 21 Ind. Cas. 332; 14 M. L. T. 310; 1 L. W. 529 ... 507
Lomax v. Hide, 2 Vern. 185; 23 Eng. Rep. 721 ... 185
London and River Plate Bank v. Bank of Liverpool, (1896) 1 Q. B. 7 at p. 12; 65 L. J. Q. B. 80; 73 L. T. 473 ... 899
London Chatham and Dover Ry. Co. v. South E. Ry. Co., (1885) 53 L. T. 109 ... 957
London Marine Insurance Association, In re, 8 Eq. 176; 20 L. T. 943; 17 W. R. 784 ... 616
Lootf Ali v. Pearee Mohun, 16 W. R. 223 ... 967
Lord Hastings v. North East Railway Co., (1899) 1 Ch. 656 at p. 663; 68 L. J. Ch. 315; 80 L. T. 217; 15 T. L. R. 247 ... 469
Lovell and Christmas v. Gilbert Walter Beauchamp, (1894) App. Cas. 607; 11 R. 45; 71 L. T. 587; 43 W. R. 129; 1 Manson 467; 63 L. J. Q. B. 802 ... 837
Lowry v. Williams, (1895) 1 I. R. 274; 29 I. L. T. R. 52; 1 Irish Law Reports 741 ... 201
Luckhee Narain v. Ram Kumar, 15 C. 564 ... 148
Luckmee Chund v. Zorawur Mull, 8 M. I. A. 291; 1 W. R. 35 (P. C.); 1 Suth. P. C. J. 425; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 763; 19 E. R. 541 ... 226
Lutchmee Doss v. Secretary of State for India, 3 Ind. Cas. 456; 6 M. L. T. 242; 32 M. 456 189, 696

M

Macnaughten v. Baird, (1903) 2 I. R. 731; 37 I. L. T. R. 80; 7 Irish Law Reports 595 ... 214
Macomber v. Godfrey, 108 Mass. 219; 11 Am. Rep. 349 ... 805
Maddison v. Alderson, 8 App. Cas. 467; 52 L. J. Q. B. 737; 49 L. T. 303; 31 W. R. 820; 47 J. P. 821 ... 251
Madhopersad v. Gajadhar, 11 C. 111; 11 I. A. 186 (P. C.); 8 Ind. Jur. 694; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 574; Rafique and Jackson's P. C. No. 85 ... 339
Madras Hindu Mutual Benefit Permanent Fund v. Ragava Chetti, 19 M. 100 ... 617
Madras Railway Company v. Zamindar of Carvetinagaram, 11 A. 364; 14 B. L. R. 209; 22 W. R. 279 ... 807
Mahabir Prasad v. Ram Jiwan Lal, 8 Ind. Cas. 272; 13 O. C. 260 ... 518
Mahadeo v. Emperor, 6 Ind. Cas. 563; 11 Cr. L. J. 372; 7 A. L. J. 319; 32 A. 397 .. 137
Mahadeo Singh v. Bachu Singh, 11 A. 224; A. W. N. (1889) 87 ... 238
Mahadevi v. Vikrama, 14 M. 365 ... 80
Mahamahopadhyaya Ranga Chariar v. Municipal Council of Kumbakonam, 29 M. 539; 1 M. L. T. 333; 16 M. L. J. 582 ... 802
Mahamed Kasam v. Ranu Yesji Naik, 9 Bom. L. R. 254. ... 360
Maharaja of Bobbilli v. Raja Keminayani Bangaru, 8 Ind. Cas. 860; 35 M. 108 at p. 112; 9 M. L. T. 155; 21 M. L. J. 593; (911) 2 M. W. N. 101 ... 378
Maharaja of Bobbli v. W. S. Venkataramanjulu Naidu, 25 Ind. Cas. 585; 27 M. L. J. 409; 16 M. L. T. 181 ... 986

M—contd.

Page.

Maharajah Moheshur Singh v. The Bengal Government, 7 M. I. A. 283; 3 W. R. 45 (P. C.); 1 Suth P. C. J. 325; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 645; 19 E. R. 316 ... 886
Mahipal Singh v. Lalji Singh, 16 Ind. Cas. 705; 17 C. W. N. 166 at p. 168 957
Mahipat v. Nathu, 4 Ind. Cas. 252; 33 B. 722; 11 Bom. L. R. 1109 58
Mahomed Ali Hossein v. Nazar Ali, 28 C. 289; 5 C. W. N 316 717
Mahomed Athar v. Ramjan Khan, 34 C. 587 203
Mahomed Ibrahim Hossain Khan v. Ambika Pershad Singh, 14 Ind. Cas. 496; 11 M. L. T. 265; (1912) M. W. N. 367; 9 A. L. J. 332; 22 M. L. J. 468; 14 Bom. L. R. 280; 16 C. W. N. 505; 15 C. L. J. 411; 39 C. 527 ... 675
Mahomed Ismail v. Faizuddi, 3 C. W. N. 548 ... 994
Mahomed Mira Ravuthar v. Savvasi Vijaya Raghunadha Gopalar, 23 M. 227; 27 I. A. 17; 4 C. W. N. 227; 10 M. L. J. 1 835
Mahomed Nassrouddin v. Oppenheimer & Co., 9 Bur. L. R. 285 ... 271
Mahomed Ussudoollah Khan v. Ghasheea Beebee, 1 Agra H. C. R. 150 ... 109
Mahomed Wahib v. Mahomed Ameer, 32 C. 527; 1 C. L. J. 167 ... 220
Majumdar Hiralal Ichhalal v. Desai Narsilal Chatarbhujdas, 17 Ind. Cas. 909; 17 C. W. N. 573; 13 M. L. T. 415; (1913) M. W. N. 4.8; 11 A. L. J. 432; 17 C. L. J. 474; 15 Bom. L. R. 483; 25 M. L. J. 10 ; 40 I. A. 68; 37 B. 326 (P. C.) ... 4
Malcolmson v. O'Dea, (1862) 10 H. L. C. 593; 9 Jur. (N. S.) 1135; 9 L. T. 93; 12 W. R. 178; 11 E. R. 1155; 138 R. R. 377 439
Malkarjun v. Narhari, 25 B. 337; 2 C. W. N. 10; 10 M. L. J. 368; 2 Bom. L. R. 927; 27 I. A. 216 (P. C.) ... 375
Mallik Saheb Abdul Saheb Gandigiwad v. Mallikarjunappa, 22 Ind. Cas. 29 ; 15 Bom. L. R. 1142; 38 B. 224 ... 760
Malukchand v. Manilal Nansha, 28 B. 364; 6 Bom. L. R. 296 424
Mamraj v. Rampat, 3 P. R. 1889 Rev. 405
Mana Vikrama v. Mallichery, 3 M. 68 698
Mankura Pasi v Queen-Empress, 27 C. 139; 4 C. W. N. 971 ... 627
Manning v. Wasdale, (1836) 1 N. & P. 172; 5 A. & E. 758; 2 H. & W. 431; 6 L. J. K. B. 59; 44 R. R. 576; 11 Eng. Rep. 1353 214
Mannu Lal v. Fazal Imam, 10 Ind. Cas. 353; 8 A. L. J. 692; 33 A. 580 88
Manohar Singh v. Sumirta Kuar, 17 A. 428; A. W. N. (1895) 93 69, 900
Maria Susai Mudaliar v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 14 M. L. J. 350 189, 693
Marquis of Hertford v. Suisse, (1844) 7 Beav. 160; 49 E. R. 1024; 64 R. R. 47; 8 Jur. 50 278
Marshall v. Ulleswater S. N. Coy., (1871) 7 Q. B. 166; 41 L. J. Q. B. 41; 25 L. T. 793; 20 W. R. 144 ... 214
Marudamuthu Nadan v. Srinivasa Pillai, 21 M. 128; 8 M. L. J. 69 3, 767
Maruthamuthu Pillai v. Krishnamchariar, 30 M. 143 ... 58

M—concld.

Page.

Mary Dick v. Louisa Dick, 15 A. 169; A. W. N. (1893) 78 ... 204
Mashim v. Maung Chit Pan, 2 U. B. R. 408 ... 301
Mata Din v. Ahmad Ali, 13 Ind. Cas. 976; 16 C. W. N. 338; 11 M. L. T. 145; (1912) M. W N. 183; 9 A. L. J. 215; 15 C. L. J. 270; 14 Bom. L. R. 192; 15 O. C. 49; 23 M. L. J. 6; 39 I. A. 49; 34 A. 230 (P. C.) 180, 814
Mati Lal Bose v. Amin Chand Chattopadhy, 1 C. L. J 211 ... 741
Matukdhari Tewari v. Hari Madhab, 9 C. W. N. 72; 2 Cr. L. J. 11; 31 C. 979 ... 148
Maung Bin v. Ma Hlaing, 3 L. B. R. 100 (F. B.) ... 112
Maung Tun Tha alias Wong Kin v. Ma Pu, 8 Ind. Cas. 452; 3 Bur. L. T. 67; 11 Cr. L. J. 654 ... 632
Mayaram v. Ravji, 24 B. 86; 1 Bom. L. R. 539... 289
Mayhew v. Mayhew, 19 B. 293 ... 489
Mayor of Bradford v. Pickles, (1895) A. C. 587; 64 L. J. Ch. 759; 11 R. 286; 73 L. T. 353; 44 W. R. 190; 60 J. P. 3 ... 215
Mazaharuddin Khan v. Serajuddin Khan, 4 C. L. J. 115 ... 344
McCorkindale, In the matter of, 6 C. 1; 6 C. L. R. 406; 5 Ind. Jur. 520 ... 185
Mc Inerny v. Secretary of State for India, 13 Ind. Cas. 370; 38 C. 797 ... 92
McIntyre v. MacGavin, (1893) A. C. 268 at p. 277; 1 R. 246; 69 L. T. 389; 57 J. P. 548 ... 215
Meghan Dube v. Pran Singh, 30 A. 63 at p. 65 5 A. L. J. 14; A. W. N. (1908) 10 ... 19
Megraj Jagannath v. Gokaldas Mathuradas, 7 B. H. C. R. O. C J. 137 at p. 142 ... 899
Menzies v. Earl of Breadalbane, (1828) 3 Bligh (N. S.) 414 at p. 4 0; 4 Eng. Rep. 1387; 32 R. R. 103 ... 802
Mercer v. Denne, (1905) 2 Ch 538; 74 L. J. Ch. 723; 93 L. T. 412; 3 L. G. R. 293; 21 T. L. R. 764 70 J. P. 65; 54 W. R. 303 ... 123
Miajan v. Akram Ali, 8 C. L. J. 541 ... 979
Midland Railway Company v. Pye, 10 C. B. (N. S.) 179 at p. 191; 30 C. L. J. C. P. 314; 4 L. T. 510; 9 W. R. 658; 142 E. R. 419; 28 R. R. 666 ... 475
Miller, A. B. v. Babu Mad'o Das, 23 I A. 106; 19 A. 76 at p. 92; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 73 ... 385
Minakshi v. Virappa, 8 M. 89 61, 872
Miner v. Gilmour, 12 Moore P. C. 131; 7 W. R. 328; L. T. 98; 14 Eng. Rep. 861; 124 R. R. 3 807, 975
Mir Ahmad Hossein v. Mahomed Askari, 29 C. 726 (F. B.); 6 C. W. N. 633 ... 994
Mir Imam Abdul Aziz v. Queen Empress, 4 P. R. 1897 Cr. ... 633
Mir Sirwarjan v. Fakhruddin Mahomed Chowdhuri, 13 Ind. Cas. 331; 21 M. L. J. 1156; 39 I. A. 1; 6 C. W. N. 74; (1912) M. W. N. 22; 9 A. L. J 33; 15 C. L. J. 69; 14 Bom. L. R. 5; 39 C. 232 (P. C.) ... 18
Mir Tapurah Hussein v. Gopi Narayan, 7 C. L. J. 251 at p. 258 ... 968
Modhu Sudan Singh v. E. G. Rooke, 25 C. 1; 24 I. A. 164; 1 C. W. N. 433 ... 759
Mogulsha v. Mahomed Saheb, 11 B. 517 ... 471
Mohant Puran Atal v. Darshan Das, 14 Ind. Cas. 698; 9 A. L. J. 709; 34 A. 468 ... 622

M—contd.

Page.

Mohanund Mondul v. Nafur Mondul, 26 C. 820 at p. 825; 3 C. W. N. 770 ... 180
Mohendra Lal v. Akhil Chandra, 20 Ind. Cas. 47; 20 C. L. J. 424 ... 961
Mohendra Nath Biswas v. Shyamlal Banerjee, 23 Ind. Cas. 16; 19 C. L. J. 308; 18 C. W. N. 907 ... 217
Mohideen Batcha Sahib, In re, 21 Ind. Cas. 688; 14 Cr. L. J. 640; 25 M. L. J. 484 ... 309
Mohideen Kuppai v .Mariam Kanni, 12 Ind. Cas. 139; 10 M. L. T. 284; 21 M. L. J. 1018; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 240 ... 63
Mohima Chunder Mozumdar v. Mohesh Chunder Neogi, 16 I. A. 23; 16 C. 473 (P. C) ... 439
Mohori Bibee v. Dharmodas, 30 I. A. 114; 30 C. 539; 4 Bom. R. L. 421; 7 C. W. N. 441 (P. C.) 196, 837
Mohunga Ojha v. Ram Bahadur Singh, 15 Ind. Cas. 23; 16 C. W. N. 731 ... 186
Mokanda v. Balli Singh, 85 P. R. 1884 ... 452
Monemothonath Day v. Onathonath Dey, (1865) 2 Ind. Jur. (N. S.) 22; Bourke O. C. 189 ... 957
Monro v. Taylor, 8 Hare 51 at p. 56; 3 Mac. & G. 713; 21 L. J. Ch. 525; 85 R. R. 194; 68 Eng. Rep. 269 ... 469
Montaignac v. Shitta, (1890) 15 App. Cas. 357... 366
Montgomerie v. United Kingdom Mutual Steamship Assurance Association, (1891) 1 Q. B. 370 at p. 372; 60 L. J. Q. B. 429; 64 L. T. 323; 39 W. R. 351; 7 Asp. M. C. 19 ... 825
Morley v. Loughnan, (1893) 1 Ch. D. 736; 3 R. 562; 68 L. T. 619; 62 L. J. Ch. 515 ... 41
Moses v. Macpherlan, 2 Bur. 1005; 1 W. Bl. 219; 97 Eng. Rep. 676 at p. 680 ... 220
Moti Lal v. Darjeeling Municipality, 18 Ind. Cas. 844; 17 C. L. J. 167 ... 964
Moti Lal v. Karab-ul-Din, 25 C. 179; 24 I. A. 170; 1 C. W. N. 639 ... 411
Motiram v. Vital, 13 B. 90 ... 602
Mounsey v. Ismay, (1865) 34 L. J. Ex. 52; 3 H. & C. 486; 11 Jur. (N. S.) 141; 12 L. T. 27; 13 W. R. 521; 140 R. R. 567 ... 123
Moyna Bibi v. Banku Behari Biswas, 29 C. 473; 6 C. W. N. 667 ... 815
Muhamad Husain Rowther v. Muhamad Abubakar Rowther, 2 Ind. Cas. 427; 20 M. L. J. 699; 8 M. L. T. 399 ... 215
Muhamad Mumtaz Ahmed v. Zubaida Jan, 16 I. A. 205; 11 A. 460; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 433 ... 471
Muhammad Hamid-ud-din v. Shib Sahai, 21 A. 309; A. W. N. (1899) 87 ... 427
Muhammad Ibrahim Hossein Khan v. Ambika Pershad Singh, 14 Ind. Cas. 496; 39 C. 527; 11 M. L. T. 265; (1912) M. W. N. 367; 9 A. L. J. 332; 14 Bom. L. R. 280; 16 C. W. N. 505; 15 C. L. J. 411; 22 M. L. J. 468 (P. C.) ... 862
Muhammad Imam Ali Khan v. Husain Khan, 26 C. 81 (P. C.); 25 I. A. 161; 2 C. W. N. 737 ... 101
Muhammad Mumtaz Ahmad v. Zubaida Jan, 11 A. 460 at p. 470; 16 I. A. 205; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 433 ... 957
Muhammad Qamar-ud-din Khan v. Lachmi Nath, 95 P. R. 1906; 83 P. L. R. 1907 ... 745
Muhammad Said Khan v. Payag Sahu, 16 A. 228; A. W. N. (1894) 55 ... 26

M—contd.

Page.

Muhammad Sulaiman Khan v. Muhammad Yar Khan, 11 A. 267; A. W. N. (1889) 55; 13 Ind. Cas. 427 ... 755
Muhammad Suleman Khan v. Muhammad Yar Khan, 17 A. 39; A. W. N. (1894) 191 ... 245
Mujib-un-nissa v. Abdur Rahim, 23 A. 233 (P. C.); 28 I. A. 15; 5 C. W. N. 177 ... 53
Mukhtar Ahmad v. Moqarrab Hussain, 15 Ind. Cas. 50; 34 A. 530; 10 A. L. J. 56 ... 867
Mulchand Joharimal v. Suganchand Shivdas, 1 B. 23 ... 899
Mulji Bhulabhai v. Manohar Ganesh, 12 B. 322 858
Mulla Veetil v. Atchuthan Nair, 9 Ind. Cas. 513; 21 M. L. J. 213; 9 M. L. T. 431; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 165 ... 384
Munna Lal v. Munna Lal, 23 Ind. Cas. 559; 36 A. 327; 12 A. L. J. 457 ... 3
Munna Singh v Gajadhar Singh, 5 A. 577; A. W. N. (1883) 130. ... 59
Murlidhar v. Jagannath, 23 Ind. Cas. 20; 10 N. L. R. 5 ... 609
Murugappa Chetti v. Nagappa Chetti, 29 M. 161; 16 M. L. J. 22 ... 780
Musa Haji Ahmad v. Purmanund Nursey, 15 B. 216 ... 289
Musammat Bakhan v. Ala Bakhsh, 26 P. R. 1903; 100 P. L. R. 1903 ... 527
Musammat Bibi Sahodra v. Rai Jang Bahadur, 8 I. A. 210; 8 C. 224; 4. Sar. P. C. J. 294; 6 Ind. Jur. 108 ... 439
Musammat Chembeli v. National Bank of India Ld., 10 Ind. Cas. 647; 62 P. L. R. 1911 ... 913
Musammat Dhagi v. Barham Deo Pershad, 4 C. W. N. 297 ... 862
Musammat Kaveri Bai v. Musammat Chandra Bhagabai, 4 C. P. L. R. 188 ... 820
Musammat Lacho Bai v. Asa Nand, 144 P. R. 1882 ... 451
Musammat Luteefun v. Mean Jan, 6 W. R. 112 201
Musammat Maya v. Gurdit Singh, 4 Ind. Cas. 947; 1 P. R. 1910; 145 P. L. R. 1909; 128 P. W. R. 1909 ... 513
Musammat Mulo v. Phulo Missar, 108 P. R. 1888 ... 452
Musammat Narain Devi v. Hira, 21 Ind. Cas. 843; 22 P. R. 1914; 212 P. W. R. 1913; 339 P. L. R. 1913; 12 P. L. R. 1914 ... 405
Musammat Rajwanta Kuar v. Sham Narain Singh, 23 Ind. Cas. 88; 12 A. L. J. 283; 37 A. 220 ... 809
Musammat Rukman v. Brij Mohan Lal, 68 P. R. 1881 ... 343
Musammat Tanto v. Gajadhar, 1 N. L. R. 129 ... 815
Musammat Tarifan v. Fateh Din, 15 Ind. Cas. 685 120
Mussalappa v. Emperor, 6 Ind. Cas. 242; 7 M. L. T. 367; 11 Cr. L. J. 293; (1910) M. W. N. 541... 143
Muthia v. Appasami, 13 M. 504 ... 20
Muthu v. Kambalinga, 12 M. 316 ... 3
Muthu Sri Jiejamba Bai Sahib v. Secretary of State for India, 15 Ind. Cas. 871; 23 M. L. J. 687; 12 M. L. T. 541; (1913) M. W. N. 255 ... 87
Muthukumaraswami Pillai v. Emperor, 14 Ind. Cas. 896; 13 Cr. L. J. 352; (1912) M. W. N. 549; 12 M. L. T. 1; 35 M. 397 ... 140

M—concld.

Page.

Muthusami Mudaliyar v. Simambedu Muthkumaraswami Mudaliyar, 19 M. 405; 23 I. A. 83; 6 M. L. J. 113; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 45 ... 766
Muthuveerappa Chetti v. Ponnuswami Chetty, 13 Ind. Cas. 16; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 561; 10 M. L. T. 477; 22 M. L. J. 68 ... 301
Muthuveeru Mudaliar v. Vythilinga Mudaliar, 3 Ind. Cas. 476; 32 M. 206; 19 M. L. J. 88; 5 M. L. T. 122 760

N

Nabin Chand Naskar v. Raj Coomar Sarkar, 9 C. W. N. 1001 604
Naffer Chandra Pal Chowdhry v. Rajendra Lal Goswami, 25 C. 167 ... 438
Nagalingam Pillai v. Ramachandra Tevar, 24 M. 429; 11 M. L. J. 210 398
Nagaraja Pillai v. Vythinatha Iyer, 9 Ind. Cas. 672; 21 M. L. J. 484; 9 M. L. T. 273; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 369 106, 726
Nagardas v. Anandrao, 31 B. 590; 9 Bom. L. R. 495 ... 278
Nallayappa Pillian v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi, 27 M. 465 at p. 472 (F. B.); 14 M. L. J. 81 239
Nanchand v. Virhu, 19 B. 258 ... 755
Nand Kishore Lal v. Ahmad Ata, 18 A. 69; A. W. N. (1895) 160 ... 507
Nand Kumar Shaha v. Gaur Shankar, 13 W. R. 305; 5 B. L. R. App. 4 ... 297
Nand Lal v. Ram Ratan Lodhi, 2 N. L. R. 137 ... 703
Nandan Pat Tewari v. Radha Keshun Kalwar, 5 Ind. Cas. 664 ... 934
Nandkishore v. Anwar Hussain, 4 Ind. Cas. 809; 32 A. 71; 6 A. L. J. 979 ... 281
Nanfan v. Perkins, 59 Eng. Rep. 376; 9 Sim. 308 ... 705
Nanhuji v. Chimna, 10 Ind. Cas. 86; 7 N. L. R. 72 ... 427
Nanjaya Mudali v. Shanmuga Mudali, 22 Ind. Cas. 555; 15 M. L. T. 186; (1914) M. W. N. 356; 26 M. L. J. 576 ... 986
Nanny v. Edwards, 38 Eng. Rep. 752; 4 Russ. 124; 6 L. J. (o. s.) Ch. 20; 28 R. R. 24 ... 704
Narainsawmy Naidu Garu v. Yeerameli Ram Krishnaya, 5 Ind. Cas. 479; 33 M. 499 at p. 501; 7 M. L. T. 119; (1910) M. W. N. 221 and 280 ... 348
Narana Chetty v. Sit Kauk, 2 U. B. R. 276 ... 274
Narasimma Thatha Acharya v. Anantha Bhatta, 4 M. 391 ... 442
Narayan v. Ganpat, 21 B. 619 ... 195
Narayan v. Lakshmandas, 7 Bom. L. R. 934 ... 605
Narayan Balkrishna Kulkarni v. Gopal Jiv Ghadi, 23 Ind. Cas. 889; 16 Bom. L. R. 206; 38 B. 392 ... 888
Narayana Ayyar v. Venkataramana Ayyar, 25 M. 220 (F. B.) ... 511
Narayana Nambudripad v. Narayana Nambudripad, 25 Ind. Cas. 25 ... 51
Narayanan Chetty v. Kannammai Achi, 28 M. 338 ... 818
Narendra Narayan Roy v. Ishan Chundra Sen, 22 W. R. 22; 13 B. L. R. 274 (F. B.) ... 700

N—contd.

Page.

Narhar Raghunath Naphad v. Krishnaji Govind, 15 Ind. Cas 822; 36 B. 368; 14 Bom. L. R. 381 245
Nataraja Aiyar v. South India Bank Limited, 13 Ind. Cas. 91; 37 M. 51; 22 M. L. J. 105; 10 M. L. T. 503; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 590 ... 509
Natesa Aiyar v. Appavu Padayachi, 19 Ind. Cas. 462; 24 M. L. J. 488; (1913) M. W. N. 341; 13 M. L. T. 391 ... 122
Natesan Chetty v. Vengu Nachiar, 3 Ind. Cas. 701; 33 M. 102; 6 M. L. T. 313; 20 M. L. J. 80 ... 791
Natha Singh v. Jodha Singh, 6 A. 406; A. W. N. (1884), 140 ... 339
Nathu Bhai v. Mulchand, 3 Bom. L. R. 535 ... 339
Nathu Lalla v. Vithoba, 1 C. P. L. R. 9 ... 699
Nathu Velji v. Keshavji, 26 B. 174; 3 Bom. L. R. 718 ... 461
National Provincial Bank of England v. Games, (1886) 31 Ch. D. 582; 55 L. J. Ch. 576; 54 L. T. 696; 34 W. R. 600 ... 185
Navakoti Narayana Chetty v. Loyalinga Chetty, 4 Ind. Cas. 383; 33 M. 312; 19 M. L. J. 752; 7 M. L. T. 233 ... 196
Nawab Sidhee Nuzur Ali Khan v. Rajah Ojoodhyaram Khan, 10 M. I. A. 540; 5 W. R. 83 (P. C.); 1 Suth. P. C. J. 675; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 198; 19 Eng. Rep. 1075 ... 183
Neel Kanto Pandit v. Jaggobundhoo Ghose, 12 B. L. R. App. 18 ... 85
Neelamega Sastri v. Appiah Sastri, 29 M. 477; 16 M. L. J. 385; 1 M. L. T. 237 ... 617
Nemai Chand Adhya v. Mir Golam Hossein, 3 Ind. Cas. 353; 37 C. 179; 14 C. W. N. 535; 11 C. L. J. 317 ... 358
New Haven v. Mitchell, (1842) 15 Conn. 206 at p. 225 ... 965
New Zealand and Australian Land Company v. Watson, 7 Q. B. D. 374; 50 L. J. Q. 433; 44 L. T. 675; 29 W. R. 694 ... 826
Nga Tha Kin v. Emperor, 11 Ind. Cas. 792; U. B. R. (1911), I, 87; 12 Cr. L. J. 448 ... 1007
Nidamarthi Mukkanti v. Thammana Ramayya, 26 M. 76 at p. 77 ... 355
Nidha Sah v. Murli Dhar, 25 A. 115 (P. C.); 30 I. A. 54; 5 Bom. L. R. 111; 7 C. W. N. 289 ... 72
Nield v. London and North Railway Company, 10 Ex. 4; 44 L. J. Ex. 15; 23 W. R. 60 ... 803
Nihal Chand v. David Sassoon & Co., 15 Ind. Cas. 28; 231 P. W. R 1912; 229 P. L. R. 1912 ... 513
Nihal Chand v. Prem Bai, 148 P. R. 1890 footnote ... 452
Nil Madhab Sikdar v. Narattam Sikdar, 17 C. 826 ... 24
Nilakandan v. Padmanabha, 14 M. 153 ... 857
Nilakandhen Nambudirapad v. Padmanabha Ravi Varma, 18 M. 1; 21 I. A. 128; 4 M. L. J. 233; 6 Sar. P. C. J. 478 ... 857
Nilakanta v. Imam Sahib, 16 M. 361; 3 M. L. J. 364 ... 220
Nilmonee Choudhry v. Musammat Zuheerunnissa Khanum, 8 W. R. 371 ... 407
Ningawa v. Bharmappa, 23 B. 63 ... 748
Nisar Ali v. Meghi, Selected Decision No. 4 of 1913 ... 709

N—concld.

Page.

Nitye Gopal Sircar v. Nagendra Nath Mitter Mozumdar, 11 C. 429 ... 555
Nizam-ud-din Shah v. Anandi Prasad, 18 A. 373; A. W. N. (1896) 99 ... 815
Nobin Chunder Roy v. Brojendro Coomar Roy, 12 C. L. R., 541 ... 821
Nobokishore Sarma v. Harinath Sarma, 10 C. 1102 ... 759
Nogenderchunder Ghose v. Sreemutty Kaminee Dossee, 11 M. I. A. 241; 8 W. R. 17 (P. C.); 2 Suth. P. C. J. 77; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 275; 20 E. R. 92 ... 186
Noothi Subbarayadu v. Dara Lingayya Garu Suryapracharalingam Garu, 18 M. L. J. 461 ... 69
Norendra Nath Sircar v. Kamalbasini Dasi, 23 I. A. 18 at p. 26; 23 C. 563 ... 918
North Eastern Railway Co. v. Lord Hastings, (1900) A. C. 260; 69 L. J. Ch. 516; 82 L. T. 429; 16 T. L. R. 325 ... 468
Novosielski v. Wakefield, 34 Eng. Rep. 161; 17 Ves. 417 ... 704
Nurdin v. Allavdin, 12 M. 134 ... 236
Nur-ul-Hasan v. Muhammad Hasan, 7 Ind. Cas. 1022; 78 P. R. 1910; 107 P. W. R. 1910; 146 P. L. R. 1910 ... 974
Nuttall v. Bracewell, 2 Ex. 1 at p. 11; 4. H. & C. 714; 36 L. J. Ex. 1; 12 Jur. (N. S.) 989; 15 L. T. 313 ... 693

O

Ocean Iron Steamship Insurance Association v. Leslie, 22 Q. B. D. 722; 57 L. T. 722; 6 Asp. M. C. 226 ... 825
Ockenden v. Henley, (1858) E. B. & E. 485; 27 L. J. Q. B. 361; 4 Jur. (N. S.) 999; 120 Eng. Rep. 590; 113 R. R. 740 ... 227
Oravukundiyil Parkum Elavana Tolan v. Palankunny Kunhi Kutti, 18 Ind. Cas. 549; 24 M. L. J. 93 (1913) M. W. N. 51 ... 832
Orr v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 23 M. 571; 10 M. L. J. 261 ... 865
Orr Ewing v. Colquhoun, 2 App. Cas. 839 ... 807

P

Pachkauri v. Queen-Empress, 24 C. 686; 1 C. W. N. 423 ... 159
Padmanabha Payi Kanniah v. Emperor, 5 Ind. Cas. 145; 7 M. L. T. 79; 11 Cr. L. J. 49; 20 M. L. J. 84; 33 M. 264 ... 142
Padstow Total Loss and Collision Assurance Association, In re, 20 Ch. D. 137; 51 L. J. Ch. 344; 45 L. T. 774; 30 W. R. 326 ... 617
Paga v. Sadasheo, 17 Ind. Cas. 624; 8 N. L. R. 172 ... 820
Paine v. Jones, (1874) 18 Eq. 320; 43 L. J. Ch. 787; 30 L. T. 779; 22 W. R. 807 ... 456
Palaniappa Chetti v. Annamalai Chetti, 27 M. 223 at p. 225; 14 M. L. J. 74 ... 58
Palaniappan v. Subbaraya Gounden, 22 Ind. Cas. 4; 14 M. L. T. 579; (1914) M. W. N. 222; 1 L. W. 80 ... 2

P—contd.

Page.

Palla Kanakamma v. Challa Ramasami, 23 Ind. Cas. 98; 1 L. W. 237 ... 3
Panch Duar Thakur v. Mani Raut, 17 Ind. Cas. 88; 16 C. W. N. 970 ... 867
Panchanada v. Nilakanada, 7 M. 191 ... 87
Panchena v. Godinhare, 20 M. 68; 7 M. L. J. 26... 617
Pandhari v. Mahadeo, 12 Ind. Cas. 795; 7 N. L. R. 162 ... 702
Pandu v. Vithu, 19 B. 140 ... 3
Pandurang v. Balaji, S. A. No. 75-B of 1911 ... 821
Pandurang v. Balaji, 14 C. P. L. R. 142 ... 603
Panduranga Mudaliar v. Vythilinga Reddi, 30 M. 537; 2 M. L. T. 466; 17 M. L. J. 4 7 ... 414
Papachar Sethumathva Chariar v. The Secretary of State, 26 Ind. Cas. 187; 1 L. W. 941 ... 693
Papamma Rao v. Vira Pratapa H. V. Ramachandra Razu, 19 M. 249; 33 I. A. 32; 6 M. L. J. 53; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 10 ... 987
Papillon v. Bruton, (1865) 5 H. & N. 518; 29 L. J. Ex. 265; 120 R. R. 704 ... 967
Paramathan Somayajipad v. Sankara Menon, 23 M. 82 ... 208
Parameshri v. Vittappa, 26 M. 157; 12 M. L. J. 189 ... 24
Parameshwaran v. Shangaran, 14 M. 489 ... 208
Parasara Bhattar v. Rangaraja Bhattar, 2 M. 202 at p. 207; 4 Ind. Jur. 393 ... 889
Parashram v. Likhan, 10 Ind. Cas. 866; 7 N. L. R. 67 ... 820
Parbati Kunwar v. Chandarpal Kunwar, 4 Ind. Cas. 25; 31 A. 457 (P. C.); 10 C. L. J. 216; 6 A. L. J. 767; 13 C. W. N. 1073; 11 Bom. L. R. 890; 12 O. C. 304; 5 M. L. T. 427; 19 M. L. J. 605; 36 I. A. 125 ... 101
Parker v. Winlow, 7 E. & B. 942; 27 L. J. Q. B. 49; 4 Jur. (N. S.) 584; 119 Eng. Rep. 1497; 110 R. R. 904 ... 828
Parry & Co. v. Appasami Pillai, 2 M. 407; 5 Ind. Jur. 188 266, 289
Parthasarathi Naicken v. Lakshmana Naicken, 9 Ind. Cas. 791; 35 M. 231; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 201, 21 M. L. J. 467 ... 295
Patloji v. Ganu, 15 B. 370; P. J. (1890) 336 ... 756
Pattabhiramier v. Venkatarow Naiken, 13 M. I. A. 560; 7 B. L. R. 136; 15 W. R. (P. C.) 35; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 410; 2 Sar. P; C. J. 623; 20 E. R. 660 ... 379
Pattaikara Mannakkal Kuppen v. Chvorakkapatti Munde Kottil, 14 Ind. Cas. 168; 37 M. 373; (1912) M. W. N. 445; 11 M. L. T. 355 ... 859
Peacock v. Baijnath, 18 C. 573 at p. 587; 18 I. A. 78 ... 826
Peary Mohan Mukhopadhya v. Sreeram Chandra Bose, 6 C. W. N. 794 ... 199
Peary Mohun Mandal v. Radhika Mohun Hazra, 5 C. L. J. 9 at p. 14; 8 C. W. N. 315 ... 980
Peddayya v. Ramalingam, 11 M. 406 ... 212
Peera v. Crown, 37 P. R. 1869 Cr. ... 627
Peria Aiya Ambalam v. Shanmugasundaram, 22 Ind. Cas. 615; 26 M. L. J. 140; 15 M. L. T. 112; 1 L. W. 119 ... 296
Perumal v. Ramasami Chetty, 11 M. 16 ... 975
Phanindra Nath Mitra v. Emperor, 1 Ind. Cas. 469; 36 C. 48; 12 C. W. N. 1014; 8 Cr. L. J. 221 15
Phelan v. N. W. Life Insurance Co., (1889) 113 N. Y. 147; 10 Am. St. Rep. 441 ... 966

P—concld.

Page.
Pilu v. Babaji, 4 Ind. Cas. 584; 34 B. 165; 11 Bom. L. R. 1291 ... 774
Pingale Eiswanatha Row v. Chinnakolandai Nainar, 22 Ind. Cas. 369; 1 L. W. 197 ... 409
Pirthi Pal Kunwar v. Guman Kunwar, 17 C. 933 (P. C.); 17 I. A. 107 ... 236
Pita Moti v. Chunilal, 9 Bom. L. R. 15; 31 B. 207 ... 267
Pitambar v. Ganesha Ram, 148 P. R. 1890 ... 452
Pitts v. Hartford, (1895) 66 Conn. 376; 50 Am. St. Rep. 96 ... 966
Pokree Saheb Beary v. Pokree Beary, 21 M. 32 ... 186
Ponaka Subba Rani Reddi v. Vadamadi Seshachellam Chetty, 5 Ind. Cas. 79; 33 M. 359; 7 M. L. T. 137; 20 M. L. J. 328 ... 984
Ponnusawmi Taver v. Collector of Madura, 5 M. H. C. R. 6 ... 726
Poole v. Warren, (1838) 8 A. & E. 582 at p. 587; 3 N. &. P. 693; 3 Jur. 23; 112 E. R. 959. ... 964
Pope, In re, 17 Q. B. D. 743; 55 L. J. Q. B. 522; 55 L. T. 369; 34 W. R. 693 ... 988
Pragji Kalan v. Govind Gopal, 11 B. 534 ... 461
Pramada Dasi v. Lakhi Narain Mitter, 12 C. 60 at p. 63 ... 209
Pran Krishna Tewary v. Jadu Nath Trivedy, 2 C. W. N. 603 ... 84
Pran Nath Sarkar v. Jadu Nath Saha, 32 C. 729; 9 C.W. N. 697 ... 604
Prangour Mozoomdar v. Himanta Kumari Debya, 12 C. 597 ... 201
Prannath v. Rookea Begum, 7 M. I. A. 323 at p. 353; 4 W. R. (P. C.) 37; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 367; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 692; 19 E. R. 331 ... 411
Pratap Singh v. Umrao Singh, 11 C. P. L. R. 1 ... 609
Prem Chand Pal v. Purnima Dasi, 15 C. 546 ... 354
Preo Nath Mukerji v. Bishnath Prasad, 29 A. 256; A. W. N. (1907) 41; 4 A. L. J. 85 ... 303
Preonath v. Gobordhone, 25 C. 278 ... 148
Preonath Shaha v. Madhu Sudan Bhuiya, 25 C. 603; 2 C. W. N. 562 ... 718
President, etc., of the Westfield Bank v. Conen, 37 N. Y. R. (10 Tiff.) 322 ... 256
Preston Banking Co., v. William Allsup and Sons, (1895) 1 Ch. 141; 64 L. J. Ch. 196; 12 R. 51; 71 L. T. 708; 43 W. R. 231 ... 65
Pria Nath Das v. Ramtaran Chatterjee, 30 C. 811; 7 C. W. N. 601 (P. C.) ... 216
Proby v. Proby, 5 C. 357; 5 C. L. R. 1; 5 Ind. Jur 248 ... 488
Promotho Nath Mitter v. Kali Prosanna Chowdhry, 28 C. 744 ... 198
Prosunno Chunder Bhuttacharjee v. Kristo Chytanno Pal, 4 C. 342; 3 C. L. R. 154 ... 22
Public Prosecutor v. Bonigiri Pottigadu, 2 Ind. Cas. 307; 32 M. 179; 9 Cr. L. J. 567; 5 M. L. T. 100 ... 627
Puddomonee Dossee v. Roy Moothooranath Chowdhry, 12 B. L. R. 411 (P C.); 20 W. R. 133 ... 82
Pulin Chandra Mandal v. Balai Mandal, 35 C. 939; 12 C. W. N. 837; 8 C. L. J. 280 ... 759
Punjaji v. Jagannath, 6 C. P. L. R. 13 ... 820

Q

Page.
Qamar-ud-din Khan v. Mani Ram, 96 P. R. 1906; 138 P. L. R. 1906 ... 745
Quarles v. Knight, 8 Price 630 ... 704
Quartz Hill Gold Mining Co. v; Evre, (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 674 at p. 690; 52 L. J. Q. B. 488; 49 L. J. 249; 31 W. R. 668 ... 297
Queen v. Bipro Dass, 19 W. R. Cr. 43 ... 660
——— v. Ipswich Union, 2 Q. B. D. 269; 46 L. J. M. C. 207; 36 L. T. 317; 25 W. R. 511 ... 475
——— v. Karri Papayamma, 4 M. 230; 2 Weir 652 ... 150
——— v. Petumber Dhoobee, 14 W. R. Cr. 10 ... 660
——— v. Reazooddeen, 3 W. R. Cr. 33 ... 646
——— v. Sankara, 6 M. 381; 1 Weir 595 ... 461
Queen-Empress v. Abdul Kadir, 9 A. 452; A. W. N. (1887) 111 ... 639
——— v. Ahmadi, 20 A. 264; A. W. N. (1898) 52 ... 152
——— v. Bhau, 23 B. 493 ... 661
——— v. Brij Narain Man, 20 A. 529; A. W. N. (1898) 152 ... 658
——— v. Dalip, 18 A. 246; A. W. N. (1896) 48 ... 322
——— v. Jagat Chandra Mali, 22 C. 50 ... 660
——— v. Lakshman Dagdu, 10 B. 512 ... 1008
——— v. Manick Chandra Sarkar, 24 C. 492 ... 658
——— v. Mulua, 14 A. 502; A. W. N. (1892) 95 ... 660
——— v. Natu, 27 C. 137 ... 658
——— v. O'Brien, 19 A. 111; A. W. N. (1896) 191 ... 137
——— v. Ram Tevan, 15 M. 352; 2 Weir 364 ... 660
——— v. Ramasami, 24 M. 321; 2 Weir 396 ... 661
——— v. Rami Reddi, 12 M. 226; 1 Weir 761 ... 645
——— v. Sami, 13 M. 426; 1 Weir 290 ... 332
——— v. Sudra, 14 A. 336; A. W. N. (1892) 21 ... 661
——— v. Venkatasami, 12 M. 459; 1 Weir 42 ... 1008
Quilter v. Mapleson, 9 Q. B. D. 672; 52 L. J. Q. B. 44; 47 L. T. 562; 31 W. R. 75 ... 411

R

Rabbidge Ex parte; Pooley, In re, (1878) 8 Ch. D. 367; 38 L. T. 663; 26 W. R. 646 ... 422
Race v. Ward, (1855) 4 El. & Bl. 702; 99 R. R. 702; 3 C. L. R. 744; 24 L. J. Q. B. 153; 1 Jur. (N. S.) 704; 53 W. R. 240; 24 L. T. (o. s.) 270; 119 E. R. 259 ... 214
Radha Pershad Singh v. Budhu Dashad, 22 C. 938 ... 80
Radha Raman Chowdhry v. Bhowani Prosad Bhowmik, 6 C. W. N. 60; 12 C. L. J. 139; 8 Ind. Cas. 790 ... 959

R—contd.

Page.

Radhanath Doss v. Gisborne, 14 M. I. A. 1; 15 W. R. (P. C.) 24; 6 B. L. R. 530; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 397; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 636; 20 Eng. Rep. 687 ... 3
Radhay Koer v. Ajodhya Das, 7 C. L. J. 262 ... 410
Radho v. Harnaman, 99 P. R. 1907 ... 453
Ragho v. Sadoo, 5 Ind. Cas. 428; 6 N. L. R. 6 ... 699
Raghu Nath Bhagat v. Syed Samad Shah, 7 C. L. J. 560; 12 C. W. N. 617 ... 220
Raghu Nath Singh Manku v. Pareshram Mahata, 9 C. 635; 13 C. L. R. 89 ... 376
Raghubans Puri v. Jyotis Swarupa, 29 A. 325; A. W. N. (1907) 68 ... 747
Raghunath Das v. Raj Kumar, 7 A. 876; A. W. N. (1885) 256 ... 809
Raghunath Saran Singh v. Sri Ram, 28 A. 764; 3 A. L. J. 579 (F. B.); A. W. N. (1906) 235; 1 M. L. T. 242 ... 960
Raghunatha Chariar v. Sadagopa Chariar, 12 Ind. Cas. 353; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 227; 10 M. L. T. 300; 36 M. 348; 21 M. L. J. 983 at p. 987 ... 224
Raghunatha Chariar v. Thiruvengada Ramanuja Chariar, 3 Ind. Cas. 123; 19 M. L. J. 257; 6 M. L. T. 167 ... 858
Raghunatha Thatha Chariar v. Venkatesa Tawker, 26 M. 101; 12 M. L. J. 435 ... 414
Rahamatullah Beg v. Yusuf Ali, 16 Ind. Cas. 635; 10 A. L. J. 121 ... 521
Rai Charan Mandul v. Biswanath Mandul, 26 Ind. Bas. 410; 20 C. L. J. 107 ... 475
Rai Krishna Chand v. Mahadeo Singh, A. W. N. (1901) 49 . 732
Raj Chunder Sen v. Ganga Das Seal, 31 C 487 (P. C.); 1 A. L. J. 145; 8 C. W. N. 2; 31 I. A. 71; 14 M. L. J 147. ... 524
Raj Kishen Mookerjee v. Radha Madhub, 21 W. R. 349 ... 355
Raj Krishto Roy v. Beer Chunder Joobraj, 6 W. R. 308 ... 220
Raj Lukhee v. Gokool Chunder Chowdhry, 13 M. I. A. 209; 12 W. R. 47 (P. C.); 3 B. L. R. 57; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 275; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 518; 20 Eng. Rep. 529 ... 760
Raja Bhup Indar Bahadur Singh v. Bijai Bahadur Singh, 27 I. A. 209; 2 Bom. L. R. 978; 23 A. 152 .. 756
Raja Dei v. Umed Singh, 13 Ind. Cas. 632; 9 A. L. J. 158; 34 A. 207 ... 3
Raja Har Narain Siugh v. Choudrain Bhagwant Kuar, 13 A. 300 at page 304; 18 I. A. 55; 6 Sar. P. C. J. 14; 15 Ind. Jur. 283 ... 376
Raja Lelanund Singh Bahadur v. Government of Bengal, 4 W. R. (P. C.) 77; 6 M. I. A. 101; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 505; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 248; 19 Eng. Rep. 38 ... 80
Raja Nilmoney Singh Deo Bahadur v. Kalee Churn Bhuttacharjee, 2 I. A. 83; 14 B. L. R. 382 (P. C.); 23 W. R. 150; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 447; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 77 ... 234
Raja of Venkatagiri v. Mokku Narasaya, 7 Ind. Cas. 202; 37 M. 1; (1910) M. W. N. 369; 8 M. L. T. 258 ... 410
Raja Ram v. Ganesh, 23 B. 131 ... 443
Raja Rampal Singh v. Ram Ghulam Singh, 32 I. A. 17; 1 C. L. J. 46; 27 A. 37; 2 A. L. J. 237 (P. C.) ... 444

R—contd.

Page.

Raja Rangayya Appa Rao v. Bobba Sriramulu, 27 M. 143 (P. C.); 8 C. W. N. 162; 14 M. L. J. 1; 6 Bom. L. R. 241; 31 I. A. 17 ... 269
Raja Sree Nath Roy v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 8 C. W. N. 294 ... 403
Raja Venkata Rao v. Court of Wards, 2 M. 128 (P. C.); 6 C. L. R. 153; 7 I. A. 38; 3 Suth. P. C. 725; 4 Ind. Jur. 138; 3 Shome L. R. 175; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 81 ... 590
Rajah Muttu Ramalinga Setupati v. Perianayagum Pillay, 1 I. A. 209 ... 854
Rajah Rup Singh v. Rani Baisni, 7 A. 1 at p. 11; 11 I. A. 149 ... 339
Rajah Sahib Perhlad Sein v. Maharajah Rajender Kishore Singh, 12 M. I. A. 292 at p. 331; 12 W. R. 6 (P. C.); 2 B. L. R. 111; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 225; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 430; 20 Eng. Rep. 349 ... 682
Rajah Vurmah Valia v. Ravi Vurmah Kunhi Kutti, 1 M. 235; 4 I. A. 76; 1 Ind. Jur. 134; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 687; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 382 ... 442
Rajammal v. Authiammal, 7 Ind. Cas. 357; 33 M. 304; 8 M. L. T. 139; 20 M. L. J. 519 250, 364
Rajaram Bhagwat v. Jibai, 9 B. 151 ... 411
Rajkishore Lahoory v. Gobind Chunder Lahoory and Rammoney Dossee v. Gobind Chunder Lahoory, 1 C. 27; 24 W. R. 234 ... 765
Rajoni Bibi v. Hafisonnissa Bibi, 4 C. W. N. 572 ... 968
Rajputana Malwa Railway Co-operative Stores, Ltd. v. Ajmer Municipal Board, 6 Ind. Cas. 401; 32 A. 491; 7 A. L. J. 496 ... 220
Rajrup Koer v. Syed Abdul Hossein, 7 I. A. 240 at p. 247; 7 C. L. R. 529; 6 C. 394; 4 Shome L. R. 7; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 199; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 816; 4 Ind. Jur. 530 189, 726
Rakhohari Chatta Raj v. Bipra Das Dey, 31 C. 975 ... 186
Ralla v. Budha, 50 P. R. 1893 (F. B). ... 813
Ram Chand v. Thakar Das, 94 P. R. 1907; 29 P. L. R. 1908 ... 513
Ram Charn Tewary v. Protap Chandra Dutt Jha, 2 C. L. J. 448 ... 3
Ram Chandra v. Totya, 19 Ind. Cas. 549; 9 N. L. R. 46 ... 607
Ram Das Byragee v. Gunga Dass, 3 Agra H. C. R. 295 ... 607
Ram Gopal v. Prasanna Kumar, 2 C. L. J. 508; 10 C. W. N. 529 ... 125
Ram Kanai Ghosh v. Raja Sri Sri Hari Narayan Singh Deo Bahadur, 2 C. L. J. 546 ... 3
Ram Kirpal v. Musammat Rup Kuari, 11 I. A. 37; 6 A. 269 (P. C.); 4 Saraswati's P. C. J. 489 ... 48
Ram Kishen Das v. Tanda Mal, 10 Ind. Cas. 543; 33 A. 677; 8 A. L. J. 723 ... 35
Ram Lakhi v. Durga Charan Sen, 11 C. 680 ... 906
Ram Nawaz v. Ram Charan, 18 A. 49; A. W. N. (1895) 155 ... 82
Ram Ratan Sahu v. Mohant Sahu, 6 C. L. J. 74; 11 C. W. N. 732 ... 410
Ram Saran Das v. Ram Pergash Das, 32 C. 283 812
Ram Sewak v. Lambar Pande, 25 A. 27; A. W. N. (1902) 171 ... 487
Rama v. Kunji, 9 M. 375 ... 960
Rama v. Subba, 12 M. 98 ... 87

R—contd.

Page

Rama Aiyar v. Venkatachala Padayachi, 30 M. 311; 2 M. L. T. 84; 17 M. L. J. 123; 5 Cr. L. J. 288 ... 58
Rama Brahmam v. Venkatanarasu Puntulu, 16 Ind. Cas. 269; 23 M. L. J. 131; (1912) M. W. N. 1124 275, 938
Rama Kanta Sarma v. Kalijoy Sarma, 11 Ind. Cas. 124 ... 707
Rama Rau v. Venkatesa Bhandari, 5 M. 171 (F. B.) ... 368
Ramachandra v. Pitchaikanni, 7 M. 434 293, 865
Ramakkal v. Ramasamy Naicken, 22 M. 522; 9 M. L. J. 101 ... 458
Ramanadan Chetti v. Periatambai, 6 M. 250 ... 414
Ramanadan Chetty v. Pulikutti Servai, 21 M. 288; 8 M. L. J. 121 347, 410, 475
Ramanath Dass v. Boloram, 7 C. 677; 9 C. L. R. 233 ... 427
Ramasami v. Nagendrayyan, 19 M. 31; 5 M. L. J. 237 ... 617
Ramasami v. Ramasami, 2 M. L. J. 251 ... 848
Ramasami Aiyan v. Venkata Ramaiyan, 2 M. 91; 6 I. A. 196; 5 C. L. R. 347; 3 Shome L. R. 39; 3 Ind. Jur. 472; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 42; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 663 ... 780
Ramasawmy Chettiar v. Hari Krishna Chettiar, 10 Ind. Cas. 658; 21 M. L. J. 705; 9 M. L. T. 465; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 220 ... 219
Ramaswamy Kone v. Sundara Kone, 31 M. 28; 17 M. L. J. 495; 3 M. L. T. 26 ... 755
Ramansar Pandey v. Raghubar Jati, 5 A. 490; A. W. N. (1883) 64 ... 815
Ramayyan v. Kadir Bacha Sahib, 31 M. 68; 3 M. L. T. 254; 17 M. L. J. 596 ... 414
Ramayyar v. Vedachalla, 14 M. 441 (F. B.); 1 M. L. J. 661 ... 269
Ramchandra v. Draupudi, 20 B. 281 ... 48
Ramchandra v. Jairam, 22 B. 686 ... 427
Ramchandra Martand Waikar v. Venkatesh Kothekar, 25 Ind. Cas. 290; 16 M. L. T. 447; 18 C. W. N. 1154; 27 M. L. J. 333; 1 L. W. 83; 10 N. L. R. 112; (1914) M. W. N. 835; 16 Bom. L. R. 863; 12 A. L. J. 1281; 20 C. L. J. 533 (P. C.) ... 765
Rameshwar Tewari v. Nogeshwar Tewari, A. W. N. (1905) 43; 2 A. L. J. 154 ... 344
Ramgutty Nag v. Barodachurn Bose, 1 W. R. 120 ... 979
Ramjas v. Ralla, 1 Ind. Cas. 465; 25 P. R. 1909; 39 P. W. R. 1909; 70 P. L. R. 1909 ... 89
Ramji v. Chinto Sakharam, 1 B. H. C. R. 199 ... 834
Ramkinkar Biswas v. Akhil Chandra Chaudhuri, 35 C. 519; 11 C. W. N. 350 (F. B.); 5 C. L. J. 242; 2 M. L. T. 137 ... 721
Ramkrishna v. Tripurabai, 12 Ind. Cas. 529; 13 Bom. L. R. 940 ... 760
Rammonee v. Oomes Chunder, 1858 Beng. S. D. A. 1836 ... 979
Rampartab Samrathrai v. Foolibai, 20 B. 767 at p. 777 ... 838
Ramsden v. Longley, 2 Vern. 536; 23 Eng. Rep. 947 ... 185
Ramsing v. Babu Kisansing, 19 B. 116 ... 48

R—contd.

Page.

Ramyad Sahu v. Bindeswari Kumar Upadhya, 6 C. L. J. 102 ... 410
Rangappa Naik v. Kamti Naik, 31 M. 366 at p. 381 (F. B.); 18 M. L. T. 309; 3 M. L. T. 355 ... 756
Rangasami v. Muthukumarappa, 10 M. 509 275, 604, 939
Rangayya Chettiar v. Parthasarthi Naicker, 20 M. 120 ... 713
Rani Anund Kunwar v. Court of Wards, 6 C. 764; 8 C. L. R. 381; 8 I. A. 14; 4 Shome L. R. 78; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 195; 5 Ind. Jur. 161; Rafique and Jackson's P. C. No. 63 ... 739
Rani Hemanta Kumari v. Jagadindra, 10 C. W. N. 630; 3 A. L. J. 363; 8 Bom. L. R. 400; 1 M. L. T. 135; 46 M. L. J. 272 (P. C.) ... 439
Rani Jaibans Kuar v. Girdhari Tewari, 1 O. C. 40 ... 242
Raru Kutti v. Mamad, 18 M. 480 ... 281
Rashidunissa v. Bhup Singh, 3 A. L. J. 24 s. n.... 713
Ravala Nagama v. Secretary of State for India, 18 Ind. Cas. 699; (1913) M. W. N. 75 ... 865
Ravi Veeraraghavulu v. Sri Raja Bomma Devara Venkta Narasimha Naidu Bahadur, 25 Ind. Cas. 305; (1914) M. W. N. 695; 16 M. L. T. 262; 1 L. W. 779; 27 M. L. J. 451; 20 C. L. J. 375; 37 M. 443; 19 C. W. N. 97; 16 Bom. L. R. 853 492
Ravji Narayan Mandlik v. Dadaji Bapuji, 1 B. 523 ... 88
Ravula Vengala Reddi v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 15 Ind. Cas. 328 ... 865
Ravulu Parti Chelamana v. Ravula Parti Rama Row, 12 Ind. Cas. 317; 36 M. 46; 10 M. L. T. 232; 21 M. L. J. 876; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 265 ... 791
Razi-ud-din v. Karim Bakhsh, 12 A. 169; A. W. N. (1890) 36 ... 960
Reasut Hossein v. Hajee Abdoollah, 3 I. A. 221; 2 C. 131; 26 W. R. 50 (P. C.) ... 48
Redgrave v. Hurt (1881) 20 Ch. D. 1; 51 L. J. Ch. 113; 45 L. T. 485; 30 W. R. 251 286, 322
Reese River Silver Mining Co. v. Smith, 4 H. L. 54; 17 W. R. 1024; 39 L. J. Ch. 849 ... 352
Reference under the Madras Forest Act, 12 M. 203; 1 Weir 758 (F. B.) ... 645
Reg. v. Vyankatrav, 7 B. H. C. R. 50 Cr. ... 322
Rewun Pershad v. Musammat Radha Beeby, 4 M. I. A. 137; 7 W. R. 35 (P. C.); 1 Suth P. C. J. 172; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 327; 18 E. R. 651 ... 457
Rex v. Herefordshire, (1820) 3 B. & Ald. 581; 106 E. R. 773 ... 964
—— v. Johnson, (1805) 7 East 65 at pp. 66, 70; 3 Smith 94; 8 R. R. 597; 103 E. R. 26 ... 965
—— v. Oxfordshire, 1 B. & Ad. 289 at p. 301; 8 L. J. (o. s.) K. B. 354; 109 Eng. Rep. 794 ... 805
—— v. Pagham Levels Commissioner, 8 B. & C. 355; 2 Man. & Ry. 468; 6 L. J. K. (o. s.) 338; 108 Eng. Rep. 1075; 32 R. R. 407 ... 803
—— v. Plumer, (1814) Russ. & R. 264; 15 R. R. 741 ... 965
—— v. Watson, (1808) 1 Camp. 215 ... 965
Richard Ross Skinner v. Naunihal Singh 19 Ind. Cas. 267; 35 A. 211 (P. C.); 25 M. L. J. 111; (1913) M. W. N. 509; 13 M. L. T. 488; 11 A. L. J. 494; 17 C. L. J. 555; 15 Bom. L. R. 502; 17 C. W. N. 853; 40 I. A. 105 ... 379

R—concld.

Page.

Ritraj Koer v. Sarfaraz Koer, 15 M. L. J. 349 at p. 351; 27 A. 655; 2 C. L. J. 185 (P. C.); 2 A. L. J. 623; 7 Bom. L. R. 872; 9 C. W. N. 889; 8 O. C. 293; 32 I. A. 165 ... 696
Robert Fischer v. Secretary of State for India, 22 M. 270; 26 I. A. 16; 3 C. W. N. 161 ... 884
Robinson, In the goods of, (1867) 1 P. and D. 384 at p. 386; 36 L. J. P. 93; 17 L. T. 19 ... 250
Robinson v. Fenner, (1912) 106 L. T. 542 ... 957
Robinson v. Fenner, (1912) 106 L. T. 722 ... 957
Rogers v. Duncan, (1890) 18 Can. Sup. Ct. 710 214
Rowland Hudson v. John Pierpont Morgan, 1 Ind. Cas. 356; 36 C. 713 at p. 721; 9 C. L. J. 563; 13 C. W. N. 654 ... 277
Roy Zuddi Sheikh v. Kali Nath Mookerjee, 33 C. 985; 4 C. L. J. 219 ... 605
Ruffin, Ex parte, 6 Ves. 119; 5 R. R. 237; 31 E. R. 970 ... 839
Runjeet Ram Panday v. Goberdhun Ram Panday, 20 W. R. 25 at p. 29 ... 439
Rup Chand Ghosh v. Sarveswar Chandra, 33 C. 915; 10 C. W. N. 747; 3 C. L. J. 629 ... 456
Rup Narain v. Gopal Devi, 3 Ind. Cas. 382; 36 I. A. 103; 13 C. W. N. 920; 6 A. L. J. 567; 11 Bom. L. R. 833; 10 C. L. J. 58; 36 C. 780; 19 M. L. J. 548; 5 M. L. T. 423; 93 P. R. 1909 (P. C.); 146 P. W R. 1909; 68 P. L. R. 1910 51, 759
Rustam v. Emperor, 6 Ind. Cas. 101; 7 A. L. J. 468; 11 Cr. L. J. 235 ... 140
Rustumji v. Purushotamdas, 25 B. 606; 3 Bom. L. R. 227 ... 410
Rylands v. Fletcher, 3 H. L. 330; 37 L. J. Ex. 161; 19 L. T. 220 ... 807

S

Sabapathi v. Somasundaram, 16 M. 76; 2 M. L. J. 244 ... 872
Sabbiah Naicker v. Ramanathan Chettiar, 22 Ind. Cas. 899; 26 M. L. J. 189; (1914) M. W. N. 205; 1 L. W. 251; 37 M. 462 ... 414
Sachitananda Mohapatra v. Baloram Gorain, 24 C. 644 ... 37
Sada Shankar v. Brij Mohan Das, 20 A. 480; A. W. N. (1898) 129 ... 128
Sadlier v. Biggs, 4 H. L. C. 435 at p. 458; 10 E. R. 53 ; 94 R. R. 171 ... 468
Safaraddi v. Durga Prosad Sen, 16 Ind Cas. 966; 16 C. L. J. 83 ... 891
Sahib Mirza v. Syed Muhammad, Select Case No. 306 ... 428
Sahib Mirza v. Umda Khanum, 19 C. 444 (P. C.); 19 I. A. 83 ... 428
Sakhalchand Rikhawdas v. Velchand Gujar, 18 B. 203; P. J. (1893) 79 ... 755
Sakkarai Ambalagaran v. Sundilapathi, 16 Ind. Cas. 236 ... 939
Sakharam v. Hari Krishna, 6 B. 113 ... 410
Saluk Singh v. Ajudhya Pershad, 15 Ind. Cas. 121; 10 A. L. J. 108 ... 900
Sama Rayar v. Annamalai Chetty, 7 M. 164 at p. 165 ... 289
Samat v. Amra,6 B. 394 ... 766

S—contd.

Page.

Saminathan Chetty v. Palaniappa Chetty, 26 Ind. Cas. 228; 83 L. J. P. C. 131; 18 C. W. N. 617 (P. C.); 17 New Law Reports 56 ... 303
Sammo v. Abdul Wahid, A. W. N. (1883) 208 ... 521
Samoo Patter v. Abdul Sammad Saheb, 31 M. 337 ... 605
Sandon v. Hooper, 49 Eng. Rep. 820; 6 Beav. 246; 12 L. J. Ch. 309; Affirmed on Appeal 14 L. J. Ch. 120; 63 R. R. 72 521, 714
Sangili v. Mookan, 16 M. 350; 3 M. L. J. 137 ... 410
Sankara v. Subrayar, 30 M. 535; 17 M. L. J. 436 ... 413
Sankaralinga Nadan v. Rajeswara Dorai, 31 M. 236; 12 C. W. N. 946 (P. C.); 4 M. L. T. 101; 8 C. L. J. 230; 10 Bom. L. R. 781 ... 8
Sankaran v. Krishna, 16 M. 456 ... 859
Sankarappa Naicker v. Pari Naicker, 21 Ind. Cas. 62; 25 M. L. J. 276; (1913) M. W. N. 640 808
Sankarappa Naicken v. Secretary of State for India, 7 Ind. Cas. 339; 20 M. L. J. 977; 8 M. L. T 201; (1910) M. W. N. 404 ... 866
Sankunni Menon v. Govinda Menon, 14 Ind. Cas. 254; 22 M. L. J. 485; 11 M. L. T. 325; (1912) M. W. N. 516; 37 M. 381 ... 220
Sanniyasi Razu v. Salur Zamindar, 7 M. 268 ... 80
Santishwar Mahanta v. Lakhikanta Mahanta, 35 C. 813; 13 C. W. N. 177 ... 507
Sanwale Singh v. Ganeshi Lal, 20 Ind. Cas. 41; 35 A. 441; 11 A. L. J. 630 ... 721
Saraswati Dasi v. Dhanput Singh, 9 C. 431; 12 C. L R. 12 ... 854
Sarat Chandra v. Damodar, 12 C. W. N. 885 ... 413
Sarat Chandra v. Tarini Prasad Pal, 34 C. 491; 11 C. W. N. 487 ... 943
Sarat Chandra Banerjee v. Bhupendra Nath Basu, 25 C. 103 ... 378
Sarat Chandra Roy Chowdry v. Chandi Charan Mitra, 7 C. W. N. 300 ... 960
Sarat Chunder Roy Chowdhry v. Chundra Kanta Roy, 25 C. 805 ... 960
Sarat Chandra Singh, In the matter of the petition of, 18 A. 285; A. W. N. (1896) 45 ... 411
Sarat Chandra Sinha v. Nritya Gopal Biswas, 8 Ind. Cas. 47; 13 C. L. J. 284 ... 348
Sardar Dial Singh v. Beli Ram, 51 P. R. 1897 ... 343
Satya Kumar Banerjee v. Satakripal Banerjee, 3 Ind. Cas. 247; 10 C. L. J. 503 ... 457
Saville v. Rebertson, (1792) 4 Term. Rep. 720; 100 E. R. 1264 ... 920
Sayad Hussein Miyan v. Collecter of Kaira, 21 B. 257 ... 203
Sayad Muhammad v. Fatteh Muhammad; 22 C. 324; 22 I. A. 4 338, 586
Schibsby v. Westenholz, (1870) 6 Q. B. 155 at p. 161; 40 L. J. Q. B. 73; 24 L. T. 93; 19 W. R. 587 ... 289
Scott v. Franklin, (1881) 15 East 428; 104 E. R. 916 ... 285
Scott v. Scott, (1913) App. Cas. 417; 82 L. J. P. 74; 109 L. T. 1; 57 S. J. 498; 29 T. L. R. 520 ... 386
Scottish Petroliem Company, In re, 23 Ch. D. 413. 49 L. T. 348; 31 W. R. 846 ... 352
Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi, 18 Ind. Cas. 294; 37 M. 369 note 696

S—contd.

Page.

Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannidhi, 8 Ind. Cas. 357; 34 M. 366; 9 M. L. T. 47; (1910) M. W. N. 119 ... 189, 693
Secretary of State for India in Council v. Bishun Dutt, 9 Ind. Cas. 423; 33 A. 376; 8 A. L. J. 115 ... 796
Secretary of State for India v. Ikurti Subrayudu, 16 Ind. Cas. 18; 36 M. 559; (1912) M. W. N. 807; 12 M. L. T. 266; 23 M. L. J. 728 ... 87
Secretary of State v. Kameswaramma, Appeal No. 182 of 1904 ... 596
Secretary of State v. Kampalli, 15 Ind. Cas. 594; 37 M. 364 at p. 366 note; 23 M. L. J. 109; (1912) M. W. N. 771 ... 696
Secretary of State v. Kannapalli Janakirammayya; 18 Ind. Cas. 770; 37 M. 322; 24 M. L. J. 365; 13 M. L. T. 235; (1913) M. W. N. 225 ... 693
Secretary of State for India v. Kota Bapanamma Garu, 19 M. 165 ... 725
Secretary of State for India v. Krishnamoni Gupta, 29 C. 518; 6 C. W. N. 617; 29 I A. 104; 4 Bom L. R. 537 ... 858
Secretary of State for India in Council v. Perumal Pillai, 24 M. 279; 11 M. L. J. 117 ... 696
Secretary of State for India v. Swami Nautheswarar, 6 Ind. Cas. 199; 34 M. 21; 7 M. L. T. 407; 20 M. L. J. 766; (1910) M. W. N 495 ... 693
Seetaram Sadasheo v. Nilu Patel, 1 C. P. L. R. 75 ... 815
Selby v. Greaves, (1868) 3 C. P. 594; 37 L. J. C. P. 251; 19 L. T. 186; 16 W. R. 1127 ... 382
Selby v. Nettlefold, (1873) 9 Ch. App. 111 at p. 114; 43 L. J. Ch. 359; 29 L. T. 661; 22 W. R. 142 ... 215
Semenza v. Brinsley, 18 C. B. (N. S.) 467; 34 L. J. C. P. 161; 11 Jur. (N. S.) 409; 12 L. T. 265; 13 W. R. 634; 144 Eng. Rep. 526; 144 R. R. 573 ... 830
Sesha Ayyar v. Krishna Ayyangar, 24 M. 96 at p. 109; 12 M. L. J. 383 ... 210
Seshan Pattar v. Veera Raghava Pattar, 4 Ind. Cas. 38; 32 M. 284; 5 M. L. T. 351; 19 M. L. J. 372 ... 36
Seth Bhagwandas v. Shridhar, 3 N. L. R. 55 ... 703
Sevugan Chetty v. Krishna Aiyangar, 13 Ind. Cas. 268; 36 M. 378; 10 M. L. T. 557; 22 M. L. J. 139 ... 930
Shaikh Atham Sahib v. Daoud Sahib, 3 Ind. Cas. 190; 32 M. 469; 19 M. L. J. 457 ... 289
Shaikh Bahadur v. Shaikh Eradatulla Mallick, 6 Ind. Cas. 801; 11 Cr. L J. 407; 37 C. 642; 14 C. W. N. 799; 12 C. L. J. 45 ... 1004
Shaliq-un-nissa v. Shaban Ali Khan, 26 A. 581; at p. 587 (P. C.); 9 C. W. N. 105; 6 Bom. L. R. 750; 7 O. C. 290; 30 I. A. 217 ... 118
Sham Lal v. Nathe Lal, 7 Ind. Cas. 65; 33 A. 63 354
Sham Singh v. Kishun Sahai, 6 C. L. J. 190 ... 763
Sham Sundar Lal v. Achhan Kunwar, 25 I A. 183; 21 A. 71; 2 C. W. N. 729; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 417 ... 768
Shama Churn Kundu v. Khettromoni Dasi, 27 C. 521; 4 C. W. N. 501; 27 I. A. 10 ... 557

S—contd.

Page.

Shamu Pattar v. Abdul Kadir Rowthen, 16 Ind. Cas. 250; 35 M. 607; 16 C. W. N. 1009; 23 M. L. J. 331; 12 M. L. T. 338; (1912) M. W. N. 935; 10 A. L. J. 259; 14 Bom. L. R. 1034; 16 C. L. J. 596; 39 I. A. 220 (P. C.) ... 409
Shankar Das v. Basant Singh, 133 P. R. 1888 ... 745
Shankar Sarup v. Mejo Mal, 23 A. 313; 3 Bom. L. R. 713; 5 C. W. N. 649; 28 I. A. 203 (P. C.) 219
Shanmuga Vela Pillai v. Govindasami, 17 M. L. J. 452 at p. 453; 30 M. 459 ... 220
Shaw v. Benson, 11 Q. B D. 563; 52 L. J. Q. B. 575 ... 617
Sheik Ismail Rowther v. Rajab Rowther, 30 M. 295; 17 M. L. J. 165; 2 M. L. T. 186 ... 375
Sheik Suleman v. Shivram Bhikaji, 12 B. 71 ... 77
Sheikh Ibrahim Tharagan v. Rama Aiyar, 10 Ind. Cas. 874; 35 M. 685; 21 M. L. J. 508; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 442 ... 36
Sheikh Mahamad Ravuther v. The British India Steam Navigation Coy. Ltd., 1 Ind. Cas. 977; 32 M. 95; 18 M. L. J. 497; 4 M. L. T. 110 (F. B.) ... 429
Sheikh Nubee Buksh v. Musammat Bebbee Hingon, 8 W. R. 412 ... 181
Sheo Singh Rai v. Dakho, 5 I. A. 87; 1 A. 688; 2 C. L. R. 193; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 529; 3 Saraswati's P. C. J. 807 ... 236
Sheo Soondary v. Pirthee Singh, 4 I A. 147 ... 765
Shepard v. Jones, 21 Ch. D. 469; 47 L. T. 604; 31 W. R. 308 521, 714
Sher Singh v. Maluk Singh, 142 P. L. R. 1905 ... 436
Shera v. Empress, 35 P. R. 1879 Cr. (F. B.) ... 305
Sheran v. Sharman, 117 P. R. 1901; 182 P. L. R. 1901 ... 493
Sheshgiri Shanbhog v. Salvador Vas, 5 B. 5 ... 427
Shib Chandra Roy v. Chandra Narain Mukerjee, 32 C. 719; 1 C. L. J. 232 ... 741
Shib Charan Lal v. Raghu Nath, 17 A. 174 at p. 196; A. W. N. (1895) 47 ... 957
Shib Prasad v. Vakai Pali, 33 C. 601 ... 381
Shib Sabitri Prasad v. Collector of Meerut, 29 A. 82; 3 A. L. J. 747; A. W. N. (1906) 295 ... 252
Shiba Haldar v. Gupi Sundari Dasya, 24 C. 449; 2 C. W. N. 169 ... 381
Shipley v. Todhunter, (1836) 7 C. & P. 680 at p. 686 ... 965
Shiva Nathaji v. Joma Kashinath, 7 B. 341 ... 279
Shivlal Bhagvan v. Shambhu Prasad, 29 B. 435 at p. 448; 7 Bom L. R. 585 ... 374
Shivram Chintaman v. Jivu, 13 B. 34 ... 234
Shohrat Singh v. Bridgman, 4 A. 376; A. W. N. (1882) 68 ... 755
Shri Sitaram Pandit v. Shri Harihar Pandit, 8 Ind. Cas. 625; 35 B. 169; 12 Bom. L. R. 910 ... 780
Shriram, v. Venkatasami, In re 6 M. H. C. R. 120 ... 627
Shunmugaroya Mudaliar v. Manika Mudaliar, 3 Ind. Cas. 799; 19 M. L. J. 640; 11 Bom. L. R. 1206 (P. C.); 10 C. L. J. 276; 6 M. L. T. 304; 32 M. 400; 36 I. A. 185 251, 557
Shuttleworth v. Clews, (1910) 1 Ch. 176; 79 L. J. Ch. 121; 101 L. T. 708 ... 228
Siddall, In re, 29 Ch. D. 1; 54 L. J. Ch. 682; 52 L. T. 114; 33 W. R. 509 ... 617

M—contd.

Page.

Mohanund Mondul v. Nafur Mondul, 26 C. 820 at p. 825; 3 C. W. N. 770 ... 180
Mohendra Lal v. Akhil Chandra, 20 Ind. Cas. 47; 20 C. L. J. 424 ... 961
Mohendra Nath Biswas v. Shyamlal Banerjee, 23 Ind. Cas. 16; 19 C. L. J. 308; 18 C. W. N. 907 ... 217
Mohideen Batcha Sahib, In re, 21 Ind. Cas. 688; 14 Cr. L. J. 640; 25 M. L. J. 484 ... 309
Mohideen Kuppai v .Mariam Kanni, 12 Ind. Cas. 139; 10 M. L. T. 284; 21 M. L. J. 1018; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 240 ... 63
Mohima Chunder Mozumdar v. Mohesh Chunder Neogi, 16 I. A. 23; 16 C. 473 (P. C) ... 439
Mohori Bibee v. Dharmodas, 30 I. A. 114; 30 C. 539; 4 Bom. R. L. 421; 7 C. W. N. 441 (P. C.) 196, 837
Mohunga Ojha v. Ram Bahadur Singh, 15 Ind. Cas. 23; 16 C. W. N. 731 ... 186
Mokanda v. Balli Singh, 85 P. R. 1884 ... 452
Monemothonath Day v. Onathonath Dey, (1865) 2 Ind. Jur. (N. S.) 22; Bourke O. C. 189 ... 957
Monro v. Taylor, 8 Hare 51 at p. 56; 3 Mac. & G. 713; 21 L. J. Ch. 525; 85 R. R. 194; 68 Eng. Rep. 269 ... 469
Montaignac v. Shitta, (1890) 15 App. Cas. 357... 366
Montgomerie v. United Kingdom Mutual Steamship Assurance Association, (1891) 1 Q. B. 370 at p. 372; 60 L. J. Q. B. 429; 64 L. T. 323; 39 W. R. 351; 7 Asp. M. C. 19 ... 825
Morley v. Loughnan, (1893) 1 Ch. D. 736; 3 R. 562; 68 L. T. 619; 62 L. J. Ch. 515 ... 41
Moses v. Macpherlan, 2 Bur. 1005; 1 W. Bl. 219; 97 Eng. Rep. 676 at p. 680 ... 220
Moti Lal v. Darjeeling Municipality, 18 Ind. Cas. 844; 17 C. L. J. 167 ... 964
Moti Lal v. Karab-ul-Din, 25 C. 179; 24 I. A. 170; 1 C. W. N. 639 ... 411
Motiram v. Vital, 13 B. 90 ... 602
Mounsey v. Ismay, (1865) 34 L. J. Ex. 52; 3 H. & C. 486; 11 Jur. (N. S.) 141; 12 L. T. 27; 13 W. R. 521; 140 R. R. 567 ... 123
Moyna Bibi v. Banku Behari Biswas, 29 C. 473; 6 C. W. N. 667 ... 815
Muhamad Husain Rowther v. Muhamad Abubakar Rowther, 2 Ind. Cas. 427; 20 M. L. J. 699; 8 M. L. T. 399 ... 215
Muhamad Mumtaz Ahmed v. Zubaida Jan, 16 I. A. 205; 11 A. 460; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 433 ... 471
Muhammad Hamid-ud-din v. Shib Sahai, 21 A. 309; A. W. N. (1899) 87 ... 427
Muhammad Ibrahim Hossein Khan v. Ambika Pershad Singh, 14 Ind. Cas. 496; 39 C. 527; 11 M. L. T. 265; (1912) M. W. N. 367; 9 A. L. J. 332; 14 Bom. L. R. 280; 16 C. W. N. 505; 15 C. L. J. 411; 22 M. L. J. 468 (P. C.) ... 862
Muhammad Imam Ali Khan v. Husain Khan, 26 C. 81 (P. C.); 25 I. A. 161; 2 C. W. N. 737 ... 101
Muhammad Mumtaz Ahmad v. Zubaida Jan, 11 A. 460 at p. 470; 16 I. A. 205; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 433 ... 957
Muhammad Qamar-ud-din Khan v. Lachmi Nath, 95 P. R. 1906; 83 P. L. R. 1907 ... 745
Muhammad Said Khan v. Payag Sahu, 16 A. 228; A. W. N. (1894) 55 ... 26

M—contd.

Page.

Muhammad Sulaiman Khan v. Muhammad Yar Khan, 11 A. 267; A. W. N. (1889) 55; 13 Ind. Cas. 427 ... 755
Muhammad Suleman Khan v. Muhammad Yar Khan, 17 A. 39; A. W. N. (1894) 191 ... 245
Mujib-un-nissa v. Abdur Rahim, 23 A. 233 (P. C.); 28 I. A. 15; 5 C. W. N. 177 ... 53
Mukhtar Ahmad v. Moqarrab Hussain, 15 Ind. Cas. 50; 34 A. 530; 10 A. L. J. 56 ... 867
Mulchand Joharimal v. Suganchand Shivdas, 1 B. 23 ... 899
Mulji Bhulabhai v. Manohar Ganesh, 12 B. 322 858
Mulla Veetil v. Atchuthan Nair, 9 Ind. Cas. 513; 21 M. L. J. 213; 9 M. L. T. 431; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 165 ... 384
Munna Lal v. Munna Lal, 23 Ind. Cas. 559; 36 A. 327; 12 A. L. J. 457 ... 3
Munna Singh v Gajadhar Singh, 5 A. 577; A. W. N. (1883) 130 ... 59
Murlidhar v. Jagannath, 23 Ind. Cas. 20; 10 N. L. R. 5 ... 609
Murugappa Chetti v. Nagappa Chetti, 29 M. 161; 16 M. L. J. 22 ... 780
Musa Haji Ahmad v. Purmanund Nursey, 15 B. 216 ... 289
Musammat Bakhan v. Ala Bakhsh, 26 P. R. 1903; 100 P. L. R. 1903 ... 527
Musammat Bibi Sahodra v. Rai Jang Bahadur, 8 I. A. 210; 8 C. 224; 4. Sar. P. C. J. 294; 6 Ind. Jur. 108 ... 439
Musammat Chembeli v. National Bank of India Ld., 10 Ind. Cas. 647; 62 P. L. R. 1911 ... 913
Musammat Dhagi v. Barham Deo Pershad, 4 C. W. N. 297 ... 862
Musammat Kaveri Bai v. Musammat Chandra Bhagabai, 4 C. P. L. R. 188 ... 820
Musammat Lacho Bai v. Asa Nand, 144 P. R. 1882 ... 451
Musammat Luteefun v. Mean Jan, 6 W. R. 112 201
Musammat Maya v. Gurdit Singh, 4 Ind. Cas. 947; 1 P. R. 1910; 145 P. L. R. 1909; 128 P. W. R. 1909 ... 513
Musammat Mulo v. Phulo Missar, 108 P. R. 1888 ... 452
Musammat Narain Devi v. Hira, 21 Ind. Cas. 843; 22 P. R. 1914; 212 P. W. R. 1913; 339 P. L. R. 1913; 12 P. L. R. 1914 ... 405
Musammat Rajwanta Kuar v. Sham Narain Singh, 23 Ind. Cas. 88; 12 A. L. J. 283; 37 A. 220 ... 809
Musammat Rukman v. Brij Mohan Lal, 68 P. R. 1881 ... 343
Musammat Tanto v. Gajadhar, 1 N. L. R. 129 ... 815
Musammat Tarifan v. Fateh Din, 15 Ind. Cas. 685 120
Mussalappa v. Emperor, 6 Ind. Cas. 242; 7 M. L. T. 367; 11 Cr. L. J. 293; (1910) M. W. N. 541... 143
Muthia v. Appasami, 13 M. 504 ... 20
Muthu v. Kambalinga, 12 M. 316 ... 3
Muthu Sri Jiejamba Bai Sahib v. Secretary of State for India, 15 Ind. Cas. 871; 23 M. L. J. 687; 12 M. L. T. 541; (1913) M. W. N. 255 ... 87
Muthukumaraswami Pillai v. Emperor, 14 Ind. Cas. 896; 13 Cr. L. J. 352; (1912) M. W. N. 549; 12 M. L. T. 1; 35 M. 397 ... 140

M—concld.

Page.

Muthusami Mudaliyar v. Simambedu Muthkumaraswami Mudaliyar, 19 M. 405; 23 I. A. 83; 6 M. L. J. 113; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 45 ... 766
Muthuveerappa Chetti v. Ponnuswami Chetty, 13 Ind. Cas. 16; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 561; 10 M. L. T. 477; 22 M. L. J. 68 ... 301
Muthuveeru Mudaliar v. Vythilinga Mudaliar, 3 Ind. Cas. 476; 32 M. 206; 19 M. L. J. 88; 5 M. L. T. 122 ... 760

N

Nabin Chand Naskar v. Raj Coomar Sarkar, 9 C. W. N. 1001 ... 604
Naffer Chandra Pal Chowdhry v. Rajendra Lal Goswami, 25 C. 167 ... 438
Nagalingam Pillai v. Ramachandra Tevar, 24 M. 429; 11 M. L. J. 210 ... 398
Nagaraja Pillai v. Vythinatha Iyer, 9 Ind. Cas. 672; 21 M. L. J. 484; 9 M. L. T. 273; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 369 ... 106, 726
Nagardas v. Anandrao, 31 B. 590; 9 Bom. L. R. 495 ... 278
Nallayappa Pillian v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi, 27 M. 465 at p. 472 (F. B.); 14 M. L. J. 81 ... 239
Nanchand v. Vithu, 19 B. 258 ... 755
Nand Kishore Lal v. Ahmad Ata, 18 A. 69; A. W. N. (1895) 160 ... 507
Nand Kumar Shaha v. Gaur Shankar, 13 W. R. 305; 5 B. L. R. App. 4 ... 297
Nand Lal v. Ram Ratan Lodhi, 2 N. L. R. 137 ... 703
Nandan Pat Tewari v. Radha Keshun Kalwar, 5 Ind. Cas. 664 ... 934
Nandkishore v. Anwar Hussain, 4 Ind. Cas. 809; 32 A. 71; 6 A. L. J. 979 ... 281
Nanfan v. Perkins, 59 Eng. Rep. 376; 9 Sim. 308 ... 705
Nanhuji v. Chimna, 10 Ind. Cas. 86; 7 N. L. R. 72 ... 427
Nanjaya Mudali v. Shanmuga Mudali, 22 Ind. Cas. 555; 15 M. L. T. 186; (1914) M. W. N. 356; 26 M. L. J. 576 ... 986
Nanny v. Edwards, 38 Eng. Rep. 752; 4 Russ. 124; 6 L. J. (o. s.) Ch. 20; 28 R. R. 24 ... 704
Narainsawmy Naidu Garu v. Yeerameli Ram Krishnaya, 5 Ind. Cas. 479; 33 M. 499 at p. 501; 7 M. L. T. 119; (1910) M. W. N. 221 and 280 ... 348
Narana Chetty v. Sit Kauk, 2 U. B. R. 276 ... 274
Narasimma Thatha Acharya v. Anantha Bhatta, 4 M. 391 ... 442
Narayan v. Ganpat, 21 B. 619 ... 195
Narayan v. Lakshmandas, 7 Bom. L. R. 934 ... 605
Narayan Balkrishna Kulkarni v. Gopal Jiv Ghadi, 23 Ind. Cas. 889; 16 Bom. L. R. 206; 38 B. 392 ... 888
Narayana Ayyar v. Venkataramana Ayyar, 25 M. 220 (F. B.) ... 511
Narayana Nambudripad v. Narayana Nambudripad, 25 Ind. Cas. 25 ... 51
Narayanan Chetty v. Kannammai Achi, 28 M. 338 ... 818
Narendra Narayan Roy v. Ishan Chundra Sen, 22 W. R. 22; 13 B. L. R. 274 (F. B.) ... 760

N—contd.

Page.

Narhar Raghunath Naphad v. Krishnaji Govind, 15 Ind. Cas. 822; 36 B. 368; 14 Bom. L. R. 381 ... 245
Nataraja Aiyar v. South India Bank Limited, 13 Ind. Cas. 91; 37 M. 51; 22 M. L. J. 105; 10 M. L. T. 503; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 590 ... 509
Natesa Aiyar v. Appavu Padayachi, 19 Ind. Cas. 462; 24 M. L. J. 488; (1913) M. W. N. 341; 13 M. L. T. 391 ... 122
Natesan Chetty v. Vengu Nachiar, 3 Ind. Cas. 701; 33 M. 102; 6 M. L. T. 313; 20 M. L. J. 20 ... 791
Natha Singh v. Jodha Singh, 6 A. 406; A. W. N. (1884), 140 ... 339
Nathu Bhai v. Mulchand, 3 Bom. L. R. 535 ... 339
Nathu Lalla v. Vithoba, 1 C. P. L. R. 9 ... 699
Nathu Velji v. Keshavji, 26 B. 174; 3 Bom. L. R. 718 ... 461
National Provincial Bank of England v. Games, (1886) 31 Ch. D. 582; 55 L. J. Ch. 576; 54 L. T. 696; 34 W. R. 600 ... 185
Navakoti Narayana Chetty v. Loyalinga Chetty, 4 Ind. Cas. 383; 33 M. 312; 19 M. L. J. 752; 7 M. L. T. 233 ... 196
Nawab Sidhee Nuzur Ali Khan v. Rajah Ojoodhyaram Khan, 10 M. I. A. 540; 5 W. R. 83 (P. C.); 1 Suth. P. C. J. 675; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 198; 19 Eng. Rep. 1075 ... 183
Neel Kanto Pandit v. Jaggobundhoo Ghose, 12 B. L. R. App. 18 ... 85
Neelamega Sastri v. Appiah Sastri, 29 M. 477; 16 M. L. J. 385; 1 M. L. T. 237 ... 617
Nemai Chand Adhya v. Mir Golam Hossein, 3 Ind. Cas. 353; 37 C. 179; 14 C. W. N. 535; 11 C. L. J. 317 ... 358
New Haven v. Mitchell, (1842) 15 Conn. 206 at p. 225 ... 965
New Zealand and Australian Land Company v. Watson, 7 Q. B. D. 374; 50 L. J. Q. 433; 44 L. T. 675; 29 W. R. 694 ... 826
Nga Tha Kin v. Emperor, 11 Ind. Cas. 792; U. B. R. (1911), I, 87; 12 Cr. L. J. 448 ... 1007
Nidamarthi Mukkanti v. Thammana Ramayya, 26 M. 76 at p. 77 ... 355
Nidha Sah v. Murli Dhar, 25 A. 115 (P. C.); 30 I. A. 54; 5 Bom. L. R. 111; 7 C. W. N. 289 ... 72
Nield v. London and North Railway Company, 10 Ex. 4; 44 L. J. Ex. 15; 23 W. R. 60 ... 803
Nihal Chand v. David Sassoon & Co., 15 Ind. Cas. 28; 231 P. W. R. 1912; 229 P. L. R. 1912 ... 513
Nihal Chand v. Prem Bai, 148 P. R. 1890 footnote ... 452
Nil Madhab Sikdar v. Narattam Sikdar, 17 C. 826 ... 24
Nilakandan v. Padmanabha, 14 M. 153 ... 857
Nilakandhen Nambudirapad v. Padmanabha Ravi Varma, 18 M. 1; 21 I. A. 128; 4 M. L. J. 233; 6 Sar. P. C. J. 478 ... 857
Nilakanta v. Imam Sahib, 16 M. 361; 3 M. L. J. 364 ... 220
Nilmonee Choudhry v. Musammat Zuheerunnissa Khanum, 8 W. R. 371 ... 407
Ningawa v. Bharmappa, 23 B. 63 ... 748
Nisar Ali v. Meghi, Selected Decision No. 4 of 1913 ... 709

N—concld.

Page.

Nitye Gopal Sircar v. Nagendra Nath Mitter Mozumdar, 11 C. 429 ... 555
Nizam-ud-din Shah v. Anandi Prasad, 18 A. 373; A. W. N. (1896) 99 ... 815
Nobin Chunder Roy v. Brojendro Coomar Roy, 12 C. L. R., 541 ... 821
Nobokishore Sarma v. Harinath Sarma, 10 C. 1102 ... 759
Nogenderchunder Ghose v. Sreemutty Kaminee Dossee, 11 M. I. A. 241; 8 W. R. 17 (P. C.); 2 Suth. P. C. J. 77; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 275; 20 E. R. 92 ... 186
Noothi Subbarayadu v. Dara Lingayya Garu Suryapracharalingam Garu, 18 M. L. J. 461 ... 69
Norendra Nath Sircar v. Kamalbasini Dasi, 23 I. A. 18 at p. 26; 23 C. 563 ... 918
North Eastern Railway Co. v. Lord Hastings, (1900) A. C. 260; 69 L. J. Ch. 516; 82 L. T. 429; 16 T. L. R. 325 ... 468
Novosielski v. Wakefield, 34 Eng. Rep. 161; 17 Ves. 417 ... 704
Nurdin v. Allavdin, 12 M. 134 ... 236
Nur-ul-Hasan v. Muhammad Hasan, 7 Ind. Cas. 1022; 78 P. R. 1910; 107 P. W. R. 1910; 146 P. L. R. 1910 ... 974
Nuttall v. Bracewell, 2 Ex. 1 at p. 11; 4. H. & C. 714; 36 L. J. Ex. 1; 12 Jur. (N. S.) 989; 15 L. T. 313 ... 693

O

Ocean Iron Steamship Insurance Association v. Leslie, 22 Q. B. D. 722; 57 L. T. 722; 6 Asp. M. C. 226 ... 825
Ockenden v. Henley, (1858) E. B. & E. 485; 27 L. J. Q. B. 361; 4 Jur. (N. S.) 999; 120 Eng. Rep. 590; 113 R. R. 740 ... 227
Oravukundiyil Parkum Elavana Tolan v. Palankunny Kunhi Kutti, 18 Ind. Cas. 549; 24 M. L. J. 93 (1913) M. W. N. 51 ... 832
Orr v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 23 M. 571; 10 M. L. J. 261 ... 865
Orr Ewing v. Colquhoun, 2 App. Cas. 839 ... 807

P

Pachkauri v. Queen-Empress, 24 C. 686; 1 C. W. N. 423 ... 159
Padmanabha Payi Kanniah v. Emperor, 5 Ind. Cas. 145; 7 M. L. T. 79; 11 Cr. L. J. 49; 20 M. L. J. 84; 33 M. 264 ... 142
Padstow Total Loss and Collision Assurance Association, In re, 20 Ch. D. 137; 51 L. J. Ch. 344; 45 L. T. 774; 30 W. R. 326 ... 617
Paga v. Sadasheo, 17 Ind. Cas. 624; 8 N. L. R. 172 ... 820
Paine v. Jones, (1874) 18 Eq. 320; 43 L. J. Ch. 787; 30 L. T. 779; 22 W. R. 807 ... 456
Palaniappa Chetti v. Annamalai Chetti, 27 M. 223 at p. 225; 14 M. L. J. 74 ... 58
Palaniappan v. Subbaraya Gounden, 22 Ind. Cas. 4; 14 M. L. T. 579; (1914) M. W. N. 222; 1 L. W. 80 ... 2

P—contd.

Page.

Palla Kanakamma v. Challa Ramasami, 23 Ind. Cas. 98; 1 L. W. 237 ... 3
Panch Duar Thakur v. Mani Raut, 17 Ind. Cas. 88; 16 C. W. N. 970 ... 867
Panchanada v. Nilakanada, 7 M. 191 ... 87
Panchena v. Godinhare, 20 M. 68; 7 M. L. J. 26... 617
Pandhari v. Mahadeo, 12 Ind. Cas. 795; 7 N. L. R. 162 ... 702
Pandu v. Vithu, 19 B. 140 ... 3
Pandurang v. Balaji, S. A. No. 75-B of 1911 ... 821
Pandurang v. Balaji, 14 C. P. L. R. 142 ... 603
Panduranga Mudaliar v. Vythilinga Reddi, 30 M. 537; 2 M. L. T. 466; 17 M. L. J. 4 7 ... 4'4
Papachar Sethumathva Chariar v. The Secretary of State, 26 Ind. Cas. 187; 1 L. W. 941 ... 693
Papamma Rao v. Vira Pratapa H. V. Ramachandra Razu, 19 M. 249; 33 I. A. 32; 6 M. L. J. 53; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 10 ... 987
Papillon v. Bruton, (1865) 5 H. & N. 518; 29 L. J. Ex. 265; 120 R. R. 704 ... 967
Paramathan Somayajipad v. Sankara Menon, 23 M. 82 ... 208
Parameshri v. Vittappa, 26 M. 157; 12 M. L. J. 189 ... 24
Parameshwaran v. Shangaran, 14 M. 489 ... 208
Parasara Bhattar v. Rangaraja Bhattar, 2 M. 202 at p. 207; 4 Ind. Jur. 393 ... 889
Parashram v. Likhan, 10 Ind. Cas. 866; 7 N. L. R. 67 ... 820
Parbati Kunwar v. Chandarpal Kunwar, 4 Ind. Cas. 25; 31 A. 457 (P. C.); 10 C. L. J. 216; 6 A. L. J. 767; 13 C. W. N. 1073; 11 Bom. L. R. 890; 12 O. C. 304; 5 M. L. T. 427; 19 M. L. J. 605; 36 I. A. 125 ... 101
Parker v. Winlow, 7 E. & B. 942; 27 L. J. Q. B. 49; 4 Jur. (N. S.) 584; 119 Eng. Rep. 1497; 110 R. R. 904 ... 828
Parry & Co. v. Appasami Pillai, 2 M. 407; 5 Ind. Jur. 188 266, 289
Parthasarathi Naicken v. Lakshmana Naicken, 9 Ind. Cas. 791; 35 M. 231; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 201, 21 M. L. J. 467 ... 295
Patloji v. Ganu, 15 B. 370; P. J. (1890) 336 ... 756
Pattabhiramier v. Venkatarow Naiken, 13 M. I. A. 560; 7 B. L. R. 136; 15 W. R. (P. C.) 35; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 410; 2 Sar. P; C. J. 623; 20 E. R. 660 ... 379
Pattaikara Mannakkal Kuppen v. Chvorakkapatti Munde Kottil, 14 Ind. Cas. 168; 37 M. 373; (1912) M. W. N. 445; 11 M. L. T. 355 ... 859
Peacock v. Baijnath, 18 C. 573 at p. 587; 18 I. A. 78 ... 826
Peary Mohan Mukhopadhya v. Sreeram Chandra Bose, 6 C. W. N. 794 ... 199
Peary Mohun Mandal v. Radhika Mohun Hazra, 5 C. L. J. 9 at p. 14; 8 C. W. N. 315 ... 980
Peddayya v. Ramalingam, 11 M. 406 ... 212
Peera v. Crown, 37 P. R. 1869 Cr. ... 627
Peria Aiya Ambalam v. Shanmugasundaram, 22 Ind. Cas. 615; 26 M. L. J. 140; 15 M. L. T. 112; 1 L. W. 119 ... 296
Perumal v. Ramasami Chetty, 11 M. 16 ... 975
Phanindra Nath Mitra v. Emperor, 1 Ind. Cas. 469; 36 C. 48; 12 C. W. N. 1014; 8 Cr. L. J. 221 15
Phelan v. N. W. Life Insurance Co., (1889) 113 N. Y. 147; 10 Am. St. Rep. 441 ... 966

P—concld.

Page.
Pilu v. Babaji, 4 Ind. Cas. 584; 34 B. 165; 11 Bom. L. R. 1291 ... 774
Pingale Eiswanatha Row v. Chinnakolandai Nainar, 22 Ind. Cas. 369; 1 L. W. 197 ... 409
Pirthi Pal Kunwar v. Guman Kunwar, 17 C. 933 (P. C.); 17 I. A. 107 ... 236
Pita Moti v. Chunilal, 9 Bom. L. R. 15; 31 B. 207 ... 267
Pitambar v. Ganesha Ram, 148 P. R. 1890 ... 452
Pitts v. Hartford, (1895) 66 Conn. 376; 50 Am. St. Rep. 96 ... 966
Pokree Saheb Beary v. Pokree Beary, 21 M. 32 ... 186
Ponaka Subba Rani Reddi v. Vadamadi Seshachellam Chetty, 5 Ind. Cas. 79; 33 M. 359; 7 M. L. T. 137; 20 M. L. J. 328 ... 984
Ponnusawmi Taver v. Collector of Madura, 5 M. H. C. R. 6 ... 726
Poole v. Warren, (1838) 8 A. & E. 582 at p. 587; 3 N. & P. 693; 3 Jur. 23; 112 E. R. 959 ... 964
Pope, In re, 17 Q. B. D. 743; 55 L. J. Q. B. 522; 55 L. T. 369; 34 W. R. 693 ... 988
Pragji Kalan v. Govind Gopal, 11 B. 534 ... 461
Pramada Dasi v. Lakhi Narain Mitter, 12 C. 60 at p. 63 ... 209
Pran Krishna Tewary v. Jadu Nath Trivedy, 2 C. W. N. 603 ... 84
Pran Nath Sarkar v. Jadu Nath Saha, 32 C. 729; 9 C.W. N. 697 ... 604
Prangour Mozoomdar v. Himanta Kumari Debya, 12 C. 597 ... 201
Prannath v. Rookea Begum, 7 M. I. A. 323 at p. 353; 4 W. R. (P. C.) 37; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 367; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 692; 19 E. R. 331 ... 411
Pratap Singh v. Umrao Singh, 11 C. P. L. R. 1 ... 609
Prem Chand Pal v. Purnima Dasi, 15 C. 546 ... 354
Preo Nath Mukerji v. Bishnath Prasad, 29 A. 256; A. W. N. (1907) 41; 4 A. L. J. 85 ... 303
Preonath v. Gobordhone, 25 C. 278 ... 148
Preonath Shaha v. Madhu Sudan Bhuiya, 25 C. 603; 2 C. W. N. 562 ... 718
President, etc., of the Westfield Bank v. Cohen, 37 N. Y. R. (10 Tiff.) 322 ... 256
Preston Banking Co., v. William Allsup and Sons, (1895) 1 Ch. 141; 64 L. J. Ch. 196; 12 R. 51; 71 L. T. 708; 43 W. R. 231 ... 65
Pria Nath Das v. Ramtaran Chatterjee, 30 C. 811; 7 C. W. N. 601 (P. C.) ... 216
Proby v. Proby, 5 C. 357; 5 C. L. R. 1; 5 Ind. Jur 248 ... 488
Promotho Nath Mitter v. Kali Prosanna Chowdhry, 28 C. 744 ... 198
Prosunno Chunder Bhuttacharjee v. Kristo Chytanno Pal, 4 C. 342; 3 C. L. R. 154 ... 22
Public Prosecutor v. Bonigiri Pottigadu, 2 Ind. Cas. 307; 32 M. 179; 9 Cr. L. J. 567; 5 M. L. T. 100 ... 627
Puddomonee Dossee v. Roy Moothooranath Chowdhry, 12 B. L. R. 411 (P C.); 20 W. R. 133 ... 82
Pulin Chandra Mandal v. Balai Mandal, 35 C. 939; 12 C. W. N. 837; 8 C. L. J. 280 ... 759
Punjaji v. Jagannath, 6 C. P. L. R. 13 ... 820

Q

Page.
Qamar-ud-din Khan v. Mani Ram, 96 P. R. 1906; 138 P. L. R. 1906 ... 745
Quarles v. Knight, 8 Price 630 ... 704
Quartz Hill Gold Mining Co. v; Evre, (1883) 11 Q. B. D. 674 at p. 690; 52 L. J. Q. B. 488; 49 L. J. 249; 31 W. R. 668 ... 297
Queen v. Bipro Dass, 19 W. R. Cr. 43 ... 660
——— v. Ipswich Union, 2 Q. B. D. 269; 46 L. J. M. C. 207; 36 L. T. 317; 25 W. R. 511 ... 475
——— v. Karri Papayamma, 4 M. 230; 2 Weir 652 ... 150
——— v. Petumber Dhoobee, 14 W. R. Cr. 10 ... 660
——— v. Reazooddeen, 3 W. R. Cr. 33 ... 646
——— v. Sankara, 6 M. 381; 1 Weir 595 ... 461
Queen Empress v. Abdul Kadir, 9 A. 452; A. W. N. (1887) 111 ... 639
——— v. Ahmadi, 20 A. 264; A. W. N. (1898) 52 ... 152
——— v. Bhau, 23 B. 493 ... 661
——— v. Brij Narain Man, 20 A. 529; A. W. N. (1898) 152 ... 658
——— v. Dalip, 18 A. 246; A. W. N. (1896) 48 ... 322
——— v. Jagat Chandra Mali, 22 C. 50 ... 660
——— v. Lakshman Dagdu, 10 B. 512 ... 1008
——— v. Manick Chandra Sarkar, 24 C. 492 ... 658
——— v. Mulua, 14 A. 502; A. W. N. (1892) 95 ... 660
——— v. Natu, 27 C. 137 ... 658
——— v. O'Brien, 19 A. 111; A. W. N. (1896) 191 ... 137
——— v. Ram Tevan, 15 M. 352; 2 Weir 364 ... 660
——— v. Ramasami, 24 M. 321; 2 Weir 396 ... 661
——— v. Rami Reddi, 12 M. 226; 1 Weir 761 ... 645
——— v. Sami, 13 M. 426; 1 Weir 290 ... 332
——— v. Sudra, 14 A. 336; A. W. N. (1892) 21 ... 661
——— v. Venkatasami, 12 M. 459; 1 Weir 42 ... 1008
Quilter v. Mapleson, 9 Q. B. D. 672; 52 L. J. Q. B. 44; 47 L. T. 562; 31 W. R. 75 ... 411

R

Rabbidge Ex parte; Pooley, In re, (1878) 8 Ch. D. 367; 38 L. T. 663; 26 W. R. 646 ... 422
Race v. Ward, (1855) 4 El. & Bl. 702; 99 R. R. 702; 3 C. L. R. 744; 24 L. J. Q. B. 153; 1 Jur. (N. S.) 704; 53 W. R. 240; 24 L. T. (o. s.) 270; 119 E. R. 259 ... 214
Radha Pershad Singh v. Budhu Dashad, 22 C. 938 ... 80
Radha Raman Chowdhry v. Bhowani Prosad Bhowmik, 6 C. W. N. 60; 12 C. L. J. 139; 8 Ind. Cas. 790 ... 959

R—contd.

Page.

Radhanath Doss v. Gisborne, 14 M. I. A. 1; 15 W. R. (P. C.) 24; 6 B. L. R. 530; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 397; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 636; 20 Eng. Rep. 687 ... 3
Radhay Koer v. Ajodhya Das, 7 C. L. J. 262 ... 410
Radho v. Harnaman, 99 P. R. 1907 ... 453
Ragho v. Sadoo, 5 Ind. Cas. 428; 6 N. L. R. 6 ... 699
Raghu Nath Bhagat v. Syed Samad Shah, 7 C. L. J. 560; 12 C. W. N. 617 ... 220
Raghu Nath Singh Manku v. Pareshram Mahata, 9 C. 635; 13 C. L. R. 89 ... 376
Raghubans Puri v. Jyotis Swarupa, 29 A. 325; A. W. N. (1907) 68 ... 747
Raghunath Das v. Raj Kumar, 7 A. 876; A. W. N. (1885) 256 ... 809
Raghunath Saran Singh v. Sri Ram, 28 A. 764; 3 A. L. J. 579 (F. B.); A. W. N. (1906) 235; 1 M. L. T. 242 ... 960
Raghunatha Chariar v. Sadagopa Chariar, 12 Ind. Cas. 353; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 227; 10 M. L. T. 300; 36 M. 348; 21 M. L. J. 983 at p. 987 ... 224
Raghunatha Chariar v. Thiruvengada Ramanuja Chariar, 3 Ind. Cas. 123; 19 M. L. J. 257; 6 M. L. T. 167 ... 858
Raghunatha Thatha Chariar v. Venkatesa Tawker, 26 M. 101; 12 M. L. J. 435 ... 414
Rahamatullah Beg v. Yusuf Ali, 16 Ind. Cas. 635; 10 A. L. J. 121 ... 521
Rai Charan Mandul v. Biswanath Mandul, 26 Ind. Bas. 410; 20 C. L. J. 107 ... 475
Rai Krishna Chand v. Mahadeo Singh, A. W. N. (1901) 49 . 732
Raj Chunder Sen v. Ganga Das Seal, 31 C 487 (P. C.); 1 A. L. J. 145; 8 C. W. N. 2; 31 I. A. 71; 14 M. L. J 147. ... 524
Raj Kishen Mookerjee v. Radha Madhub, 21 W. R. 349 ... 355
Raj Krishto Roy v. Beer Chunder Joobraj, 6 W. R. 308 ... 220
Raj Lukhee v. Gokool Chunder Chowdhry, 13 M. I. A. 209; 12 W. R. 47 (P. C.); 3 B. L. R. 57; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 275; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 518; 20 Eng. Rep. 529 ... 760
Raja Bhup Indar Bahadur Singh v. Bijai Bahadur Singh, 27 I. A. 209; 2 Bom. L. R. 978; 23 A. 152 .. 756
Raja Dei v. Umed Singh, 13 Ind. Cas. 632; 9 A. L. J. 158; 34 A. 207 ... 3
Raja Har Narain Siugh v. Choudrain Bhagwant Kuar, 13 A. 300 at page 304; 18 I. A. 55; 6 Sar. P. C. J. 14; 15 Ind. Jur. 283 ... 376
Raja Lelanund Singh Bahadur v. Government of Bengal, 4 W. R. (P. C.) 77; 6 M. I. A. 101; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 505; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 248; 19 Eng. Rep. 38 ... 80
Raja Nilmoney Singh Deo Bahadur v. Kalee Churn Bhuttacharjee, 2 I. A. 83; 14 B. L. R. 382 (P. C.); 23 W. R. 150; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 447; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 77 ... 234
Raja of Venkatagiri v. Mokku Narasaya, 7 Ind. Cas. 202; 37 M. 1; (1910) M. W. N. 369; 8 M. L. T. 258 ... 410
Raja Ram v. Ganesh, 23 B. 131 ... 443
Raja Rampal Singh v. Ram Ghulam Singh, 32 I. A. 17; 1 C. L. J. 46; 27 A. 37; 2 A. L. J. 237 (P. C.) ... 444

R—contd.

Page.

Raja Rangayya Appa Rao v. Bobba Sriramulu, 27 M. 143 (P. C.); 8 C. W. N. 162; 14 M. L. J. 1; 6 Bom. L. R. 241; 31 I. A. 17 ... 269
Raja Sree Nath Roy v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 8 C. W. N. 294 ... 403
Raja Venkata Rao v. Court of Wards, 2 M. 128 (P. C.); 6 C. L. R. 153; 7 I. A. 38; 3 Suth. P. C. 725; 4 Ind. Jur. 138; 3 Shome L. R. 175; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 81 ... 590
Rajah Muttu Ramalinga Setupati v. Perianayagum Pillay, 1 I. A. 209 ... 854
Rajah Rup Singh v. Rani Baisni, 7 A. 1 at p. 11; 11 I. A. 149 ... 339
Rajah Sahib Perhlad Sein v. Maharajah Rajender Kishore Singh, 12 M. I. A. 292 at p. 331; 12 W. R. 6 (P. C.); 2 B. L. R. 111; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 225; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 430; 20 Eng. Rep. 349 ... 682
Rajah Vurmah Valia v. Ravi Vurmah Kunhi Kutti, 1 M. 235; 4 I. A. 76; 1 Ind. Jur. 134; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 687; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 382 ... 442
Rajammal v. Authiammal, 7 Ind. Cas. 357; 33 M. 304; 8 M. L. T. 139; 20 M. L. J. 519 250, 364
Rajaram Bhagwat v. Jibai, 9 B. 151 ... 411
Rajkishore Lahoory v. Gobind Chunder Lahoory and Rammoney Dossee v. Gobind Chunder Lahoory, 1 C. 27; 24 W. R. 234 ... 765
Rajoni Bibi v. Hafisonnissa Bibi, 4 C. W. N. 572 ... 968
Rajputana Malwa Railway Co-operative Stores, Ltd. v. Ajmer Municipal Board, 6 Ind. Cas. 401; 32 A. 491; 7 A. L. J. 496 ... 220
Rajrup Koer v. Syed Abdul Hossein, 7 I. A. 240 at p. 247; 7 C. L. R. 529; 6 C. 394; 4 Shome L. R. 7; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 199; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 816; 4 Ind. Jur. 530 189, 726
Rakhohari Chatta Raj v. Bipra Das Dey, 31 C. 975 ... 186
Ralla v. Budha, 50 P. R. 1893 (F. B). ... 813
Ram Chand v. Thakar Das, 94 P. R. 1907; 29 P. L. R. 1908 ... 513
Ram Charn Tewary v. Protap Chandra Dutt Jha, 2 C. L. J. 448 ... 3
Ram Chandra v. Totya, 19 Ind. Cas. 549; 9 N. L. R. 46 ... 607
Ram Das Byragee v. Gunga Dass, 3 Agra H. C. R. 295 ... 607
Ram Gopal v. Prasanna Kumar, 2 C. L. J. 508; 10 C. W. N. 529 ... 125
Ram Kanai Ghosh v. Raja Sri Sri Hari Narayan Singh Deo Bahadur, 2 C. L. J. 546 ... 3
Ram Kirpal v. Musammat Rup Kuari, 11 I. A. 37; 6 A. 269 (P. C.); 4 Saraswati's P. C. J. 489 ... 48
Ram Kishen Das v. Tanda Mal, 10 Ind. Cas. 543; 33 A. 677; 8 A. L. J. 723 ... 35
Ram Lakhi v. Durga Charan Sen, 11 C. 680 ... 906
Ram Nawaz v. Ram Charan, 18 A. 49; A. W. N. (1895) 155 ... 82
Ram Ratan Sahu v. Mohant Sahu, 6 C. L. J. 74; 11 C. W. N. 732 ... 410
Ram Saran Das v. Ram Pergash Das, 32 C. 283 812
Ram Sewak v. Lambar Pande, 25 A. 27; A. W. N. (1902) 171 ... 487
Rama v. Kunji, 9 M. 375 ... 960
Rama v. Subba, 12 M. 98 ... 87

R—contd.

Page

Rama Aiyar v. Venkatachala Padayachi, 30 M. 311; 2 M. L. T. 84; 17 M. L. J. 123; 5 Cr. L. J. 288 ... 58
Rama Brahmam v. Venkatanarasu Pantulu, 16 Ind. Cas. 269; 23 M. L. J. 131; (1912) M. W. N. 1124 275, 938
Rama Kanta Sarma v. Kalijoy Sarma, 11 Ind. Cas. 124 ... 707
Rama Rau v. Venkatesa Bhandari, 5 M. 171 (F. B.) ... 368
Ramachandra v. Pitchaikanni, 7 M. 434 293, 865
Ramakkal v. Ramasamy Naicken, 22 M. 522; 9 M. L. J. 101 ... 458
Ramanadan Chetti v. Periatambai, 6 M. 250 ... 414
Ramanadan Chetty v. Pulikutti Servai, 21 M. 288; 8 M. L. J. 121 347, 410, 475
Ramanath Dass v. Boloram, 7 C. 677; 9 C. L. R. 233 . 427
Ramasami v. Nagendrayyan, 19 M. 31; 5 M. L. J. 237 ... 617
Ramasami v. Ramasami, 2 M. L. J. 251 ... 848
Ramasami Aiyan v. Venkata Ramaiyan, 2 M. 91; 6 I. A. 196; 5 C. L. R. 347; 3 Shome L. R. 39; 3 Ind. Jur. 472; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 42; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 663 ... 780
Ramasawmy Chettiar v. Hari Krishna Chettiar, 10 Ind. Cas. 658; 21 M. L. J. 705; 9 M. L. T. 465; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 220 .. 219
Ramaswamy Kone v. Sundara Kone, 31 M. 28; 17 M. L. J. 495; 3 M. L. T. 26 ... 755
Ramausar Pandey v. Raghubar Jati, 5 A. 490; A. W. N. (1883) 64 ... 815
Ramayyan v. Kadir Bacha Sahib, 31 M. 68; 3 M. L. T. 254; 17 M. L. J. 596 ... 414
Ramayyar v. Vedachalla, 14 M. 441 (F. B.); 1 M. L. J. 661 ... 269
Ramchandra v. Draupudi, 20 B. 281 ... 48
Ramchandra v. Jairam, 22 B. 686 ... 427
Ramchandra Martand Waikar v. Venkatesh Kothekar, 25 Ind. Cas. 290; 16 M. L. T. 447; 18 C. W. N. 1154; 27 M. L. J. 333; 1 L. W. 83 ; 10 N. L. R. 112; (1914) M. W. N. 835; 16 Bom. L. R. 863; 12 A. L. J. 1281; 20 C. L. J. 533 (P. C.) ... 765
Rameshwar Tewari v. Nogeshwar Tewari, A. W. N. (1905) 43; 2 A. L. J. 154 ... 344
Ramgutty Nag v. Barodachurn Bose, 1 W. R. 120 ... 979
Ramjas v. Ralla, 1 Ind. Cas. 465; 25 P. R. 1909; 39 P. W. R. 1909; 70 P. L. R. 1909 ... 89
Ramji v. Chinto Sakharam, 1 B. H. C. R. 199 ... 834
Ramkinkar Biswas v. Akhil Chandra Chaudhuri, 35 C. 519; 11 C. W. N. 350 (F. B.); 5 C. L. J. 242; 2 M. L. T. 137 ... 721
Ramkrishna v. Tripurabai, 12 Ind. Cas. 529; 13 Bom. L. R. 940 ... 760
Rammonee v. Oomes Chunder, 1858 Beng. S. D. A. 1836 ... 979
Rampartab Samrathrai v. Foolibai, 20 B. 767 at p. 777 ... 838
Ramsden v. Longley, 2 Vern. 536; 23 Eng. Rep. 947 ... 185
Ramsing v. Babu Kisansing, 19 B. 116 ... 48

R—contd.

Page.

Ramyad Sahu v. Bindeswari Kumar Upadhya, 6 C. L. J. 102 ... 410
Rangappa Naik v. Kamti Naik, 31 M. 366 at p. 381 (F. B.); 18 M. L. T. 309; 3 M. L. T. 355 ... 756
Rangasami v. Muthukumarappa, 10 M. 509 275, 604, 939
Rangayya Chettiar v. Parthasarthi Naicker, 20 M. 120 ... 713
Rani Anund Kunwar v. Court of Wards, 6 C. 764; 8 C. L. R. 381; 8 I. A. 14; 4 Shome L. R. 78; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 195; 5 Ind. Jur. 161; Rafique and Jackson's P. C. No. 63 ... 739
Rani Hemanta Kumari v. Jagadindra, 10 C. W. N. 630; 3 A. L. J. 363; 8 Bom. L. R. 400; 1 M. L. T. 135; 46 M. L. J. 272 (P. C.) ... 439
Rani Jaibans Kuar v. Girdhari Tewari, 1 O. C. 40 ... 242
Raru Kutti v. Mamad, 18 M. 480 ... 281
Rashidunissa v. Bhup Singh, 3 A. L. J. 24 s. n.... 713
Ravala Nagama v. Secretary of State for India, 18 Ind. Cas. 699; (1913) M. W. N. 75 ... 865
Ravi Veeraraghavulu v. Sri Raja Bomma Devara Venkta Narasimha Naidu Bahadur, 25 Ind. Cas. 305; (1914) M. W. N. 695; 16 M. L. T. 262; 1 L. W. 779; 27 M. L. J. 451; 20 C. L. J. 375; 37 M. 443; 19 C. W. N. 97; 16 Bom. L. R. 853 492
Ravji Narayan Mandlik v. Dadaji Bapuji, 1 B. 523 ... 88
Ravula Vengala Reddi v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 15 Ind. Cas. 328 ... 865
Ravulu Parti Chelamana v. Ravula Parti Rama Row, 12 Ind. Cas. 317; 36 M. 46; 10 M. L. T. 232; 21 M. L. J. 876; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 265 ... 791
Razi-ud-din v. Karim Bakhsh, 12 A. 169; A. W. N. (1890) 36 ... 960
Reasut Hossein v. Hajee Abdoollah, 3 I. A. 221; 2 C. 131; 26 W. R 50 (P. C.) ... 48
Redgrave v. Hurt (1881) 20 Ch. D. 1; 51 L. J. Ch. 113; 45 L. T. 485; 30 W. R. 251 286, 322
Reese River Silver Mining Co. v. Smith, 4 H. L. 54; 17 W. R. 1024; 39 L. J. Ch. 849 ... 352
Reference under the Madras Forest Act, 12 M. 203; 1 Weir 758 (F. B.) ... 645
Reg. v. Vyankatrav, 7 B. H. C. R. 50 Cr. ... 322
Rewun Pershad v. Musammat Radha Beeby, 4 M. I. A. 137; 7 W. R. 35 (P. C.); 1 Suth P. C. J. 172; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 327; 18 E. R. 651 ... 457
Rex v. Herefordshire, (1820) 3 B. & Ald. 581; 106 E. R. 773 ... 964
—— v. Johnson, (1805) 7 East 65 at pp. 66, 70; 3 Smith 94; 8 R. R. 597; 103 E. R. 26 ... 965
—— v. Oxfordshire, 1 B. & Ad. 289 at p. 301; 8 L. J. (o. s.) K. B. 354; 109 Eng. Rep. 794 ... 805
—— v. Pagham Levels Commissioner, 8 B. & C. 355; 2 Man. & Ry. 468; 6 L. J. K. (o. s.) 338; 108 Eng. Rep. 1075; 32 R. R. 407 ... 803
—— v. Plumer, (1814) Russ. & R. 264; 15 R. R. 741 ... 965
—— v. Watson, (1808) 1 Camp. 215 ... 965
Richard Ross Skinner v. Naunihal Singh 19 Ind. Cas. 267; 35 A. 211 (P. C.); 25 M. L. J. 111; (1913) M. W. N. 500; 13 M. L. T. 488; 11 A. L. J. 494; 17 C. L. J. 555; 15 Bom. L. R. 502; 17 C. W. N. 853; 40 I. A. 105 ... 379

R—concld.

Page.

Ritraj Koer v. Sarfaraz Koer, 15 M. L. J. 349 at p. 351; 27 A. 655; 2 C. L. J. 185 (P. C.); 2 A. L. J. 623; 7 Bom. L. R. 872; 9 C. W. N. 889; 8 O. C. 293; 32 I. A. 165 ... 696
Robert Fischer v. Secretary of State for India, 22 M. 270; 26 I. A. 16; 3 C. W. N. 161 ... 884
Robinson, In the goods of, (1867) 1 P. and D. 384 at p. 386; 36 L. J. P. 93; 17 L. T. 19 ... 250
Robinson v. Fenner, (1912) 106 L. T. 542 ... 957
Robinson v. Fenner, (1912) 106 L. T. 722 ... 957
Rogers v. Duncan, (1890) 18 Can. Sup. Ct. 710 214
Rowland Hudson v. John Pierpont Morgan, 1 Ind. Cas. 356; 36 C. 713 at p. 721; 9 C. L. J. 563; 13 C. W. N. 654 ... 277
Roy Zuddi Sheikh v. Kali Nath Mookerjee, 33 C. 985; 4 C. L. J. 219 ... 605
Ruffin, Ex parte, 6 Ves. 119; 5 R. R. 237; 31 E. R. 970 ... 839
Runjeet Ram Panday v. Goberdhun Ram Panday, 20 W. R. 25 at p. 29 ... 439
Rup Chand Ghosh v. Sarveswar Chandra, 33 C. 915; 10 C. W. N. 747; 3 C. L. J. 629 ... 456
Rup Narain v. Gopal Devi, 3 Ind. Cas. 382; 36 I. A. 103; 13 C. W. N. 920; 6 A. L. J. 567; 11 Bom. L. R. 833; 10 C. L. J. 58; 36 C. 780; 19 M. L. J. 548; 5 M. L. T. 423; 93 P. R. 1909 (P. C.); 146 P. W. R. 1909; 68 P. L. R. 1910 51, 759
Rustam v. Emperor, 6 Ind. Cas. 101; 7 A. L. J. 468; 11 Cr. L. J. 235 ... 140
Rustumji v. Purushotamdas, 25 B. 606; 3 Bom. L. R. 227 ... 410
Rylands v. Fletcher, 3 H. L. 330; 37 L. J. Ex. 161; 19 L. T. 220 ... 807

S

Sabapathi v. Somasundaram, 16 M. 76; 2 M. L. J. 244 ... 872
Sabbiah Naicker v. Ramanathan Chettiar, 22 Ind. Cas. 899; 26 M. L. J. 189; (1914) M. W. N. 205; 1 L. W. 251; 37 M. 462 ... 414
Sachitananda Mohapatra v. Baloram Gorain, 24 C. 644 ... 37
Sada Shankar v. Brij Mohan Das, 20 A. 480; A. W. N. (1898) 129 ... 128
Sadlier v. Biggs, 4 H. L. C. 435 at p. 458; 10 E. R. 53 ; 94 R. R. 171 ... 468
Safaraddi v. Durga Prosad Sen, 16 Ind Cas. 966; 16 C. L. J. 83 ... 891
Sahib Mirza v. Syed Muhammad, Select Case No. 306 ... 428
Sahib Mirza v. Umda Khanum, 19 C. 444 (P. C.); 19 I. A. 83 ... 428
Sakhalchand Rikhawdas v. Velchand Gujar, 18 B. 203; P. J. (1893) 79 ... 755
Sakkarai Ambalagaran v. Sundilapathi, 16 Ind. Cas. 236 ... 939
Sakharam v. Hari Krishna, 6 B. 113 ... 410
Saluk Singh v. Ajudhya Pershad, 15 Ind. Cas. 121; 10 A. L. J. 108 ... 900
Sama Rayar v. Annamalai Chetty, 7 M. 164 at p. 165 ... 289
Samat v. Amra,6 B. 394 ... 766

S—contd.

Page.

Saminathan Chetty v. Palaniappa Chetty, 26 Ind. Cas. 228; 83 L. J. P. C. 131; 18 C. W. N. 617 (P. C.); 17 New Law Reports 56 ... 303
Sammo v. Abdul Wahid, A. W. N. (1883) 208 ... 521
Samoo Patter v. Abdul Sammad Saheb, 31 M. 337 ... 605
Sandon v. Hooper, 49 Eng. Rep. 820; 6 Beav. 246; 12 L. J. Ch. 309; Affirmed on Appeal 14 L. J. Ch. 120; 63 R. R. 72 521. 714
Sangili v. Mookan, 16 M. 350; 3 M. L. J. 137 ... 410
Sankara v. Subrayar, 30 M. 535; 17 M. L. J. 436 ... 413
Sankaralinga Nadan v. Rajeswara Dorai, 31 M. 236; 12 C. W. N. 946 (P. C.); 4 M. L. T. 101; 8 C. L. J. 230; 10 Bom. L. R. 781 ... 8
Sankaran v. Krishna, 16 M. 456 ... 859
Sankarappa Naicker v. Pari Naicker, 21 Ind. Cas. 62; 25 M. L. J. 276; (1913) M. W. N. 640 808
Sankarappa Naicken v. Secretary of State for India, 7 Ind. Cas. 339; 20 M. L. J. 977; 8 M. L. T. 201; (1910) M. W. N. 404 ... 866
Sankunni Menon v. Govinda Menon, 14 Ind. Cas. 254; 22 M. L. J. 485; 11 M. L. T. 325; (1912) M. W. N. 516; 37 M. 381 ... 220
Sanniyasi Razu v. Salur Zamindar, 7 M. 268 ... 80
Santishwar Mahanta v. Lakhikanta Mahanta, 35 C. 813; 13 C. W. N. 177 ... 507
Sanwale Singh v. Ganeshi Lal, 20 Ind. Cas. 41; 35 A. 441; 11 A. L. J. 630 ... 721
Saraswati Dasi v. Dhanput Singh, 9 C. 431; 12 C. L. R. 12 ... 854
Sarat Chandra v. Damodar, 12 C. W. N. 885 ... 413
Sarat Chandra v. Tarini Prasad Pal, 34 C. 491; 11 C. W. N. 487 ... 943
Sarat Chandra Banerjee v. Bhupendra Nath Basu, 25 C. 103 ... 378
Sarat Chandra Roy Chowdry v. Chandi Charan Mitra, 7 C. W. N. 300 ... 960
Sarat Chunder Roy Chowdhry v. Chundra Kanta Roy, 25 C. 805 ... 960
Sarat Chandra Singh, In the matter of the petition of, 18 A. 285; A. W. N. (1896) 45 ... 411
Sarat Chandra Sinha v. Nritya Gopal Biswas, 8 Ind. Cas. 47; 13 C. L. J. 284 ... 348
Sardar Dial Singh v. Beli Ram, 51 P. R. 1897 ... 343
Satya Kumar Banerjee v. Satakripal Banerjee, 3 Ind. Cas. 247; 10 C. L. J. 503 ... 457
Saville v. Rebertson, (1792) 4 Term. Rep. 720; 100 E. R. 1264 ... 920
Sayad Hussein Miyan v. Collecter of Kaira, 21 B. 257 ... 203
Sayad Muhammad v. Fatteh Muhammad; 22 C. 324; 22 I. A. 4 338, 586
Schibsby v. Westenholz, (1870) 6 Q. B. 155 at p. 161; 40 L. J. Q. B. 73; 24 L. T. 93; 19 W. R. 587 ... 289
Scott v. Franklin, (1881) 15 East 428; 104 E. R. 916 ... 285
Scott v. Scott, (1913) App. Cas. 417; 82 L. J. P. 74; 109 L. T. 1; 57 S. J. 498; 29 T. L. R. 520 ... 386
Scottish Petroliem Company, In re, 23 Ch. D. 413. 49 L. T. 348; 31 W. R. 846 ... 352
Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi, 18 Ind. Cas. 294; 37 M. 369 note 696

S—contd.

Page.

Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannidhi, 8 Ind. Cas. 357; 34 M. 366; 9 M. L. T. 47; (1910) M. W. N. 119 189, 693
Secretary of State for India in Council v. Bishun Dutt, 9 Ind. Cas. 423; 33 A. 376; 8 A. L. J. 115 ... 796
Secretary of State for India v. Ikurti Subrayudu, 16 Ind. Cas. 18; 36 M. 559; (1912) M. W. N. 807; 12 M. L. T. 266; 23 M. L. J. 728 ... 87
Secretary of State v. Kameswaramma, Appeal No. 182 of 1904 ... 596
Secretary of State v. Kampalli, 15 Ind. Cas. 594; 37 M. 364 at p. 366 note; 23 M. L. J. 109; (1912) M. W. N. 771 ... 696
Secretary of State v. Kannapalli Janakirammayya; 18 Ind. Cas. 770; 37 M. 322; 24 M. L. J. 365; 13 M. L. T. 235; (1913) M. W. N. 225 ... 693
Secretary of State for India v. Kota Bapanamma Garu, 19 M. 165 ... 725
Secretary of State for India v. Krishnamoni Gupta, 29 C. 518; 6 C. W. N. 617; 29 I A. 104; 4 Bom L. R. 537 ... 858
Secretary of State for India in Council v. Perumal Pillai, 24 M. 279; 11 M. L. J. 117 ... 696
Secretary of State for India v. Swami Nautheswarar, 6 Ind. Cas. 199; 34 M. 21; 7 M. L. T. 407; 20 M. L. J. 766; (1910) M. W. N 495 ... 693
Seetaram Sadasheo v. Nilu Patel, 1 C. P. L. R. 75 ... 815
Selby v. Greaves, (1868) 3 C. P. 594; 37 L. J. C. P. 251; 19 L. T. 186; 16 W. R. 1127 ... 382
Selby v. Nettlefold, (1873) 9 Ch. App. 111 at p. 114; 43 L. J. Ch. 359; 29 L. T. 661; 22 W. R. 142 ... 215
Semenza v. Brinsley, 18 C. B. (N. S.) 467; 34 L. J. C. P. 161; 11 Jur. (N. S.) 409; 12 L. T. 265; 13 W. R. 634; 144 Eng. Rep. 526; 144 R. R. 573 ... 830
Sesha Ayyar v. Krishna Ayyangar, 24 M. 96 at p. 109; 12 M. L. J. 383 ... 210
Seshan Pattar v. Veera Raghava Pattar, 4 Ind. Cas. 38; 32 M. 284; 5 M. L. T. 351; 19 M. L. J. 372 ... 36
Seth Bhagwandas v. Shridhar, 3 N. L R. 55 ... 703
Sevugan Chetty v. Krishna Aiyangar, 13 Ind. Cas. 268; 36 M. 378; 10 M. L. T. 557; 22 M. L. J. 139 ... 930
Shaikh Atham Sahib v. Daoud Sahib, 3 Ind. Cas. 190; 32 M. 469; 19 M. L. J. 457 ... 289
Shaikh Bahadur v. Shaikh Eradatulla Mallick, 6 Ind. Cas. 801; 11 Cr. L J. 407; 37 C. 642; 14 C. W. N. 799; 12 C. L. J. 45 ... 1004
Shaliq-un-nissa v. Shaban Ali Khan, 26 A. 581; at p. 587 (P. C.); 9 C. W. N. 105; 6 Bom. L. R. 750; 7 O. C. 290; 30 I. A. 217 ... 118
Sham Lal v. Nathe Lal, 7 Ind. Cas. 65; 33 A. 63 354
Sham Singh v. Kishun Sahai, 6 C. L. J. 190 ... 763
Sham Sundar Lal v. Achhan Kunwar, 25 I A. 183; 21 A. 71; 2 C. W. N. 729; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 417 ... 768
Shama Churn Kundu v. Khettromoni Dasi, 27 C. 521; 4 C. W. N. 501; 27 I. A. 10 ... 557

S—contd.

Page.

Shamu Pattar v. Abdul Kadir Rowthen, 16 Ind. Cas. 250; 35 M. 607; 16 C. W. N. 1009; 23 M. L. J. 331; 12 M. L. T. 338; (1912) M. W. N. 935; 10 A. L. J. 259; 14 Bom. L. R. 1034; 16 C. L. J. 596; 39 I. A. 220 (P. C.) ... 409
Shankar Das v. Basant Singh, 133 P. R. 1888 ... 745
Shankar Sarup v. Mejo Mal, 23 A. 313; 3 Bom. L. R. 713; 5 C. W. N. 649; 28 I. A. 203 (P. C.) 219
Shanmuga Vela Pillai v. Govindasami, 17 M. L. J. 452 at p. 453; 30 M. 459 ... 220
Shaw v. Benson, 11 Q. B. D. 563; 52 L. J. Q. B. 575 ... 617
Sheik Ismail Rowther v. Rajab Rowther, 30 M. 295; 17 M. L. J. 165; 2 M. L. T. 186 ... 375
Sheik Suleman v. Shivram Bhikaji, 12 B. 71 ... 77
Sheikh Ibrahim Tharagan v. Rama Aiyar, 10 Ind. Cas. 874; 35 M. 685; 21 M. L. J. 508; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 442 ... 36
Sheikh Mahamad Ravuther v. The British India Steam Navigation Coy. Ltd., 1 Ind. Cas. 977; 32 M. 95; 18 M. L. J. 497; 4 M. L. T. 110 (F. B.) ... 429
Sheikh Nubee Buksh v. Musammat Bebbee Hingon, 8 W. R. 412 ... 181
Sheo Singh Rai v. Dakho, 5 I. A. 87; 1 A. 688; 2 C. L. R. 193; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 529; 3 Saraswati's P. C. J. 807 ... 236
Sheo Soondary v. Pirthee Singh, 4 I A. 147 ... 765
Shepard v. Jones, 21 Ch. D. 469; 47 L. T. 604; 31 W. R. 303 521, 714
Sher Singh v. Maluk Singh, 142 P. L. R. 1905 ... 436
Shera v. Empress, 35 P. R. 1879 Cr. (F. B.) ... 305
Sheran v. Sharman, 117 P. R. 1901; 182 P. L. R. 1901 ... 493
Sheshgiri Shanbhog v. Salvador Vas, 5 B. 5 ... 427
Shib Chandra Roy v. Chandra Narain Mukerjee, 32 C. 719; 1 C. L. J. 232 ... 741
Shib Charan Lal v. Raghu Nath, 17 A. 174 at p. 196; A. W. N. (1895) 47 ... 957
Shib Prasad v. Vakai Pali, 33 C. 601 ... 381
Shib Sabitri Prasad v. Collector of Meerut, 29 A. 82; 3 A. L. J. 747; A. W. N. (1906) 295 ... 252
Shibu Haldar v. Gupi Sundari Dasya, 24 C. 449; 2 C. W. N. 169 ... 381
Shipley v. Todhunter, (1836) 7 C. & P. 680 at p. 686 ... 965
Shiva Nathaji v. Joma Kashinath, 7 B. 341 ... 279
Shivlal Bhagvan v. Shambhu Prasad, 29 B. 435 at p. 448; 7 Bom L. R. 585 ... 374
Shivram Chintaman v. Jivu, 13 B. 34 ... 234
Shohrat Singh v. Bridgman, 4 A. 376; A. W. N. (1882) 68 ... 755
Shri Sitaram Pandit v. Shri Harihar Pandit, 8 Ind. Cas. 625; 35 B. 169; 12 Bom. L. R. 910 ... 780
Shriram, v. Venkatasami, In re 6 M. H. C. R. 120 ... 627
Shunmugaroya Mudaliar v. Manika Mudaliar, 3 Ind. Cas. 799; 19 M. L. J. 640; 11 Bom. L. R. 1206 (P. C.); 10 C. L. J. 276; 6 M. L. T. 304; 32 M. 400; 36 I. A. 185 251, 557
Shuttleworth v. Clews, (1910) 1 Ch. 176; 79 L. J. Ch. 121; 101 L. T. 708 ... 228
Siddall, In re, 29 Ch. D. 1; 54 L. J. Ch. 682; 52 L. T. 114; 33 W. R. 509 ... 617

S—contd.

Page.
Sidebotham, Ex parte; Sidebotham, In re, 14 Ch. D. 458; 49 L. J. Bk. 41; 42 L. T. 783; 28 W. R. 715 ... 283
Sidhanath v. Ganesh, 17 Ind. Cas. 637; 14 Bom. L. R. 916; 37 B. 60 ... 885
Sidheswari Prasad Narain Singh v. Goshain Mayanand Gir, 19 Ind. Cas. 586; 11 A. L. J. 606; 35 A. 419 ... 60
Silajit Mahoto v. Emperor, 4 Ind. Cas. 19; 36 C. 865; 13 C. W. N. 801; 10 Cr. L. J. 471 ... 159
Singaram Pillai v. Hazarath Kibulari Syed Ghulam Ghouse Sha Sahib Kadir, 8 Ind. Cas. 1091; 36 M. 438; 9 M. L. T. 82; 20 M. L. J. 927 270
Sinthayee v. Thanakapdayen, 4 M. H. C. R. 183 940
Sirdar Gurdyal Singh v. Raja of Faridkot, 22 C. 222; 21 I. A. 171 (P. C.); 4 M. L. J. 267; (1894) A. C. 670; 11 R. 340 265, 289
Sirnivasa Rau Sahib, Jagirdar of Arni v. Secretary of State for India, 5 M. 226 ... 189
Sita Nath Goswami v. Baikuntha Nath Goswami, 9 Ind. Cas. 296; 38 C. 421 ... 356
Sitab Rai v. Dubal Nagesia, 6 C. L. J. 218 ... 128
Situl Purshad v. Luchmi Purshad, 10 C. 30 (P. C.); 10 I. A. 129; 13 C. L. R. 382; 7 Ind. Jur. 349; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 470 ... 2
Sivaraman Chetti v. Iburam Saheb, 18 M. 327... 294
Sivini Appala Narasimhulu v. Murada Sanyasi, 17 Ind. Cas. 120 510, 735
Skene v. Cook, (1902) 1 K. B. 682; 71 L. J. K. B. 446; 86 L. T. 319; 50 W. R. 506; 18 T. L. R. 431 382
Smith v. Anderson, 15 Ch. D. 247; 50 L. J. Ch. 39; 43 L. T. 329; 29 W. R. 21 ... 616
Smith v. Day, (1882) 21 Ch. D. 421; 31 W. R. 187; 48 L. T. 54 ... 297
Smith v. Lewis, (1902) 2 Ch. 667; 71 L. J. Ch. 885; 51 W. R. 11 ... 220
Smith, Ex parte, 5 Ves. 295; 31 E. R. 595 ... 839
Sohan Lal v. Baldeo Pershad, 7 O. C. 321 ... 783
Sohna v. Khalak Singh, 13 A. 78; A. W. N. (1891) 1 ... 301
Soobromonian Chetty v. Heilgers, 5 C. 71; 4 Ch. R. 377; 4 Ind. Jur. 517 ... 818
Sorabji v. Kala Raghunath, 12 Ind. Cas. 911; 36 B. 156; 13 Bom. L. R. 1193 ... 942
Soshi Bhusun Guha v. Gogan Chunder Shaha, 22 C. 364 at p. 374 ... 201
South Wales Atlantic Steamship Company, In re, 2 Ch. D. 763; 46 L. J. Ch. 177; 35 L. T. 294 616
Sowdamonee Debya v. A. Spalding, 12 C. L. R. 163 ... 736
Sree Mahant Kishora Dossjee v. Coimbatore Spinning and Weaving Co., Limited, 12 M. L. J. 439; 26 M. 79 ... 622
Sree Narain Mitter v. Sreemutty Kishen Sundari Dassee, 11 B. L. R. 171; 19 W. R. 133 (P. C.); Supp. I. A. 149 ... 236
Sri Brindavanachandra Harischandra v. Ramayya, 25 Ind. Cas. 664; 26 M. L. J. 600; 1 L. W. 486 ... 510
Sri Kishan Lal v. Kashmiro, 21 Ind. Cas. 617; 35 A. 445; 11 A. L. J. 654 ... 7
Sri Krishna Doss v. Chandook Chand, 4 Ind. Cas. 509; 32 M. 334; 5 M. L. T. 125; 19 M. L. J. 307 ... 20

S—contd.

Page.
Sri Mahant Govind Rao v. Sita Ram Kesho, 21 A. 53 at p. 71 (P. C.); 2 C. W. N. 681; 25 I. A. 195; 7 Sar. P. C. J. 370 ... 760
Sri Raja Inugunti Prakasa Raganingaru v. Venkata Rao, 21 Ind. Cas. 319; 25 M. L. J. 360; (1913) M. W. N. 800 ... 385
Sri Raja Venkata Narasimha Appa Row v. Sri Rajah Ranghayya Appa Row, 29 M. 437; 16 M. L. J. 178 ... 590
Sri Rajah Chetikani Rama Rau v. Secretary of State for India, 5 Ind. Cas. 882; 33 M. 1; 7 M. L. T. 128; 20 M. L. J. 66 .. 726
Sri Rajah Lakshmi Cheliah Garu v. Krishna Bhupati Devu, 7 M. H. C. R. 6 ... 2
Sri Sri Sri Brundavana Chandra v. Pragada Rammayya, 25 Ind. Cas. 664; 26 M. L. J. 600; 1 L. W. 486 ... 734
Srimati Mallika Dassi v. Makham Lal Chowdhury, 9 C. W. N. 928 ... 620
Srinath Ghose Chowdhry v. Haronath Dutt Chowdhry, 18 W. R. 240; 9 B. L. R. 220 ... 183
Srinivasa v. Venkata, 11 M. 148 ... 203
Srinivasa Reddi v. Sivarama Reddi, 4 Ind. Cas. 506; 32 M. 320 ... 983
St. Victor v. Devereux, (1843) 6 Beav. 584; 13 L. J. Ch. 102; 8 Jur. 26; 49 E. R. 952 ... 278
Stace v. Griffith, (1867) 2 P. C. 420; 6 Moore. P. C. (N. S.) 18; 20 L. T. 197; 16 E. R. 633 ... 728
Stocen v. Collen, (1841) 7 M. & W. 515; 9 Car. & P. 653; 10 L. J. Ex. 227; 56 R. R. 785 ... 965
Strick v. City Offices Coy., (1906) 22 T. L. R. 667 ... 214
Suba Singh v. Sarfraz Kunwar, 19 A. 215; A. W. N. (1897) 53 ... 763
Subad Dommi v. Katiram Dome, 20 W. R. Cr. 58 ... 526
Subadini v. Durga Charan, 28 C. 118; 4 C. W. N. 790 ... 964
Subba Chariar v. Muthuveeram Pillai, 14 Ind. Cas 264; 36 M. 553; 24 M. L. J. 545 ... 246
Subba Pillai v. Ramasami Aiyar, 27 M. 512; 14 M. L. J. 274 ... 960
Subbaroya Chetty v. Aiyaswami Aiyar, 1 Ind. Cas. 749; 32 M. 86; 5 M. L. T. 80 ... 858
Subbayya v. Madduletiah, 17 M. L. J. 469 ... 858
Subbiah Naicker v. Ramanathan Chettiar, 22 Ind. Cas. 899; (1914) M. W. N. 205; 1 L. W. 251; 26 M. L. J. 189; 37 M. 462 ... 520
Subbu Reddiar v. Kumarswamy Reddiar, 21 Ind. Cas. 461; (1913) M. W. N. 856 ... 19
Subhudra v. Basdeo Dube, 18 A. 29; A. W. N. (1895) 147 ... 526
Subramania Aiyar v. Emperor, 25 M. 61; 11 M. L. J. 233; 3 Bom. L. R. 540; 5 C. W. N. 866; 28 I. A. 257 (P. C.); 2 Weir 271 143, 637
Subramania Aiyar v. Savithri Ammal, 4 M. L. T. 354 ... 458
Subramania Aiyar v. Subramania Aiyar, 31 M. 250; 18 M. L. J. 245; 3 M. L. T. 278 ... 429
Subramanya Chettiar v. Arunachelam Chettiar, 16 Ind. Cas. 692; (1912) M. W. N. 956 ... 220
Sucha Singh v. Empress, 57 P. R. 1887 Cr. ... 305
Sugden v. St. Leonards (Lord), (1876) 1 P. D. 154; 45 L. J. P. 49; 34 L. T. 369; 24 W. R. 479 ... 982

S—concld.

Page.

Sultan Khan v. Emperor, 5 A. L. J. 691; A. W. N. (1908 259; 8 Cr. L. J. 445 ... 658
Sundar Koer v. Rai Sham Krishen, 34 C. 150 (P. C.); 4 A. L. J. 109; 11 C. W. N. 249; 5 C. L. J. 106; 17 M. L. J. 43; 9 Bom. L. R. 304; 2 M. L. T. 75; 34 I. A. 9 ... 178
Sundarappaiyar v. Arunachalla Chettiar, 31 M. 493; 4 M. L. T. 188; 18 M. L. J. 487 ... 421
Sundram Ayyar v. Muncipal Council of Madura, and the Secretary of State, 25 M. 635; 12 M. L. J. 37 ... 953
Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, Bengal v. Monmohan Roy, 26 Ind. Cas. 307 ... 316
Surbomungola Dabee v. Mohendronath Nath, 4 C. 508 ... 22
Surendra Narain Singh v. Hari Mohan Misser, 31 C. 174; 9 C. W. N. 87 ... 297
Surjiram v. Barhamdeo, 1 C. L. J. 337 ... 862
Surjiram Marwari v. Barhamdeo Persad, 2 C. L. J. 202 at p. 215 ... 201
Surnomoye Dassya v. Land Mortgage Bank of India, Ltd., 7 C. 173; 8 C. L. R. 341 ... 202
Swansea Corporation v. Harpur, (1912) 3 K. B. 493; 81 L. J. K. B. 1103; 107 L. T. 6; 76 J. P. 409; 10 L. G. R. 677 ... 892
Swindon Waterworks v. Wilts and Berks Canal Navigation Co., 7 H. L. 697; 45 L. J. Ch. 638; 33 L. T. 513; 24 W. R. 284 ... 975
Swire, In re, (1885) 30 Ch. D. 239; 53 L. T. 205; 33 W. R. 785 ... 947
Syed Ghulam Ghouse Sha Sahib v. Shunmugam Pallai, 8 Ind. Cas. 491; 34 M. 438; 8 M. L. T. 345 ... 269
Sykes v. Beadon, 11 Ch. D. 170; 48 L. J. Ch. 522; 40 L. T. 243; 27 W. R. 464 ... 616
Synge v. Synge, (1894) 1 Q. B. 466; 63 L. J. Q. B. 202; 70 L. T. 221; 42 W. R. 309; 9 R. 265; 58 J. P. 396 ... 251
Syud Tuffuzzool Hossein Khan v. Rughoonath Pershad, 14 M. I. A. 40; 7 B. L. R. 186; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 434; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 656; 20 Eng. Rep. 701 ... 84

T

Tadikonda Buchi Veerabhadrayya v. Sonti Venkana, 20 Ind. Cas. 769; 24 M. L. J. 659; (1913) M. W. N. 782 ... 358
Tamaya v. Timapa, 7 B. 262 ... 24
Tancred v. Delagoa Bay and East Africa Railway Company, (1829) 23 Q. B. D. 239; 58 L. J. Q. B. 459; 61 L. T. 229; 38 W. R. 15 ... 604
Tarakant Bannerjee v. Puddomoney Dossee, 10 M. I. A. 476 at p. 488; 5 W. R. (P. C.) 63; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 631; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 184; 19 E. R. 1052 ... 957
Taravadi Bholanath v. Bai Kashi, 26 B. 305; 4 Bom. L. R. 18 ... 509
Tarujan Bibee v. Asamuddi Bepuri, 4 C. W. N, 426 ... 644

T—concld.

Page.

Tasadduk Rasul Khan v. Ahmad Husain, 20 I. A. 176; 21 C. 66 (P. C.) ... 47
Tattersall v. National Steamship Co. Ltd.,(1884) W. N. 32 ... 956
Taylor v. Laird, (1856) 1 H. & N. 266; 25 L. J. Ex. 329; 108 R. R. 562 ... 271
Tha E. v. Lon Ma Gale, 3 L. B. R. 23 ... 975
Thakore Fatesinghji v. Bamanji A. Dalal, 27 B. 515; 5 Bom. L. R. 274 ... 858
Thakur Umrao Singh v. Thakur Lachhman Singh; 10 Ind. Cas. 285; 15 C. W. N. 497; 8 A. L. J. 465; 13 C. L. J. 519; 9 M. L. T. 507; 13 Bom. L. R. 404; 14 O C. 133; 21 M. L. J. 637; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 242; 33 A. 344 (P. C.) ... 250
Thakurain Jaipal Kunwar v. Bhaiya Indar Bahadur Singh, 31 I. A. 67; 8 C. W. N. 465; 14 M. L. J. 149; 6 Bom. L. R. 495; 26 A. 238 (P. C.) ... 233
Thalagara Ramanne v. Kalagare Gangayya, 26 Ind. Cas. 178; 27 M. L. J. 132 419, 490
The Nawab Nazim of Bengal v. Amrao Begum, 21 W. R. 59 at p. 60 ... 339
Thiruvengadachariar v. Ranganatha Aiyangar, 13 M. L. J. 500 ... 458
Thomas v. Packer, 1 H. & N. 669; 26 L. J. Ex. 207; 3 Jur. (N. s.) 143; 28 L. T. (o. s.) 274; 5 W. R. 316; 108 R. R. 776 ... 284
Thomas v. Thomas, 23 C. 913 ... 488
Thomas. Ex parte; Poppleton, In re, 14 Q. B. D. 379; 54 L. J. Q. B. 336; 51 L. T. 602; 33 W. R. 583 ... 617
Thomson v. Thomson, 14 C. 580 ... 488
Thumbuswamy Moodelly v. Hossain Rowthen, 1 M. 1; 2 I. A. 241 (P. C.); 3 Suth. P. C. J. 198; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 531 ... 379
Tirupati v. Muthu, 11 M. 322 ... 204
Tommey v. White, (1850) 3 H. L. C. 49 at p. 63; 10 E. R. 19; 88 R. R. 26 ... 375
Tookoo Moni Dasi v. Dwarka Nath, 17 Ind. Cas. 972; 17 C. W. N. 478; 16 C. L. J. 581 ... 375
Tota Ram v. Ram Charan, 8 Ind. Cas. 785; 7 A. L. J. 1149; 33 A. 222 ... 301
Troilokya Nath Roy v. Sarat Chandra Banerjee, 32 C. 123 at p. 127; 8 C. W. N. 901 ... 963
Trustees of Clyde Navigation v. Laird, (1883) 8 App. Cas. 658 at p. 673 ... 469
Tukaram v. Ramchandra, 1 B. 314 ... 427
Tuljaram Row v. Allagappa Chettiar, 8 Ind. Cas. 340; 35 M. 1; (1910) M. W. N. 696; 8 M. L. T. 453; 21 M. L. J. 1 ... 58
Tungala Mallana v. Gottumukkala Ramaraju, 23 Ind. Cas. 531; (1914) M. W. N. 345; 15 M. L. T. 401 ... 510
Turner v. Ambler, (1847) 10 Q. B. 252; 16 L. J. Q. B. 158; 6 Jur. 346; 116 E. R. 98; 74 R. R. 278 ... 298
Tyrrell v. Painton, (1894) Pro. Div. 151; 6 R. 540; 70 L. T. 453; 42 W. R. 343 ... 583

U

Udai Chunder v. Ashutosh Das, 21 C. 190 ... 598
Udit Chobey v. Radhika Prasad, 6 C. L. J. 662; 3 M. L. T. 41 278, 410
Ulfat Rai v. Gauri Shankar, 11 Ind. Cas. 20; 8 A. L. J. 670; 33 A. 657 ... 196

U—concld.

Page.

Uman Parshad v. Gandharp Singh, 15 C. 20 (P. C.); 14 I. A. 127; 11 Ind. Jur. 474; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 71; Rafique and Jackson's (P. C.) No. 98 ... 101
Umatul Mehdi v. Kulsum, 12 C. W. N. 16; 35 C. 120; 8 C. L. J. 245 ... 958
Umed Dholchand v. Pir Saheb Jiva Miya, 7 B. 134 ... 210
Umesh Chunder Gupto v. Raj Narain Roy, 10 W. R. 15 ... 438
Umesh Chunder Roy v. Raj Bullubh Sen, 8 C. 279; 10 C. L. R. 204 ... 535
Umra v. Muhammad Hayat, 79 P. R. 1907; 194 P. L. R. 1908 ... 974
Umrao Bibi v. Mahomed Rojabi, 27 C. 205; 4 C. W. N. 76 ... 198
Umrao Kunwari v. Sheo Mangal Singh, 24 Ind. Cas. 435 ... 773
United Kingdom Mutual Steamship Assurance Association v. Neville, 19 Q. B. D. 110; 56 L. J. Q. B. 522; 35 W. R. 746; 6 Asp. M. C. 226, N. ... 825
Upasoo v. Gopala, 4 C. P. L. R. 166 ... 820
Upendra Chandra Mitter v. Tara Prosanna Mukerjee, 30 C. 794; 7 C. W. N. 609 ... 186
Upendra Nath Bhuttacharjee v. Khitish Chandra Bhuttacharjee, 23 C. 499 ... 633
Upendra Nath Nag Chowdhury v. Surya Kanta Roy, 20 Ind. Cas. 205 ... 270
Uttam Singh v. Jhanda Singh, 21 P. R. 1896 ... 688

V

Vadisapu Appandora v. Vyricherla Veerabhadraraju Bahadur, 12 Ind. Cas. 487; 10 M. L. T. 391; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 406 ... 80
Vaidyanath Aiyar v. Aiyasamy Aiyar, 1 Ind. Cas. 408; 32 M. 191; 5 M. L. T. 49; 19 M. L. J. 94 220, 515
Vahazullah v. Boyapati, 30 M. 519; 17 M. L. J. 562 ... 471
Vaikunta Bhakta v. Kunni Pakki Beari, 1 Ind. Cas. 203; 5 M. L. T. 208; 19 M. L. J. 288 ... 127
Vallabha Valiya Raja v. Vedapurati, 19 M. 40; 5 M. L. J. 282 ... 760
Vasudeo Bhikaji Joshi v. Bhau Lakshman Ravut, 21 B. 528 ... 707
Vasudeva Mudaliar v. Srinivasa Pillai, 30 M. 426 (P. C.); 9 Bom. L. R. 1104; 2 M. L. T. 333; 6 C. L. J. 379; 4 A. L. J. 625; 11 C. W. N. 1005; 17 M. L. J. 444; 34 I. A. 187 ... 275
Vedachala Gramani v. Boomiappa Mudaliar, 27 M. 65 ... 269
Vedavalli v. Narayana, 2 M. 19; 2 Ind. Jur. 709 35
Veerabadra Tevan v. Veerappa Tevan, 15 Ind. Cas. 609 ... 3
Veerana Nadan v. Emperor, 15 Ind. Cas. 310; 11 M. L. T. 251; (1912) M. W. N. 404; 13 Cr. L. J. 470 ... 159
Veerappuddayan v. Muthu Karuppa Thevan, 19 Ind. Cas 589; 24 M. L. J. 534; (1913) M. W. N. 400; 13 M. L. T. 463 ... 409

V—contd.

Page.

Vemulada Janaki, In re, 2 Weir 736 ... 332
Venkamma v. Subramaniam, 20 M. 50 (P. C.); 17 M. L. J. 114; 2 M. L. T. 91; 11 C. W. N. 345; 5 C. L. J. 140; 9 Bom. L. R. 89; 4 A. L. J. 150; 34 I. A. 22 ... 889
Venkata v. Sama, 14 M. 227 ... 47
Venkata Krishna Rao v. Venkatachalam, 7 M. L. J. 299 ... 2
Venkata Narasimha Appa Rao Bahadur v. Sobhanadri Appa Rao Bahadur, 29 M. 52 (P. C.); 16 M. L. J. 1; 1 M. L. T. 3; 3 C. L. J. 1; 3 A. L. J. 55; 8 Bom. L. R. 1; 10 C. W. N. 161; 33 I. A. 46 ... 79
Venkata Narasimha Appa Row v. Lakshmi Venkayamma Row, 2 Ind. Cas. 316; 5 M. L. T. 108; 19 M. L. J. 106 ... 251
Venkata Narasimha Appa Row v. Parthasarathy Appa Row, 23 Ind. Cas. 166; (1914) M. W. N. 299; 12 A. L. J. 315; 26 M. L. J. 411; 15 M. L. T. 285; 16 Bom. L. R. 328; 41 I. A. 369; 19 C. L. J. 369; 18 C. W. N. 554 at p. 563; 37 M. 199 ... 957
Venkata Narasimha Naidu v. Bashakarlu Naidu, 25 M. 367 at pp. 370, 373; 6 C. W. N. 641; 29 I. A. 76 (P. C.) ... 376
Venkata Narasinha v. Lakshmi Venkayamma, 5 Ind. Cas. 102; 7 M. L. T. 296 ... 251
Venkatabalakrishna Chatiyar v. Kaliyanaramaiyangar, 5 M. H. C. R. 48 ... 857
Venkatachella Chettiar v. Sampathu Chettiar, 1 Ind. Cas 705; 32 M. 62; 4 M. L. T. 317; 19 M. L. J. 263 ... 727
Venkatachellapati v. Subbarayadu. 13 M. 293 8, 461
Venkatakrishnamma v. Annapurnamma, 23 M. 486; 10 M. L. J. 73 ... 889
Venkatalutchmi Ammal v. Srirungapatram Srinivasamurthy, 11 M. L. J. 91 ... 289
Venkatappiah v. Jagannadha Row, 12 M. L. J. 24 ... 248
Venkatarama Aiyar v. Suppa Nadan, 24 Ind. Cas. 24; 27 M. L. J. 58; (1914) M. W. N. 501 ... 275
Venkatasubbiah Chetty v. Govindarajulu Naidu, 31 M. 4[illegible]; 3 M. L. T. 259; 18 M. L. J. 1 ... 828
Venkateswara, In re, 10 M. 98 ... 202
Venkatrama Iyer v. Secretary of State for India, 5 Ind. Cas. 118; 33 M. 362; 7 M. L. T. 139; 20 M. L. J. 74 ... 726
Venkayya v. Venkatasubbayar, 3 M. 53 at p. 56 ... 360
Vijiasamy Tevar v. Sasivarma Tevar, 28 M. 560; 15 M. L. J. 469 ... 234
Villuri Adinarayana v. Polimera Ramudu, 17 Ind. Cas. 648; 12 M. L. T. 637; 24 M. L. J. 17; 37 M. 304 ... 806
Virupakshappa v. Sidappa Basappa, 26 B. 109 at p. 113; 3 Bom. L. R. 565 ... 407
Visalakshmi Ammal v. Sivaraman, 27 M. 577; 14 M. L. J. 310 ... 780
Vishnu Bhikaji Phadke v. Achut Jagannath Ghati, 15 B. 438 ... 219
Vithal Rao v. Ram Rao, 24 B. 317; 2 Bom. L. R. 837 ... 763
Voinet v. Barrett, (1885) 55 L. J. Q. B. 39; 34 W. R. 161 266, 289

V—concld.

Page.
Voinet v. Barrett, (1885) 54 L. J. Q. B. 521 ... 289
Volkart v. Sabju Saheb, 19 M. 304 ... 210
Vyankatraya v. Shivrambhat, 7 B. 256 ... 24
Vyllie v. Ellice (1848) 11 Beav. 99; 17 L. J. Ch. 378; 12 Jur. 711; 50 E. R. 734 ... 278
Vythilingam Pillai v. Kuthiravattah Nair, 29 M. 501; 16 M. L. J. 358; 1 M. L. T. 290 ... 3

W

Wadsworth v. The Queen of Spain, (1851) 17 Q. B. 171; 20 L. J. Q. B. 488; 16 Jur. 164; 85 R. R. 398; 117 E. R. 1246 ... 290
Walia v. Emperor, 6 Ind. Cas. 492; 18 P. L. R. 1910; 11 Cr. L. J. 364 ... 627
Wallis v. Bastard, (1853) 4 DeG. M. & G. 251; 17 Jur. 1107; 2 Eq. R. 508; 2 W. R. 47; 22 L. T. (o. s.) 162; 102 R. R. 115; 43 E. R. 503 ... 878
Wamanrao v. Rustomji, 21 B. 701 ... 410
Warren v. Warren, (1834) 1 C. M. & R. 250; 4 Tyr. 850; 3 L. J. (N. S.) Ex. 294; 40 R. R. 547 ... 965
Waryam Singh v. Mehtab Singh, 19 Ind. Cas. 961; 76 P. R. 1913; 240 P. L. R. 1913; 141 P. W. R. 1913 (F. B.) ... 434
Waryam Singh v. Musammat Premon, 50 P. R. 1901; 158 P. L. R. 1901 ... 527
Wasantrao Madhowrao v. Anandrao Ganpatrao, 6 Bom. L. R. 925 at p. 931 ... 957
Wasawa Singh v. Lal Singh, 48 P. R. 1906 (F. B.); 104 P. L. R. 1906 ... 434
Waterpark v. Fennell, 7 H. L. C. 650 at p. 685; 11 E. R. 259; 5 Jur. (N. S.) 1135; 7 W. R. 634; 115 R. R. 317 ... 468
Watts v. Kelson, 6 Ch. App. 166; 43 L. J. Ch. 126; 24 L. T. 209; 19 W. R. 338 ... 693
Weatherall v. Eastern Mortgage and Agency Co. Ltd., 9 Ind. Cas. 985; 13 C. L. J. 495 ... 987
Webb v. Crosse, (1912) 1 Ch. 323; 81 L. J. Ch. 259; 105 L. T. 867; 56 S. J. 177 ... 185
Whalley v. Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company, 13 Q. B. D. 131; 53 L. J. Q. B. 285; 50 L. T. 472; 32 W. R. 711; 48 J. P. 500 ... 803
White v. Mc Intyre, (1841) 3 D. 334 ... 921
White v. Victoria Lumber and Manufacturing Co., Ltd., (1910) A. C. 606 at p. 610; 80 L. J. P. C. 38; 103 L. T. 323 ... 924
Whitehead v. Parks, 2 H. & N. 870; 27 L. J. Ex. 169; 115 R. R. 863 ... 805
Wigfield v. Potter, 45 L. T. (N. S.) 612; 46 J. P. 485 ... 617
Wiggins v. Burkham, (1869) 77 U. S. 10 Wallace 129; 19 Law Ed. 884 ... 966

W—concld.

Page.
Wilkin v. Naimby, (1845) 8 Beav. 465; 50 E. R. 183 ... 278
Wilkinson v. Gangadhar, 6 B. L. R. 486 ... 400
Wilkinson v. Hall, (1837) 3 Bing. (N. C.) 508; 43 R. R. 728; 4 Scott. 301; 3 Hodges 56; 6 L. J. C. P. 82; 132 E. R. 506 ... 963
William Parry Jahans v. Alexandria Louis Jahans, 6 C. W. N. 414 ... 489
Williams v. Earle, (1868) 3 Q. B. 739; 9 B. & S. 740; 37 L. J. Q. B. 231; 19 L. T. 238; 16 W. R. 1041 ... 24
Wilson v. Abbott, (1824) 3 B. & C. 88; 4 D. & R. 693; 2 L. J. (o. s.) K. B. 215; 107 E. R. 667 ... 963
Wood v. Stourbridge Ry. Co., (1864) 16 C. B. (N. S.) 222; 143 Eng. Rep. 1111; 139 R. R. 473 ... 214
Woodcock v. Houldsworth, (1846) 16 M. & W. 124; 16 L. J. Ex. 49 ... 965
Woodyer v. Hadden, (1813) 5 Taunton 125 at p. 132; 14 R. R. 706; 128 Eng. Rep. 634; 14 R. R. 706 ... 214

Y

Yad Ram v. Umrao Singh, 21 A. 380; A. W. N. (1899) 130 ... 507
Yakub Ali v. Lethu Thakur, 30 C. 288 ... 153
Yakub Ebrahim Sayani v. Bai Rahimatbai, 10 Bom. L. R. 346 ... 442
Yamaji v. Antaji, 23 B. 442 ... 820
Yarali v. Hashmat Bibi, A. W. N. (1897) 90 ... 70
Yashvant Narayan Kamat v. Vithal Divakar Parulekar, 21 B. 267 at p. 271 ... 210
Yeshwant Baburav v. Gobind Shankar, 10 B. 453 ... 355
Young v. Adams (1898) A. C. 469; 67 L. J. P. C. 75; 78 L. T. 506; 14 T. L. R. 373 ... 475
Young v. Young, 23 C. 916 note ... 488

Z

Zain-ul-Abdin Khan v. Muhammad Asghar Ali Khan, 10 A. 166; 15 I. A. 12; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 129 ... 375
Zamindar of Vizianagaram v. Behara Suryanarayana Patrulu, 25 M. 587 at p. 597; 12 M. L. J. 249 ... 348
Zamindary of Sivagiri v. Micheal alias Sankaralingam, 21 Ind. Cas. 587; 14 M. L. T. 423; (1913) M. W. N. 965; 25 M. L. J. 608 ... 992

P. N. Dar
Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar.

G. N. Dar
Advocate High Court
Jammu & Kashmir
Srinagar.

GENERAL INDEX

VOLUME XXVI—1915.

—:-o-:—

Abandonment—Contract to sell land—Time not of essence of contract 121

Abatement of appeal. See APPEAL.

partial, effect of 486

Accomplice—Withdrawal of prosecution, effect of—Prior statements of accomplice, whether should be produced 141

Accord and satisfaction by substituted agreement—Pro-notes in lieu of "receipt"—Pro-notes altered—Suit on pro-note dismissed—Fresh suit for amount in receipt, whether maintainable 228

Accounts, rendition of, suit for Partnership business—Proper Court 225

Accretion to rent-free tenure—Title of holder of parent tenure—Duty to pay rent—Claim for mesne profits—Tenant holding land bona fide under de facto proprietor—De facto proprietor not real owner, effect of 977

Acknowledgment. See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), s. 19.

——————Mortgage — Malabar Law —Anandravan, whether can acknowledge mortgage by karnavan—Right to acknowledge mortgage right—Limitation Act (XIV of 1859), s. 1 (15)—Limitation Act (IX of 1871), Sch. II, Art. 148 127

Acquiescence—Notice of ejectment, delay in issue of, effect of—Landlord's conduct 719

ACTS—GENERAL.

Act 1858—XI. See MINORS ACT.
— 1859—XIII. See WORKMEN'S BREACH OF CONTRACT ACT.
— 1859—XIV. See LIMITATION ACT.
— 1860—XLV. See PENAL CODE.
— 1863—XX. See RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENTS ACT.
— 1865—X. See SUCCESSION ACT.
— 1869—IV. See DIVORCE ACT.
— 1870—VII. See COURT FEES ACT.
— 1870—XXI. See HINDU WILLS ACT.
— 1871—IX. See LIMITATION ACT.
— 1871—XXIII. See PENSIONS ACT.
— 1872—I. See EVIDENCE ACT.
— 1872—IX. See CONTRACT ACT.
— 1874—II. See ADMINISTRATOR-GENERAL'S ACT.
— 1875—IX. See MAJORITY ACT.
— 1877—I. See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT.
— 1877—III. See REGISTRATION ACT.
— 1877—XV. See LIMITATION ACT.
— 1878—XI. See ARMS ACT.

ACTS—GENERAL—concld.

Act 1879—XVIII. See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT.
— 1881—V. See PROBATE AND ADMINISTRATION ACT.
— 1882—II. See TRUSTS ACT.
— 1882—IV. See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT.
— 1882—V. See EASEMENTS ACT.
— 1882—VI. See COMPANIES ACT.
— 1882—XIV. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE.
— 1886—II. See INCOME TAX ACT.
— 1887—IX. See PROVINCIAL SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT.
— 1890—VIII. See GUARDIANS AND WARDS ACT.
— 1894—I. See LAND ACQUISITION ACT
— 1897—VIII. See REFORMATORY SCHOOLS ACT.
— 1897—X. See GENERAL CLAUSES ACT.
— 1898—V. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE.
— 1898—VI. See POST OFFICE ACT.
— 1903—XV. See EXTRADITION ACT.
— 1907—III. See PROVINCIAL INSOLVENCY ACT.
— 1908—V. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE.
— 1908—IX. See LIMITATION ACT.
— 1908—XVI. See REGISTRATION ACT.
— 1909—III. See PRESIDENCY TOWNS INSOLVENCY ACT.
— 1910—IX. See ELECTRICITY ACT.
— 1912—II. See CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT.
— 1913—VI. See MUSSULMAN WAKF VALIDATING ACT.
— 1913—VII. See COMPANIES ACT.
— 1914—III. See COPYRIGHT ACT.

ACTS—(LOCAL)—BENGAL.

Act 1858—XXXI. See BENGAL ALLUVIAL LAND SETTLEMENT ACT.
— 1859—X. See BENGAL RENT ACT.
— 1865—VIII. See BENGAL SALES OF UNDER-TENURES ACT.
— 1866—IV. See CALCUTTA POLICE ACT.
— 1870—VI. See BENGAL VILLAGE CHOWKIDARI ACT.
— 1880—IX. See BENGAL CESS ACT.
— 1884—III. See BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT.
— 1885—VIII. See BENGAL TENANCY ACT.
— 1887—XII. See BENGAL, N.-W. P. AND ASSAM CIVIL COURTS ACT.

ACTS—(LOCAL)—BOMBAY.

Act 1869—XIV. See BOMBAY CIVIL COURTS ACT.
— 1879—V. See BOMBAY LAND REVENUE CODE.
— 1879—XVII. See DEKKHAN AGRICULTURISTS RELIEF ACT.
— 1888—VI. See GUJARAT TALUKDARS ACT.

ACTS—(LOCAL)—BURMA.

Act 1876—II. See LOWER BURMA LAND AND REVENUE ACT.

ACTS—CENTRAL PROVINCES.

Act 1883—IX. See CENTRAL PROVINCES TENANCY ACT.
— 1889— . See HYDERABAD ASSIGNED DISTRICT COURTS LAW.
— 1898—XI. See CENTRAL PROVINCES TENANCY ACT.

ACTS—(LOCAL)—MADRAS.

Act 1858—I. See MADRAS COMPULSORY LABOUR ACT.
— 1860—XXVIII. See MADRAS BOUNDARY MARKS ACT.
— 1864—II. See MADRAS REVENUE RECOVERY ACT.
— 1865—VII. See MADRAS IRRIGATION CESS ACT.
— 1882—V. See MADRAS FOREST ACT.
— 1884—IV. See MADRAS DISTRICT MUNICIPALITIES ACT.
— 1890—XI. See MADRAS MOTOR VEHICLES ACT.
— 1904—III. See MADRAS CITY MUNICIPAL ACT.
— 1905—III. See MADRAS LAND ENCROACHMENT ACT.
— 1908—I. See MADRAS ESTATES LAND ACT.

ACTS—(LOCAL)—PUNJAB.

Act 1887—XVI. See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT.
— 1887—XVII. See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT.
— 1905—II. See PUNJAB PRE-EMPTION ACT.

ACTS—(LOCAL)—U. P.

Act 1876—XVIII. See OUDH LAWS ACT.
— 1886—XXII. See OUDH RENT ACT.
— 1899—III. See U. P. COURT OF WARDS ACT.
— 1900—I. See U. P. MUNICIPALITIES ACT.
— 1901—II. See AGRA TENANCY ACT.
— 1901—III. See U. P. LAND REVENUE ACT.

ACTS—REGULATIONS.

Act 1793—I. See BENGAL REGULATION.
— 1793—VIII. See BENGAL REGULATION.
— 1819—VII. See BENGAL PATNI TALUKDARS REGULATION.
— 1819—VIII. See PUTNI REGULATION.
— 1825—XI. See REGULATION.
— 1855—XI. See REGULATION.
— 1859—X. See REGULATION.

STATUTES.

24 & 25 VIC. C. 104. See CHARTER ACT; HIGH COURTS ACT.

Adjournment of case. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, O. XVII.

——— of sale. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, O. XXI, r. 69.

Administration bond—Surety's liability, suit to enforce—Limitation—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch I, Art. 68 505

Administrator pendente lite—Commission—Government security pledged to Bank for loan, how far assets of deceased—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 115—Estoppel—Suit to recover excess commission, whether to open settled account—Laches—Acquiescence—Commission once charged on whole, whether allowed on part property sold.

Government securities, whether endorsed in blank or endorsed to a Bank for a debt, pass a legal and not a mere equitable interest and the Bank is a holder for value to the extent of the sum for which it has a lien.

Therefore, the sale-proceeds of such securities as are applied to the discharge of the debt are not the assets of a deceased that come into the hands of the administrator pendente lite, notwithstanding the fact that the sales are effected through the agent nominated by the administrator, and the administrator pendente lite is not entitled to commission on such amount.

The mere fact that the accounts of the administrator pendente lite were passed and the plaintiff with full knowledge of their contents raised no objection and the Solicitor also expressed a favourable opinion, does not operate as an estoppel.

A suit to recover from the administrator the commission retained in excess, of what he was entitled to is not a case of opening a settled account so much as enforcing a claim against a fiduciary agent.

A defence of laches cannot prevail where a statutory period of limitation is prescribed.

Acquiescence cannot be imputed where there is no evidence to show that the plaintiff actually knew the facts as represented in the accounts to be incorrect or that he did not rely on that representation.

If commission be once taken on the whole property, the administrator pendente lite cannot again charge commission on the sale-proceeds of a part of the property. C OSMOND BEEBY v. KHITISH CHANDRA, 18 C. W. N. 631; 41 C. 771 284

Administrator-General's Act (II of 1874), ss. 17 to 20—Probate and Administration Act (V of 1881), s. 90—Succession Act (X of 1865), s. 19—Hindu Wills Act (XXI of 1870), s. 2—Hindu dying intestate—Letters of Administration to estate of deceased taken out by Administrator-General—Son of deceased minor on that date—Sale of one item of property by son on attaining majority—Subsequent sale by Administrator-General of same item of property, validity of.

If an Administrator-General takes out Letters of Administration to the estate, moveable or immoveable, of a Hindu dying intestate, the whole estate of the deceased vests in the Administrator-General and he can dispose of it without the sanction of the Court in such manner as may appear to him proper.

An administration cannot be treated as closed until every act necessary for its completion has been done.

Where, therefore, the Administrator-General in order to realize the commission due to him sold an item of immoveable property forming part of the estate of the deceased while that same item had been previously sold by the son of the deceased on attaining majority:

Administrator-General's Act—concld.

Held, that the sale by the latter was a nullity, as that property still vested in the Administrator-General, and not in the son. M. ALWAR CHETTY v. CHIDAMBARA MUDALI, 16 M. L. T. 23 ; (1914) M. W. N. 642; 27 M. L. J. 400 792

Admission of receipt of consideration in mortgage-deed, whether admissible in evidence 68

Adoption. See CUSTOM.

——— ——— See HINDU LAW.

———, Illatom form of Custom—Presence of son of adoptive father, whether invalidates Illatom adoption—Hindu Law—Presumption.

Under Hindu Law an adoption is invalid where the adoptive father has a son, but the illatom adoption is opposed to Hindu Law and is based on custom and, therefore, no presumption of Hindu Law can apply to such an adoption.

The existence of a son is no bar to an illatom adoption. M. NALLURY KRISHNAMMA v. KAMAPALLI RAMALINGAM 54

Advancement, principle of, whether applicable in India 102

Adverse possession by one co-owner against another—Presumption—Acts of hostile character—Exclusive possession.

To establish as amongst co-owners of joint property that there has been adverse possession of one against the others by reason of a particular act to which a hostile character is attributed, it must be conclusively shown that such act is wholly inconsistent with, and is not by any possibility attributable to, his character as joint owner.

A case of adverse possession by a co-owner cannot be established by mere paper assertions not brought home to the knowledge of the other co-owners, when there has been no actual exclusion of the latter from use and enjoyment for the period of limitation.

The entry and possession of land under the common title of one co-owner will not be presumed to be adverse to the others, but will ordinarily be held to be for the benefit of all. C. SURJA BIBI v. TARAP MONDAL. 788

——— ——— ———Co-owner—Possession by one co-owner — Presumption —Burden of proof —Limitation.

There is a presumption that the possession of one co-owner is the possession of the other, and the burden lies on the co-owner setting up title by adverse possession to prove that he or his predecessor had set up an adverse title to the other co-owner's share, to the knowledge of the latter, more than twelve years before the institution of the suit. AHMAD RAZA KHAN v. RAM LAL, 13 A. L. J. 204 922

——— ——— ———Dharmsala—Mahant leaving no legal representative Founder's right to oust trespasser—Mahant's possession, when becomes adverse to its founder.

Adverse possession—contd.

In the absence of a duly appointed Mahant of a dharmsala, its founder is entitled to oust a trespasser.

The mere long possession by a Mahant of a dharmsala does never become adverse to its founder, unless the former does some overt act repudiating the latter's title for over 12 years. P. PREM SINGH v. MOKAND SINGH, 151 P. W. R. 1914; 281 P. L. R. 1914 345

——— ——— ——— when encumbrance 436

——— ——— ——— Ex-proprietary tenancy 21

——— ——— ——— of interest in land—Possessor not deriving any benefit - Possession, whether adverse 528

——— ——— ——— against members of joint family, commencement of—Hindu Law—Sale by managing member—Deed unregistered 383

———Joint holding—Possession by one co-sharer, when adverse to other co-sharers—Revenue Records—Statutory presumption—Burden of proof

There is a statutory presumption in favour of the correctness of the Revenue Records and the onus lies on the party who disputes the correctness to prove that they are incorrect.

In a joint holding, the possession of one co-sharer is the possession of all the co-sharers and in the absence of a clear and unequivocal overt act, the possession of a joint owner cannot be regarded as adverse to his co-owner.

Where the Revenue Records of two successive Settlements and the entries in the jamabandis were in favour of the defendants and the predecessors-in-interest of the plaintiffs had agreed to the property in dispute being mutated in the defendants' names:

Held, that the title in the property had passed to the defendants and though the plaintiffs were in possession, their possession being permissive and in their capacity as co-sharers, could not ripen into ownership. P. THIRAJ v. KASIM 481

——— ——— ———of limited right—Prescription—Limited right of management, whether can be prescribed for—Document containing assertion of rights, admissibility of—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 13, 35—Suit to recover possession as hukdar—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 10.

A limited right of management of an endowment can be prescribed for as well as any other limited right.

A document containing an assertion of certain rights, though not a public document within the meaning of section 35 of the Evidence Act, is admissible in evidence under section 13.

A suit to recover possession of certain villages as hukdar and for an injunction restraining defendants from interfering with the plaintiff in the discharge of his duties is barred by limitation when it appears that the right of management has been in the adverse possession of the defendant for nearly 60 years before suit. Section 10 of the Limitation Act has no application to such a suit. M. AMBALAVANA PANDRASANNADHI AVERGAL v. MINAKSHY SUNDARESWARA DEVASTANAM, (1915) M. W. N. 76; 28 M. L. J. 217; 17 M. L. T. 271, 841

Adverse possession—concld.

——————Possession of co-heir—How far adverse to his co-heirs—Possession when referrable to lawful title, whether can be treated as of trespasser.

Where one of several heirs takes possession of an inheritance, his possession is not adverse to his co-heirs.

If the possession of a person can be traced to a lawful title, possession will be referred to such title and would not be treated as the possession of a trespasser

Where a widow alienated by a deed of gift the property she had got by inheritance shortly before her death in 1895 to M, one of four presumptive reversioners who were entitled to succeed to the said property after her death, and he alienated the same to the 1st defendant in 1899 and the suit was brought in 1909 by an alienee from the other reversioners, who sold their shares to him, to recover possession of the said shares:

Held, that the possession of M from the death of the widow to 1899 was not advers to the other reversioners and that, therefore, the 1st defendant was not entitled to tack on M's possession to his own. M. PONNUSWAMY IYER v. PERMAYE, 16 M. L. T. 530 346

—— —— Purchaser at Court sale delivered formal possession by proclamation of property under tenants—Burden of proof that purchaser was not in possession 537

—— —— Title, proof of—Burden of proof—Revenue Records, entry in—Boundary dispute, proceedings in—Title, test of.

In a suit for possession it is for the party who comes into Court to oust the other party to establish the alleged superior title.

The proceedings of a Revenue Court demarcating the boundary lines of villages are not the only test of title to any land included in a village. P. AWAR SINGH v. BHOLA, 240 P. L. R. 1914 341

Agent. See LAMBARDAR.

Agoo, position of 625

Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1901), ss. 20, 31, 167—Illegal transfer of occupancy holding—Ejectment—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for declaration that mortgage of occupancy is null and void, whether cognizable by Civil Court.

Where an occupancy tenant mortgages his holding and the mortgagee after obtaining a decree on foot of the mortgage forecloses it, the zemindar can sue for ejectment in a Revenue Court under section 31 of the Agra Tenancy Act. But a suit for a declaration that such mortgage and decree were null and void and not binding on the landlord, would lie in the Civil Court. A. LACHMIN NARAIN v. KALKA PRASAD, 13 A. L. J. 49 419

—— —— s. 22—Succession—Occupancy-holding—Death of absolute owner of holding prior to passing of Tenancy Act, but of his widow after it—Right of collaterals to succeed.

S died prior to the passing of the Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1901) leaving a widow K. K succeeded to the occupancy-holding left by S. K died after the passing of the Act;

Agra Tenancy Act—contd.

Held, that the plaintiffs, who were the nephews of S and were not in joint cultivation with him, could not succeed to the holding after the widow's death. A. HIMAT SINGH v. HULAS SINGH 23

——————, s. 31 419

—— —— —— s. 95—Jurisdiction—Suit for declaration that plaintiff is an occupancy tenant—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.

A suit for a declaration that the plaintiffs are occupancy tenants of a certain land and that the defendant is not joint with them in such holding is cognizable by a Revenue and not by a Civil Court. A. DIWAN SINGH v. RANDHERA, 12 A. L. J. 1322 718

—— —— s. 95—Power to fix rent.

In proceedings under section 95 of the Agra Tenancy Act the Court has no power to fix the amount of rent, it can only ascertain what in fact the rent payable is. A. RAM CHARAN LAL v. KARIM-UN-NISSA BIBI, 12 A. L. J. 1131; 37 A. 12 121

—— ss. 95, 167—Suit for ejectment—Revenue Court, whether competent to go into validity or invalidity of lease—Res-judicata.

The plaintiff sued in the first instance in the Revenue Court to eject the defendant alleging that a certain lease and kabuliat upon which the defendant relied were given by his karinda without his authority. Upon the suit being dismissed he filed a suit in the Civil Court for a declaration that the lease and kabuliat were not binding upon him and averred that the present suit could not have been brought in the Revenue Court and that, therefore, the matter could not be said to be res judicata:

Held, that the subsequent suit was not maintainable inasmuch as the Revenue Court was competent to go into the question of validity or invalidity of the lease, and, therefore, its decision operated as res judicata. A. RAM SINGH v. GIRRAJ SINGH, 12 A. L. J. 1252; 37 A. 41 731

—— s. 97—Lease—Endorsement by Kanungo—Date from which it takes effect—Subsequent registered lease—Priority

A document endorsed by a Kanungo or Revenue Officer under section 97 of the Agra Tenancy Act takes effect from the date on which it was executed.

Therefore, a lease executed prior to, but endorsed after, the execution and registration under the Registration Act of another lease for the same holding, has priority over the latter. A BANWARI LAL v. KHUBI RAM, 12 A. L. J. 1265; 37 A. 59 458

—————— s. 164 (2)—Suit for profits—Liability of lambardar to account—Burden of proof.

It is the duty of a lambardar to maintain accounts of collection and disbursement. The fact that the village patwari maintains accounts does not exonerate the lambardar or free him from his duty of maintaining his accounts.

In a suit for profits against a lambardar, once the liability to account has been admitted by the defendant or held proved against him, it is the duty of the Court trying the suit to call upon the defendant to file his accounts and to produce his books and prove his accounts.

Agra Tenancy Act—concld.

The initial burden on the plaintiff is to prove that the defendant lambardar is liable to account. This shifts the burden on to the lambardar to prove the accounts. When this has been done, it is open to the plaintiff to prove that there are uncollected items which would not have remained uncollected but for the negligence or misconduct of the defendant. A. RAGHUBAR CHARAN v. KRISHEN BALDEO 515

——— ——— s. 167 419, 731

Agraham. See MADRAS ESTATES LAND ACT.

Agreement Debt to be discharged in particular manner, (whether waiver of) other remedies—Family partnership—Nattukottai Chetties—Usage—Family property as trading assets—Signature—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 19—Acknowledgment.

An agreement that the debt may be discharged in a certain manner does not show that the creditor has waived any other remedy which he may have.

Nattukottai Chetties are a trading community and they usually treat the family property as assets, making no distinction between their family property and their trade assets.

Therefore, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary their family properties should be treated as trade assets.

Where it is proved that the Nattukottai Chetties in writing their private letters do not usually sign their names, but only write words invoking the help of the family deity, a letter thus signed may be taken as signed by the writer for the purposes of section 19 of the Limitation Act.

A letter signed by the managing member of a family acknowledging a debt is binding on the family. CHIDAMBARAM CHETTI v. RAMASWAMI CHETTIAR, 27 M. L. J. 63 911

Agreement to re-sell—Rent—Interest 753

Alienation. See CUSTOM.

——— ——— See HINDU LAW.

——— ——— by father 276 days before birth of son—Right of son against purchaser for value—Burden of proof 61

——— ———Legal necessity—Onus—Just debts, payment of, by mortgagee Mortgagee, right of, to recover.

In a suit by a reversioner for a declaration that the mortgage-deeds executed by the plaintiff's brother in favour of a certain person, being without consideration and legal necessity, shall not affect his reversionary rights, the onus of proving legal necessity for the alienations lies upon the mortgagee and if the mortgagee fails to establish his position he is entitled to credit only in respect of such portion of the mortgage-money as was applied towards the liquidation of the mortgagor's "just debts" due to third parties. P. BHIM SINGH v. JOT RAM, 42 P. W. R. 915 530

——— ———, private, of immoveable property ordered to be attached, validity of 204

——— ——— ———Surrender—Re-grant—Evidence—Presumption—Estoppel—Partial alienation—Inheritance—Full blood and half blood, preference between 757

Alienation—concld.

——— ——— by widow—Relinquishment by widow of her estate in favour of reversioner, validity of

Alluvial Land—Resumption by Government—Settlement with one of original proprietors—New tenure—Pre-existing contract of lease—Suit for recovery of rent—Necessary parties—Fair rate, determination of—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 103 215

Amendment—Decree in accord with judgment but not with intention of Court, whether can be amended—Inherent power—Jurisdiction—Amendment of decree, if allowed, after appeal against that decree pending 940

——— ——— of plaint—Introducing cause of action barred by limitation, whether permissible 42

——— ———no change of cause of action, whether fresh notice required 91

——— ———Plaint framed on wrong view of law—Subsequent alteration of law—Adjournment of case, application for, grant of 363

——— ——— of pleadings—Practice of Subordinate Court's trying preliminary issues and not giving opportunity to amend condemned 527

Anicut irrigation, construction of, by Government—Presumption—Implied engagement—Right of owners of land whose supply is cut off to receive free supply—Cause of action—Government, liability of 590

Appeal. See PRIVY COUNCIL.

——— ———, abatement of—Death of one of respondents—Legal representatives of deceased respondent not brought upon record—Respondent, deceased, abatement only as against 523

——— ———Adjudication as insolvent 282

——— ———Appellate Court, omission of, to fix time for filing objections to findings of lower Court—Irregularity, technical 736

——— ———Appellate Court, power of, to set aside conviction for rioting and convict under section 323 152

——— ———, Appellate Court, whether entitled to alter conviction for principal offence into one of abetment—Abettor present at commission of offence, whether can be convicted of principal offence.

——— ———Application for mesne profits 820

——— ———Damages, adequacy or excessiveness of, if to be gone into by Appellate Court 895

——— ———Decision on question of limitation, misjoinder or jurisdiction, whether preliminary decree 835

——— ———, delay in filing—Court-fee insufficient—Discretion 33

——— ———lying to District Judge ordered to be preferred to Subordinate Judge—Subordinate Judge, power of, to hear such appeals 783

——— ———, execution order directing—Decree 866

——— ———Misjoinder of causes of action, plea of, whether allowed to be raised 781

Appeal—concld.

——Mortgage — Foreclosure decree—Extension of time for payment of money —Good cause—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), ss. 05 1), 99, O. XXXIV, r. 3, O. XLIII, r. 1 (o),—Preliminary order incorporated in decree may be questioned in appeal 701

—— from order under section 2, Workmen's Breach of Contract Act, whether lies 145

—— —Plea of limitation, whether can be raised in second appeal 369

—— Pre-emption—Appeal—Amount increased —No time fixed for payment of additional amount —Payment within reasonable time, validity of 65

—— Provincial Small Cause Court—Compensation for attachment before judgment, order of 359

—— —Rejection of plaint by first Court—Order of Appellate Court setting aside order of rejection and remanding case for trial on merits, appeal from, whether competent 519

—— —Revenue Court, review granted by order of, whether appealable 830

—— by several persons—Death of one of them —Failure to bring on record his representatives within limitation Partial abatement, effect of 486

——Suit transferred from Court of Small Causes to Munsif for trial—Decision, appeal from, whether competent 56

——Surety, liability of — Bond to restore property attached before judgment—Dismissal of suit 76

Appeal (Criminal)—Appellate Court, duty of.

In an appeal from a conviction and sentence it is for the Appellate Court, as for the first Court, to be satisfied affirmatively that the prosecution case is substantially true and that the guilt of the appellant has been established beyond all reasonable doubt. C. KANCHAN MALLIK v. EMPEROR, 18 C. W. N. 1215; 15 CR. L. J. 686 134

Appeal, second—Concurrent findings of lower Courts based on no evidence—High Court, power of interference—Plaint, signing and verification of—Practice—Parties not getting summons served on witnesses—Court, power of—Procedure.

Where the lower Appellate Court gives a decree not based on evidence, it is a substantial defect or error in the procedure of that Court which entitles the High Court to interfere in second appeal.

Judges are bound to see that plaints are signed by persons authorised to sign them and that verifications are not treated as mere formalities.

When parties do not get summonses served on their witnesses in time for them to appear on the day of hearing, the Judge should proceed to deal with the case on the materials at the time before him. U. P. B. R. MA THA v. P. L. M. M. CHETTY FIRM 240

——Finding of fact 723

——Genuineness of document 30 years old—Question of fact or law 117

Appellate Court, power of 275

——right of, to reverse decree—Misjoinder of causes of action 51

Approver—Forfeiture of pardon—Approver to be committed for trial along with other accused if forfeiture proved—Plea of pardon may be decided by Magistrate—Plea may be re-opened in Sessions Court—Burden of proof—Forfeiture—Question of fact—Judge—Jury 657

Arbitration Arbitrator going beyond reference Documents acted upon not disclosed—Award.

An award is bad if the arbitrators go beyond the scope of reference and decide disputes not submitted to them.

An arbitrator acts illegally if he does not disclose to the parties the documents upon which he acts. C. JAGAT HARI-BEPIN BEHARY PODDAR v. MORAN & Co., 73

Arbitrator—Court-appointed arbitrator, whether should pass separate award—Aggrieved party, remedy of—Agreement not to appeal, whether binding 355

Arms Act (XI of 1878), ss. 4, 20—"Arms," definition of—Weapon, dangerous and probably to cause death if used—Pole-axe.

The definition of "arms" in the Arms Act is neither exhaustive nor altogether happy.

The mere fact that a weapon is dangerous and, if used, may probably cause death, does not make it "arms" within the meaning of section 4 of the Arms Act.

A weapon consisting of a plain lathi, a blade and two moveable screws and so contrived that by loosing the screws the blade may be detached from the shaft made up of the lathi, is not "arms" as defined in section 4 of the Arms Act, although the weapon may be described as a pole-axe. O. GAJJA v. EMPEROR, 1 O. L. J. 559; 15 CR. L. J. 685 133

—— ss. 4, 14, 19 6), 20—Fire-arms, whether includes parts of fire-arms—Possession of part of fire-arms—Manufacture of fire-arms Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), ss. 109, 116, 120B—Punishment on conviction under section 120B—Abetment—Joinder of charges—Transaction—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 239.

Unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context, wherever the word "arms" occurs in the Indian Arms Act, it has got to be read as including "parts of arms." By section 4 of the Act the word "arms" also includes "fire-arms." Therefore, the word "fire-arms" as used in section 14 includes "parts of fire-arms."

The word "fire-arms" only means "arms that are fired by means of gun-powder or other explosive."

Possession of parts of fire-arms is prohibited by section 14 read with section 4 of the Indian Arms Act.

An offence under section 20 of the Indian Arms Act is different from an offence mentioned in section 19 (6) The only additional element necessary to constitute an offence under section 20 is that the possession should be in such manner as to indicate an intention that such act may not be known to any public servant.

The keeping of arms under section (19) a of the Indian Arms Act must be a keeping for sale, not keeping only

The term "transaction" in section 239 of the Criminal Procedure Code is not synonymous with the term "offence." A "transaction" cannot be said to be complete as soon as the offence is committed. It is clear that so long as the conspiracy continues, the transaction which began with the forming of the common intention continues.

Arms Act—concld.

For an offence under section 120B, Indian Penal Code, punishment is provided by section 109 of the Indian Penal Code if an offence has been committed; but if an offence has not been committed, punishment is limited to the extent provided by section 116. Perhaps, strictly speaking, in the former case there should not be a conviction for conspiracy but for abetment of an offence, for conspiracy followed by an act done to carry out the purpose of the conspiracy amounts to abetment. C. HARSHA NATH CHATTERJEE v. EMPEROR, 16 CR. L. J. 9; 21 C. L. J. 201 313

——— ss. 14, 19 (6), 20 313

——— s. 20 133

Assignment. See HINDU LAW.

——— mortgage—Consideration 35

Assignor and assignee—Direction in assignment deed to pay debt, if can be revoked before payment—Revocation, power of, how affected by character of debt, secured or unsecured 223

Attachment before judgment, effect of 93

——— before judgment—Re-attachment ex majori cautela, if amounts to abandonment of prior attachment—Dismissal of execution petition, whether affects prior attachment before judgment 81

——— ——of mortgagee's rights Subsequent alienation by mortgagee of his mortgage rights—Money reserved with alienee to pay off attaching creditors—Attachment by another creditor of moneys in assignee's hands Payment by alienee to prior attaching creditors—Subsequent attachment, effect of, on such payment 223

———of property, objection to, by three claimants—Joint order setting aside attachment—Opinion adverse to one claimant, effect of—Claims to attachment, decision on, principle of 532

——— — — Simple mortgage-debt—Mortgagee in possession—Mode of attachment 508

Attestation. See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, s. 58.

Attesting witness, mark of—mortgage-deed, effect of 84

Auction-purchaser, title of—Date of sale, title complete from 353

Auction-sale—Fraud - Application to set aside sale—Plea of limitation, whether can be raised in second appeal—One administrator representing others—decree passed against such administrator, validity of—Auction-sale in such decree - Sale not set aside within 30 days—Suit to declare auction-sale not binding, whether maintainable—Succession Act (X of 1865), ss. 268 to 273 359

Award. See ARBITRATION.

Benami transaction—Source of purchase-money—Principle of "advancement"—Father purchasing property in son's name, whether gift—Presumption 102

Benamidar, whether can sue—Mortgage 507

Bengal Alluvial Land Settlement Act (XXXI of 1858), ss. 1, 2—Alluvial Land—Resumption by Government—Settlement with one of original proprietors—New tenure—Pre-existing contract of lease—Suit for recovery of rent—Necessary parties—Fair rate, determination of—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 103.

Alluvial lands formed by the recession of a river were resumed by the Government and settled with one of the original proprietors, who was a co-sharer to the extent of two-thirds and who had along with the other co-sharers executed a lease before resumption in favour of the defendant. He sued for the recovery of arrears of rent for the whole land without making the original co-sharers parties to the suit:

Held, that the plaintiff was bound by the terms of the pre-existing contract to the extent of a two-thirds share, of which he was a proprietor, of the original estate, but that in respect of the remaining one-third he was in the position of a stranger and was entitled to realise rent at the rate assessed by the Settlement Authorities as payable by the under-tenure-holder of the original estate;

that the co-sharers of the plaintiff were not necessary parties to the suit; and that since the rent payable by the under-tenure-holder was not determined by the Settlement Authorities, the High Court had power to do so under section 103, Civil Procedure Code. C. MUKTAKESHI DASI v. SRINATH DAS, 19 C. L. J. 614 215

Bengal Cess Act (IX of 1880, B. C), s. 95—Returns, whether admissible in evidence in favour of the person filing them—Words as to address, directory.

Under section 95 of the Cess Act, 1880, the returns filed by or on behalf of any person in pursuance of the Cess Act are not admissible in evidence in his favour.

The words as to the return bearing the signature and address of the person or his authorized agent in section 95 of the Cess Act are only directory and the fact that a wrong address is given, does not make the return admissible in evidence in favour of the person by or on whose behalf it was filed. C. RAJANI BALA DASI v. BHAJA HARI KOLEY, 18 C. W. N. 076 126

Bengal Municipal Act (III of 1884), ss. 238, 240, 273, sub-s (1)—Building of new masonry wall, whether erection of house—Erection without sanction, whether offence—"Building," meaning of

The building of a new and additional masonry wall which materially enlarges a courtyard constitutes the erecting of a house within the meaning of sections 238 and 240 of the Bengal Municipal Act, and its erection without the sanction of the Municipal Commissioners is an offence under section 273, sub-section (1) of the Act.

The word "building," in the absence of any specific definition in the Act, should be construed in its ordinary sense and as including erections, structures, or buildings such as masonry walls. C. MOHABIR DAS v. GAYA MUNICIPALITY, 16 CR. L. J 59 651

——— ss. 240, 273 (1) 651

Bengal, N.-W. P. and Assam Civil Courts Act (XII of 1887), ss. 21 (4), 22—Appeals lying to District Judge ordered to be preferred to Subordinate Judge—Subordinate Judge, power of, to hear such appeals.

Where appeals lying to a District Judge under sub-section 2 of section 21 of the Bengal, N.-W. P. and Assam Civil Courts Act are directed under sub-section (4) to be preferred to the Court of a Subordinate Judge, the intention is that the appeals preferred accordingly should be heard and disposed of by the Subordinate Judge without any order of transfer of such appeals to his Court under section 22 of the Act. A. SHEO HARAKH v. RAM CHANDER, 3 A. L. J. 41; 37 A. 76 783

s. 22 783

Bengal Patni Taluqdars Regulation (VII of 1819) 197

Bengal Regulation (I of 1793), s. 8, cl. 4—Bengal Regulation (VIII of 1793), s. 41—Chowkidari chakran lands—Inclusion in zemindari—Permanent sanad—Resumption, when permissible—Burden of proof—"Assigned," meaning of, in Village Chowkidari Act (VI of 187).

Zemindars have a prima facie title to the full enjoyment of every parcel of land lying within the ambit of their estates for which they pay revenue to Government, and it rests on the Government to prove that when the zemindari was confirmed, land therein was subject to reservation empowering the Government to resume and assess it.

Under section 8, clause 4, of Bengal Regulation I of 1793 and section 41 of Regulation VIII of 1793, the power or option of resumption was reserved only in respect of lands which had been appropriated by the zemindar with the permission or under the authority of Government for the purpose of remunerating the chowkidars for their services and which, although included in the mahal and annexed to the malguzari lands, were not taken into consideration for assessment of revenue.

The word 'assigned' in Bengal Act VI of 1870 means assigned by the Government or appropriated under its authority or with its permission.

The mere fact that some of the appointments of chowkidars were made with the approval of Government Officers cannot alter the nature of the grants.

The history of the chakran grants in Orissa traced P. C. SECRETARY OF STATE v. KIRTIBAS BHUPATI HARICHANDAN MAHAPATRA, 19 C. W. N. 65; 2 L. W. 11; 17 M. L. T. 1; 21 C. L. J. 31; 17 BOM. L. R. 32 676

——— s. 41 676

Bengal Rent Act (X of 1859), s. 16 908

Bengal Sales of Under-tenures Act (VIII B. C. of 1865), s. 16—Intermediate landlord, obligations of—Agreement with another person to get rid of under-tenure, whether fraud—Under-tenure, annulment of—Wilful default by tenure-holder in payment of rent—Decree under Rent Law—Sale—Pre-arranged terms.

An intermediate landlord is bound to protect his own tenant from all paramount claims and may be deemed to have committed an act of fraud against his under-lessee, when he enters into an agreement with another person to get rid of the under-tenure by means of a fraud and fictitious sale for arrears of rent. C. UMA CHARAN MANDAL v. MIDNAPORE ZEMINDARY COMPANY, 20 C. L. J. 11; 19 C. W. N. 270 182

Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), s. 25—Denial of landlord's title, when operates as forfeiture 619

——— ss. 93, 94, 95, 99—Common manager, appointment of, for part of estate, whether legal—Common manager, whether can be appointed without complying with formalities of the Act—Illegal appointment, effect of—Permanent lease granted by common manager without sanction of Judge, whether valid.

The Bengal Tenancy Act does not authorize the appointment of a common manager of a part of an estate.

An order of the District Judge making the appointment of a common manager is illegal if the formalities provided by section 95 of the Bengal Tenancy Act are not complied with and, therefore, a common manager so appointed does not acquire the statutory powers conferred on a common manager duly appointed under the Act.

A permanent lease granted by a common manager without the sanction of the District Judge is invalid C. KANAI LAL GHOSE v. BESIR PRAMANIK 493

——— ss. 94, 95, 99 498

——— ss. 144 (1), 193—Money payable in respect of forest rights, suit for recovery of—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), Sch. II, Art. 8.

The provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act applicable to suits for the recovery of arrears of rent apply, as far as may be, to a suit for the recovery of money payable in respect of forest rights.

What is payable in respect of forest right is in the nature of rent for the purposes of determining the jurisdiction of the Court, and, therefore, a suit for recovery thereof is entertainable by an ordinary Civil Court and not by a Small Cause Court C. BANDI ALI FAKIR v. AMJD SARKAR, 20 C. L. J. 227; 19 C. W. N. 415 380

——— s. 159, 161 436

——— s. 167 436

——— s. 193 380

——— s. 195 (c) 436

Bengal Village Chowkidari Act (VI of 1870) 676

Bombay Civil Courts Act (XIV of 1869), s. 16—Suits under Divorce Act for dissolution of marriage, whether District Judge competent to refer to Assistant Judge for decision—Nature of such suits—Divorce Act IV of 1869, s. 10

Section 16 of the Bombay Civil Courts Act does not authorize a District Judge to refer for trial to an Assistant Judge suits under the Divorce Act for dissolution of marriage. Such suits cannot appropriately be described as applications under a special Act. They are suits, but not suits the subject-matter of which is capable of valuation. B. THOMAS G. G. FRENCH v. JULIA FRENCH, 16 BOM. L. R. 754 599

Bombay Land Revenue Code (V of 1870), ss. 79A, 202 749

Boundary Marks Act (XXVIII of 1860). See MADRAS BOUNDARY MARKS ACT.

Breach of public peace. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 106.

Burden of proof—Adverse possession—Title, proof of 341

——— ——— ——— ——Alienation by father 276 days before birth of son—Right of son against purchaser for value 61

——— ——— — — Alienation by widow, suit by reversioner to set aside—Legal necessity—Old alienation 376

——— - ——— ——Alienation—Legal necessity —Just debts, payment of, by mortgagee—Mortgagee, right of, to recover 530

——— ——— — , allocation of, after evidence produced by both parties upon clear and specific issues—Evidence as a whole to be considered—Parties brought on record on their application, names of, striking off—Additional defendants, pleadings and evidence of, not to be expunged from record—Defendants, two sets of—Admission of plaintiff's claim by one set of defendants—Denial of plaintiff's claim by other set of defendants—Relief, separate, not claimable against each set of defendants—Claim of plaintiff not to be decreed against defendants admitting it—Pleadings, object of—Court, duty of, where pleadings vague and unsatisfactory—Attestation of Will—Succession Act (X of 1865*), s.* 50*—Execution of Will —Executant's signature on document, place for, no law as to—Signature for purpose of execution—Re-execution of Will—Will, execution of, includes signature of executant and attestation of witnesses—Adoption itself does not revoke previous Will—Document, construction of—*"Janashin wa qaimmuqam," interpretation of—Testamentary character of document Bequest of talukdari estate—Revocation of previous Will—Estate received under Will, divesting of—Burden of proof, nature of, in case where document set up as having effect of setting aside previous Will—Suspicion in mind of Court to be removed—Execution, both mechanical and intelligent or conscious to be proved—Pleadings, point not stated in, tried to be established—Rebutting evidence, objection as to, not entertainable—Cross-examination, question put in—Admission—Statements of deceased testator or executant, when admissible in evidence—Deceased executant, conduct of, relevancy of—Evidence Act (I of 1872*), ss.* 11, 18, 19 and 21*—Oral evidence as to statements of deceased executant—Cancelled registered document, admissibility in evidence of—Admissions against one's own interest, when lose their force as such—Unregistered document can be referred to for ascertainiing executant's state of mind at or about time of its execution.*

Where a suit has gone to trial upon clear and specific issues, in respect of which evidence has been produced by both parties, a Court ought not to pay much heed to the arguments as to the allocation of the burden of proof, or the precise point at which such burden of proof may be said to have shifted to one side or the other in consequence of particular pleadings or admissions or particular items of evidence, but should prefer as a rule simply to consider the evidence as a whole, treating the pleadings of the parties as pieces of evidence relevant under the head of admissions, and endeavouring if possible to arrive at a clear finding upon the questions of fact involved.

On certain persons applying to be added as defendants in a case the Court of first instance, in spite of the plaintiffs' protest, ordered them to be so added. The plaintiffs did not reserve it as a matter which might be called in question, if necessary, later on in appeal from any decree which might be passed in the case, but at once appealed from that order, which even the Appellate Court upheld. These additional defendants were thus brought on the record, entered their pleadings, putting the plaintiffs to proof of their entire case, cross-examined the plaintiffs' witnesses, and tendered evidence of their own The Court of first instance passed a decree in the case against the plaintiffs, and they again contended on appeal from that decree, on certain new allegations not brought home to the Appellate Court in the previous appeal from the said order, that the present additional defendants ought never to have been brought upon the record, and that not only their pleadings but also the evidence led by them ought to be ignored and excluded from consideration:

Burden of proof—contd.

Held, that the additional defendants could not be struck off the record at that stage and that their pleadings and the evidence led by them could not be expunged from the record or ignored in arriving at a decision on the facts.

Where there are two sets of defendants and one of those sets admits and the other denies the plaintiffs' claim, and the case is such that no separate reliefs can be granted against each set, the plaintiffs cannot get a decree as against the defendants admitting their claim if they fail to establish their case, which they are bound to prove owing to the pleadings of the other defendants denying their claim.

The sole object of every system of pleadings is that each side may be fully alive to the questions that are about to be argued, in order that they may have an opportunity of bringing forward such evidence as may be appropriate to the issues.

Where the pleadings of a party are vague and unsatisfactory, a Court ought to endeavour to have them clearly specified as far as possible.

A Will, after having been executed but without having been signed by any attesting witness was deposited in a sealed cover at the office of the Sub-Registrar. About ten years later the executant went to the Sub-Registrar's office, took out the Will from the sealed cover and formally presented it for registration as a Will and admitted its execution in the presence of attesting witnesses, and these witnesses as well as the executant himself signed the document in the proper places:

Held (per Piggott, J. C.), that the above proceedings amounted to an attestation of the Will sufficient to satisfy the requirements of section 50 of the Indian Succession Act.

Held, further (per Piggott, J.C.), that the execution of the Will was not legally complete before the time when it became valid in law in consequence of its attestation by the Sub-Registrar and by the identifying witnesses.

Held, also (per Piggott, J. C.,) that as there is no law as to the precise place on a document where the executant must affix his signature in order that his act in so doing may amount to an execution, the Will in question could be said to have been executed and registered on one and the same day.

Held, lastly (per Lindsay, A. J.C.), that as the execution of a Will included both the signature of an knowledgment by the testator and the attestation of the subscribing witnesses, the Will in question could not be said to have been executed until it was attested by the marginal witnesses.

Burden of proof—concld.

The adoption of a son does not in itself operate to revoke or nullify a valid Will executed by the adoptive father in favour of his wife, any more than the birth of a natural son does.

A document purported to constitute a person the Janashin wa qaim-muqam" (representative or locum tenens) of the executant and provided that "hamesha bad mere tamam umur talukdari ka anjam deta rahega" (after the executant's death the person will always attend to or perform all the duties appertaining to talukdar), and that he should represent the executant in the presence of officials, members of the brotherhood, tenants of the estate and others, and on official occasions such as Darbars held by the Lieutenant-Governor and the like. It was contended that these words and expressions considered together might reasonably be interpreted as being of a testamentary character and as implying a bequest of the talukdari estate in that person's favour and thus revoking a Will previously in existence:

Held, that, inasmuch as a revocation in order to be valid and operative as a fresh bequest must be in clear and unambiguous terms, and as words to the effect that the person named in the document in question was merely to be the janashin or locum tenens, the document could not, in the absence of a clear and positive bequest of the estate in his favour, be interpreted as a Will conferring the taluka upon him and to divest the legatee of such estate in whose favour the Will had previously been made.

Where the plaintiffs put forward a document which they contended had the effect of setting aside the Will in favour of the defendant:

Held, that the burden of proof to be laid upon the plaintiffs should be just the same as legally lies upon the propounders of a Will, and more particularly upon the propounders of a Will which has the effect of revoking a Will previously in existence, and that once any circumstances are shown to exist which may reasonably excite proper and well-grounded suspicion in the mind of the Court, a person claiming under such a document is bound to satisfy the Court, not only as to its mechancial execution, but also as to the fact that the executant fully understood the nature and the terms of the deed.

A party endeavouring to establish a point not specifically stated in his pleadings cannot object to the opposite party's tendering rebutting evidence as regards that point.

If a party's Counsel simply asks a witness in cross-examination as to whether a certain event happened, it cannot be said that that party commits himself to the assertion that such an event actually took place.

In cases of disputed Wills or other dispositions of property, evidence as to statements alleged to have been made by the deceased testator or executant, from which inferences can be drawn as to the execution or otherwise of the documents in dispute or as to the circumstances under which such execution was obtained, is admissible.

Burden of proof—contd.

Where in a case of disputed deed of adoption the defendant alleged that the deceased executant had become, shortly after the execution of the deed, aware of its existence, purport and effect, and after having become so aware had taken steps to cancel it or nullify its effect, the conduct of the executant from the moment that he became admittedly aware of the existence, purport and effect of the deed is not merely a relevant fact, but a very important fact in the case; and the evidence offered by the defendant as to statements made by the executant in the interval of the execution of the deed and his death expressing the view taken by him of the deed after he had known of its existence, or the action which he had conceived himself to have taken regardjng it, cannot be excluded as irrelevant, but is admissible under the head of admissions under sections 18, 19 and 21 or section 11 of the Evidence Act.

It is a dangerous thing to admit oral evidence as to statements alleged to have been made by a deceased executant as having the effect of practically cancelling a registered document, unless there are anomalous and suspicious circumstances already in existence.

In ordinary cases the admissions made by a party against his own interest might well be regarded as decisive against him. But in special cases where there exist a variety of circumstances calculated to discount the value of such admissions, those admissions may well be ignored from consideration as being of no effect.

An unregistered document, although inoperative as a deed of transfer of property or the like, can be looked at for a collateral purpose, for instance, to ascertain the executant's state of mind on or about the time that the document was executed. O. MIR SYED HASAN v. TAIYABA BEGUM, 1 O. L. J. 591 547

——————Chowkidari chakran lands —Inclusion in zemindari—Permanent sanad—Resumption, when permissible 676

——————Custom 450

——————Custom — Adoption — Sister's son —Bajwa Jats of Nikodur Tahsil, Jullundur District—Onus 812

——————Forfeiture of pardon 657

——————Grant—Presumption 67

——————Hindu Law—Joint family—Separation of one member—Jointness of remaining members—Presumption 600

——————Joint family—Co-parcener, exclusion of—Purchaser from co-parcener out of possession—Onus 904

——————Jurisdiction 357

——————Legitimacy — Son born seven months after marriage 969

——————Consideration, receipt of—Admission before Sub-Registrar—Mortgage with possession—Lease by one of two mortgagors only—Mortgage-deed mentioning liability of both mortgagors for rent—Agreement without consideration—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXXIV, r. 4. 913

——————Ordinary test—Onus 512

——————Payment of rent into Court to avoid sale, effect of 891

Burden of proof—concld.

——— ——— ——— ———Plea of minority 407

——— ——— ——— ——— Possession by one co-owner—Presumption 922

——— ——— ——— ——— Possession by one co-sharer, when adverse to other co-sharers—Revenue records—Statutory presumption 481

——— ——— ——— ——— Purchaser at Court sale—Possession 537

——— ——— ——— ———, shifting of 723

——— ——— ——— ———Suit to set aside decree passed against a person as minor on ground that he was not minor 816

——— ——— ——— Suit for profits—Liability of lambardar to account 515

——— ——— ——— Temple, right of worship in—Sudra, right of, to enter 7

——— ———Two Chetties signing joint promissory notes 253

Burmese Buddhists—One of the parents changing religion, effect of, on legitimacy of subsequently born child—Minors' Act (XL of 1858), person holding property, by virtue of certificate under—Trustee—Limitation.

If after marrying according to the Burmese Buddhist custom of marriage, the father becomes a Christian and the mother remains a Buddhist, the marriage does not become thereby dissolved and the legitimacy of the child born after the father's change of religion is not thereby affected.

A person who holds property by virtue of a certificate granted under Act XL of 1858 holds it as an express trustee for the children of the deceased, who are as such entitled to the property, and limitation does not run against them. U. P. B. R.
MAUNG YIN v. MA SAW MYAING 700

Calcutta Police Act (IV B. C. of 1866), s. 13B, cl. (c)—Police constable in possession of money contrary to order, conviction of—Defence, consideration of—Plea of guilty—Admission—Government order, proof of—Practice.

A copy of the Government order or an extract therefrom or a reference thereto should be placed on the record if a person is convicted of having contravened that order.

A Police constable when being tried under section 13B, clause (c), of Act IV of 1866 for being in possession of a sum of four annas while on duty contrary to an order of the Commissioner of Police, pleaded guilty to having the money in possession but stated he was not on duty:

Held, that the plea of guilty was to be looked upon merely as an admission of the fact that he had at the time in question the sum of annas four upon his person and that he could not be convicted unless his defence was considered and adjudicated upon. C.
GAYA ROY v. EMPEROR, 18 C. W. N. 1272; 15 CR. L J. 703 151

Cause of Action. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, O. II, r. 2.

——— ———Alienation by widow—Contest by remote reversioner 737

——— ———Anicut irrigation, construction of, by Government—Right of owners of land whose supply is cut off to receive free supply—Government, liability of 590

Cause of action—concld.

——— ——— — Arbitration, dispute between two partners of money-lending firm settled by—Award—"Receipt"—Accord and satisfaction by substituted agreement—Pro-notes in lieu of "receipt"—Pro-notes altered—Suit on pro-note dismissed—Fresh suit for amount in receipt, whether maintainable—Causes of action, inclusion of 228

——— ——— ——, whether claims upon several contracts included in one—Contract for supply of goods by monthly instalments, breach of—Intention of parties—Damages, whether separate suits maintainable 209

——— ——— ——— for declaratory suits — Suit based on different titles, if separately maintainable 232

——— ——— ———, meaning of 225

——— ——— ———, Misjoinder of causes of action—Appellate Court, right of, to reverse decree—Cause of action not established against some defendants, whether bars fresh suit on true cause of action 51

——— ——— ———, whether affected by subsequent events 475

Central Provinces Tenancy Act (IX of 1883), ss. 21, 32——Unregistered lease by thekadar, whether can confer permanent title—Sanction of zemindar, effect of—Improvement made by tenant under bona fide belief of permanent title, compensation for, whether allowed—Equitable estoppel—Landlord, whether bound by equities binding on his thekadar—Compensation, assessment of—Assessors, failure to appoint, effect of—Irregularity.

An unregistered lease by a thekadar of a village cannot confer any permanent title, although the lessee may have been in possession for a long time, nor can the assent or sanction of the zemindar in very guarded terms be construed as sanctioning the tenancy "for ever."

If a tenant under a bona fide belief that he has a perpetual lease makes a permanent improvement within the knowledge of his landlord, which is advantageous not only to his own holding but can also enure to the benefit of the other holdings of the zemindar, he is entitled to compensation on ejectment.

A landlord who gets possession of a holding by the surrender of the person who held it and who gave a permanent lease for valuable consideration, may be considered to be bound by the equities binding upon the person surrendering.

A Munsif who is authorized under the Central Provinces Tenancy Act to assess compensation for an improvement in a holding but is directed to associate with him assessors, commits an irregularity if he does not associate them, but the irregularity is such as can be waived. C. SARDAKAR PODH v. BISSESWAR GOANTIA 476

——— ——— ——— s. 32 476

——— ——— ——— ss. 47, 48, 60, 71, 72—Sub-lease for more than a year—Sub-tenant ca not resist eviction after one year.

A sub-tenant, under an occupancy-tenant, cannot after the expiry of a year from its commencemens, plead as a ground for resisting a suit for eviction, a Central Provinces Tenancy Act—concld.

sub-lease for a period exceeding one year. The remedies provided by sections 47 and 48 and 71 and 72 of the Central Provinces Tenancy Act are for the protection of the tenant's heirs and of his landlords. N. VISHWANATH v. SITARAM, 10 N. L. R. 159 708

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 48, 60, 71, 72 708

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 85, 115—Tenant can save one holding if unable to save another—Surrender by tenant, effect of, on his mortgagee—Partition—Order of Settlement Officer, whether necessary—One holding could be split up into several by consent of landlord and his tenants.

A holding can be split up by a landlord and his tenants with mutual consent and without the order of a Settlement Officer. If a partition made by two persons interested in two portions of a holding is accepted by the landlord, each becomes separate holding.

Section 85 of the Central Provinces Tenancy Act contemplates ejectment only from the holding in respect of which an arrear is due. In other words, it is open to a tenant to pay up the arrear on one holding and save it from forfeiture, though he be unable to pay what is due on another holding.

A surrender by a tenant will not prejudice the rights of his mortgagee when the mortgage is not voidable at the instance of the landlord. N. TIKARAM v. GHASIRAM, 10 N. L. R. 129 810

——— ——— ——— s. 115 810

Ceylon Civil Procedure Code, s. 34—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. II, r. 2—Causes of action—Arbitration, dispute between two partners of money lending firm settled by—Award—"Receipt"—Accord and satisfaction by substituted agreement—Pro-notes in lieu of "receipt"—Pro-notes altered—Suit on pronote dismissed—Fresh suit for amount in receipt, whether maintainable—Causes of action, inclusion of.

A dispute between the two partners of a money-lending firm was referred to arbitrators, who after the completion of the investigation drew up a "receipt" which the appellant signed, the arbitrators witnessed and the respondent accepted and acted upon. In accordance with the "receipt" the appellant paid to the respondent Rs. 224-5/32 and handed to him two promissory notes for Rs. 14,000 each in which no rate of interest was inserted by an oversight, although the parties intended that they should bear Chetty interest. The respondent thereupon went to one of the arbitrators and persuaded him to alter the pro-notes by inserting therein 9 per cent. as the rate of interest. He then sued on the two notes, but his suit was dismissed on the ground that a material alteration had been made in them. He then brought another suit for two items referred to in the "receipt" which with other items were the basis of the two pro-notes:

Held, (1) that the proceedings of the arbitrators, though informally conducted, were in the nature of an arbitration, that the so-called "receipt" expressed the finding of the arbitrators and the mode in which it was to be performed and that the case was a clear example of "accord and satisfaction by a substituted agreement" by which the prior rights of the parties were extinguished; and

Ceylon Civil Procedure Code—concld.

(2) that the form of the claim was faulty, inasmuch as the sole existing liability was under the agreement set out in the receipts, while the arrangement for the discharge of the amount found due by means of the promissory notes only expressed the mode of payment contemplated and arranged for at the time, and that the respondent could bring an action for the unpaid balance of the sum found due.

Section 24 of the Ceylon Civil Procedure Code, which corresponds to Order II, rule 2, of the Indian Civil Procedure Code, 1908, is directed to securing the exhaustion of the relief in respect of a cause of action and not to the inclusion in one and the same action different causes of action, even though they arise from the same transaction. The first part of the clause makes it incumbent on the plaintiff to include the whole of his claim in his action. The second portion makes it incumbent on him to ask for the whole of his remedies. The final paragraph is not intended to be an illustration of the foregoing provisions, but a substantive enactment making an obligation and a collateral security for its performance one cause of action for the purposes of the section.

Therefore, a claim on the bills and a claim for the amount found due under the award and for which payment was provided by the agreement are not the same cause of action, but are inconsistent and mutually exclusive causes of action, and thus the sum sued for is recoverable by the respondent but he cannot bring a fresh action for the remainder. P. C. SAMINATHAN CHETTY v. PALANIPPA CHETTY, 18 C. W. N. 617; 83 L. J. (P. C). 131; 17 New Law Reports 56; (1914) A. C. 618; 41 I. A. 142 228

Charge, amendment of 306

———, enforceability of 81

——— of bribery—False charge—Compensation—Frivolous or vexatious 1004

——— — Joint trial of two persons for two distinct offences—Misjoinder—Re-trial of appellant 636

——— mortgage—Construction of deed 752

——— of rioting—Common object wrongly stated, effect of—Acquittal—Conviction under another section, whether sustained—Proper course—Procedure 654

——— Suit for maintenance filed between date of sale and confirmation of sale—Property, whether charged—Lis pendens—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 52 353

———, validity of—Wakf property—Sanction of Cazee—Ex post facto approval, whether valid—Deed named as tamleek and tawliatnama, whether contemplates absolute endowment of entire property 358

Charter Act (24 and 25 Vic. C. 104), s. 15 203

Cheating. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 179.

Chenab Canal Colony—Confiscation of squares for absence from chak—Habitable house.

Throughout the whole of the Lower Chenab Colony the fact that a grantee has a habitable house in his chak, must be accepted as conclusive evidence that he is fulfilling the condition of residence. BAHADRI v. EMPEROR. 3 P. R. 1914 Rev, 756

Circumstantial evidence—Confession to Police Officer Statements made by accused in order to exculpate himself—Test of admissibility—Admission of deposition when witness not found, when allowed 161

——— ——— ——— ———Murder — Death sentence 332

——— ——— ——— ——— , whether alone sufficient to pass death sentence 324

——— ——— ———Unsatisfactory evidence of identification of body—Conviction, whether sustainable 1001

Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 211 and Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O XX, r. 12—difference between—Future mesne profits—Res judicata - First suit for possession and future profits under old Code—Possession alone decreed after new Code—Second suit for mesne profits for same period, maintainability of - Res judicata pleaded in first Court as regards part of claim—Plea taken as to whole claim in appeal—Decree dismissing whole suit in appeal, if legal.

Under section 211 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882), the grant of future mesne profits was purely discretionary with the Courts and could not be claimed as of right and no cause of action would accrue in respect of them. But under Order XX, rule 12, of the new Code (Act V of 1908) the Court's power to direct an inquiry into future mesne profits is put on a par with its power to pass a decree for possession or past mesne profits, and there is nothing in the latter to indicate that the one relief is more a matter of discretion and less of right than the other.

Where, therefore, a plaintiff in 1907 sued for possession of certain lands and for future mesne profits from date of plaint till delivery of possession and possession only was decreed and no mesne profits were awarded:

Held, that a subsequent suit for mesne profits for the same period was barred by res judicata.

Where in the above suit the defendant in his written statement pleaded that the matter was res judicata as regards the claim for mesne profits up to the date of the decree in the first suit, but in the memorandum of appeal to the lower Appellate Court pleaded that the whole claim was barred and the District Judge, accepting the plea, dismissed the whole suit:

Held, that, subject to the limitations set forth in Order XX, rule 12 (c), the mesne porfits for the period subsequent to the date of decree in the first suit stood on the same footing as those accruing during the pendency of the said suit and that the District Judge was quite justified in dismissing the whole suit. M. RAMASAMI IYER v. SRIRANGARAJA IYENGAR, 2 L. W. 8 622

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 244 430

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 278 943

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 278, 283—Attachment of property, objection to, by three claimants—Joint order setting aside attachment—Opinion adverse to one claimant, effect of—Claims to attachment, decision on, principle of.

The attachment of a property was objected to by three different objectors on different grounds. The first objector claimed to be a bona fide purchaser before attachment, the second claimed to be a mortgagee, while the third claimed that the property had devolved upon him by survivorship under Hindu Law. The Court accepted the contention of the third objector and held that the grounds relied upon by the first objector were not well-founded. But all the same it raised the attachment of the property by one joint order dealing with all objection petitions:

Held, that as the order raised the attachment, it was not against the first objector and that it could not be interpreted as against him simply because the Court had expressed an opinion that his grounds were not well founded.

Object of proceedings under section 283 etc., explained. M. PONAKA BALARAMI REDDI v. HAZI MAHOMED ABDUL AZIZ, 26 M. L. J. 499 532

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 281 943

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 283 532

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 316—*Auction-purchaser, title of Date of sale, title complete from—Suit for maintenance filed between date of sale and confirmation of sale—Property, whether charged—*Lis pendens—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 52.

An auction-purchaser's title even as regards strangers arises on, and in case the sale is confirmed becomes complete with effect from, the date of sale.

Where, therefore, a female institutes a suit for maintenance subsequent to the sale but prior to the date of the grant of the certificate of sale, the sale is not vitiated by the doctrine of lis pendens, and the purchaser takes the property free from any charge of maintenance. M. LANKA GOPALAM v. LANKA RATNAMMA, (1915) M. W. N. 15 353

——— ——— s. 521—Court appointed arbitrator, whether should pass separate award—Aggrieved party, remedy of—Agreement not to appeal, whether binding.

An agreement not to appeal is binding as between the parties, the consideration being their mutual consent to refer the matter in dispute to the Court as an arbitrator.

Where the Court itself is appointed to act as an arbitrator, no separate award need be passed inviting parties to put in objections before passing a decree. Such an award is itself a decree and objections to the award can be raised only by way of appeal against the decree to the Appellate Court, and not by means of applications to the Court itself.

The application to the Court to act as an arbitrator is not an application to make a reference. M. NIMMAGADDA PEDA NAGANNA, In re 355

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), ss. 7 (b), 104—"Injunction and interlocutory orders" in s. 7, meaning of—Provincial Small Cause Court—Compensation for attachment before judgment, order of Appeal.

The words "injunction and interlocutory orders" in section 7 of the Civil Procedure Code can only refer to the orders contemplated in Order XXXIX, and those words read together can only mean applications for an injunction and interlocutory orders on such applications.

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

A Small Cause Court has power to award compensation when it issues an interim attachment and dismisses it after the other side is heard and such an order cannot be questioned in appeal. M. KARUMURU VENKATESWAMI v. LANKA TRIPURIAH 359

——— ——— ss. 9, 20—Jurisdiction of British Indian Courts—Right to trusteeship—Temple in French territory—Parties French subjects.

The nationality of the parties has nothing to do with the jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

British Indian Courts have jurisdiction to determine the question whether a plaintiff is the sole trustee of a temple situate in French territory, even though the parties to the suit may happen to be French subjects, when the land in respect of which the suit is brought is within British India. M. AGNIHOTRAM VENKATA APPALA CHARLU v. KUMBUM PAKIRU, 1 L. W. 724 367

——— ——— s. 10, inapplicability of.

Section 10 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, does not apply where the previously instituted suit is pending in a Court not competent to try it. O. JAHANGIR SINGH v. HIRA, 157 P. W. R. 1914; 283 P. L. R. 1914 222

——— ——— s. 11 817

——— ——— s. 11—Matter substantially in issue in both suits same—Plaintiff not adequately represented in former suit, whether barred—Pro forma defendant in former suit, whether can sue for same matter.

Section 11 of the Civil Procedure Code does not bar a suit only on the ground of the matter in suit having been substantially in issue in a previous suit, if the plaintiffs in the second suit were minors at the time of the first and were not adequately represented or if the plaintiff was a pro forma defendant in the first suit and took no active part in that suit. B. SUNDARA BAHU SHETYE v. SAKHARAM GOPALSHET GANDHI, 16 BOM. L. R. 616; 39 B. 29 444

——— ——— s. 11—Res judicata—Test—Suit by son to set aside sale-deed executed by father, dismissal of—Death of father—Subsequent suit to set aside father's alienation of family property barred—Cause of action—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 126.

In order to determine whether a suit is barred by res judicata, the test to be applied is whether the issue was one on which the judgment of the previous suit was based, quite apart from the question whether the decision itself in the former suit would be affected by the matter being re-opened in the later suit or whether the decision in the former suit could not logically have been based on even a different finding.

Where the plaintiff's suit to set aside a sale-deed executed by his father in the defendants' favour in 1896 was dismissed, and on his father's death in 1910 the plaintiff again brought a suit in October 1911 to have the deed set aside and to recover possession of the plaint lands, alleging that a new cause of action arose on his father's death:

Held, (1) that a finding on the question of possession in the former suit was res judicata in this suit, the cause of action in both being the same;

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

(2) that the suit, being one by a Hindu governed by the law of Mitakshara to set aside his father's alienation of famiiy property, was barred by Article 126 of the Limitation Act, as having been brought more than 12 years from the date when the alienee took possession. M. RAMASAWMY AIYAR v. VANAMAMALAI AIYAR 873

——— ——— s. 11—Res judicata—Ejectment suit—Denial of landlord's sole title—Fresh suit for declaration against alleged landlord and tenant, if barred—Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), s. 42—Bengal Tenancy Act VIII of 1885, s. 25—Denial of Landlord's title, when operates as forfeiture.

Where in a suit brought by an occupancy raiyat to eject an under-raiyat, it was held that the former was not the sole landlord, and then another suit was brought by the occupancy raiyat against the under-raiyat and the alleged co-sharer landlord for a declaration of right to the full share of the holding:

Held, that as between the occupancy raiyat and the under-raiyat, the question whether the former was the sole landlord of the holding was directly and substantially in issue in the previous ejectment suit, and under section 11 of the Civil Procedure Code, a decision on that issue must be held to be res judicata as between them, but that the section did not stand in the way of a declaratory decree against the alleged co-sharer landlord.

Where a tenant does not deny the whole title of his landlord but sets up the right of a third party as co-sharer, there can be no forfeiture. C. NEAMATULLAH v. BAJULLA 619

——— ——— ss. 11, 24, cl. (4)—Res judicata—Suit transferred from Court of Small Causes to that of Munsif for trial—Appeal, whether competent—Decision, whether can operate as res judicata in suits not cognizable by Small Cause Courts.

A small cause suit which is transferred to a Munsif retains its character as such and no appeal lies against the decision of the Munsif in such a suit, nor can his decision operate as res judicata for purposes of other suits not cognizable by Small Cause Courts. A. DULARE LAL v. HAZARI LAL, 12 A. L. J. 853 56

——— ——— s. 11 (Expl. IV) 860

——— ——— s. 11 (Expl. VI)—Res judicata.

S sued his brothers, F and J, in 1856, for his ⅓rd share in the ancestral estate. The suit was referred to arbitration, and S accepted a certain area of the shamilat in full satisfaction of his claim After his death, his son again sued F and J for the alleged share of S, but the suit was dismissed in January 1860 on the ground that in the previous proceedings S had given up all right to his share. Owing to some mistake which was repeated from time to time till 1908, S and his descendants were entered in the Revenue Records as full proprietors of the land in their possession and as having a right to claim a share, according to their holding, in the village shamilat On a suit by the descendants of F to have the entry rectified:

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

Held, that the decision of 1860 operated as res judicata and that consequently the plaintiffs' suit ought to be decreed. P. MUHAMMAD v. MUZAFFAR, 28 P. W. R. 1915 388

——— ——— ——— — ss. 13, 44—Foreign judgment—Decree of Court of Cochin State—Execution in British India—Executing Court, power of, to impeach validity of decree—Jurisdiction—Suit in Cochin State—Temporary injunction pendente lite —Appearance of defendant—Jurisdiction objected to —Written statement also filed—Submission, whether voluntary or under duress—Foreign Courts and Courts of Native States, judgments of—Suit in British India on such judgments, maintainability of.

A British Indian Court, executing a decree passed by a Court in a Native State, in respect of which a notification pursuant to section 44 of the Civil Procedure Code has been issued, is competent to go behind the decree and inquire into the question whether the Court which passed the decree had jurisdiction to do so, as a British Court ought not to execute the decree if passed without jurisdiction.

The question whether submission to jurisdiction is voluntary or under duress is one of fact in each case. If the submission is for saving property, it is not voluntary, even though a written statement is filed objecting to the jurisdiction and raising a defence on the merits.

The scope and effect of sections 13 and 44 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908) and their bearing upon each other considered.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J.—Quære:—Whether suits upon judgments of Native States, in respect of which a notification pursuant to section 44 of the Civil Procedure Code has been issued, can be instituted in British India? M. VEERARAGHAVA IYER v. MUGA SAIT, 1 L. W. 887; 27 M. L. J. 535 287

——— ——— ——— — s. 20 225, 367

——— ——— ——— — s. 20 (c)—Cause of action arising in part—Jurisdiction.

The plaintiff contracted with the defendant Company for carriage of grain and seed from Cawnpore to Jagganath Ghat via Howrah. He paid for the conveyance of several consignments certain sums of money which, he subsequently discovered, were in excess of what he should have paid. He sued for the recovery of the excess sum at Cawnpore:

Held, that the cause of action having arisen in part at Cawnpore, the Cawnpore Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. A. EAST INDIAN RAILWAY Co. v. BINDA, 13 A. L. J. 66 620

——— ——— ——— s. 21—Jurisdiction—Suit instituted in wrong Court—Consequent failure of justice—Alterations in procedure—Retrospective effect.

Where a suit was instituted in the Court of the District Judge, Lyallpur, for recovery of the balance due to plaintiffs on account of certain transactions carried out by defendants as plaintiffs' commission agents at Karachi, it being alleged that the agreement by the defendants to act as plaintiffs' agents was entered into at Lyallpur:

Held, that as the plaintiffs had failed to prove the alleged contract, the Lyallpur Court had no jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the claim of the plaintiffs;

Civil Procedure Code—(1891)—contd.

(2) that alterations in procedure being always retrospective, section 21, Civil Procedure Code, 1908, applied even though the suit was instituted in 1906; and the objection as to the place of suing could not be allowed, because there had been no consequent failure of justice. P. RATTI RAM v. KUNDAN LAL, 87 P. R. 1914 543

——— ——— ——— — s. 24 (4) 56

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 34 177

——— ——— ——— — s. 44 287

——— s. 47, O. XXX, rr. 5, 7, O. XXI, r. 50 (1), (2)—Execution—Order directing execution—Decree—Appeal—Partner in a firm individually served—Service without notice, effect of—Failure to appear—Right of decree-holder to proceed with execution.

An order directing execution to issue against a judgment-debtor is a final order under section 47, and is essentially a decree as it determines a question relating to the rights and liabilities of the parties with reference to the relief granted by the decree and as such it is appealable.

The concluding words of Order XXX, rule 5, of the Civil Procedure Code do not merely raise a rebuttable presumption, but lay down a definite rule of law that service on a person without the written notice contemplated by the rule is equivelent to a service as a partner.

Sub-section 2 of rule 50 of Order XXI is only applicable in the absence of the conditions in sub-section 1.

Rule 7 of Order XXX must be read as subject to rule 5 and contemplates only a case where service is on a Manager, and not a case where the person served is deemed to be served as a partner.

Where one of the partners of a firm refused to accept a summons, and the peon hung up a copy of the summons on the outer door of the place of business of the firm, and the partner failed to appear in execution proceedings.

Held, that he was individually served as a partner and that since notwithstanding such service he failed to appear, it was open to the decree-holder to proceed with execution against him under Order XXI, rule 50 (i) (c) of the Civil Procedure Code. C. BAISHNAB CHARAN SHAHA v. BANK OF BENGAL, 19 C. L. J. 581 866

——— ——— ——— s. 48 244

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 48—Court passing decree, whether has jurisdiction to execute it after transfer of jurisdiction—Step-in-aid of execution—Application returned for correction not re-presented —Correction not essential to validity of application.

A Court, which passes a decree for the sale of certain properties, cannot, after transfer of jurisdiction, entertain an application for sale of those properties.

The validity of the original presentation of an application for execution of a decree is not affected by a subsequent order of return for correction of defects unless the defects to be corrected are such as to prejudice the judgment-debtor substantially.

Therefore, an application for execution returned for correction of defects, not essential to the validity of the application, although not re-presented after correction, is a step-in-aid of execution and is valid for the purpose of section 48, Civil Procedure Code. M. VADIVELU PILLAI v. MARUDA PILLAI 413

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

——— ——— ——— s. 60 684

——— ——— ——— ss. 63, 73, O. XXI, r. 52—Attachment of money in another district—Procedure.

It is illegal for a Court to attach money lying in the hands of a Court in another district. The proper procedure for a decree-holder in such a case is to have his decree transferred to the Court in that district for execution

Money attached before judgment in a case is liable to rateable distribution in execution of decrees against the same defendant. BUR. RAMCHANDRA v. LATCHMAN PILLAY, 7 BUR. L. T. 277 941

——— ——— ——— s. 64—Attachment of mortgagee's rights—Subsequent alienation by mortgagee of his mortgage rights Money reserved with alienee to pay off attaching creditors Attachment by another creditor of moneys in assignee's hands—Payment by alienee to prior attaching creditors—Subsequent attachment, effect of, on such payment—Assignor and assignee—Direction in assignment deed to pay debt, if can be revoked before payment—Revocation, power of, how affected by character of debt, secured or unsecured.

A direction in an assignment-deed that the assignee should discharge certain debts due by the assignor to third parties, out of the moneys forming the consideration for the assignment, may be revoked by the assignor at any time before the debts are actually paid by the assignee if the debts are unsecured, but it cannot be so revoked if the debts are secured.

Where, pending attachment by two creditors of his rights under certain mortgages, the mortgagee assigned his rights therein to the 1st defendant and directed him to pay the consideration for the assignment to the attaching creditors and the assignee afterwards paid them off, but not before the money in his hands had been attached at the instance of the plaintiff, another creditor of the assignor:

Held, that the assignee was entitled to protect himself by paying off the prior attaching creditors, and that such payment did not offend against the provisions of section 64 of the Civil Procedure Code and could not be impeached by the plaintiff. M. GOPALA AIYAR v. RAMA VENKATASUBBA IYER, 1 L. W. 977 223

——— ——— ——— s. 64, O. XXI, r. 57, and O. XXXVIII, r. 1—Attachment before judgment—Records, destruction of—Re-attachment ex majori cautela, if amounts to abandonment of prior attachment Dismissal of execution petition, whether affects prior attachment before judgment.

A re-attachment, in execution, ex majori cautela, of certain immoveable properties which had already been attached before judgment (the records relating thereto having been destroyed), does not raise any presumption that the original attachment was abandoned.

In cases where attachment before judgment has been obtained, no fresh attachment by means of an execution petition is necessary and all that is contemplated by section 64 of the Civil Procedure Code is the existence of a pending attachment. Mere dismissal of an execution petition has not the effect of causing an attachment before judgment to cease to exist. M. KOSURI SURAPARAJU v. MANDAPAKA NARASIMHAM, 1 L. W. 932 81

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

——— ——— ——— ss. 64, 73—Execution proceedings—Attachment of property by two decree-holders—Sale ordered under first attachment Private alienation of property after attachment—Deposit of decretal amount of first decree-holder—Assets, rateable distribution of—Second decree-holder, right of.

Where a judgment-debtor's property was attached in execution of a certain decree and another decree-holder applied for attachment of the same property in execution of his decree against the same judgment-debtor, and the judgment-debtor paid into the Court the decretal amount with costs of the first decree-holder a day before the sale and meanwhile sold it privately to another person:

Held, that, whether the second decree-holder's attachment was actually effected or not, he was entitled under section 73, Civil Procedure Code, to a rateable distribution of the assets received by the Court and the private transfer of the property was, under section 64, Civil Procedure Code, void as against his claim to the extent of his share. L. B. MG. HYIN BA v. MG. PE U KIN 264

——— ——— ——— s. 73 81, 264, 941

——— ——— ——— s. 73—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 14, Sch. I, Arts. 62, 120—Suit to recover money paid to defendant under s. 73, Code of Civil Procedure—Limitation—Revision when other remedy open, time taken in, whether excluded to save limitation.

A suit by a plaintiff to recover from a defendant money paid to him under section 73 of the Code of Civil Procedure is a suit to recover from the defendant money paid to him for plaintiff's use and should, therefore, be brought within three years from the date when the defendant received the money, and not within six years under Article 120 of the Limitation Act.

Where a person files a revision petition to the High Court against an order of a Subordinate Court when he had another remedy open to him, he is not entitled to a deduction of the time occupied in prosecuting the revision petition under section 14 of the Limitation Act. M. BAIZNATH LALA v. RAMADOSS, 1 L. W. 952; 27 M. L. J. 640; 16 M. L. T. 509 219

——— ——— ——— s. 73 (b)—Execution proceedings—Sale-proceeds, distribution of—Mortgagee, whether entitled to share without obtaining decree.

A mortgagee who does not obtain a decree on his mortgage or charge has no right to obtain, by an order in execution or by miscellaneous application, payment of any part of the sale-proceeds of the property over which he claims his mortgage or charge, and a suit lies against him to refund the amount if paid to him. L. B. MAUNG TA TE v. MAUNG NYIN 273

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

——— ——— — s. 80—Bombay Land Revenue Code (Act V of 1879), ss. 79A, 202—Gujarat Talukdars Act (Bom. Act VI of 1888), ss. 29 B, 33 (2) (cc)—Notice of eviction served by Talukdari Settlement Officer under Bombay Land Revenue Code—Suit for injunction to restrain Settlement Officer from carrying out eviction—Notice of suit under section 80, Civil Procedure Code, whether necessary.

If, under the provisions of the Bombay Land Revenue Code, a Talukdari Settlement Officer serves a notice of eviction on a person whom he considers to be wrongfully in possession of any land, that person cannot, without giving a notice under section 80 of the Civil Procedure Code, sue for a permament injunction to restrain the Settlement Officer from evicting him from the land. B. BHAVANISHANKAR v. TALUKDARI SETTLEMENT OFFICER, 16 BOM. L. R. 766 749

——— ——— ——— — s. 92, applicability of—Dispute between parties as to who is entitled to be mutwalli, suit relating to.

Suits relating to disputes between parties as to who is entitled to be mutwalli on the ground of family relationship are not brought under section 92 of the Civil Procedure Code. A. NIAMAT ALI v. ALI RAZA, 13 A. L. J. 26; 37 A. 86 778

——— ——— ——— — s. 92 Public charities, suit in respect of—Relief against strangers not contemplated—Trespasser, whether to be made defendant—Possession, recovery of, suit for.

A relief against strangers for recovery of possession of property in their hands cannot be granted under the provisions of section 92, Civil Procedure Code; and the names of such strangers-defendants ought to be struck off the record. O. ANGAD DAS v. GHASITI, 1 O. L. J. 548 108

——— ——— ——— — s. 92, suit under, whether can be compromised—Compromise before deciding whether endowment is public or not, if lawful.

A suit under section 92 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, cannot be compromised if it is proved that the endowment is a public one. The question whether an agreement entered into between the parties in such a suit is or is not a lawful agreement, depends on the question whether the endowment is or is not a public one and so long as it remains subject to controversy whether it is a public endowment or not, it cannot be said to be proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the suit has been adjusted by a lawful agreement. C. ABDUL KARIM v. ABDUS SOBHAN, 18 C. W. N. 1264 360

——— ——— ——— — s. 93 59

——— ——— ——— — s. 95—Malicious prosecution, suit for damages for, when maintainable—Interlocutory injunction, whether dissolved when perpetual injunction granted—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 42—"Want of reasonable and probable cause", allegation of—Malice—Erroneous decision, procuring of—Damages, liability for.

The bringing of an ordinary action, however, maliciously and however great the want of reasonable and probable cause, will not support a subsequent action for malicious prosecution, except where the proceedings involve "either scandal to reputation or the possible loss of liberty to the person" or are specially provided by Statute.

Therefore, a suit for damages cannot be maintained against a defendant for obtaining maliciously and without reasonable or probable cause a perpetual injunction, which was dissolved on appeal.

An interlocutory injunction granted in such a suit is ipso facto dissolved by a decree of the Court granting a perpetual injunction.

Therefore, if a suit for damages for "wrongfully" obtaining such an injunction is maintainable, limitation under Article 42 of the Limitation Act would begin to run from the date when the interlocutory injunction ceases.

Per Fletcher, J.—An allegation that the defendants were actuated by malice and that the suit for an injunction ultimately proved unsuccessful, when the decree of the High Court was set aside by His Majesty in Council, is not sufficient to show want of reasonable or probable cause.

The want of probable cause is not to be inferred because of mere evidence of malice.

Per Richardson, J.—It is doubtful whether a suit as contemplated in section 95 of the Civil Procedure Code to recover compensation in respect of a temporary injunction applied for on insufficient grounds or without reasonable and probable cause, is maintainable in the absence of an undertaking to pay compensation.

A party is not liable in damages for procuring an erroneous decision. C. MOHINI MOHAN MISSER v. SURENDRA NARAIN SINGH, 18 C. W. N. 1 89; 21 C. L. J. 68 296

——— ——— ——— — s. 96—Suit based on contract decreed by Civil Court having jurisdiction over place of formation of contract—Place of contract transferred after decree to another Civil Court—What Court authorised to hear appeal from decree—Jurisdiction.

In a suit based on a contract, one day after a decree was passed by the Civil Court within whose jurisdiction the place of formation of the contract was situated, that place was added to the jurisdiction of another Civil Court:

Held, that an appeal against the decree would lie to the Appellate Court authorised to hear appeals from the latter Civil Court, and not to the Appellate Court authorised to hear appeals from the former Civil Court which had passed the decree. M. SUBBAYYA v. RACHAYYA, 37 M. 477 519

——— ——— ——— s. 97—Decision on question of limitation, misjoinder or jurisdiction, whether preliminary decree—Appeal.

A decision as to misjoinder, limitation or jurisdiction does not amount to a preliminary decree within the meaning of section 97 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908.

Therefore, a decision in favour of a plaintiff upon a preliminary defence that the matters in dispute were caste questions outside the jurisdiction of Civil Courts, does not amount to a preliminary decree from which the unsuccessful party must at once appeal by reason of section 97 of the Code.

B. CHANMALSWAMI RUDRASWAMI v. GANGADHARAPPA BASLINGAPPA, 16 BOM. L. R. 954 885

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

——— ——— ——— s. 99 701

——— ——— ——— s. 99 —Irregularity not affecting merits of case—Improper admission of additional evidence—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 167.

The improper admission of additional evidence by an Appellate Court is no ground for setting aside the decree of that Court, unless the second Appellate Court is satisfied that the decision on the merits is wrong and that the improper admission might have resulted in such a wrong decision. M. PEDDIBHOTLA KAMESWARAMMA v. BEZWADA CHELAPATHI, (1914) M. W. N. 864 50

——— ——— ——— s. 99, O. II, r. 2—Misjoinder of causes of action—Appellate Court, right of, to reverse decree—Cause of action not established against some defendants, whether bars fresh suit on true cause of action.

An Appellate Court has no power to reverse the decision of the first Court on the ground of misjoinder.

If a suit is dismissed against some of the defendants as the cause of action on which the suit was brought is not established so far as those defendants are concerned, the plaintiff is not precluded from bringing a new suit on the true cause of action which he has against them. M. VASUDEVA RAVI VARMA v. ATHI KOTTIL EAZHUVAN KANNANUR 51

——— ——— ——— s. 103 215

——— ——— ——— s. 104 359

——— ——— ——— s. 105 (1) 701

——— ——— ——— s. 110, O. XLV, r. 2—Leave to appeal to King in Council—Decree of affirmance—Substantial question of law.

Where the Chief Court affirms in part the decree of a District Judge, a petition for leave to appeal to the King in Council cannot be granted, as in substance the decree of the Chief Court is a decree of affirmance within the meaning and for the purposes of section 110, Civil Procedure Code.

A Court has a discretionary power under section 34 of the Civil Procedure Code to allow interest post litem motam at such rate as it deems reasonable and if it allows 9 per cent. per annum it is not such an arbitrary and unwarrantable exercise of discretion as to involve such a substantial question of law as is contemplated by section 110 of the Code. P. BHAGAT SINGH v. JAI RAM, 19 P. W. R. 1915; 66 P. L. R. 1915 402

——— ——— ——— s. 110 —Privy Council—Appeal from decision of High Court in second appeal, application for—Decision directly involving claim to property of value of Rs. 10,000.

A suit relating to 2 bighas 12 biswas of land valued at only Rs. 1,000 came up in second appeal to the High Court and was disposed of. The history of the land in dispute was the same as that of another 300 bighas of land in the same mahal;

Held, that the mere fact that the history of the property in dispute was the same as that of the other land in the mahal valued at more than Rs. 10,000 did not involve a claim in question within the meaning of section 110, so as give the applicant a right of appeal to His Majesty in Council. A. KULSUM-UN-NISA BIBI v. Chaube BASDEO 6

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

——— ——— ——— s. 115, O. XIV, r. 2, O. XV, r. 3(1) —Issues involving mixed questions of law and fact decided without evidence—Decision, whether legal—Trial piecemeal—Practice—Custom, validity of, to be determined when custom established—Revision—Interlocutory orders, when can be reversed.

As the trial of a case piecemeal might lead to protracted litigation and serious inconvenience and involve the parties in heavy costs if the case is taken repeatedly on appeal to a superior tribunal, it is much to be desired that in appealable cases the Courts below should, as far as may be practicable; pronounce their opinion on all the important points and decide on all the issues joined.

A Court acts quite illegally if it treats issues which really raise mixed questions of law and fact as involving only pure questions of law, and decides them as such without taking any evidence.

A Court should not consider the question of validity of a custom till the custom itself has been established with precision.

In exceptional cases, the special facts and circumstances of which so require, the High Court will reverse in revision the interlocutory orders of Subordinate Courts. C. YATINDRA NATH v. HARI CHARN, 20 C. L. J. 426 954

——— ——— ——— ss. 115, 151 —Jurisdiction—Order obtained by suppression or misrepresentation of facts—Appointment of guardian after minor had attained majority—Power of Court to re-call order—Appeal—Guardians and Wards Act (VIII of 1890), ss. 39, 47, 48—Revision—Power to investigate facts in revision—Distinction between appellate and revisional jurisdiction—Inherent power of Court.

A District Judge, acting under the provisions of the Guardians and Wards Act, appointed a guardian of the person and property of a girl said to be a minor. Subsequently, it was brought to his notice that the girl had attained majority long before he had made the order for the appointment of her guardian. Upon this he revoked his order and removed the guardian. The order of revocation was assailed in the High Court.

Held, (1) that as the order was not made under any of the clauses of section 39 of the Guardians and Wards Act, it could not be questioned by way of appeal under any of the clauses of section 47;

(2) that section 48 of the Act did not preclude the District Judge from re-considering his order and that he had jurisdiction to entertain the application for revocation of his order in the exercise of his inherent powers.

The principle of section 151, Civil Procedure Code, is applicable quite as much to Courts called upon to deal with matters under the Guardians and Wards Act as to ordinary Civil Courts. Therefore a Court which exercises powers under the Guardians and Wards Act has ample inherent jurisdiction to deal with matters brought before it, of which cognizance may be required in the interest of justice.

A Court is competent to recall an order obtained from it by suppression or misrepresentation of facts.

A Court has jurisdiction to determine that it has no jurisdiction to deal with the matter brought before it.

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

If even after an order has been made the Court is apprised that it has been made to assume jurisdiction in a matter over which it has in reality no jurisdiction, the Court has inherent power to investigate the matter and to recall the previous order if it transpires that it has been made without jurisdiction.

It is competent to the High Court to investigate facts in revision, if the Court is satisfied that such a step is needed in the ends of justice.

A Court, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction investigates the facts and, if necessary, substitutes its own appreciation of the evidence for that of the primary Court. But when the Court, as a Court of revision, looks into the evidence, it does so with a view to determine whether the Subordinate Court has assumed a jurisdiction which it did not possess, or declined a jurisdiction which it did possess, or has in the exercise of its jurisdiction acted illegally or with material irregularity.

In other words, a Court of revision cannot, in the name of revisional jurisdiction, exercise appellate powers. That is to say, it may look at the evidence to determine whether the Subordinate Court has acted illegally or irregularly in the exercise of its jurisdiction but it cannot examine the evidence with a view to determine whether the Subordinate Court has correctly appreciated its effect. C. RASHMONI DASI v. GANADA SUNDARI DASI, 20 C. L. J. 2 3; 19 C. W. N. 84 275

——— ——— ——— s. 115—Other remedies open—Revision, if competent.

There will be no revision where there is a remedy by suit. M. SUBBIAH PILLAI v. KAILASAM PILLAI, 1 L. W. 905 19

——— ——— ——— s. 115, Sch. II, cl. 15—Perverse decision on facts - Erroneous admission of evidence - Perversity—High Courts Act (24 & 25 Vic c. 104), s. 15—High Court in revision, interference by.

A decision which is perverse in law or facts can be set aside in revision.

A decision is perverse where it is a conscious deviation from some rule of law or procedure.

The test of perversity will be applicable also, when the error is of fact and the decision has been reached in defiance of facts which have been recognised by the lower Court as established or must be presumed to have been so, or when the decision is based on or involves material assumptions or inferences which there is nothing in fact or probability to support.

The decision of an arbitrator, who in the admission of evidence commits errors which do not materially affect his decision, cannot be said to be "perverse" and should not be set aside under section 115 of the Code. M. VENKATACHALLAM PATTAR v. PARASU PATTAR, 16 M. L. T. 156; (1914) M. W. N. 614 106

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 115—Revision—Rejection of amendment application—No irregularity - High Court, power of, to interfere—Jurisdiction.

When a Subordinate Judge, holding that the expression "future interest" used in a decree means interest from the date of decision and not from the date of the institution of the suit, disallows an application for the amendment of the decree, he ommits no irregularity; and whether his decision is right or wrong, the High Court has no jurisdiction to interfere in revision. A. KANHAI LAL v. MUL CHAND 808

——— ——— ——— s. 115—Revision—Remedy by regular suit available—Practice.

Ordinarily it is contrary to the practice of the High Court to entertain an application in revision when a remedy by way of regular suit is open to the applicant, but each case must be judged upon its own peculiar circumstances. A. RAM NARAIN v. MUHAMMAD SHAH, 12 A. L. J. 899 62

——— ——— ——— s. 115—Revision—Withdrawal of suit with liberty to bring fresh suit, order of—High Court, whether can interfere - Charter Act (24 & 25 Vic. c. 104), s. 15—Material irregularity.

To allow a suit to be withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit is not deciding a case and therefore a High Court is not empowered either under section 115, Civil Procedure Code, or under the Charter Act to interfere with such an order of the lower Court. C. BANSI SINGH v. KISHUN LALL THAKUR, 41 C. 632 203

——— ——— ——— ss. 141, 144—Execution proceedings—Decree-holder-auction-purchaser in possession—Auction sale set aside—Subsequent private sale by judgment-debtor—Application for mesne profits—Appeal—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art 109.

Section 141 of the Civil Procedure Code does not make section 144 applicable to execution proceedings.

Where a decree-holder purchased the property put up for sale in execution and remained in possession thereof for several years, and after the sale had been set aside the applicant purchased the property from the judgment-debtor together with the right to sue the decree-holder for mesne profits and applied for recovery of mesne profits:

Held, (1) that the application was not one authorized by the terms of section 144 of the Civil Procedure Code, as no restitution was sought in respect of any decree which had been varied or reversed:

(2) that inasmuch as the determination of a question under section 144 is a decree, an appeal lies from an order purporting to be made under that section.

A Court has no jurisdiction to award mesne profits for a longer period than three years as provided in Article 109 of the Limitation Act. C. DINO NATH DAS v. JOGENDRA NATH 890

——— ——— ——— s. 145—Surety, liability of—Bond to restore property attached before judgment—Dismissal of suit—Appeal.

Section 145, Civil Procedure Code, deals with procedure, not with the extent of the surety's liability.

A bond given for release of property attached before judgment becomes defunct on the suit being dismissed, and the liability under the bond comes to an end. An order terminating the attachment is not necessary.

There is nothing in section 145, Civil Procedure Code, to restrict the right of appeal only to sureties. Where there is a refusal to enforce liability, other parties interested may appeal. M. GOLLAMUDI VENKATASUBBA RAO v. CHAPARALA ROSAYYA, (1914) M. W. N. 822 76

Civil Procedure Code (1908)—contd.

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 148, 151 —Decree of High Court—Time fixed for performance of act—Extension of time, if can be granted—Jurisdiction.

Where a decree passed by the High Court in second appeal directed that on payment by the plaintiffs to a certain defendant of a sum of Rs. 50 within three months from its date a moiety of the suit property should be delivered to the plaintiffs and where the plaintiffs, without applying for a review of the judgment, prayed for an extension of the time originally granted, on the ground that they were minors and that their next friend, in collusion with the said defendant, had misconducted himself wilfully by not making the payment within the time fixed:

Held, that there was no provision of law under which the extension prayed for could be granted and that neither section 148 nor section 151 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908) was applicable to the case.

Per Tyabji, J.—Ordinarily inherent power is something which inheres in a Court by the very fact of its being empowered to exercise any jurisdiction at all, so that it comes either within the express sense of the law or within the consequences that may be gathered from it. M. MOIDEEN KUPPAI v. PONNUSWAMY PILLAI, 1 L. W. 882; 16 M. L. T. 430 63

——— ——— ——— s. 149 33

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 151 63, 275

——— ——— ——— ss. 151, 152—Amendment—Decree in accord with judgment but not with intention of Court, whether can be amended—Inherent power—Jurisdiction—Amendment of decree, if allowed, after appeal against that decree pending.

Where a decree is not really in accord with the intention of a Court as gathered from its judgment as a whole, the Court has an inherent power, under sections 151 and 152 of the Civil Procedure Code of 1908, to amend or vary a perfected order and to make such other orders as may be necessary for the ends of justice.

Section 152 of tha Civil Procedure Code expressly contemplates amendment "at any time" and, therefore, a decree can be amended even after an appeal has been preferred against it. C. BARHAMDEO SINGH v. HARMANOGE SINGH 18 C. W. N. 772. 946

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 151—Amendment of plaint—Plaint framed on wrong view of law—Subsequent alteration of law—Adjournment of case, application for, grant of.

An application to amend a plaint on the ground that the plaint was based on the wrong view of the law and that the correct view has subsequently been laid down by the High Court, should be allowed inspite of the fact that the suit is barred by limitation on the date of the application. M. VISWANATHIER v. AIYAVIER 383

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 151, O. XXI, r. 90, application under, made out of time—Inherent powers of Court, exercise of—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 181.

The inherent powers of a Court are not to be used for the benefit of a litigant who has his remedy under the Code of Civil Procedure, much less for one who, having his remedy, has lost it by his own delay.

Therefore, a Court cannot in the exercise of its inherent powers set aside an irregular sale held in execution of a decree when the application of the judgment-debtor under Order XXI, rule 90, is found to be barred by time.

Per Tyabji, J.—The expression "inherent power" implies that the power is not conferred by or affected by an act of the Legislature. M. MUTHIAH CHETTIAR v. BAWA SAHIB, 27 M. L. J. 605; 1 L. W. 969 46

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 152 946

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 153, O. VI, r. 17—Suit to declare mortgage-deed invalid—Mortgage found to be partly valid—Plaintiff, whether entitled to amend relief for redemption.

Where, in a suit by the junior member of a tarwad to declare a mortgage created by the karnavathi invalid and not binding upon the junior members of the tarwad, a portion of the consideration for the mortgage is found to be binding upon the family, the plaintiff should be allowed to amend his plaint by adding a relief for redemption on payment of the valid portion of the mortgage-debt. M. MANI v. KOMALAN KANNAN 443

——— ——— ——— ——— O. 1, r. 10, O. 41, r. 20—Power of High Court to add party in second appeal.

The High Court cannot make a person who was not a party in the lower Appellate Court a party in second appeal. A. PACHKAURI RAUT v. RAM KHELAWAN CHAUBEY, 12 A. L. J. 1277; 37 A. 57 25

——— ——— ——— ——— O. 2, r. 2 51, 228, 232

——— ——— ——— ——— O. 2, r. 2, object of—Cause of action, whether claims upon several contracts included in one—Contract for supply of goods by monthly instalment, breach of—Intention of parties—Damages, whether separate suits maintainable.

Order II, rule 2, is framed to avoid the splitting of claims and remedies and does not apply where there are several causes of action. The object of the rule is to protect the defendant from being twice vexed for one and the same cause.

A cause of action is not limited to claims arising upon one contract, but might include claims upon several contracts provided they form part of a continuous cause of dealing. This, however, can only be done where there is nothing to show that the transactions were intended to be kept distinct.

Where a contract for the supply of goods by monthly instalments expressly provides that each monthly instalment and item is to be treated as a separate contract, the plaintiff is entitled to bring separate suits for damages. C. MANDAL & Co v. FAZUL ELLAHIE, 41 C. 825 209

——— ——— ——— ——— O. 2, r. 2—Suit brought on hundi executed in consideration of sum due on account—Subsequent suit on account—Cause of action.

A certain sum was due from the defendant to the plaintiff on an account between them. In consideration of the sum so due the plaintiff drew a hundi on the defendant and the latter accepted it. The defendant, however, did not pay the hundi and the plaintiff had to pay it. The plaintiff then brought a suit to recover the sum due on the hundi and the suit was dismissed. The plaintiff then brought a second suit to recover the sum due on account:

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

Held, that the second suit was not barred by Order II, rule 2, of the Civil Procedure Code, inasmuch as the cause of action of the latter suit was different from that of the former. A. BENI RAM v. RAM CHANDRA, 12 A. L. J. 959; 36 A. 560 302

——————— O. 6, rr. 5, 7, 17 and O. 8, r. 9—Amendment of pleadings—Practice of Subordinate Court's trying preliminary issues and not giving opportunity to amend condemned.

In a suit for partition against defendants Nos. 1 to 4, co-parceners, and seventy-four other persons alleged to have come into possession of various items of the suit property during plaintiff's minority, the plaint contained no specification of the titles under which the seventy-four defendants above referred to were in possession or the defects in them and no prayer for the avoidance of the partition, the decrees and other transactions by which their titles were constituted. The attention of the parties and the Court was drawn to the defects only during the trial of the suit in the course of the examination of witnesses. The plaintiff then applied for leave to amend, arguments were heard on his application and on certain preliminary issues which had been framed, and leave to amend was refused and the preliminary issues were decided against the plaintiff. The plaint was subsequently rejected two days later for want of a cause of action:

Held, that the dismissal of the petition for leave to amend could not be sustained and that the plaint ought not to have been rejected until opportunity had been given to amend.

Per Tyabji, J.—Different procedure and sanctions apply to (1) amending pleadings, (2) furnishing particulars and (3) presenting a pleading subsequent to the written statement; though it may be that on an order to do any of them being disobeyed, the same result—an adverse decision in the suit—may directly or indirectly follow. M. NARAYANASWAMI AIYAR v. KRISHNAMURTI AIYAR, 17 M. L. T. 48; (19 5 M. W. N. 122 927

——————— O. 6, r. 7 928

——————— O. 6, r. 17 443, 928

——————— O. 6, r. 17—Amendment of plaint—Introducing cause of action barred by limitation, whether permissible.

A plaintiff cannot be allowed to amend his plaint by introducing a cause of action which since the institution of the suit has become barred by limitation. A. BISHESHAR PRASAD v. GOBINDRAM, 12 A. L. J. 833 42

——————— O. 7. r. 6—Suit instituted beyond period of limitation—Plaint silent on ground of exemption from law of limitation—Plaintiff, whether can rely on such ground—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 14.

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

Under Order VII, rule 6, Civil Procedure Code the plaintiffs are bound to show in the plaint the ground on which exemption from the law of limitation is claimed and they cannot be allowed to rely upon a ground upon which the plaint is wholly silent.

The proceedings in a Revenue Court do not fall within the purview of section 14 of the Limitation Act so as to extend the period of limitation for a suit. P. GOBINDA MAL v. SANTA, 83 P. R. 1914 441

——————— O. 7, r. 11—Option to abandon part of claim for which Court-fee not paid in time 746

——————— O. 7, r. 14—Documents filed with plaint or written statement, party filing not permitted to resile therefrom—Bona fide mistake.

If a party to a suit files a document making it a part of the plaint or written statement with the object of relying on it, he cannot be permitted to resile therefrom afterwards, without at least proving that it was filed owing to a bona fide mistake and that he had not intended to use it. O. SHEO DAT SINNH v. SIDHAU KUNWAR, 17 O. C. 327 503

——————— O. 8, r. 2, O. 41, r. 2—All pleas of estoppel, whether barred, if not raised in written statement—Res judicata, plea of, not raised, whether can be raised in appeal - Mortgage suit—Subsequent mortgagee made party must set up even his prior mortgage—Prior mortgagee not necessary party and not bound to appear and plead—Parties Pleadings.

By reason of Order VIII, rule 2, of the Civil Procedure Code, all pleas of estoppel of whatever nature are not barred if they are not taken in the written statement.

Therefore, an objection which could have been taken by one of numerous defendants in a mortgage suit to show that his purchase right in the property could not be affected by the plaintiffs' suit by reason of the principle of res judicata, is not such a matter as could show that the plaintiffs' suit was not maintainable by reason of Order VIII, rule 2, of the Civil Procedure Code and can be raised in appeal with the leave of the Court under Order XLI, rule 2 of the Code.

A puisne mortgagee, who has also a prior mortgage, if made defendant as a puisne mortgagee, is bound to appear and set up both his prior and subsequent mortgages. But if he is only a prior mortgagee and not a subsequent mortgagee and is sought to be kept on the record as defendant simply because the authenticity of his mortgage is not admitted, it is not at all necessary for him to appear and defend his rights under his prior mortgage. C. KISHEN DYAL GIR v. MAHOMED AMIRUL HUSSEIN 673

——————— O. 8, rr. 2, 5—Pleadings—Construction—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 58 Malabar Law — Chetties, whether governed by Malabar Law.

Per Tyabji, J.— Whether or not a matter is open upon the proceedings sufficiently to give the Court the right to form a judgment upon it, must be dependent upon the particular facts and upon the allegations in and form of, the pleadings.

Civil Procedure Code (1908)—contd.

Pleadings should be regarded with the following considerations:

(1) Allowance must be made for a very inaccurate mode of setting forth the claims of persons and the answers or defences to them.

(2) The responsibility of clearly perceiving and raising points, which arise upon the pleadings and the evidence and the proper adjudication of which is essential for the ends of justice, rests on the Court asmuch as on the parties or their Pleaders.

(3) The Court must look, not to the mere wording of the plaint, but to the issue which was settled for trial and to the manner in which the case was treated in the lower Courts.

(4) Courts do not exist for the sake of discipline, but for the sake of deciding matters in controversy.

Per Oldfield, J.—Where the parties are Chetties residing in Malabar, the Malabar Law is not applicable to them in the absence of a special allegation that it is so. M. AZHIMANILA VEETTIL KANNU PILLAI v. KAYINARI GOPALAN NAIR. (1914) M. W. N. 883 337

——— ——— ——— — O. 8, r. 9 923

——— ——— ——— — O. 9, r. 9.—Application to set aside order dismissing suit in default—Proper form of order to pass when Court of opinion to restore suit—Order restore on payment of damages—Appeal—Damages, adequacy or excessiveness of, if to be gone into by Appellate Court.

If a Court decides to restore a suit dismissed for default on payment of damages by the plaintiff, the proper order to pass is to direct the plaintiff to depost the amount of damages within a prescribed period and to reserve the passing of any final order until the prescribed period expired.

But if a Court orders restoration of a suit on condition of payment of damages within a prescribed preiod and at the same time directs that otherwise the application for restoration shall stand dismissed, the Court completely disposes of the application and after its order has produced its effect of dismissing the application, an appeal lies against the order, and the Appellate Court is entitled and, therefore, bound to consider whether the damages allowed by the Court below were adequate or grossly excessive. A. NAND LAL v. KISHORI. 12 A. L. J. 1270. 895

——— ——— ——— — O. 9, r. 13—Ex parte decree, application to set aside—Appeal subsequently preferred—Jurisdiction to deal with application.

A Court, which passed an ex parte decree, is not deprived of its jurisdiction to deal with an application to set aside the ex parte decree on the merits, merely because an appeal against the ex parte decree has been subsequently preferred. C. SHAJAN BIBI v. SAFFIRUDDIN 412

——— ——— ——— — O. 14, r. 2, O. 15, r. 3 (1) 954

——— ——— ——— — O. 17, r. 1—Case once begun—Court bound to go on from day to day—Case part-heard before Subordinate Judge—Subordinate Judge proper officer to adjourn it and not District Judge.

When the hearing of a suit has once begun, the Court is bound to go on, under Order XVII, rule 1, of the Civil Procedure Code, from day to day, unless for special reasons it is necessary to adjourn it to some future day.

Where a Subordinate Judge, before whom a suit was part-heard, adjourned it from 7th October 1914 to 18th January 1915 in obedience to the order of the District Judge to whom he applied for directions:

Held, that the order of the District Judge must be set aside and that the Subordinate Judge was the proper officer to decide when a part-heard case before him was to be adjourned and the District Judge had no voice in the matter. M. SIVAGAMI AMMAL v. LOUIS GNANA PRAKASA MUDALIAR. 16 M. L. T. 504 261

——— ——— ——— — O. 20, r. 12 622

——— ——— ——— — O. 21, rr. 2 and 26 Execution—Decree, transfer of, recognition of Judgment-debtor, right of, to appeal—Adjustment, uncertified, admissibility of, in evidence—Fraud not specifically alleged—Transferor admitting transfer—Consideration, want of, for transfer, if can be pleaded by judgment-debtor.

A judgment-debtor is entitled to appeal against an order recognising a transfer of a decree, as the matter would be res judicata in subsequent proceedings.

Order XXI, rule 2, of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908, not only excludes proof of an uncertified payment but also of an agreement to release the debtor from all liability to pay his share of the decree-debt in consideration of a sum paid by him, which agreement had not been certified to the Court within the 90 days prescribed by law.

In the absence of any specific allegation of fraud, it is immaterial whether a transfer of a decree is supported by consideration or not, provided both the transferor and the transferee are before the Court and the transferor admits the transfer and declares himself satisfied M. SALICHEEMALA VENKATASWAMI NAIDU v. GUNTURU RANGAPPA NAIDU, 2 L. W. 109 944

——— ——— ——— — O. 21, r. 16 944

——— ——— ——— — O. 21. r. 46—Attachment—Simple mortgage-debt—Mortgagee in possession Mode of attachment.

A debt secured by a simple mortgage should be attached under Order XXI, rule 46, Civil Procedure Code. The fact of the mortgagee being in possession, actual or constructive, of the mortgaged property makes no difference. M. CHULLILE PEETIKAYIL NAMMAD v. OTHENAM NAMBIAR, 27 M. L. J. 239 508

——— ——— ——— — O. 21, r. 50 (1), (2) 866

——— ——— ——— — O. 21, r. 54 204

——— ——— ——— — O. 21, r. 69, cls. (1), (3)—Power of Court to adjourn sale after partially holding it—'Debt and costs', meaning of—Judgment-debtor's right to get sale adjourned by tendering balance.

Where properties of the judgment-debtor were sold in three lots and after the sale of two lots, he tendered to the bidding officer that portion of the decree amount which would have remained if the purchasers of the first two lots had paid up the amounts, but the officer proceeded with the sale:

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

Held, that the sale of the third lot was not vitiated by irregularity or illegality and could not be set aside to the prejudice of a bona fide purchaser at the Court auction.

The words 'the debt and costs' in clause (3) of Order XXI, rule 69, could not be interpreted to mean "the balance of the decree debt and costs which would remain if by a legal fiction the sales of previous lots (not yet completed by the payment of the whole purchase-money) were taken as completed by treating the whole of the purchase-money as actually paid up."

Obiter dictum.—A Court may even without an application from the judgment-debtor adjourn a sale after the sale of some lots under Order XXI, rule 69, clause (1). M. RAJA OF KALAHASTI v. VENKATARAMIAH ROW BAHADUR GARU, (1914) M. W. N. 873 273

——— O. 21, r. 88 Pre-emption — Co-sharer — Vendee, whether complete stranger.

The object of Order XXI, rule 88, is to enable a co-sharer in a mahal to keep out strangers. It provides for only one class of pre-emptors and lays down one simple rule, namely, that any one who is a co-sharer of the undivided property of which a share is sold, is entitled to pre-empt that share when the highest bid is made by a person who is not a co-sharer. Hence no pre-emption suit could be maintained as against the vendee who was a co-sharer in a different patti but in the same mahal. A. DAMBAR SINGH v. MURARI LAL, 12 A. L. J. 1148 95

——— O. 21, r. 90 46

——— O. 21, r. 90—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 18, Sch. I, Arts. 12 (a), 166—Auction-sale—Fraud—Application to set aside sale—Plea of limitation, whether can be raised in second appeal - One administrator representing others - Decree passed against such administrator, validity of — Auction-sale in such decree Sale not set aside within 30 days Suit to declare auction-sale not binding, whether maintainable —Succession Act (X of 1865), ss. 268 to 273.

Where one administrator acts on behalf of the other administrators and fully represents the estate, a decree passed against him and against the estate represented by him is perfectly valid, though the administrator-in-charge might be liable to the legatees for the breaches of duty and for gross negligence resulting in loss to the estate. An auction-sale held in execution of such a decree is perfectly valid and binding on the estate until set aside.

Order XXI, rule 90, of the Code of Civil Procedure, unlike the old section 311 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1882, includes applications to set aside sales on the ground of fraud.

A suit to declare an auction-purchase as not binding upon the estate fully represented by one of such administrators will not lie, but the sale might be set aside within 30 days from its date under Article 166 of Schedule I of the Limitation Act, IX of 1908.

A plea of limitation can be raised even in second appeal if it is patent on the face of the pleadings and requires no additional facts to decide the same M. GRACE ROSAMUND RHODES v. PADMANABHA CHETTIAR, 1 L. W. 1033; (1914) M. W. N. 921; 17 M. L. T. 18 369

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

——— O. 21, r. 90—"Whose interests are affected by the sale", meaning of—Attachment before judgment, effect of.

The words "interests" in rule 90, Order XXI, must be limited to the properties the subject of the application.

Where the applicant, a mere money decree-holder, relies merely upon an attachment before judgment of property other than that sold and applies for an order to set aside the sale, it cannot be said that he has such a present "interest" in the property sold as to entitle him to make the application under that rule. M. KATHIRESAN CHETTIAR v. RAMASAWMY CHETTIAR, 27 M. L. J. 302; (1914) M. W. N. 871 93

——— O. 21, rr. 91, 93—Suit by auction-purchaser to recover back purchase-money, whether maintainable.

An auction-purchaser can bring a suit to recover back the purchase-money on the ground that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest in the property sold at the date of the sale. A. MUHAMMAD NAJIB ULLAH v. JAI NARAIN, 12 A. L. J. 908; 36 A. 529 59

——— O. 21, r. 101—Execution—Decree transferred to Collector—Court which passed decree, powers of—Jurisdiction.

When a decree is transferred to a Collector the Court which passed the decree is for the time being functus officio for all purposes of execution; but as soon as the Collector has exhausted all the powers of execution conferred upon him, any matters requiring to be done, and usually regarded as in execution, must be done by the Court which made the decree. B. ARJUN RAGHU NAROLE v. KRISHNAJI VENIMADHAV VALIMBE, 16 BOM. L. R. 637; 38 B. 673 266

——— O. 22, r. 3 714

——— O. 22, r. 4 (3)—Abatement of appeal—Death of one of respondents - Legal representatives of deceased respondent not brought upon record—Respondent, deceased, abatement only as against.

Where one of the respondents dies and his heirs are not made parties to the appeal, the appeal does not abate as a whole but simply as against the deceased respondent, and the decree passed in appeal holds good as against those respondents who are represented before the Appellate Court. U. P. B. R. SUBKARAN SINGH v. RAGHUBANS, 1 O. L. J. 581 523

——— O. 22, r. 9—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 5—Application to set aside abatement—Delay in obtaining Probate—Probate and Administration Act (V of 1881), s 4—Application by executor for Probate—Acceptance of office.

The plaintiff sued defendants Nos. 1 to 4 for an account and the profits of a concern which they carried on jointly. The 2nd defendant died pending the suit on the 23rd November 1913 leaving a Will, thereby appointing the plaintiff and another as executors. The plaintiff applied for Probate on 5th March 1914, the other executor having renounced office. On 18th September 1914 the Court made a declaration that the suit had abated as against the 2nd defendant. The plaintiff made the present application on 2nd October 1914 to set aside the abatement, alleging that he hesitated for a long time to obtain Probate on account of the hostile attitude of the testator's son, that he had not yet obtained Probate and that he was under an impression that if he brought himself on the record as the legal representative of the 2nd defendant he could not sue himself:

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

Held, that the application was barred by limitation and no sufficient cause had been shown for excusing the delay in bringing the legal representative on the record.

Held, also, that the delay in making the application to set aside the abatement was not accounted for.

If an executor applies for Probate, he must be taken to have accepted the office of executor and he becomes the legal representative of the deceased testator and the property of the deceased vests in him as such. M. KANDASAMI CHETTI v. MURUGAPPA CHETTI, 16 M. L. T. 547 472

——— ——— ——— ——— O. 22, r. 10, procedure under, not resorted to—Suit to be tried on original cause of action in all its stages—Devolution of plaintiff's interest pendente lite, if a change in cause of action—Competency of plaintiff to continue suit.

A suit must be tried in all its stages on the cause of action as it existed at the date of its commencement.

Though there are well-recognised exceptions to the above rule, which show that a Court may take notice of events which have happened since the institution of the suit and afford relief to the parties on the basis thereof, yet a devolution of the plaintiff's interest in the subject-matter of the suit pendente lite is not such an exceptional event and does not make the plaintiff incompetent to maintain the suit, there being no change in the cause of action on which the suit was originally brought.

In the event of such devolution of interest, the successor-in-interest of the plaintiff may, if he chooses, come on the record with leave of the Court under Order XXII, rule 10, but if he does not, the plaintiff is entitled to continue the suit and his successor will be bound by the result of the litigation. C. RAI CHARAN MANDAL v. BISWANATH MANDAL, 20 C. L. J. 107 410

——— ——— ——— O. 23, r. 1—Withdrawal of suit—"Sufficient grounds"—Material irregularity—Revision—Letters Patent Appeal.

The words "sufficient grounds" referred to in Order XXIII, rule 1 (2) (b), of the Civil Procedure Code are ejusdem generis with the defect referred to in rule 1 (2) (a) of the said Order.

Discretion vested in a Court to allow a plaintiff to withdraw a suit is not judicially exercised when it is exercised in spite of the defendant's opposition to condone defects in the plaintiff's conduct of his case which were due entirely to the plaintiff's own default and for which no excuse was attempted.

An illadvised grant of permission to withdraw a suit with leave to sue again may be such a material irregularity as is contemplated by section 115 (c), Civil Procedure Code.

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

Where a single Judge of the High Court rejects a petition for revision, a Letters Patent Appeal lies against the order of rejection. M. AIYA GOUNDEN v. JAYAN MANDALATHIPATHI GOPANNA MAURADIYAR, 1 L. W. 726; 16 M. L. T. 253 57

——— ——— ——— O. 24, r. 6 511

——— ——— ——— O. 30, rr. 5, 7 866

——— ——— ——— O. 32, rr. 3, 4 712

——— ——— ——— O. 33, rr. 5, 6, 7—Pauperism inquiry—Jurisdiction of Court to decide questions other than pauperism—Plea of limitation, Court's power to decide.

After a notice is issued, under rule 6, Order XXXIII, of the Code of Civil Procedure the Court, in an inquiry under Order XXXIII, rule 7, is not divested of its jurisdiction to decide whether the applicant has a good cause of action on the merits, and can, therefore, decide questions of limitation arising on the facts alleged in the application.

An application for leave to sue as a pauper presented five years after attaining majority, is clearly barred and the suit cannot be maintained. M. SUBRAMANIA CHETTY v. KULAYAPPAN, 1 L. W. 668 90

——— ——— ——— O. 33, rr. 6, 7 90

——— ——— ——— O. 34, r. 3 701

——— ——— ——— O. 34, r. 4 913

——— ——— ——— O. 38, r. 1 81

——— ——— ——— O. 40, r. 1—Mortgage-decree—Personal decree, absence of—Receiver, appointment of—Mortgagee, right of.

Per Oldfield, J.—The holder of a decree for the sale of mortgaged property, who is prevented from executing his decree, is entitled to have a Receiver appointed in respect thereof, if the security is insufficient to discharge the decree debt and the interest due on the mortgage-bond has not been paid.

Per Sadasiva Aiyar, J. The holder of a mortgage-decree who has not shown a right to a personal decree against the mortgagor, cannot have a Receiver appointed of the mortgaged properties, even though the mortgagee is obstructed by the mortgagor himself from executing his decree. M. VENKATA RAJAGOPALA SURYA ROW v. BASAVI REDDY, 1 L. W. 785; (1914) M. W. N. 771; 16 M. L. T. 407. 986

——— ——— ——— O. 41, r. 2 673

——— ——— ——— O. 41, r. 4—Appeal by several persons—Death of one of them—Failure to bring on record his representatives within limitation—Partial abatement, effect of.

Where an appeal is preferred by several persons against a decree passed against them on grounds common to all and one of them dies, the failure to bring on record his legal representatives within the period of limitation causes the appeal to abate so far as the deceased is concerned, but this partial abatement does not prejudice the appeal of the other appellants, as under Order XLI, rule 4, of the Civil Procedure Code any one of the appellants is empowered under the circumstance to appeal against the whole decree. P. MED SINGH v. KABIR-UN-NISSA, 88 P. R. 1914 486

——— ——— ——— O. 41, r. 20 25

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—contd.

——— ——— ——— O. 41, r. 22, scope of—Cross-objections by one respondent against another—Practice.

Under Order XLI, rule 22, an Appellate Court can allow a respondent to prefer cross-objections against another respondent. A. BALGOBIND v. RAM SARUP, 12 A. L. J. 892; 36 A. 505 83

——— ——— ——— O. 41, rr. 23, 25—Appellate Court not definitely reversing lower Court's finding—Procedure—Practice.

Where an Appellate Court does not definitely reverse the finding of the first Court that the suit was barred by limitation, but is of opinion that in the event of a finding that a certain person was not in possession on a particular date the suit was still liable to be dismissed on the ground of limitation, the proper procedure for the Appellate Court to adopt is to proceed under Order XLI, rule 25, and not under Order XLI, rule 23. A. RAM LAL v. TIRBENI SAHAI 454

——— ——— ——— O. 41, r. 23, O. 43, r. 1 (u)—Rejection of plaint by first Court—Order of Appellate Court setting aside order of rejection and remanding case for trial on merits, appeal from, whether competent.

An order of an Appellate Court setting aside an order of the Court of first instance rejecting a plaint and directing it to proceed with the trial of the suit on the merits, is not an order under Order XLI, rule 23, and is not appealable under Order XLIII, rule 1 (u). P. TIRATH SINGH v. RAM CHAND 519

——— ——— ——— O. 41, r. 25 454

——— ——— ——— O. 41, r. 26—Appellate Court, omission of, to fix time for filing objections to findings of lower Court—Irregularity, technical.

The omission of an Appellate Court to fix a time, as required by Order XLI, rule 26, Civil Procedure Code, within which either party may present a memorandum of objections to findings of the lower Court, is a mere technical irregularity and may be ignored if it does not in any way prejudice the party complaining of the same. U. P. B. R. SURAJ BALI v. DAN BAHADAR SINGH, 1. L. J. 681 736

——— ——— ——— O. 43, r. 1 (o) 701

——— ——— ——— O. 43, r. 1 (u) 519

——— ——— ——— O. 43, r. 1 (w) 831

——— ——— ——— O. 45, r. 2 402

——— ——— ——— O. 47, r. 1—Discovery of new and important matter—Review of order dismissing appeal under O, XLI, r. 11, whether entertainable.

No review lies of an order dismissing an appeal under Order XLI, rule 11, Civil Procedure Code, merely on the ground of an alleged discovery of new and important matter. C. RAJANI KANTA DAS v. KALI PRASANNA MUKHERJEE, 41 C. 809 381

——— ——— ——— O. 47, rr. 5, 8—Review—Court, power of—Successor of Judge who decides case, whether competent to grant review—Decision erroneous—Court, discretion of.

Order XLVII, rule 8, of the Civil Procedure Code, empowers a Court to grant a review and to re-hear he case.

Civil Procedure Code—(1908)—concld.

Where a Judge who heard a case issues notice on an application for review, his successor is not prohibited from disposing of it. Order XLVII, rule 5, applies to Courts composed of more than one Judge.

Where a decision is on its face erroneous owing to the attention of the Court not having been called to a decision of the High Court which it was bound to follow, the Court has a discretion in such cases to grant a review and if the Court exercises its discretion, it would require a very strong case for interference by a High Court under section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code. M. SUBBIER v. CHINNAPPA ROWTHEN, (1915) M. W. N. 22 365

——— ——— ——— O. 47, r. 7 (1) 831

——— ——— ——— O. 47, r. 8 366

——— ——— ——— Sch. II, paras. 14, 15, 20, 21—Mistake of law by arbitrator—Award on private reference, when cannot be filed.

A mistake of law on a legal point specifically referrred to an arbitrator, does not vitiate his award, but if the point was not specifically referred and the decision is patently contrary to law, the Court will not file the award.

Where any of the grounds mentioned in paragraphs 14 or 15 of Schedule II of the Civil Procedure Code is proved, a Court cannot proceed to file an award where the matter has been referred to arbitration without the intervention of the Court. Even if the invalid portion of the award is separable, it would still not be enforceable by the summary procedure of rule 20. C. DINABANDHU JANA v. CHINTAMONI JANA, 19 C. W. N. 476 697

——— ——— ——— Sch. II, para. 15 106, 697

——— ——— ——— Sch. II, paras. 20, 21 697

Common Manager, appointment of—See BENGAL TENANCY ACT, s. 93.

Companies Act (VI of 1882), s. 4—"Persons," meaning of—Repugnant to subject or context—General Clauses Act (X of 1897), s. 3, cl. (39)—Companies Act (VII of 1913), s. 2, cl. (13)—Association of more than 20 persons—Acquisition of gain—Registration.

The word "persons" in section 4, Act VI of 1882, denotes individuals and does not include bodies of individuals, whether corporate or not, since any such extended definition would be repugnant to the subject and context of the section.

An association of several firms consisting of more than 20 persons formed with the object of acquiring commercial gain is essentially within the purview of section 4 and requires registration. N. AKOLA GIN COMBINATION v. NORTHCOTE GINNING FACTORY, 10 N. L. R. 98 613

——— ——— (VII of 1913), s. 2, cl. (13)—Association of more than 20 persons—Acquisition—of gain—Registration. 613

Company—Articles of Association—Allotment of shares—Allotment by Secretary and Treasurer, validity of—Acceptance of share certificate—Right to impeach

Company- concld.

—Shares subscribed to owing to fraud and misrepresentation—Right of rescission, when to be exercised.

Where the Articles of an Association do not specifically provide that the allotment of shares should be made by the Directors but, on the other hand, they provide that the general management of the Association shall be by the Secretaries and Treasurers subject to the supervision of the Directors, and that the Directors may from time to time entrust and confer upon them such of the powers, exercisable under the Articles by the Directors, as they may think fit, and the forms of application for the shares put forward the Secretaries and Treasurers as the persons to whom applications were to be made:

Held, that the allotment of shares by the Secretaries and Treasurers was valid.

Allotment is a duty primarily falling on the Directors and if the Directors have no right under the Articles to delegate this duty, then a purely ministerial officer such as the Secretary cannot allot.

Where the judgment of individual Directors is required for allotments by reason of special features, they cannot delegate.

A person to whom shares have been irregularly allotted has the right to apply to have his name taken off the register, but he cannot do so after he has accepted his share certificate.

The contract made by allotment is a contract to issue shares and when the shares have been issued and accepted, the title of the allotee becomes complete and he is in an entirely different position to that occupied by him before allotment.

The right to rescind an allotment of shares on the ground of fraud and misrepresentation must be exercised at the earliest possible moment when the allotee becomes aware of it.

As between private persons the right to rescind a contract on the ground of fraud may actually be lost by the conduct of the persons entitled to apply even within the period provided by the Statute of Limitation for the enforcement of such a right, so in the case of shareholders want of promptitude in repudiating will by reason of its far-reaching consequences always be held fatal to the claim. M. PUSARALA SANYASI v. GUNTUR COTTON, JUTE AND PAPER MILLS CO., LTD., 16 M. L. T. 538. 349

Compensation. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 250.

——— ———, assessment of—Assessors, failure to appoint, effect of—Irregularity 476

——— ——— False charge Frivolous or vexatious 1004

——— ——— Improvement—Ejectment—Structures by tenant—Acquiescence or carelessness of landlord 936

——— ———Improvement by mortgagee—Construction of well 712

——— ——— payable out of fine—Full amount of fine not realized—Compensation, if payable 650

——— ——— Suit to recover amount paid by purchaser for incumbrance on property represented free from incumbrance 909

Complaint. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 4 (h)

——— ——— dismissed by one Magistrate—Fresh complaint to another—Transfer of case—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 526, 437.

A complaint under sections 420, 409, Indian Penal Code, dismissed on the complainant's statement that he had come to terms with the accused and did not wish to offer any evidence, can be re-instituted in the Court of another Magistrate who has jurisdiction to entertain it.

Where in a case there is a good deal of evidence (both oral and documentary) in English and the Magistrate in whose Court the case is pending does not know English, it may be necessary and perhaps advisable to transfer the case to some Magistrate who knows that language. A. MOHAMMAD v. ALI RAZA, 16 Cr. L. J. 73. 665

Compromise—Compounding a case—Written compromise signed by both parties put in—Magistrate, whether entitled to call for further evidence 1000

——— ———Mortgage by one partner of whole partnership property—Mortgage disputed by other partner—Suit by mortgagor for contribution in terms of compromise 924

——— ———Offence compoundable without sanction of Court—Presentation of petition of compromise—Power of Court to alter charge—Acquittal—Trial—Inquiry 993

——— ——— out of Court—High Court, whether can give effect to, on revisional side 176

——— ———, Suit under Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 92, whether can be compromised—Compromise before deciding whether endowment is public or not, if lawful. 360

——— ——— decree—Suit to set aside—Previous application for review on same ground dismissed—Suit, whether maintainable.

A party whose application for review of a compromise decree on the ground that he had not consented was dismissed, cannot sue to set aside that decree on the same ground. C. KAILASH CHANDRA v. GOPAL CHANDRA, 18 C. W. N. 1204 125

Compromise-deed — Arrangements about certain estate—Rgistration 423

Confession—Accused's statement not incriminating himself, whether confession 329

——— ———to Police Officer—Statements made by accused in order to exculpate himself—Test of admissibility—Admission of deposition when witness not found, when allowed—Circumstantial evidence 161

——— ——— to Thuggi on inducement to confess, whether admissible—Questions and answers based on such confession, admissibility of 129

Consideration—Gift of family property by father to son—Natural love 211

——— ———, receipt of—Mortgage—Admission before Sub-Registrar 913

——— ———Recital of consideration in document, evidentiary value of—Burden of proof, shifting of 899

Construction—Suit by one while sanction given to two 202

——— ——— ——— —of deed 249

——— ——— ——— ——— ——— ———Charge—Mortgage 752

——— ——— ——— of document—Intention of parties 751

——— ——— ——— ——— ——— —Mortgage 71

——— ——— ——— ——— ——— Sale or mortgage—Agreement to re-sell—Rent—Interest.

Where a vendor sold his house to his vendee for Rs. 399 and on the same day executed another document by which he took the house on hire from the vendee at Rs 2-4-0 a month, and the vendee contemporaneously agreed by a third document that if within three years the vendor paid Rs. 399 as principal and paid the rent from month to month, he would re-sell the house to the vendor:

Held, that these three documents read together amounted to a mortgage of the house, that is to say, a transfer of the property with the right of redemption within a fixed period and an agreement to pay rent in lieu of reasonable interest. B. NAGINDAS JEKISONDAS v. NANABHAI DULLABHRAM, 16 Bom. L. R. 774 753

——— ——— ——— ——— of lease. See LEASE.

Contract—Agreement to compound offence, promissory note executed in consideration of, whether legal—Necessary condition—Revision—High Court's power of interference—Mere errors of procedure, effect of.

As the offence of causing grievous hurt cannot be legally compromised except with the consent of the person to whom grievous hurt is caused, a promissory note executed as consideration for compounding such an offence committed against a person who had died previous to the complaint, is illegal and cannot be enforced. Such an agreement to pay money in consideration of compounding a criminal offence cannot be supported even on the ground that the party who executes the agreement would also be liable for damages.

The High Court as a Court of Revision has no power to consider justice apart from such justice as the law requires and cannot refuse to interfere on the ground that moral, as opposed to legal, justice, is a ground for refusing to interfere in revision.

Mere errors of procedure or technical defects not affecting the legal justice of a case will not be encouraged by a Court of Revision. M. MOTTAI REDDY v. THANAPPA REDDY, 37 M. 385 181

——— ——— ———Auctioneer not carrying out terms of contract, liability of 131

——— ———, breach of—Damages in excess of earnest money 226

Contract Act (IX of 1872), s. 11——Contract by minor—Minor, right of,—Property purchased for minor by some one else, minor's rights in—Sale of property by father, whether valid.

A contract by a minor is void and not merely voidable. Therefore, when a minor enters into a transaction where a contract by him is an essential condition preliminary to the transaction or contractual obligations on his part flow from the transaction, it must be regarded as void.

Contract Act—contd.

But where a contract by a minor is not a necessary condition for upholding the rights of the minor in property, his rights should be maintained.

Therefore, a purchase of property for the benefit of a minor by his maternal uncle is valid, and if the property is alienated by the minor's father, the minor is entitled to recover. M. MUNIA KONAN v. PERUMAL KONAN, 37 M. 390 195

——— ——— ——— s. 23—Agreement to pay money for procuring adoption, validity of—Public policy.

An agreement to pay a bribe to procure the adoption of a boy is one against public policy and is, therefore, void. M. THURI KOTHANDARAMA REDDIAR v. THESU REDDIAR, 27 M. L. J. 446; 1 L. W. 928 779

——— ——— s. 55 121

——— ——— s. 63 958

——— ——— ss. 69, 70—Landlord and tenant—Cost of keeping premises clean—Tenant, whether liable—Suit to recover costs—Jurisdiction.

A landlord is not entitled either under section 69 or section 70 of the Contract Act to recover from his tenant the costs of sweepers and bhishtis employed under an order from the Municipal Board to keep the premises clean.

Such a suit is neither for an enhancement of rent nor for the recovery of dues under section 13 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act and is cognizable by a Small Cause Court. A. NOBIN CHANDER BOSE v. GADDA BERHAI, 12 A. L. J. 931. 77

——— ——— s. 70 77

——— ——— s. 74—Earnest money—Breach of contract—Damages, in excess of earnest money.

Where a clause is entered in a contract providing for the forfeiture of a deposit made by the contractor, and the person for whose benefit the clause is entered in the contract does not content himself with retaining the deposit as a forfeiture but sues for actual loss incurred by him through the default of the other party, on the ground that the deposit amount is insufficient to cover such a loss or on the ground that the contract provides for both the forfeiture of the deposit and also for the right to recover the loss, he cannot recover more than the difference between the loss incurred by him and the deposit money. M. VELLORE TALUQ BOARD v. GOPALASAMI NAIDU, 17 M. L. T. 84 226

——— ——— s. 104—Stoppage in transit—Sufficient notice—Telegram to carrier not to deliver.

Where an unpaid vendor sent goods by rail to and at the request of the vendee and on becoming insolvent, while the goods were still in transit, telegraphed to the Railway Company asking them not to deliver the goods:

Held, that the telegram was sufficient notice to the carriers, as no particular form of notice is required to effect a valid stoppage in transit under section 104 of the Contract Act. S. RIJHUMAL v. MICHUMAL, 8 S. L. R. 65. 424

——— ——— ss. 201, 209, 218—Principal and agent—Suit to recover money—Limitation—Moveable property—Money, whether moveable property—Agency, termination of—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Arts. 89, 115—Agent's contract to account, suit on—Article applicable.

Contract Act—contd.

As money is moveable property within the meaning of Article 89 of Schedule I of the Limitation Act, a suit by a principal against his agent for money received and not accounted for is governed by Article 89 of the Limitation Act and is barred if not brought within three years of the date of the termination of the agency.

An agency is determined when the agent ceases to represent the principal, though his liability in respect of acts done by him as agent may continue.

Therefore, where an agent in obedience to a telegram sent by his principal hands over the charge to another person, his agency terminates that very day as his authority is revoked.

An agent's contract to account to his principal, whether express or implied, is specially provided for in Article 89 of Schedule I of the Limitation Act and it cannot be included under Article 115 of the Act.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J. In an agent's contract the fixing of a date for rendering accounts cannot stop the termination of the agency. M. VENKATACHALAM CHETTY v. NARAYANAN CHETTY, 28 M. L. J. 140 740

——— ——— ss. 209, 210 740

——— ——— ss. 230, 231—Principal and agent—Agent contracting in his own name—Suit, right of—Agent and sub-agent—Privity of contract between principal and sub-agent—Dubashes, position of Sub-agent—Security money with agent—Principal Adopting agent's acts, rights and liabilities of—Equity—Evidence Act (I of 1872) s. 92—Contracting party whether principal or agent, parol evidence to prove, whether admissible.

Per Wallis, Offg., C. J.—Where an agent enters into a written contract in his own name and without mentioning his agency, he can sue and be sued upon that contract.

The position of Dubashes in the Madras Presidency is much the same as that of Banian in Northen India.

Where a party acts merely as as sub-agent, there is no privity of contract between that party and the principal under section 192 of the Contract Act.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J.—Where the question is whether under the terms of a contract a contracting party is acting for himself or on behalf of a principal, it is not a question relating to the terms of a contract within the meaning of section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act, and parol evidence is admissible. Prima facie, a contract by a person in his own name without more is a contract by him as a principal.

The principle of section 231 of the Contract Act is that as against the agent transacting business in his own name, the principal can claim the full benefit of the contract, and as against the party contracting with the agent, the principal is bound by the equities subsisting between the agent and the contracting party.

Where a contract has been entered into by one man as agent of another, the person on whose behalf it has been made cannot take the benefit of it without bearing its burdens. M. SOUTH INDIAN INDUSTRIALS v. MINDI RAMJOGI, 27 M. L. J. 501 822

Contract Act—concld.

——— ——— s. 232 822

——— ——— s. 247—Partnership—Infant partner, liability of—Liability of infant partner to be adjudged insolvent—Position of infant in joint Hindu family business—Insolvency of one partner, effect of—Position of Receiver—Provincial Insolvency Act (III of 1907), s. 16.

An infant may be admitted to the benefits of a partnership, though he cannot be made personally liable for any obligation of the firm.

An infant partner of a firm cannot as such be adjudicated an insolvent.

There is no difference in principle between the nature of the the liability of an infant admitted by agreement into partnership business and that of another on whose behalf an ancestral trade is carried on by the guardian.

Therefore, a Hindu infant on whose behalf a family trade is carried on is not personally liable for the debts incurred in such a trade, but his share therein is alone liable.

When a partner has been adjudged an insolvent, the partnership is not necessarily dissolved and the Receiver appointed under section 16 of the Provincial Insolvency Act merely replaces the insolvent partner in respect of the business of the firm and cannot claim, as Receiver in insolvency, to take exclusive possession of the entire assets of the firm. C. SANYASI CHARAN MANDAL v. ASUTOSH GHOSH, 42 C. 225 836

Contribution—Jurisdiction — Small Cause Court—Suit to recover amount paid by purchaser for incumbrance on property represented free from incumbrance—Compensation 909

——— ——— ——— Mortgage—Mortgage by one partner of whole partnership property—Mortgage disputed by other partner—Compromise—Disputing partner undertaking to pay part of mortgage-debt—Mortgage subsequently declared not binding on disputing partner's share—Mortgage-debt realized from partner executing deed—Suit by mortgagor for contribution in terms of compromise—Other partner, liability of. 924

——— ——— ———, suit for—Maintenance grant to widow by three brothers—Charge created on their share of properties—Sale of some properties—Maintenance decree satisfied by one purchaser—Purchaser, liability of—Contribution between purchaser and legal representatives, principle of.

Three brothers executed an ekrarnamah granting a certain annual maintenance to the widow of their fourth brother, by making themselves jointly and severally liable therefor and by creating a charge on half shares of their zemindari properties. The maintenance fell into arrears with the result that the widow obtained a decree. The plaintiff, who had purchased the share of one of the three brothers in one of his properties, satisfied that decree of the widow and sued the holders of the different properties for contribution:

Held, that the three brothers or their representatives were equally liable; and that as between the plaintiff and the representatives of his vendor the liability should be determined on Contribution—concld.

the basis of the value of the properties respectively in their hands at the time when the decree for maintenance was passed. C. SASHI SEKHARESWAR ROY v. SASHIBALA DEBI 480

Conviction—Identification, when sufficient to convict—Grave suspicion, whether sufficient for conviction 329

Co-operative Societies Act (II of 1912), ss. 19, 20—Charge, enforceability of—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 73.

Under section 73 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, a Co-operative Society cannot enforce a charge under section 19 of the Co-operative Societies Act, unless they have a decree or a charge under section 20 of the latter Act. C. ABDUL KADIR v. SHAHABAZPUR CO-OPERATIVE BANK, 18 C. W. N. 1140 81

——————— s. 20 81

Co-parcener, right of, to relinquish his share 211

Copyright Act (III of 1914), s. 2—Infringement of copyright—Law Reports—Judgments—Extracts and facts collected by Reporter, whether can be copied.

It is generally true that in the reports of judgments the reporter has no copyright, but it cannot be said that in the selection of cases and in the arrangement of reporting the reporter has not the protection of the law. He is entitled to report such judgments as he obtains by expenditure of his time, labour and money, but where he fails to exert his own energies, he cannot be allowed to avail himself of other people's industry.

Therefore, where the defendant reproduced, not only the judgments which had been reported by the plaintiff, but also such parts of the plaintiff's reports as formed no part of judgments and also took from the plaintiff's reports extracts and facts which had been collected by the plaintiff from the records of the cases:

Held, that the defendant had infringed the plaintiff's copyright. C. JOGESH CHANDRA CHAUDHURI v. MOHINI CHANDRA RAY, 18 C. W. N. 1078 30

Co-sharer, not recorded as such, whether bound by partition proceedings—Prohibition under s. 233 (k), U. P. Land Revenue Act, applicability of 119

——————, right of, to collect his share of rent separately—Recovery of co-sharer's fractional share of rent, suit for, not maintainable—Division of joint lands of tenants necessary—Tenant paying rent to one co-sharer alone, released from further liability. 237

Costs, award of—Proceedings under Legal Practitioners Act initiated in District Court—Reference to High Court—Power of District Judge to award costs of proceedings before him 125

Court Fees Act (VII of 1870), s. 7 (iv) (f)—Suit for administration of estate—Suit for accounts—Valuation for jurisdiction and Court-fees identical.

No doubt a suit for administration of an intestate estate is in some respects a suit of a unique kind, but after all it has many features in common with a suit for winding-up an insolvent estate, or a suit for Court Fees Act—concld.

dissolution of partnership with taking of accounts and allotment to each partner, after all debts, etc., are settled up, of his net share. In all of these suits the taking of accounts is a prominent and necessary feature and the mere fact that, after accounts have been taken, the Court, ex necessitate rei, acts in winding-up on rather different lines in the different classes of cases, does not take any of them out of the purview of the 'suit for accounts.'

A suit 'for an account of any property and for its due administration' falls within the purview of section 7 (iv) (f), Court Fees Act. The valuation of such a suit for the purposes of jurisdiction and Court-fees is the same. P. SHUJA-UD-DIN v. AISHABI, 100 P. R. 1914 342

——————— ss. 9, 10—Valuation determined by Commissioner—Plaintiff failing to pay additional Court-fee within prescribed period—Suit to be dismissed—Plaint not to be rejected—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. VII, r. 11—Option to abandon part of claim for which Court-fee not paid in time.

If as the result of an inquiry under section 9 of the Court Fees Act a Court directs the plaintiff, if he wishes to continue the suit, to pay the required additional Court-fee within a time fixed by the Court and the plaintiff fails to do so, the plaint should not be rejected under Order VII, rule 11, Civil Procedure Code, but the suit itself should be dismissed under section 10 of the Court Fees Act.

A plaintiff who has not properly valued his claim or paid a sufficient Court-fee is not entitled at the last moment to an option to abandon part of his claim and retain only that part for which he has paid a sufficient Court-fee. B. VALLI ISE AMANJI v. MAHMAD ADAM ASMAL, 16 BOM. L. R. 763 746

——————— s. 10 746

Criminal breach of trust. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 179; PENAL CODE, s. 405.

——————, offence of, when complete 136

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 4 (h), 195, 476—Complaint—Sanction.

Where the order of the Court was "I hereby complain against R ..... that he on ..... filed two false and forged bonds in suit No. ..... in the Court of ..... and thereby committed an offence under sections 471/467 and 209, Indian Penal Code. The papers will be sent to the District Magistrate with the request that they may be made over to a competent Court for disposal:"

Held, that this was a complaint as defined in section 4 (b) and not a sanction under section 195 or section 476 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. A. RAJA RAM v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 881; 15 CR. L. J. 700 148

——————— ss. 12, 460, 528—Transfer of case—Magistrate made Chairman of Municipal Board, whether still Magistrate and subordinate to District Magistrate—Jurisdiction.

A Magistrate, who is gazetted to the office of the Chairman of a Municipal Board and takes charge of that office, is divested of his territorial jurisdiction

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

as Magistrate and is no longer subordinate to the District Magistrate. The latter, therefore, cannot transfer any criminal case to him for trial. A. NATHI MALL v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 890; 36 A. 513; 15 CR. L. J. 693 141

——————— s. 107 —Breach of public peace—Magistrate should base his order on evidence on record and not on personal knowledge outside record—Findings to justify order—When object lawful, order improper.

The final decision in a case should be based simply and entirely upon evidence legally brought on to the record. Therefore, a Magistrate who possesses outside knowledge of matters which are not evidence in a case under section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, should keep that knowledge out of his judgment and endeavour to base his decision entirely upon the relevant evidence in the case.

To justify an order under section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, the Magistrate should find that even the person proceeded against is likely to commit a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity or to do any wrongful act that probably may occasion a breach of the peace or disturb the public tranquillity.

The Hindu residents of a town whose object was to take the Dasehra procession, or to cause it to be taken, down a particular route, not forcibly and in defiance of any prohibition which might be issued by the authorities, but with the sanction and under the protection of the authorities, cannot be rightly bound over under section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, to keep the peace. A. BRIJNANDAN PRASAD v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 1246; 16 CR. L. J. 46; 37 A. 33 638

——————— ss. 107, 117—Security ordered without any inquiry—Order, whether illegal.

An order under section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, is bad in law if it is made without making an inquiry into the truth of the information upon which proceedings were initiated. A. MULCHAND v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 1262; 16 CR. L. J. 61; 37 A. 30 653

——————— ss. 107, 125 Security for keeping peace—Bond for keeping peace, cancellation of—District Magistrate, jurisdiction of—Admission of case, wrong, effect of—Revision, High Court's power in—Questions of fact, when to be considered in revision.

Section 125, Criminal Procedure Code, does not confer upon a District Magistrate either an appellate or revisional jurisdiction, but it confers an original jurisdiction in respect of orders binding down persons to keep the peace. A person so bound down has no remedy by way of appeal to the District Magistrate. The proper course for him is to bring his case in revision before the Sessions Judge.

A High Court, having once admitted a case in revision and having fixed a date for the hearing thereof, ought to dispose of it on the merits after hearing the applicant for revision.

In criminal revisions, the High Court does not ordinarily consider questions of fact, except where the matter has been before only one Court below. O. SHEO SINGH v. EMPEROR, 1 O. L. J. 541; 15 CR. L. J. 721 169

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

——————— ss. 107, 526—Transfer of case—Power of District Magistrate to send case under s. 107 to second class Magistrate.

It is not competent to a District Magistrate to transfer a case under section 107 of the Criminal Procedure Code to a Magistrate of the second class, who is incompetent to conduct and complete the proceedings A. GOBIND SAHAI v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 1136; 16 CR. L. J. 55; 37 A. 20 647

——————— ss. 109, 122—Magistrate's power to reject surety—Sufficient ground—Defence witness, whether can stand surety—Revision.

Sureties for good behaviour should not be rejected merely on the strength of the report of a Tahsildar and a Sub-Inspector of Police, without some further proceedings or at any rate without giving the sureties an opportunity of meeting any allegations that may be made against them. The fact that a person offering himself as surety for the good behaviour of another has given evidence in favour of that person in a proceeding under section 109 or 110 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which resulted in the passing of an order requiring security, would not be at all a good reason for refusing to accept the surety.

The discretion conferred on a Magistrate by section 122 of the Code is a wide one and the High Court should not lightly interfere with any reasonable exercise of the same. A. BAIRAGI v. EMPEROR, 15 CR. L. J. 727 175

——————— ss. 110, 514—Bond for appearance in Court—Liability of surety.

When a person stands surety for the appearance in Court, up to the conclusion of the case, of a man, who has been called upon under section 110, Criminal Procedure Code, to furnish security for good behaviour, the liability of the surety does not cease until the culprit, if so ordered, appears with his sureties and executes his bond. P. ABDUL KARIM v. EMPEROR, 32 P. R. 1914 CR.; 16 CR. L. J. 74 666

——————— ss. 110, 112—Detention in custody on mere request of Police—Magistrate to consider reasons and to place them on record.

Persons, who after investigation made have been found to be persons not proved to have been concerned in any cognizable offence and against whom there is no reasonable complaint or suspicion of their having been so concerned, should at once be released and any further detention of them is a detention not warranted by law. A Magistrate has no jurisdiction of any kind to act under section 110 of the Code of Criminal Procedure until he has sufficient information before him as will suffice for making an order in writing setting forth its substance and the further particulars required by section 112 of the Code. A. EMPEROR v. GANESH, 12 A. L. J. 336; 15 CR. L. J. 696 144

——————— s. 110—Inquiry in progress—Detaining accused in jail—Illegality—General repute, evidence of.

To send a person to jail while an inquiry under security proceedings is in progress, is an illegality which prejudices his interests in the inquiry.

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

Therefore, such an inquiry can be said neither to be fair nor conducted with that regard for the rights and privileges of the person against whom the proceedings are taken, which the law requires.

Where the Chairman of the Managing Committee of a Municipality was proceeded against under section 110 of the Criminal Procedure Code, the proceedings being based on evidence of general repute, and he was detained in jail pending the inquiry:

Held, (1) that the fact of detaining him in jail while the inquiry was in progress prejudiced his interest in the trial and rendered the inquiry unfair;

(2) that the evidence of general repute must in this case be evidence of a reputation which the accused had acquired since his appointment to the chairmanship. B. BHAU SAVALARAM KOTASTHANE v. EMPEROR, 16 Bom. L. R. 943; 16 Cr. L. J. 91 1003

——————— ss. 110, 516—Transfer of proceedings under s. 110, application for—Ground of transfer—Apprehension of not having fair and impartial trial.

The petitioner made an application under section 526, Criminal Procedure Code, praying that the proceedings taken against him under section 110 of the Criminal Procedure Code be transferred from one district to another, on the grounds that he was arrested without a warrant, that his medical certificates were not accepted, that he was not informed of the charge for some days, that his request to reserve cross-examination was disallowed, that his prayer as to the production of certain documents was rejected, and that the names of some of his witnesses were struck out while a sum of Rs. 100 was demanded from him before summons could be issued to the rest of his witnesses:

Held, that these facts alone did not in any way show bias or prejudice in the mind of the Magistrate against the petitioner but they, taken with the fact of the institution of several criminal proceedings against the petitioner prior to the proceedings under section 110, Criminal Procedure Code, would likely give rise to an apprehension in his mind that he was not likely to have a fair and impartial trial in the Court before which security proceedings against him were pending and that, therefore, this was a fit case for transfer. A. JAFAR HUSAIN v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 736; 16 CR. L. J. 56 648

——————— s. 112 144

——————— s. 117 658

——————— s. 117—Enquiries under Chap. VIII—Rules of evidence—General repute, evidence of—Admissibility of evidence, test of—Witness to general reputation—Examination and cross-examination—Practice.

Enquiries under Chapter VIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure are governed by the ordinary rules of evidence. Evidence which would not be admissible at an ordinary trial should not be admitted at a trial under section 117 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

Evidence of general repute may be either evidence as to the general opinion of the neighbourhood or community in which the person concerned lives or to which he belongs, or the personal opinion of the witnesses who are examined.

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

The test of the admissibility of evidence of general opinion is whether it shows the general reputation of the man, not necessarily the opinion of the entire community to which he belongs but at least the opinion of a considerable number of persons. It must not be merely the repetition of what one or two persons have said to the witness.

A witness to general reputation may be examined and cross-examined as to his means of knowledge and when he gives his own opinion, he may be asked to give the grounds of his opinion and to give the names of the persons whom he has heard speak against the character of the person concerned. A. BECHAI v. EMPEROR, 15 CR. L. J. 705; 12 A. L. J. 937 153

——————— s. 122 175

——————— s. 122 — Discretion—Opinion formed on Police report.

The discretion given to a Magistrate by section 122 of the Criminal Procedure Code is a wide one. There must, however, be some sort of independent inquiry by the Magistrate, showing that a judicial discretion has been exercised in rejecting a surety.

Therefore, a Magistrate's order rejecting a surety merely on the Police report and without any independent inquiry by himself is bad. A. BHAWANI SINGH v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 1004; 6 CR. L. J. 54 646

——————— s. 125 169

——————— s. 133 328

——————— s. 133—Nomination of jurors—Principle to be observed by Magistrates.

It is not illegal for a Magistrate to address any inquiry to the person who first came forward to draw his attention to the existence of an alleged public nuisance, with a view to ascertaining the names of respectable and independent residents of the neighbourhood who would be willing to serve on the jury but it would be highly improper on his part to appoint to serve on the jury the friends or supporters of the person at whose instance the proceedings are being taken.

It is, however, expedient that in all proceedings, initiated under section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, the Magistrate should bear in mind that he is supposed to be acting purely in the interest of the public and should be on his guard against any tendency to use the section as a substitute for litigation in Civil Courts in order to the settlement of a private dispute. A. FARZAND ALI v. HAKIM ALI, 12 A. L. J. 1241; 16 CR. L. J. 40; 37 A. 26 632

——————— s. 133—Question of title raised—Magistrate, duty of, to decide bona fides of question—Procedure—Civil Court, reference to—Party failing to have recourse to Civil Court—Magistrate, power of—Power under s. 133, how to be used.

Per Sharfuddin, J. (Tennon, J. dubitante).—When a person called upon to show cause under section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, raises a question of title, the trying Magistrate must decide whether the question has been raised bona fide or it is set up only to oust the jurisdiction of the Court. If the Magistrate finds that the claim set up is a mere pretence should pass final orders and make the Rule absolute, but if he finds that it is bona fide raised, he should stay his hand and refer the party to Civil Court. And if the party within a reasonable time does not have recourse to Civil Court, the Magistrate may then proceed to make the Rule absolute.

Criminal Procedure Code —contd.

The provisions of section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, should be sparingly used as any order passed under the section cannot be questioned in any Civil Court. C. MANIPUR DEY v. BIDHU BHUSAN SARKAR, 18 C. W. N. 1086; 15 CR. L. J. 698; 42 C. 158 146

——— ——— ——— s. 133—Way or public place—Obstruction, removal of—Magistrate, power of.

Section 133 of the Code of Criminal Procedure empowers a Magistrate to order the removal of an obstruction from any way or from any public place, and before the section can be applied there must be a finding that the obstruction in question is situated on a way which may be lawfully used by the public or on a public place. A. CHURAMAN v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 1024; 15 CR. L. J. 724 172

——— ——— ——— s. 137 328

——— ——— ——— s. 144 (4)—Order passed by acting District Magistrate—Petition for rescission, by whom to be disposed of.

An order passed under section 144, Criminal Procedure Code, by a Joint Magistrate, while acting as a District Magistrate, can be rescinded or altered after his reversion, by the then District Magistrate himself and the latter cannot transfer an application for rescission or alteration to the former. M. SUNDARSANAM AIYANGAR v. ELAYAVALLI SRINIVASACHARI, 16 CR. L. J. 74 666

——— ——— ——— s. 145, inquiry under—Magistrate, duty of.

In an inquiry under section 145, Criminal Procedure Code, it is the duty of the Magistrate to determine who is in actual possession of the property at the time of his preliminary order.

Quaere—Whether proceedings under section 145 of the Code of Criminal Procedure can be taken where the two parties are in the position of principal and agent? M. VAITHIANATHA AIYAR v. SUPPALU AMMAL, I L. W 939; 15 CR. L. J. 708 156

——— ——— ——— ss. 145, 522—Order under s. 522, whether bars proceedings under s. 145.

An order under section 522, Criminal Procedure Code, which is never carried out, does not bar the jurisdiction of a Criminal Court under section 145. C. PRABHAT CHANDRA CHATTERJEE v. PRASANNA KUMAR SEN, 18 C. W. N. 1088; 15 CR. L. J. 700 148

——— ——— ——— s. 145—Petitioner, possession of, on behalf of both parties—Jurisdiction to pass order.

A Magistrate has no jurisdiction to pass an order under section 145, Criminal Procedure Code, when the possession of the applicant is neither exclusive nor superior to that of the opposite party but is on behalf of both the parties and the applicant merely wants a declaration to that effect. M. KANDASAMI ASARI v. NARAYANA ASARI, 2 L. W. 107; 16 CR. L. J. 52 644

——— ——— ——— s. 162—Statements to Police Officers, admissibility of—Evidence Act (I of 1872) s. 157.

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

Under section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code a Police Officer can be allowed to depose to what a witness had said to him in the course of the investigation for the purpose of corroborating the testimony of that witness before the trial Court.

Per Shah, J.—Section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code excludes only the writing. B. EMPEROR v. HANMARADDI RAMARADDI, 16 BOM. L. R. 603; 15 CR. L. J. 690; 39 B. 58 138

——— ——— ——— s. 165 (1) 319

——— ——— ——— s. 179—Criminal breach of trust—Cheating—Jurisdiction.

The complainant ordered and received a consignment of matches from a firm at Calcutta and found the consignment so seriously damaged as not to be marketable. But he had already sent in advance currency notes by registered cover from the Moradabad post office. The complainant filed a complaint at Moradabad, charging the accused with criminal breach of trust and cheating:

Held, that the criminal breach of trust, if committed at all, was committed in Calcutta and was not triable in Moradabad.

Held, further, that the entire offence of cheating, if committed at all, was completed at Moradabad and the Magistrate of Moradabad had the jurisdiction to try the case. A. YUSUF ALI v. WAHAJUDDIN, 12 A. L. J. 1022; 15 CR. L. J. 719 167

——— ——— ——— s. 179—Hundis sent for encashment to Bombay from Dharapuram in Erode—Receipt of hundi and misappropriation of proceeds in Bombay—Petitioner resident of Bombay—Jurisdiction of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Erode, to try offence—Criminal breach of trust, offence of, when complete.

Where the petitioners who were brokers residing and carrying on business in the Bombay Presidency, were charged with having committed criminal breach of trust before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Erode in respect of the proceeds of certain hundis entrusted to them for encashment by the complainants, merchants of Dharapuram in Erode, and the hundis were received and cashed by the petitioners in Bombay and the sale-proceeds retained and misappropriated there:

Held, that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Erode had no jurisdiction to try the case and section 179 of the Criminal Procedure Code did not give him jurisdiction.

The offence of criminal breach of trust is completed by the misappropriation or conversion of the property dishonestly, i. e., with the intention of causing wrongful gain or wrongful loss. It is only the intention which is essential. Whether wrongful gain or loss actually results is immaterial; it is a consequence but no essential part of the offence, and a person is not accused of the offence by reason of it. M. RAMBILAS, In re, 16 M. L. T. 505; (1914) M. W. N. 894; 15 CR. L. J. 688 136

——— ——— ——— s. 195—Sanction to prosecute—Application made after four months—Delay, whether excusable.

An application for sanction to prosecute ought to be made promptly. A delay of four months is too long. A. SAGARMAN v. EMPEROR, 15 CR. L. J. 698 146

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

——————— s. 209—Accused, whether can be committed on evidence to be given in future—Magistrate, when bound to discharge.

A commitment of an accused to the Sessions must depend on evidence actually before the Court and not on evidence that may be given in future

A Magistrate is bound to discharge an accused under section 209, Criminal Procedure Code, if he believes that he has committed no offence C. SREEMANTA CHATTERJEE v. SURENDRA NATH, 16 CR. L. J. 5 309

——————— s. 212, 347—Magistrate, power of, to commit to Sessions after summoning and examining defence witnesses.

The discretion given to a Magistrate to commit a case to the Sessions, under section 347 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is neither restricted nor taken away merely because he issues summons to the defence witnesses under section 212 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and examines them. M. THE SESSIONS JUDGE, MADURA, In re, 15 CR. L. J. 704; 17 M. L. T. 83 152

——————— s. 215 657

——————— s. 227 306

——————— ss. 234, 239—Charge—Joint trial of two persons for two distinct offences—Misjoinder—Re-trial of appellant.

To enable more persons than one to be charged and tried together for more offences than one, the offences must all form part of the same transaction.

Where there is a misjoinder of charges, the convictions and sentences must be set aside and a re-trial ordered in the case of the accused who appeals, whether he has been prejudiced by the misjoinder or not. L. B. PO MYA v. EMPEROR, 7 L. B. R. 272; 16 CR. L. J. 44 636

——————— ss. 236, 237 152

——————— s. 239 313, 636

——————— s. 239—Same transaction, determining factor of—Continuity and community of purpose and object.

In deciding whether offences are so connected as to form one and the same transaction, the determining factor is not so much proximity in time as continuity and community of purpose and object

Section 239 of the Criminal Procedure Code is merely an enabling section and does not in any way trammel the discretion of the Court C. SUPDT. & R. L. A. B. v. MANMOHAN ROY, 16 CR. L. J. 3; 21 C. L. J. 195 307

——————— s. 239—"Same transaction," meaning of—Trespass and on ejection assembling men to force entry, whether part of same transaction—Joint trial, whether legal.

The act of a trespasser in entering into a factory, and, subsequent to his ejection therefrom, his act in assembling men to force an entry into it, are acts unconnected with each other and do not form part of the same transaction, within the meaning of section 239 of the Criminal Procedure Code, and a joint trial for such offences is illegal. M. ANANTHA PADIYARA, In re, 15 CR. L. J. 695 143

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

——————— ss. 247, 403—Previous acquittal without jurisdiction, whether bar to second complaint.

A previous acquittal wholly without jurisdiction is no bar to a Magistrate taking cognizance of a second complaint.

Therefore, a Magistrate, who on a complaint made by a servant of a zemindar for maiming his master's elephant issues process under section 426, Indian Penal Code, to the accused but acquits the accused under section 247, Criminal Procedure Code, on the ground that the complainant is dead, acts without jurisdiction and is not debarred from hearing a second complaint by another servant. C. MADHO CHOWDHURY v. TURAB MIAN, 18 C. W. N. 1211; 15 CR. L. J. 726 174

——————— s. 250—Charge of bribery—False charge—Compensation—Frivolous or vexatious.

As long as a case is frivolous or vexatious, the fact that it is also false is no bar to the application of section 250, Criminal Procedure Code.

A charge of bribery may not be frivolous, but, if false, is undoubtedly vexatious. U.B. NGA MYL v. NGA KYAN, U. B. R. (1914), II, 31; 16 Cr. L. J. 92 1004

——————— s. 250—Compensation, order to pay—Opportunity to show cause, sufficiency of.

Where a Magistrate passed an order to the following effect: "Judgment delivered. Accused acquitted. . . . . Complainant to pay Rs. 50 compensation to each of the accused under section 250, Criminal Procedure Code, and show cause why he should not pay. Subans Singh (complainant) is absent. His brother verbally shows cause which is insufficient. Order made absolute:"

Held, that the complainant was in fact given no opportunity of showing cause, and that, therefore, the order could not be sustained. C. SUBANS SINGH v. MAHABIR PROSHAD SINGH, 18 C. W. N. 1277; 15 CR. L. J. 707 155

——————— ss. 254, 255, 345—Offence compoundable without sanction of Court—Presentation of petition of compromise—Power of Court to alter charge—Acquittal—Trial—Inquiry.

Where a Court has drawn up a charge of an offence compoundable without sanction of Court and this charge, having been read and explained to the accused, has been pleaded to, that Court should, upon the presentation to it of a petition of composition by the person mentioned in the last column in the table in section 345, Criminal Procedure Code, at once accept the petition and acquit the accused and has no power to alter the charge already drawn up.

Obiter: - When the charge has been drawn up and read and explained to the accused and he has pleaded, the "inquiry" becomes a "trial." P. HASTA v. EMPEROR, 29 P. R. 1914 Cr., 16 Cr. L. J. 81 993

——————— s. 255 993

——————— s. 256—Conviction for less serious offence when facts disclose more serious offence, whether should be set aside—Failure to question accused if he is willing to cross-examine prosecution witnesses, effect of.

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

A conviction for a less serious offence need not be set aside merely because the facts disclose a more serious offence, provided the Court has jurisdiction to try the offence of which it has convicted.

A failure to ask the accused, after framing the charge, whether he is willing to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses again, is a mere irregularity and the conviction is not thereby vitiated. M. MUNIAN CHETTY v. EMPEROR, 16 CR. L. J. 5 309

——— ——— ——— ss. 258, 439—Revision—Acquittal, when can be set aside—Transfer of case.

A Magistrate fails to deal with a case before him with judicial care and impartiality if he lays great stress on all considerations that might affect the credibiliy of the several prosecution witnesses and omits to take into consideration what might be advanced in their favour, e. g., fails to appreciate or even to correctly cite in his judgment the evidence of an important witness.

Such circumstances fully justify a High Court to set aside an order of acquittal passed by the Magistrate and transfer the case to another district. C. BAZU v. RAIKA SINGH, 18 C. W. N. 1244, 15 Cr. L. J. 722 170

——— ——— ——— s. 298 (1) (c) 657

——— ——— ——— ss. 337, 339, 298 (1) (c), 215—Approver—Forfeiture of pardon—Approver to be committed for trial along with other accused if forfeiture proved—Plea of pardon may be decided by Magistrate—Plea may be re-opened in Sessions Court—Burden of proof—Forfeiture, question of fact—Judge—Jury.

Where an approver fails to act up to the condition of his pardon before the inquiring Magistrate, the Magistrate can re-commence the inquiry as against the approver and commit him to take his trial along with the other accused.

Under the old Code the act terminating a pardon was the withdrawal by the granting authority, under the present law, it is the forfeiture by the approver.

Per Beachcroft, J.—The requirement that an approver is to be examined as a witness in the case, is satisfied when he is examined as a witness in the Magistrate's Court. It is not compulsory either for the prosecution or for the defence to examine him in the Sessions Court if he has shown by his evidence in the Magistrate's Court that he is an untrustworthy witness.

When an approver is put on his trial he may plead his pardon. The plea should be taken at the commencement of the proceedings before the Magistrate, for it strikes at the jurisdiction to take any proceedings at all against the approver, and it would then be necessary for the Magistrate to consider whether the pardon had been forfeited. But if he decides against the approver, or even if the plea is not taken before the Magistrate, it can be pressed in the Sessions Court and that Court ought to try the question whether the pardon has been forfeited before trying the general issue. If, however, there is a possibility of the evidence on the two issues overlapping or being identical the Judge may use his discretion and order the approver to be tried separately from the other accused.

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

The onus of proving forfeiture of pardon is on the Crown.

The question of forfeiture of pardon is a question of fact, therefore, its decision rests with the Jury and not with the Judge. C. SASHI RAJBANSHI v. EMPEROR, 19 C. W. N. 295; 16 CR. L. J. 65 657

——— ——— ——— s. 339 657

——— ——— ——— s. 345 993

——— ——— ——— s. 345—Compounding a case—Written compromise signed by both parties put in—Magistrate, whether entitled to call for further evidence.

Where the parties are entitled of themselves to compound a case and put in a written paper signed by themselves stating that the offence is compounded, they have proved that the offence is compounded and a Magistrate is not entitled to call for further evidence to prove it. B. EMPEROR v. GANA KRISHNA WALUNJ, 16 Bom. L. R. 939; 16 Cr. L. J. 88 1000

——— ——— ——— s. 345—Compromise out of Court—High Court, whether can give effect to, on revisional side.

The parties to a criminal case have no locus standi to ask the High Court sitting on the revisional side to treat the compromise which they have made of their own free will out of Court as one coming under section 345, Criminal Procedure Code. C. ADHAR CHANDRA DEY v. SUBODH CHANDRA GHOSH, 18 C. W. N. 1212; 15 CR. L. J. 728 176

——— ——— ——— s. 347 152

——— ——— ——— ss. 350, 544—Transfer of Magistrate pending trial—Expenses of prosecution witnesses recalled, whether to be paid by accused.

Where on the transfer of the trying Magistrate the accused claims under section 350, Criminal Procedure Code, to have the witnesses re-examined by the succeeding Magistrate, the witnesses should be re-summoned without payment of any fees. L. B. ELIAS v. EZAKIEL, 15 CR. L. J. 687 135

——— ——— ——— s. 403 174

——— ——— ——— s. 424—Appellate Court, whether entitled to alter conviction for principal offence into one of abetment—Abettor present at commission of offence, whether can be convicted of principal offence.

An Appellate Court cannot alter a conviction of an accused into one of abetment.

If an accused who abetted an offence was present at the commission of it he is rightly convicted of the principal offence. M. PERUMAL NAIDU, In re, 15 CR. L. J. 694 142

——— ——— ——— s. 428—Remand by Appellate Court for additional evidence and finding, whether legal.

Section 428 of the Criminal Procedure Code does not empower an Appellate Magistrate to call for a fresh finding from a Subordinate Magistrate, nor can he act upon such finding if submitted by the Sub-Magistrate. M. MUTHUKARUPPAN SERVAI v. VELLAYYA KUDUMBAN, (1914) M. W. N. 778; 16 CR. L. J. 79 671

——— ——— ——— s. 437 665

——— ——— ——— s. 439 170

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

——— ——— ss. 439, 562—Revision—Power of High Court to set aside order under s. 562 and to pass sentence

A High Court cannot set aside an order under section 562 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and of its own authority substitute for that order a sentence of whipping or of imprisonment. A. EMPEROR v. GHASITE, 12 A. L. J. 1244; 16 CR. L. J. 43; 37 A. 31 635

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 460 141

——— ——— ——— ——— s 476—Execution of decree, proceedings in—Judicial proceedings—Jurisdiction of Court.

Proceedings in execution of a decree are 'judicial proceedings' and, therefore, a Court has jurisdiction to pass an other under section 476, Criminal Procedure Code, with reference to matters which have come to its knowledge in execution proceedings. O. SHAHAMAT KHAN v. GULAB KHAN, 17 O. C. 309; 1 O. L. J. 568; 16 CR. L. J. 91. 1003

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 476. 537 (b)—Order to prosecute—No order directing accused to be taken to nearest Magistrate—Irregularity in proceedings, effect of.

An order directing the prosecution of an accused, under section 476, Criminal Procedure Code, is not illegal but irregular if it does not at once direct the accused to be taken before the nearest first Class Magistrate, and the irregularity is such as is expressly cured by section 537 (b), Criminal Procedure Code. M. SUPPAYA THARAGAN, In re, 37 M. 317; 16 CR L. J. 39 631

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 488—Application for maintenance by wife—Presence of relations or friends to bear her costs, whether ground for dismissal of application.

A wife's application for maintenance against her husband should not be dismissed on the mere ground that she has relations or friends willing to maintain her or to bear the costs of the proceedings. M. CHANDA v. RAMA MISARI, 16 CR. L. J. 80 672

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 488—Maintenance—"Neglects or refuses to maintain his wife," applicability of.

The expression "neglects or refuses to maintain his wife" in section 488, Criminal Procedure Code, does not apply where the husband states that he is willing to maintain his wife and the wife deposes that she is willing to live with her husband but he refuses to maintain her. P. PHULA KHAN v. EMPEROR, 46 P. W. R. 1914 CR.; 16 CR. L. J. 86 998

——— ——— ——— s. 488—Maintenance—Wife—Husband.

Under section 488, Criminal Procedure Code, a woman cannot be granted a maintenance order against a man unless she proves herself to be his legal wife according to his personal law. L. B. PWA ME v. SAN HLA, 7 L. B. R. 270; 16 CR. L. J. 39 631

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 488, 490—Maintenance—Recovery of arrears—Jurisdiction.

An order for the recovery of arrears of maintenance may be made either by the Magistrate who passed the original order or by a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the district where the person ordered to pay maintenance has gone to reside. L. B. MA THAW v. EMPEROR, 7 L. B. R. 116; 15 CR. L. J. 701 149

Criminal Procedure Code—contd.

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 488—Order for maintenance of an illegitimate son 526

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 491 335

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 494—Accomplice—Withdrawal of prosecution, effect of—Prior statements of accomplice, whether should be produced.

An accomplice, who is tried jointly with the accused, ceases to be on trial with the accused as soon as the prosecution against him is withdrawn under section 494 of the Criminal Procedure Code, and becomes a competent witness in the case.

Prior statements of such a witness made to and verified by a Magistrate must be made accessible to the accused for the purposes of cross-examination and, if necessary, contradiction. C. SHERATI SHEIKH v. EMPEROR, 18 C. W. N. 1213; 15 CR. L. J. 693 141

——— ——— ——— s. 514 666

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 522—Violence against fencing, not against any individual—Order under s. 522, whether competent—Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), s. 349, applicability of.

The term "force", as defined in section 349 of the Penal Code, applies to force when used in connection with the human body.

Therefore, where an accused is convicted of the offence of rioting for causing violence to a fencing, and not to any person, an order under section 522, Criminal Procedure Code, should not be passed inasmuch as there is no use of criminal force to any individual. C. SADASIB MANDAL v. EMPEROR, 18 C. W. N. 1150; 15 CR. L. J. 720 168

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 523 647, 648, 665

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 528 141

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 537 (b) 631

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 544 135

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 545—Compensation ordered payable out of fine—Full amount of fine not realised—Compensation, if payable.

It is quite competent to a Court, when ordering compensation to be paid out of the fine imposed, to provide by its order for the proportionate distribution of the amount realised. In the absence of any such direction, an order providing for payment of compensation out of the fine imposed ought not to be construed as meaning that nothing was payable until the full amount of fine was realised, but as meaning that compensation will have priority over the claims of revenue M. KHADDAM VENKATA RAO, In re, 2 L. W. 22; 16 CR. L. J. 58 650

——— ——— ——— s. 552, order under—Custody of wife, application for—No allegation of girl's wish in complaint—Order of restoring wife, passed without inquiry, illegal—Complainant, remedy of.

Where a husband complained to the District Magistrate that his father-in-law was wrongfully detaining his wife and refused to send her to his house, without alleging that she was being so detained contrary to her own wish, and the District Magistrate passed an order under section 552, Criminal Procedure Code, directing her restoration to the husband without making any inquiry into the matter of the complaint:

Criminal Procedure Code—concld.

Held, that on the facts the case was not one to which the provisions of section 552, Criminal Procedure Code, should be applied and that, if the husband had any grievance, he should seek his remedy in the Civil Court. C. NATHU MISTRY v. NARI LAL MISTRY, 15 CR. L. J. 712 160

—— —— —— — s. 562 635

Cross-examination—Witness—Serious imputation made against witness but not substantiated—Imputation, whether ought to be withdrawn by Counsel.

In the course of the cross-examination of a witness a very serious suggestion was made, which imputed dishonourable, if not dishonest, conduct to the witness. The suggestion, however, was not substantiated:

Held, that the imputation ought to have been withdrawn. M. CROMPTON & CO. v. SECRETARY OF STATE, 26 M. L. J. 549. 610

Custom. See Pre-emption.

—— — —Adoption—Illatom form of adoption—Presence of son of adoptive father, whether invalidates Illatom adoption—Hindu Law—Presumption 54

— — —— ——Sister's son—Bajwa Jats of Nikodar Tahsil, Jullundur District—Onus.

The adoption of a sister's son or a gift to such a person is not allowed by custom of the Bajwa Jats of Jullundur district, and the onus of proving the contrary is upon the person setting up the custom. P. NATHA SINGH v. MANGAL, 90 P. R. 1914 812

——— —— — — —— by widow of her co-wife's son, effect of—Gift by sonless proprietor of land to several persons in equal shares—Suit by collaterals on death of donees without issue.

An adoption by a widow of her co-wife's son does not have the effect of making him her heir to the prejudice of her father's agnatic heirs.

Where a sonless proprietor made a gift of his landed property in equal shares to his daughter, her son and the son of his other pre-deceased daughter and on the death of the 1st daughter's son his share passed to the daughter, on a suit by the collaterals on her death for recovery of lands gifted to her and her son:

Held, that the donor did not create a joint tenancy with remainder to the survivor and that, therefore, the suit was not barred by reason of one of the donees being alive. P. NABI BAKSH v. MEHR BIBI, 89 P. R. 1914; 15 Cr. L. J. 610 797 — — — —Alienation—Hindu Law—Brahmins of Dheriala Saigan village, Gujar Khan Tahsil, Rawalpindi District—Burden of proof—Ordinary test—Shifting of onus.

To determine whether Brahmins living in a village are governed by custom or Hindu Law, ordinarily one most important test is whether the Brahmins in question are a compact village community or at least a compact section of the village community. In such cases there is a strong presumption in favour of custom.

A village was founded a very long time ago by Custom—concld.

the ancestors of Brahmins, got Saigan, that from the date of its foundation the majority of the proprietors had been Brahmins of this got, that the Brahmins had from the very beginning constituted a compact village community, that out of 800 or 900 persons living in the village some 600 or 700 were Brahmins, that there was no biri in this village, that Brahmins did not perform any priestly functions, though a good many of them had taken to service, that such of the Brahmins who were not in service depended for their livelihood entirely upon agriculture, that the income of those who were in service was supplemented by their income as land-owners, and that so far as regards succession they were not governed by Hindu Law, as among them daughters were excluded:

Held, that in view of these facts the initial presumption that the Brahmins in this village were governed in matters of alienation of ancestral landed property by Hindu Law and not by custom, was sufficiently rebutted and the onus was shifted on to the party who asserted that in matters of alienations they were governed by their personal law and that their powers of alienation were not restricted as those of agricultural tribes. P. JAI RAM v. SARDAR SINGH, 23 P. R. 1914; 195 P. L. R. (1914) 512

——— — or Hindu Law—Khattar Aroras of Multan city—Succession—Daughter, whether can succeed—Custom—Burden of proof.

In matters of succession, Aroras of Multan city are governed by the Hindu cap.

Therefore, a daughter of an Arora of Multan city is entitled to succeed to the estate of her deceased father.

The burden of proving that they follow any custom in derogation of the Hindu Law lies heavily on the person alleging the custom. P. MOTAN DAS v. MORNI BAI, 37 P. W. R. 1914 450 —— — or personal Law—High class Hindus—Presumption—Sobti Khatris of Gujrat District—Onus.

In the case of high class Hindus, the presumption is that they are governed by their personal law and the onus lies on the party setting up custom to prove that they are governed by custom.

The Sobti Khatris of the Gujrat District are governed in matters of succession by the customs prevailing amongst agriculturists. P. ISHAR DEVI v. BINDRABAN, 5 P. R. 1915 656

——— —, proof of—Custom recorded in Wajib-ul-arz at variance with Mitakshara Law, weight of—Court, duty of 98

— —— Succession—Presumption—Onus—Barki Sayads of Basti Pirdad Khan, Jullundur District—Daughters, whether exclude nephews.

The presumption according to Customary Law being in favour of the exclusion of a daughter by a near collateral, the onus is on the daughter to prove an exception to this rule.

Among Barki Sayads of Basti Pirdad Khan Jullundhur District a daughter succeeds to the ancestral estate of the father to the exclusion of his nephews. P. ATA MUHAMMAD KHAN v. JIWANI, 2 P. W. R. 1915; 33 P. L. R. 1915 492

——— ——, validity of, to be determined when custom established—Revision—Interlocutory orders, when can be reversed. 954

Customary easement. See EASEMENTS ACT, s. 18.

Damages, liability for—Malice—Erroneous decision, procuring of 296

——————, measure of—Tenant, right of, to cut trees—Lease providing for payment of full value of trees by landlord on resuming 271

——————Monthly servant leaving without notice, whether entitled to damages—Master—Notice 270

——————, suit for—Lessee, failing to pay Government revenue as contracted, liability of—Damages, measure of 406

Debts contracted for family purposes by eldest member of joint Hindu family, how far binding on family 393

Decision, perverse, on facts—Erroneous admission of evidence—High Court in revision, interference by 106

Declaratory decree—Revenue Court decree allowing maintenance, enforcement of—Decree—Execution proceedings or suit in Civil Court.

A decree passed by a Revenue Court in accordance with an award entitled a woman to receive a fixed sum as maintenance in half-yearly instalments and provided that if the maintenance was not paid, she might enforce its payment by taking proceedings in a competent Court:

Held, that the decree was merely a declaratory decree as to the right to receive maintenance, and could be enforced by a suit in the Civil Court, and not by an application for execution of the decree. A. ANUPA KUER v. ACHCHAIHAR SINGH, 13 A. L. J. 38 597

——————————suit, maintainability of—Cestui que trust 55

——————maintainability of, where paternity of an illegitimate son is denied—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 488—Order for maintenance of an illegitimate son.

Defendant No. 1 brought a claim for maintenance in the Magistrate's Court under section 488, Criminal Procedure Code, against the plaintiff whom she averred to be the father of her illegitimate son, defendant No. 2. She obtained an order for maintenance. Basing his cause of action upon that order, the plaintiff brought the present suit for a declaration that the defendant No. 2 is not his son and that he had never an illicit connection with the defendant No 1:

Held, that the suit for a declaration that defendant No. 2 was not an illegitimate son of the plaintiff was maintainable. O. KAILASA v. RAGHUBAR, 17 O. C. 331; 1 O. L. J. 735 526

——————*Pre-emption—Succession—Mortgage of ancestral land—Sale of equity of redemption, whether sale for purposes of pre-emption—Widow of donor still alive—Riwaj-i-am—Sale of ancestral house—Ancestral and acquired property.*

A mortgaged his ancestral as well as acquired land to B and later on he gifted the mortgaged property and an ancestral house to B in lieu of the mortgage-money, plus past services and maintenance of A's widow till her death. A died leaving his widow. The reversioners of A brought a suit claiming:

(1) immediate possession as heirs to A;

(2) pre-emptive rights in respect of the gift as if it was a sale;

(3) declaration protecting their reversionary rights:

Held, that the plaintiffs could not get possession of the land as heirs in the life-time of the widow.

Held, also, that as regards the area already mortgaged, the transaction should be treated as a valid gift of the equity of redemption in lieu of services and hence the plaintiffs could not get the land by pre-emption.

Held, further, that as the acquired property can be given to any one at the pleasure of the owner, the reversioners could not challenge the alienation of this property.

Held, lastly, that the reversioners were entitled to a declaratory decree only as regards the ancestral house it not having been mortgaged before the gift of the equity of redemption took place. P. YARAN v. GULRANG, 164 P. W. R. 1914 882

Decree, form of—Hindu Law—Joint family—Liability of sons for debts of deceased father—Right of creditor to sue any or all sons 362

Defamation. See PENAL CODE, s. 499.

——————————Slander—Invited guest turned away because he had taken meals at widow marriages—Excommunication—Outcasting—Caste questions—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), s. 499, Expl. 4. 460

Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act (XVII of 1879), ss. 3 (w), 10, 53—Suit falling under s. 3 (w)—Revision, who can entertain.

Against the decision of a first Court in a suit falling under section 3 (w) of the Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act, a First Class Subordinate Judge cannot entertain a revision, though a District Judge can do so, under section 53 of the Act. B. SITRAM MORAPPA NAWALE v. KHANDOBA, 6 Bom. L. R. 756 606

——————————ss. 10, 53 606

Discretion—Opinion formed on Police report 646

——————of Court—Decision erroneous 366

Divorce. See MUHAMMADAN LAW.

——————Dissolution of marriage—Petition by husband—Parties of Indian domicile—Wife, security for costs of—Succession Act (X of 1865), s. 4.

In a case for the dissolution of marriage brought by a husband against his wife, where the parties are of Indian domicile and so subject to section 4 of the Indian Succession Act and where the wife has no separate property or means of her own, the Court can order the husband to give security for his wife's costs of the suit. C. BATEMAN v. BATEMAN, 41 C. 963 488

Divorce Act (IV of 1869), s. 10 599

Document, construction of. See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENT.

——————Intention of parties to instrument —Contents of document and evidence of surrounding circumstances to be considered—Payment of debt, right to enforce, not necessary in mortgage by conditional sale—Sale-deed providing for vendee to return property and cancel sale if consideration money paid within certain period Mortgage by conditional sale—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 58 (c)—Redemption.

The intention of the parties to an instrument is to be gathered, not from the name given to it, but from its contents and the relations sought to be created by its terms, as also from such extrinsic evidence of surrounding circumstances as may be required to show in what manner the language of the instrument was related to existing facts.

A right to enforce payment of the debt is not a necessary corrolary to a mortgage by conditional sale.

Where a sale-deed provides that if the vendor pays back the consideration money with interest within a certain period the vendee shall return the property conveyed and cancel the sale, the transaction evidenced by the sale-deed is not an absolute sale but a mortgage by conditional sale within the meaning of section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act, and a suit for its redemption can lie. O. BALDEO PRASAD v. CHET RAM, 1 O. L. J. 703 706

Document, proof of — One attesting witness called, effect of 84

Earnest money, forfeited, whether can be recovered 121

Easement—Easement of necessity—Use of way, absolutely necessary, whether constitutes—Obstructing right of way for boats—Non-user for two years—Suit, if barred—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 26.

The fact that it is absolutely necessary for a person to have the use of a way, does not constitute an easement of necessity.

Where a plaintiff sues for obstructing the right of way for boats in the rainy season, the non-user of the way within two years previous to the institution of the suit is no bar under section 26 of the Limitation Act. C. RAM GOPAL SEN v. ABHOYA CHARAN GHOSH 485

——————Enjoyment for 20 years—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 26—Kobala admitting right of easement—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 13—Appeal—Misjoinder of causes of action, plea of, whether allowed to be raised.

Where an easement is enjoyed peaceably and openly as of right without interruption for a period of 20 years, the requirements of section 26 of the Limitation Act are fully complied with, and the right becomes absolute.

A kobala admitting the right of the plaintiff to an easement is relevant and as such admissible under section 13 of the Evidence Act.

The plea of misjoinder of causes of action cannot be allowed to be urged for the first time in the High Court. C. GIRISH CHANDRA v. KUNJA BEHARI KOWAR 781

Easement—concld.

——————Prescription—Right to take water—Servient owner, whether can change the path—Right of way, how exercised—User—Extent—Motive.

When a right of way by a particular tract has been acquired by a dominant owner, the servient owner cannot force upon him, in lieu thereof, a different track, any more than the dominant owner himself can, at his discretion, take recourse to a different path.

The extent of a right acquired by prescription is measured by the extent of the use and enjoyment thereof during the prescriptive period.

Therefore a prescriptive right to take water in a particular way and at a particular place infers no right to take the supply of water in any other way and at any other place.

Obiter dicta.—Water, as it issues on excavation of a well or a tank, is not to be considered as produce of the soil and a right to enter on land and to take such water may be acquired as an easement. The elements of this right are: a right to go on the land of the servient owner; and a right to take the water.

In so far as a right of way is concerned, it is necessary to establish a private right of way by prescription that in going across the lands to any particular point or for any particular purpose, a particular route must be used.

The owner of a private right of way is entitled to enter the way at one and the same place only, and not at any other.

No use of property, which would be legal if due to a proper motive, can become illegal because it is prompted by a motive which is improper or even malicious. C. JIBANANDA CHAKRABARTI v. KALIDAS MALLIK, 20 C. L. J. 97; 18 C. W. N. 1296; 42 C. 164 213

Easements Act (V of 1882), ss. 4, 15 Easement against Government—Period of user—User for sufficiently large number of years—Burden of proof, shifting of—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 124, 126—"Communication in official confidence," meaning of—Report by one officer to another, admissibility of—Detrimental to public interest—Sufficient cause—Public officer in charge of record, opinion of, whether final—Presumption—Finding of fact—Second appeal.

A plaintiff who claims a right of easement by prescription against Government must prove sixty years' open peaceful and uninterrupted user under section 15 of the Easements Act.

The rule of law that where a plaintiff in a suit against the Government has proved his possession for a sufficiently large number of years, the burden of proof is shifted on to the Government, applies to suits for possession and if applied to suits for easement as well the plaintiff will have no right to claim the privilege where he has not even completed the period of prescription necessary against a private individual.

The words "communication in official confidence" used in section 124 of the Indian Evidence Act import no special degree of secrecy and no pledge or direction for its maintenance but include generally all matters communicated by one officer to another in the performance of duties. These words have the same meaning as "professional confidence" used in section 126 of the Evidence Act.

Easements Act—contd.

Where, therefore, the document that was sought to be put in evidence was a report made by one officer to another, after inspection of a spot in person, and where that was objected to on the ground that its production would be detrimental to public interest, that is a sufficient cause for a Court to refuse to compel its production. The public officer in charge of the record if the sole Judge of the detrimental character of the document, and his assertion as to its character is final and binds the Court.

Where the presumption which a Court ought to raise to shift the burden of proof on facts proved before it, is fixed by no rule of law, the privilege of raising that presumption is entirely with the Court of fact and it is not open to the High Court sitting in second appeal to direct what presumption the Court should have raised, and how to vary the burden of proof in the progress of the trial of a case.

Obiter dictum.—In English Law, the privilege as to production of public documents before Courts of law extends even to those which pass from hand to hand, in a public office, in the usual course of business with no special mark of secrecy upon them and the ground upon which the privilege rests is that it would be detrimental to the public interests to produce it. M. NAGARAJA PILLAI v. SECRETARY OF STATE 723

——— s. 7, ills. (h), (i), distinction between—Natural stream, test and essentials of—Owner of land below, right of, to dam back natural stream—Riparian owner, right of — Damming of natural stream to better cultivate, whether ordinary agricultural operation.

Where a stream has a continuous flow at the beginning but subsequently diversifies itself over a vast area of land, it is a natural stream and the owner of the adjacent land below has no right to put a dam across it to the injury and damage of the upper land-owners.

Per Wallis, Offg., C. J.—As the erection of a bund to dam back the water of a natural stream is an infringement of a natural right, as declared in section 7, illustration (h) of the Easements Act, the water of such a stream passing in a defined channel should be allowed to flow without material alteration in its quantity or direction.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J.—The essential attributes of a natural stream are that it must have a fairly defined course; it must move; and its water must be capable of identification. It need not always be confined with banks; nor need it have a continuous flow or a width of particular dimensions.

The distinction between illustrations (h) and (i) of section 7 of the Easements Act is this: In the former case the water must flow in a natural stream, in the latter, although there may be no defined channel the water must have a regulated course. The one deals with the developments of a stream, while the other deals with its beginnings. At the beginning of a stream, it is not to be expected that water will flow within well-defined bounds.

It is open to a person to protect himself against extraordinary floods. The right of any other person s not in question in such a case, as each one has a right to use means to prevent a possible sudden danger.

Every riparian owner should so conduct operations on his property as not to affect injuriously those above and below him.

To put up a dam to enable one to better cultivate his fields is not an ordinary agricultural operation. M. GOPALA KRISTNA YACHENDRULA VARU v. SECRETARY OF STATE, 16 M. L. T. 597; 2 L. W. 45; 28 M. L. J. 98 800

——— ——— s. 15 723

——— ——— ——— s. 18—Landlord and tenant—Customary easement.

The right to crush sugarcane and to express, boil and concentrate the juice on a piece of land in the abadi, is incidental to the cultivation of sugarcane and is of the nature of a customary easement referred to in section 18 of the Easements Act, and can be acquired by a tenant against his landlord. A. RAJAB ALI v. RAJJOO KHAN, 12 A. L. J. 963 122

——— ——— ——— ss. 59, 60—License—Revocation—Transferee of licensor, right of.

The transferee of a licensor cannot revoke the license where the licensee acting upon the license has executed a work of a permanent character and incurred expenses in the execution A. DAS BEHARI LAL v. AKHAI KUNWAR, 13 A. L. J. 1 445

——— ——— ——— s. 60 445

Ejectment. See LANDLORD AND TENANT.

——— ——— ———Addition to holding by encroachment—Possession for more than 12 years prior to commencement of Act — Ryots — Presumption 888

——— ——— ———Ex-proprietary tenant, out of possession—Possession with vendee—Vendee occupying as sub-tenant, no proof as to—Sub-tenant, vendee not to be treated as.

A person in whose favour ex-proprietary rights accrued but who has been out of possession, cannot assert them twelve years after the sale by virtue of which those rights accrued, and cannot, in the absence of any proof to the effect that the person now in possession occupied the land as his sub-tenant, eject that person as such U. P. B. R. NAGESHAR v. RAM TAHAL, 1 O. L. J. 692 722

——— ———, notice of—Adverse proprietary possession pleaded—Possession with tenants 709

——— ——— notice of—Favourable rate of rent, tenant, holding at 624

——— ———, notice of, contested—Under-proprietary rights claimed - Tenant to make out prima facie case only—Settlement Court deciding status of person, applies to all members of his family 683

——— ——— ———, notice of—Co-sharers, several, in one tenancy—Patwari's papers, entry in, showing one co-sharer's name only—Notice against one co-sharer alone, whether valid.

Where besides the person whose name is recorded in the Patwari's papers, there are several other co-sharers in the tenancy as tenants-in-chief, a notice of ejectment must be issued agai nst all the co-sharers, so that in a suit to contest that notice

Ejectment—concld.

all of them may appear before the Court as parties and the questions raised in the suit be properly decided. U. P. B. R. ABBAS BANDI BIBI v. SARJU PANDE, 1 O. L. J. 531 95

— Notice of eviction served by Talukdari Settlement Officer under Bombay Land Revenue Code—Suit for injunction to restrain Settlement Officer from carrying out eviction—Notice of suit under section 80, Civil Procedure Code, whether necessary 749

——— ——. power of, not absolutely reserved under lease—Thekadar not authorised to eject tenants without landlord's consent—Notice of ejectment signed by landlord alone, whether sufficient—Signature of thekadar, whether necessary.

Where the power of ejecting tenants is not absolutely reserved under the lease but it is simply provided that it should not be exercised without the consent of the landlord, a notice of ejectment signed by the landlord alone is insufficient and must bear the signature of the thekadar. U. P. B. R. BHAGWATI PRASAD SINGH v. SURAJ BALI, 1 O. L. J. 579 263

——— ——. Shikmi tenant, entry as—Civil Court decree finding tenant proprietor and mortgagor of holding and allowing redemption, effect of,

A person entered in the Patwari's papers as shikmi tenant, but having a Civil Court decree in his favour which says that he is the proprietor of the holding and entitled to redeem it, cannot be ejected from that holding so long as that decree holds good. U. P. B. R. SANWAL SINGH v. PRAG DAT, 1 O. L. J. 517 86

Electricity Act (IX of 1910), ss. 14, 19—Damages, right of—Access to property cut off—Operator, whether can claim damages.

Where a Gas Company was cut off from reasonable access to its own property by acts done in the exercise of its powers by an Electric Supply Company, and those acts were not so done as to cause the least damage, detriment or inconvenience to the Gas Company that might be:

Held, (1) that upon a true construction of Act IX of 1910, the damage claimed to have been suffered by the Gas Company was the subject of compensation under section 19 of the Act;

(2) that section 14 did not apply and the Gas Company could not be deprived of its remedy in respect of the portion of the cables.

Obiter dictum.—An operator cannot claim damages for acts of his own or done on his behalf and at his expense by the owner. B. BOMBAY GAS COMPANY AND BOMBAY ELECTRIC SUPPLY In re, 16 BOM. L. R. 964 692

——— ——— — s. 19 892

Encumbrance, suit to annul—Conditions to be fulfilled 436

Endorsement. See Limitation Act, s. 19.

Endowment, sufficient evidence of 621

Enhancement of rent, suit for—Rent unvaried for 20 years before suit—Bengal Rent Act (X of 1859), s. 16—Presumption, how displaced—Tenure appertaining to endowment—Government sanction, whether necessary for suit for enhancement of rent.

Enhancement of rent—concld.

Where it is found as a fact that a tenure, though held at a rent which has not been varied for a period of 20 years before suit, came into existence for the first time long after the date of the Permanent Settlement, the presumption provided for in section 16 of Act X of 859 is displaced and the tenure is liable to an enhancement of rent.

The mere fact that the tenure appertains to a public endowment of which the beneficiary is a Thakur, does not make Government sanction necessary for maintaining a suit for alteration of rent. C. BALABHADRA PRISTE v. JAGANNATH MAHAPRABHOO 908

Enquiry—Offence compoundable without sanction of court 993

Equitable estoppel Landlord, whether bound by equities binding on his thekadar—Compensation, assessment of—Assessors, failure to appoint, effect of—Irregularity 476

Equity of redemption. See MORTGAGE.

Estoppel. See EVIDENCE ACT, s. 115.

——— — Assent, doctrine of 757

— ——Mortgage—Auction-purchaser — Notice 427

— — ——. plea of, when available 817

— — Statement made by party or his Pleader Admissibility in evidence 98

Evidence of bad character—Facts necessary to prove 625

— Compromise petition—Reciting release of co-parcener's right in family property, admissibility of, without registration 490

— — of general repute 1003

— ——Government order, proof of 151

— Minor—Alienation of land by guardian for valid debt—Recitals in documents as to its binding nature, whether sufficient—Evidence. 66

— Old alienation—Court, duty of, to regard alienee's evidence indulgently—Recital in deed, whether sufficient proof of legal necessity 376

— Possession of one part, whether possession of another part 86

— Practice—Witness improving on his former statement—Colouring matter of blood on clothes and nail-parings of accused—Murder. 667

——— — Receipt extinguishing mortgage, whether requires registration. 360

——— — Recitals in inam title-deed, if conclusive as to enjoyment—Evidence aliunde, admissibility of, to disprove such recitals 187

——— — Report of Municipal Overseer, admissibility of 670

——— ——— Cess Act (IX of 1880, B. C.), s. 95—Returns, whether admissible in evidence in favour of the person filing them—Words as to address, directory 126

——— Re-union after separation 43

——— — Rules of evidence—General repute, evidence of—Admissibility of evidence, test of—Witness to general reputation—Examination and cross-examination—Practice 153

——— ———, value of—Mere suspicion, whether sufficient evidence—Oral or documentary evidence to prove statements made in departmental inquiry, whether admissible. 307

Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 2, 17, 21, 114—Consideration—Recital of consideration in document, evidentiary value of—Burden of proof, shifting of.

A recital of payment of consideration in a mortgage document is an admission by the mortgagor within the meaning of sections 17 and 21 of the Evidence Act and may be proved against a person claiming under him, though not a party to the document.

Whether a specific piece of evidence is enough for discharging the burden of proof is a question primarily concerned with the weight to be given to that piece of evidence and is not a question of law.

Where each party has adduced evidence tending respectively to prove and disprove a fact in issue, the importance of burden of proof disappears almost entirely.

The mere proof of acknowledgment of receipt of consideration does not necessarily shift the burden of proof, or must not necessarily be taken as insufficient to shift the burden of proof. GADIAN CHETTI v. VEERAPPA CHETTI. M. 28. M. L. J. 92 899

——— ——— ss. 11, 18, 19 and 21—Oral evidence as to statements of deceased executant—Cancelled registered document, admissibility in evidence of—Admissions against one's own interest, when lose their force as such—Unregistered document, whether can be referred to for ascertaining executant's state of mind at or about time of its execution 547

——— ——— s. 13 841

——— ——— ss. 13, 32—Transaction—Admission against interest—Documents containing recitals as to whether property belongs to particular persons—Admissibility in evidence.

The word "transaction" in section 13 of the Evidence Act means a business or dealing which is carried on or transacted between two or more persons.

In a case where certain properties were claimed as the property of a particular family, the following documents were put in evidence:—

(1) Sale-deeds executed by the widows of the family asserting that the properties covered by them belonged to their husbands;

(2) written statements filed by them in suits to which they were parties and in which they had made recitals;

(3) Recitals in a sale-deed between third persons in which, in describing the boundary of the property sold, the suit property was described as that of the particular family.

Held, (Per Ayling,J.).—That the documents mentioned in (1) and (2) were admissible in evidence under section 13 (a) of the Evidence Act, as "transactions;" but the documents mentioned in (3) were not admissible in evidence either under section 13 (a) as a "transaction" or under section 32 as an admission against interest.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J.—That all documents were inadmissible in evidence. M. SARIPALLI VENKATARAYAGOPALA RAJU v. FOTA NARASAYYA, (1914) M. W. N. 779 747

——— ——— s. 16 962

——— ——— s. 17 998

——— ——— ss. 18, 19 547

Evidence Act—contd.

——— ——— s. 21 547, 899

——— ——— s. 24—Murder — Confession to Thugyi on inducement to confess, whether admissible —Questions and answers based on such confession, admissibility of.

The thugyi or headman of a village is a person in authority within the meaning of section 24 of the Evidence Act. Therefore, the confession made by an accused to the thugyi on being sent for by him after he was told that he would not be punished if he had not taken part in the offence, is irrelevant and inadmissible in evidence, as what the thugyi told the accused was an inducement to make a statement.

Other questions and answers in the examination of the accused based on this inadmissible statement are also inadmissible. L. B. NGA KYAHIN T v. EMPEROR, 15 CR. L. J. 681. 129

——— ——— s. 25—Confession made to some person in presence of Police Officers, admissibility of—Admission of offence just after commission, effect of—Presumption 654

——— ——— ss. 25, 33—Confession to Police Officer—Statements made by accused in order to exculpate himself—Test of admissibility—Admission of deposition when witness not found, when allowed—Circumstantial evidence.

Section 25 of the Evidence Act does not say, that all statements made to the Police are inadmissible but it excludes only confessions made to them: there being a distinction between mere admissions and confessions which are statements either directly admitting the guilt of the accused or statements which suggest the inference that he committed the crime with which he is charged. Further, the general rule is subject to that which admits statements leading to discovery whether such statements amount to a confession or not.

Statements put forward by the accused by way of his defence are admissible notwithstanding that they are shown by other evidence to be inconsistent with truth.

A useful test as to the admissibility of statements made to the Police is to ascertain the purpose to which they are put by the prosecution. Such statements are admissible if they are relied on, not because of their truth, but because of their falsity.

Sufficient ground for the admission of the previous deposition of a witness under section 33 of the Evidence Act is not established where the only evidence is the statement of a Police Officer that the witness is a man of another district and cannot be found, but where there is no evidence to show what was done to find the man.

In order to justify the inference of guilt the prosecution must show that the inculpating facts are incompatible with the innocence of the accused and incapable of explanation upon any other reasonable hypothesis than that of his guilt. C. EMPEROR v. KANGAL MALI, 41 601; 15 CR. L. J. 713 161

——— ——— s. 26 723

——— ——— ss. 32 (5), 50—Relationship—"Conduct," meaning of.

In order to make a statement of a witness admissible in evidence under section 32 (5) of the Evidence Act it is not necessary that the special means of knowledge of the witness should be of a particular character: it is for the Court to decide whether the witness had such special means of knowledge or not.

Evidence Act—contd.

Where the question is whether one person is related to another in any degree, the fact that according to the religious usage of the party the names of particular persons are usually recited or omitted during the performance of ceremonies, and the observance of pollution, are instances of conduct within the meaning of section 50 of the Evidence Act and are admissible in evidence. M. RAMAKRISHNA AIYAR v. CHINNA VENGAMMAL 110

——— ——— s. 32 962

——— ——— s. 33 161, 962

——— ——— s. 33—Evidence given in one suit, when treated as evidence in another suit—Practice.

Evidence given in one suit can, by consent of the parties to another suit, be treated as evidence in that suit although the former suit was not between the same parties. M. KRISHNA REDDI v. SUNDARA REDDI, (1914) M. W. N. 931 334

——— ——— ss. 33, 92—Proof of fraudulent dealing with third person's property—Purchaser of equity of redemption—Representative-in-interest.

Section 92 of the Evidence Act does not prevent proof of a fraudulent dealing with a third person's property, or proof of notice that the property purporting to be absolutely conveyed in fact belonged to a third person who was not a party to the conveyance. For the purposes of section 33, Evidence Act, a purchaser of the equity of redemption is a representative-in-interest of the mortgagor. L. B. MA SHWE LA v. MG. KYIN 111

——— ——— s. 35 841

——— ——— s. 49—"Usages of any body of men," whether cover Panchayat's inferences or conclusions—Relevant fact—Evidence as to admission and confession, whether admissible 625

——— ——— s. 50 110

——— ——— s. 54 995

——— ——— s. 58 337

——— ——— s. 63—Translation of grant contained in official letter, whether public record—Secondary evidence—Admission in evidence—Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908), s. 2.

The translation of a grant contained in a letter from one official to another does not come within the provisions of section 63 of the Evidence Act and so cannot be admitted as secondary evidence of the grant. M. AMBALAVANA PANDARA v. KUPPACHI JANAKI 618

——— ——— ss. 68, 69—Illiterate witness—Mark of attesting witness on mortgage-deed—Proof of document—One attesting witness called, effect of.

Section 68 of the Evidence Act requires that at least one attesting witness should be called for the purpose of proving the execution of the document. The witness may or may not be able to prove the document or he may have forgotten all the incidents relating to its execution or may dishonestly deny its execution altogether.

Evidence Act—contd.

In order to prove a document to have been signed by a witness or to have been in his handwriting, it should be shown to him and he should be questioned directly upon the point.

If a man fixes his mark on a mortgage-deed as a witness, he is an attesting witness within the meaning of section 69 of the Evidence Act. A. CHIRANJI LAL v. POORNA, 12 A. L. J. 1114 84

——— ——— ss. 68, 71—Proof of document—Only living attesting witness denying execution—Pardanashin lady, dealings with, how conducted.

Where the only living attesting witness of a document was illiterate and on being examined denied its execution:

Held, that the document could be proved by other evidence.

In case of dealings with the pardanashin ladies, it is very important to see that such ladies understand what they are doing. It is also most important to see whether there was real consideration.

It is not necessary that a lady should have actually signed a bond with her own hand. If she was illiterate she could not sign it. It is sufficient to find that the bond was executed in her name by some one whom she permitted to do so. A. BADRI PRASHAD v. GAMBHIR KUNWAR 500

——— ——— s. 69 84

——— ——— ss. 79, 106, 114—Minor—Plea of minority—Burden of proof.

In the case of a contract if a plea of infancy is set up, it is for the party who sets it up to prove it. M. JOHI BIBI v. VAJIAR KHAN SAHEB 407

——— ——— s. 90—Presumption—Genuineness of document 30 years old—Question of law or fact—Second appeal Zemindar, grant by—Ashtabogam and Sarvamaniam, meanings of.

Where the question is whether the grant made by a zemindar was only of land with the occupancy rights therein or of land revenue merely, the fact that in the inam grant the terms "Ashtabogam" and "Sarvamaniam" are used, merely means that there is no superior holder and that all the rights of the grantor are conveyed without reservation. Such rights as communal rights, are not conveyed by such words and rights of occupancy also can be presumed to have been excluded, if there were tenants already on the land. The grant should be construed as one of land revenue, and not of the land itself.

Sankran Nair, J. The presumption which the Court has to raise under section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act as to the genuineness of a document 30 years old, is one of fact and stands on the same footing as any other piece of evidence and the question being one of fact, the High Court in second appeal will not interfere with a finding given on it by the lower Court.

Tyabji, J. (dissenting.)—Such a presumption is one of law and the High Court can in second appeal interfere and see if the findings of the lower Court are correct. M. PARANKUSA ZATINDRA MAHADESIKASWAMI v. SUBRAMANIA PILLAI 117

——— ——— s. 92 111

——— ——— s. 92—Contracting party whether principal or agent, parol evidence to prove, whether admissible 824

Evidence Act—contd.

——— — s. 92—Evidence, extrinsic, admissibility of—Transaction, real nature of, can be proved by oral evidence—Conduct and acts, subsequent, of parties to transaction—Sale really mortgage.

Extrinsic evidence as to acts and conduct of parties to a transaction is admissible to show the real nature of the transaction (e. g., to show that a sale-deed is really a mortgage-deed), not by what they intended to do, but by what they did or have been doing. O. ABDUL BASIT v. KHODA BAKHSH, 1 O. L. J. 714 717

——— — s. 92—Registered sale-deed Oral agreement of mortgage, whether can be proved—Fraud, if alleged, should be specifically pleaded.

Oral evidence cannot be given to show that the parties to a deed of sale intended the transaction to be one of mortgage and not of sale.

A party relying on fraud ought to allege it specifically in the plaint. P. GHAMAN v. KANHIYA MAL, 15 P. W. R. 1915 426

——— — s. 92, Pro. (2)—Promissory note, suit on—Rate of interest not mentioned—Oral contemporaneous agreement, whether admissible to prove rate of interest—Admission by defendant as to rate of interest, effect of.

Where a promisssory-note is silent about interest, section 92, proviso (2), of the Evidence Act (I of 1872) would bar the admission of any evidence to prove that interest was agreed to by a contemporaneous oral agreement.

But where the defendant admits that he agreed to pay interest at a certain rate, effect may be given to such admission without encroaching upon the rule. C. LUCHMI CHAND JHOWAR v. HEMENDRA PRASAD GHOSH, 18 C. W. N. 1260 935

——— — s. 92 (2)—Promissory note silent as to interest—Contemporaneous oral agreement as to interest, whether provable.

Where a promissory-note is silent as to interest, evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement as to the rate of interest, cannot be allowed under proviso (2) of section 92 of the Evidence Act as it would have the effect of materially adding to the terms of the written contract. C. LACHMI CHAND JHOWAR v. HEMENDRA PRASAD GHOSH, 18 C. W. N. 1260 736

——— — ss. 102, 103 253

——— — s. 112—Legitimacy — Presumption—Non-access—Impotence—Question of paternity one of evidence only.

The presumption created by section 112 of the Evidence Act can only be rebutted by proof of non-access, and to prove non-access, the evidence must be such as to exclude all doubt. If the husband has had access, adultery on the wife's part will not justify a finding of illegitimacy.

Proof of impotence would be equivalent to proof of non-access.

Where the point for decision is one of evidence (e. g. paternity) only, the case would be governed by section 112 and not by the personal law of the parties.

The question of a child's paternity is not one of succession, inheritance, marriage, or caste or any religious institution or usage, within the meaning of section 13 of the Burma Laws Act, 1898. U. P. B. R. NGA TUNE v. MI CHON, U. B. R. (1914) II, 23; 16 CR. L. J. 84 996

Evidence Act—concld.

——— — s. 112—Legitimacy—Son born seven months after marriage—Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), s. 44—Presumption of entries—Burden of proof.

Where a boy was born about seven months after his father and mother were lawfully married and it was not disputed that they had had opportunity of access to each other at a time when he could have been begotten of them:

Held, that the boy was the legitimate son of his parents.

Where mutation has been effected in favour of A as the legitimate son of B, the burden of proving the illegitimacy of A will lie upon the person affirming it. P. MAHBUB ALI v. TAJ KHAN 969

——— — s. 112—Presumption of legitimacy—Alienation by father 276 days before birth of son—Right of son against purchaser for value—Burden of proof.

Section 112 of the Evidence Act raises only a presumption of legitimacy and has no reference to the date of conception.

A purchaser for value is not bound to enquire whether the wife of the seller is enceinte and the right of a son in the womb cannot, therefore, prevail against him.

If the son wishes to rely on the defence that he was conceived before the date of the alienation, it is incumbent upon him to prove this by clear and satisfactory evidence. M. DATLA VENKATASUBBA RAJU GARU v. GATTEM VENKATARAYADU, 27 M. L. J. 580; 16 M. L. T. 508 61

——— — s. 114 204, 899, 962

——— — s. 115 284

——— — s. 115—Estoppel—Suit to recover excess commission, whether to open settled account—Laches—Acquiescence—Commission once charged on whole, whether allowed on part property sold 284

——— s. 115 — Estoppel — Daughters taking under Will, whether estopped from claiming as heirs—Partition, oral, whether valid 455

——— ss. 124, 126—"Communication in official confidence," meaning of—Report by one officer to another, admissibility of—Detrimental to public interest—Sufficient cause—Public officer in charge of record, opinion of, whether final—Presumption—Finding of fact—Second appeal 723

——— s. 126 723

——— s. 157—Statements to Police Officers, admissibility of 138

——— s. 165 995

——— s. 167 50

Execution of decree—Application more than 12 years from date of decree—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 48—Decree directing execution of conveyance—Undisposed of execution petition considered as pending—Fresh execution application—Continuation of old application—Res judicata—Particular construction of decree—Records of Court lost—Court's power to construct lost records.

Barring the decrees granting injunctions section 48, Civil Procedure Code, applies to all other decrees.

Execution of decree contd.

A decree directing the execution of a conveyance might come under the expression "directs the delivery of any property" in section 48, Civil Procedure Code.

An application for execution is to be taken as pending until it is validly disposed of.

Therefore where there was nothing to show that an execution petition praying for the execution of a conveyance was either dismissed, or struck off, or otherwise disposed of:

Held, that the application was still pending and that a subsequent execution petition containing the same prayer was only a petition to continue proceedings under the old petition.

A particular construction of a decree operates as res judicata in subsequent proceedings between the same parties.

A Court has inherent power to construct its lost records. M. VENKATAMMA v. MANIKKAM NAYANI VARU, 16 M. L. T. 393 244 ——— Application to revive execution proceedings—Limitation.

A decree for the demolition of a house was passed on 31st July 1907. On 15th of February 1909, an application was made for execution. On 26th of May 1909 the judgment-debtor put in an application asking for two weeks' time to demolish the house. The decree-holder consented to it. The Court in order to lighten its file by removal of one case from it ordered to strike off the application for execution. On 21st of July 1913 the decree-holder again made an application that steps should be taken to demolish the house:

Held, that the application of the 21st July 1913 was an application to revive the former application and the execution was not barred by time. A. GANGA PRASAD v. JWALA PRASAD 815

——— Decree directing payment of money within prescribed period—Provision for forfeiture of right to recover possession of land if money not paid within prescribed period—Payment made within prescribed period after decree's confirmation in appeal—Right to recover possession of land, whether forfeited.

Where the decree of a Court directs a party, as a condition precedent to his recovering possession of certain property, to pay to another party within a prescribed period a certain sum of money, and also provides that if the former fails to pay as directed within the prescribed period, he shall forfeit his right to recover possession of the property and the party so directed pays the requisite amount within the same period, not from the decree of that Court, but from the decree of the Appellate Court which confirms the decree of the lower Court on that party's appeal, he does not forfeit his right to recover possession of the property. B. SATVAJI BALAJIRAO v. SAKHARLAL ATMA RAM, 16 Bom. L. R. 778 754 ——— Decree in foreign Court—Voluntary submission to jurisdiction—Transfer of execution proceedings to British Court, where judgment-debtor resides—Decree, whether can be executed.

A decree passed against a person who voluntarily submits to the jurisdiction of a foreign Court can, on transfer, be executed in the Court within whose jurisdiction he resides. B. HARCHAND PANAJI v. GULABCHAND KANJI, 16 Bom. L. R. 620; 39 B. 34 265

——— ——— Decree, transfer of, recognition of—Judgment-debtor, right of, to appeal—Adjustment, uncertified, admissibility of, in evidence—Fraud not specifically alleged—Transferor admitting transfer—Consideration, want of, for transfer, if can be pleaded by judgment-debtor 944

——— ——— Decree transferred to Collector—Court which passed decree, powers of—Jurisdiction 266

——— ——— Judgment-debtor declared insolvent—Appeal by decree-holder—Step-in-aid of execution 262

——— ——— Order directing execution—Decree—Appeal—Partner in a firm individually served—Service without notice, effect of—Failure to appear—Right of decree-holder to proceed with execution 866

——— ——— proceedings—Attachment of property by two decree-holders—Sale ordered under first attachment—Private alienation of property after attachment—Deposit of decretal amount of first decree-holder—Assets, rateable distribution of—Second decree-holder, right of 264

——— ——— ——— Decree-holder-auction-purchaser in possession—Auction-sale set aside—Subsequent private sale by judgment-debtor—Application for mesne profits—Appeal 890

——— ——— ——— Judicial proceedings—Jurisdiction of Court 1003

——— ——— ——— Sale-proceeds, distribution of—Mortgagee, whether entitled to share without obtaining decree 273

——— ——— sale Subsequent insolvency of debtor, if affects purchaser's right—Official Assignee, right of, to set aside sale and stop confirmation 421

Ex parte decree, application to set aside 412

——— ——— Decree passed against a deceased defendant, whether ultra vires 830

——— ——— proceeding—Minor defendants—Guardians ad litem not informed—Service, insufficient, of notice—Civil Procedure Code Act (V of 1908), O. XXXII, rr. 3, 4.

A case cannot be heard ex parte against minor defendants where their guardians ad litem were appointed without notices having been sent to the proposed guardians or to the minors as required by Order XXXII, rule 3, Civil Procedure Code, and on this irregularity being brought to light, notices were issued against them but were not sufficiently served. O. LAL HANWANT RAM v. MUHAMMAD ABUL HASAN KHAN, 1 O. L. J. 708 712

Ex-proprietary tenancy—Adverse possession.

A person cannot acquire the "status" of an ex-proprietary tenant by adverse possession, though he can obtain by adverse possession an absolute title to the property. A. BALDEO v. ULFAT RAI, 12 A. L. J. 1153; 37 A. 22 21

Extradition Act (XV of 1903), ss. 7 (2), 15—Execution of warrant by District Magistrate—Revisional power of High Court—Habeas Corpus Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 491.

Where a warrant is issued by a Political Agent under section 7 of the Indian Extradition Act, its execution by a District Magistrate in accordance with the Act is an executive act and the High Court has no power to interfere in the exercise of its revisional powers. There is nothing in this view which in any way conflicts with the power of the High Court to interfere otherwise than by way of revision. Thus, the power of the Court to interfere under section 491 of the Criminal Procedure Code is untouched by this decision.

If a fugitive criminal arrested under section 7 of the Indian Extradition Act considers himself aggrieved, he can invoke the action of the Government under section 5 of the same Act. C. GULLI SAHU v. EMPEROR, 19 C. W. N. 221; 21 C. L. J. 112; 16 CR. L. J. 31 335

——————— s. 15 335

Favourable rate of rent, tenant holding at—Ejectment, notice of, contested—Resumption Chapter applicable.

A tenant holding at a favourable rate of rent cannot be ejected by notice. Proceedings under the Resumption Chapter of the Oudh Rent Act must be taken against him. U. P. B. R. COURT OF WARDS, ESANAGAR ESTATE v. GAURI SHANKAR, 1 O. L. J. 697 624

First report, statement in, made by complainant—Admissibility in evidence — Chaukidars—Police Officers—Evidence Act (I of 1872*), s.* 25—Confession made to some person in presence of Police Officers, admissibility of—Admission of offence just after commission, effect of—Presumption.

Any statement made by a complainant in his first report at the Police station is not admissible as proof of the facts therein mentioned, and cannot be used as evidence against the accused in his trial.

Village chaukidars are Police Officers within the meaning of section 25 of the Evidence Act.

An accused's confession to some person, although made in the presence of a Police Officer, is nevertheless admissible in evidence.

Where it is satisfactorily proved that immediately after the commission of an offence the accused made a statement incriminating himself, the reasonable inference from such a statement, in the absence of any rebutting evidence, is that the statement is a true representation of the actual facts. O. DAL v. EMPEROR, 1 O. L. J. 687; 16 CR. L. J. 62 654

Foreign Court, decree in—Execution 265

Foreign judgment. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 13.

Forfeiture. See LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Forgery. See PENAL CODE, s 465.

Forma pauperis, leave to sue in, application for—Personal right—Death of applicant before leave granted—Legal representative not entitled to continue application—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXII, r. 3.

The right to make an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis is a personal right, and if the applicant

Forma pauperis—concld.

dies before the leave is granted and the suit is pending in Court, his legal representative cannot be allowed to continue the application, although he may present a like application fresh and independent. O. FARZAND ALI KHAN v. AMIR HAIDER, 1 O. L. J. 709 714

Fraud against creditors, transfer of part of debtor's property, if constitutes—Mortgage-debt, discharge of 834

——— — Registration by Sub-Registrar within whose jurisdistion property not situate—Fictitious property not mentioned in deed 52

General Clauses Act (X of 1897), s. 3 (39). 613

Gift. See HINDU LAW.

——— by old lady to her children—Undue influence—Presumption of domination or confidential relationship.

Under English Law there is no presumption of undue influence in the case of a gift to a son, grandson or son-in-law, even if made during the donor's illness and a few days before his death.

The Indian Law in this respect would be the same. Otherwise no gift by an old father to his son would be valid unless the son could show that the confidential relationship, i.e., the intimate relationship of father and son, had ceased. L. B. MAUNG PU v. LUCY MOSS 39

———Registration of gift without delivery of possession, whether valid under Muhammadan Law 466

Grant—Service Inam — Right of resumption — Nakesh service—Grant prior to Permanent Settlement—Distinction between service grant and grant burdened with service.

Where the grant of certain lands as inam is (1) in consideration of past services done, (2) for enjoyment by the grantee from son to grandson, (3) and stipulates for the payment of kattubadi at Rs. 3 per annum, and (4) the service is nakesh, meaning thereby personal: the grant is resumable when the services are no longer required.

Per Sadasiva Iyer, J.—The question whether a grant is resumable or not, has to be decided on consideration of all the circumstances appearing in the evidence, including the nature of the service, the terms of the grant and the question whether the service is attached to it. A grant burdened with service even is liable to resumption, if the grantor by appropriate words reserves to himself the right of resumption.

Where the service for the discharge of which a grant is made is styled "Nakesh" and is purely personal to the grantor, the grant is more or less of the nature of a darmilla grant; and if it was made prior to the Permanent Settlement, it is resumable by the grantor when such service is no longer required.

Per Ayling, J., dissenting)—Such a grant is a grant merely burdened with service, and not in lieu of wages, and is not liable to resumption so long as the grantor is willing to perform the services. In cases of such grant, there is no distinction between services whether public or private. M. KAMARAVUTU MRUTYUNJAYUDU v. RAJA OF PITTAPURAM, (1914) M. W. N. 936 78

Grove-holder, nature of, tenure of—Resumption—Groves not held as muafi at Settlement—Assessment of rent—Certified copy of extract from Settlement Record, mistake in, allegation as to—Deputy Commissioner, duty of—Settlement Records to be referred to 536

Guardian, knowingly setting up false plea—Gross negligence 16

Guardians and Wards Act (VIII of 1890), ss. 8, 16—Application to be appointed guardian—Interference in family affairs—Court, duty of.

A Court should refuse to take proceedings under the Guardians and Wards Act when they involve an unnecessary interference with family arrangements which are quite satisfactory.

As a general rule far less harm is done by leaving people to manage the affairs of their children in their own way than by attempting to do it for them through the agency of a District Court. P. HAYAT KHATUN v. SHARM KHATUN, 93 P. R. 1914 524

——— ——— s. 16 524

——— ——— s. 17—Minor, appointment of guardian for, principle of—Welfare of minor, fundamental principle—Hindu Law,—Discretion of Court in appointing guardian, when interfered by Appellate Court.

Section 17 of the Guardians and Wards Act, which provides for the appointment of a guardian for a minor, does not mean that the welfare of the minor should be subordinated to the requirements of the law to which the minor is subject. It is a well-established principle that the welfare of the child is the paramount consideration in appointing a guardian for him, although regard must be had to the recognized rights of guardianship under the law to which the minor is subject. In other words, in a choice between fitness and propinquity, the former must prevail.

Under the Hindu Law, the nearest paternal relatives have no legal right to guardianship on the death of the parent of the child and in the absence of the father or the mother or the guardian appointed by the father, the selection of a guardian for a Hindu minor is to be made by the Court as it represents the Ruling Power subject, no doubt, to the principle that ordinarily the paternal kindreds are entitled to preference over the maternal kindreds. In other words, the fundamental principle to be considered is, what is for the welfare of the particular minor?

Although a Court of Appeal will not lightly interfere with the discretion of the Court of first instance in the matter of appointment of a guardian, yet where weighty reasons have been made out, the order of the first Court will be set aside.

In the circumstances of the present case the maternal uncle was preferred to the paternal uncle. NERODE BARANI DEBYA v. BHOLANATH SARKAR 300

——— ——— ss. 39, 47, 48 275

——— ——— ss. 52, 53 709

Gujrat Talukdars Act (Bom. VI of 1888), ss. 29B, 33 (2) (cc) 749

Habeas corpus—Execution of warrant by District Magistrate—Revisional power of High Court 335

Habitual gang of thieves. See PENAL CODE, s. 401.

Heirs of tenant, occupation by—Notice of ejectment, delay in issue of, effect of—Landlord's conduct—Acquiescence—Unstamped notice—Statutory period, fresh, commencement of.

Where the heirs of a deceased tenant continued to hold for three years after their right to hold as such had ceased, and the landlord received no rent for that period but took measures for that purpose and eventually issued an unstamped notice of ejectment:

Held, that the landlord must under the above circumstances be taken to have acquiesced in the heir's holding, so as to give them a fresh statutory period, and that thus the unstamped notice was insufficient. U. P. B. R. UDIT NARAIN SINGH v. GUR CHARAN, 1 O. L. J. 717 719

High Court, power of interference—Appeal, second—Concurrent findings of Lower Courts based on no evidence 240

——— ——— ———, power of, to add party in second appeal 25

High Courts Act (24 & 25 Vic., C. 104), s. 15 106

Hindu Law. See CUSTOM; WILL.

——— ——— Adoption—Consent of sapinda—Grounds of refusal personal, whether proper—Adoption with consent of remoter sapindas, when valid.

A sapinda who is called upon to give his consent to an adoption by a widow ought not to be guided by reasons personal to himself, but ought to act with a deliberate consideration of what is for the benefit of the family, especially that part of it which the widow represents.

Therefore, an adoption made with the consent of other sapindas is valid, where the nearest sapinda refuses on the ground of losing his right of inheritance. VENKATARAMA RAJU v. BAPAMMA, 27 M. L. J. 638; (1914) M. W. N. 911 888

——— ——— ——— ———Illatom form of—Custom—Presence of son of adoptive father, whether invalidates—Illatom adoption—Hindu Law—Presumption 54

——— ——— Alienation by father—Son's right to question—Alienation made when he was in mother's womb.

A Hindu son subsequently born alive is competent to contest an alienation made by the father when the son was in his mother's womb. A. DEO NARAYAN SINGH v. GANGA PRASAD, 13 A. L. J. 69 871

——— ——— ——— ———by grandfather—Consent by guardians of minor—Benefit of minor—Alienation, validity of.

If for the benefit of a minor the guardians of the minor consent to an alienation of a portion of his undivided family properties with the object of avoiding a partition of those properties the alienation is binding on the minor. M. ARUNACHALA PILLAI v. SAMPURNA THACHI, 27 M. L. J. 485 208

———by widow, suit by reversioner to set aside—Legal necessity—Burden of proof—Old alienation—Court, duty of, to regard alienee's evidence indulgently—Recital in deed, whether sufficient proof of legal necessity—Sale-deed by widow incorporating conditional sale-deed by husband invalid—Alienee, right of, to fall back upon original deed—Mulgeni lessee—Darkhast grant land, whether appurtenance of leased property.

Hindu Law– contd.

In a suit by a reversioner to set aside an old alienation made by a widow on the ground that there was no legal necessity for the alienation, though the burden of proof as to necessity is not shifted on to the reversioner, yet the Court should approach the evidence as to the necessity adduced in respect of such an alienation by the alienee with a much more indulgent mind than where the alienation attacked took place only a few years before suit.

Recitals in documents do not of themselves afford sufficient proof of legal necessity.

If it is found that a widow was not justified in executing a sale-deed which purported to supersede and incorporate a previous conditional sale-deed executed by her husband, the alienee under the sale-deed and those who claim under him are entitled to fall back upon the rights created under the conditional sale-deed.

Land acquired on Darkhast grant from Government by a Mulgeni lessee is not an appurtenance of the properties held by him under the Mulgeni lease, as he is neither a trustee nor a mortgagee of the owner of the lands and his acquisition under Government grant is not an unfair gain or profit obtained by him in detriment to his lessor's interest or in a fiduciary capacity. M. KANTHU v. DASA UPADHYA 376 ——— Alienation by widow — Necessity— Urgent necessity for lesser amount than realised by sale—Sale, whether valid.

If in the case of a sale by a widow a small portion of the purchase-money was not required for urgent necessity, it does not follow that the sale itself was not due to necessity, unless it could be reasonably presumed or unless it is proved that the sale of lesser property for the exact amount required for urgent necessity was feasible. M. KANNU CHETTY v. AMIRTHAMMAL, 1 L. W. 877 418

——— Consent of next reversioner to alienation given in course of suit, effect of 528

——— of husband's estate —Interest—Damdupat, rule of.

As according to Hindu Law recovery of more than double the sum lent on interest is not allowable, the payment of more than double the principal is not a pious duty. Therefore, in Berar where the rule of damdupat is in force, a Hindu widow is not justified in alienating her husband's property for the payment of a sum over and above double the principal. N RAMCHANDRA v. Musammat RADHA, 10 N. L. R. 91 598

——— Contest by remote reversioner – Cause of action—Limitation 737

——— Co-parcener—Assignment, right of—Gift of family property by father to son—Consideration - Natural love – Relinquishment by co-parcener, right of.

It is only a transfer to a stranger of natural rights which carry with them obligations to third parties that could not be assigned under the law, but every man is perfectly entitled to waive or release any rights in property belonging to himself.

Hindu Law– contd.

Therefore a gift-deed, whereby a father relinquishes all his rights in the family property in favour of his only son, is valid and binding as it is supported by the consideration of natural love and affection.

A co-parcener can not only relinquish his share in favour of all the remaining co-parceners as a body, but he can do it in favour of even one of the several remaining co-parceners. M. THANGAVELU PILLAI v. PILLAI DORAISAMI, 27 M. L. J. 272; 16 M. L. T. 393 211

——— Son—Co-parcener by birth—Will by father without son's consent invalid—Gift by widow.

Directly a son is born to a Hindu in possession of an ancestral house, he becomes a co-parcener in the house, and the father cannot make a Will declaring who is to succeed to the property after the son's death without the consent of the latter.

A Hindu widow has merely a life-interest in the property left by her husband and, therefore, cannot make a valid gift of it without the consent of her reversioners. P. DIWAN CHAND v. JIWAN MAL 910

——— Flag of Pragwals, whether can be charged for payment of annuity——Moveable property—Mortgage—Auction purchaser—Notice—Estoppel.

The flag used by the Pragwals at the confluence of the Ganges and Jumna at Allahabad is a valuable property and may be charged with the payment of an annuity and may be sold subject to that charge even in execution of a decree for arrears of the annuity.

A person who brings property to sale in execution of a decree without disclosing the existence of a mortgage which he holds on the property, cannot afterwards set up the mortgage against the purchaser, at all events where the purchaser had no notice of the mortgage. A. GANESH v. BABU RAM, 13 A. L. J. 9; 37 A. 72 427

——— Guardian—Discretion of Court in appointing guardian, when interfered by Appellate Court.

Under the Hindu Law, the nearest paternal relatives have no legal right to guardianship on the death of the parent of the child and in the absence of the father or the mother or the guardian appointed by the father, the selection of a guardian for a Hindu minor is to be made by the Court as it represents the Ruling Power subject, no doubt, to the principle that ordinarily the paternal kindreds are entitled to preference over the maternal kindreds. In other words, the fundamental principle to be considered is, what is for the welfare of the particular minor. C. NIRODE BARANI DEBYA v. BHOLANATH SARKAR 300

——— Right of guardianship—Paternal aunt, whether natural guardian—Alienation by de facto guardian - Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 44.

Under the Hindu Law no body else than the father and mother of a minor (with probable exceptions in favour of the elder brother and the direct male and female ancestors of the minor) is entitled as a matter of natural right to be and to act as guardian of a minor's person and properties.

Therefore, under the Hindu Law a paternal aunt is not a natural guardian of a minor.

Hindu Law—contd.

An alienation by a de facto guardian for no necessity need not be set aside.

Article 44 of the Limitation Act does not apply to alienations by unauthorised guardians. M. THAYAMMAL v. KUPPANNA KOUNDAN, 27 M. L. J. 285 179

—— ——Joint family—Bequest of self-acquired property by father to his sons—Presumption—Property taken by sons, whether joint property—Bequest invalid—Intestacy—Management of property by eldest member who was also executor in accordance with Will—Debts contracted for family purpose by eldest member, how far binding on family—Renewal of debt—Apportionment of security—Apportionment invalid—Security not extinguished—Power of Receiver in partition suit to acknowledge debt—Acknowledgment, effect of—Joint family trade—Promissory note executed on behalf of firm by one member, if other members can be sued.

One P V died in 1887 leaving a Will, in and by which he directed that the residue of his property after payment of certain legacies should be divided at his death among his sons and grandsons, who were living with him as members of one family, into five equal shares as soon as his grandsons attained majority, that his eldest son shall be the executor to his Will and conduct the shop and business which he was carrying on in his name, and generally administer his estate. In pursuance of the directions of the Will the 1st defendant continued to manage the estate and incurred debts and executed mortgages for family and business purposes and no objection was taken as to his management by the other members of the family. In 1905 a suit was filed for a partition of the estate of P V by some of the members of the family and for an account of the properties left by him, on the ground that the estate became divisible under his Will, and during the pendency of the suit Receivers were appointed to pay interest and arrears of interest accrued due and payable on mortgages executed by the 1st defendant of the immoveable properties belonging to the estate. In the said suit it was decided that on a proper construction of the Will the bequest of the Will was invalid and that there was an intestacy in regard thereto. The plaintiff in whose favour promissory-notes were executed and title-deeds were deposited as collateral security therefor, sued to recover the moneys due to him from the 1st defendant and the other members of the family. The defendants, among other pleas, pleaded that the equitable mortgage was not binding on them and that the 1st defendant as executor had no power to make any such alienation and that the payment made by the Receivers towards the said debt did not save limitation:

Held, that the residue of the properties must be deemed to have been taken by the members as joint family property and that the debts contracted and the mortgages made by the 1st defendant were in the capacity of a managing member and, therefore, binding on the family.

Where a family is joint and continues joint after the death of a testator, his properties, which they get by his Will, would be joint properties, unless there is something in the Will which raises a presumption to the contrary.

Where a person borrowed money and executed promissory-notes and deposited title-deeds of immoveable property creating a valid equitable mortgage thereon and was taking subsequent advances on the strength of the same security, and some time after looked into the accounts, executed two promissory-notes for the total sum due and also two documents with a view to apportion the title-deeds of the immoveable property, which were already deposited, to each of the said promissory-notes and it was found that the said documents were invalid:

Held that the equitable mortgage originally created was not extinguished and that the mortgagee was entitled to enforce it.

The renewal of a debt does not ipso facto put an end to the security which a person has, unless such a renewal is accompanied by a fresh contract giving fresh security, and an attempt made to apportion the security which was invalid would not deprive the person of the security which he already has.

Where a joint family trades under a firm name, the members thereof can be sued on a note properly executed by one member in the firm's name.

A payment by a Receiver, who is appointed in a suit for partition or administration and who is authorised by the order of appointment to pay interest on debts, is sufficient to keep the debts alive against all the parties who are bound by the debts. M. VENKATARAMIAH PANTULU v. SUBRAMANIAM PILLAI, 16 M. L. T. 489 393

—— ——Joint family—Co-parcener, exclusion of—Purchaser from co-parcener out of possession—Onus—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Arts. 136, 144.

Where a member of a joint Hindu family was refused partition of his share and remained out of possession and received no profits for over 12 years and was denied even maintenance:

Held, that he not merely did not participate in, but was excluded from, the joint family property.

Where a person purchases a property from a member of a joint Hindu family who was out of possession, the onus lies on him to show that his vendor was excluded within 12 years of the suit. M. SINNASAMI GOUNDEN v. SULBANA GOUNDEN, (1915) M. W. N. 29 904

—— ——Desai inam—Devolution of inam on managing member—Right of other members to share Inam—Grant of land and not merely of land-revenue—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts 87

—— ——Liability of sons for debts of deceased father—Right of creditor to sue any or all sons—Decree, form of.

A creditor is not restricted to a suit against all the sons for the whole of the debt due by their deceased father, or if he sues one only, to a suit for a part of the debt proportionate to his share in the joint family property. In such a suit a decree should be for the whole amount payable out of the joint family property or the assets of the father in the hands of the son. M. SALEM TOWN BANK, LTD. v. RAMASWAMY AIYAR, 27 M. L. J. 236 302

Hindu Law—contd.

——— ——— Joint family—Managing member living separately—Mortgage in his sole name—Loan advanced out of family funds—Suit on mortgage—Non-joinder of other members, whether bars suit—Assignment—consideration.

Where a person purporting to act for his sole benefit uses funds in which his brothers have a share for obtaining a bond, the fact that he may be accountable to his brothers affords no ground for dismissing the suit on the mortgage for non-joinder. The fact that there are disputes between the plaintiff and those interested in the profit of the transaction, would be no ground for holding that he has lost the sole right of suit.

Where there has been an assignment of mortgage, the mere non-payment of consideration to the assignor will not afford the mortgagor a good defence. M. ADAIKULAM CHETTI v. SUBBAN CHETTI, 16 M. L. T. 279; (1914) M. W. N. 684; 27 M. L. J. 621 35

——— ——— ——— ———Nucleus of ancestral property - Separate acquisition by individual members—Presumption—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 149 Appeal, delay in filing—Court-fee insufficient—Discretion.

A joint Hindu family pre-supposes the possession of common property. Under the Hindu Law mere living together of the members of the family will not make them joint owners of properties acquired by each individual member. There must have been a nucleus of ancestral property which was utilized for the purpose of making the subsequent acquisition, or the members must have thrown their joint earnings into hotchpot with the intention of giving up their individual rights in them.

Under section 149, Civil Procedure Code, a Court has a discretion in all cases to allow the payment of the Court-fee at any time. M. AKKARAJU NARAYANA RAO v. AKKARAJU SESHAMMA, 27 M. L. J. 677 33

——— ——— ——— ———Partition, evidence of—History of family—Money transactions.

The mere fact that no formal partition ever took place between the members of a Hindu family is not in itself conclusive against separation having occurred; the matter has to be decided upon an examination of the history of the family, of its mutual dealings, of its dealings with outsiders and upon admissions, if any, made by the members.

Money transactions between the members of a Hindu family, the one lending and the other borrowing and showing corresponding debts and credits in their books, go very far to prove disruption. P. MUNSHI RAM v. GAINDA MAL, 45 P. W. R. 1915 390

——— ——— ——— ———Partition — Presumption—Certain properties left joint, whether co-parcenary right retained in those properties.

When there is a partition in a joint Hindu family, the presumption is that it is a complete partition in status and of all the properties. If certain properties were left undivided, there is no presumption that the co-parcenary right is retained in those properties. M. SUNDARAMMA v. KAMAKOTIAH 514

Hindu Law—contd.

——— ——— ——— ———Separation of one member—Jointness of remaining members—Presumption—Burden of proof.

Once it is admitted that one of the members of a joint Hindu family separated, the legal presumption is that there is a complete separation between all the members of the family, and the person who asserts that any members of the family remained joint after the separation, must prove his allegation. O. SURAJPAL SINGH v. GAJRAJ SINGH, 1 O. L. J. 698 600

———Partition—One member separating from others—Presumption — Evidence — Re-union, separation.

Where one co-parcener separates from the rest, there is no presumption that the latter remain united.

Where subsequent to the separation of one member, the other members take separate meals, acquire property in their own names, separately pay kists, etc., all these things point to a separation in interest between the members of the family and outweigh the effect of any recital of non-division made in stray documents. M. GADIAN CHETTIAR v. GADIAN CHETTIAR, 1 L. W. 799 43

——— ——— Presumption — Pattidari body, persons related through males to member of, status of—Ejectment, notice of, contested—Under-proprietary rights claimed Tenant to make out prima facie case only Settlement Court deciding status of person applies to all members of his family.

Hindu Law allows of a strong presumption that persons related through males to a member of a pattidari body are also themselves pattidars.

A tenant contesting a notice of ejectment on the ground that he has got under-proprietary rights in the holding, has simply to make out a prima facie case before the Revenue Court.

The judgment of the Settlement Court deciding the status of a person applies to anyone belonging to that person's family. U. P. B. R. RAGHUNATH KUAR v. COURT OF WARDS, 1 O. L. J. 587 683

——— ——— Sale by managing member - Deed unregistered—Adverse possession against members of joint family, commencement of.

Where there is no registered sale-deed to evidence a sale by the managing member of a joint Hindu family, limitation as against the members of the family commences from the date on which the purchaser takes possession of the property sold to him. M NACHIYAPPA CHETTY v. RAMASAMI CHETTY 383

———Stridhanam — Saudayika — Property given to daughter by father before marriage—Control of husband over such property.

A husband has no right of control over the Saudayika property of gifts given to his wife by her affectionate kindred before or after her marriage M. MUTHUKARUPPA v. SELLATHAMMAL; 16 M. L. T 587; 2 L. W. 38; (1915)M. W. N. 48 785 ———Succession—Mitakshara—Sanyasi—Bairagis, whether can be classed as Sanyasis.

The declared heir of a Sanyasi, under the Mitakshara School of Hindu Law, is a virtuous pupil.

It is doubtful whether the Bairagis can be classed as Sanyasis, because the order of Bairagis is not confined to the members of the twice-born castes. B. RAMDAS GOPALDAS v. BALDEVDAS KAUSHALYADAS, 16 BOM. L. R. 757 607

Hindu Law—contd.

——— ———Succession — Sonless widowed daughter, right of—Possession adverse to deceased agnate—Limitation.

According to Hindu Law a sonless widowed daughter is not an heiress of her father.

Where, therefore, a sonless widowed daughter remained in possession of her deceased father's property for over 30 years and it was not shown that she had re-married:

Held, that she was in possession of the properties adversely to the agnates of her deceased father and that their suit was barred by limitation C MUKUNDA LAL CHUCKERBUTTY v. MANMOHINI DEBI, 19 C. W. N. 472 903

——— ———Sudras — Inheritance by illegitimate children.

Under the Hindu Law the illegitimate children of the Sudra caste are heirs L. B. VASA NARAYANASWAMY v. ANANTHAYE 273

———Widow, gift by—Consent of reversioner, effect of—Alienation—Surrender—Re-grant—Evidence—Presumption—Estoppel—Partial alienation—Inheritance Full blood and half blood, preference between.

A man who takes a deed is not ordinarily bound by statements contained in it, but where it is open to a plaintiff, in his character of next reversioner of a last male owner, to avoid or recognize a gift made by a widow, his conduct in taking a mortgage of the property which was the subject of gift from the representatives of the donee, is a representation to persons afterwards dealing with the property, whether as transferees of his mortgage or purchasers, that he is satisfied as to the transaction and does not propose to question it as next reversioner, and he is estopped from questioning the alienation of that property by the widow.

The effect of the consent of the next reversioner to an alienation made by a widow is conclusive.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J.—Sapindas of the full blood should be preferred to those of the half blood. A person claiming both through a male and a female is to be preferred to one who claims through the male only.

Therefore, where of the three claimants to the estate of a propositus, who are related in the same degree to him as being the great-grandsons of the grand father, the two are sapindas of the full blood while the third is that of a half blood, those of the full blood have preference over that of the half blood.

Unless apt language has been employed suggesting a surrender and a re-grant. Courts should be slow to spell them out from stray recitals in documents.

A surrender by a widow of her estate to be valid must be of the whole of the property.

In case of an alienation by a widow with the consent of the reversioners, Courts are bound to presume the validity of an alienation when the next reversioner consents to it, until it is rebutted by clear and cogent evidence.

But such a presumption does not arise when a reversioner accepts a deed of conveyance in his own favour.

Per Kumaraswami Sastri, J.—The consent of a reversioner to a widow's alienation is only evidence of the necessity or propriety. An alienation would not, as against reversioners other than those that consent, confer an indefeasible title to the alienee apart from any question of necessity or propriety, unless such an alienation can be supported on the doctrine of surrender or estoppel.

Hindu Law—contd.

A mere assent of one who would be the heir if a widow died at that moment, would not entitle the widow to make alienations at her pleasure or squander the estate.

The doctrine of validation by assent is founded on the doctrine that a person may well be presumed not to act against his interest.

Where, therefore, a person who would be entitled to avoid a transaction unless certain conditions are satisfied, assents to it to his prejudice, the safe inference to draw is that the conditions existed.

In a case of surrender of partial alienation the consent must be bona fide and not a devise for the purpose of enlarging the widow's estate.

The assent of the reversioner has a double aspect, not merely raising a presumption, but also raising an estoppel, against the person assenting even though he might not have received any consideration or benefit.

Where an alienation is sought to be supported on the ground of consent, there is no distinction between gift and other transfers.

The widow and the next reversioner do not represent the entire inheritance and cannot deal with it as effectively as if the inheritance devolved on the next male heir.

It is not necessary that the assent or ratification on the part of the next reversioner should be before or at the date of alienation It is enough if he ratifies the transaction. M. NACHIAPPA GOUNDEN v. RANGASAMI GOUNDEN, 28 M. L. J. 1; (1915) M. W. N. 53; 2 L. W. 69; 7 M. L. T. 87 757

——— —Widow. property acquired by, with her own money—Will, inclusion in, of property in husband's estate Intention 14

——— ———, sale by—Bona fide transaction—Reversioners, right of.

A bona fide sale by a Hindu widow of her husband's estate, when a greater portion of the consideration is for legal necessity and the price paid is not unreasonably low, is binding on the reversioners and the purchaser for value is entitled to retain the property. M. THALAGARA RAMANNE v. KALAGARE GANGAYYA, 27 M. L. J. 132 178

———Will—Daughters taking estate of father under Will from mother—Oral partition—Survivorship, right of, whether extinguished—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 115—Estoppel Daughters taking under Will, whether estopped from claiming as heirs—Partition, oral, whether valid.

Daughters taking the estate of their deceased father, according to a Will executed by their mother, are not estopped from claiming subsequently as heirs to their father on the ground that the Will executed by their mother in respect of such properties is invalid.

But when they divide the properties equally among themselves under an oral partition, they must be deemed to have given up their rights to succeed by the right of survivorship to the estate of a sister who may die subsequently.

Hindu Law—contd.

A partition of immoveable property of whatever value can be effected by oral arrangement and need not be in writing and registered, as it is not an 'exchange,' 'sale,' 'mortgage,' or 'lease.'

Therefore the mere fact that the rights mutually relinquished under an oral partition are to continue for periods of greater or less duration, cannot have much bearing on the question whether written instruments are required to effect valid partitions. M. ALAMELU AMMAL v BALU AMMAL, 16 M. L. T. 592; (1915) M. W. M. 26 455

——— Will—Gift—Devisees or donees, some members of joint Hindu family—Joint or separate—Interest of donees or devisees—Presumption.

Where the devisees or donees are only some of the members of a joint Hindu family, and there is a clear intention to exclude the remaining members of the family and to confer on the devisees or donees interests to be held separate from any property which the joint family may happen to possess, there is no ground for assuming that the devisees or donees were intended to hold the property as co-parceners in the sense of the Hindu Law, though it may well be otherwise when the devisees or donees are all the members or heads of a joint family. A. PARBHU DYAL v. HARCHARAN 689

———Husband and wife—Joint Will—Devise of ancestral properties of husband and separate property of wife—Subsequent adoption by husband—Validity of Will—Construction of deed—Will or settlement—Revocability—Will for consideration.

Where a document styles itself a Will in more places than one and is not written on a stamp paper and where according to the provisions of the document the beneficiaries are to take only after the death of its executants, who do not use any expression therein restricting their rights in the properties dealt with thereunder to mere life-interests:

Held, that the document is a Will and not a settlement.

A Will speaks only from the date of death of the testator.

A Hindu husband and wife executed a joint Will whereby it was provided that the husband of their junior daughter, who was then living with them and managing their affairs, should continue to do so along with his wife, and that after the death of the executants of the Will, their younger daughter or, if she should have a son, that son should inherit their properties, which consisted of the ancestral property of the testator and the absolute property of the testatrix. The son-in-law acted up to the terms of the said Will by residing with the executants thereof and managing their affairs until their death. Subsequent to the execution of the Will, the testator adopted a boy who survived him and died unmarried. In a suit by the reversioner of the adopted boy after the death of the adoptive mother to recover the property from the junior daughter and her husband:

Held, that the above provision in the Will did not amount to a contract to bequeath the property to the junior daughter or her son, that the continued residence of the son-in-law with the father-in-law and the performance by the former of the acts required of him as per terms of the Will did not amount to a consideration for a contract to leave the property by Will and make the Will executed by the testator irrevocable and that so far as the ancestral property of the testator was concerned, it passed to the heirs of the adopted boy but that as regards the separate property of the testatrix, the Will was perfectly valid. M. AIYASAMI UDAYAN v. APPASAMI UDAYAN, 1 L. W. 983; (1914) M. W. N. 889 249

——— Worship, right of, in temple - Place of worship—Sudra, right of, to enter—Burden of proof.

Per Sadasiva Aiyar, J.—Temples are intended for the worship of people belonging to all the four castes professing the Hindu religion without exception. It lies, therefore, upon a person who wishes to restrict a Sudra or one who has a higher caste status than Sudra from proceeding beyond the Dwajasthamba into the next hall, to establish by proof of a recognised usage of that particular temple that the individuals belonging to that community or class are not entitled to go beyond the Dwajasthamba.

Per Tyabji, J.—Whether a particular class of people are entitled to enter into a temple or not, depends upon the terms of the dedication. In the absence of any written trust-deed dedication is a reflex of the general religious notions prevailing amongst members of the community for whose benefit the temple is dedicated. M. GOPALA MOOPPANAR v. SUBRAMANIA IYER, 27 M. L. J. 253; 1 L. W. 675; (1914) M. W. N. 822 7

Hindu Wills Act (XXI of 1870), s. 2 980

——— s. 2—Hindu dying intestate - Letters of Administration to estate of deceased taken out by Administrator-General—Son of deceased minor on that date—Sale of one item of property by son on attaining majority—Subsequent sale by Administrator-General of same item of property, validity of 792

Hundi—Payment to endorsee—Railway receipt—Security — Forgery — Equity to recover - Endorsee liability of, to refund—Notice—Lost or stolen hundi, genuineness of—Holder, liability of—Marwari custom.

Where the plaintiff paid to the defendant the amount of a hundi, not as to a Shah, bust as to an endorsee for collection of a hundi on the security of a Railway receipt, he has no equity to recover back the amount from the defendant if the security turns out to be a forgery.

In such a case the defendant is liable to refund the money or to trace the hundi to its source, provided notice is given within a reasonable time of the discovery of the forgery, that is, provided the plaintiff loses no time in making this communication and claiming the refund.

Obiter dicta.—In the case of a lost or stolen hundi the hundi is ex hypothesi genuine; and, therefore, the liability of a Shah who is paid does not rest on a guarantee of genuineness.

Hundi—concld.

The liability of a holder who endorses a bill of exchange and passes it on under English Law is only that of a surety for the drawer and the acceptor, but his position does not involve any liability to the acceptor.

The rule of Marwari custom and the idea underlying therein discussed. B. SETHNA v. JWALAPRASAD GAYAPRASAD, 16 BOM. L. R. 972 896

Hyderabad Assigned Districts Courts Law of 1889, ss. 7 (2) (b), 9 (1) (a)—Assistant Commissioner invested with powers of Deputy Commissioner for trying original suits only, whether can appoint a guardian—Guardians and Wards Act (VIII of 1890), ss. 52, 53—Court of Justice—Ultra vires—Majority Act (IX of 1875), s. 3.

An Assistant Commissioner invested with the powers of the Court of a Deputy Commissioner for the trial of original suits exceeding five thousand rupees in value, without limit as regards the value, is invested only with some of the powers of a Deputy Commissioner, viz, the power to try original suits, and is not the District Court for any other purpose. Therefore, if acting as the District Court, under the Guardians and Wards Act he appoints a guardian, his order is ultra vires and does not require to be set aside

Although the words "Court of Justice" in the Indian Majority Act are not qualified in express terms by the words "competent in this behalf", on general principles of law the act of a Court without jurisdiction is a nullity. N. BAPU v. BHI AJI, 10 N. L. R. 161 709

Improvement. See LANDLORD AND TENANT: TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, s. 51.

——— ——— ——— by mortgagee—Construction of well—Compensation 712

——— ——— Mortgagor and mortgagee—Mortgage of kacha house—Pacca double-storied house built on kacha house falling down—Mortgagor, liability of 521

Inam. See GRANT.

——— title-deed, scope of—Recitals in inam title-deed, if conclusive as to enjoyment—Evidence aliunde, admissibility of, to disprove such recitals 187

Income Tax Act (II of 1886), ss. 14, 15, 39—Liability of executor as such—Jurisdiction to determine a person to be chargeable—Suit to set aside assessment—Payment under coercion.

In order to succeed in a suit for a declaration that the Collector in realising certain sums from the plaintiff as income-tax acted without jurisdiction, and for a decree for the amount realised, it is incumbent on the plaintiff to show that the payment was made by him under coercion.

There is no personal exemption in the Income Tax Act of which an executor as such can take advantage.

Income accruing to an executor under the Will of a testator is income liable to be taxed within the meaning of the Income Tax Act, and the Collector acts within the limits of his jurisdiction in determining such person to be chargeable.

Income Tax Act—concld.

A suit for a declaration that the plaintiff as executor to the estate of a deceased is not liable to pay income-tax in respect of any income of the said estate is barred by section 39 of the Act. C. FORBES A. H. v. SECRETARY OF STATE, 19 C. W. N. 131; 42 C. 151 893

——— ——— ss. 15, 39 893

Infringement of copyright—Law reports Judgments—Extracts and facts collected by reporter 30

Inherent power. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, s. 151.

Injunction, interlocutary, whether dissolved when perpetual injunction issued 296

———Religious office, transfer of—Land attached to office transferred, whether right to office also transferred—Injunction, whether allowable.

A religious office cannot be transferred by purchase and, therefore, a purchaser of the land attached to the office as emoluments, acquires no right to the office and is not entitled to an injunction to protect his possession of it. M. KARAGA v. DEVAPPA 442

Inquiry in progress—Detaining accused in jail—Illegality—General repute, evidence of 1003

Intention—Murder—Hanging up unconscious body believing it to be dead—Death due to hanging—Intention—Offence—Grievous hurt 157

Interest—Agreement that mortgaged property shall be deemed sold if interest not paid on certain date—Failure of payment—Suit for specific performance—Interest after specified date, whether allowable to mortgagee 877

——— ——— Damages for breach of contract, whether interest legal from date of breach.

The award of interest on the amount of damages allowed for a breach of contract from the date of the breach is illegal. M KAVUTU PURNANANDAM v. LAKSHMINARASIMHA CHARYULU 429

——— ———Damdupat, rule of 598

——— ———Mortgage-debt—Compound interest payable until default—No provision after that date 124

——— ———, penal rate of—Mortgage suits—Contract rate of interest—Court rate of interest, meaning of—Interest, rate of, from date fixed for payment till date of realisation—Discretion of Court—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 34—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 104.

The rate of simple interest at 7½ per cent. per annum is a moderate one, in view of the general rate prevailing in this part of the country, and cannot be said to be oppressive and unconscionable.

In mortgage suits a Court may, in the absence of any rules framed by the High Court in this respect under the provisions of section 104 of the Transfer of Property Act, award interest at the contract rate even after the date fixed for payment till the date of realisation, provided that the rate is reasonable. The Court has, under section 34, Civil Procedure Code, full discretion to do so. O. ALLAHABAD BANK v. SURAJ KUAR, 1 O. L. J. 544 177

Interpleader suit as to who is entitled to water-cess, whether suit for ascertainment of rent.

An interpleader suit by tenant against landlord and Government merely to determine which party is entitled to collect water-cess from the tenants, is not a suit for ascertainment of rent within the meaning of Article 8, Part I, of the Estates Land Act. M. DORAISAMI REDDI v. VENKATACHALLAM PILLAI, 27 M. L. J. 734 267

Interpretation of Statutes—Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), ss. 11, 12—Legislative enactment, retrospective effect of—Assignment of land revenue Grant for political services—'Pension,' meaning of.

A legislative enactment is prospective and not retrospective in its operation, except (i) when the Act only affects the procedure of the Court, and (ii) when the intention of the Legislature is clearly to give it a retrospective effect.

Therefore, the Pensions Act has not a retrospective operation and no alienations made before the Act came into force are invalid under section 12 of the Act.

A mere assignment of land revenue as such does not come within the protection given by sections 11 and 12 unless it fulfils other requirements of those sections.

An assignment of land revenue by Government may or may not be a pension, within the meaning of sections 11 and 12; therefore the answer to this question must depend on the facts of each case.

Ordinarily speaking, "pension" involves the idea of a fixed periodical allowance or stipend, and if it is granted on political considerations or for past services or as a compassionate allowance, it cannot be assigned.

Therefore, a grant of a fixed sum clearly made for political services is a political pension and comes within the protection afforded by section 12. P. KARAR HASSAN v. MUSTAFA HASSAN, 86 P. R. 1914 743

Intestacy—Management of property by eldest member who was also executor in accordance with Will—Debts contracted for family purpose by eldest member, how far binding on family—Renewal of debt 353

Irregularity not affecting merits of case—Improper admission of additional evidence 50

——— ——— in proceedings, effect of 631

Issues involving mixed questions of law and fact decided without evidence—Decision, whether legal—Trial piecemeal—Practice 954

Izaradar—Mortgage by occupancy-tenant—Expiry of izaradar's term—Subsequent mortgage in favour of third party—Priority 718

Joint family. See HINDU LAW.

Joint trial. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 239.

Judicial decision, interpretation of 722

Jurisdiction. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 179.

———————Alienee of part of melvaram interest, whether landholder—Tenants under such alienee, whether ryots—Ejectment, suit for 510

Jurisdiction—contd.

——— ——— ———Amendment of decree 946

——— ——— ——— of British Indian Courts—Right to trusteeship—Temple in French territory—Parties French subjects 367

———————Burden of proof - Agraharam grant — Grantee owner of kudivaram — Presumption.

It is for the party who wants to oust the jurisdiction of Civil Courts to prove the existence of facts which oust jurisdiction.

No presumption arises that the person to whom the agraharam had been granted was not the owner of the kudivaram at the time of the grant. M. RAMALA VENKATASWAMI v. KANUMALLA NARASIMHAYYA, 16 M. L. T. 596 357

——— ——— —— Cause of action arising in part 620

——— ——— ——— Dam keeping water from certain lands - Party affected, whether entitled to sue 18

——— - ——— — Decree of High Court - Time fixed for performance of act—Extension of time, if can be granted 63

— ——— ——— Execution—Decree transferred Collector—Court which passed decree, powers of it 266

——— — ——— Execution of decree, proceedings no 1003

— ——— ——— Ex parte decree, application to set aside - Appeal subsequently preferred—Jurisdiction to deal with application 412

——— — Foreign judgment—Decree of Court of Cochin State—Execution in British India—Executing Court, power of, to impeach validity of decree—Jurisdiction—Suit in Cochin State—Temporary injunction pendente lite—Appearance of defendant—Jurisdiction objected to—Written statement also filed Submission, whether voluntary or under duress—Foreign Courts and Courts of Native States, judgments of—Suit in British India on such judgments, maintainability of 257

———————, how determined—Cause of action, whether affected by subsequent events - Subordinate Courts, right of.

Plaintiff's remedy in a suit should ordinarily be restricted to the cause of action with which he comes into Court. The events that transpire since will not enable him to add to his reliefs nor will they cut down his rights.

Jurisdiction lies in the forum which is competent to grant the appropriate relief at the time of the institution of the suit.

A Subordinate Court has no right to question the order of an Appellate Court when the parties are willing to abide by it. M. NARAYANASAWMY NAIDU GARU v. KAMURI RAMAYYA, 16 M. L. T. 244; (1914) M. W. N. 713; (1914) M. W. N. 870 475

———————Hundis sent for encashment to Bombay from Dharapuram in Erode—Receipt of hundi and misappropriation of proceeds in Bombay—Petitiener resident of Bombay—Jurisdiction of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Erode, to try offence—Criminal breach of trust, offence of, when complete 136

Jurisdiction—contd.

——— ——— ——Landlord and tenant—Cost of keeping premises clean, suit to recover 77

——— ———Maintenance—Recovery of arrears—Jurisdiction 149

——— ———Order obtained by suppression or misrepresentation of facts—Appointment of guardian after minor had attained majority—Power of Court to recall order—Appeal—Guardians and Wards Act (VIII of 1890), ss. 39, 47, 48 275

——— ———Partnership business — Accounts, rendition of, suit for—Cause of action, meaning of—Proper Court—Place of suing—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 20.

The term "cause of action" comprises every fact which is material to be proved to entitle the plaintiff to succeed and includes an assertion of the right infringed, and of the manner in which the infringement is made.

The carrying on of a partnership business being, as a material part of the cause of action for a suit for rendition of the partnership accounts, sufficient to give the plaintiff a right to sue at the place where the business is carried on, the mere fact that the consolidated accounts of the business are kept at another place would not by itself, in view of the provisions of section 20, Civil Procedure Code, oust the Court at the former place of the jurisdiction.

A suit for the adjustment of partnership accounts can conveniently lie at any of the places where the partnership business is substantially carried on although the contract of partnership took place somewhere else, for the place where an obligation is to be performed is its main seat and place of jurisdiction. O. PREM NARAIN v. RAM LAL, 1 O. L. J. 561 225

——— ——— ——— to decide questions other than pauperism in pauperism enquiry—Plea of limitation, Court's power to decide 90

——— ———Revision—Rejection of amendment application—No irregularity—High Court, power of, to interfere 808

——— ———Small Cause Court suit—Defendant pleading proprietary title, whether nature of suit altered.

Whether or not a suit is of the nature triable by a Court of Small Causes depends upon the frame of the suit itself, and not upon the defence that the defendant may set up.

Therefore, a suit for the recovery of Rs. 15 being the value of certain trees cut down by the defendant, although filed in the Munsif's Court, is of the nature cognizable by a Small Cause Court and its nature is not altered even if a question of proprietary title is raised by the defendant. A. LALA RAM v. MAN SINGH, 12 A. L. J. 1032 128

———Small Cause Court—Suit to recover amount paid by purchaser for incumbrance on property represented free from incumbrance—Compensation—Contribution.

A suit to recover an amount which the plaintiff had to pay in respect of a property purchased by him from the defendant in consequence of the latter having falsely represented the property to be free from the incumbrance which the plaintiffs had to discharge, is a suit for compensation and not one for contribution and is, therefore, cognizable in a

Jurisdiction—contd.

Court of Small Causes. A. SARJU PANDEY v. MULLOO CHAUDHRY, 12 A. L. J. 1279 909

——— ——— ——— Suit based on contract decreed by Civil Court having jurisdiction over place of formation of contract—Place of contract transferred after decree to another Civil Court—What Court authorised to hear appeal from decree 519

———Suit for declaration between rival claimants to a tenancy—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.

The plaintiffs, who were formerly members of a joint Hindu family with the defendants, sued for a declaration that they had some interest in an occupancy-holding which belonged to the family. The defendants pleaded that the holding in question had been divided and that the plaintiffs had got consideration for the giving up of all interest therein:

Held, that the claim was one between rival claimants to the tenancy and as such was congnizable by a Civil Court. A. GANGA PRASAD v. RAM PRASAD 862

——— ——— ——— Suit for declaration that plaintiff is an occupancy tenant—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court 719

——— ———Suit instituted in wrong Court—Consequent failure of justice—Alterations in procedure—Retrospective effect 543

———Transfer of case—Magistrate made Chairman of District Board, whether still Magistrate 141

——— ——— ——— of Civil Court—Money payable in respect of forest rights, suit for recovery of 380

——— ——— ——— Standing crops, inquiry into ownership of—Use or enjoyment of land 684

——— ——— of Civil or Revenue Court—Claim by one proprietor against another for establishing occupancy-rights—When decree of Civil Court cannot be registered in Revenue Court—Return of plaint—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), ss. 77, 100.

A suit by one of the proprietary body against another for declaring that the former is the occupancy tenant of land belonging to the latter, falls under section 77 (3) (a) and is consequently triable only by a Revenue Court.

When a suit of this nature has been decided by a Munsif having no revenue powers his decree cannot be registered as that of a Revenue Court by the Chief Court. The ordinary course in such a case is to return the plaint for presenting it to a competent Revenue Court. P. KIRPA RAM v. KIRPA RAM, 156 P. W. R. 1914; 282 P. L. R. 1914 89

——— ——— ——— ——— Ejectment — Possession — Graveyard.

The plaintiff succeeded in ejecting the defendant through the Rent Court from 5 out of 13 biswas of land and was referred to the Civil Court in respect of the remaining 8 biswas which were found to be a graveyard as alleged by the defendant. Subsequently on the plaintiff's suing the defendant in the Civil Court for possession of these 8 biswas, the defendant pleaded that the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit, inasmuch as he was the plaintiff's tenant in respect of the 13 biswas and as in respect of these 8 biswas all that remained to be determined was the nature of the tenancy:

Jurisdiction—concld

Held, that the defendant not having admitted his tenancy with respect to the 8 biswas in suit, no question of the determination of tenancy was involved in the case, and that the real question for decision being the existence or non-existence of a custom of burying bodies in the 8 biswas, interfering with the exercise of the plaintiff's proprietary rights, the suit was properly brought in the Civil Court. O. SAHEB DIN v. JANG BAHADUR SINGH, 1 O. L. J. 557 231

——— ——— — Oudh Rent Act (XXII of 1886), s. 127—Civil Court decree for possession—Decree-holder not in possession—Possession, actual, with tenants from whom judgment-debtor realised rents.

A person got against a lambardar a Civil Court decree for possession of a patti and was referred to the Revenue Courts as regards mesne profits, but even after the decree was passed, the lambardar continued to collect rent from the tenants in actual possession of the land comprised in the patti. Subsequently the decree-holder, treating the lambardar as a tenant under section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act, issued against him a notice of ejectment:

Held, that section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act was not applicable to the case and that the notice ought to be cancelled.

Held, further, that the remedy of the decree-holder lay in the Civil Court. U. P. B R. SURAJ BALI v. GOVINDA, 1 O. L. J. 701 904

——— ——— — Oudh Rent Act (XXII of 1886), s. 127—Ejectment by notice—Adverse proprietary possession pleaded—Prima facie case made out—Possession, actual, with tenants.

Where a person claims as against the landlord adverse proprietary possession of a land cultivated by his tenants, and that claim appears to be probable, that person cannot be treated as a tenant under section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act, and a notice of ejectment issued against him as such ought to be cancelled. The matter is for the Civil Courts to decide. U. P. B. R. BHAGWAN BAKHSH SINGH v. SHAFIQ-UZ-ZAMAN, 1 O. L. J. 707 709

——— ——— of District Magistrate—Bond for keeping peace, cancellation of 169

——— ——— of Revenue Courts—Part of an estate, also an estate—Owner—Landholder 732

——— ——— — Tree pattas—Vari payable for trees, if "rent" 60

Jurors, nomination of—Principal to be observed by Magistrates 632

Lambardar—Agent—Power to consent to transfer of occupancy-holding - Partition proceedings, effect of instituting.

The mere institution of partition proceedings does not put an end to the customary authority of the lambardar, as representative of the proprietary body, to consent to a transfer by an absolute occupancy tenant of his holding. N. CHOWBE JAIGOPAL v. RAMESHWAR, 10 N. L. R. 89 606

——— ——— — Agent—Presumption 608

Land Acquisition Act (I of 1894), ss. 9, 25 (2)—Object of s. 9—Objection under s. 9 not taken—Power of District Judge—Sufficient reason.

The object of making an owner claim under section 9 of the land Acquisition Act in respect of land notified under the Act to be acquired, is to enable the Land Acquisition Officer to make a fair, reasonable and proper award based upon a proper inquiry after the proper means have been placed before him for holding such inquiry.

The bare fact that previous negotiations for sale had taken place between the claimant and the Government, is not a sufficient reason for not putting forward a claim under section 9 of the Act.

Section 25 (2) of the Act gives the Judge the right to decide as to the sufficiency or otherwise of the reasons for a man's non-appearance and not putting forward his claim under section 9 of the Act, and where no sufficient reason is given the Judge ought not to interfere with the award of the Collector. A. NARAIN DUTT v. SUPERINTENDENT OF DEHRA DUN, 12 A. L. J. 1319; 37 A. 69 795

——— ——— ——— s. 25 (2) 795

Landlord and tenant—Agreement to remit portion of teerva, how far binding—Contract Act (IX of 1872), s. 63—Promise to remit part of rent.

A promise to remit a portion of rent, made merely out of grace and not out of any legal obligation, does not affect the right of the obligee to enforce his legal rights as regards payments due to him in future.

Where a promise to remit rent is coupled with conditions, it is not an absolute remission and the landlord is not estopped from enforcing his rights in full.

Where the agreement of parties is distinct and clear as to the rate of rent, subsequent conduct of parties is inadmissible in evidence to show that some other rate was intended by the parties. M. SUBBARAYA AIYAR v. KOLANDAVELU MUDALI 958

——— ——— ——— Cost of keeping premises clean - Tenant, whether liable — Suit to recover costs - Jurisdiction 77

——— ——— ——— Customary easement 122

——— ——— ——— Grove—Grove on sir land—Right of grove-holder—Ejectment.

The plaintiff, zemindar of a village, permitted the defendant to plant grove on a sir plot on the payment of a nominal rent. Subsequently the plaintiff's zemindari right was sold but the grove existed as before:

Held, that the defendant grove-holder could not be ejected from the grove at the instance of the plaintiff. A. KAMTA SINGH v. PARMESHWAR 734

——— ——— ——— Improvement—Ejectment—Structures by tenant—Acquiescence or carelessness of landlord—Compensation.

A tenant is not entitled on ejectment to any compensation for the materials of his structures

Landlord and tenant—contd.

unless the conditions of the lease suggest the inference that a permanent lease was contemplated or where the lessees were encouraged to build upon the area leased to them. In this connection, however, acquiescence of the landlord must be distinguished from his mere carelessness. P. KISHEN SINGH v. CHURCH MISSIONARY TRUST ASSOCIATION 936

——— Lease subsisting—Suit by lessor against trespasser, maintainability of.

A landlord, though he has given a lease to a third person, is entitled for the purpose of putting his lessee in possession, to maintain a suit to eject a trespasser. M. SOMAI AMMAL v. VELLAYYA SETHURANGAM, 16 M. L. T. 532; 1 L. W. 1047; (1915) M. W. N. 12 347

——— Lease—Tenancy from year to year and for fixed period—Holding over—Determination of tenancy—Notice—Breach of condition—Acceptance of rent—Waiver 107

——— Lease—Tenant holding over—Relations, whether regulated by expired lease—Forfeiture of tenancy for non-payment of rent, condition whether incongruous.

The terms of a lease which has terminated, may regulate the relations between the parties to the lease when the tenancy becomes one on sufferance, if they are not incongruous with a tenancy of that description.

Therefore, a condition of forfeiture inserted in such a lease for non-payment of rent holds goods after expiry of the lease under the circumstances. M. THAMBIKILAN MUTHIRIAN v. MUTHU REDDI 284

——— Nanjai holding—Ryot's right to use a portion of holding as seed-bed—Damages for non-cultivation—Zemindar must prove wrong use—Burden of proof.

Prima facie the utilization of a reasonable portion of a nanjai holding for nathankal, i. e., for growing seedlings for subsequent transplantation, is a proper use of the land and to make out a claim for damages for non-cultivation of the nathankal plots, the zemindar must show that the plots were wrongly used as such or that the ryot might and ought to have grown a crop to maturity on the same plots after removing the seedlings. M. RAMAKRISHNAM PILLAI v. ROBERT FISCHER, 27 M. L. J. 414 797

——— Suit to recover rent—Tenant setting up right of third party already on record 580

——— Surrender of tenancy, who can accept—Agent—Lambardar—Presumption.

It is only the landlord that can accept a surrender or create a tenancy. Where the "landlord" is a body of two or more persons, anything which the landlord is required or authorised to do under the Tenancy Act must be done by the whole proprietary body acting together or by an agent acting on behalf of them all.

The custom of appointing the lambardar as agent by implication and acquiescence is so nearly universal that it may be presumed that the lambardar has been appointed the agent of the proprietary body in every village, until the contrary is shown. But the presumption does not extend to the case of a minor lambardar, nor to that of his guardian. N. HALJNATH v. RAGHUNATH, 10 N. L. R. 93 608

Landlord and tenant—concld.

——— Tenant, right to cut trees—Lease providing for payment of full value of trees by landlord on resuming—Damages, measure of.

A tenant, even though he holds on a perpetual lease, is prima facie not entitled to cut and carry away timber trees from the holding.

Where, under the terms of a lease, the landlord is entitled to the land only on the payment of the full values of the trees to the tenant, the damages caused to the landlord by the cutting off the trees are only nominal. M. LATIFA BIBI v. NARAYANACHARI, 17 M. L. T. 202 271

——— Varam agreement—Condition to cultivate land in due season, whether reasonable—Damages for non-observance of condition, measure of.

The condition in a varam agreement which obliges the ryot to cultivate the land in due season is not unreasonable, provided that it is not read as insuring the rent in all seasons. In case such condition is not observed, the measure of damages is the average yield of neighbouring land. M. SEETHARAM IYER v. ROBERT FISCHER, 27 M. L. J. 415 809

Lease. See LANDLORD AND TENANT.

———, construction of—Plain and unambiguous words—Words in written deed, how to be construed—Contemporaneous usage, when ground for interpretation of doubtful words—Damages, suit for—Lessee, failing to pay Government revenue as contracted, liability of—Damages, measure of—Loss sustained by sale—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), ss. 123, 129—Gift—Registration of gift without delivery of possession, whether valid under Muhammadan Law.

Where the true effect of the language used in a lease is perfectly clear, no reference is permissible to the conduct of the parties, because if according to its true construction the deed says one thing, it cannot be said that it means something else merely because the parties have gone on so long without understanding it.

Therefore, the words of a written instrument must be construed according to its natural meaning and no amount of acting by the parties can alter or qualify words which are plain and unambiguous.

The doctrine that "contemporaneous usage is a strong ground for the interpretation of doubtful words or expressions" in a document, has no application where the document is neither ancient nor ambiguous.

In the case of sale of an estate by reason of the default of a lessee to perform his part of the contract, the measure of damages is the loss actually sustained by reason of the sale.

Obiter dicta:—

A party is not entitled to damages for breach of contract, if by the use of reasonable precautions he might have avoided loss.

The mere registration of a deed of gift in accordance with section 123 of the Transfer of Property Act cannot make up for the want of delivery of possession required by the rules of Muhammadan Law. C. RAHIM BAKHSH MANDAL v. SAJJAD AHMAD CHOWDHARY 466

Lease—concld.

——— Endorsement by Kanungo—Date from which it takes effect—Subsequent registered lease—Priority 458

——— Occupiers of houses in abadi qassaban in mohalla atala, village Atarsuiya, Allahabad—Transfer of house, right of 446

——— Registration of lease necessary—Lessee cannot save his ejectment by relying upon lease registration of which compulsory.

A lessee cannot resist his ejectment by relying upon the lease which secures him in possession for an indefinite period and the registration of which is thus compulsory, inasmuch as the unregistered lease does not under law affect the land it relates to. U. P. B. R. RAM PRASAD v. SARJOO, 1 O. L. J. 585 542

——— Small and shallow river-beds, right in—Accreted land, lease of, whether recognized—Lease, whether in good faith 406

——— Tenant holding over—Relations, whether regulated by expired lease—Forfeiture of tenancy for non-payment of rent, condition, whether incongruous 284

——— Yearly rent fixed—Period of tenancy not settled—Holding over—Nature of tenancy—Registration of lease—Presumption—"Agreement to the contrary," meaning of—Notice sent by post—Calculation of period of notice—Duty of service of notice excluded—Day of expiry taken into account—On what date notice should expire—Notice signed by am-mukhtear, validity of 962

Leave to appeal to King in Council—Decree of affirmance—Substantial question of law 402

Legal necessity. See ALIENATION.

——— Agreement to sell by managing member of Hindu family 983

Legal Practitioners Act (XVIII of 1879), s. 14—Proceedings initiated in District Court—Reference to High Court Power of District Judge to award costs of proceedings before him.

A District Judge has no power to award costs in a matter referred by him to the High Court under the Legal Practitioners Act. The High Court alone has power to give directions as to the award of costs incurred between the date of the petition and the date of reference to the High Court. M. VENKATA RAO v. MARWADI MOTIRAM, 1 L. W. 937 125

——— s. 28—Pleader and client—Oral agreement for payment of fees and expenses, validity of.

An oral agreement between a Pleader and his client for the payment of fees and litigation expenses is invalid and, therefore, unenforceable. C. ISHAN CHANDRA KAR v. RAM CHARAN PAL, 20 C. L. J. 445 960

Legislative enactment, retrospective effect of—Assignment of land revenue—Grant for political services—'Pension,' meaning of 743

Letters Patent Appeal—Revision, order of single Judge in 57

License—Revocation — Transferee of licensor, right of 445

Limitation—Execution—Application to revive execution proceedings 815

——— ———, plea of, Court's power to decide—Pauperism inquiry 90

——— ——— Possession by one co-owner—Resumption—Burden of proof 922

——— ——— Revision when other remedy open, time taken in, whether excluded to save limitation 219

Limitation Act (XIV of 1859), s. 1 (15) 127

——— ——— ——— (IX of 1871), Sch, II, Art. 148 127

——— ——— ——— (XV of 1877), s. 19—Acknowledgment of decree-debt, effect of—New Act, whether can revive barred right.

Under section 19 of the Limitation Act of 877 acknowledgments of decree-debts had not the effect of initiating a new period of limitation.

A right barred under an old Act cannot be revived by a new Act without express words. M. AKKAMMA v. KOPPARAM RAGAPPA, (1914) M. W. N. 875 368

——— ——— ——— Sch. II. Art. 11, applicability of—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 30, scope of—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 278, 281—Dismissed for absence, claim under s. 278—Dismissal, whether under s. 281—Suit for possession—Limitation.

Article 11 of the second Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877 applies only to orders passed after inquiry.

Therefore, where a claim preferred under section 278 of the Civil Procedure Code of 1882 is "dismissed for absence," a suit for the same property is not barred if not brought within one year of the order, as the order for dismissal is not one under section 281 of the Code but under the sections which enable a Court to dismiss a miscellaneous case for default.

Section 30 of the Limitation Act of 1908 is not limited in its operation to cases in which the period of limitation has been expressly altered, but also applies to a case where the period of limitation has been altered as the result of an alteration of the description of the suit. C. UMACHARAN BHATTACHARJEE v. HIRONMOYEE DEBI, 18 C. W. N. 770 943

——— ——— ——— art. 121 436

Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 5—Omission of respondent's name in memorandum of appeal—Bona fide mistake, effect of—Admission of receipt of consideration in mortgage-deed, whether admissible in evidence.

Where the omission of the name of a respondent from the memorandum of appeal is due to an oversight and bona fide mistake, the Court can extend the period in favour of the appellant under section 5 of the Limitation Act.

An admission of the receipt of consideration contained in a mortgage-deed is admissible in evidence against a purchaser by private treaty. A. GAYA PRASAD v. CHOTOO, 12 A. L. J. 941 68

——— ——— s. 10 841

——— ——— s. 12—Time requisite for obtaining copies, computation of—Due diligence—

Limitation Act—(1908)—contd.

Application through agent—Agent's delay—Risk—Extension of time—Tender of copying fee on public holiday, whether proper.

The time requisite for obtaining copies must be measured from the date when an application for such copies is duly presented by, and the date on which such copies are duly tendered for delivery to, the applicant.

The time requisite for obtaining a copy is the time which it takes an applicant to obtain the copy using all due diligence. He must (1) present an application, accompanied by the prescribed fee, at a proper time and place to the appointed official; and (2) be prepared to take delivery of the copies at the time and place fixed for delivery. If he does not discharge both these duties he fails to exercise the due diligence required to obtain the copies. But he may do these acts personally or by an agent.

Where, however, he elects to work through an agent, he cannot claim credit for any delay caused by taking that course. The time allowed for obtaining copies through an agent is the same as would have been allowed if the applicant had himself applied for and taken delivery of them, irrespective of the question whether the agent's delay was or was not beyond the control of the principal. A principal who elects to use an agent in working against strict rules of time does so at his own risk.

The computation of time for obtaining copies of judicial records is subject to strict rules and no discretionary extensions of such time are permissible.

A suit was dismissed on the 30th November 1912. On the 14th December 1912 the plaintiff posted an application for copies of judgment and decree, and on the same day despatched a money order to pay the cost thereof. The application reached the hands of the Clerk of the Court on the 16th December 1912, but the money order which reached the delivery Post Office on the 18th December could not be delivered to the Clerk of the Court before the 21st December, because the 18th, 19th and 20th December being public holidays, the copying office was closed during those days. The copies were ready and were posted to the applicant on the 20th January 1913:

Held, in computing the period of limitation for an appeal against the decree, that

(1) the application for copies was not presented until the 21st December 1912;

(2) the Post Office being an agent of the applicant, the time to which the applicant was entitled should be measured from the date when the Post Office delivered the application and the necessary money to the official appointed to receive the same, and the day on which the official appointed to deliver the copies made such delivery to the Post Office;

(3) all time occupied by the Post Office in conveying the application and fees to the copying office, and in carrying back the copies to the applicant, was outside that computation;

(4) the tender of fees transmitted by money order on a public holiday was not a tender at the proper time. N. RAGHU v. MADHGIA, 10 N. L. R. 139 819

Limitation Act—(1908)—contd.

——— ——— ——— s. 14 219

——— ——— ——— s. 14—Proceedings in Revenue Court, whether extend period of limitation 441

——— ——— ——— s. 15—Stay by injunction—Injunction order set aside—Time, whether excluded 267

——— ——— ——— s. 18 860

——— ——— ——— s. 19 911

——— ——— ——— s. 19 — Acknowledgment of liability—Endorsement of receipt of money—No actual payment—Endorsement, whether operates as acknowledgment.

Where an endorsement of payment of money is relied on as an acknowledgment of liability under section 19 of the Limitation Act, the fact that no money was paid on that date does not make the endorsement inoperative if it was the intention of the parties that it should be treated as such M. LAKSHMI AMMAL v. RAMASWAMY IYENGAR 754

——— ——— ——— s. 19—Mortgage by all members of joint Hindu family—Acknowledgment by karta alone, whether sufficient to keep alive debt—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXXIV, r. 6.

Where a joint Hindu family property was mortgaged jointly by all members of the family not for a family purpose but only to secure a particular sum of money, the mere fact that one of the joint mortgagors had made an acknowledgment, if it turns out that he happens to be the karta of the joint Hindu family, would not be sufficient to keep alive the debt. C. BAIKUNTA GUI v. LAL CHAND SAMANTA 511

——— ——— ——— s. 20—Payment of principal—Handwriting of person making payment necessary—Payment of interest need not be in handwriting of person making payment.

A part payment of the principal of a debt should be in the handwriting of the person making the payment, but this rule does not apply to payments of interest. M. MUTHU PILLAI v. MARIA SANDANAM PILLAI, 15 M. L. T. 505; (1914) M. W. N. 910 507

——— ——— ——— s. 26 485

——— ——— ——— s. 30 943

——— ——— ——— s. 31 274

——— ——— ——— s. 31 — Mortgage executed before Transfer of Property Act, whether included in s. 31 (2).

For the purposes of section 31 (2) of the Limitation Act there is no distinction between mortgages executed before 1882 and those executed after that date. M. CHOKKALINGA CHETTY v. KANNUSAMI PILLAI 938

——— ——— ——— Sch. I, Art. 12 (a) 369

——— ——— ——— art. 16 863

——— ——— ——— art. 42 296

——— ——— ——— art. 44 179

——— ——— ——— art. 62 219

——— ——— ——— art. 68 505

——— ——— ——— art. 83 410

Limitation Act—(1908)—contd.

——— Sch. I, art. 89 740
——— art. 91 813
——— art. 109 890
——— art. 115 740
——— arts. 115, 128, 131—Maintenance—Suit for arrears—Relationship of parties—Adoption—Simultaneous adoption, validity of—Compromise decree evidencing contract—Interest by way of damages—Execution, right to proceed by way of.

In a suit by the widow of one who was adopted by the defendant's step-mother simultaneously with the adoption of the defendant by the step-mother's co-wife:

Held, (1) that, as simultaneous adoptions are invalid and void, the plaintiff was not a member of the family of the original owner of the estate, nor was she related in any way to the defendant and could not, therefore, plead the limitation allowed by Article 128 of the Limitation Act;

(2) that inasmuch as the plaintiff's claim was based on a contract evidenced by a compromise decree, her case was governed by Article 115;

(3) that since the defendant had kept the plaintiff out of her just dues wrongfully, she was entitled to interest by way of damages;

(4) that Article 131 of the Limitation Act applies only where there has been a denial of the plaintiff's right to receive the maintenance in question as well as a cessation of payment;

(5) that where there has been a decree declaring a right to maintenance, the decree-holder can proceed by way of execution. C. NARENDRA CHANDRA LAHIRI v. NALINI SUNDARI DEBI 939
——— art. 120 219, 368
——— art. 120—Hindu Law—Alienation by widow—Contest by remote reversioner - Cause of action—Limitation.

A suit for a declaration that an alienation made by a Hindu widow is not binding on the plaintiff, a remote reversioner, is governed by Article 120 of the Limitation Act.

The cause of action accrues on the date of alienation. A. KUNWAR BAHADUR v. BINDRABAN, 13 A. L. J. 196 737
——— art. 126 873
——— arts. 128, 131 939
——— art. 134 1
——— art. 136 904
——— art. 141 1
——— arts. 142, 144—Adverse possession—Purchaser at Court sale delivered formal possession by proclamation of property under tenants—Burden of proof that purchaser was not in possession.

In 1881 a village was leased for a term of 10 years. The lease was to terminate on the last day of June 1891. In 1885 the lessor mortgaged the village. In 1887 the mortgagee sued on his mortgage and obtained a decree. In 1889 he purchased the village in execution of his decree and on 7th May 1890, when the property was still in the possession of the lessees, the purchaser obtained possession of the reversion by proclamation. In 1903 the successor of the lessor sued the purchaser for recovery of possession of the village on the ground that the property, being dedicated to a temple, was trust property and that consequently the auction-sale was void:

Held, that whether Article 142 or Article 144 of the first Schedule to the Limitation Act applied, the suit was barred inasmuch as the purchaser was in possession of the village adversely to the temple from May 1890.

Where a purchaser at a Court auction-sale had obtained through Court as full and complete a possession as was possible under the circumstances, strong evidence was required to show that the auction-purchaser was not in possession and did not collect the rent of the property. M. GOVINDA DOSS v. RAJAH VENKATA PERUMAL, 27 M. L. J. 195 537
——— Sch. I, art. 144 537, 904
——— art. 166 369
——— art. 181 46
——— art. 182—Execution—Judgment-debtor declared insolvent—Appeal by decree-holder—Step-in-aid of execution.

An appeal by the decree-holder against an order declaring the judgment-debtor an insolvent is "an application to take a step-in-aid of execution" within the meaning of Article 182 of the first Schedule of the Limitation Act, and, therefore, an application for execution filed within three years of such an appeal is not barred. B. LAXMIRAM LALLUBHAI JOSHI v. BHALASHANKAR VENIRAM MEHTA, 16 BOM. L. R. 612; 39 B. 20 262

Lis pendens. See TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, s. 52

Lower Burma Land and Revenue Act (II of 1876), ss. 55 and 56—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 60—Standing crops, inquiry into ownership of—Use or enjoyment of land—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

A claim to the ownership of crops is not the same thing as a claim to the use or enjoyment of the land on which the crops are grown. It is a claim to the use or enjoyment of something yielded by the land The Civil Courts have jurisdiction to determine claims and objections in respect of the attachments of standing crops.

When a Civil Court inquires as to possession of land incidentally and collaterally and only for the purpose of deciding who is entitled to the crop standing on the land, it does not exercise any jurisdiction as to the use or enjoyment of the land within the meaning of section 56 of the Lower Burma Land and Revenue Act. L. B. HLA DUN v. M. L. R. M. CHETTY FIRM, 7 L. B. R. 294 684
——— s. 56 684

Lunatic—Person of weak memory or weak mental strength, whether of unsound mind.

A man of weak memory or of only ordinary mental capacity or even mere weak mental strength cannot be called an idiot or a man of unsound mind. M. PACHI v. CHARNI, 16 M. L. T. 530 344

Madras Boundary Marks Act (XXVIII of 1860), ss. 24, 25 817

Madras City Municipal Act (III of 1904), s. 409, cl. (19) By-law framed thereunder—"Food," meaning of—Aerated waters, whether food.

The term "food" does not include "drinks" and, therefore, in the absence of a special inclusion a person exposing for sale aerated waters unwholesome and unfit for human consumption does not commit any offence under by-law 177 framed under section 409 (19) of the Madras City Municipal Act M. EMPEROR v. GANAPATHY IYER, 27 M. L. J. 732; 16 M. L. T. 585; 6 CR. L. J. 7 311

Mardras Compulsory Labour Act (I of 1858), s. 6—Levying of Kudimaramath dues—Payment under protest—Suit for recovery—Limitation—Madras Revenue Recovery Act (II of 1864), s. 59—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 16.

Steps taken to recover Kudimaramath dues under section 6 of Act I of 1858, are in effect proceedings under Act II of 1864, and a person aggrieved thereby must bring his suit for redress within six months from the date of the cause of action as provided by section 59 of Act II of 1864 and not within one year under Article 16 of the Limitation Act, 1908.

The phrase "proceedings under this Act" found in section 59 of Act II of 1864, has the same meaning as "means by which arrears of land revenue are recoverable" in section 6 of Act I of 1858. M. RAMASAMI AIYAR v. SECRETARY OF STATE, (1915) M. W. N. 154 863

Madras District Municipalities Act (IV of 1884), s. 53, Sch. A, cl. (3)—"Money-lender," meaning of—Occasional money-lender—Public purposes—Capacity of "owner and occupier."

The term "money-lender" as used in section 53 of the District Municipalities Act, read with Schedule A, clause (3) of the Act, implies a continuous and systematic lending almost amounting to a trade or business.

Where, therefore, a person casually or intermittently invests his surplus funds in mortgage or in personal security he is not to be considered a "money-lender" within the meaning of that section.

Where a person has a dual capacity of the trustee of a temple and the head of a mutt, and in the former capacity occupies a building owned by him in the latter capacity, he is still an "occupier" for refund of money paid by him in that capacity.

Where the suit is simply to recover a tax illegally levied no declaration as to future rights and liabilities should be given. M. MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF TIRUPPATTI v. PRAYAG DOSSJEE VARU, 1 L. W. 513; 16 M. L. T. 98; 27 M. L. J. 231 95

Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908), s. 2 618

——— s. 3 (2) (d)—Agraharam—Grant—Presumption—Burden of proof.

There is no presumption that the grantees of lands situated in an agraharam were not possessed of the kudiaram right on the date of the grant.

Where, therefore, such grantees allege that land revenue only and not land was the subject of the grant, it is for them in order to oust the jurisdiction of the Civil Court to establish by evidence that the agraharam is an estate within the meaning of section 3 (2) (d) of the Madras Estates Land Act. RAVULAPATI PAPI REDDI v. NANDURU PEDA VENKATACHARYULU, 16 M. L. T. 247; (1914) M. W. N. 794; 27 M. L. J. 567 67

Madras Estates Land Act—concld.

——— ss. 3 (2), 151, 179

—Part of an estate, also an estate—Owner—Landholder—Jurisdiction of Revenue Courts.

The Estates Land Act is not intended to be confined in its operation only to estates in their entirety which fall under one of the five clauses of section 3 (2). Parts of an estate are also within the scope of the Act. Where the tenants of a part of an estate set up occupancy rights in defence to an action in ejectment by the landholder, Revenue Courts alone have jurisdiction. M. CHIPURAPALLI APPAYYA v. KAKARLAPUDI RAMACHANDRA RAJU BAHADUR GARU, (1914) M. W. N. 763; 16 M. L. T. 362; 27 M. L. J. 490 732

——— s. 3 (5)—Alienee of part of melvaram interest, whether landholder—Tenants under such alienee, whether ryots—Ejectment, suit for—Jurisdiction.

An alienee in perpetuity of a portion of a zemindar's melvaram interest in land, becomes a "landholder" within the meaning of section 3 (5) of the Estates Land Act and the tenants under him "ryots" though the land itself may not be an "estate" within the meaning of section 3 (2) of the Estates Land Act.

Proceedings to eject tenants from such land lies only in a Revenue Court. M. KANTI VENKANNA v. CHELIKANI RAMA ROW GARU 510

——— s. 3 (5)—Landholder—Co-sharers, mortgage by—One co-sharer alone redeeming and taking possession—Recognition as landholder—Rent, suit for—Maintainability.

Though under the first paragraph of section 3, clause 5, of the Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908) both a mortgagor and a usufructuary mortgagee are 'landholders,' yet under the 2nd paragraph of the said clause the usufructuary mortgagee alone is the 'landholder' for the purposes of the said Act.

When there are a number of joint landholders, the test to be applied for ascertaining which among them is entitled to proceed and be dealt with as a 'landholder' for all or any of the purposes of the Madras Estates Land Act seems to be 'who amongst them is or are entitled to collect the rent of the whole' estate?

The power given to the Collector under paragraph 2 of section 3 (5) does not exclude the power of a Civil Court to recognise that person as landholder who is entitled to collect the whole rents.

Where an estate owned by several joint owners and subject to a usufructuary mortgage was redeemed by the plaintiff, one of such several owners, owning the largest number of shares, and he got possession of the estate with the knowledge and consent of the owners of the remaining shares therein:

Held, that the plaintiff, who redeemed the mortgage and got rightful possession of the whole estate from the usufructuary mortgagee, being the person entitled to collect the whole rents, was also entitled to be recognised as the 'landholder' for all the purposes of the Act, including the right to sue for rent solely. M. SUBRAMANIA PETHANNAR BHOOPATHI v. MUTHIAN CHETTIAR, 1 L. W. 1004; (1915) M. W. N. 157 279

Madras Estates Land Act—contd.

——————— s. 3 (5)—Lessee from transferee of zemindar—Right to lease and cultivate —Estate-holder.

A person obtaining a lease of land with the right of leasing it to others as well as of cultivating it himself from a person who derives his right by transfer from the zemindar, is an estate-holder within the meaning of section 3 (5) of the Estates Land Act, VINJAMURI VEERA VENKAYYA v. YENAMURTHI VEERABHADRUDU 735

——————— ss. 3 (11), 77—Jurisdiction of Revenue Courts—Tree pattas—Vari payable for trees, if 'rent.'

Vari or tax payable in respect of trees held on tree pattas is not 'rent' as defined in section 3 (11) of the Madras Estates Land Act I of 1908, and a suit to recover such vari or tax is not cognisable by a Revenue Court under section 77 of the said Act. M. MURUGAPPA CHETTIAR v. RAMANATHAN CHETTIAR, 1 L. W. 881 60

——————— s. 6—Addition to holding by encroachment—Possession for more than 12 years prior to commencement of Act—Ryots—Presumption —Ejectment.

Tenants who have added to their holdings by encroachments and have been in possession of such encroachments for more than 12 years before 1st of July 1908 when the Madras Estates Land Act came into force, are deemed to be in possession of the whole of their holdings, including the encroachments, as ryots and to be entitled to occupancy rights under section 6 of the Act; but if their possession commenced within 12 years of the suit, they are liable to be ejected. M. BRINDAVANA CHANDRA v. JAGANNADHA SINGI SANTO, 2 L. W. 29 888

——————— s. 13, cl. (3)—Wells sunk by tenants at their own expense—Landlord, whether entitled to charge higher rates of rent.

Under the Estates Land Act a landlord is not entitled to charge higher rates of rent for the more valuable crops grown by the aid of the wells sunk by his tenant. M. RAGHAVA NAIDU v. MUTHYALU NAIDU, 28 M. L. J. 301 364

——————— s. 77 60

——————— s. 78—Affixing of pattas to land necessary.

In order that a distraint under section 78 of the Madras Estates Land Act should be valid, it is not enough to show that the patta was either tendered to the tenant or affixed to his house. It must also be shown that it was affixed to a conspicuous part of the land. M. KOLAKUDI VEERAMA REDDI v. VASUDEVA REDDI, 17 M. L. T. 85 991

——————— s. 112—Landlord and tenant—Suit under s. 112—Burden of proof—Payment of rent into Court to avoid sale, effect of.

In a suit under section 112 of the Mardras Estates Land Act the burden of proof is rightly imposed on the landlord to show that he is justified in claiming rent at an enhanced rate; the fact of the payment into Court in order to avoid the sale does not shift the onus on to the tenant. M. RAJAH OF VIZYANAGARAM v. DOKARA PAIDAYYA 891

Madras Estates Land Act—concld.

——————— ss. 151, 179 732

——————— s. 195—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XLIII, r. (1) (w), and O. XLVII, r. 7 (1 —Revenue Court, review granted by —Order, whether appealable.

No appeal lies to the District Court against the order of a Revenue Court granting a review in a summary suit. M. AIYARAPPA MUDALIAR v. GULAM GHOUSE, 2 L. W. 62 831

——————— Sch. Part A, Art. 8—"Ascertainment of rent," meaning of—Interpleader suit as to who is entitled to water-cess, whether suit for ascertainment of rent—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 15—Stay by injunction—Injunction order set aside—Time, whether excluded.

In order to entitle a landlord in a suit for arrears of rent to deduct the time taken in prosecution of a previous suit between himself and the tenant, the suit must be one relating to the ascertainment of rent within the meaning of Article 8, Part I, of the Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908).

An interpleader suit by tenant against landlord and Government merely to determine which party is entitled to collect water-cess from the tenants, is not a suit for ascertainment of rent within the meaning of Article 8, Part I, of the Estates Land Act.

A party cannot claim to exclude, under section 15 of the Limitation Act, 1908, the time during which no injunction staying a suit was in force against him. M. DORAISAMI REDDI v. VENKATACHALLAM PILLAI, 27 M. L. J. 734 267

Madras Forest Act (V of 1882), s. 16—Private land wrongly included in notification regarding proposed reserve, but omitted in demarcation—Private party in possession with patta and paying assessment—Conviction of trespass, if legal.

Where, under a notification published under section 16 of the Madras Forest Act, V of 1882, certain land alleged to belong to the accused had been included in the tract proposed to be constituted a reserve forest but the same was excluded from the reserve at the time the latter was demarcated, and where the party alleging title continued in possession and enjoyment, a patta being issued to him and assessment received from him therefor, he cannot be convicted for trespass under the Forest Act. M. ALI MAHOMED MUKRI, In re, 2 L. W. 67; 16 CR L. J. 53 645

Madras Irrigation Cess Act (VII of 1865), s. 1—'Engagement', meaning of—Madras Revenue Recovery Act (II of 1864, s. 59—Madras Land Encroachment Act (III of 1905), s. 1.

The decree of a Court passed after the Inam Settlement and entitling a mokhasadar to irrigate free of water-cess more area than was exempted from water-cess at the Inam Settlement, may be treated as sufficient to establish an engagement of the kind referred to in section 1 of Act VII of 1865.

Where a right to take water is proved, even though no express agreement on behalf of Government not to levy any charge is proved, an engagement under Act VII of 1865, section 1, will be implied and no cess can be levied.

The effect of Act III of 1905 (Madras Land Encroachment Act) is not to take away rights which existed prior to the Act, and Government is not, by reason of that Act, coupled with Act VII of 1865, entitled to impose a cess upon those land-holders who before that Act were not liable to pay cess for using the water.

Madras Irrigation Cess Act—concld.

Where a river belongs to Government, it is open to it to construct sluices without prejudice to the rights of the mokhasadars, but their previously existing right to receive water free of water-cess will not be affected by construction of sluices. A suit to recover back water-cess paid under protest and after attachment should be brought within six months from the date on which the amount was paid, and the period of limitation applicable is that prescribed by section 59 of Act II of 1864. M. SECRETARY OF STATE v. SIMHADRI JAGHAPATHIRAJU, 2 L. W. 31; 17 M. L. T. 29; 28 M. L. J. 51 692

——— — .. ——— s. 1—Shrotriemdar—Engagement—Irrigation, free of charge—Enjoyment for 60 years, if confers right to exemption—Kassar, meaning of—Inam title-deed, scope of—Recitals in inam title-deed, if conclusive as to enjoyment—Evidence aliunde, admissibility of, to disprove such recitals.

The term kassar means excess water-rate.

Ordinarily mere abstinence on the part of the Government from imposing water-cess for 40 years after the grant of an inam title-deed, does not debar the exercise of their right to levy the same.

An inam title-deed is not conclusive of the question of an engagement to exempt the lands from the liability to pay cess and evidence aliunde is admissible to prove that the enjoyment contended for was either anterior or subsequent to the Inam Settlement.

A grant of land by the Government implies an undertaking on its part to supply water free of charge to the extent of the accustomed flow at the time of the grant, and where the customary flow cannot be ascertained, the area irrigated will be presumed as the measure of the quantity of water used at the time of the grant.

In the absence of anything to show that the Inam Commissioner was not authorised to deal with a question, his decision will bind the Government. M. PAPACHAR SETHUMATHAVACHARIAR v. SECRETARY OF STATE, 1 L. W. 941 187

Madras Land Encroachment Act (III of 1905), s. 1 692

Madras Motor Vehicles Act (XI of 1890), s. 6 (1)—Charge against both coachman and owner, whether illegal.

There is nothing in section 6 (1) of Act XI of 1890, restricting the prosecution of either the "coachman or the owner." The prosecution of both or one after another is not illegal. A conviction of one does not operate as a bar to the trial of the other. M. EMPEROR v. RICE, 15 CR. L. J. 695 143

Madras Revenue Recovery Act (II of 1864), s. 59 692, 863

Magistrate, when bound to discharge 309

Mahant of math or sangat, right to acquire property by—Subsequent treatment of property, effect of—Endowment, sufficient evidence of.

A Mahant of a math or sangat, though required to observe celebacy, is not disqualified from acquiring property for his own personal benefit if he has funds of his own.

The evidence afforded by the subsequent treatment of the property for several generations by the parties concerned may in certain cases be legitimately used for determining the nature of the interest sought to be created.

Where there was no sufficient evidence to establish that the particular property in dispute was purchased from the income of the sangat or was dedicated to it by the founder of the sangat after his purchase and the succession to the property had not been consistent with its being endowed property:

Held, that the land in dispute did not form part of the endowed property. O. RAJMAN v. BRAHM SURAT, 17 O. C. 336 621

Maintenance. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 488.

——— — ——— Suit for arrears—Relationship of parties—Adoption—Simultaneous adoption, validity of—Compromise decree evidencing contract—Interest by way of damages Execution, right to proceed by way of 939

Majority Act (IX of 1875), s. 3 709

Malabar Law Anandravan, whether can acknowledge mortgage by karnavan—Right to acknowledge mortgage right—Limitation Act (XIV of 1859) s. 1 (15)—Limitation Act (IX of 1871), Sch. II, Art. 148.

An anandravan cannot be said to be a person claiming under a karnavan within the meaning of section 1 (5) of Act XIV of 1859 or Article 148, Schedule II, of Act IX of 1871, and has, therefore, no right to save from limitation a mortgage by acknowledgment, nor can such acknowledgment be effective even if construed as one by a co-mortgagee. M. MUHAMMADE v. MAYI KUNHI HAJI 127

——— ——— ——— Chetties, whether governed by Malabar Law 337

Malicious prosecution, suit for damages for, when maintainable—Interlocutory injunction, whether dissolved when perpetual injunction granted—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 42—"Want of reasonable and probable cause," allegation of—Malice—Erroneous decision, procuring of—Damages, liability for 296

Master and servant—Monthly servant leaving without notice, whether entitled to wages—Notice—Damage—Set-off.

Default of a servant after the day on which a periodical payment of wages accrued due would not deprive him of his right to recover such periodical payment. A master is entitled to reasonable notice and reasonable damages if such notice were not given, but such a plea must be raised by way of set-off and should be stamped. L. B. RIPLEY v. VAITHENATHA IYER 270

Minor—Alienation of land by guardian for valid debt—Recitals in documents as to its binding nature, whether sufficient—Evidence.

Mere recitals in documents as to the binding nature of debts incurred by a minor's guardian are not enough to charge a minor with liability. There must be evidence aliunde to establish it. M. RAMINEEDI RAMACHANDRAYYA v. BOBBA JANKIRAMAYYA, 1 L. W. 805; (1914) M. W. N. 874 66

Minor—concld.

——, contract by—Property purchased for minor by some one else, minor's rights in—Sale of property by father, whether valid 195

——Guardian knowingly setting up false plea—Gross negligence—Res judicata - Personal interest in suits between members of same family.

A minor is not bound by a decree passed against him, if he shows that his guardian was guilty of gross negligence in the conduct of the suit.

A guardian setting up a plea of adoption, false to his knowledge even if it be to benefit the minor, in a suit to recover possession of property, when he could have set up a Will which gave him a moiety of the property, is guilty of gross negligence.

In a suit to which no strangers are parties, each member of the family must ordinarily be considered to be litigating for his own benefit and not for the benefit of the estate. M. GOTTEPATI SUBBANNA v. GOTTEPATI NARASAMMA, 27 M. L. J. 486 16

——Legal representatives of persons intermeddling with minor's estate—Liability, extent of.

The representatives of persons who had intermeddled with the estate of a minor, are liable to account in respect of the dealings of those whom they represent to the extent of the estate which came to their hands. C. GOLAK CHANDRA CHOWDHURY v. PRABHAT CHANDRA RAY 612

Minors Act (XL of 1858), person holding property by virtue of certificate under 700

Minors' property—Sale by guardian—Consideration partly for legal necessity partly not—Suit to set aside sale, when to be decreed—Conditions—Partition, if allowed between alienee and minor.

If in a suit by a minor to recover possession of the properties alienated by his guardian, it is proved that a substantial portion of the purchase-money was not required for the minor's interests or benefit, the whole sale should be set aside on condition of the minor paying to the purchaser the remaining portion, but if a very substantial portion of the purchase-money was utilised for purposes binding on the minor, the sale should be upheld and the minor given a decree for recovery of the small portion of the purchase-money not utilised for his benefit

In such a case there can be no decree for partition between an alienee and a minor who has attained full age in respect of land sold by the guardian of the minor. M. RUKMANI SUNDARAMMAL v. MUTHAMMAL, (1915) M. W. N. 8 489 ——Sale by de facto guardian, validity of—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art 91—Suit to set aside sale.

An alienation of the property of a minor by a person who is that minor's guardian de facto, but not de jure, is not merely voidable but absolutely void, and the minor need not sue to have it set aside before he can obtain possession of the property

Article 91 of the Limitation Act does not apply where the sale is void. N. HUSEN v. RAJARAM, 10 N. L. R. 133 813

Mischief. See PENAL CODE, s. 426.

Misjoinder of causes of action. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, O. II, r. 2.

Mortgage. See REDEMPTION; TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, s. 58.

——Attestation—Simple mortgage—Charge—Distinction between the two—Deed of mortgage not completed for want of formalities, whether can be used to establish charge—'Rehn,' use of the word, whether sufficient guide to distinguish between mortgage and charge 601

——Benamidar, whether can sue.

A person who is named in a mortgage-deed as mortgagee is entitled to sue upon the bond, even if he is a benamidar A. PARMESHWAR DAT v. ANARDAN DAT, 13 A. L. J. 24 507 ——Charge—Construction of deed.

Where by a deed of transfer the executant hypothecates his interest in the property and covenants to pay interest and also that he will not transfer the property so long as the debt remains unpaid, the deed constitutes a simple mortgage and not a charge. A. KALYAN SINGH v. DAMMAR SINGH 752

——Conditional sale—Foreclosure proceedings—Expiry of year of grace—Lease by mortgagor—Acknowledgment of ownership—Decree for possession obtained by mortgagee—Formal possession taken—Validity of foreclosure proceedings cannot be questioned

M mortgaged a house and shops to A by a deed of conditional sale on the 24th July 1894. The deed provided that the mortgagor was to remain in possession and pay interest. In default the mortgagee could take possession. If the mortgage was not redeemed within three years, the property was to be sold outright.

In 1898 the mortgagee got the foreclosure notice issued, and after the expiry of the year of grace without redemption in November 1899 M executed a lease mentioning the foreclosure proceedings and saying that he took the house on lease and handed over the rest of the property. In 1901 A sued for possession of the house and rent, got an ex parte decree, and took formal possession in execution, the dakhilnama being signed by M and others. After that M again took possession of the house and some eight or nine years, A again sued for possession:

Held, that M or his representatives could not deny the plaintiff's title, nor question the validity of the foreclosure proceedings. P. KHAIRA v. JAGGU SHAH 833

——Consideration, receipt of—Admission before Sub-Registrar—Burden of proof—Mortgage with possession—Lease by one of two mortgagors only—Mortgage-deed mentioning liability of both mortgagors for rent—Agreement without consideration—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXXIV, r. 4.

Where a mortgagor disputes the receipt of a portion of the mortgage-money, which he has, however, admitted before the Sub-Registrar to have been due by him on book account the onus lies upon him to show that the consideration did not pass in full.

A and B mortgaged certain properties with possession and on the same day that the mortgage-deed was executed, A took the mortgaged properties on lease from the mortgagee under a registered lease

Mortgage—contd.

The mortgage-deed made the rent a charge upon the mortgaged properties:

Held, that the agreement by B in the mortgage-deed to pay the rent was without consideration, and hence B was not liable to pay it, nor was his property under mortgage liable for any sums beyond the principal mortgage-money.

In framing mortgage decrees, Order XXXIV, rule 4 of the Civil Procedure Code should not be over looked. P. KISHEN CHAND v. SOHAN, 20 P. L. R. 1915 913 ———Contribution – Mortgage by one partner of whole partnership property – Mortgage disputed by other partner—Compromise—Disputing partner undertaking to pay part of mortgage-debt—Mortgage subsequently declared not binding on disputing partner's share - Mortgage-debt realized from partner executing deed—Suit by mortgagor for contribution in terms of compromise—Other partner, liability of.

B. one of the two partners in a firm, granted a mortgage purporting to mortgage the whole of the partnership property. L, the other partner, disputed the right of B to subject the whole of the partnership property to the mortgage and contended that B was in fact only able to burden his own share thereof. Subsequently L brought againt B a partition suit in which the Court made a decree giving effect to a compromise which the parties themselves had effected. One of the terms of the compromise was that L should pay the mortgagee a certain amount and that B should free L's portion of the property from the mortgage. The mortgagee thereafter brought a suit on his mortgage, and in that suit it was found eventually by the Privy Council that truly the mortgagr only bound B's share and not the whole partnership property. The mortgagee realized the whole of the mortgage-debt from B, who then sued L for the amount payable under the compromise as contribution. L contended that such payment was conditional upon B freeing his share from the mortgage, and as his share was not freed by B but by the Privy Council decision, the suit must fail:

Held, that L was bound by the compromise, which remained unaffected by the Privy Council decision, and that he was liable to contribute. P. C. RAMLAL v. NARSINGDAS; 19 C. W. N. 193, 17 M. L. T. 45; 2 L. W. 163; 21. C. L. J 137; 28. M L. J 448 924

———Discharge of previous mortgages—Charge—Priority.

A co-mortgagor who discharges a prior mortgage has a prior charge over the property as against those who discharge a subsequent mortgage. A. KASHI RAM v. HET SINGH, 13 A. L. J. 34 417

——— executed before Transfer of Property Act, whether included in s. 31 (2) 938

——— Foreclosure decree—Extension of time for payment of money—Good cause—Appeal—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), ss. 105 (1), 99, O. XXXIV, r. 3, O. XLIII, r. 1 (o),—Preliminary order incorporated in decree may be questioned in appeal—Redemption decree passed by implication—Preliminary decree—Foreclosure—Redemption decree must be drawn up.

No appeal lies against an order extending time for the payment of mortgage-money.

Mortgage—contd.

Where a non-appealable order is incorporated, or results, in a decree, section 105 (1) of the Civil Procedure Code allows the order to be questioned in an appeal from the decree.

Where the order of a Court amounts impliedly, though not expressly, to a redemption decree, it may be treated as such under section 99 of the Civil Procedure Code.

Though no extension of time for payment of money in satisfaction of a foreclosure decree can be granted without "good cause," those words should be liberally interpreted with leniency towards the debtor in the case of a first enlargement.

The "good cause" is not to be assumed either from non-payment or delayed payment. Order XXXIV, rule 3, requires that it should be shown to the satisfaction of the Court.

For each extension of time, subsequent to the first, a stronger case must be made out.

Every preliminary decree in a mortgage suit must lead to a final decree, either of foreclosure or of redemption; and when a preliminary decree is followed by redemption, a final decree for redemption should always be drawn up. An order extending time merely opens the way to payment, and when the payment is duly made, a final decree for redemption is as necessary as is a final decree for foreclosure. Where payment is not made, one or the other is consequential of the terms of the preliminary decree. N. BALKISHAN v. ATMARAM, 10 N. L. R. 150 701

———Foreclosure suit—Subsequent mortgagor made party at his own request—Suit barred as against him—Whether he can plead limitation—Suit, whether to be dismissed—Proper order to pass.

Where in a suit for foreclosure a subsequent mortgagee was made a co-defendant at his own request and with the consent of the plaintiff but after the period of limitation as against him had expired:

Held, (1) that the suit against him was barred;

(2) but that, inasmuch as he was made a defendant at his own request, he could not raise the plea of limitation;

(3) that the suit against him ought not to be dismissed, but that the order making him a defendant should be set aside. N. NARAYAN v. MAHADEO, 10 N. L. R. 173 720

———Hindu Law—Joint family—Managing member living separately—Mortgage in his sole name—Loan advanced out of family funds—Suit on mortgage Non-joinder of other members, whether bars suit 35

——— by all members of joint Hindu family—Acknowledgment by karta alone, whether sufficient to keep alive debt—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXXIV, r. 6 511

———Mortgagee entitled to possession on mortgagor's failure to pay instalment—Legal title, whether in mortgagee—Trespasser, possession of, whether adverse to mortgagee.

Where, under the terms of a mortgage instrument, the mortgagee is entitled to possession only on the mortgagor committing default in payment of any of the instalments, the legal possession is not with the mortgagee, and the possession of a trespasser is not adverse as against him. M. VENKATA KRISHNA MOORTHI v. BHEEMAKKA 295

Mortgage—contd.

——————, right of—Mortgage-decree—Receiver appointed 986

——————Sale—Agreement of re-sale—Mortgage by conditional sale—Construction of document—Intention of parties 751

——————Suit to declare mortgage-deed invalid—Mortgage found to be partly valid—Plaintiff, whether entitled to amend relief for redemption 443

—— debt—Compound interest payable until default—No provision after that date—Interest—Presumption.

While a person owing money must be deemed to have borrowed it on the understanding that he would pay some compensation for its use, either as simple interest or damages, there is no presumption that he agrees to pay compound interest, as that is not an ordinary incident of the borrowing.

Therefore, where a bond provides for compound interest till a certain period but there is no provision for the payment of any interest after that date the creditor is not entitled to compound interest after that date but only to simple interest upon the amount of the principal and interest due on that date. M. THAITHOTTATHIL POKKAR v. RAMACHANDRA SHENOY, 16 M. L. T. 478 124

—————— or sale, test of—Equity of redemption, surrender of, by mortgagor's widow—Transfer of property by mortgagee to third party—Suit for redemption—Locus standi of mortgagor's reversioner—Limitation Act (IX of 1908*), Sch. I, Arts.* 134, 141.

The test to determine whether a particular transaction is a sale or a mortgage, is the intention of the parties.

A widow cannot by relinquishing her widow's estate to the reversioner affect the validity of alienations made by her before such relinquishment.

Where a mortgagee, in whose favour the equity of redemption has been surrendered, sells it to another person, this latter cannot be said to have "purchased mortgaged property" within the meaning of Article 134, Schedule I, of the Limitation Act; and a suit for redemption is governed by Article 141 and not by Article 134.

In order to make Article 134 applicable it is necessary that the purchaser must act in the bona fide belief that he is purchasing an absolute estate and not merely a mortgage interest. M. SINGARAM CHETTIAR v. KALYANASUNDARAM PILLAI, 1 L. W. 687; (1914) M. W. N. 735 1 ——————suit—Ex parte decree set aside—Suit on subsequent mortgage and decree against prior mortgagee—Proceedings in first suit re-opened—Subsequent mortgagee impleaded—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 18—Priority not set up in subsequent suit—Res judicata—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 11, Expl. IV.

In a suit on a mortgage where a subsequent mortgagee was also impleaded in the name of his benamidar, an ex parte decree was passed, but the ex parte decree and also the sale held thereunder were set aside on the application of the mortgagors. Meanwhile the subsequent mortgagee brought a suit on his mortgage which was also decreed ex parte. The proceedings in the 1st suit having been re-opened, the subsequent mortgagee was made a party in his own name, but more than 12 years after the due date specified in the bond, and it was not disputed that prior to the proceedings the plaintiff's cause of action against the real subsequent mortgagee was kept concealed from him:

Held, (1) that whether section 18 of the Limitation Act was applied or the view be taken that the mortgagee was on the record from the outset in the name of his benamidar, the suit as against him was not barred by limitation; and

(2) that the plaintiffs having failed, in the suit on the subsequent mortgage, to which they were made parties, to set up their right of priority under their prior mortgage, they could not now set up that right and their suit was barred by Explanation IV to section 11 of the Civil Procedure Code. C. RAJENDRA KUMAR GHOSH v. ADINADI 860

Mortgagor and mortgagee—Agreement that mortgaged property shall be deemed sold if interest not paid on certain date—Failure of payment—Suit for specific performance—Interest after specified date, whether allowable to mortgagee.

Where a mortgagor agreed with his mortgagee that if he failed to pay all the interest due on the mortgage-money on a particular date, the mortgaged property shall be deemed to be sold to him for a certain amount and he should be paid the difference between that amount and the mortgage amount with interest due thereon; and on his failing to pay the interest on the specified date, the mortgagee sued for specific performance of this contract:

Held, that, as equity regards as done what should have been done, the mortgagee became ths owner of the property on the date the mortgagor failed to pay the interest and that he is not entitled to any further interest on the mortgage-money, but that he should pay to the mortgagor the difference between the purchase money and the principal and interest due thereon up to the specified date. L. B. DINYAR D. HIRJI KHORSHED v. MAUNG INN. 877

—————————— Redemption—Costs of unsuccessful redemption suit, whether mortgagee can add to his security—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882*), ss.* 58, 60, 92 - 'Mortgage money', meaning of—Tender—Validity of conditional tender.

A mortgagee is entitled to add to his mortgage security the costs incurred by him in defending an unsuccessful redemption suit by the mortgagor and the mortgagor is bound to pay the same before redemption.

It is an undoubted rule of equity that in taking an account between a mortgagee and a mortgagor, the former is entitled to be reimbursed all moneys properly and reasonably expended by him with reference to the mortgaged property. The payment of such expenses may be regarded as an implied term of the mortgage contract or as a condition imposed by a Court of equity upon the party who has invoked its assistance and the amount is added to the sum due on the security.

The term mortgage money in sections 58, 60 and 92 of the Transfer of Property Act includes all moneys which, on taking an account between the parties, may be properly allowed to the mortgagee.

Mortgagor and mortgagee concld.—

The Transfer of Property Act is not a consolidating Statute and the right of a mortgagee to a general account of the moneys due to him under the mortgage contract is saved by the provision of section 2 (b) of the Act and his right has not been cut down to an account merely of the principal sum and interest by the said sections. A tender of money admitted to be due by a mortgagor is not valid pro tanto, if a larger sum is in fact due, if the tender is accompanied by a demand for cancellation and delivery of the mortgage-deed.

A tender by a person who has entered into a contract for purchasing the equity of redemption is not valid if conditional on the delivery to him of the title-deeds. M. VARADARAJULU CHETTY v. DHANALAKSHMI AMMAL, 16 M. L. T. 365 184

Muhammadan Law—Khula divorce—Agent—Benami transaction—Source of purchase-money—Principle of "advancement"—Father purchasing property in son's name, whether gift—Presumption.

A khula divorce is a divorce where the wife alone is desirous of having the marriage dissolved and in such a divorce the wife may reserve an option to revoke it.

Once a transaction is found to be benami, it becomes a question of evidence as to who is the real purchaser. The mere fact of one man posing at the time of purchase as agent for the benamidar is not conclusive proof that the purchase-money belonged entirely to the benamidar. The English principle of advancement is not applicable in this country.

When a Mussalman father purchases property in the name of his son, no presumption arises in India that a gift of the property was intended to be made to the son.

Where the plaintiff has never been in actual possession of the lands and has exercised no control over them, though they were bought in his name, the best criterion is to consider from what source the purchase-money came. L. B. ABDUL RAHMAN KHAN LAUDIE v. MA KYE 102

——— ——— ——— Widow in possession of her husband's estate in lieu of dower—Transfer of such possession, how effective.

The right of a Muhammadan widow to remain in possession of her husband's estate in lieu of unpaid arrears of her dower-debt is a right of a peculiar nature and can only be transferred along with the dower-debt itself. A. MOHAMMAD HUSAIN v. BASHIRAN, 12 A. L. J. 1141 109

Mulgeni lessee—Darkhast grant land, whether appurtenance of leased property 376

Murder. See PENAL CODE, ss. 84, 300.

Mussalmans Wakf Validating Act (VI of 1913), retrospective effect of.

The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913, refers solely to wakfs created after the Act and has no retrospective effect. B. AMIRBIBI v. AZIZABIBI, 16 BOM. L. R. 977 906

Mutation, ordinary practice in—Trustee, possession with, mutation in case of—Sale, mutation claimed on basis of—Possession to be shown in disputed cases—Vendor in possession and disputing vendee's claim to mutation—Vendee cannot claim mutation—U. P. Land Revenue Act (III of 1901), ss. 34, 35, 40.

Where possession is with a trustee, mutation is ordinarily effected in favour of persons on whose behalf the possession is held.

In no disputed case, whether of sale, mortgage or lease, can mutation be given unless it is shown that the applicant has possession or that possession is doubtful.

Where the vendor is in possession and disputes the vendee's claim to mutation, the latter cannot get mutation in his favour. U P B. R. JOTI PRASAD v. BALWANT SINGH, 1 O. L. J. 684 880

Nakesh service. See GRANT.

Nanjai holding—Ryot's right to use a portion of holding as seed-bed—Damages for non-cultivation—Zemindar must prove wrong use—Burden of proof 797

Necessity. See HINDU LAW.

Negligence. death by—Accident 664

Nim-howla tenure—No covenant against involuntary alienation of tenants or for re-entry—Purchaser of tenure at execution sale, right of—Landlord, whether entitled to sue original tenant—Decree, whether binding on purchaser.

Where a nim-howla tenure was expressly made non-transferable to any one except the landlord but where there was no covenant against involuntary alienation or for re-entry, a purchaser at an execution sale of the right, title and interest of the tenants in the tenure acquires a good title by his purchase and it is not open to the landlord to sue the original tenants with a view to obtain a decree whereby he could proceed against the tenure in the hands of the purchaser. C. PROMODE RANJAN GHOSH v. ASWINI KUMAR NAG, 18 C. W. N. 1138 23

Occupancy-holding. illegal transfer of—Ejectment—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for declaration that mortgage of occupancy is null and void, whether cognizable by Civil Court 419

——— ——— ——— Succession. See AGRA TENANCY ACT, s. 22.

——— ——— ———, transfer of, without landlord's consent or ratification—Transfer voidable—Rule affirmed in Central Provinces Tenancy Act (IX of 1883).

A transfer of an occupancy-holding is voidable at the instance of the landlord unless he consented to the transfer at the time it was made or subsequently. This rule was merely affirmed in the Central Provinces Tenancy Act IX of 1883. N. JAIRAM v. SUNDERLAL, 10 N. L. R. 146 698

Occupancy rights, succession to—Right of collaterals—Claim based on agreement—Entry in Settlement Record, effect of—Agreement, how proved 404

Occupation, unauthorised—Consent of landlord to tenant's occupation, absence of—Occupation, unauthorised—Rent, recovery of, suit for Fair and equitable rent to be determined—Lawful occupation subsequently becoming unlawful, effect of—Withdrawal of consent previously given, effect of—Landlord's impossibility to have given consent at commencement of tenant's occupation, effect of—"Occupied," interpretation of—Suit for determination and recovery of rent, maintainability of 242

Offer by post to tender expenses, whether legal tender 121

Order, cancellation of—Court, one and same—Predecessor-in-office, order passed by—Successor-in-office not to go behind order passed by his predecessor.

So far as one and the same Court is concerned, a successor-in-office cannot go behind the order passed hy his predecessor and cancel it as incorrect. U. P. B. R. SARUPA v. KARAM ULLAH, 1 O. L. J. 682 872 Oudh Laws Act (XVIII of 1876), s. 9, cl. 2)—Pre-emption, right of - Sharer in mahal being related to vendor, preferential right of, over sharer not so related.

Where certain lands held in under-proprietary tenure, situate in a village consisting of only one mahal, within the meaning of section 9 of Act XVIII of 1876, were sold to persons who owned a proprietary share in the village but were not related to the vendor, and a suit for pre-emption was instituted by the appellants who not only owned a proprietary share in the village but were also related to the vendors:

Held, that the appellants could claim pre-emption as co-sharers in the mahal under clause (2) and as they were related to the vendors while the vendees were not so related the appellants had a right preferential to that possessed by the vendees. O. BAKKHA SINGH v. GAYA DIN SINGH, 17 O. C. 339; 2 O. L. J. 148 517

Oudh Rent Act (XXII of 1886), s. 107B—"Judicial decision," interpretation of—Settlement Court decree declaring muafidar to hold muafi heritably—Resumption.

A Settlement Court decree declaring a person as entitled to hold certain land rent-free so long as there are heirs to succeed to him, is a "judicial decision" as contemplated by section 107B of the Oudh Rent Act. U. P. B. R. SHAIBUNNISSA v. KARAMAT ALI, 1 O. L. J. 693 722

——— ——— ——— s. 107G — Grove-holder, nature of, tenure of—Resumption—Groves not held as muafi at Settlement—Assessment of rent—Certified copy of extract from Settlement Record, mistake in, allegation as to—Deputy Commissioner, duty of—Settlement Records to be referred to.

The tenure of a grove-holder is liable to resumption on the expiry of the term during which the land remains grove.

Plots held at the time of the Settlement as groves, and not as muafi, ought to be assessed to rent under section 07G of the Oudh Rent Act when they are brought under cultivation.

Where it is alleged before a Deputy Commissioner that there is a mistake in a certified copy of an extract from the Settlement Records, he ought to refer to the original records in order to ascertain the truth in the allegation. U. P. B. R. BENI MADHO v. KANHAIYA LAL, 1 O. L. J. 583 556

Oudh Rent Act—contd.

——— ——— ——— s. 107H—Under-proprietary rights, claim for—Gift, deed of, muafi held under—Maintenance, grant for—Proprietary rights, full, not gifted—Government revenue to be paid by grantor—Vested right in grantee, loss or surrender of, to be proved.

The second paragraph of section 107H of the Oudh Rent Act does not apply to a case where there is no gift of full proprietary rights and the grantor binds himself to pay the Government revenue for the land given by him as muafi for the purpose of maintenance, unless it is proved that the land is given in consideration of the loss or surrender of a vested right in the grantee U P. B. R. NARPAT SINGH v. GUR BAKHSH SINGH, 1 O. L. J. 589 686

——— ——— ——— ss. 108 (2), 127—Consent of landlord to tenant's occupation, absence of—Occupation, unauthorised—Rent, recovery of, suit for—Fair and equitable rent to be determined—Lawful occupation subsequently becoming unlawful, effect of—Withdrawal of consent previously given, effect of—Landlord's impossibility to have given consent at commencement of tenant's occupation, effect of—"Occupied," interpretation of—Suit for determination and recovery of rent, maintainability of.

In section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act the absence of consent refers to the period for which the rent is claimed, but where the occupation was by previous consent or was otherwise lawful, a mere withdrawal of the consent by the landlord does not bring the case within the purview of that section.

The object of section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act is to give a landlord the option of suing a trespasser in the Civil Court for possession and damages, or treating him for the period of his unauthorised occupation as a tenant and suing him for the recovery of rent at such rate as the Rent Court may consider fair and equitable.

An occupation which was lawful in its inception is not excluded from the operation of section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act if it subsequently became unlawful, in the same way as an occupation which began by consent cannot be included in it merely by the spasmodic withdrawal of that consent.

The defendant, while a co-sharer in a village, himself cultivated some land, and continued to do so without payment of any rent after his share was sold to the plaintiff, the land being such as could not have become an ex-proprietary holding. The plaintiff sued the defendan for arrears of rent for the period subsequent to the sale, under sections 127 and 108 of the Oudh Rent Act. It was not alleged that the plaintiff had given his consent to the defendant's occupation at or after the purchase:

Held, that, as the defendant's right as against the plaintiff to use and occupy the land and the plaintiff's right to claim rent therefor came into existence for the first time after the sale and as there was no occasion for the plaintiff to have given his consent to the defendant's occupation at its commencement, the plaintiff was entitled to have the rent determined under section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act and claim

Oudh Rent Act—concld.

its recovery under section 108 (2) of that Act in one and the same suit. O. LALA SINGH v. HAZARI SINGH, 1 O. L. J. 574; 17 O. C. 343 242

——— ——— ——— ss. 126, 138—Intervenor—Good faith—Rent, payment of—Joint tenants—Co-sharer, right of, to collect his share of rent separately—Recovery of co-sharer's fractional share of rent, suit for, not maintainable—Division of joint lands or tenants necessary—Tenant paying rent to one co-sharer alone, released from further liability.

In cases under section 138 of the Oudh Rent Act the main question for consideration is, whether the tenants paid the rents for the period in suit to the intervenor in good faith and whether the intervenor was in actual receipt and enjoyment of the rents from the tenants previous to the receipt of the rents sued for.

In the case of joint tenants, it is not open to a co-sharer to collect his share of the rents separately till the lands or tenants are divided. A suit by a co-sharer to recover his fractional share of rents is not maintainable under section 126 of the Oudh Rent Act.

Unless an arrangement between the co-sharers of a village amounts to a division of the joint lands or of the tenants concerned, the payment of rents by the tenants to any of the co-sharers, on whose behalf they are cultivating the joint lands, is sufficient to release them from further liability. O. MAHADEI KUAR v. SANT BAKHSH SINGH, 1 O. L. J. 570 237

——— ——— ——— s. 127 242, 904

——— ——— ——— s. 127—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Ejectment by notice—Adverse proprietary possession pleaded—Prima facie case made out—Possession, actual, with tenants 709

——— ——— ——— s. 138 237

Pardanashin lady, dealings with, how conducted 500

Parties—Defendant—Living person sued but dead person entered as defendant by mistake—Summons rightly served on living defendant—Ex parte decree passed—Decree whether ultra vires as passed against a deceased defendant.

A widow was sued on a bond executed by her husband. But in the plaint instead of her name the name of her husband's another wife, who had predeceased him, was wrongly entered as the defendant in the case. However, she accepted the summons as a good summons and on her failure to appear on the date fixed for hearing, an ex parte decree was passed:

Held that the wrong description in the summons was a mere irregularity and that the decree was not a nullity on the ground that it had been passed against a person who was dead at the time the suit. N. MANJULA v. SHANKAR, 10 N. L. R. 144 830

Partition, evidence of 390

——— ——— Hindu Law—One member separating from others—Presumption 43

——— ———, if allowed between alienee and minor 489

Partition—concld.

——— ——— of inam, suit for—Necessity of certificate 87

——— ——— ———, oral, whether valid 455

——— ——— Site of building of one co-sharer allotted to another—Owner of building failing to express his intention to retain building on payment of ground-rent, effect of—Right to keep house after partition—Right to materials of house 933

——— ——— proceedings, effect of instituting—Lambardar—Agent—Power to consent to transfer of occupancy holding 606

Partnership. See CONTRACT ACT, s. 247

———Joint adventure—Dealing by individual—Firm, liability of—Bill, drawer of, discounting acceptance when acceptor owes nothing to him—Liability.

Where goods are purchased or money raised for a joint adventure, and the dealing though ostensibly by an individual is truly and substantially a dealing of the joint adventure, the adventurers are liable as partners. But there is no such responsibility for goods, etc., purchased on the credit of an individual adventurer previously to the contract, though afterwards brought into the joint stock as his contribution.

When a drawer of a bill discounts an acceptance given at a time when the acceptor owes no money to the drawer, the drawer does avail himself of the acceptor's creditor. P. C. KARMALI ABDULLA ALLARAKHIA v. MORA KARIMJI, 17 M. L. T. 35; 2 L. W. 133, 17 BOM. L. R. 103; 19 C. W. N. 337; 13 A. L. J. 121; 21 C. L. J. 122 915

Pauperism inquiry. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, O. XXXIII.

Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), ss. 23, 415, 428—Wrongful gain and wrongful loss—Acting fraudulently or dishonestly.

D who was a horse-dealer was entrusted by C with a mare to be disposed of at the best possible price. He received an offer from L which he did not accept. Subsequently D showed L a telegram which purported to have been sent by C, and thereby induced L to give a higher price for the mare. L stated that the price which he paid was the price which he would have paid even if the mare belonged to D:

Held, that no wrongful loss was caused to L within the meaning of section 23 of the Penal Code, by reason of the fact that he was induced to give a higher price of the horse and D could not, under the circumstances, be held to have acted fraudulently. A. DICK v. EMPEROR, 12 A. L. J. 1258; 16 CR. L. J. 49 641

——— ——— ss. 24, 464, 477A—Wrong entries in Revenue registers—Fraud or dishonesty, no finding of—Intention—Offence, whether committed.

Where the accused, a patwari, made wrong entries in the Revenue registers, but where there was no finding that he did so with intent to defraud or dishonestly, within the meaning of section 24, Indian Penal Code, he did not make a false document as defined in section 464, nor did he fraudulently alter any book or register within the meaning of section 477A of the Penal Code. P. MUHAMMAD SARDAR v. EMPEROR, 25 P. R. 1914 CR.; 16 CR. L. J. 19 323

Penal Code- contd.

——————— s. 75—Previous conviction, proof of, when admissible—Relevancy of previous conviction—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 54, 165.

The proof of a previous conviction, not contemplated by section 75 of the Indian Penal Code, may be adduced, provided the previous conviction is relevant under the Indian Evidence Act.

Where the previous conviction of an accused is relevant with reference to the question whether the provisions of section 562 of the Code of Criminal Procedure would apply to his case and where it is also relevant on the question of punishment, a Court is justified in taking it into consideration in deciding the question of punishment after the accused is found guilty. B. ISMAIL ALIBHAI v. EMPEROR, 16 BOM. L. R. 934; 16 CR. L. J 83 995

——————— s. 84—Unsoundness of mind—Mental derangement falling short of unsoundness—Murder—Lesser penalty—Youth ordinarily extenuating circumstance.

The law requires that a man shall be held responsible for his acts although he may be suffering from mental derangement in cases where that mental derangement falls short of the unsoundness of mind described in section 84 of the Penal Code.

On proof of such mental derangement in a murderer, the lesser sentence may be passed.

Ordinarily youth is itself an extenuating circumstance, but it does not mean that in every case of murder, where the accused is under a certain age, the lesser penalty must be awarded. U. P. B. R. NGA KAN HLA v. EMPEROT, U. B. R. (1914) II 28.; 16 CR. L. J 95. 1007

——————— ss. 99, 100—Right of private defence of person—Plea need not be set up when shown by circumstances—Right, when to be exercised—Persons aiding in such defence, whether commit offence.

If the circumstances show that the right of private defence was legitimately exercised, the Court should take it into consideration even though self-defence was not specifically pleaded.

Where danger to the person of the accused was imminent and where the evidence shows that he had no time to seek the aid of the public authorities:

Held, that he was entitled to use all force necessary to repel the attack, even to the extent of firing a gun at his assailants. Such acts for repelling the attack do not amount to a criminal offence nor are the persons aiding him in such acts, guilty of being members of an unlawful assembly. M. PACHAI GOUNDEN, In re, 15 CR. L. J. 710 158

——————— ss. 99, 147, 332—Riot to resist illegal search—Beating Police acting in good faith under colour of their office—Right of private defence—Search beyond limits of Police Officer's station—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 165 (1).

Where in the course of a search conducted beyond the limits of a Police Officer's station, a riot broke out with the object of resisting the search and the Police party were beaten:

Held, (1) that the search was illegal;

(2) that the resistence to an illegal search did not constitute an offence under section 332 of the Penal Code;

Penal Code—contd.

(3) that the accused had no right of private defence, as the Police were acting in good faith under colour of their office, and even if they had the right, they exceeded it when they beat the Police. S. MIR SHAH NAWAZ KHAN v. EMPEROR, 8 S. L. R. 1; 16 CR. L. J. 15 319

——————— s. 100 158

——————— ss. 143, 447—Criminal trespass—Bona fide assertion of grazing right Unlawful assembly.

A person cannot be convicted of criminal trespass because he asserts a grazing right which has never been declared against him and which he bona fide believes he has, nor can he be said to be a member of an unlawful assembly because he went with his party and protested against the land being ploughed up. C. REAJADDIN MOLLA v. EMPEROR, 18 C. W. N. 1245; 15 CR. L. J. 725 173

——————— s. 147 319

——————— ss. 147, 323—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 236, 237, applicability of—Rioting, charge and conviction of—Appellate Court, power of, to set aside conviction of rioting and convict under s. 323.

Where the accused were originally charged under section 147, Indian Penal Code, and convicted and sentenced under that section, but on appeal the Appellate Court held that there was no case under section 147, Indian Penal Code, but that there was a case against them under section 323, Indian Penal Code, and accordingly set aside the conviction and sentence under section 147, Indian Penal Code, and convicted the accused under section 323, Indian Penal Code, although no charge was originally framed against them under that section:

Held, that as no charge was framed against the accused of an offence under section 323, Indian Penal Code, they were not prepared to give any defence against that charge; and, unless the facts of the case brought it under section 236, Criminal Procedure Code, they could not be lawfully convicted of any other offence under section 237 of th Code. C. GENU MANJHI v. EMPEROR, 18 C. W. N. 1276; 15 CR. L. J. 704 152

——————— ss. 147, 353—Charge of rioting—Common object wrongly stated, effect of—Acquittal - Conviction under another section, whether sustained—Proper course—Procedure.

Where in an appeal against conviction for rioting, a Sessions Judge acquits the accused finding that there has been an error or omission in the statement of the common object as set out in the charge, but convicts them of an offence under another section, which the accused were not called upon to answer, he commits a manifest error and the conviction cannot be sustained, as the accused are prejudiced thereby.

In such a case the order of acquittal made by the Sessions Judge should also be set aside and the accused should be ordered to be re-tried on charges properly framed. C. HARNARAIN SARDAR v. EMPEROR, 18 C. W. N. 1274; 16 CR. L. J. 42 634

——————— s. 149—Assembly not unlawful—Offence committed by one—Liability of others.

Section 149 of the Penal Code does not operate

Penal Code—contd.

make all the members of an assembly which is not unlawful, equally guilty of an offence committed by one of them. P. MIHAN SINGH v. EMPEROR, 26 P. R. 1914 CR.; 16 CR. L. J. 60 652

——— —— s. 185—Bidding for right to sell drugs without intention of performing the obligation —Offence.

A person who bids at a sale held by a Collector of the right to sell drugs in a certain area, without any intention of performing the obligation under which he is laying himself at the time of bidding, and gives a false name, is guilty of an offence under section 185 of the Indian Penal Code. A. BISHAN PRASAD v. EMPEROR, 13 A. L. J. 109; 16 CR L. J. 54; 37 A. 128 646

——— ——— —— s. 188—Verbal order to remove obstruction, whether legal -Disobeying such order, whether offence—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss 133, 137.

A verbal order to remove an obstruction has not the effect of a final order under section 137, Criminal Procedure Code, and is not lawful, and a person disobeying such an order is not guilty of an offence under section 188, Indian Penal Code. C. JANAKI NATH CHAKRAVARTI v. JNANENDRA NATH CHAKRAVARTI, 16 CR. L. J. 24 328

——— ——— s. 193—Giving false evidence, charge of—Contradictory statements, when can be made basis of conviction.

A charge of perjury based on two mutually contradictory statements can be successful only where the two statements are necessary and irreconcilably contradictory of each other.

Where the accused called a person as his relation at one time, by a term not necessarily implying near relationship, and said subsequently that he was not his relation, there is no necessary contradiction between the statements and no conviction for perjury can be sustained on such statements M. PARVATANENI KAMAYYA, In re, (1915) M. W. N. 34; 16 CR. L. J. 14 318

——— —— s. 300—Murder—Circumstantial evidence—Unsatisfactory evidence of identification of body—Conviction, whether sustainable.

A conviction of murder cannot be sustained where the only circumstantial evidence against the accused is that the deceased was seized by the accused and the husband of the deceased in the road, placed on a camel and carried towards a canal in which her body was afterwards found completely dismembered, specially when the evidence of identification of the body is unsatisfactory and there is no direct evidence connecting the accused with the commission of the crime P. CHUHAR SINGH v. EMPEROR, 40 P. W. R. 1914 CR.; 16 CR L. J. 89 1001

——— ——— ss. 300, 323—Murder—Four accused joined in beating of which two only gave fatal blows—Responsibility of other two—Hurt.

Where four persons joined in beating another, out of them two gave him fatal blows on the head which resulted in his death, while the remaining two struck him on the body with no exceptional violence, and were not shown to have realized that they were taking part in a murder or how grave the injuries inflicted by their comrades were. P. GUL SHAH v. EMPEROR, 41 P. W. R 1914 Cr.; 16 CR. L. J. 93 1005

Penal Code—contd.

——— ——— s. 302—Accused's statement not incriminating himself, whether confession—Identification, when sufficient to convict- Grave suspicion, whether sufficient for conviction.

An accused's statement which does not incriminate himself, is not a confession and cannot be used against his co-accused.

Identification, unless conclusive, cannot be made the basis of a conviction, specially when the identifiers are nervously upset and do not mention the striking features of the accused in their first information.

The gravest suspicion against the accused will not suffice to convict them of a crime unless evidence establishes it beyond all doubt. L. B. NGA PO THEIN v. EMPEROR, 16 CR. L. J. 25 329

——— s. 302—Murder—Circumstantial evidence—Death sentence—Age of accused, whether to be considered in imposition of death sentence.

Where the appellant was found guilty of having murdered a child of eight years, and the Sessions Judge who tried him imposed a sentence of transportation for life, having regard to his youth and to the fact that the evidence was purely circumstantial:

Held, that in the circumstances of the case the High Court was not prepared to interfere with the sentence.

There is no rule or principle of law which prohibits the imposition of a death sentence in cases where the evidence is purely circumstantial.

Per Ayling, J. Where the Court is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused, the fact that the evidence is circumstantial and not direct, is not a factor which should per se affect the sentence.

Per Kumaraswamy Sastri, J.—A consideration of the species of evidence on which the guilt of an accused is found should not of itself determine the nature of the evidence.

Circumstantial evidence like any other must, in every case, be tested and weighed and prevail or not by its own inherent proving force.

Per Ayling and Kumaraswamy Sastri, JJ.—Age of the accused is a factor which ought to be taken into consideration in determining the sentence to be imposed. M. MUNIANDI v. EMPEROR, 1 L. W. 1007; 16 M. L. T. 535; (1915) M. W. N. 34; 16 CR. L. J. 28 332

——— ——— s. 302—Murder by grandmother of her grandchild—No justification—Sentence, appropriate Circumstantial evidence, whether alone sufficient to pass death sentence—Lenity to woman—Rule of practice—Sex of accused, whether determining factor in passing death sentence—Principle to exercise discretion misconceived — Revision — High Court, power of interference.

Where an old woman of 50 years of age, who had long hated her daughter-in-law and resented her intrusion and had worked herself up to a frenzy of hatred against her, taking advantage of her absence from the house, entered it and murdered her five years' old grandchild with horrible cruelty, and nothing was alleged by her or suggested on her behalf which could, if established, have afforded any sort of legal or moral justification, the mere fact that the case rests on circumstantial and not direct evidence should not affect the passing of death sentence.

Penal Code—contd.

Per Ayling, J.—Comparative lenity to women is a commonly accepted rule of practice though, needless to say, not of law, but in dealing with an atrocious crime like this the mere sex of the criminal should not bar the imposition of a sentence which would be considered appropriate in the case of a man.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J (dissenting)—Where a conviction is based purely upon circumstantial evidence, it is an element to be taken into consideration in determining the nature of the sentence. Where, in addition to it, there are the facts that the prisoner is a woman 50 years old and a period of four months has elapsed from the date of her conviction, no case is made out for altering the sentence of transportation for life into one of death.

Per Oldfield, J.—Where the principle on which a Sessions Judge exercises his discretion is misconceived, a High Court can interfere in revision with that exercise of discretion. M. RASAMMAL, In re, 16 CR. L. J. 20 324 ——— ——— ss. 302, 325—Murder—Hanging up unconscious body believing it to be dead—Death due to hanging—Intention—Offence—Grievous hurt.

The accused assaulted his wife, who became unconscious and was thought to be dead. Then in order to create an appearance that she had committed suicide, he took up her unconscious body and hung it up by a rope, thinking it to be a dead body, but the medical evidence showed that most probably she had died of hanging:

Held, that there could be no intention to kill the woman when he thought that she was already dead and that, therefore, the offence committed was not of murder under section 302 but only an offence under section 325, Indian Penal Code. C EMPEROR v. DALU SARDAR, 18 C. W. N. 1279; 15 CR. L. J. 709 157

——— ——— s. 304A—Death by negligence—Boat, over-crowded, sinking of—Sinking due to strong wind and rough water and resulting in loss of life—Unseaworthy condition of boat not proved—Lessees of ferry not responsible—Accident.

Where owing to strong wind and rough water a ferry-boat overturns or sinks resulting in loss of life, the lessees of the ferry cannot be convicted of an offence under section 304A, Indian Penal Code, unless it is shown that the boat, although overcrowded, was in an unseaworthy condition at the time of the occurrence. O. RAGHU v. EMPEROR, 1 O. L. J. 711; 16 CR. L. J. 72 664

——— ——— s. 323 1005

——— ——— s. 325 157

——— ——— s. 332 319

——— ——— s. 349 168

——— ——— s. 353 634

——— ——— ss. 379, 442, 457, 511—Trespass in cattle enclosure—'Building,' meaning of—Attempt to commit theft.

The mere surrounding of an open space of ground by a wall or a fence of any kind cannot be deemed to convert the open space into a "building" within the meaning of section 442, Indian Penal Code, and a person entering such an enclosure with intent to commit theft of cattle cannot be convicted under section 457 of the Code. But he is guilty of an offence under sections 379/511, as the attempt to commit theft may be said to have begun when he entered the enclosure. P. KOHMI v. EMPEROR, 24 P. R. 1914 CR.; 16 CR. L. J. 1 305

——— ——— s. 401—Habitual gang of thieves Facts necessary to be proved in order to sustain conviction—Evidence of bad character—"Agoo", position of—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 49—"Usages of any body of men", whether cover Panchayat's inferences or conclusions Relevant fact—Evidence as to admission and confession, whether admissible.

In order to sustain a conviction on a charge under section 401, Indian Penal Code, it is necessary to prove

(1) that there existed a gang of persons;
(2) that those persons were associated for the purpose of committing theft or robbery;
(3) that theft or robbery was to be committed habitually; and
(4) that the accused was a member of such gang.

But it is not necessary that each individual member of the gang should be proved to have habitually committed theft in company with the other members. Once it is established that a gang, however small in number, was formed for the purpose of habitually committing theft, all persons who thereafter joined that gang in one or more cases of theft come within the purview of section 401.

The fact that an accused person is of bad character or is reputed to be a thief or a habitual thief is no evidence against him for the purposes of a charge under section 401, Indian Penal Code.

The agoo (the receiver of stolen property in the interests of theives who form a gang is a principal member of the gang and is within the purview of section 401.

The words "usages of any body of men", in section 49 of the Evidence Act, do not cover the inferences or conclusions which village panchayats are wont to draw on the basis of their experience from the behaviour of alleged thieves under certain circumstances: and the opinion formed by the members of a panchayat as to the guilt of suspects when the latter decline to prove their innocence in the manner laid down by the panchayat is not a relevant fact. Evidence as to admissions and promises made by alleged thieves before a panchayat is admissible without there being proof of the actual words used by the suspects before the panchayat. P. BEJA v. EMPEROR, 13 P. R. 1914 CR.; 16 CR. L. J. 33 625

——— ——— ss. 405, 409 Criminal breach of trust—Misappropriation of sale-proceeds—Intention at time of sale—Auctioneer not carrying out terms of contract, liability of.

Section 405, Indian Penal Code, does not cover misappropriation of the sale-proceeds of property entrusted to a person.

A person cannot be said to have disposed of the sale-proceeds of property entrusted to him in violation of his contract dishonestly, unless it is shown that he had the intention of dishonestly appropriating the sale-proceeds at the time of the sale.

Penal Code--concld.

An auctioneer cannot be said to be liable for criminal breach of trust if he does not punctually carry out every term in the agreement.

A person charged with criminal breach of trust of property entrusted to him cannot be convicted of embezzling the amount obtained by dealing with the property. C. BALTHASAR v. EMPEROR, 41 C. 844; 15 CR. L. J. 683; 19 C. W. N. 422 131

——— ——— s. 409 131

——— ——— s. 415 641

——— ——— ss. 426, 447—Mischief Trespass—Trespasser's entry, whether gives him judicial possession—Removal of obstruction, whether offence—Pathway—Obstruction.

A mere trespasser cannot obtain what is known n law as possession by the act of entry, or by the continuance of that act, so long as the act is disputed and resisted.

Therefore, if a person takes possession of the site of a public road and builds upon it to the obstruction o the public, it is no offence for a member of the public to pull down that obstruction and exercise his right of way. M. DHARMALINGA MUDALI, In re, 1 L. W. 911; 15 CR. L. J. 723 171

——— ——— s. 428 641

——— ——— s. 442 305

——— ——— s. 447 171, 173

——— ——— ss. 448, 511—Attempt to commit criminal trespass—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 227—Charge, amendment of Entry on a verandah may not amount to house-trespass, but such entry coupled with an attempt to push open the door, does amount to an attempt to commit the offence. Those who accompany the accused but remain looking on without entering on the complainant's property are not guilty of criminal trespass even if they abuse.

When a Magistrate amends the charge, he should not write over the original charge but should leave it on the file for reference, if necessary, and should write the new charge separately and correctly date it. L. B. NGA PAN HLAING v. EMPEROR, 16 CR. L. J. 2 306

——— ——— s. 457 305

——— ——— s. 464 323

——— ——— s. 465—Signing telegram in another's name—No intent to injure—Forgery—Denial of fact by accused—Defence inconsistent with denial.

The mere signing a telegram in another's name, where it is not shown to have been done with intent to injure him and where it does not actually injure him, does not constitute the offence of forgery, even though the signature may have been made without the authority of such person.

An accused is not bound by any statement denying any fact against him if he desires subsequently to take a further defence inconsistent with the denial. C. KALI PRASAD BANERJEE v. EMPEROR, 16 CR. L. J. 76 668

——— ——— s. 477A 323

——— ——— s. 492, Expl. 4 460

——— ——— s. 511 305, 306

Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), s. 4—Suit for partition of inam—Necessity of certificate—Hindu Law—Joint undivided family—Desai inam—Devolution of inam on managing member—Right of other members to share Inam—Grant of land and not merely of land-revenue Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

The pre-requisite of filing a certificate under section 4 of the Pensions Act has no application where the suit in the Civil Court is for partition of the inam among the members of the family to which the grant was made, nor does that section apply where the grant is not merely of land-revenue but of land also.

Where on the date of the grant there was no kudiyaram interest in the land, the presumption is that the grant is not merely of land-revenue but of land also.

Where a Desai Inam devolves on the managing member of a joint undivided Hindu family for the time being, the presumption is that the devolution is for the benefit of all the members of the family and not for that of the manager alone. The other members of the family are, therefore, entitled to shares in the inam. M NANJUNDIAH v. VENKATA SUBBAYA, 1 L. W. 670; 16 M. L. T. 239; 27 M. L. J. 618 87

——— ——— ——— ss. 11, 12 743

Personal Law. See CUSTOM.

Petition-writer, position of—Case, conduct of, entrusted to petition-writer—Litigation, experience in, effect of—Legal consequences of acts—Transaction, true import of—Undue influence 26

Plaint, amendment of. See AMENDMENT OF PLAINT 383

——— ———, amendment of—Introducing cause of action barred by limitation, whether permissible 42

——— ———, signing and verification of—Practice—parties not getting summons served on witnesses—Court, power of—Procedure 240

Plea—Denial of fact by accused—Defence inconsistent with denial 668

Pleader and client—Oral agreement for payment of fees and expenses, validity of 960

Pleadings—Construction 337

——— ———, object of—Court, duty of, where pleadings vague and unsatisfactory 547

——— ———, point not stated in, tried to be established—Rebutting evidence, objection as to, not entertainable—Cross-examination, question put in—Admission—Statements of deceased testator or executant, when admissible in evidence—Deceased executant, conduct of, relevancy of 547

Police Constable in possession of money contrary to order, conviction of—Defence, consideration of—Plea of guilty—Admission—Government order, proof of—Practice 151

Possession—Evidence—Possession of one part, whether possession of other part.

Where in a suit for possession of land by the Secretary of State for India it is proved that the plot in dispute is a part of the Nazul lands which are in possession of the Government, it is not necessary to give further evidence of possession. A. INAYAT HUSSAIN v. SECRETARY OF STATE, 12 A. L. J. 894 86

Post mark—Genuinenesss—Presumption—Evidence of date and place of stamping—Date of letter—Date of posting—Date of tender of postal article to addressee—Date of delivery—Evidence—Time of trains—Matter of public notoriety—Court, notice by—Letter refused—Proof of refusal—Indorsement by postal peon, value and proof of—Presumption of fact—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 16, 23, 33, 114. 562

Post Office Act (VI of 1898), s. 52—Misappropriation of Postal money order—Evidence, value of—Mere suspicion whether sufficient evidence—Oral or documentary evidence to prove statements made in departmental inquiry, whether admissible.

Where the only evidence against the accused, charged with misappropriating a Telegraphic money order, is that the postal account contained entries of delivery on dates different from those on which the actual deliveries were made, that merely creates a suspicion and is not sufficient to prove misappropriation.

Oral or documentary evidence as to the statements made by a Postman in the course of a departmental inquiry are not admissible in evidence in his absence. M. KUPPALI PRAKASAROW, In re, 16 CR. L. J. 3 307

Power-of-Attorney, construction of—Practice of Chetties—Two Chetties signing joint promissory-notes—Liability—Burden of proof—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 102, 103.

Powers-of-attorney are to be construed strictly, that is to say, where an act purporting to be done under a power-of-attorney is challenged as being in excess of the authority conferred by the power, it is necessary to show that, on a fair construction of the whole instrument, the authority in question is to be found within the four corners of the instrument, either in express terms or by necessary implication.

When two Chetty firms sign joint and several promissory-notes, they are both jointly interested in the moneys borrowed.

If one of the joint executants desires to escape liability, the burden of proof lies on him to prove that the payee had notice and knowledge that he signed merely as a surety for the other.

Twomey, J.—A power to sign accommodation notes may well be inferred from a power to sign promissory-notes jointly with others. L. B. BANK OF RANGOON, LTD., v. SOMASUNDARAM CHETTY 253

Power of Receiver in partition suit to acknowledge debt—Acknowledgment, effect of—Joint family trade—Promissory note executed on behalf of firm by one member, if other members can be sued. 343

Practice Appellate Court not definitely reversing Lower Court's finding—Procedure 454

——— Cross-objections by one respondent against another 83

——— Evidence given in one suit, when treated as evidence in another suit 354

——— Evidence, rules of—General repute, evidence of—Admissibility of evidence, test of—Witness to general reputation—Examination and cross-examination 153

——— Fraud, if alleged, should be specifically pleaded 426

Practice—concld.

——— Plaint, signing and verification of 240

——— Revision—remedy by regular suit available 62

———, rule of—Lenity to woman—Sex of accused, whether determining factor in passing death sentence 324

——— Suit instituted beyond period of limitation—Plaint silent on ground of exemption from law of limitation—Plaintiff, whether can rely on such ground—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 14 441

——— Trial piecemeal—Decision whether legal 954

———, Witness improving on his former statement—Evidence—Colouring matter of blood on clothes and nail parings of accused—Murder.

It is very unsafe to rely upon a witness who materially improves on his former statement.

In the absence of reasonable proof of guilt, the presence of colouring matter of blood on certain articles of clothing of a person accused of murder or of mammalian blood on his nail parings is not of much consequence and can be explained in various ways. P. NADIR v. EMPEROR, 43 P. W. R. 1914 CR.; 16 Cr. L. J. 75 667

Pre-emption. See PUNJAB PRE-EMPTION ACT

———, Appeal—Amount increased—No time fixed for payment of additional amount—Payment within reasonable time, validity of.

In a pre-emption decree the plaintiff was ordered to pay a certain sum of money within a limited time. In appeal this amount was increased, but no time was fixed for the payment of this additional amount. The pre-emptor, however, paid it in a month and one day after the decree:

Held, that the payment was within reasonable time and the pre-emptor was entitled to execute his decree. A GUPTAR TEWARI v. DEBI SARAN TEWARI 12 A. L. J. 842; 36 A. 514 65

———, Co-sharer—Vendee, whether complete stranger 55

———, Custom—A share of a mahal confiscated by Government—Custom already prevailing in the mahal, whether affected by confiscation—"Karibi wa khandani," whether a widow related through a female is.

The confiscation of a share in a mahal by the Government does not affect the custom of pre-emption which was in existence prior to the confiscation, and the grantee of the confiscated share has a right of pre-emption as against a stranger.

Where there is a preferential claim of pre-emption on the ground of the pre-emptor being both "karibi wa khandani" with the vendor, a Hindu widow whose relationship with the vendor is through a female and who is 12 degrees removed from the vendor, is not karibi wa khandani and has no preferential right. A. DURGA PRASAD PANDE v. FATEH BAHADUR SINGH, 12 A. L. J. 725; 36 A. 451 494

Pre-emption—concld.

——— ——— ———, Declaratory suit—Succession—Mortgage of ancestral land—Sale of equity of redemption, whether sale for purposes of pre-emption—Widow of donor still alive—Riwaj-i-am—Sale of ancestral house—Ancestral and acquired property 852

——— ——— ———, right of—Sharer in mahal being related to vendor, preferential right of, over sharer not so related 517

——— ——— ———, suit for—Alternative relief, whether can be claimed—Suit based on Muhammadan Law—Custom proved—Suit, whether to be decreed.

A pre-emptor ought to be allowed to base his case in the alternative, on the Muhammadan Law or custom. Therefore, a suit for pre-emption based on Muhammadan Law can be decreed without an amendment, if it is proved that a custom of pre-emption prevails and the plaintiff has brought himself within it. A. ABDUL HAMID v. MASEETULLAH, 12 A. L. J. 966; 36 A. 573 70

Prescription. See ADVERSE POSSESSION; EASEMENT.

Presidency Towns Insolvency Act (III of 1909), ss. 18, 53—Execution sale—Subsequent insolvency of debtor, if affects purchaser's right—Official Assignee, right of, to set aside sale and stop confirmation.

According to the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code, an auction-purchaser's title dates from the date of the sale, provided the sale is confirmed by the Court. Until confirmation, however, he has an inchoate right which he is entitled to have recognised and perfected. An order of adjudication passed against the judgment-debtor does not affect such right, as the Official Assignee only takes the estate subject to the rights of third persons affecting the same and cannot claim to have the sale cancelled on the ground of any equity possessed by the general body of creditors at the time of the order of adjudication. M. OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE OF MADRAS v. PONNUSAWMY MUDALI, 1 L. W. 1028 421

——— ——— ——— s. 53 421

Presumption. See HINDU LAW.

——— ——— ———Addition to holding by encroachment—Possession for more than 12 years prior to commencement of Act—Ryots—Ejectment 588

——— ——— ———Adverse possession by one co-owner against another—Acts of hostile character—Exclusive possession 768

——— ——— ———Adverse possession—Co-owner—Possession by one co-owner—Burden of proof—Limitation 522

——— ——— ———Agraharam grant—Grantee owner of kudivaram 257

——— ——— ———Benami transaction—Father purchasing property in son's name, whether gift 102

——— ——— ———Bequest of self-acquired property by father to his sons Presumption Property taken by sons, whether joint property—Bequest invalid 333

Presumption—contd.

——— ——— ———"Court may presume possession to follow title", applicability of 436

——— ——— ———Custom or Personal Law—High class Hindus—Sobti Khatris of Gujrat District—Onus 686

——— ——— ———Custom—Succession—Onus—Barki Sayads of Basti Pirdad Khan, Jullundur District—Daughters, whether exclude nephews 492

——— ——— ———of fact 562

——— ——— ———Genuineness of document 30 years old—Question of law or fact—Second appeal—Zemindar, grant by—Ashtabogam and Sarvamaniam, meanings of 117

——— ——— ———Gift by old lady to her children—Undue influence 39

——— ——— ———Grant—Burden of proof 67

——— ——— ———Hindu Law—Illatom form of adoption 54

——— ——— ———Hindu Law—Joint family—Separate acquisition by individual members 33

——— ——— ———Hindu Law—Partition—One member separating from others 43

——— ——— ———Implied engagement—Anicut irrigation, construction of, by Government—Right of owner of land whose supply is cut off to receive free supply—Cause of action—Government, liability of.

Where on the introduction of the anicut system of irrigation into a certain district, the Government allowed free irrigation from the anicuts to all lands which, owing to the construction of several anicut channels and other works connected therewith, were found to have lost, wholly or partially, their pre-existing sources of supply, the owners of such lands, who did not enter into litigation with the Government for interfering with the old sources of supply and who took the water supplied by the Government from the Government anicuts, must be taken to have accepted the offer of Government in satisfaction of their claims against Government and where the Government supplied water for 37 years, a natural and irresistible presumption arises that there was an implied engagement between the parties for the free supply of water and if the Government interferes with such supply the owners of such lands have a good cause of action against the Government.

Where since a Settlement a land-holder has improved his zemindari and brought a large extent of land under wet cultivation by improving his irrigation sources and where the Government by their new anicut system cut off sources of irrigation supply to those large extents of land, it cannot be said that the Government did not undertake liability to supply water free to all those lands whose then existing irrigation sources were interfered with by the Government's constructions but only to those lands which were irrigated at the Settlement. M. ZEMINDAR OF KAPILESWARAPURAM v. SECRETARY OF STATE, 37 M. 355 Note 590

——— ——— ———Judicial acts, regularity of, to be presumed—Proceedings, presumption in respect of 204

Presumption—concld.

——————— Landlord and tenant—Surrender of tenancy, who can accept—Agent—Lambardar 608

——————— Legitimacy—Burden of proof 61

——————— Legitimacy — Non-access — Importence—Question of paternity one of evidence only 956

——————— Mortgage debt—Compound interest payable until default—No provision after that date—Interest—Presupmtion 124

——————— Partition—Certain properties left joint, whether co-parcenary right retained in those properties 514

——————— Tenure appertaining to endowment —Government sanction, whether necessary for suit for enhancement of rent 908

——————— Widow, gift by—Consent of reversioner 757

Principal and agent—Agent contracting in his own name—Suit, right of—Agent and sub-agent—Privity of contract between principal and sub-agent—Dubashes, position of—Sub-agent—Security money with agent Principal adopting agent's acts, rights and liabilities of—Equity 822

——————— One limited Company acting as managing agent for another, whether can make profits in supplying goods.

The plaintiff Company were managing agents of the defendant Company and supplied to the latter, at reasonable retail prices, goods which they themselves had bought wholesale at lower prices:

Held, that the plaintiff Company were not entitled to make any profit on the goods supplied to their principal, the defendant Company. L. B. TWINZAS OIL CO. v. MOWER & CO. 478 ——————— Goods purchased on credit—Contract by agent to pay reasonable rate of interest – Principal, whether bound.

An agreement by an agent to pay a reasonable rate of interest for goods purchased on credit is binding on his principal. M. EDAYAGIRI GOPALARATNAM v. CHOKALINGAM SETTI 365 ——————— Money spent by agent for principal—Right of agent to compensation Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 83.

The right of an agent to be recouped by his principal in respect of losses sustained by the agent in his agency is a direct consequence of the agency contract, and a suit to enforce the right is governed by Article 83 of the Limitation Act. P MANGHI RAM v. RAM SARAN DAS MAMAN CHAND, 35 P. W. R. 1915 415

——————— Suit to recover money—Limitation—Moveable property—Money, whether moveable property—Agency, termination of—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch I, Arts. 89, 115—Agent's contract to account, suit on—Article applicable 760

Priority—Lease—Endorsement by Kanungo—Date from which it takes effect—Subsequent registered lease. 458

——————— Mortgage—Discharge of previous mortgages—Charge 417

Privy Council Appeal from decision of High Court in second appeal, application for—Decision directly involving claim to property of value of Rs. 10,000 6

Probate and Administration Act (V of 1881)—Will, whether can be proved in proceedings other than probate—Will not proved under the Act, effect of Succession Act (X of 1865) s. 187—Deceased, representation of.

A Will may be proved in a proceeding other than a probate proceeding, although no Probate of it has been taken under the Probate and Administration Act V of 1881.

But unless a Probate or Letters of Administration are taken under the Act, a Will cannot prove that anybody named therein has title to the estate of the testator.

Therefore, so long as the Probate of a Will is not taken, the legal heir represents the estate of the deceased and can maintain a suit for the benefit of the estate. C. BASUNTA KUMAR CHUCKERBUTTY v. GOPAL CHUNDER DAS, 18 C. W. N. 1136 21

——————— s. 4 472

——————— ss. 23, 30 and 41—Letters of Administration, limited grant of, when not allowed.

In granting Letters to administer the estate of a deceased person, a limited grant of Letters should not be awarded to the attorney of an absent sharer, if a sharer who is entitled to as much as the absent sharer is within the Province and is willing to administer the estate L. B. ESOOF EBRAHIM MOOLLA v. ESOOF SULAIMAN ABOO 743

——————— s. 24, 25 980

——————— s. 30, 41 743

——————— s. 78—Administration bond Surety's liability, suit to enforce—Limitation —Limitation (Act IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 68.

A suit to enforce the liability of a surety under an administration bond is barred under Article 68 of the Limitation Act, 1908, if not brought within three years of the breach of a condition contained in the bond. L. B. AHMED MOOLA DAWOOD v. FATIMA BEE BEE. 505

——————— s. 90 792

Procedure—Appellate Court not definitely reversing lower Court's finding—Practice 454

——————— Attachment of money in another district 941

——————— Parties not getting summons served on witnesses—Court, power of 240

——————— Question of title raised—Magistrate, duty of, to decide bona fides of question—Civil Court, reference to—Party failing to have recourse to Civil Court—Magistrate, power of—Power under s. 133, how to be used 146

——————— Reformatory Schools Act (VIII of 1897), s. 9 (1) (2)—Magistrate not empowered under s. 8 of Act—Case to be submitted to District Magistrate and not to his immediate Appellate Magistrate 336

Process-fee. filing of—Service of order, proof of—Attachment of immoveable property—Alienation, private, of immoveable property ordered to be attached—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 274—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXI, r. 54—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 114—Presumption—Judicial acts, regularity of, to be presumed—Proceedings, presumption in respect of.

The filing of process-fee for the issue of an order of attachment of an immoveable property is not sufficient proof of service of that order.

A private alienation of an immoveable property effected after the passing of an order for its attachment not actually carried into effect, cannot be treated as invalid, unless proof is offered that all the preliminaries required by section 274, Civil Procedure Code (1882), i.e., Order XXI, rule 54, Civil Procedure Code (1908), have been complied with.

Section 114 of the Evidence Act authorises presumptions to be raised as to the regularity of judicial acts, but a presumption can be made in regard to the proceedings that may follow it. O. LALJI v. GANGA PRASAD, 1 O. L. J. 549 204

Promissory note executed by karnavan but not signed as karnavan—Liability of tarwad property.

Where a suit is based upon a promissory note executed by the deceased karnavan, who did not sign himself as karnavan, no decree can be given against the tarwad property. M. GOVINDAN NAIR v. NANU MENON, (1914) M. W. N. 782; 27 M. L. J. 595 750

——————, suit on—Head of mutt executing promissory note, whether personally liable.

The head of a mutt is personally liable on promissory notes executed by him, unless he has contracted himself out of such liability. M. KASIVASI SOMASUNDARA THAMBIRAN v. VENKATANARAYANA PILLAI 356

Provincial Insolvency Act (III of 1907), ss. 11 (d), 15—Application to be declared insolvent—Bogus debt given in schedule of liabilities, effect of.

Where an applicant is in fact insolvent, his application should not be dismissed merely because he mentions some bogus debts in the schedule of liabilities given with the application.

If he has been guilty of any act of bad faith in drawing up the schedule, he can be suitably dealt with at a later stage by the District Judge under the provisions of the Insolvency Act. A. MUNNI LAL v. BHAGWAN DAS 24

——————— ss. 12 (1), (3), 46 (3)—Creditor's petition—Notice to other creditors, if necessary—Order refusing to add creditor as party—Adjudication—Appealability.

There is nothing in section 12 (3) of the Provincial Insolvency Act, III of 1907, to warrant the contention that in the case of a petition filed by a creditor to adjudge his debtor an insolvent, notice to other creditors is not necessary under section 12 (1) of the said Act.

Under section 46 (3) of the Provincial Insolvency Act an appeal lies to the High Court at the instance of a creditor against an order of adjudication passed on the petition of another creditor if the Court declined to add the former as a party. M. MUTHUKARUPPAN CHETTIAR v. MUTHURAMAN CHETTIAR, 1 L. W. 912; (1914) M. W. N. 899 282

Provincial Insolvency Act—concld.

——————— s. 15 24

——————— s. 16—Receiver, position of 836

——————— s. 18—Insolvent's property in possession of third person—Receiver—Power of Court to put Receiver in possession of such property.

Section 18 of the Provincial Insolvency Act empowers the Court, where it appoints a Receiver, to remove any person, in whose possession or custody any property of the insolvent is, from the possession or custody thereof, provided the insolvent has a right to remove him. A. BANSIDHAR v. KHAROGJIT, 12 A. L. J. 1273; 37 A. 65 926

——————— s. 36—Jurisdiction of District Judge to refer matter to subordinate Court.

An inquiry under section 36 of the Provincial Insolvency Act cannot be delegated to a subordinate Court. The District Judge must himself decide whether or not action should be taken to annul a transfer under the section. A. JAGANNATH v. LACHMAN DAS, 12 A. L. J. 889; 36 A. 549 32

——————— s. 46 (3) 282

Provincial Small Cause Court—Compensation for attachment before judgment, order of—Appeal.

A Small Cause Court has power to award compensation when it issues an interim attachment and dismisses it after the other side is heard and such an order cannot be questioned in appeal. M. KARUMURU VENKATESWAMI v. LANKA TRIPURIAH 359

Public charities. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 92.

Public policy—Agreement to pay money for procuring adoption, validity of 779

Public way, right of Metalled or unmetalled parts of public road, whether public road.

All the ground forming part of a road, whether metalled or not, over which the public have the right of way is the public road. A. MUNICIPAL BOARD, AGRA v. SUDARSHAN DAS SHASTRI, 12 A. L. J. 1137; 37 A. 9 206

Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), s. 54—Pre-emption of entries 969

Punjab Pre-emption Act (II of 1905), s. 12 (c), "economy" Subdivision—Patti created for fiscal purposes—Proprietor of patti, pre-emption, right of—Pre-emptor, obligations of—Extension of time to pay pre-emption money, when allowed by Appellate Court—Law of pre-emption, nature and basis of—Villages of recent growth, whether can be subject of pre-emption.

A pre-emptor is given a very special and peculiar right which overrides the ordinary rights of contract and if he asks the Court to give effect to that right, he must be careful to see that he complies, compatibly with his honest pleas, with the decree which the Court grants him.

Therefore, an Appellate Court will not as of right grant to a pre-emptor an extension of time within which to pay any further sum which that Court finds to be justly payable by him, if in point of fact he has paid no money into Court or has made no tender of a sum to the Court or if the sum he has paid or tendered is unreasonably small.

Punjab Pre-emption Act—concld.

A patti which is created merely for fiscal purposes and in no way represents homogeneity of area or descent of the proprietors, does not constitute a "sub-division" within the meaning and for the purposes of section 12 (c) "secondly" of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, and, therefore, a proprietor in such patti has no right of pre-emption.

The law of pre-emption as applicable to village communities was intended, primarily at all events, to protect the village against the intrusion of strangers, who might otherwise obtain a footing in it contrary to the wishes of the community who were bound to each other by the ties of descent and would resent the advent of an intruder.

Therefore, the principle can have no application when the village is of but recent foundation and is composed of individuals whose sole connection inter se is that each has been selected by Government as a person to whom a grant of land might fitly be made. P. WARYAM SINGH v. MAHTAB SINGH 423

Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), ss. 5, 111, 112—Succession to occupancy rights—Right of collaterals—Claim based on agreement—Entry in Settlement Record, effect of—Agreement, how proved.

In the absence of an express intention to the contrary, agreements recorded in a Settlement Record are not intended to take effect after the expiry of the period of the Settlement.

Where an occupancy tenant died without leaving any male lineal descendants or a widow, and his collaterals sued to succeed to the occupancy rights as against the landlords:

Held, (1) that there being no evidence to prove that the common ancestor of the last occupancy tenant and his collaterals ever occupied the land, the plaintiffs had no right of inheritance under section 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act;

(2) that the plaintiffs' claim could not be allowed as they failed to establish an agreement referred to in section 111 of the Act.

A collateral of a deceased occupancy tenant who bases his claim to succeed to his tenancy upon an agreement, must prove it in one of the three following ways:

(1) He may produce a document which contains the terms agreed upon between the parties;

(2) he may put forward an entry made before the 18th November 1871 and attested by the proper officer in the record of a Regular Settlement sanctioned by the Local Government; or

(3) he may rely on an entry in a Record of Rights made after the above-mentioned date or on an entry in an annual record prepared under the provisions of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887.

An entry which comes under (2) is by law deemed to be an agreement and nothing beyond its mere production is required, while the entry coming under (3) does not proprio vigore amount to an agreement and the party relying upon it has to prove that it embodies the terms of an agreement arrived at between the parties P. HIRA v. MUHAMADI, 2 P. W. R. 1915; 16 P. R. 1915; 64 P. L. R. 1915 404

—— —— —— ss. 77, 100 89

—— —— —— ss. 111, 112 404

Putni Regulation (VIII of 1819), s. 11—Putni Taluk, purchaser of, rights of—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch. II, Art. 121—Encumbrance, meaning of—Suit to annul encumbrance—Adverse possession, when encumbrance—"Court may presume possession to follow title," applicability of—Bengal Tenancy Act VIII of 1885), ss 159, 161, 167, 195 (c)—Encumbrance, suit to annul—Conditions to be fulfilled.

A purchaser of a putni taluk at a sale held under Regulation VIII of 1819 takes the taluk in the state in which it was initially created, that is to say, the purchaser takes the property not free merely of all incumbrances that may have accrued upon the tenure by act of the defaulting proprietor, his representatives or assignees, but also free of the interest acquired by an adverse possession which commenced after the creation of the putni.

Therefore, if a plaintiff relies upon Article 121 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 877, he has to establish that the encumbrance which he seeks to annul is due to adverse possession which commenced after the creation of the putni.

The doctrine "that the Court may presume possession to follow title", however valuable in deciding questions of limitation in cases of conflicting evidence as to possession on both sides, can have no application in a case where the plaintiff has to establish possession at a particular point of time

Where in an ejectment suit by the purchaser of a putni taluk the purchaser does not establish that the possession of the defendants commenced after the creation of the putni or that the proprietor of the estate was in possession at the time when the putni was granted, the interest of the defendants cannot be said to be an incumbrance within the meaning of Article 121 of the Limitation Act, 1877, or within the meaning of section 11, clause (1), of Regulation VIII of 1819 and the purchaser is not entitled to a decree of ejectment

Under the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, also the word incumbrance in sections 159, 161 (a) includes a statutory title acquired by a trespasser in adverse possession of the land of the defaulting tenure, provided such act of possession commenced after the tenure had been created.

The restriction mentioned in section 195 (c) of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not touch the question of the applicability of section 167 to the lands in suit. C. KALIKANANDA MUKHERJEE v. BIPRO DAS PAL CHOUDHURY, 19 C. W. N. 18; 21 C. L. J. 265 436

Putni tenure—Rent, whether first charge—Sale in execution of decree for arrears of rent—Rights of purchaser—Priority between landlord and mortgagee—Bengal Putni Talukdars Regulation (VIII of 1819).

The rent payable by the putnidar to the zemindar for which a decree has already been obtained, is a first charge upon the tenure and takes precedence over all other charges even though they be prior in point of time.

A sale under such a decree passes the tenure to the purchaser who acquires it with liberty to annul all encumbrances

Where property has been sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent, the mortgagee has a charge upon the surplus sale-proceeds, notwithstanding the fact that the mortgage-debt has been transformed into a judgment-debt as the security subsists till the mortgage-decree has been satisfied.

Putni tenure—contd.

Where a sale of a putni tenure takes place under the Putni Regulation and the sale proceeds are deposited with the Collector, the landlord is entitled in the first place to appropriate a sufficient portion of the sale-proceeds before the mortgagee can proceed to realise his dues.

A tenure which has been lawfully sold for its own arrears cannot be again put to sale for the arrears due on account of a previous period.

Obiter dictum. Section 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not contradict section 17 of the Putni Regulation. C. BASANT KUMAR BOSE v. KHULNA LOAN COMPANY, 20 C. L. J. 1 197

Receiver. appointment of—Mortgage-decree—Personal decree, absence of 986

Records of Court lost. Court's power to reconstruct lost records 244

Redemption. See MORTGAGE.

——————— decree passed by implication—Preliminary decree—Foreclosure—Redemption decree must be drawn up 101

——————— , partial—Suit to redeem one item of mortgaged properties, maintainability of 194

——————— , right of—Equity of redemption sold in Court auction—Purchaser not getting symbolical delivery, effect of—Equity of redemption purchased by mortgagee, effect of—Adverse possession of interest in land—Hindu Law—Alienation by widow—Consent of next reversioner to alienation given in course of suit, effect of.

In 1873 the equity of redemption in an usufructuarily mortgaged property, which was in the possession of the mortgagee, was sold in execution of a money-decree against the mortgagor, but the auction-purchaser did not get symbolical delivery of the incorporeal right purchased by him. In 1893 the mortgagee purchased the equity of redemption from the heir of the auction-purchaser. In 1909 the plaintiff purchased the equity of redemption from the heir of the heir of the mortgagor and sued for redemption:

Held, that, by purchasing the equity of redemption from the auction-purchaser, the mortgagee became the full owner of the property and that the plaintiff had no right to claim redemption.

Held, also, that the fact that the auction-purchaser of the equity of redemption did not get symbolical delivery of the incorporeal right purchased by him, did not vest back that right in the mortgagor-judgment-debtor.

There can be no adverse possession of any interest in land by a person who is not deriving any benefit whatever during the period of the alleged adverse possession.

The consent of the next reversioner to a Hindu widow's alienation if given in the course of a suit, and not at the time of the alienation, is not sufficient to pass full title to the alienee. M. LAKSHMINARAYANA AIYAR v. ULAGAMMAL, 28 M. L. J. 246 528

Reformatory Schools Act (VIII of 1897), s. 9 (1) (2)—Magistrate not empowered under s. 8 of Act—Procedure—Case to be submitted to District Magistrate and not to his immediate Appellate Magistrate.

A second class Magistrate, not empowered to act under section 8 of the Reformatory Schools Act (VIII of 1897), should after convicting the accused, submit the case to the District Magistrate for passing sentence under section 9 (2) of the Act, and not to the joint Magistrate to whom the second class Magistrate may be immediately subordinate. M. KANAKUYYA v. EMPEROR, 16 CR. L. J. 32 356

Registration—Compromise deed—Arrangements about certain estate.

A deed of compromise which gives effect to some arrangement arrived at between parties about a certain estate is compulsorily registrable. P. INDAR SINGH v. KARTAR SINGH 423

Registration Act (III of 1877), s. 17—Compromise petition filed in mutation case—Stamp—Registration.

A petition presented to a Revenue Court in a mutation case and stating that the parties had compromised their dispute and praying that mutation may be sanctioned in accordance with the compromise, does not require to be stamped or registered as a transfer of interest in immoveable property. A. JAGRANI MISRANI v. BISHESHAR DUBE, 12 A. L. J. 1316 791

——————— ss. 28, 32, 49, 60—Registration by Sub-Registrar within whose jurisdiction property not situate—Fictitious property mentioned in deed—Fraud.

The object of registration is the prevention of fraud and to make public all transfers of property.

Therefore, a document is not registered in accordance with the Act if no part of the property comprised in the deed is situate within the jurisdiction of the Registrar who registers the deed. A. JAGANNATH v. RAM NATH, 12 A. L. J. 913 52

——————— ss. 32, 49, 60 52

Registration Act (XVI of 1908), s. 17—Compromise petition—Reciting release of co-parcener's right in family property, admissibility of without registration.

A compromise petition evidencing either an actually effected release of a co-parcener's right in a family property or merely an agreement to give a release, is admissible in evidence without registration. M. SELLAPPA KOUNDAN v. GURUMOORTI, 27 M. L. J. 386 790

——————— s. 17—Grant of maintenance to Hindu widow—Writing not necessary—Oral evidence.

Under the Hindu Law, no transaction need be in writing, therefore a grant of immoveable property to a Hindu widow for maintenance, is perfectly valid if proved by oral evidence. N. JIWANLAL v. CHUDAMAN, 10 N. L. R. 111 235

——————— s. 17 (c)—Receipt extinguishing mortgage, whether requires registration—Evidence, admissibility in.

A receipt which evidences not merely a payment of money but also extinguishes the mortgage in Registration Act—(1908)—concld.

virtue of a fresh agreement entered into on the date of its execution, requires registration under section 17 of the Registration Act and is inadmissible in evidence without it. M. DUPAGUNTLA SUBBA RAO v. GOLLAPUDI ETHIRAJULU, (1915) M. W. N. 33 360

Regulation XI of 1825, s. 4, cls. 1, 4 — Small and shallow river-beds, right in—Accreted land, lease of, whether recognized Lease, whether in good faith

Under section 4, clause (4), of Regulation XI of 1825, the beds of small and shallow rivers are recognised as the private property of zemindars within whose estate they lie, subject when dried up, to the proviso stated in the first clause of the section as regards the assessment of revenue.

When, therefore, such a river dries up or recedes leaving behind dried up land, the neighbouring subordinate Talukdar cannot claim it either as appertaining to his taluk or as an accretion to it within the first clause of the section, but it remains the khas patit of the zemindar to whose estate the river belonged.

Where a lease of such river-bed is granted by a subordinate Talukdar when it is still under water, the lessee cannot claim to hold it as a raiyat as against the proprietor when the bed dries up.

The land which is the khas patit of the zemindar cannot be raiyati land, and the lessee cannot acquire any raiyati right in it by demise from a Subordinate Talukdar and he cannot be said to be a lessee in good faith of the land so demised to him. C. RAMJAN ALI v. MAHARAM ALI KHONDKAR 406

——— s. 4 (1)—Accretion to rent-free tenure—Title of holder of parent tenure—Duty to pay rent—Claim for mesne profits—Tenant holding land bona fide under de facto proprietor—De facto proprietor not real owner, effect of.

A tenant who enters upon a land and holds it bona fide under a de facto proprietor is entitled to be treated as a raiyat, although the de facto proprietor subsequently turns out to be not the real owner.

Where the land in dispute formed an accretion to a rent-free tenure:

Held, (1), in a suit for declaration of title to it and for recovery of possession thereof with mesne profits, that the plaintiff was entitled to possession, but the fact that he held the parent tenure rent-free did not entitle him to hold the accreted land rent-free and that he could hold it only on payment of rent to the putnidar;

(2) that as the plaintiff was not entitld to hold the land rent-free and as he had not only never paid rent to the patnidar but had never even offered to do so, he could not get a decree for mesne profits;

(3) that the plaintiff could not claim to eject a bona fide tenant put in by the superior holder. C. RAJENDRA NATH ROY v. NANDA LAL, 19 C. L. J. 595; 18 C. W. N. 1206 977

Rehn. See MORTGAGE.

Religious Endowments Act (XX of 1863), s. 18—Sanction to institute suit—Sanction, object of—Construction—Suit by one while sanction given to two.

Sanctions for instituting suits against trustees of religious establishments should be construed strictly without enlarging their scope, the object of requiring sanction being to protect managers from vexatious suits.

Religious Endowments Act—concld.

Where sanction is given to two persons, one of them alone cannot sue without getting the sanction amended, the sanction being a condition precedent to the exercise of the right of suit. M. VENKATESHA MALLIA v. BAMMAMPALLI RAMAYYA HEGADE, 27 M. L. J. 241 202

Religious office, transfer of—Land attached to office transferred, whether right to office also transferred—Injunction, whether allowable 542

——— trust Trustee, power of, to alienate corpus of trust fund for repairs Manager of joint Hindu family and trustee, powers of, if similar.

There is no difference between the rights of the alienee from the manager of a joint Hindu family and one from the trustee of a religious trust. Though ordinarily a trustee of a temple should not alienate the corpus of the trust fund by way of mortgage or sale, but should try his best to raise the sum required for the necessary purposes of the temple, such as repairs, by public subscriptions or by curtailment of other expenditure, yet an alienation made by the trustee for such a purpose is perfectly valid, if the alienee advances the money after making bona fide inquiries and satisfying himself as to the necessity for raising the funds required by the alienation in question. M. KUTTAYAKATH VIRA VARMA VALIA RAJAH AVERGAL v. ERINHAL KARUVANTA VALAPPIL AYISOUMMA, 1 L. W. 981; 16 M. L. T. 503; (1914) M. W. N. 909 239

Rent, payment of—Joint tanants—Co-sharer right of, to collect his share of rent separately 237

———, suit for determination and recovery of, maintainability of 242

——— Tree pattas—Vari payable for trees, if rent 60

Representative-in-interest — Purchaser of equity of redemption 111

Res judicata. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, s. 1.

——— Decision in previous execution proceeding between same parties, whether bars suit on same subject-matter—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 244—Widow in possession of her husband's house, when trespasser—Maintenance, right to claim, when allowed.

The executors of a deceased proprietor sued his widow and some other persons for recovery of various parts of his estate. The parties came to an amicable settlement and a decree was passed in terms of the written compromise. In execution proceedings, the widow objected to the attachment of the house she was residing in, but the objection was overruled and the execution allowed to proceed, the Chief Court on appeal holding that she had no right to live on in the house. On a suit by the widow for declaration that she was entitled to live during her life-time in the house in suit and for maintenance allowance:

Res judicata—concld.

Held, (1) that the decision in the previous execution proceedings between the same parties made this question res judicata;

(2) that inasmuch as the widow must be regarded as a trespasser in possession of property to which she had no right, she was not entitled to claim maintenance unless and until she had given possession of the house and accounted for the profits up to the date of possession. P. BHAGWAN KAUR v. HARNAM KAUR, 17 P. W. R. 915; 69 P. L. R. 915 430

——— ——— Estoppel — Decision as well as grounds of decision bar subsequent suit—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908) s. 11—Boundary Marks Act XXVIII of 1860), ss. 24, 25, order under, finality of.

The plea of res judicata or estoppel is available, not only as regards the final conclusion of the Court or Officer, but also regarding all findings necessary for arriving at that conclusion whether they are given on formal issues raised in the case or are referable to the points which must have been the basis of the final determination.

A decision of the Boundary Settlement Officer that certain land did not form part of a zemindari, if not contested by filing a suit under section 25 of the Boundary Marks Act and also the grounds of that decision, viz., that the lands never had formed part of the mitta, are res judicata between the parties in any subsequent suit for those lands M. MUTHAMMAL v. SECRETARY OF STATE, 27 M. L. J. 529; 16 M. L. T. 432 817

——— ———Execution—Application more than 12 years from date of decree—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 48—Decree directing execution of conveyance—Undisposed of execution petition considered as pending—Fresh execution application—Continuation of old application—Particular construction of decree 244

——— ——— Future mesne profits—First suit for possession and future profits under old Code—Possession alone decreed after new Code—Second suit for mesne profits for same period, maintainability of—Res judicata pleaded in first Court as regards part of claim—Plea taken as to whole claim in appeal—Decree dismissing whole suit in appeal, if legal 622

——— ——— Mortgage suit—Ex parte decree set aside—Suit on subsequent mortgage and decree against prior mortgagee—Proceedings in first suit re-opened—Subsequent mortgagee impleaded—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 18—Priority not set up in subsequent suit—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 11, Expl. IV 860

——— ——— Personal interest in suit between members of same family 16

——— ——— plea of, not raised, whether can be raised in appeal—All pleas of estoppel, whether barred, if not raised in written statement—Mortgage suit—Subsequent mortgagee made party must set up even his prior mortgage—Prior mortgagee not necessary party and not bound to appear and plead—Parties—Pleadings 673

——— ——— Suit for ejectment—Revenue Court, whether competent to go into validity or invalidity of lease 731

Resumption. See OUDH RENT ACT, s. 107 (B).

——— ———, right of—Grant—Service Inam 78

Retrospective effect of Acts 543

Re-union—Hindu Law—Evidence 43

Reversioners. See HINDU LAW.

Review. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, O. XLVII, r. 1.

——— ———Court, power of Successor of Judge who decides case, whether competent to grant review—Decision erroneous—Court, discretion of 366

Revision. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, s. 115.

——— ———Acquittal, when can be set aside—Transfer of case 170

——— ———, competency of—Other remedies open 19

——— ——— Contract—Agreement to compound offence, promissory note executed in consideration of, whether legal—Necessary condition—Revision—High Court's power of interference—Mere errors of procedure, effect of 181

——— ———Execution of warrant by District Magistrate—High Court, power of, in revision 335

——— ———High Court's power in—Questions of fact, when to be considered in revision. 169

——— ——— High Court's power of interference 324

——— ——— Interlocutory orders 954

——— ——— Magistrate's power to reject surety—Sufficient ground—Defence witness, whether can stand surety 175

——— ———Material irregularity 57

——— ——— Power of High Court to set aside order under s. 562 and to pass sentence 635

——— ———Power to investigate facts in revision—Distinction between appellate and revisional jurisdiction—Inherent power of Court 275

——— ———Remedy by regular suit available—Practice 62

——— ——— when other remedy open, time taken in, whether excluded to save limitation 219

——— ———, who can entertain—Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act (XVII of 1879), ss. 3 (w), 9, 53—Suit falling under s. 3 (w) 606

——— ———Withdrawal of suit with liberty to bring fresh suit, order of—High Court, whether can interfere—Charter Act (24 & 25 Vic., c. 104), s. 5—Material irregularity 203

Revocation, power of, how affected by character of debt, secured or unsecured 223

——— ——— of Will, when valid and operative 547

Right of private defence of person. See PENAL CODE, s. 99.

Rioting. See PENAL CODE, s. 147.

Riparian owner, right of 800

——— ———, rights of 974

River-bed, small and shallow, rights in 406

Ryot petitioning Government to remit assessment in respect of land to be used by him for cattle-shed and farm-house — Remission granted—Land not excluded from patta—Ryot's interest in land not extinguished.

The plaintiffs petitioned Government to allow them to use 45 cents of their own land free of assessment for the purposes of a cattle-shed and a farm-house in connection with their adjoining lands. This request was granted and in the next patta 45 cents of land was included, although the assessment was deducted from the total amount payable.

Held, that the plaintiffs did not give up their interest in the land and place it at the absolute disposal of Government. M. SECRETARY OF STATE v. MIKKELINENI CHINA 961

Ryotwari villages, irrigation in—Right of Government to distribute water—Dam keeping water from certain lands—Party effected, whether entitled to sue—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

Where Government in the exercise of its general power of distributing water for irrigation in ryotwari villages limits the supply of water to what is reasonably necessary, no one else has any right to interfere with it.

Where a dam has been erected penning back water from the plaintiff's land, the latter can sue in a Civil Court to protect his right. M. SIVASAILAM IYER v. RAMAKRISHNA AIYAR, (1914) M. W. N. 788 18

Sale—Mortgage—Agreement of re-sale—Mortgage by conditional sale—Construction of document—Intention of parties.

Where the defendant sold his property to the plaintiff for Rs. 300 and got on the same day a deed executed by the plaintiff to re-sell the property to him for the same amount and remained in possession on payment of Rs. 18 as rent and it was found that the real value of the land was something between Rs. 750 and Rs. 1,500 and that fair rent was Rs. 75 a year:

Held, that the real intention of the parties was to effect a mortgage by conditional sale by the contemporaneous execution of the two documents of sale and re-sale. B. MADHAVRAO v. SAHEBRAO, 16 Bom. L. R. 769; 39 B. 119 751

——or mortgage, test of 1

——Sale-deed providing for vendee to return property and cancel sale if consideration money paid within certain period—Mortgage by conditional sale—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 58 (c)—Redemption 706

Sale-deed, setting aside of, suit for—Claim under litigation, sale of—Validity or invalidity of sale to be judged by circumstances attending it—Petition-writer, position of—Case, conduct of, entrusted to petition-writer—Litigation, experience in, effect of—Legal consequences of acts—Transaction, true import of—Undue influence.

The validity or invalidity of the sale of a claim under litigation is not to be judged by the value of the property affected thereby after the claim is decreed, but by the circumstances as they stood when the sale was effected.

Sale-deed—concld.

Where a petition-writer, who was engaged as an expert in litigation to prosecute a case and was to get a share in the claim under litigation in case of success and who during the pendency of that case sold off his share, subsequently sued, after the claim was decreed, for setting aside the sale on the ground that it was brought about under undue influence:

Held, that the petition-writer could not be considered to be a person who did not understand the legal consequences of his acts or the true import of the transaction in which he had entered or to be in the position of a person upon whom undue influence could be exercised. O. VISHUNATH KUAR v. LADLI PRASAD, 1 O. L. J. 518 26

Sanction to prosecute. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 195

Sandayika. See HINDU LAW.

Second Appeal. See APPEAL SECOND.

Security, apportionment of—Apportionment invalid—Security not extinguished 393

Security for keeping peace. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 107.

Sentence—Death sentence—Age of accused, whether to be considered in imposition of death sentence 332

Set-off—Monthly servant leaving without notice, whether entitled to wages—Master—Notice—Damages 270

Settlement Record, mistake in, allegation as to—Court, duty of 536

Shares, allotment of. See COMPANY.

Slander—Invited guest turned away because he had taken meals at widow marriages—Excommunication—Outcasting—Defamation—Caste questions—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), s. 499, Expl. 4.

The defendant invited the plaintiff, a Brahman, to attend a sradha ceremony at his house, but on his arrival turned him away saying that, as he had taken meals at widow marriages, some other Brahmans refused to attend the sradha if he was present. The plaintiff sued the defendant for damages for slander:

Held, that the defendant had not slandered the plaintiff.

Sadasiva Aiyar, J.—Civil Courts may discuss and deal even with a caste question where the membership and character of a member have been injuriously affected.

Defamation as defined in section 499, Explanation (4), of the Indian Penal Code, is wide enough to include caste questions within it, even where those questions do not necessarily imply defect of character.

To tell a Hindu, who does not wish to be out of his caste, that he has been excommunicated or is out of caste is defamation.

To impute to a Brahman unfitness to officiate or be the guest at a sradha does not necessarily amount to defamation of his character in respect of his caste, Slander—concld.

Unless the words used in respect of the caste of a Hindu are tantamount to saying "you have become an outcaste or you have been excommunicated from your caste," the words are not defamatory. M. VENGALA VENKAYYA v. THALLAM VENKATARAMIAH, 28 M. L. J. 58 460

Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1877), Sch. II, Art. 8 380

Sonthal Parganas Settlement Regulation (III of 1872), ss 25, 25A—Patnidar not a proprietor.

A suit by a patnidar who is not a zemindar, for a declaration that the defendant patnidars had fraudulently caused certain land to be recorded as their lakheraj in the Record of Rights, is barred by sections 25 and 25 A of the Sonthal Parganas Settlement Regutation, 1872.

A patnidar is not a proprietor within the meaning of section 25*A*. C. DIGAMBAR DAS v. HARENDRA NARAYAN PANDEY, 20 C. L. J. 112 992

Specific performance—Agreement to sell—Subsequent sale to third party—Notice.

Where A and B agreed to sell a house to the plaintiff, receiving a certain sum as earnest money, and subsequently sold their respective shares in the house to C, who was proved to have notice of the agreement:

Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree for possession and for registration of the sale-deed. P. CHARAGH DIN v. AHMAD DIN, 38 P. W. R. 1915 497

——— ——— of contract—Agreement to sell—Managing member of Hindu family—Necessity—Part performance 983

——— ——— Contract to sell land—Contract Act (IX of 1872), s. 55—Time not of essence of contract—Presumption, whether rebuttable—Default in payment—Offer by post to tender expenses—Abandonment—Earnest money, forfeiture of.

The equitable presumption that time is not of the essence of a contract to sell landed property is rebuttable in certain circumstances, as when the sale is arranged in order to meet the expenses of a marriage taking place on a certain date.

Where the vendee undertakes to bear the expenses of the sale and registration, his failure to tender them sufficiently early is a strong piece of evidence of default on his part. A mere offer by postal letter to tender such expenses is not a legal tender.

A suit for specific performance of a contract to sell land instituted 20 months after the date of the contract during which time other circumstances have intervened, cannot be decreed on the ground of waiver.

Earnest money forfeited to the vendor under the terms of the contract cannot be recovered. M. MULPURI VEERAYYA v. SANAGAVARAPU SIVAYYA, 27 M. L. J. 482 121

Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), s. 15—Specific performance of contract—Agreement to sell—Managing member of Hinda family—Necessity—Part performance.

A person is entitled to specific performance of a contract by a member of a Hindu family to sell his share of the family property, but not to a decree for part performance. Conveyance of a portion is not such a part of the contract "as he can perform," in the terms of section 15 of the Specific Relief Act.

Specific Relief Act—contd.

Where, therefore, a suit was brought for specific performance of a contract to sell entered into by the managing member of a Hindu family and the son was also made a party:

Held, that as there was no necessity to enter into the contract, it was not binding on the family and the suit could not be maintained. M. DUVVUR SUBBA v. KAKUTURU VENKATARAMI, 16 M. L. T. 370 983

——— ——— ——— s. 31—Allegation of fraud or mutual mistake wanting—Suit, whether for rectification of contract—Dispossession, what amounts to—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch I, Art 120.

Where there is no allegation of fraud or mutual mistake of the parties nor any finding to that effect, the suit is not one for rectification of contract and cannot come under section 31 of the Specific Relief Act I of 1877

If a proprietor who has been collecting rent from his tenants, is prevented from doing so because a rival proprietor has successfully invoked the assistance of a Court of Justice, the injured proprietor is dispossessed from his property just as effectually as if he had been driven out by physical force.

Article 120, Schedule I, of the Limitation Act has no application in such a case, which is governed by the 12 years' rule of limitation. C. ASIAT-ULLAH v. SADAT-ULLAH 368

——— ——— ——— s. 39—Cancellation of bond, who can sue for—Hindu law—Sudras—Inheritance by illegitimate children.

A suit under section 39 of the Specific Relief Act is maintainable only by a person against whom the instrument is void or voidable or to whom it may cause injury.

Under the Hindu Law the illegitimate children of the Sudra caste are heirs. L. B. VASA NARAYANASWAMY v. ANANTHAYE 272

——— ——— ——— s. 42 619

——— ——— ——— s. 42 — Declaration that valid personal contract subsists, whether title to legal character or right to property—Suit for declaration for right to subscribe to Kuri fund, whether maintainable.

A declaration that a valid personal contract still subsists between the parties is not a right to declare a title to a legal character or a title to right to property, and no suit under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act lies for the declaration of such a relationship.

Therefore, a suit for a declaration that the plaintiff is entitled to subscribe to a Kuri fund in place of another subscriber, does not lie under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act M. RAMAKRISHNA PATTAR v. NARAYENA PATTER, 27 M. L. J. 634; (1914) M. W. N. 912 883

——— ——— ——— s. 42, object of—Declaratory decree, when granted—Discretion—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. II, r. 2—Cause of action for declaratory suits—Suits based on different titles, if separately maintainable.

Specific Relief Act—concld.

It is a matter entirely within the discretion of the Court to grant or refuse declarations under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act.

The object of the section is merely to perpetuate and strengthen testimony regarding the title of the plaintiff so that adverse attacks on it may not weaken it.

Whenever evidence is being created which might ultimately result in disturbing the title of the plaintiff, he will have a cause of action to sue under section 42.

Where a suit with regard to certain property is based on a certain title, the plaintiff is not debarred by Order II, r. 2, from suing to recover some other property on some other ground. M. GANDLA PEDDA NAGANNA v. SIVANAPPA, 16 M. L. T. 310; 27 M. L. J. 520 232

Statement *made by party or his Pleader—Admissibility in evidence - Estoppel—*Wajib-ul-arz, construction and value of—Proof of custom—Custom recorded in Wajib-ul-arz at variance with Mitakshara Law, weight of—Court, duty of.

The statements regarding a certain point made in a previous case by a party or his Pleader are admissible in evidence to prove or disprove that point again arising in a subsequent case and can be relied upon by the Court in considering that point. But the party or the person claiming through him in the subsequ nt case is at liberty to prove that the admissions appearing in those statements were mistaken or untrue, and is not estopped or concluded by them unless some other person has been induced by them to alter his condition.

A wajib-ul-arz is properly admissible to prove a custom set out therein; and suits on the basis of custom may be decreed on entries in a wajib-u -arz alone. But where it appears that the entries connote the views of individuals as to the practice which they wish to see prevailing rather than the ascertained fact of a well-established custom, the wajib-ul-arz is of little value.

When a custom is startlingly at variance with the Mitakshara Law among Hindus following that law, a Court is entitled to look for substantial corroborations. O. SURAJ BAKHSH v. CHHAB KUAR, 1 O. L. J. 532 98

Step-in-aid of execution. See LIMITATION ACT, SCH. I, ART. 182.

Stridhanam. See HINDU LAW.

Subordinate Courts, right of 475

Succession. See AGRA TENANCY ACT, s. 22; CUSTOM; HINDU LAW.

Succession Act (X of 1865), s. 4 488

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 50 547

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 170 792

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 187 — Deceased, representation of 21

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 268 to 273 369

Suit for administration of estate—Suit for accounts —Valuation for jurisdiction and Court-fees identical 342

——— to set aside decree passed against a person as minor on ground that he was not minor—Burden of proof.

Where a decree passed against a person as a minor is sought to be declared null and void on the ground that he was not minor but major at the date of the suit, the burden of proof lies on him to establish his allegation. N. GOKAL SINGH v. KANHAYA LAL, 10 N. L. R. 137 816

Surety. See CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, s. 109.

——, liability of—Bond for appearance in Court 665

——, liability of—Bond to restore property attached before judgment—Dismissal of suit - Appeal 76

Surrender. See ALIENATION; LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Tender, conditional, validity of 184

Title—Possession, suit for—Original grant not forthcoming Registered conveyance extending over fifty years produced, whether sufficient to prove title—Boundary, fixing of—Description in deeds to be followed.

Where in a suit for possession the plaintiffs traced their title to a grant by Government which was not forthcoming, but proved a clear title to the lands for over fifty years by a succession of duly registered conveyances, mortgages, re-conveyance and other title deeds, and also proved that during that period they had leased portions of the land by registered leases:

Held, that as none of the documents produced by the plaintiffs were impugned, a clear title to the property was proved.

In fixing the boundary of a property the description which is to be found consistently in deeds pertaining to that property must be followed. P. C. JOHN KING AND CO., LTD. v. CHAIRMAN OF THE MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONERS OF HOWRAH, 18 C. W. N. 898; 27 M L. J. 20; 20 C. L. J. 407 949

——, test of—Revenue Records, entry in—Boundary dispute, proceeding in 341

Transfer of case—Acquittal, when can be set aside in revision 170

——— ——— ———Complaint dismissed by one Magistrate—Fresh complaint to another—Evidence oral and documentary in English—Magistrate not knowing English—Ground for transfer 665

——— ——— ———Magistrate made Chairman of Municipal Board, whether still Magistrate and subordinate to District Magistrate—Jurisdiction 141

——— ——— ———Power of District Magistrate to send case under section 107 to second class Magistrate 647

——— ——— of proceedings under section 110, application for—Ground of transfer—Apprehension of not having fair and impartial trial 648

Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), ss. 51, 63, 72—Improvement—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Mortgage of kacha *house—*Pacca double-storied house built on kacha house falling down—Mortgagor, liability of.

A kacha one-storied house was usufructuarily mortgaged for Rs. 400. The mortgagee built a pacca room in place of a kacha room that had fallen down and over the new room he built a second storey and put up a pacca staircase to communicate with the upper storey. The whole construction cost him about Rs. 300:

Held, that the mortgagee was entitled to recover from the mortgagor the cost of the new room on the ground floor, as its construction was covered by section 72 of the Transfer of Property Act.

Held, further that the mortgagee was not entitled to recover the cost of the upper storey and the staircase as they were built by him for his own convenience and comfort without any necessity and without the mortgagor's desire or consent. A. RUPAN SINGH v. CHAMPA LAL, 13 A. L. J. 14; 37 A. 81 521

——— ——— — — s. 52 353

——— ——— ——— s. 52—Lis pendens—Purchaser in simple money-decree between decree nisi and decree absolute, liability of—Pendente lite.

The purchaser of a property in execution of a simple money decree between the date of passing a preliminary decree for sale under Order XXXIV, rlue 4, and a final decree under rule 5 of the Order in respect of the same property, is a purchaser pendente lite and is liable to the provisions of section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, and his purchase cannot in any way affect the rights obtained by the decree-holder under the preliminary decree. A MAN SINGH v. AMANTAXA PRASAD 879

——— ——— ——— s. 53—Fraud against creditors, transfer of part of debtor's property, if constitutes—Mortgage-debt, discharge of.

The mere fact that a mortgagee acted as the agent of the mortgagors in collecting their outstandings, does not show that the mortgage-debt is discharged.

A transfer by a debtor, for a genuine debt, of part only of his property is not voidable under section 53 of the Transfer of Property Act. M. PALANIAPPA CHETTI v. RAMA NATHAN CHETTI, 2 L. W. 64 834

——— ——— ——— s. 58—Mortgage, elements of—Adamanakadanpathiram, whether mortgage—Limitation Act (IX of 1908*), s.* 31.

It is not essential for a mortgage that there should be a formal transfer of interest or that a power of bringing the property to sale should be expressed.

A document which calls itself as an adamanakadanpathiram and gives a sufficiently accurate description of the mortgaged property and recites also the amount due thereunder, is a mortgage within the meaning of section 31 of the Limitation Act, 1908, and not merely a simple money bond. M. PONNURANGA MUDALIAR v. THANDAVARAYA MUDALIAR, 1 L. W. 1025; (1915) M. W. N. 21 274

——— ——— ——— s. 58—Writer of document signing below attestor, whether attesting witness.

The writer of a document, who signs after an admitted attestor, signs as an attestor, though he merely describes himself as the writer. M. AYYASAMI IYENGAR v. KYLASAM PILLAI 409

Transfer of Property Act—contd.

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 58 (a)—Mortgage—Document styled Diggu Bhoghyam—Construction—Transfer of interest in immoveable property.

A document styled as Diggu Bhoghyam ran as follows:

Diggu Bhoghyam executed and delivered on 10th September 1863, corresponding to 27th Avani of Rudirodhgari year, in favour of Ranga Rayar Avergal Zamindar .....by Varadayyan and Anantayyan, sons of.....as follows: "A Cowle has been granted for the land in the Cusbah Kandeli, village named Nagari Divitkaran Punja, which was granted as Manyam to us by you, (Here follow details of the land) to Chinna Gownden, son of.....for Rs. 12-4-0 per annum. My father put that into your possession on 29th Chithrai of Kalayukthi year (1858) and executed a document. In that matter you have still to enjoy it from the current year Rudirodghari (1863) to Prabhava (1867-1868). Besides that, Rs. 55 have again been received this day on the security of the said land. This shall bear interest from to-day according to law. For the total of the principal and interest you shall enjoy the said land for 13 years from Vibhava (1868-1869) up to Vikaram (1880-1881) and put the land into our possession at the cultivation season in Chitrai month of Vishu. That is to say, Rs. 12-4-0 being the thirva on the aforesaid land should be collected from the aforesaid Chinna Gownden. Even though the said lands should lie waste owing to act of God or the State during the said years, you need not grant any remission to him. This is Diggu Bhoghyam executed of our own free-will":

Held, that the document is a mortgage, as there is a transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property within the meaning of section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act, and not merely an assignment of the income for a period. M. ANANTHA IYER v. RAMASWAMI IYER, 16 M. L. T. 444; (1914) M. W. N. 891 71

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 58 (b), 59, 100—Attestation—Simple mortgage—Charge—Distinction between the two—Deed of mortgage not completed for want of formalities, whether can be used to establish charge—'Rehn,' use of the word, whether sufficient guide to distinguish between mortgage and charge.

The execution of a deed creating a charge can be duly proved by the witnesses who signed it upon the executant's personal acknowledgment of his signature thereon, but such a witnessing is not the attestation of a mortgage-deed within the meaning of section 59, Transfer of Property Act.

The distinction between a simple mortgage and a charge lies in the fact that the mortgage imports, while the charge does not import, an agreement, express or implied, governing the disposal of the property in some way on default being made in payment of the debt.

Where a person enters into a transaction involving a particular statutory obligation, the presumption is that he has impliedly agreed to submit to that obligation.

The statutory obligation of the debtor under a simple mortgage is exactly the same as it is under a charge, namely, an obligation, in default of payment, to have the security sold and the proceeds applied in payment of the debt. The debtor in each case must be presumed to know of his liability as an element of the transaction he enters upon, whether it be a simple mortgage or a charge. But it is necessary to distinguish between an implied agreement to sell and a mere tacit acceptance of a contingent statutory liability to the sale of a security, inasmuch as a statutory obligation to have a security sold in a certain eventuality is not the same thing as a transfer of a right to sell that security on the happening of that eventuality. The form of realising the debt from the security, namely, by sale thereof, is necessarily the same, but where there is no transfer by agreement of the right to sell, that right does not come into existence at the time of the contract. In other words, in the case of a simple mortgage the right to sell the security on default of payment of the debt is created when the mortgage is effected, while in the case of a charge the statutory right and obligation to have the security sold arises only when default in payment of the debt is made and, not till then.

Transfer of Property Act—contd.

Where a document is in terms a deed of mortgage but has not been completed by proper attestation or other formality prescribed by law as indispensable for a valid mortgage, the instrument cannot be used to establish a charge. But where an instrument embodies the true contract between the parties, and is in terms an instrument which only creates a charge, then an erroneous belief of the parties that they have created a simple mortgage, and their conduct in calling it a mortgage and having it attested in that belief, would not affect the true nature and validity of the transaction. In such a case the failure to effect an attestation in the form required for a mortgage would not obstruct the legal enforcement of the charge.

As in vernacular the word 'rehn' is used to denote every form of transaction in which immoveable property is bound as security for the payment of a debt, the name given to a document by the parties is not a sufficient guide as to whether the document creates a mortgage or a charge. N. KHEMCHAND v. MALLOO, 10 N. L. R. 81 601

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 58 (c) 706

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 59 601

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 60 184

——— ——— ——— ss. 60, 82—Partial redemption—Suit to redeem one item of mortgaged properties, maintainability of—Different items purchased by several persons at auction sale, effect of.

Where several items of property are covered by a single mortgage, there cannot be a separate redemption of each of those items. Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act cannot be read subject to section 82 and the fact that the several items were purchased piecemeal by different persons in Court auction cannot authorize a partial redemption by each of those purchasers. M. PANCHANADAM PILLAI v. SELLA PILLAI 194

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 63 521

——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 63, 72 (b)—Improvement by mortgagee—Construction of well—Compensation.

Transfer of Property Act—contd.

If a mortgagee in possession of agricultural land, without the express or implied consent of the mortgagor, constructs on the land a well the separate possession or enjoyment of which is not possible apart from the land and the construction of which is not necessary to preserve the property from destruction or even deterioration, the well must be delivered with the land to the mortgagor at redemption. N. RAJARAM v. VITHAL RAO, 10 N. L. R. 166 712

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 72 521

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 72 (b) 712

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 82 194

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 92 184

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 100 601

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 104 177

——— ——— ——— s. 106—Landlord and tenant—Lease - Tenancy from year to year and for fixed period - Holding over - Determination of tenancy —Notice Breach of condition—Acceptance of rent—Waiver.

Where a lease is forfeited for an act done in contravention of the terms of the lease, an acceptance of rent subsequent to forfeiture would amount to waiver.

Where a tenancy is from year to year and for a fixed term and the tenant holds over after the expiration of the term, the tenancy would still continue to retain the character of an yearly tenancy and would determine by a six months' notice terminating with the year of tenancy. A. CHATTAR SINGH v. NAND KISHORE, 12 A. L. J. 1139 107

——— ——— ——— ss. 106, 107, 116—Lease—Yearly rent fixed—Period of tenancy not settled—Holding over—Nature of tenancy—Registration of lease—Presumption—"Agreement to the contrary," meaning of—Notice sent by post—Calculation of period of notice—Duty of service of notice excluded—Day of expiry taken into account—On what date notice should expire—Notice signed by ammukhtear, validity of—Post mark—Genuineness—Presumption—Evidence of date and place of stamping—Date of letter—Date of posting—Date of tender of postal article to addressee—Date of delivery —Evidence—Time of trains—Matter of public notoriety—Court, notice by—Letter refused—Proof of refusal—Endorsement by postal peon, value and proof of--Presumption of fact—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 16, 32, 33, 114.

Certain premises were rented by an unregistered lease. A yearly rental was fixed, but the period during which the tenancy was to continue was not settled. The tenant, however; continued in possession for several years and the landlord accepted rent from him:

Held, that the tenancy was for one year only and the legal effect of its being held over was that it was renewed from month to month and was, therefore, terminable by the lessor by 15 days' notice.

The presumption of a yearly taking does not always arise from the rent being payable yearly.

"An agreement to the contrary" within the meaning of section 116, Transfer of Property Act, means an agreement as to the terms of the holding over.

Transfer of Property Act—contd.

A tenancy for one year coupled with an express or implied agreement to renew it from year to year cannot be created except by a registered agreement.

In calculating the fifteen days' notice mentioned in section 106, Transfer of Property Act, the day on which the notice is served is excluded, but the day on which it expires is taken into account. The notice must expire with the end of a month of tenancy.

A notice under section 106, Transfer of Property Act, is valid if signed by the am-mukhtear of the landlord.

A post mark is presumed to be genuine and when taken as genuine, it is evidence that the cover bearing it was stamped on the date the impression bears and that place or office mentioned therein was actually the place where it was affixed.

The date of a letter is not necessarily the date of its posting.

An article sent by post is presumed to be delivered to the addressee in due course of post, but to fix the date of its tender to the addressee the usual course of mail between the place of posting and the place of receipt must be ascertained from evidence inasmuch as a Court cannot take as matters of publi notoriety the running time of trains between two places on a particular day, the number of mail trains within a given time and other facts involved in such an inquiry.

The date of delivery of an article sent by mail cannot necessarily be inferred from the post mark of the receiving office, more so in the case of registered articles which are delivered by the post office only on specified days and between specified working hours.

An endorsement on the cover of a letter by a postal peon that the cover was tendered to the addressee on a certain date and was refused, is at best a record of a statement by the peon and the events recited therein must be proved by calling him as a witness, unless, the statement becomes admissible under section 32 (2), or section 33 of the Evidence Act applies.

Such an endorsement is not admissible even as a statement made by a Public Officer in the discharge of his duty.

Proof of the fact that a letter correctly addressed has been posted and has not been received back through the Dead Letter Office may justify the presumption that it had been delivered in due course of mail to the addressee, but proof of the fact that a letter has been duly posted and has been returned by the Postal Authorities does not justify the presumption that it has been so returned because it has been refused by the addressee; for it may well be that it has been returned because the addressee has not been found; much less is there presumption that cover has been tendered to addressee on a particular date.

The presumption mentioned in section 114 of the Evidence Act is not a presumption of law but a presumption of fact.

Therefore, where the addressee pledges his oath that a certain cover was never tendered to him, the presumption of regularity of official business cannot be treated as conclusive against him. C. GOBINDA CHANDRA SHAH v. DWARKA NATH PATITA; 20 C. L. J. 455; 19 C. W. N. 489 962

Transfer of Property Act—concld.

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 107 962

——————— s. 108 (f) — Lease—Occupiers of houses in abadi qassaban in Mohalla Atala, village Atarsuiya, Allahabad—Transfer of house, right of.

The rights of an occupier of a house in abadi qassaban, in Mohalla Atala, village Atarsuiya, in Allahabad are those of a lessee holding under a building lease, and as such are transferable. A. ABDUL HAQ v. DATTI LAL, 13 A. L. J. 168 446

——— ——— ——— ——— s. 116 962

——— ——— ——— ——— ——— ss. 123, 129 466

Trespass—Criminal trespass—Bona fide assertion of grazing right—Unlawful assembly 173

——— ——— Trespasser's entry, whether gives him judicial possession - Removal of obstruction, whether offence—Pathway—Obstruction 171

Trespasser—Mortgagee entitled to possession on mortgagor's failure to pay instalment - Trespasser, possession of, whether adverse to mortgagee 255

Trust. See RELIGIOUS TRUST.

——— Suit by trustee to eject tenant—Co-trustees, party defendants — Suit filed without previous consultation, maintainability of.

Where a trustee of a temple sued to eject a tenant of the temple whom his co-trustees had granted a renewal of lease without consulting him sometime before suit and impleaded the co-trustees as defendants after giving them notice calling upon them to join him in the plaint:

Held, that the suit was maintainable and the fact that the plaintiff had not held a consultation with his co-trustees before suing would not vitiate it. M. CHERUKAT MADATHIL EDAKRAMANCHERI v. MANGATHAYA DAMODARAM NAMBUDRI, 16 M. L. T. 250; (1914) M. W. N. 834 207

——— property—Breach of trust—Person entitled to become trustee in futuro, suit by, for possession, whether maintainable.

A person entitled to the office of a trustee only in futuro, has no subsisting interest and cannot sue for possession of trust properties in præsenti.

Where a breach of trust is alleged against the trustees in office, the proper remedy is a suit for their removal from office and appointment of a Receiver pending appointment of new trustees. M. ETTISHERI EDATHIL v. POTHERA KALLOOR, 2 L. W. 61 946

Trusts Act (II of 1882), s. 90—Co-owner renewal of debt by, in his sole name—Unfair advantage—Cestui que trust—Declaratory suit maintainability of.

Where one of the two co-owners of a debt obtains a document in his own name in derogation of the right of the other, the latter has a right to have it declared that the former holds the document for the latter's benefit also under section 90 of the Trusts Act, 1882. M. ALAVALA BALAYYA v. ALAVALA GURUVAYYA, 1 L. W. 874 55

Undue influence—Gift by old bady to her children - Persumption of domination or confidential relationship 39

——— Transaction — Petition writer entrusted with conduct of litigation—Legal consequences of his act 26

U. P. Court of Wards Act (III of 1899), s. 48—Notice to sue—Amendment of plaint—No change in cause of action, whether fresh notice required.

In a suit against a Ward of a Court an amendment of the plaint should not be allowed if the effect of the amendment is to introdue a new "cause of action" which was not stated in the notice provided by section 48 to be given to the Collector but where it is sufficiently stated the amendment should be allowed and a fresh notice under the section is not necessary.

The object of section 48 of the Court of Wards Act is to give the Collector time to consider the nature of claim against the ward in order that the manager might investigate the matter and, if necessary, meet the claim without incurring needless cost. A. BALDEO PRASAD v. COLLECTOR OF PILIBHIT, 12 A. L. J. 11 9; 37 A. 3 91

U. P. Land Revenue Act (I Iof 1901), ss. 34. 35. 40 880

——— ——— ss. 110, 111, 233 (k)—Co-sharer not recorded as such, whether bound by partition proceedings - Prohibition under s. 233 (k), applicability of.

In a partition proceeding before a Revenue Court it is not necessary for a person who is not a recorded co-sharer to come forward to assert his right and to claim proprietary interest in the plots, inasmuch as it is only a recorded co-sharer to whom notice is given and who alone is competent to object to the partition.

Therefore, a co-sharer who is not a recorded co-sharer is not precluded under section 233 (k) of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, III of 1901, from setting up his title in a Civil Court.

The prohibition under section 233 (k) of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, III of 1901, refers to the case of persons who were parties to the partition proceedings, or who should have been made parties thereto, and whose claims could have been heard under sections 111 and 112 of that Act. A. SHAMBHU v. CHETRAM, 12 A. L J. 017 119

——— ——— ——— s. 111 119

——— ——— ——— s. 118—Partition—Site of building of one co-sharer allotted to another—Owner of building failing to express his intention to retain building on payment of ground-rent, effect of—Right to keep house after partition—Right to materials of house.

Where in a partition proceeding before a Revenue Court a site of a building occupied by a co-sharer is allotted to the share of the other co-sharer, it is incumbent upon the co-sharer in possession of the building to invite the attention of the Revenue Authorities at the time of the partition to the existence of the building and to ask for an order fixing a ground-rent under the provisions of section 118 of the Land Revenue Act; and if he fails to do so, the other co-owner is entitled to possession in accordance with the partition decree and only an opportunity to remove the materials of the building can be allowed to him. A. BHURE LAL v. JAGAN NATH 933

——— ——— ——— s. 233 (k) 119

U. P. Municipalities Act (I of 1900), ss. 2, 91—Powers of Municipal Board to close drain.

Section 2 of the U. P. Municipalities Act cannot be read in such a way as to prevent the Municipal Board from exercising for all time the powers conferred by section 91 of the Act in respect of drains which are a nuisance or injurious to health.

Therefore, even where a person has obtained a decree against his neighbour declaring his right to pass water along a drain, the Municipal Board is entitled to close the drain if it is injurious to public health. A. CHAULI v MUNICIPAL BOARD OF MUZAFFARNAGAR, 12 A. L. J. 1 05 781 ——— ——— ss. 87, 88, 147—Notice under s. 88—Prosecution under s. 87—Conviction whether legal—Daily fine, whether legal under s. 88 - Evidence—Report of Municipal Overseer, admissibility of—Municipal Board neglecting to pass order within time despite receipt of written notice and written reminder, effect of.

Where a notice is issued by a Board under section 88 but the prosecution and conviction are under section 87, the order of conviction cannot stand.

A daily fine cannot be imposed for an offence under section 88.

The report of a Municipal Overseer as to when the construction of a chajja took place, is not admissible in evidence and no finding can be based on such a report.

Under section 87 of the Municipalities Act the applicant gave notice to the Board, on September 30th, 1912, of his intention to erect a building. The Municipal Board took no notice of it. On 28th November 19 2 the applicant by written communication called the attention of the Board to its omission. But the reminder had no effect on the Board:

Held, that under section 87, clause (3), the Board must be deemed to have sanctioned the proposed building. A. RAM NATH v. MUNICIPAL BOARD OF MUTRA, 12 A. L. J. 740; 16 Cr. L. J. 78 670

——— ——— ——— s. 88 670

——— ——— ——— s. 91 781

——— ——— ——— s. 147 670

Unsoundness of mind—Mental derangement falling short of unsoundness - Murder—Lesser penalty—Youth ordinarily extenuating circumstance 1007

Usage - Nattukottai Chetties—Family property as trading assets 911

User. See EASEMENT.

Waiver—Lease—Tenancy from year to year and for fixed period—Holding over—Acceptance of rent 107

Wajib-ul-arz, construction and value of 98

——— ———, showing muafi to be resumable, effect of—Muafi-khairati, interpretation of.

An entry in a Wajib-ul-arz showing a muafi to by resumable is no proof of the fact that the muafi is resumable, where the entry is not the record of a custom or practice ascertained after due inquiry

Wajib-ul-arz—concld.

but merely the statement of a landlord in his own favour as that of an interested party.

The word muafi-khairati does not in itself imply that the muafi has an effect only during the pleasure of the grantor. U. P. B. R. NISARUL RAHMAN v. TIKAM DAS, 1. O. L. J. 680 860

Wakf property—Charge, validity of—Sanction of Cazee—Ex post facto approval, whether valid—Deed named as tamleek and tawliatnama, whether contemplates absolute endowment of entire property.

A charge created for the purpose of saving a wakf property with the sanction of the Cazee is binding on the wakf property, but in case the sanction is not obtained at the time of creating the charge, an ex post facto approval is equally effective and the Court in which the matter comes in for consideration may validate the charge by holding that the required necessity existed.

A deed named as a tamleek as well as a tawliatnama does not contemplate an absolute endowment of the entire property. C. LATIFUNNISSA BIBI v. MAJIDUNNISSA BIBI 358

Waste Land Rules, 1876——Izaradar—Mortgage by occupancy-tenant—Expiry of izardar's term—Subsequent mortgage in favour of third party—Priority.

In order to secure the premium of a permanent lease, defendant No. 1 executed in favour of the plaintiff, a registered mortgage-deed of his right in a field, and an izaradar on the village becoming khalsa on the expiry of the mortgagee-izaradar's term, the defendant-mortgagor was recorded as the occupant of a survey number. Subsequently he mortgaged his right to defendant No. 2:

Held, that the mortgagor's title as a permanent tenant under the plaintiff did not come to an end on the village becoming khalsa and that as he did not acquire a new, independent title unconnected with his title under the plaintiff, the plaintiff's mortgage was enforceable as against the subsequent mortgagee. N. JAMNA DAS v. PAIKU, 10 N. L. R. 170 715

Water rights—Riparian owner, rights of.

A riparain proprietor may take from a flowing stream as much water as he really requires for ordinary purposes such as for drinking, washing and so on even though he may seriously diminish the quantity available for the proprietogs below him but for purposes of irrigation he can only take a reasonable amount and what is a reasonable amount must be decided according to the particular circumstances of each case.

Where it was found that the defendants-appellants took the whole of the water that reached their land for irrigating purposes and thus completely cut off the water from the plaintiff-respondent's land:

Held, that they were not entitled to take the whole of the water unless they had acquired such a right by prescription. U. B. NGA PI v. NGA KYAN THA, 7 B. L. T 282 974

Widow. See HINDU LAW.

——— in possession of her husband's house, when trespasser—Maintenance, right to claim, when allowed 430

Will. See HINDU LAW.

——— Attestation of—Succession Act (X of 1865), s. 50—Execution of Will—Executant's signature on document, place for, no law as to—Signature for purpose of execution—Re-execution of Will—Will, execution of, includes signature of executant and attestation of witnesses—Adoption itself does not revoke previous Will—Document, construction of—"Janashin wa qaim-muqam," interpretation of—Testamentary character of document—Bequest of talukdari estate—Revocation of previous Will—Estate received under Will, divesting of—Burden of proof, nature of, in case where document set up as having effect of setting aside previous Will—Suspicion in mind of Court to be removed—Execution, both mechanical and intelligent or conscious, to be proved 547

——— Hindu Law—Portion of letter disposing of property after writer's death, whether Will.

A portion of a letter relating to dispositions of property after the writer's death operates as a Will, notwithstanding the fact that the remainder of the letter effects an immediate settlement and contemplates the execution of a more formal document. M. SOMANCHI VENKATASUBBARAYUDU v. SOMANCHI PULLAMMA 363

——— Hindu Wills Act (XXI of 1870), s. 2—Probate and Administration Act (V of 1881) ss. 24, 25—Terms of Will—Probate Court only competent to decide whether Will imperfectly or inaccurately drawn up—Landlord and tenant—Suit to recover rent—Tenant setting up right of third party already on record.

In cases to which the Hindu Wills Act applies, the terms of a Will can be proved only by a reference to the Probate or Letters of Administration, as the case may be.

Sections 24 and 25 of the Probate and Administration Act lay down the rule for cases in which the original may have been lost.

No Court other than the Court of Probate is competent to hold that the Letters of Administration had been imperfectly or inaccurately drawn up, or on an investigation of the proceedings of the Probate Court to hold that the Letters of Administration have the same effect as if a copy of the terms of the Will had been annexed thereto.

Where it is conceded that either A or B is the landlord of C and A institutes a suit to recover rent from C to which B is joined as a party, if it is agreed between A and B that A is entitled to the rent, it is not open to C to invite the Court to determine whether A or B's entitled to recover rent from him. C. SUKMARI GUPTA v. BHARAT MANDAL, 20 C. L. J. 148 980

——— , nuncupative, proof of—Hindu widow—Property acquired by, with her own money—Will, inclusion in, of property in husband's estate.

The person who sets up a nuncupative Will is bound to allege as well as to prove with precision the words of the deceased on which he relies with every circumstance of time and place.

Where a certain property which originally formed part of a widow's husband's estate but was sold in execution of a decree and re-purchased by her with her own money, was disposed of by her in her Will:

Will—concld.

Held, that the widow did not intend it to form part of her husband's estate. M. KUMARASWAMIA PILLAI v. VAIRAVANATHA PILLAI 14

——, whether can be proved in proceedings other than probate—Will not proved under the Act, effect of 21

Withdrawal of suit. See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, O. XXIII, r. 1.

Witness—Cross-examination — Serious imputation made against witness but not substantiated—Imputation, whether ought to be withdrawn by Counsel 610

—— —— Writer of document signing below testator, whether attesting witness 409

Words and Phrases—agreement to the contrary 962 arms 133

ascertainment of rent 267
ashtabogam, sarvamaniam 117 assigned 676
building 651, 305
communication in official confidence 723 conduct 110
debt and costs 273
encumbrance 436 engagement 692
food 311
Injunction and interlocutory orders 359
karibi wa khandani 494
kassar 187

Words and Phrases—concld.

money-tender 96
mortgage money 184
neglects or refuses to maintain his wife 598 occupied 242 pension 743 persons 613
same transaction 143 sufficient grounds 57
whose interests are affected by the sale 93

Workman's Breach of Contract Act (XIII of 1859)—Contract to be performed in foreign territory, whether can be enforced under the Act.

A contract, the performance of which is to take place in a foreign territory, cannot be enforced under the Workman's Breach of Contract Act (XIII of 1859) M. In re SINNA KARUPPAN, 16 M. L. T. 303; 16 CR. L. J. 61 653

—— —— —— —— s. 2—Order of imprisonment, when to be passed—Appeal from order under s. 2, whether lies.

As an order passed by a Magistrate under section 2 of the Workmen's Breach of Contract Act does not come under the provisions of section 408 Criminal Procedure Code, no appeal lies to a Session Judge from such an order.

An order of imprisonment cannot be passed under section 2 of the Workmen's Breach of Contract Act unless there is a non-compliance with the order of re-payment or carrying out the contract. C. ANUKUL CHANDRA ROY v. KAMARALI SARDAR, 18 C. W. N. 1271; 15 CR. L. J. 697 145

Wrongful gain and wrongful loss 641

THE JAMMU & KASHMIR UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

DATE LOAND

Class No. _____ Book No _____

Vol. _____ Copy _____

Accession No. _____

INDIAN CASES.

1915.

VOLUME XXVI.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL No. 152 OF 1911.

August 19, 1914.

Present:—Sir John Edward Power Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Hannay.

SINGARAM CHETTIAR AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

KALYANASUNDARAM PILLAI—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Mortgage or sale, test of—Equity of redemption, surrender of, by mortgagor's widow—Transfer of property by mortgagee to third party—Suit for redemption—Locus standi of mortgagor's reversioner—Limitation Act (IX of 1908*), Sch. I, Arts.* 134, 141.

The test to determine whether a particular transaction is a sale or a mortgage, is the intention of the parties.

A widow cannot by relinquishing her widow's estate to the reversioner affect the validity of alienations made by her before such relinquishment.

Where a mortgagee, in whose favour the equity of redemption has been surrendered, sells it to another person, this latter cannot be said to have "purchased mortgaged property" within the meaning of Article 134, Schedule I, of the Limitation Act; and a suit for redemption is governed by Article 141 and not by Article 134.

In order to make Article 134 applicable it is necessary that the purchaser must act in the bona fide belief that he is purchasing an absolute estate and not merely a mortgage interest.

Appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Kumbakonam, in Original Suit No. 23 of 1910.

FACTS.—The suit was for redemption of an alleged mortgage by conditional sale of the year 1876. The properties in suit originally belonged to one Nallavinayagam Pillai and his elder brother. The latter executed a mortgage by conditional sale of these properties in favour of one Saminada Chetty, in 1860, for Rs. 7,000. A counter-agreement was executed by Saminada Chetty in favour of the mortgagor undertaking to re-convey the properties to the latter. Later on, the elder brother of the said Nallavinayagam paid off Rs. 3,000 to the mortgagee and redeemed his half share in the properties and the half share belonging to Nallavinayagam Pillai remained under mortgage for the balance of Rs. 4,000 to be paid by Nallavinayagam aforesaid. In consideration of the said outstanding sum of Rs. 4,000, Nallavinayagam executed Exhibit A in 1876 in favour of the same Saminada Chetty purporting to be an out and out sale of the properties mentioned therein. By a document of the same date, Exhibit B, Saminda Pillai undertook to re-convey the properties to Nallavinayagam on payment of the Rs. 10,000 on or before 30th June 1886. It further provided that in case Rs. 5,000 was paid between 1880 and 1884, half the properties were to be released at once and that if the Rs. 10,000 secured by Exhibit A were not paid by the date fixed (i.e.) 30th June 1886, the agreement was to be void. Nallavinayagam died leaving two widows him surviving. Saminada Chetti, the mortgagee, went on making further advances to the widows on the security of the same property. In 1886 the senior widow brought a suit against Saminada Chetti for redemption of the mortgage, alleging that she had tendered the mortgage amount which the mortgagee refused to receive. The mortgagee denied tender but relied on a release by the widows of their right under Exhibit B. In this he was supported by the junior widow. The nature of the transaction evidenced by Exhibits A and B was put in issue in that suit and the Subordinate Judge, who tried it as a preliminary issue, gave a finding that it amounted to an outright sale and not a mortgage. On this the parties compromised the case, whereby the senior widow executed a release-deed, Exhibit II, dated 27th February 1887, surrendering in favour of the mortgagee her interest in the equity of redemption for a consideration of Rs. 1,100 then paid to her. This compromise was recorded by the Court and the suit was struck off the file. In 1891 Saminda Chetti conveyed his interest in the suit properties by a deed of absolute sale, Exhibit III, to one K. Ramalinga Chetty, the father of the 1st defendant and the grandfather of the 2nd defendant. The plaintiff based his title to sue upon a surrender by Exhibits C and D by the surviving widow of Nallavinayagam of her life-interest in favour of his deceased adoptive father, the then nearest reversioner and himself. The junior widow is still alive. The defendants contended inter alia that the transaction evidenced by Exhibits A and B amounted to an out and out sale and not a mortgage by conditional sale, that consequently there was no right of redemption, that the suit was barred by limitation and that, in any event, it was premature, as one of the widows of Nallavinayagam was still alive and had not legally divested herself of her life-estate so as to let in the reversioner. A further plea was also raised as to non-joinder of certain parties interested in the suit properties under a Will executed by Nallavinayagam. The Subordinate Judge found all the points in favour of the plaintiff and decreed the suit. The defendants then appealed to the High Court.

Messrs. T. Rangachariar and S. Muthia Mudaliar, for the Appellants:—The transactions of 1876 amounted to an out and out sale and not a mortgage by conditional sale. Exhibit B only evidenced an agreement for re-purchase. There were several circumstances in the case which bore out that view. The vendee paid Rs. 10,000 for the sale while the same property had previously been mortgaged to him for only Rs. 4,000; in the agreement there was a recital to the effect that the vendee had purchased the property absolutely; the object of the transaction was to clear off the debt previously existing on the property. It was not quite proper to attribute to the parties the intention of keeping the debts alive, while at the same time there was no provision in either deed to enable the alleged mortgagee to sue for the mortgage-money. The transaction was entered into at a time when the decision in Sri Rajah Lakshmi Cheliah Garu v. Krishna Bhupati Devu (1) was prevalent and even under circumstances much more favourable to the vendor that decision held that the transaction was only a sale with an agreement to re-convey. Under the deed of agreement, the vendor was to pay the sum of Rs. 10,000 only, the price paid by the vendee, and not any additional sum as in Balkishen Das v. W. F. Legge (2). The transaction was before the Transfer of Property Act. The price paid was a fair price for the property at the time of the sale. The agreement provided that in default of payment within the time fixed the agreement was to become void and not that the sale was to become absolute or some such provision showing that the parties did not intend the sale to be absolute.

The following cases were referred to on this point:—

Bhagwan Sahai v. Bhagwan Din (3), Sri Rajah Lakshmi Cheliah Garu v. Krishna Bhupati Devu (1), Ayyavayyar v. Rahimansa (4), Venkata Krishna Rao v. Venkatachalam (5), Abdulbhai v. Kashi (6), Kinuram Mandal v. Nitye Chander Sirdar (7) and Situl Purshad v. Luchmi Purshad (8).

The following cases were distinguished:—Balkishen Das v. W. F. Legge (2), Ghulam Nabi Khan v. Niaz-un-nissa (9), Jhanda Singh v. Wahid-ud-din (10) and Palaniappan v. Subbaraya Gounden (11).

The doctrine of surrender by a widow in favour of the reversioner ought not to be extended. There was no direct authority in support of the view that surrender could be to a reversioner and a stranger.

(1) 7 M. H. C. R. 6.
(2) 22 A. 149 (P. C.); 4 C. W. N. 153; 27 I. A. 58; 2 Bom. L. R. 523.
(3) 12 A. 387 (P.C.); 17 I. A. 98; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 557.
(4) 14 M. 170.
(5) 7 M. L. J. 299.
(6) 11 B. 462.
(7) 6 C. L. J. 208; 11 C. W. N. 400.
(8) 10 C. 30 (P. C.); 10 I. A. 129; 13 C. L. R. 382; 7 Ind. Jur. 349; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 470.
(9) 9 Ind. Cas. 140; 8 A. L. J. 119; 33 A. 337.
(10) 9 Ind. Cas. 1013; 8 A. L. J. 389; 33 A. 585.
(11) 22 Ind. Cas. 4; 14 M. L. T. 579; (1914) M. W. N. 222; 1 L. W. 80.

Behari Lal v. Madho Lal Ahir Gayawal (12), Kolandaya Sholagan v. Vedamuthu Sholagan (13), Adipuranam Pillai v. Gopalsami Mudaly (14), Beni Madho Singh v. Jagat Singh (15), Marudamuthu Nadan v. Srinivasa Pillai (16), Bhawani Kuwar v. Mathura Prasad Singh (17), Raja Dei v. Umed Singh (18), Bajrangi Singh v. Manokarnika Bakhsh Singh (19), Kaniz Fatima v. Wali-ullah (20), Palla Kanakamma v. Challa Ramasami (21) were referred to.

Suit was barred under Article 134 or 144, Limitation Act. Article 134 was applicable, because mortgagee purported to sell as absolute owner and the vendee purchased in 1891 as absolute owner. Twelve years having elapsed from date of purchase, suit was barred. Sub-Judge was wrong in thinking that bona fides were necessary in a case to which Article 134 was applicable. All that Article 134 required was that the mortgagee must sell as absolute owner and the purchaser must purchase as absolute owner.

If Article 134 was inapplicable, Article 144 would apply. From 1891, the date of purchase, the defendant's ancestor and defendant had enjoyed the property as absolute owners, and, therefore, the suit was barred by limitation. Article 134 was clearly applicable. Ram Kanai Ghosh v. Raja Sri Sri Hari Narayan Singh Deo Bahadur (22), per Mookerji, J. There had been a valid relinquishment by the widows as per Exhibit C. The suit was also bad for the non-joinder of the trustees under the Will of Nallavinayagam, Exhibit K. In any event, the equity of redemption having vested in the defendants during the life-time of the surviving widow, the suit was premature. The surrender relied upon by the plaintiff was invalid as having been effected in favour of the nearest reversioner and a stranger.

Messrs. K. Srinivasa Iyengar and G. S. Ramachandra Iyer, for the Respondent :—The lower Courts were right in holding that Exhibits A and B amounted to a mortgage by conditional sale. The circumstances of the case clearly showed that such was the intention of the parties. Article 134, Limitation Act, had no application to the case, which was governed by Article 140 or 141. The transferee, in addition to being a mortgagee, had also the equity of redemption in him, which at any rate disentitled the mortgagor to sue to recover possession at least during the life-time of the widow. Munna Lal v. Munnu Lal (23). In principle there was no distinction between a sale by a widow and the transfer of an interest less than full ownership. Further it was evident that the transferee under Exhibit III did not take believing that the transferor had an absolute title.

The decisions beginning with Radhanath Doss v. Gisborne (24) had uniformly held that such a belief was essential to make the Article applicable. Vide also Ambalavana Desigar Pandara Sannidhi v. Bappu Row Jagadap (25), Muthu v. Kambalinga (26), Vythilingam Pillai v. Kuthiravattah Nair (27), Veerabadra Tevan v. Veerappa Tevan, (28), Pandu v. Vithu (29), Bhagwan Sahai v. Bhagwan Din (30) and Ram Charn Tewary v. Protap Chandra Dutt Jha (31). The observations of Mookerji, J., in the Ram Churn Tewary v. Protap Chandra Dutt Jha (31) could not be followed as being opposed to the long current of decisions. Exhibit C was perfectly valid as a relinquishment of the widow's interest in favour of plaintiff. There was no point at all in non-joinder as the trustees under the Will, Exhibit K, did not derive any interest in the suit properties.

Mr. T. Rangachariar in reply :—Article 134 was the only Article applicable. Bona fides on the part of the transferee were not

(12) 19 C. 236 (P. C.); 19 I. A. 30.
(13) 19 M. 337; 6 M. L. J. 140.
(14) 31 M. 354; 3 M. L. T. 281; 18 M. L. J. 259.
(15) 16 Ind. Cas. 337; 10 A. L. J. 33.
(16) 21 M. 128; 8 M. L. J. 69.
(17) 16 Ind. Cas. 210; 16 C. W. N. 985; 23 M. L. J. 311; 12 M. L. T. 352; (1912) M. W. N. 944; 14 Bom. L. R. 1046; 16 C. L. J. 606; 40 C. 89 at p. 98 (P. C.).
(18) 13 Ind. Cas. 632; 9 A. L. J. 158; 34 A. 207.
(19) 30 A. 1; 3 M. L. T. 1 (P. C.); 12 C. W. N. 74; 9 Bom. L. R. 1348; 6 C. L. J. 766; 5 A. L. J. 1; 17 M. L. J. 605; 35 I. A. 1.
(20) 30 A. 30; A. W. N. (1907) 272; 4 A. L. J. 689.
(21) 23 Ind. Cas. 98; 1 L. W. 237.
(22) 2 C. L. J. 546.
(23) 23 Ind. Cas. 559; 36 A. 327; 12 A. L. J. 457.
(24) 14 M. I. A. 1; 15 W. R. (P. C.) 24; 6 B. L. R. 530; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 397; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 636; 20 Eng. Rep. 687.
(25) 9 M. L J. 93.
(26) 12 M. 316.
(27) 29 M. 501; 16 M. L. J. 358; 1 M. L. T. 290.
(28) 15 Ind. Cas. 609.
(29) 19 B. 140.
(30) 9 A. 97; A. W. N. (1886) 303.
(31) 2 C. L. J. 448.

necessary. The mortgagee purported to transfer the absolute estate and the vendee professed to purchase only the absolute estate. Absence of bona fides on the part of the vendee could not be inferred from the mere fact that the documents which had been handed over to the vendee, upon a proper construction, disclosed the want of an absolute title in the vendor. Neither could it be said that the transferree had notice of the infirmity in the title of the transferor. The cases cited by the other side were not against this view. See also Gopal Narain v. Trimbak Sadashiv(32), Ishwar Shyam Chand Jiu v. Ram Kanai Ghose (33).

The case in Munna Lal v. Munnu Lal (23) was no authority for the view that Article 134 was inapplicable if the mortgagee had some other title.

Again, it was not correct to say that Article 134 was inapplicable to the case because the widows could not have sued at the time by reason of their arrangements with the mortgagee, and the reversioner because a widow was then alive. Where the widow precluded herself from suing, the presumptive reversioner could sue. Trevelyan's Hindu Law, 445; Majumdar Hiralal Ichhalal v. Desai Narsilal Chatarbhujdas (34).

JUDGMENT.—This is a suit to redeem an alleged mortgage by conditional sale created in 1876 by Exhibits A and B, and is brought by the plaintiff, claiming as next reversioner to the original mortgagor by reason of the surrender made by the mortgagor's surviving widow in favour of the then next reversioner, now deceased, and the plaintiff, his adopted son. The first and second defendants are the son and grandson of one K. Ramalinga Chetty, who in 1891 obtained a deed of absolute sale, Exhibit III, of the properties in question from the alleged mortgagee under Exhibit A. The defendants' case is that the transaction in Exhibits A and B was not one of conditional mortgage but of absolute sale, and that there is no right to redeem. They also contended that the suit was barred and that the plaintiff had no right to sue because he was not the adopted son of the next reversioner and because one of the mortgagor's widows is still alive and had not divested herself of her estate so as to let in the reversioner. Finally, they contended that even if the plaintiff was entitled to sue, the suit was bad for non-joinder of certain parties interested under the Will of the original mortgagor. The Subordinate Judge found all the issues in the plaintiff's favour and decreed his claim.

The first question to be decided in this appeal is, whether the transaction of 1876 was a mortgage or a sale, and on this point we entertain no doubt that the Subordinate Judge was right in his finding that Exhibits A and B were intended to create a mortgage by conditional sale. The test in such cases is admittedly the intention of the parties and everything in this case points to their intention having been to create a mortgage rather than a sale. The deeds were in renewal of a previous mortgage of the year 1860 for Rs. 7,000 executed in favour of the same mortgagee by the elder brother of Nallavinayagam Pillai, the executant of Exhibit A. As recited in Exhibit A, that elder brother had paid off Rs. 3,000 and got back half the property leaving the remaining half in the enjoyment of the creditor. The Rs. 4,000 remaining due and a further advance of Rs. 6,000 to Nallavinayagam constituted the consideration for Exhibit A. On the same day that Exhibit A was executed Saminatha Chetty, the mortgagee, executed a counter-agreement to re-convey on payment of this Rs. 10,000 on or before 30th June 1886. Exhibit B probably follows the terms of the similar agreement executed by the mortgagee in 1860, which was one of the title-deeds handed over to the plaintiff's grandfather in 1891 with Exhibit III but has not been produced by him. It provides that, if half of the Rs. 10,000 be paid between 1880 and 1884, half the land is to be given back at once and the other half on payment of another Rs. 5,000 in 1885, or payment may be made of the Rs. 10,000 before the 30th June 1886 and the properties reconveyed. If payment is not so made the agreement is to be void. The provision entitling Nallavinayagam to get back half the property on paying half of the Rs. 10,000 mentioned in Exhibit A tends to show that the Rs. 10,000 paid under Exhibit A was a loan on mortgage and not the purchase price, and the subsequent conduct of the other party to Exhibit A in making further advances to the widows of the mortgagor tends the same way. In transactions of this kind the presumption is in favour of a mortgage being intended rather than a sale and we agree with the conclusion of the Subordinate Judge on this point.

(32) 1 B. 267.

(33) 10 Ind. Cas. 683; 9 M. L. T. 448 (P. C.); 15 C. W. N. 417; 8 A. L. J. 528; 13 Bom. L. R. 421; 38 C. 526; 14 C. L. J. 238; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 231; 88 I.A. 76; 21 M. L. J. 1145.

(34) 17 Ind. Cas. 909; 17 C. W. N. 573; 13 M. L. T. 415; (1913) M. W. N. 428; 11 A. L. J. 432; 17 C. L. J. 474; 15 Bom. L. R. 483; 25 M. L. J. 101; 40 I. A. 68; 37 B. 326 (P. C.).

Before dealing with the other contentions raised in the appeal, it is necessary to refer to what happened after the death of the mortgagor and before the date of the conveyance of 1891, Exhibit III, under which the defendants claim. As already mentioned, the mortgagee under Exhibits A and B made further advances to the widows of the mortgagor, and when in 1886 the senior widow sued him to redeem the properties alleging that she had tendered the amount due before the time limited for payment in Exhibit B, he pleaded that no such tender had been made and that in consideration of further advances the widows had released their right of redemption under Exhibit B. The junior widow in her written statement supported that contention. Issues were framed on those contentions and subsequently an additional issue was framed as to whether Exhibits A and B consituted a mortgage. This was tried as a preliminary issue and the Subordinate Judge found that it was not a mortgage. Before the other issues were tried the case was settled and the senior widow executed a deed of release, Exhibit II, dated 27th February 1887, surrendering all her rights of redemption in the suit lands in consideration of a further payment of Rs. 1,100, the junior widow having already disclaimed all claim to redeem in her written statement. On this a petition was put in, recording the settlement and the suit was ordered to be struck off the file on the 3rd March 1887. It has not been seriously contended before us that these proceedings could operate as res judicata against the reversioner, but the defendants rely on them in support of their contention that the suit is barred or at least premature. As regards the latter contention, assuming the transaction to have been originally one of mortgage, the effect of those proceedings was that the mortgagee acquired the equity of redemption from the widows of the mortgagor, an alienation binding on them and on their life-estates though not necessarily binding on the next reversioner.

The junior widow is still alive and the plaintiff's claim as reversioner is based on two relinquishment-deeds, Exhibits C and D, executed by her.

In this state of things, the defendants contend that the effect of the proceedings in the suit above mentioned was to vest the equity of redemption of the mortgaged properties in the mortgagee at any rate for the life-time of the widows or the survivor of them. This contention is raised in paragraph 6 of the defendants' written statement and is covered by the issues, but is not dealt with by the Subordinate Judge, whether from oversight or because it was not strongly pressed before him. It appears to afford a conclusive answer to the present suit, as it seems clear that a widow cannot, by relinquishing her widow's estate to the reversioner, affect the validity of alienations made by her before such relinquishment which, though not binding on the reversioner, were binding on her for life. The result is that, during the life-time of the surviving widow, the equity of redemption remains vested in the defendants as assignees of the mortgagee and that the present suit is premature.

In the view we take of the case, it is unnecessary and undesirable to express a final opinion as to the question of limitation which was elaborately argued before us. Mr. K. Srinivasa Aiyangar has contended that this was not a case of a transfer from a mortgagee within Article 134 of the Limitation Act at all, because admittedly at the date of the transfer the transferor, in addition to his mortgage interest, had acquired something more, viz., the equity of redemption in the suit properties at any rate during the life-time of the widows of the mortgagor, so as to disentitle the mortgagor to sue for possession, and he has cited Munna Lal v. Munnu Lal (23) in support of this proposition. He has also contended that the Article applicable is not Article 134 but Article 141, and seeing that on the facts found the transferor of the defendants acquired the equity of redemption in the suit properties from the widows of the mortgagor, there would seem to be strong grounds for holding that Article 141 is applicable to this as to other alienations by the widow of the last male owner. Had the widows purported to sell the suit properties outright to the defendants' transferor, this would undoubtedly have been the Article applicable, and it is difficult to see why it should be inapplicable because they have transferred something less, viz., the equity of redemption. Lastly, he argued that, assuming Article 134 to apply, the recitals in Exhibit III show that the transferee under that document did not take with that belief in the transferor's absolute title to transfer, which a long catena of decisions beginning with Radhanath Doss v. Gisborne & Co. (24) has held to be necessary to render the Article applicable. In our opinion, these decisions cannot now be questioned and we are, therefore, unable to follow the ruling of Mookerjee, J., in Ram Kanai Ghosh v. Raja Sri Sri Hari Narayan Singh Deo Bahadur (22) which appears to be at variance with them. Turning now to Exhibit III, it contains a curious recital of the transferee's belief in the transferor's absolute title to convey, which rather suggests an acquaintance with the decisions already referred to. The recitals and the documents handed over as title-deeds both show that the transferor did not rely for his absolute title solely on Exhibit A, but also on the release and disclaimer he had obtained from the widows. In these circumstances it seems open to question whether he really believed in his absolute title to transfer.

As regards the other contentions raised by the appellants, it is sufficient to say that we are not satisfied that Exhibit C did not relinquish to the plaintiff the surviving widow's interest in the suit properties, as that is bad as a relinquishment because made in favour of the next reversioner for the time being and his son, the present plaintiff. Nor are we satisfied that the trustees under the Will of the last male owner, Exhibit K, took any interest in the suit properties which made it incumbent on the plaintiff to join them. So far as the present case is concerned, it is sufficient to say that the plaintiff has not shown that he is entitled to redeem during the life-time of the surviving widow of the last owner.

The appeal must be allowed and the decree of the lower Court reversed with costs throughout.

Appeal allowed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

PRIVY COUNCIL APPEAL APPLICATION No. 16 OF 1914.

October 24, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, KT., Chief Justice, and Sir P. C. Banerji, KT., Judge.

KULSUM-UN-NISA BIBI—APPLICANT

versus

Chaube BASDEO AND OTHERS—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 110—Privy Council Appeal from decision of High Court in second appeal, application for - Decision directly involving claim to property of value of Rs. 10,000.

A suit relating to 2 bighas 12 biswas of land valued at only Rs. 1,000 came up in second appeal to the High Court and was disposed of. The history of the land in dispute was the same as that of another 300 bighas of land in the same mahal:

Held, that the mere fact that the history of the property in dispute was the same as that of the other land in the mahal valued at more than Rs. 10,000 did not involve a claim in question within the meaning of section 110, so as give the applicant a right of appeal to His Majesty in Council.

Application for Privy Council Appeal in Second Appeal No. 1456 of 1913.

Nawab Abdul Majid, for the Applicant.

Mr. P. L. Banerji, for the Opposite Party.

ORDER.—This is an application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council. The suit only related to 2 bighas 12 biswas of land and was valued at only Rs. 1,000. This Court in second appeal reversed the decree of the lower Appellate Court and restored the decree of the Court of first instance. The case prima facie does not fulfil the conditions of section 110 of the Code of Civil Procedure. It is, however, contended on behalf of the applicant that the decree of this Court directly involves a claim or question to or respecting property of the value of Rs. 10,000. The history of the land in dispute, no doubt, is the same as that of another 300 bighas or three dants in the same mahal. The question in the suit was the status of the mortgagors of the plaintiff. If they were merely tenants, they would have had no right to mortgage their holdings and they could not have been prevented from surrendering their tenancies to the zemindars. It is contended that the owners or occupiers of the remainder of the other land may now set up that they are not tenants, as the result of the decision of this Court the present suit, and that, therefore, some question relating to the rest of the land which exceeds in value Rs. 10,000, is involved in the decree of this Court.

We cannot agree with this contention. The case of Sri Kishan Lal v. Kashmiro (1) has been cited. There the question in suit related to the validity of an arbitration award. The High Court, reversing the decision of the Court below, had held that the award was not binding on Musammat Kashmiro. The judgment proceeds: "If the decree of this Court becomes final, the question of the validity of the award will also become final as regards property other than the property in dispute in the present suit. It is, therefore, clear that the decree of this Court does involve a question relating to property of the value exceeding Rs. 10,000." It is clear the case was decided on its own facts. The mere fact that the history of the property is the same does not involve a claim or question within the meaning of section 110, as to give the applicant a right of appeal to His Majesty in respect of the two bighas odd. It is not alleged that the plaintiffs in the present suit are interested in any portion of the property save the 2 bighas and 12 biswas which were the subject-matter of the suit.

We accordingly reject the application with costs.

Application rejected

(1) 21 Ind. Cas. 617; 35 A. 445; 11 A. L. J. 654.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 1554 OF 1912.

August 18, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

GOPALA MOOPPANAR AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

Dharmakarta SUBRAMANIA IYER AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

*Hindu law—Temple, right of worship in—Place of worship—*Sudra, right of, to enter—Burden of proof.

Per Sadasiva Aiyar, J.—Temples are intended for the worship of people belonging to all the four castes professing the Hindu religion without exception. It lies, therefore, upon a person who wishes to restrict a Sudra or one who has a higher caste status than Sudra from proceeding beyond the Dwajasthamba into the next hall to establish by proof of a recognised usage of that particular temple that the individuals belonging to that community or class are not entitled to go beyond the Dwajasthamba.

Per Tyabji, J.—Whether a particular class of people are entitled to enter into a temple or not, depends upon the terms of the dedication. In the absence of any written trust-deed dedication is a reflex of the general religious notions prevailing amongst members of the community for whose benefit the temple is dedicated.

Sankaralinga Nadan v. Rajeswara Dorai, 31 M. 236; 12 C. W. N. 946; 4 M. L. T. 101 (P. C.); 8 C. L. J. 230; 10 Bom. L. R. 781, Venkatachellapati v. Subbarayadu, 13 M. 293, Dewan of Travancore v. Vakjiraji, 14 Trav. L. R. 56, followed.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of Tinnevelly, in Appeal Suit No. 103 of 1911, preferred against that of the Additional District Munsif of Tinnevelly, in Original Suit No. 116 of 1909.

FACTS.—The suit was by the plaintiffs, members of the Elaivaniyar community, for establishing their right to go so far as the Sabhapathy Sannadhi and as far as the front of the Palliarai in the Amman Sannadhi in the Sri Ramalingaswami Temple at Panakudi in the Tinnevelly District for purposes of worship, and for a permanent injunction restraining the defendants, who belonged to the communities of Brahmins, Vellalars and Mudaliars, from interfering with the exercise of such right by the plaintiffs and their castemen. The defendants contended that the plaintiffs and their castemen were not entitled to the rights claimed as they belonged to a very inferior caste and the usage of the temple had been to exclude them therefrom. Both the lower Courts dismissed the suit, the lower Appellate Court holding that the burden of proving the existence of the right in question lay upon the plaintiffs and that the evidence adduced by them did not establish the right set up by them. The plaintiffs, thereupon, appealed to the High Court.

Mr. T. R. Ramachandra Iyer, for the Appellants:—The lower Appellate Court erred in law in throwing the burden of proof on the plaintiffs. They, at any rate, cannot be lower in status than a Sudra and prima facie will be entitled to the right claimed. The defendants ought to establish by affirmative evidence that the plaintiffs were not entitled to the right of access claimed by them and in the absence of such evidence the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree. Sankaralinga Nadan v. Rajeswara Dorai (1) and Venkatachellapati v. Subbarayadu (2).

Mr. T. Rangachariar, for the Respondents:—The usage of the temple had always been to exclude the plaintiffs' caste and such usage ought to be respected, even though unreasonable. Sankaralinga Nadan v. Rajeswara Dorai (1).

JUDGMENT.

SADASIVA AIYAR, J.—The plaintiffs are the appellants in this second appeal. They brought the suit out of which this second appeal has arisen as representatives of the Elaivaniyar community in the village of Panakudi. The defendants represent the Brahmins, Mudaliars and Pillais in that village. The plaintiffs pray for the following main reliefs:—

"(a) A declaration as against the defendants and their communities, Brahmins, Vellalas and Mudaliars, of the right of the plaintiffs and of their castemen residing at Panakudi to go so far as the Sabhapathy Sannadhi and as far as the front of the Palliarai in the Amman Sannadhi in the said Panakudi Sri Ramalingaswami Temple and worship the Swamis and Amman and to receive Prasatham etc., after performing Abishekam, Archanai, Neivediam, etc., during the Mandagapati occasions and on ordinary occasions;" and

"(b) a permanent injunction restraining the defendants and their community from causing any obstruction to the plaintiffs and their castemen in their performing the above acts, claiming the said right by virtue of such declaration."

The principal compartments of an ordinary Siva temple are, (1) the Garbhagraham where the principal fixed image is established and which is the holiest part of the temple; (2) the next outer hall called the Ardhamantapam (Half Hall) and (3) a further outer hall which is called the Mahamantapam or Big Hall. As the principal image usually faces east, these three rooms or halls lie usually east of one another. In the Siva temples the big outer Nanthi, the flag-staff and the Balipitam lie still further to the east. The two outer Mantapams (the Ardhamantapam and the Mahamantapam) are, under a more elaborate classification, sub-divided into fractional portions. The Arthamantapam is divided into (a) Antharala, (b) Mukha Mantapa, (c) Dwara Mantapa, (d) Snapana Mantapa and (e) Virisha Mantapa. The Mahamantapa is sub-divided into (a) Bahir Mantapam and (b) Nritha Mantapam. In the smaller temples (like the one in dispute) the only practicable distinction is between the Garbhagraham and the portion east of its gate up to the flag-staff, so far as access of caste Hindus is concerned. The technical names "Ardhamantapa", "Mahamantapa", etc., do not at all appear in the evidence in the suit and though slight mention appears of a Thorana light and Thoranakkal, the learned District Judge is unable to come to any definite conclusion as to what is meant by these words. It appears from the evidence of the defence 9th witness that "all those who can enter the temple" (that is west of the flag-staff) "can go as far as the Sabhapathi Sannadhi", that is, up to the gate of the Garbhagraham and that no sub-division is made of the space into Ardhamantapa, Mahamantapa, Nrithamantapa, etc., as regards the rights of access. The plaintiffs' prayers are substantially for a declaration that they are entitled to stand for purposes of worship in what I shall call the outer Mantapam (that is, the hall between the flag-staff and the Garbhagraham) and for an injunction against their being ejected therefrom. It is the case of both parties that so far as the Garbhagraham is concerned, it is only the Brahmins who belong to the temple-priest sect that could stand inside it for the purpose of worship. Ordinary Brahmins, Pillais and Mudaliars are entitled to worship from the outer Mantapam.

The plaintiffs allege in their plaint that they belong to a caste which "according to immemorial custom and according to Hindu Shastras" (see 4th paragraph of the plaint) were entitled to worship standing in the outer Mantapam and that in November 1907 some Pillais and Mudaliars began to obstruct the members of the plaintiffs' community from standing in that Mantapam on the ground that the plaintiffs' community have no right to go westward of the Dwajasthambam or the flag-staff.

(1) 31 M. 236; 12 C. W. N. 946 (P. C.); 4 M. L. T. 101; 8 C. L. J. 230; 10 Bom. L. R. 781.
(2) 13 M. 293.

The lower Appellate Court's conclusion might be shortly stated thus using mostly its own language:—"The plaintiffs have adduced a considerable body of evidence proving that their caste people are entitled to go beyond the flag-staff and into the Ardhamantapam" in the famous temples of Thiruchendur, Sankaranainarkoil, Kourtallam and Srivaikuntam and also in Tenkasi, Melaivasal, Tinnevelly, Velliyoor, Kadayam and Tharuvai. "Some of the witnesses on plaintiffs' side are of particularly good credit and the majority are of good position and means of knowledge". Plaintiffs' 8th and 11th witnesses are the trustees of the Thiruchendur Temple, the 8th is a respectable Vellala, member of the District and Taluq Boards and the 11th is also a Taluq Board Member. The plaintiffs' 9th witness is the Village Munsif of Sankaranainarkoil and Bhattar of the temple there and he pays a beriz of Rs. 750. The plaintiffs' 15th witness is the manager of the Tinnevelly Temple. The plaintiffs' 16th witness is a Brahmin Bank Agent. "The majority of the plaintiffs' witnesses are of good position and knowledge. It is not likely that they would derogate from the dignity of the places which they hold sacred by admitting the right of entry of persons whose presence would otherwise constitute a pollution unless that right really existed." "The oral evidence on the plaintiffs' side is superior to that on the defendants' side. It certainly proves that in a number of temples of repute their caste is not excluded from the inner precincts of the temple. Hence there is nothing preposterous in the plaintiffs' claim. As their claim is shown to be conceded in a number of temples, some of them situated in the most important Districts, and as there is no corresponding evidence on the defendants' side that it is refused in the temples of equal importance, there is some reason for viewing the plaintiffs' claim favourably in the present case."

(2) But though some presumption is raised from this strong evidence on the plaintiffs' side, "it is not enough to transfer the burden of proof" from the shoulders of plaintiffs, that is the burden of proving that their castemen have got a right to go beyond the flag-staff in this particular temple. The evidence on the plaintiffs' side as to this particular temple is "not so strong as to base an affirmative conclusion on it in plaintiffs' favour even when it is assisted by such slight probabilities as may arise from the evidence regarding other temples."

"(3) It is unnecessary to consider the defendants' evidence in detail because the plaintiffs' evidence is insufficient to transfer the burden of proof." It is immaterial that the defendants' witnesses who speak regarding the plaint temple are not entitled to much credit.

It is clear to me on a careful perusal of the District Judge's judgment that in his opinion, apart from the question of the burden of proof being on the defendants or if the burden of proof was sufficiently shifted on to the defendants to prove the exclusion of the plaintiffs from the outer Mantapam, his conclusion would have been that the evidence on the defendants' side was wholly insufficient to establish such an exclusion. In short, the learned District Judge's judgment is entirely based upon the view that a Hindu belonging to a particular caste who wishes to go into the portions of the temple between the flag-staff and the Garbhagraham, should establish by positive evidence that there is a custom in that temple which does not exclude him from any of those places.

It seems to me, with due respect, that this will in many cases be tantamount to throwing an impossible burden upon a caste Hindu who wishes to worship in a temple. There are so many castes and sub-castes in India and the word 'caste' is so very loosely used, the word not being confined to designate the four principal castes only. The Mudaliars, Pillais, Karakatars, etc., though they are all supposed to belong to the Sudra caste, are usually considered and spoken of as separate 'castes'. So also, among the Brahmins themselves, there are hunderds of subdivisions throughout India. That a Hindu pilgrim belonging to one of the four Hindu main castes should be liable to be excluded, at the will of a trustee or even worshippers then present at the temple, from going beyond the flag-staff (up to which even persons belonging to other religions are allowed to go) and that he should be obliged to prove by positive evidence that there is no negative custom to exclude his caste people, seems to me to throw a distinctly unreasonable burden upon the Hindu pilgrim or worshipper.

The origin of image worship in temples is stated in authoritative Puranas to have been in the Threthayugam and subsequent ages. In the first or Krithayugam, God was worshipped by mankind (which consisted of only one caste) as immanent in the heart of everything and worship consisted solely in service to one's fellow-creatures. As the spirit of universal brotherhood decayed in the second age and notions of inferiority and superiority among men were indulged in, the inferior man was asked to worship God's higher manifestations in the superior man. Then disputes naturally arose about relative superiority and inferiority and the sages considered it expedient to introduce image worship in order to prevent quarrels about superiorities and in order that all men (who had now become divided into four distinct castes) without unseemly squabbles about their relative excellencies might worship God in a common image (see the 40th Sloka in the 7th Skandha, 14th Chapter, of Sreemath Bhagavatham). Though image worship was thus recomended and laid open to all castes, it was clearly recognised as not the highest form of worship (see succeeding Slokas). The appropriate mode of worship for the Brahmins was held to be through the media of the fire and the sun and the highest form of worship for all castes was always recognised as that which prevailed in the first age. It is clear from the above that temples were intended for the worship of people belonging to all the four castes without exception. Even outcastes were not wholly left out of the benefits of temple worship, their mode of worship being, however, made subject to severe restrictions as they could not pass beyond the Dwajasthambam (and sometimes not beyond the temple outer gate) and they could not have a sight of the images other than the procession images brought out at the times of festivals. The Agamas and the Thantharas which regulated the worship in the temples laid down rules as regards what caused pollution to a temple and as regards the ceremonies for removing pollution when caused. There are, it is well-known, Thanthries in Malabar who are specialists in these matters of pollution. As the temple priests have got the special Saivite initiation or Dheeksha which entitles them to touch the innermost image and as the touch of the persons who have got no such initiation, even though they be Brahmins, was supposed to pollute the image, even Brahmins other than the temple-priest Brahmins were in many temples not allowed to go into the Garbhagraham. In one of the Agamas it is said (as freely translated) thus :—"Saivite Brahmin priests are entitled to worship in the Anthrala portion. Brahmins learned in the Vedas are entitled to worship in the Arthamantapa, other Brahmins in the front Mantapa, Kings and Vaisyas in the Dwaramantapa, initiated Sudras in the Bahir Mantapa" and so on.

There is no Mantapam or hall for worship east of Dwajasthambam and it is plain from the Thanthras and Agamas that the Sudras and all castes above Sudras (including the Anuloma, mixed progeny of the four castes) are entitled to stand and worship at appropriate spots west of the Dwajasthambam. I am, therefore, reasonably clear that it lies upon a person who wishes to restrict a Sudra or one who has a higher caste status than a Sudra from proceeding beyond the Dwajasthambam into the next hall, to establish by proof of a recognised usage of that particular temple that the individuals belonging to that community or class are not entitled to go beyond the Dwajasthamba. Speaking for myself if I were not bound by authority I should like to hold that a custom which prohibits one who belongs to a community which is not lower than a Sudra caste from going beyond the Dwajasthambam is an unreasonable custom and ought not to be recognised. But as even such unreasonable customs, provided they are not grossly immoral, have been held to override the law and Shastras if fully established by evidence, I think I am bound to follow such rulings.

As was said in the judgment of the Court of first instance in the Kamudi case, Sankaralinga Nadan v. Rajeswara Dorai (1), a Court of law cannot reject a custom because it is not in accordance with the principles of equity or individual notions of right and wrong. Courts of law have recognised and enforced customs of this character although they may be repugnant to generally received notions of what is just and proper. It is not for this Court to examine whether the doctrines or usages obtaining in a particular temple are defensible from a logical or equitable standpoint in the light of modern enlightenment and civilization, but to ascertain correctly, so far as the materials placed at its disposal permit, what the custom and usage is as observed and practised by the community for whose use and benefit the temple which is the subject of the litigation is dedicated, and to be guided by them. There are certain castes whose touch causes pollution not only to Brahmins but also to Sudras. They are usually spoken of as Heenajathiyars. Of course, even among Sudras those who consider themselves more respectable will try to avoid the touch of the less respectable classes, though there is no ceremonial pollution caused by such touch. For instance D. W. No. 1 says in this case " I am a Sudra caste Vellala, I do not touch the lower class of Vellalas." This is not because their touch passes in a religious pollution to the higher class, but simply out of the exaggeration and aberration of caste sentiments, the exaggeration being due to class sentiment having come in recent times to reinforce caste sentiment. So D. W. No. 1 says: "I will not touch a Maravar or Edayan," though he admits that Marvars, Edayans, Asaries, and Kammalas, Pillais, Mudaliars and Pillais of inferior castes all stand in the next compartment to the Brahmins' compartment mixed up together. See page 21, lines 20 and 21 of the printed book. D. W. No. 14 adds: "Koravars, Reddies and Nayakas are entitled to enter the temple," which means entering the outer hall. The plaintiffs' community, though of the Sudra caste, was a rather poor and uninfluential community till a few years ago while the Pillais and Mudaliars have been influential classes all along.

Now, coming to the caste status of the plaintiffs who are Elaivaniyars, it is first to be remarked that the Tamil word 'Vaniyan' is derived from the Sanskrit "Vanija". Vanija (Baniya in the northern Vernacular) merely means a Vysiya who has trade as his occupation. The term 'Vaniya' in Tamil when used by itself has come to mean a trader in oils. A trader in oil, especially when he crushes seeds to obtain the oil is considered to follow a sinful occupation. Vaniyans who press oil are also called Sekkans, "Sekku" being the oil-pressing machine. In the Census Report, 1901, Mr. Francis, I. C. S. says at page 182 that "for some obscure reason, Mannu classed oil pressing as a base occupation." The reason is, however, clear enough. In Chapter 4, Sloka 85, Manu says that an oil press (which destroys the lives of innumerable vegetable seeds) is not better than a slaughter-house and that is the reason why the caste of the Sekkan or Thila-Vaniyan (shortly called Vaniyan) is considered an impure caste. But the plaintiffs in this case are Elaivaniyans, that is those who trade in leaves, especially betel leaves, and one ought not to be misled by the use of the word 'Vaniyan' as part of the other caste-designation.

In Thurston's Castes and Tribes, Vol. VI, page 360, Elaivaniyars are described under the more high-sounding title of Senaikudayan. They are also called Kodikkal Pillaimars or Pillaimars who cultivate the betel-vine. In the Madras Census Report of 1901 at page 177 it is remarked: "In 1891 following the Tanjore District Manual they were wrongly classed with Vaniyars oil-mongers, but they are superior to these in social position and are even said to rank above Nattukottaichetties." This latter observation may not be accurate, but there can be no doubt that Elaivaniyars have no connection whatever with the oil mongers or Vaniyars. Traders must, according to the true spirit of the Hindu Shastras, be classed as Vysias. Owing, however, to the repression of Kshatriyas and Vysiyas by the Brahmins in the mediæval ages, most of the Kshatriyas and Vysiyas have descended to the position of Sudras. But there can be no doubt that Elaivaniyars are at least Sudras and do not belong to the communities which are lower than Sudras who are called Heenajathiyars (like Pallars, Chucklers and Paraiahs).

The castes below the Sudra are most of the Prathilomas and those who are classed as Anthiyajas and outcastes or Patithas. The prima facie right of the Brahmin to enter the temple was negatived in the case in Venkatachellapati v. Subbarayadu (2), because the plaintiff there, it was proved by the defence evidence, had, in the eyes of the community frequenting the temples, become patitha and outcaste by marrying a widow. Though there are 28 Sivagamas, the Kamikagama is the Agama most quoted in these matters and the substance of the other Agamas has been digested in 18 Pathathies, of which Sakalagamasara, Varunapathathi and Nirvacharapathathi are those most frequently referred to. In the Nirvacharapathathi it is said that Sivathwijas should worship in the Garbhagraham, Brahmins from the antechamber of Sabha Mantapam, Kshtriyas, Vysiyas and Sudras from the Mahamantapam, the dancer and musician from the Nritha Mantapam east of the Mahamantapam, and that castes yet lower in scale should content themselves with the sight of the Gopuram. Taking it then as indisputable that the plaintiffs belong to the Sudra caste, they are prima facie entitled to worship from the Mahamantapam, one of the halls west of the Bull near Dwajasthambam and east of the Garbhagraham.

In Venkatachallapati v. Subbrayadu (2) the learned Judges quote without dissent the following observations of the Court of first instance in that case: "The temple is, of course, intended for all castes, but there are restrictions of entry. Pariahs cannot go into the court of the temple even. Sudras and Baniyas can go into the hall of the temple. Brahmins can go into the holy of the holies." The learned District Judge in the present case admits that in Venkatachellapati v. Subbarayadu (2) the burden of proof that a Brahmin was excluded from worshipping in the inner precincts of the temple, was imposed on the defendants who were for exclusion, because the plaintiff who was a Brahmin would ordinarily be entitled to access into the inner precincts of the temple. On the same reasoning if a Sudra would ordinarily be entitled to access into the hall beyond the Dwajasthamba, it is for those who wish to exclude a particular community, which isnot below the Sudra community, from such access to establish the custom to exclude that particular community though they form a sub-division of the Sudras. In the well-known Kamudi case, Sankaralinga Nadan v. Rajeswara Dorai (1), the Shanars were excluded from access into the temple because overwhelming evidence, proving that they belong to a caste whose touch was pollution (to Sudras), whose occupation of toddy-drawing was of a sinful kind and who were, therefore, lower than Sudras in status, was adduced by those who wanted to exclude them and who unhesitatingly took upon themselves the burden of proving such right of exclusion. No doubt the person who wished to exclude was the plaintiff in that case, while here the plaintiffs sue for a declaration that they are entitled to be included; but I think that it would be a wholly unsatisfactory state of things that the status and rights of a community to take part in public temple worship should depend on whether a member of that community appears as a plaintiff or as a defendant. The contention of the defendants in this case is based, not on the allegation that the plaintiffs belong to a caste which is below the Sudra caste or whose occupation is of a sinful character, but only on the ground that whatever may be the practice in other temples, in this particular temple the usage is to exclude the plaintiffs from the temple proper. Such a plea not being proved and the plaintiffs as Sudras being prima facie entitled to worship from the Mahamantapam, their suit ought to have been decreed.

In Venkatachellapati v. Subbarayadu (2) Mr. Justice Muttusawmi Iyer says that "the right claimed by the plaintiff to enter into certain portions of the temple was a right which he was at liberty to assert as a citizen and a Brahmin". This shows that each of the principal castes can rely upon its prima facie right to enter a temple. In the famous Ambalapuzha temple case, Dewan of Travancore v. Vakjiraji (3), the late Mr. N. K. Ramachandra Rao of the Travancore High Court (then the District Judge of Alleppy), a very orthodox and learned Brahmin Judge, decided that a Bhattia merchant was entitled to worship from the hall of that famous temple (though he was a foreigner to Malabar) because he belonged to one of the higher castes. I am clearly of opinion that it is unreasonable to call upon a person belonging to any of the thousands of sub-castes existing in India to prove affirmatively that his sub-caste has by prescription acquired a right to get into a particular temple among the tens of thousands of Hindu temples dotted over India and if he could not do so, to shut him out of worship in that temple

(3) 4 Travancore Law Reports 56.

It seems to me that provided he proves that he has the status of one of the main castes (or it may be, an intermediate Anuloma status between two of the main castes), it would be for those who wish to exclude him from the usual position in the temple assigned to a man of his caste status by the Agamas to prove that, by the special custom of that temple, even a person of that caste status is excluded.

Reversing, therefore, the judgments of the lower Courts I would give a judgment in favour of the plaintiffs, granting the reliefs claimed in prayers (a) and (b) of the plaint subject to a declaration that Brahmins, Pillais and Mudaliars are entitled to take precedence over the plaintiffs by standing in front of persons belonging to the plaintiffs' caste in the covered portions of the temple between the Dwajasthambam and Gharbhagraham where it is intended that worshipper shall stand and that the defendants Nos. 1, 2 and 4 to 9 (the defendants Nos. 1 and 2 in their individual capacity and not as trustees) shall be personally liable for the plaintiffs' costs throughout and the defendants shall bear their own costs.

Reliefs now granted to the plaintiffs shall not operate so as to derogate from the exercise by Brahmins, Pillais and Mudaliars of the right of precedence.

TYABJI, J.—The question involved in this appeal would primarily be dependent upon the terms of the original dedication of the temple. As there is no written trust-deed or its equivalent, the Court is left to deduce from the materials before it what the terms of the dedication must have been.

Under these circumstances it seems to me that the proper course is to presume that the dedication was a reflex of the general religious notions prevailing amongst members of the community for whose benefit the temple was dedicated. It is reasonable to assume that the dedication would follow the current of the prevailing religious views : if something at variance with the general notions was intended, those different intentions would in the ordinary course be clearly expressed.

The religious books cited by my learned brother are entirely in favour of the plaintiffs. This part of my learned brother's judgment I desire respectfully to adopt and follow. The learned District Judge should, therefore, have addressed himself to the question whether the defendants had proved that they had, by the original dedication or by what took the place of dedication, been given a right to exclude the plaintiffs from the portions of the temple which the plaintiffs claim to enter. The course he actually adopted was to start on the basis that the burden of proving that the plaintiffs had a right to enter the temple was initially on the plaintiffs. This may be conceded as part of the general rule that the plaintiffs must prove their case, but the failure to notice the considerations mentioned by my learned brother is very material. There was considerable evidence on the plaintiffs' part to prove the existence of what is referred to by the District Judge as a 'general rule permitting the access of their caste to temples.' Evidence to this effect was given with reference to the Thiruchendur, Tinnevelly and seven or eight other temples. It is carefully, I may say elaborately, considered by the District Judge. His conclusion is that the plaintiffs' evidence is "superior" to that of defendants on this question. Then the District Judge deals with what he considers to be the second part of the plaintiffs' case. He says: "Plaintiffs' direct evidence as to their right to enter the temple is given by 13 persons besides the first plaintiff; nine belonging to Panakudi and the others more or less connected with the village." His view of the plaintiffs' evidence on this part of their case is not legally in their favour. In his opinion it is "insufficient to transfer the burden of proof." He considers it, therefore, unnecessary to deal with the evidence of the defendants in detail. He does say, however, that "the defendants' witnesses who speak regarding the plaint temple are of much the same quality as regards credit and independence;" and he refers to the admissions of the defendants that the inferior Vellalas can enter the temple, that the Elaivaniyans are not excluded from communion with other castes in various social connections, that (according to the 13th witness for the defendants) sons of Dasis can enter the temple and that the third defendant in his written statement refers to the plaintiffs' right to go as far as the Thoranakkal. His final conclusion is thus expressed : "there is nothing in all that which justifies acceptance of the plaintiffs' witnesses' evidence in spite of their lack of credit and independence."

I feel the difficulty of appearing to interfere with a finding of fact in second appeal —a finding arrived at after so careful a consideration of the evidence. But the precision with which the learned Judge has intimated his views as regards the evidence of each of the parties on each point enables us to give effect to his views of the evidence on the basis of the more accurate understanding of the law which my learned brother's research has made possible.

Taking the evidence as appreciated by the learned District Judge, the facts found by him may be stated to be that the general practice in regard to the 9 or 10 temples above referred to is in favour of the plaintiffs; that with reference to the particular temple now in question the witnesses of both sides "failed from a lack of credit and indepenence;" that it is not proved by the plaintiffs that they have been allowed in the past to enter this temple as a matter of right ; nor is it proved by the defendants that the privilege of excluding the plaintiffs from entering the temple has been asserted by the defendants and admitted in the past by the plaintiffs.

The result is not doubtful. The defendants have fallen far short of establishing to the satisfaction of the District Judge that the usage long prevailing, uniform and clear leads to the conclusion that the religious trusts declared in connection with this temple gave to the defendants and their predecessors-in-title the right to exclude the plaintiffs from it, notwithstanding that the general religious sentiment would be opposed to such exclusion.

On the District Judge's view of the evidence, therefore, the plaintiffs should have been given a decree in terms of prayers (a) and (b) of the plaint, subject to the declaration of the right of the Brahmins, Pillais and Mudaliars to which my learned brother refers in his judgment. I agree, therefore, in the order proposed by my learned brother.

Appeal allowed;
Decree reversed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.
CIVIL APPEAL No. 42 OF 1911.
September 7, 1914.
Present:—Sir John Edward Power Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.
KUMARASWAMIA PILLAI AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS
versus
VAIRAVANATHA PILLAI AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Will, nuncupative, proof of – Hindu widow – Property acquired by, with her own money – Will, inclusion in, of property in husband's estate.

The person who sets up a nuncupative Will is bound to allege as well as to prove with precision the words of the deceased on which he relies with every circumstance of time and place.

Where a certain property which originally formed part of a widow's husband's estate but was sold in execution of a decree and re-purchased by her with her own money, was disposed of by her in her Will:

Held, that the widow did not intend it to form part of her husband's estate.

Appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Tinnevelly, in Original Suit No. 28 of 1907.

Mr. M. D. Devadoss, for the Appellants.

Mr. T. Rangachariar, (with him Messrs. P. R. Narayanasawmi Aiyar, M. B. Doraisami Aiyangar and E. S. Chidambaram Pillai), for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—This is an appeal from the judgment of the Subordinate Judge of Tinnevelly in a suit brought by the plaintiffs as reversioners to recover the properties of the last male-owner, Virabahu Pillai, on the death of the last surviving widow. The first defendant relies on a nuncupative Will in his favour, which he says was made by the last male-owner three weeks before his death at the end of 1883 or in the beginning of 1884. His case is that the deceased then constituted him his "abhimana puthran" or son by affection and bequeathed his property to him at once, charging him with the maintenance of his widows and with the performance of certain charities. It is, no doubt, true that in several documents from 1885 onwards, the first defendant described himself as the "abhimana puthran" of the deceased; but on the other hand the pattas for the suit properties were transferred to the names of the widows and the widows continued in possession and enjoyment of the suit properties until their death and also conducted the charities. The first mention of this nuncupative Will in express terms is to be found in the Will, Exhibit I, executed by the junior widow in the year 1902. That recital, of course, is not evidence of the execution of the Will. In order to prove the execution of the Will the first defendant has to rely on the oral evidence of himself and from other witnesses given in the year 1910 about 26 years after the event. The Judge has accepted that evidence and found the nuncupative Will proved. The law is rightly very strict as to the proof it requires of nuncupative Wills where such Wills are allowed at all. We have been referred to the decision of their Lordships of the Privy Council in Baboo Beer Pertab Sahee v. Maharajah Rajendeer Pertab Sahee (1) where their Lordships say:—"But if any party is bound to strictness of pleading, it is he who sets up a nuncupative Will. He who rests his title on so uncertain a foundation as the spoken words of a man, since deceased, is bound to allege, as well as to prove, with the utmost precision, the words on which he relies, with every circumstance of time and place." Now when the evidence of these five witnesses is carefully examined, they are found not to agree as to the substance of the bequest. The 10th witness for the defence and the first defendant himself as his 11th witness both swear that the disposition in favour of the first defendant was to take effect at once upon the death of the testator, on the other hand the 12th, 13th and 16th witnesses for the defence all say that the disposition was to take effect after the death of both the widows. Our attention has been called to the fact that the 10th witness at page 142 in cross-examination says that the Will was to take effect after the death of the widows; in examination-in-chief he had said that it was to take effect immediately. That only shows what uncertainty there is, even in this witness's evidence as to what the testator's dispositions were. Under these circumstances we feel constrained to say that the alleged nuncupative Will has not been proved with the precision which the law requires. We are also impressed by the fact to which Mr. Devadoss for the appellants has called our attention, that there seems to be no good reason why this testator should have relied upon such an old-fashioned and unsatisfactory manner of giving effect to his intentions. The evidence is that he was able to write and also that there was a Sub-Registrar's office quite close to his house. He was not, according to the evidence which we accept, in any danger at the time of the disposition and would have had ample time before his death to execute a written Will in the ordinary way. Having regard to these facts and the uncertainty of the defence evidence as to the contents of the alleged Will, we feel bound to say that the Will has not been proved and cannot be given effect to. That being so, the appeal must be allowed to this extent.

Various other points were taken before us by the appellants. One point was that certain property had originally belonged to the estate and had been sold in execution of a decree and was afterwards re-purchased by the widow with her own money and had been incorporated by her in her husband's estate. That is, we think, sufficiently disproved by the fact that she in her Will, Exhibit I, purported to dispose of it. That is a clear indication that she did not intend it to form part of her husband's estate.

Another point taken was as to a pair of ear-rings which are alleged to have been worn by the deceased at the time of his death. We have examined the evidence to prove that these ear-rings came into the possession of the first defendant, and we find it is not satisfactory and it is denied by the first defendant. We are unable to say that the

(1) 12 M.I.A. 1 at p. 28; 9 W. R. (P.C.) 15; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 114; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 398; 20 Eng. Rep. 241.

Subordinate Judge was wrong in this respect.

The result is that, in so far as the property affected by the nuncupative Will is concerned, the appeal must be allowed and the decree of the Subordinate Judge must be varied accordingly. Each party will pay and receive proportionate costs throughout. The defendants Nos. 3 and 4 are entitled to their costs of the appeal.

The memorandum of objections is dismissed with costs.

Appeal allowed in part ;
Memo. of objections dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.
CIVIL APPEAL No. 57 OF 1914.
August 19, 1911.
Present:—Mr. Justice Sankaran Nair and Mr. Justice Spencer.
GOTTEPATI SUBBANNA AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS
versus
GOTTEPATI NARASAMMA AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Minor—Guardian knowingly setting up false plea —Gross negligence—Res judicata—Personal interest in suits between members of same family.

A minor is not bound by a decree passed against him, if he shows that his guardian was guilty of gross negligence in the conduct of the suit.

A guardian setting up a plea of adoption, false to his knowledge even if it be to benefit the minor, in a suit to recover possession of property, when he could have set up a Will which gave him a moiety of the property, is guilty of gross negligence.

In a suit to which no strangers are parties, each member of the family must ordinarily be considered to be litigating for his own benefit and not for the benefit of the estate.

Asghar Raza Khan v. Mahomed Mehdi Hossein Khan, 30 C. 556 (P. C.); 7 C. W. N. 482; 30 I. A. 71, followed.

Appeal against the decree of the Court of the Temporary Subordinate Judge of Masulipatam, in Original Suit No. 36 of 1909 on the file of the District Court of Kistna.

Mr. P. Narayana Murthy, for the Appellants.

Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar (with him Mr. V. Ramadoss), for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

SANKARAN NAIR, J.—This is an appeal by the plaintiffs from the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Masulipatam declaring that an alienation of the properties in suit in favour of the 2nd defendant by the 1st defendant, the widow of the last male-owner, is not binding on them and defendants Nos. 3 and 4 who are expectant reversioners. Bapanna, the last male-owner died, in the year 1881. In 1882 his widow, the 1st defendant, sued to recover possession of the properties from the 2nd defendant who was then a minor. His father as his guardian contended in that suit that his son, the 2nd defendant, was adopted by the deceased. The Court found that there was no such adoption and decreed possession of the properties to the widow, the plaintiff in that suit. In execution of the decree, she obtained possession and in 1897 she executed the registered deed of gift which the plaintiffs now seek to set aside.

The Subordinate Judge has held that the deed of gift is valid because the 1st defendant was entitled to a moiety of the properties in suit under a Will executed by her husband a few days before his death, by which he left a moiety of his properties to the 1st defendant and the other moiety to the 2nd defendant who is his brother's son.

The first contention raised in appeal is that the 2nd defendant is barred by the proceedings in that suit from relying on this Will. The Sub-Judge is of opinion that there was no bar as 2nd defendant's guardian was guilty of gross negligence in defending that suit. The facts necessary for the decision of that question are these :—In that suit the widow alleged that her husband executed a Will on the 8th May 1881, but a few days after the execution of the Will he revoked it. The defence set up by the 2nd defendant's father in the Court of first instance was that the 2nd defendant had been adopted by the 1st defendant, that he was not aware of the execution of the Will and that even if the Will was genuine, it was not valid against the 2nd defendant. The Munsif found that the adoption set up by the 2nd defendant's guardian was not proved. He also added that it was unnecessary to take any notice of the Will as the evidence showed in his opinion that it was executed at a time when the testator was "distressingly ill" and as both parties deny the Will. He accordingly decided in favour of the 1st defendant.

In appeal the Judge held that the adoption was not proved. And as to the Will, he observed: "It is remarkable with what caution both parties approach Exhibit A. The defendants deny its authenticity. But as a pis aller elect, if the adoption is disallowed, to profit by its provisions to the extent of getting half the properties of the deceased for the minor 2nd defendant." He then considered the evidence in the case and found that the Will was genuine and that it was revoked. The Sub-Judge is of opinion that the plea of adoption set up for the 2nd defendant in the former suit was false to the knowledge of his guardian and it was gross negligence on his part not to have relied on the Will. I am of opinion that the Sub-Judge is right. There is no doubt from the evidence that the guardian, who was the father of the minor, must have known that the alleged adoption was false. Without his knowledge no such adoption could have taken place. The Will was inconsistent with the adoption and he precluded himself from giving evidence about the genuineness of the Will by setting up the false plea of adoption, which he did no doubt to obtain the entire properties of the testator for his son who under the Will would have obtained only half. The case before us then is that of a guardian who deliberately sets up a false plea for adoption and fails to set up the claim of the minor under a Will of which also he must have been aware. There is no doubt, therefore, that he was grossly negligent in the conduct of the suit. A minor is not bound by a decree passed against him if he shows that his guardian is guilty of gross negligence. I am of opinion, therefore, that the plea of res judicata cannot be upheld.

It is then urged that the widow was in possession of the property from 1883 to 1897, not as full owner claiming under the Will, but only setting up a widow's claim to the property. It is denied that the widow got possession in 1883 and it is alleged that she took possession only in 1887. This contention was not raised in the lower Court and as further evidence will have to be taken if the plea is now allowed to be urged, we are not prepared to entertain it at this stage.

It was also contended that the widow having disclaimed her rights under the Will, it is not open to her now to claim the property as it became vested in the heir-at-law. This plea also was not raised in the lower Court and as further evidence has to be taken, we cannot allow the appellant to raise it in appeal.

The next question is whether the Will is genuine. It was produced with the plaint in the suit in 1882. It was proved in that case. It is also proved to be attested by the father of the 4th and 5th plaintiffs who was a witness in that suit. The karnam of the village, who is an attesting witness, has been examined in this suit and he proves that the testator executed it of his own free will.

There is no evidence of the revocation of the Will. It is true no doubt in the suit in 1881 it was found that the Will was revoked. The evidence on which reliance was placed in that suit was of the father of the plaintiffs Nos. 4 and 5. That evidence is not of much weight as he was an attesting witness and was trying to get rid of the Will. There is the oral evidence of the defendants' witnesses Nos. 3 and 4, which the Sub-Judge has believed to show that the Will is not revoked. We, therefore, disallow this contention.

For these reasons we confirm the decree of the lower Court and dismiss the appeal with costs.

SPENCER, J.—While agreeing with the view taken by my learned brother that the 2nd defendant's father, while acting as his next friend in Original Suit No. 972 of 1882, was guilty of gross laches in basing his son's defence upon a false plea of adoption, which he must necessarily have known to be not true, instead of relying upon the Will which has now been found to be genuine, I am further inclined to agree with the Subordinate Judge that no case of res judicata can arise in this suit by reason of the previous litigation. My grounds are these. The widow was the plaintiff in the former suit and seeing that she and the 2nd defendant in this suit were then in competition for the right to succeed as heirs to the deceased Bapanna, the widow's cause of action appears to have been a personal one. But assuming for the sake of argument that she represented the estate of the deceased, it appears that the reversioners, who are the plaintiffs in this suit, are neither claiming under her in the present litigation nor were represented by her in the former litigation. For the widow, being still alive and appearing as first defendant in this suit, must be treated as the representative of the estate in this suit, if the estate is represented at all. As it stands to reason that an estate cannot be represented in one and the same suit by two representatives, each with interests adverse to the other, it follows that while she lives, the reversioners do not represent the estate when she does, and, therefore, they are not bound by any decision obtained for or against her acting in her capacity as representative of the estate. Moreover in a suit to which no strangers are parties, each member of the family must ordinarily be considered to be litigating for his own benefit and not for the benefit of the estate. Vide Ashgar Raza Khan v. Mahamad Mehdi Hossein Khan (1).

On the other points arising in the appeal, I adopt the view taken in my learned brother's judgment and I agree that the appeal should be dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 30 C. 556 (P. C.); 7 C. W. N. 482; 30 I. A. 71.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 575 OF 1913.

September 22, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Hannay.

SIVASAILAM IYER AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

RAMAKRISHNA AIYAR AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Ryotwari villages, irrigation in—Right of Government to distribute water—Dam keeping water from certain lands—Party effected, whether entitled to sue—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

Where Government in the exercise of its general power of distributing water for irrigation in ryotwari villages limits the supply of water to what is reasonably necessary, no one else has any right to interfere with it.

Where a dam has been erected penning back water from the plaintiff's land, the latter can sue in a Civil Court to protect his right.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of Tinnevelly, in Appeal Suit No. 391 of 1911, preferred against that of the Subordinate Judge of Tinnevelly, in Original Suit No. 31 of 1907.

Mr. K. Srinivasa Aiyangar (with him Messrs. S. Muthiah Mudaliar and C. A. Seshagiri Sastri), for the Appellants.

Messrs. T. R. Ramachandra Aiyar and A. Swaminatha Aiyar, for the Respondents.

Dr. S. Swaminadhan, for the Government.

JUDGMENT.—The main contention put forward on behalf of appellants is this. Under the arrangement effected by Mr. Arundel in 1876, they are entitled absolutely to all the water that is diverted down their Vagaikulam channel by the Alkoli anicut. Even if Government in the exercise of its general power of distributing water for irrigation in ryotwari villages could limit this supply to what is reasonbly necessary, no one else has any right to interfere with it. Government has not appealed against the decree of the Subordinate Judge which gave appellants the declaration and injunction sued for. The other defendants, who are the ryots of Papankulam, can only oppose the suit on the basis of private rights of their own in the water passing down the Vagaikulam channel. No such private rights have been found by either of the lower Courts.

This argument has been forcibly put forward by Mr. K. Srinivasa Aiyangar, but after careful consideration we feel unable to accept it. It seems to us that the District Judge has rightly held the foundation of the appellants' case (i.e., their absolute right to all the water entering the Vagaikulam channel) to be unsound. It is clear that Mr. Arundels' Settlement evidenced by Exhibit D series merely dealt with the distribution of water between the various branches of the Ramanadi for the prevention of disputes among the ryots immediately cultivating thereunder. The disposal of the surplus waters after providing for the irrigation of these lands was not considered—nor the interest of any villages except the five mentioned in Exhibit D1. It is impossible to say that this arrangement gave or recognised any larger rights of the Alwarkurichi villagers in the Vagaikulam waters than they were previously enjoying, except in so far as it secured that not more than 70 per cent. of the Ramanadi waters should be deducted for the other branches before the balance was allowed to enter their channel. Now, it is not contended that the necessary level of the Udayar parai dam then stood at a different level from what it does now: and we think we must take the District Judge to find that it was not customary then or at any subsequent time up to 1906 for appellants or their fellow-villagers to raise turf-dams on the top of it.

The rights of appellants' party after Mr. Arundel's Settlement in the Ramanadi waters, therefore, appear to be simply these:—

(a). The normal right of every ryot holding nanja land to a supply of water reasonably sufficient for its irrigation.

(b). As a safeguard for this, the right (secured by masonry sluices) that no more than 70 per cent. of the Ramanadi waters should be deducted for the other and higher branches.

These rights do not appear to carry with them the right to erect the turf-dam which forms the subject of the present litigation: for it is found as a fact by the District Judge that without it appellants can get a sufficient supply. Appellants must, therefore, be held to have failed to establish the facts which would entitle them to the declaration and injunction sued for. It is argued, however, that Government in consequence of its failure to appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge must be held to have retired from the contest: and that in these circumstances the other defendants can only defend the suit by establishing their own private rights. We do not think this makes any difference in the view that we have taken above. The suit cause of action is given in the plaint as the order of the Shermadevi Sub-Collector, dated 5th July 1906, forbidding the erection of the turf-bund and that of the Collector of Tinnevelly, dated 30th January 1907, confirming the same. These orders were passed on petitions from the Papankulam ryots (respondents) representing the prejudice caused to them by the bund and were passed for respondents' protection in the exercise of Government's general right of distributing the water-supply for irrigation purposes. No direct interests of Government were involved and there is no reason why Government should appeal from the decree of the first Court. Even in second appeal the Government Pleader represents that he has nothing to urge and is willing to abide by the decision of the Court. This, however, should not prejudice the other respondents or in any way relieve appellants of the necessity of establishing the right which they seek to enforce and declare. We have already held that they have not done so.

We dismiss the appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL REVISION PETITION No. 1039 OF 1912.

September 30, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Hannay.

SUBBIAH PILLAI alias SUBRAMANIA PILLAI—PETITIONER

versus

KAILASAM PILLAI—RESPONDENT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 115—Other remedies open—Revision, if competent.

There will be no revision where there is a remedy by suit.

Ittiachan v. Velappan, 8 M. 484 (F. B.) and Subbu Reddiar v. Kumaraswamy Reddiar, 21 Ind. Cas. 461; (1913) M. W. N. 856, followed.

Karuppayee v. Chinnammal, 25 Ind. Cas. 191; 16 M. L. T., 101; 1 L. W. 537 and Sri Krishna Doss v. Chandook Chand, 4 Ind. Cas. 509; 32 M. 334; 5 M. L. T. 125; 19 M. L. J. 307, not followed.

Petition, under section 115 of Act V of 1908, praying the High Court to revise the order of the Court of the District Munsif of Srivaikuntam, in Civil Miscellaneous Petition No. 467 of 1912, in Original Suit No. 380 of 1909.

FACTS.—The petitioner put in a petition under Order XXI, rule 100, Civil Procedure Code, to the District Munsif of Srivaikuntam and the same was dismissed under Order XXI, rule 101. Instead of filing a suit under Order XXI, rule 103, he applied to the High Court to revise the order of the District Munsif.

Messrs. C. V. Anantakrishna Iyer and A. Swaminatha Iyer, for the Respondent, raised the preliminary objections that the revision petition did not lie as there was a remedy by suit open to the petitioner, and that there was no question of jurisdiction involved and relied upon. Ittiachan v. Velappan (1) and Subbu Reddiar v. Kumarswamy Reddiar (2).

Mr. K. S. Ganapati Iyer, for the Petitioner:—The fact that a remedy by suit is open to the petitioner, is no bar to the exercise of the revisional powers of the High Court. Karuppayee v. Chinnammal (3) and Sri Krishna Doss v. Chandook Chand (4). The lower Court acted illegally and without jurisdiction in entertaining a second petition for delivery after the time limited by law and after a prior petition had been dismissed as time-barred. The case in Muthia v. Appasami (5) relied upon by the lower Court is inapplicable to the facts of the case, as that case was one between a decree-holder and a judgment-debtor and not between a decree-holder and a third party. Kesri Narain v. Abul Hasan (6).

(1) 8 M. 484 (F. B.).
(2) 21 Ind. Cas. 461; (1913) M. W. N. 856.

JUDGMENT.—The preliminary objections are taken that there can be no revision in this case as the petitioner has a remedy by suit, and secondly that no question of jurisdiction is involved. It seems to me that both these objections must be upheld.

The petitioner's application to the lower Court was one under Order XXI, rule 100, of the Civil Procedure Code and his petition was dismissed under Order XXI, rule 101. His remedy in these circumstances was to sue to establish the right he claimed under the provisions of Order XXI, rule 103. The cases Ittiachan v. Vellappan (1) and Subbu Reddiar v. Kumaraswamy Reddiar (2) are clear authorities for the contention that in these circumstances no petition for revision lies. The cases cited for the petitioner, viz., Karuppayee v. Chinnammal (3) and Sri Krishna Doss v. Chandook Chand (4), seem to me not to be in point. In the former, Oldfield, J., following the practice of the Court, revised an order setting aside an ex parte decree, although the petitioner could have advanced the considerations he relied on by appeal. In the latter, Miller, J., (while emphasising the rule that when a party has a remedy elsewhere than in the High Court, the High Court should not, except in special cases, interfere in revision) in the special facts of the case before him interfered in revision although the petitioner had a remedy by suit, on the ground that non-interference would only lead to multiplication of proceedings by a suit to which there could be no defence. Neither of these cases, therefore, afford any answer to the first preliminary objection.

As regards the second objection, the contention of the petitioner is that the lower Court acted illegally and without jurisdiction in entertaining an application for delivery "after the time limited by law and after a similar application had been dismissed as time-barred (Ground No. 4)." There is no evidence that a previous application for delivery was dismissed as time-barred or that the second application was out of time. The petitioner relies upon Exhibit A, a deposition by the decree-holder in a criminal case, in which he says that after delivery was obstructed on the first petition, he put in a petition subsequently and it was dismissed as time-barred. Assuming that Exhibit A is admissible to prove these facts, there is nothing to show what was the nature of the subsequent petition or how it was time-barred and nothing is to be gained by speculating on those points. From the B Diary it appears that the District Munsif called for the old execution petition to be produced, but petitioner did not see fit to comply with that order. On the facts placed before him the District Munsif was justified in following the decision in Muthia v. Appasami (5) and in entertaining the second petition for delivery. That case is sought to be distinguished on the ground that it was a case between a decree-holder and judgment-debtor, whereas the present is one between a decree-holder and a third party [see Kesri Narain v. Abul Hasan (6)], but it seems to me that the same principle governs both cases. There is nothing whatever to show whether the petition referred to in Exhibit A was one under Order XXI, rule 97, Civil Procedure Code, or that any order was passed against the decree-holder under Order XXI, rule 99. From grounds Nos. 4 and 6 of this petition it would appear that the petition referred to in Exhibit A was a petition for delivery and not an application under Order XXI, rule 97.

In these circumstances I uphold the second objection also, that no question of jurisdiction is involved which would justify interference under section 115, Civil Procedure Code.

(3) 25 Ind. Cas. 191; 16 M. L. T. 101; 1 L. W. 537.
(4) 4 Ind. Cas. 509; 32 M. 334; 5 M. L. T. 125; 19 M. L. J. 307.
(5) 13 M. 504.
(6) 26 A. 365; A. W. N.

Kashmir University Library
Accession No. 753

The petition is dismissed with costs.

Petition dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

LETTERS PATENT APPEAL No. 9 OF 1914.

August 1, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, KT., Chief Justice, and Justice Sir P. C. Banerji KT.

BALDEO—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

ULFAT RAI AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Ex-proprietary tenancy—Adverse possession.

A person cannot acquire the "status" of an ex-proprietary tenant by adverse possession, though he can obtain by adverse possession an absolute title to the property.

Letters Patent Appeal from the judgment of Mr. Justice Piggott, reported in 22 Indian Cases 269.

Mr. M. L. Agarwala, for the Appellant.

Mr. G. L. Agarwala, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—We are not prepared to endorse as a matter of law that the defendants became under the circumstances ex-proprietary tenants by reason of being in possession of the property. We are inclined to think that the defendants acquired an absolute title to the property. They have admittedly been in possession ever since the year 1891 and such possession has been without any title. This prima facie would give the defendants an absolute title by adverse possession, and it would be upon the persons who were entitled to possession to explain and show that the possession of the defendants was not adverse. The learned Judge of this Court says: "My own opinion is that the appellant in the present case must be held to have acquired the status of an ex-proprietary tenant by adverse possession for twelve years and more". We do not think that a person can acquire the "status" of an ex-proprietary tenant by adverse possession. True it is that a leasehold or an ex-proprietary interest can be acquired by adverse possession as against the person who is the lessee or the ex-proprietary tenant. But we do not think that where there never has been a lessee or ex-proprietary tenant that it is possible to become such by adverse possession. The respondents have filed no objection to the decision and have not claimed to be proprietors and, therefore, we cannot interfere with the decree of this Court. The result is that the appeal fails and is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

APPEAL FROM APPELLATE DECREE No. 2401 OF 1912.

June 11, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice D. Chatterjee and Mr. Justice N. R. Chatterjea.

BASUNTA KUMAR CHUCKERBUTTY—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

GOPAL CHUNDER DAS—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Probate and Administration Act (V of 1881)—Will, whether can be proved in proceedings other than probate—Will not proved under the Act, effect of—Succession Act (X of 1865), s. 187—Deceased, representation of.

A Will may be proved in a proceeding other than a probate proceeding, although no Probate of it has been taken under the Probate and Administration Act V of 1881.

Surbomungola Dabee v. Mohendronath Nath, 4 C. 508, followed.

But unless a Probate or Letters of Administration are taken under the Act, a Will cannot prove that anybody named therein has title to the estate of the testator.

Therefore, so long as the Probate of a Will is not taken, the legal heir represents the estate of the deceased and can maintain a suit for the benefit of the estate.

Prosunno Chunder Bhuttacharjee v. Kristo Chytanno Pal, 4 C. 342; 3 C. L. R. 154, Chuni Lal Bose v. Osmond Beeby, 30 C. 1044, referred to.

Appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Faridpur, dated the 23rd May 1912, affirming that of the Munsif, Goalundo, dated the 15th September 1911.

Babu Surendra Kumar Bose (for Babu Preo Sankar Majumdar), for the Appellant.

Babu Kishori Lal Sarkar, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The father of the plaintiff purchased a holding in execution of a decree and had notices under section 167 of the Bengal Tenancy Act issued on the defendants who are under-raiyats. On the death of his father the plaintiff brought this suit for ejectment. The plea of the defendants was, amongst others, that the deceased father of the plaintiff had left a Will under which the plaintiff was only a part-owner of the property in suit and could not as such eject them. The plaintiff in his deposition admits that he has heard of the execution of a Will by his father. The defendant produced the Will, and the plaintiff objected to its being proved. The Court of first instance allowed the Will to be proved and dismissed the suit of the plaintiff as incompetent.

It has been contended before us that the Courts below are wrong in allowing the Will to be proved and should have proceeded to try the suit, notwithstanding the Will which could be proved only in a proper proceeding under the Probate Act.

It is contended that so long as Probate is not taken, the estate of the testator must be represented by the heir-at-law. In the case of Prosunno Chunder Bhuttacharjee v Kristo Chytanno Pal (1), Mr. Justice Markby said: "I think that until some other claimant comes forward, the party who takes possession of the estate of a deceased Hindu must, in the present state of the law, be treated for some purposes as his representative, and a judgment obtained against such a representative is not a mere nullity." The reason given was that otherwise the remedy of the creditor against the estate might be barred by an intentional delay in taking out Probate. In the case of Surbomungola Dabee v. Mohendronath Nath (2), Mr. Justice White allowed a Will to be proved. Although no Probate had been granted of the same, the heiress was allowed to prove it for the purpose of construing it and showing that it was void. This latter case is authority for upholding the proof of the execution of the Will. That, however, is not sufficient for passing title under the Will. Section 187 of the Succession Act applies to the Wills of Hindus and no title under the Will can be established in any Court of Justice unless a Probate or Letters of Administration with the Will annexed has been granted by a competent Court. The Will, therefore, uncovered as it is by a Probate or Letters of Administration, cannot prove that anybody named therein has title to the estate of the testator. The plea of non-joinder must, therefore, fail. The question, however, still remains to be decided—does the plaintiff represent his deceased father so as to be competent to maintain the suit? The case of Prosunno Chunder Bhuttacharjee v. Kristo Chytunno Pal (1) is authority for holding that he might, if he is in possession of his father's estate, represent him for the purpose of being sued by a creditor. In the case of Chuni Lal Bose v. Osmond Beeby (3) the residuary legatee as well as the heir ab intestato were substituted as the representatives of a deceased judgment-debtor, and it was held that the representation was complete. Mr. Justice Markby, in the case of Prosunno Chunder Bhuttacharjee v. Kristo Chytanno Pal (1), says: "The executor does not represent the deceased, by virtue of the Will until he has obtained Probate. Who then represents the deceased who has left a Will after his death, until Probate has been obtained? Surely some one must do so, or the law would not have provided that the Statute of Limitation should run between the death and the grant of Probate and it undoubtedly does." If this be the reason why the party in possession should represent the deceased until the Will is proved so far as a claimant against the estate is concerned, there is no reason why the heir in possession should not represent the estate for the benefit of the estate against persons liable to the estate. Just as the decree against the party in possession may be available to the creditor for working out his remedy against the executor when he obtains Probate, the decree obtained by the party so in possession may enure to the benefit of the claimants under the Will when they can rely on the same as their deed of title. The heir-at-law may claim adversely to the Will, he may impeach the validity of the Will, notwithstanding that execution is proved: he may have various defences available to him against any claimant under the Will.

In any case if he can prove that he has come into possession of the general estate of his father, he can as the legal heir maintain a suit for the benefit of the estate, so long as any other claimant does not establish his right to the same under the Will.

The learned Munsif in this case was satisfied with the mere proof of the execution of the Will. The Will, although in Court, was not even put to the plaintiff when he was examined.

(1) 4 C. 342; 3 C. L. R. 154.
(2) 4 C. 508.
(3) 30 C. 1044.

We think that the judgments of the Courts below should be set aside, and the case sent back to the first Court for decision on the merits after allowing the parties opportunity for adducing such evidence as may be relevant. The plaintiff is entitled to the costs of this and the lower Appellate Court. The costs in the first Court will abide the result.

Appeal allowed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 1416 OF 1913.

November 6, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chamier and Mr. Justice Piggott.

HIMAT SINGH AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

HULAS SINGH AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1901), s. 22—Succession—Occupancy-holding—Death of absolute owner of holding prior to passing of Tenancy Act, but of his widow after it—Right of collaterals to succeed.

S died prior to the passing of the Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1901) leaving a widow K. K succeeded to the occupancy-holding left by S. K died after the passing of the Act:

Held, that the plaintiffs, who were the nephews of S and were not in joint cultivation with him, could not succeed to the holding after the widow's death.

Second appeal from the decision of the Subordinate Judge of Budaun.

Mr. P. L. Banerji, for the Appellants.

Mr. Gulzari Lal, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—Sanwant Singh died before the passing of the Tenancy Act of 1901 leaving a widow Kamla Koer. The widow died a short time ago. According to the plaintiffs they got possession of the occupancy-holding and were dispossessed by the defendants. This is a suit for recovery of possession of the occupancy-holding. Very difficult questions have been propounded under section 22 of the Tenancy Act. In the present case it is sufficient to say that, under no possible construction of that section, are the plaintiffs entitled to this holding. They are nephews of Sanwant Singh. It has been found that they were not joint in cultivation with Sanwant Singh and are not collateral relations of Kamla Koer. In any view the decree of the Courts below is wrong. We allow this appeal, set aside the decree of the Courts below and dismiss the plaintiffs' suit with costs in all Courts.

Appeal allowed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

APPEAL FROM APPELLATE DECREE No. 2255 OF 1912.

May 14, 1914.

Present:—Justice Sir Asutosh Mookerjee, KT., and Mr. Justice Beachcroft.

PROMODE RANJAN GHOSH—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

ASWINI KUMAR NAG—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Nim-howla tenure—No covenant against involuntary alienation of tenants or for re-entry—Purchaser of tenure at execution sale, right of—Landlord, whether entitled to sue original tenant—Decree, whether binding on purchaser.

Where a nim-howla tenure was expressly made non-transferable to any one except the landlord but where there was no covenant against involuntary alienation or for re-entry, a purchaser at an execution sale of the right, title and interest of the tenants in the tenure acquires a good title by his purchase, and it is not open to the landlord to sue the original tenants with a view to obtain a decree whereby he could proceed against the tenure in the hands of the purchaser.

Appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge, Khulna, dated the 3rd May 1912, confirming that of the Munsif, Bagirhat, dated the 21st July 1911.

Babus Jogendra Chandra Ghosh, Anilendra Nath Ray Chowdhury and Smritish Chandra Ghosh, for the Appellant.

JUDGMENT.—This is an appeal on behalf of the landlord-defendant in a suit for declaration that the plaintiff is not bound by a decree for rent obtained by the landlord against the tenants-defendants. The plaintiff is the purchaser, at an execution sale of the right, title and interest of the tenants-defendants in a nim-howla tenure which lay originally in the District of Backergunge, but is now included in the District of Khulna. Notwithstanding the purchase by the plaintiff, which was duly notified to the landlord, the latter brought a suit for rent against the tenants-defendants and obtained a decree. The plaintiff asks for a declaration that this decree is not binding on him and that the tenure in his hands is not liable to be sold in execution of this decree. The question consequently arises whether the plaintiff has acquired a valid title to the tenure by his purchase at the execution sale. The determination of this question depends upon the terms of the nimhowla lease of the 20th February 1878, which provides as follows:—"Let it be known that if you find it necessary to transfer the nimhowla tenure, you will transfer it to me for proper price. You will not be at liberty to transfer it to any person other than myself. If you transfer it to any other person, such transfers will be invalid."

On behalf of the landlord-defendant it has been argued that the tenure was expressly made non-transferable except in one event, namely, a transfer by the tenants to the landlord, and that consequently the plaintiff has not acquired a valid title by his purchase. There are two obvious answers to this contention. In the first place, there was no covenant against involuntary alienation as there was in the case of Vyankatraya v. Shivrambhat (1), where there was a covenant that the tenant would not let the land of the tenancy be sold or attached and sold in satisfaction of judgment-debts. It follows consequently that the plaintiff has acquired a valid title by his purchase. This view is supported by a long series of decisions, amongst which may be mentioned Tamaya v. Timapa (2); Nil Madhab Sikdar v. Narattam Sikdar (3); Golak Nath Roy Chowdhry v. Mathura Nath Roy Chowdhry (4); Parameshri v. Vittappa (5). In the first of these cases, it was pointed out that where land had been sold against the will of the lessee by the act of a Court, the lessee could not be said to have voluntarily transferred his interest and thereby committed breach of a covenant not to assign.

In the second place, it is clear that as there was no covenant for re-entry, the plaintiff has acquired a valid title. In support of this proposition reference may be made to the case of Basarat Ali Khan v. Manirullah (6) in which it was pointed out, on the authority of the decision of Blackburn, J., in Williams v. Earle (6), that where no right of re-entry is reserved, though there is a covenant binding on the tenant not to assign, the assignment is nevertheless operative. If the assignment in the case before us be thus deemed operative, it necessarily follows that title passed to the plaintiff, and it was consequently not open to the defendant to sue the original tenants with a view to obtain a decree whereby he could proceed against the tenure in the hands of the plaintiff.

The result is that the decree made by the Subordinate Judge is confirmed and this appeal is dismissed.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 7 B. 256.
(2) 7 B. 262.
(3) 17 C. 826.
(4) 20 C. 273.
(5) 26 M. 157; 12 M. L. J. 189.

(6) 2 Ind. Cas. 416; 10 C. L. J. 49; 36 C. 745.
(7) (1868) 3 Q. B. 739; 9 B. & S. 740; 37 L. J. Q. B. 231; 19 L. T. 238; 16 W. R. 1041.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

FIRST APPEAL FROM ORDER No. 61 OF 1914.

November 5, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chamier and Mr. Justice Piggott.

MUNNI LAL—APPELLANT

versus

BHAGWAN DAS—RESPONDENT.

Provincial Insolvency Act (III of 1907), ss. 11(d), 15—Application to be declared insolvent—Bogus debt given in schedule of liabilities, effect of.

Where an applicant is in fact insolvent, his application should not be dismissed merely because he mentions some bogus debts in the schedule of liabilities given with the application.

If he has been guilty of any act of bad faith in drawing up the schedule, he can be suitably dealt with at a later stage by the District Judge under the provisions of the Insolvency Act.

First appeal from a decision of the District Judge of Benares, dated March 19th, 1914.

Mr. Harnandan Prasad, for the Appellant.

Dr. S. N. Sen, for the Respondent.

ORDER.—This is an appeal by one Munni Lal whose application to be adjudicated insolvent has been dismissed by the learned District Judge of Benares. The insolvency application showed assets amounting to a little over Rs. 800 and liabilities exceeding Rs. 1,800. The principal debt stated was one due to the respondent, Bhagwan Das, which the applicant stated at Rs. 1,300 From the evidence on the record it would appear that the amount due to Bhagwan Das now exceeds the sum of Rs. 1,500. The application has been dismissed by the District Judge upon a finding that the other smaller debts shown in the schedule of liabilities were bogus debts put in for the purpose of swelling the amount of applicant's nominal liabilities. Seeing that upon the uncontroverted facts of the case the applicant was hopelessly insolvent in respect of the debt due to Bhagwan Das alone, the above does not seem to be a satisfactory reason for dismissing his application. If he has been guilty of any act of bad faith in drawing up the schedule of liabilities, he can be suitably dealt with at a later stage by the District Judge under the provisions of the Insolvency Act. We allow this appeal, set aside the order of the Court below and direct the District Judge to re-admit the application and to dispose of it in accordance with law. The appellant will have his costs of this appeal.

Order set aside.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

APPLICATION IN SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 922 OF 1914.

November 3, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chamier and Mr. Justice Piggott.

PACHKAURI RAUT AN ANOTHER—APPELLANTS—PETITIONERS

versus

RAM KHELAWAN CHAUBEY AND ANOTHER—RESPONDENTS—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. I, r. 10, O. XLI, r. 20—Power of High Court to add party in second appeal.

The High Court cannot make a person who was not a party in the lower Appellate Court a party in second appeal.

Chunni v. Lala Ram, 16 A. 5; A. W. N. (1893) 141, followed.

Application to make a party in second appeal a person who was not a party in the lower Appellate Court.

Mr. S. Musharam (with him Mr. Jawahir Lal Nehru), for the Petitioners.

Mr. Parmeshwar Dayal, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—This is an application by the appellants in Second Appeal No. 922 of 1914 praying the Court to make one Gajadhar Prasad a party to the appeal. The object of the suit brought by the respondent was to have a deed of sale executed by his father in favour of the appellants set aside. The respondent's elder brother Gajadhar Prasad, who attested the deed of sale, was impleaded as a defendant. The first Court decreed the claim. The defendants appealed, but they did not make Gajadhar Prasad a party to the appeal and it is admitted that they did not ask the Court to exclude the share of Gajadhar Prasad from the operation of the decree of the first Court. In this second appeal the defendants are apparently asking this Court to exclude from the operation of the decree the share of Gajadhar Prasad on the ground that he attested the sale-deed.

The application is resisted on the strength of a decision of this Court in Chunni v. Lala Ram (1). This ruling has not been accepted by the Madras High Court; but so far as we are aware it has been consistently followed by this Court or, at all events, has never been dissented from. On the broad question whether a Court in second appeal can, under Order I, rule 10, make a person who was not a party in the lower Appellate Court a party in second appeal, we are not prepared to differ from the decision of this Court. We note, however, that in the present case our decision will not tie the hands of the Bench trying the second appeal. If the Bench hearing the appeal come to the conclusion that the lower Appellate Court ought to have taken up the question which has now been raised, it will be able to remand the case under Order XLI, rule 23, and the lower Appellate Court will then be able to make Gajadhar Prasad a party. The substantial question for decision at the hearing of the appeal will be whether the defendants are entitled to raise the question at this stage. We have been referred to Order XLI, rule 33. We express no opinion as to the applicability of this rule beyond saying that we are certainly not prepared to act under it at this stage.

The present application is dismissed with costs.

Application dismissed.

(1) 16 A. 5; A. W. N. (1893) 141.

VISHUNATH KUAR v. LADLI PRASAD.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL NO. 34 OF 1914.

August 12, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Kanhaiya Lal, A. J. C., and Mr. Kendall, A. J. C.

Thakurain VISHUNATH KUAR—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

LADLI PRASAD—PLAINTIFF ANOTHER AND—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Sale-deed, setting aside of, suit for—Claim under litigation, sale of—Validity or invalidity of sale to be judged by circumstances attending it—Petition-writer, position of—Case, conduct of, entrusted to petition-writer—Litigation, experience in, effect of—Legal consequences of acts—Transaction, true import of—Undue influence.

The validity or invalidity of the sale of a claim under litigation is not to be judged by the value of the property affected thereby after the claim is decreed, but by the circumstances as they stood when the sale was effected.

Where a petition-writer, who was engaged as an expert in litigation to prosecute a case and was to get a share in the claim under litigation in case of success and who during the pendency of that case sold off his share, subsequently sued, after the claim was decreed, for setting aside the sale on the ground that it was brought about under undue influence:

Held, that the petition-writer could not be considered to be a person who did not understand the legal consequences of his acts or the true import of the transaction in which he had entered or to be in the position of a person upon whom undue influence could be exercised.

Appeal from the decree of the Subordinate Judge, Bahraich, dated 15th January 1914.

Mr. Muhammad Wasim, for the Appellant.

The Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru and Babus Bisheshwar Nath and Lachman Prasad, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The suit out of which these two appeals have arisen was brought by one Ladli Prasad, calling himself a resident of Mohalla Begamganj, city Lucknow, against the two persons who lay claim to the estate of the late Rawat Raghuraj Singh, to set aside a sale-deed dated the 8th February 1910 executed by the plaintiff in Rawat Raghuraj Singh's favour and for a declaration that the plaintiff was the owner of a one-anna share in the property detailed in the list attached to the plaint. The plaintiff expressed his readiness, if so ordered, to refund the consideration-money for that sale which he had received.

The facts of the case will be better understood from the following brief resume of antecedent events. One Birj Bahadur came somehow to know that he was the owner of certain property which was in the possession of the Maharaja of Balrampur. He was not in a position to stand the expenses of a law suit, and determined to sell some portion of this property to find the necessary funds. He had a brother-in-law Ram Het, a Pleader in Sitapur, whom he approached for advice. They appealed to Ladli Prasad, who was then a petition-writer at Sitapur and who may be termed an expert in litigation. With Ladli Prasad they visited Lucknow and interviewed Mr. Zahur Ahmad, one of the Pleaders practising in the Judicial Commissioner's Court. Arrangements were finally come to by which money was advanced by one Abdul Rahim of Mau Aima of the Allahabad District, a near connection of Mr. Zahur Ahmad. A sale-deed was drawn up on the 9th of May 1908. Mr. Zahur Ahmad stated in examination that rough calculation was made as to the probable costs of the litigation, and that these probable costs were set out as the consideration in this sale-deed, according to the terms of which seven annas of the property in dispute were sold to Abdul Rahim, the entire consideration money being left with him to defray the expenses of litigation. One anna was transferred to Ladli Prasad unconditionally; and it was set out that the expenses of litigation would be borne by Abdul Rahim. On the 19th December 1908 a suit was duly filed by Birj Bahadur and his two vendees, and a power-of-attorney in the name of Ladli Prasad was executed by both Birj Bahadur and Abdul Rahim. The suit with mesne profits was valued at one lac and ten thousands. In his written statement the Maharaja objected that Abdul Rahim was benami for Mr. Zahur Ahmad, who it was asserted was fostering the litigation. Mr. Zahur Ahmad occupies by no means a low position among the legal practitioners who appear before this Court; and to a gentleman in such a position anything approaching a promotion of litigation for his own personal profit would savour strongly of unprofessional conduct. Mr. Zahur Ahmad, therefore, as he states in examination, sought the advice of the Judicial Commissioner. As a result of that advice the property was re-transferred to Birj Bahadur and re-sold to Rawat Raghuraj Singh and certain other persons, Ladli Prasad again receiving a one-anna share as before. To meet any objections which might be made, Mr. Zahur Ahmad associated himself with Abdul Rahim in the re-transfer to Birj Bahadur. Both transactions were completed by a single document dated the 30th of April 1909; and it is admitted that the same conditions applied as applied in the case of the first sale-deed, namely, that the consideration money, which in this case was Rs. 7,000, was left with Rawat Raghuraj Singh who was responsible to bear the costs of the litigation and that Ladli Prasad should have his one-anna share as before without incurring liability for the payment of any money. On the 8th of February 1910 Ladli Prasad transferred half of his one-anna share to Rawat Raghuraj Singh for Rs. 1,000, Rs. 200 being paid at the time of the transfer and the remainder to be paid in instalments of Rs. 100; and it is admitted that these payments were completed by the end of the year 1910. At the time of the execution of this sale-deed the plaintiffs' preliminary evidence had been completed. The dispute between the parties in that suit was mainly one of custom. A large number of witnesses had at that date been examined on behalf of the defendant; and it still remained for the defendant to complete his case and for the plaintiffs to produce rebutting evidence on the question of custom. It is admitted that in all some seven hundred witnesses were examined in that case. On the 21st of April 1910 Ladli Prasad filed an application to the Court that the shares of the plaintiffs in that case should be altered in accordance with this sale-deed of 8th February 1910. It may be noted here that under that sale-deed the obligation lay upon Rawat Raghuraj Singh to make this application and that the doing so by Ladli Prasad was optional. This is the sale-deed which Ladli Prasad seeks to have set aside in this present suit. The claim of the plaintiffs was decreed on the 7th June 1911, the share of each plaintiff being specified in the decree. On the 17th of August 1911 Rawat Raghuraj Singh died. The Maharaja of Balrampur appealed to this Court and a compromise was arrived at. Birj Bahadur was paid a lac of rupees and a lac of rupees were to be distributed between the owners of the other eight annas. Before the sale-deed of 8th February the other persons who had been associated with the Rawat as purchasers in the sale-deed of the 30th April 1909, had parted with their rights to him. After the decree had been passed the Rawat conveyed six pies of his share to one Nazir Ahmad, and nine pies to one Sri Newas; and when the compromise was arrived at Nazir Ahmad received Rs. 6,250 for his six pies and Sri Newas Rs. 9,375 for his nine pies. Ladli Prasad made in some way his own arrangements with the Maharaja, and for his one-anna share, half of which had been sold as noted above to Rawat Raghuraj Singh, Rs. 20,000 was to be paid. Rupees 10,000 Ladli Prasad has received.

Ladli Prasad then on the 7th February 1913 brought this present suit in the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Bahraich. He alleged that under an oral agreement come to at the time of the first sale-deed, and continued at the time of the second sale-deed, it was stipulated that he was to continue to conduct the suit and that Abdul Rahim, and subsequently Rawat Raghuraj Singh, was to continue to pay him (Ladli Prasad) one rupee a day diet money till the suit was finished, besides reimbursing him for expenses incurred in the search for a purchaser. He alleged in his plaint that the property in suit was valued at four lacs and that the entire claim including mesne profits was for five lacs, which allegation is unture. He alleged in paragraph 12 that he was not in a position to leave his home and to go to other cities for months and to bear expenses of travelling and food, and that this was within the knowledge of Rawat Raghuraj Singh. In paragraph 13 he stated that the latter stopped the payment of the travelling expenses and diet money which had been agreed upon; and that he alleged fraudulently to him (Ladli Prasad) that Birj Bahadur and Ram Het Singh denied any contract with him, and prohibited the payment of these expenses and this diet money. As a result of this he (plaintiff) found himself, he alleged, unable to join certain commission proceedings at Shahjahanpur, Fatehpur and other places. In paragraph 15 he stated that, seeing this, Rawat Raghuraj Singh threatened that he (Ladli Prasad) would not be entitled to get one-anna share and would be liable for damages, because he was not prosecuting the case; and that he had further added that if a sale deed in respect of half of his share was executed in his (the Rawat's) favour, expenses and diet money should continue to be paid. Fully believing, therefore, that his one-anna share would be lost if he did not conduct the suit, he executed the said sale-deed in Rawat Raghuraj's favour for what he terms to be the insignificant sum of Rs. 1,000. In paragraph 17 he stated that he did this on account of false statements, fraud and unlawful pressure of Rawat Raghuraj Singh.

The lower Court found that no misstatement of facts and no fraud had been proved; and this finding has not been disputed in this Court. In fact the learned Advocate who has represented him in this Court opened his address with the words, "I do not charge fraud or misrepresentation." The lower Court found that there a was no doubt that one-anna share was given to Ladli Prasad to find out a financier for litigation and to do pairwi in the case. He was to engage Pleaders, that is to say, to suggest points and questions and to hunt out evidence in proof and rebuttal. It finds that there was a contract between the plaintiff and the Rawat, by which the plaintiff should be paid travelling allowances and daily allowance at a fixed rate, and that he was paid up to the 16th August 1909. It finds that no satisfactory cause has been shown as to why that payment should have ceased as it did on the 16th August 1909; and it thinks that the Rawat, finding expenses heavier than anticipated, determined to harass Ladli Prasad by withholding payments and putting him in jeopardy of his own share. It finds further that Ladli Prasad, having been told by Muhammad Ismail, Pleader, that if he did not prosecute the case he would probably lose his one-anna share, thought that six pies were better than no pie at all; and thus adroitly influenced, he consented to execute the sale-deed for half of his one-anna share in favour of the Rawat. From the 8th February 1910 it found that daily allowance was again paid; and it was, therefore, satisfied that the sale-deed must have been obtained under undue influence.

The two defendants have filed separate appeals against this finding.

We are entirely unable to agree with the finding of the lower Court, which is purely conjectural. Ladli Prasad was not such a person as to be deceived by anything that Rawat Raghuraj Singh might say as to the legal consequences of his failure to be present at every hearing of the suit. Ladli Prasad alleges that he consulted Pleaders, from whom he was led to believe that his right to one-anna share depended on his continuous pairwi. From the evidence of those Pleaders, however, all we can find is that he was told that if the case did not succeed, he would not get his one-anna share; and this was in itself a patent fact. The sale-deed, under which the rights of Ladli Prasad to his one-anna share arose, contained no condition as to pairwi but rather set out an unconditional transfer: and we have no doubt that Ladli Prasad, with his experience in litigation, was perfectly aware of the provisions of section 92 of the Evidence Act and that he would be the last person to allow for a moment that evidence could be admitted as between the parties to those sale-deeds, for the purposes of varying or adding to their terms. The past history of this gentleman is interesting. According to his own description from 1877 to 1894 he was a petition-writer in the Revenue and Civil Courts at Sitapur. From thence till 1899 he was a petition-writer in this Court. After that he became a mukhtar of Chaudhri Sher Bahadur Singh, Talukdar of Deokaliya, in the District of Bahraich. He was in his service till 1905 in charge of the estate litigation, as we learn from the statement of Mr. Zahur Ahmad; and he achieved a certain amount of success. After that he became mukhtar of Sardar Labh Singh for two or three months. After that he fell ill and returned to Sitapur, where he again adopted the profession of a petition-writer in the Revenue and subsequently in the Civil Courts until February 1908, when he, as he says, engaged himself in the pairwi in this suit with the Maharaja of Balrampur. He gave his address in the sale-deed as a resident of Lucknow, and not of Sitapur. There is absolutely nothing upon the record which can justify a finding that the sale-deed of a half-anna share was brought about owing to any improper pressure brought to bear upon Ladli Prasad by the Rawat. It is admitted in this Court that all the bills presented for payment to Rawat Raghuraj Singh from 1st May 1909, that is to say, from the very first date after the execution of the sale-deed were all paid. It is admitted that he received advances, for which he gave credit in those bills; it is admitted that he did not expect payment except on presentation of those bills, and it is admitted that he only submitted bills for the days when he actually worked. One Banke Lal kept on behalf of Raghuraj Singh a full account of the expenses incurred in connection with this suit; and Exhibit 8 on the record is the register in which those accounts were written. By means of six bills Ladli Prasad obtained payment for work done on every day between the 1st May and the 5th August 1909. Payments of two other accounts appear in the register, 6th to 9th August and 15th to 18th August. From the evidence it is shown that Ladli Prasad presented a bill for work done from the 6th to 21st August, Exhibit 9. The Rawat and his legal advisers began to come to the conclusion that Ladli Prasad was becoming extortionate. It was, therefore, ordered that he should only be paid for the days for which he actually worked; and Rs. 9 were cut out of his demand on this occasion. They were also suspecting that Ladli Prasad, strictly against the conditions of the instrument of the 30th April, was feeling his way towards making his own terms with the Maharaja. With reference to this day (18th August) it is to be noticed that the plaintiffs' evidence in the Balrampur suit closed on the 17th of August. The defendant's evidence was commenced on the 23rd of August. Ladli Prasad was being summoned as a witness for the Maharaja. What did this portend? On the 21st of August Ladli Prasad wrote a letter, Exhibit 7, to Banke Lal which, in our opinion, betrays the cloven hoof. The gist of it was:—"I am very ill. After looking through my account please have it paid up, so that I may not be prevented from attending Court day after to-morrow." We think a covert threat may be read in between the lines of this letter; and it is evident that the Rawat was of the same opinion. The reply of Banke Lal on the reverse of the letter is to the following effect:—"Mirza Saheb handed me your account and has instructed me that you are to be paid, as arranged, in accordance with the days you actually worked, so Rs. 9 are cut. When you go to Bahraich you will continue to be paid at the daily rate: and you must go on the day after to-morrow, as you have been summoned." This amounts to a reply:—"You will be paid the proper amount: and don't hold threats over me: you have got to go to Bahraich."

On the 4th of September Birj Bahadur wrote to the Mirza Saheb. His letter is Exhibit M on this record. In it he refers to a letter from Ladli Prasad, in which the latter threatens that as he had not been paid his travelling expenses he proposed to come to a settlement regarding his share, which is in direct contravention with the arrangement they had come to on the 30th April. It is admitted for Ladli Prasad that such a letter was written. He suggests to Mirza Saheb that when he goes to Bahraich, he should file an application in the Subordinate Judge's Court on behalf of the vendees, calling the Court's attention to those provisions of the 30th April and asking that any application Ladli Prasad might make for a settlement or a dismissal of his suit in respect of his share should be rejected. He also shows willingness to cancel the power-of-attorney in Ladli Prasad's favour if advised, and records his suspicion that Ladli Prasad is intriguing with the opposite party. He notes at the end that they will have to be careful how they deal with him, because he is a witness on the other side and they cannot tell what he may say if he chose. By the Mirza Saheb is meant Mr. Sami Ullah Beg, Vakil of this Court, who was conducting the plaintiffs' case. The responsibility for the conduct of the suit had been definitely left to Abdul Rahim, and after him to Rawat Raghuraj Singh. This was a case depending on custom, where not only Wajib-ul-araiz had to be searched out, but also it would be necessary to elaborate a mass of oral evidence; and it was, no doubt, for this reason that, treating Ladli Prasad as an expert in such matters, Birj Bahadur and the other vendees had executed a power-of-attorney and had put themselves to some extent in his hands. It is quite clear that by the end of August 1909 they had come to suspect his good faith. They did not think he was dealing straight with them in the matter of expenses; and they thought that he was unscrupulous enough to sacrifice them to a better offer from the other side. We have no doubt, therefore, that from that time Rawat Raghuraj Singh determined to keep matters more in his own hands; and it is in evidence that he employed the services of six or seven karindas to visit various Districts, with a view to finding the necessary evidence. Ladli Prasad produced a medical certificate to show that about the 21st of August he was suffering from liver complaint and was, therefore, absent from the case for some time. But we are of opinion that he was cunning enough to begin to see that his independent reign was over and that those responsible under the sale-deed for the prosecution of the case were going to take matters pretty well in their own hands. He saw that under the terms of the deed he could not oppose their so doing; and feeling now no longer so sure of the success of the case, when he had no longer the controlling hand in it, he was only too ready to reduce his risk by selling half his rights for a considerable sum down. It must be remembered that the seven-annas share was only valued at Rs. 5,000 at the time of the first sale-deed and at Rs. 7,000 at the time of the second, so that he was obtaining for his share a valuation which exceeded by no less than 100 per cent. what had gone before. The most expensive part of the case had still to be gone through, in which he would have a liability of 1/32nd instead of 1/16th; so that he was not making such a bad bargain. When he came to find afterwards that the claim was decreed and that he had lost a half-anna share for a thousand rupees, he determined dishonestly to try to avoid the sale and to recover the half anna by means of this suit.

In our opinion the claim of the plaintiff was entirely improper and false and we allow the appeals and dismiss the suit. We allow the appellants one set of costs in the two appeals together in both the Courts.

Appeal allowed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

ORDINARY ORIGINAL CIVIL JURISDICTION.

CIVIL SUIT No. 900 OF 1913.

June 4, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Imam.

JOGESH CHANDRA CHAUDHURI—PLAINTIFF

versus

MOHINI CHANDRA RAY AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS.

Copyright Act (III of 1914), s. 2—Infringement of copyright—Law Reports—Judgments—Extracts and facts collected by Reporter, whether can be copied.

It is generally true that in the reports of judgments the reporter has no copyright, but it cannot be said that in the selection of cases and in the arrangement of reporting the reportor has not the protection of the law. He is entitled to report such judgments as he obtains by expenditure of his time, labour and money, but where he fails to exert his own energies, he cannot be allowed to avail himself of other people's industry.

Therefore, where the defendant reproduced, not only the judgments which had been reported by the plaintiff, but also such parts of the plaintiff's reports as formed no part of judgments and also took from the plaintiff's reports extracts and facts which had been collected by the plaintiff from the records of the cases:

Held, that the defendant had infringed the plaintiff's copyright.

FACTS.—This is a suit for an injunction and damages on account of literary loss against the defendants on the ground that the first defendant, who had been bringing out a law periodical named the "Calcutta Case Law", had committed piracy and that the second defendants were the printers of that periodical. The plaintiff is the proprietor and publisher of a law periodical known as the "Calcutta Weekly Notes" and he charges the first defendant with infringement of copyright. The copying has been so slavish that in several instances the mistakes in the reports in the "Calcutta Weekly Notes" as well as errors and omissions, head-notes and even Reporters' initials have been copied by the "Calcutta Case Law."

Messrs. B. Chakravarti, H. D. Bose and B. K. Lahiri, for the Plaintiff.

The Defendant No. 1 appeared in person.

Mr. M. N. Bose, for Defendant No. 2.

The Defendant No. 1:—The similarity in the two publications are due to accidents and coincidences and not to piracy. When the subject is the same, independent labour may give the same result. If there is an accidental mistake as to date, that does not show infringement of copyright. None of the head-notes in my publication were verbatim copies of the head-notes in the plaintiff's publication. Out of 1000 cases, the plaintiff has only been able to cite five as having been copied. Therefore, if I say that those five were due to accident or to the same nature of the subject, I state nothing unusual. If I can digest 995 cases independently I could surely have digested those five cases.

As regards the question of law, I submit that I am entitled to take notes from other Law Journals so long as they are not material or substantial portions of such notes. No one can claim copyright with regard to judgments. With regard to head-notes I am entitled to take them from any book.

Mr. Chakravarti (with him Mr. B. K. Lahiri):—The defendant has not been able to furnish any evidence to show that he had ever obtained a single judgment from the Court, because if the judgment had been taken he was entitled to go to the original materials. It is not suggested further that he employed a single person for the purpose of obtaining copies of judgments. There is no evidence to show that the defendant ever employed any one to assist him in digesting or making head-notes.

As regards the point of law, there is a great distinction between "piratical appropriation" and "fair abridgment" and "the right of extract for the purpose of comment or criticism." What I contend is that the plaintiff, who through expense and labour has made a selection of a number of judgments in the course of the year out of the voluminous judgments of the Court, has a copyright, and there can be a copyright in that selection itself, that is to say, in the report of a case which consisted of head-notes, short head-notes, statement of facts and judgment. It is not the judgment by itself, but it is the report consisting of a number of things, and the plaintiff has certainly an exclusive right of property in respect of those in which he spends a large sum of money.

JUDGMENT.—The plaintiff in this suit is the proprietor and editor of a law periodical, known as the "Calcutta Weekly Notes." The first defendant is the proprietor, editor and publisher of a rival law periodical, known as the "Calcutta Case Law." The second defendant is a company of printers. The suit is to restrain the defendants from committing piracy on the plaintiff's periodical, for an account of the profits made by the first defendant by the sale of the piratical issues of the "Calcutta Case Law", for damages and for other consequential relief.

The plaintiff's case is that the reports of the decisions of this Court as well as of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council published in the "Calcutta Weekly Notes" are the result of considerable labour and expense on his part as well as on the part of the staff employed by him and that in his reports he has an exclusive copyright. He complains that the defendants have been systematically pirating the reports from the "Calcutta Weekly Notes" and printing and publishing the same in the "Calcutta Case Law." In the schedule of the plaint some of the instances of piracy have been set out. A comparison of the reports in the "Calcutta Weekly Notes" with those of the "Calcutta Case Law" establishes the fact of the latter reproducing the reports of the former with a degree of faithfulness that leaves no room for doubt that the defendants have availed themselves of the benefits of the plaintiff's labour.

The second defendant has undertaken not to print any more of the piracies of the first defendant. The trial, therefore, has proceeded on the contest of the latter only. The contesting defendant maintains that the plaintiff has no copyright in the reports of judgments of any Court of law and denied the alleged piracy.

It is generally true that in the reports of judgments the Reporter has no copyright, but it cannot be said that in the selection of cases and in the arrangement of the reporting the Reporter has not the protection of the law. The defendant is entitled to report such judgments as he obtains by expenditure of his time, labour and money, but where he fails to exert his own energies, he cannot be allowed to avail himself of other people's industry. The contesting defendant, instead of restricting himself to reporting the judgments only, has gone much farther. What he has done in the present case is that he has freely drawn on such portions of the plaintiff's reports as form no part of the judgment. He has also taken from the plaintiff's reports the quotations from judgments that were appropriate to the reports. The plaintiff's reports in many instances contained statements of facts not to be found in the judgments, but have been gathered by the Reporters from the records of the cases. The defendant, no doubt, is at liberty to bestow his labour on collecting the facts for himself, but he is not entitled to avail himself of the labours of others.

JAGANNATH v. LACHMAN DAS.

"Whilst all are entitled to resort to common sources of information, none are entitled to save themselves trouble and expense by availing themselves for their own profit of other men's works, subject to copyright and entitled to protection." So said Lord Langdale, M. R., in Lewis v. Fullarton (1). The offending instances in this case are either copying or merely colourable alterations of the plaintiff's reports accompanied by blind repetition of obvious errors.

I have no doubt in this case that the contesting defendant has committed literary piracy on the plaintiff's periodical, and in this view this suit has to be decreed. The result is that the plaintiff succeeds and the defendant No. 1 will be restrained from pirating from the "Calcutta Weekly Notes" for the purpose of his publication. He is further restrained from selling or circulating any of the copies of the pirated publication since August 1910. The defendant is directed to render a full account to the plaintiff of the pirated issues of the "Calcutta Case Law" published since August 1910 and of the profits made by their sale. He is further directed to deliver in Court the unsold copies of the pirated issues of the "Calcutta Case Law" published since August 1910 and the same shall be destroyed. The defendant No. 1 will pay to the plaintiff the costs of this suit on scale No. II. The defendant Company is only to be liable for such costs as are occasioned by joining it as a defendant up to December 1st, 1913.

Suit decreed.

(1) (1839) 2 Beav. 6 at p. 8; 8 L. J. Ch. 291; 3 Jur. 669; 50 R. R. 84; 48 Eng. Rep. 1080.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

FIRST APPEAL FROM ORDER No. 31 OF 1914.

June 5, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chamier and Mr. Justice Rafique.

JAGANNATH AND OTHERS—APPELLANTS

versus

LACHMAN DAS AND ANOTHER—RESPONDENTS.

Provincial Insolvency Act (III of 1907), s. 36—Jurisdiction of District Judge to refer matter to subordinate Court.

An inquiry under section 36 of the Provincial Insolvency Act cannot be delegated to a subordinate Court. The District Judge must himself decide whether or not action should be taken to annul a transfer under the section.

First appeal from the order of the District Judge of Bareilly.

Mr. Purushottam Das Tandon, for the Appellants.

The Hon'ble Dr. Satish Chandra Banerji, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—Lachman Das was adjudicated insolvent on December the 6th, 1912. He appears to have made a mortgage of his property on April 11th, 1912. The Receiver appointed in the insolvency proceedings made a report to the District Judge suggesting that this mortgage should be annulled under section 36 of the Act. On the 23rd of January 1913 the District Judge asked the Munsif of Pilibhit to hold an inquiry and report whether the mortgage was made bona fide or not. The Munsif after taking evidence reported that the mortgage had been made bona fide. The District Judge accepted his finding and held that the mortgage must stand. The Act makes no provision for the reference of such a matter to a subordinate Court. The District Judge alone had jurisdiction in the matter and should himself decide upon such evidence as may be avaliable whether or not action should be taken to have the mortgage set aside. The District Judge should give the Receiver and the creditors an opportunity of being heard in the matter before he arrives at a decision. We set aside the present order that the mortgage is to stand. No order as to costs.

Appeal allowed.

AKKARAJU NARAYANA RAO v. AKKARAJU SESHAMMA.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL No 227 OF 1910.

CIVIL MISCELLANEOUS PETITION No. 2078 OF 1911.

September 4, 1914.

Present:—Sir John Edward Power Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

IN APPEAL SUIT No. 227 OF 1910.

AKKARAJU NARAYANA RAO—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

AKKARAJU SESHAMMA (DIED) AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS

AND

IN CIVIL MISCELLANEOUS PETITION No. 2078 OF 1911.

NAMBURI VENKATAKRISHNA RAO—PETITIONER

versus

AKKARAJU NARAYANA RAO—RESPONDENT.

Hindu Law—Joint family—Nucleus of ancestral property—Separate acquisition by individual members—Presumption—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 149—Appeal, delay in filing—Court-fee insufficient—Discretion.

A joint Hindu family pre-supposes the possession of common property. Under the Hindu Law mere living together of the members of the family will not make them joint owners of properties acquired by each individual member. There must have been a nucleus of ancestral property which was utilized for the purpose of making the subsequent acquisition, or the members must have thrown their joint earnings into hotchpot with the intention of giving up their individual rights in them.

Ram Kishen Das v. Tanda Mal, 10 Ind. Cas. 543; 33 A. 677; 8 A. L. J. 723; Dhurm Das Pandey v. Musammat Shama Soondri Debiah, 3 M. I. A. 229; 6 W. R. (P. C.) 43; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 147; 1 Sar. P. C. 271; 18 Eng. Rep. 484; Vedavalli v. Narayana, 2 M. 19; 2 Ind. Jur. 709, followed.

Under section 149, Civil Procedure Code, a Court has a discretion in all cases to allow the payment of the Court-fee at any time.

Balkaran Rai v. Gobind Nath Tiwari, 12 A. 129 at p. 151 (F. B.): A. W. N. (1890 39; Achut Ramachandra Pal v. Nagappa Balb Balgaya, 21 Ind. Cas. 337; 38 B. 41; 15 Bom. L. R. 902, distinguished from.

Appeal against the decree of the Court of the Temporary Subordinate Judge of Guntur, in Original Suit No. 4 of 1909.

Mr T. Prakasam, for the Appellant.

Messrs. P. Narayanamurthi and V. Ramadoss, for the Respondents.

Petition praying that in the circumstances stated and in the affidavit filed therewith the High Court will be pleased to dismiss Appeal No. 227 of 1910 as being presented out of time without sufficient cause.

JUDGMENT.

IN C. M. P. No. 2078 OF 1911.

The true question is as to whether the appeal is out of time. The appellant under Order XLIV presented an application for leave to prosecute his appeal in forma pauperis accompanied by a memorandum of appeal as required by the Order. The application for leave was two months out of time and was filed on the last day allowed for filing the appeal. Eight days later the Court returned the application and the memorandum on the ground that the application was out of time and gave two days' time to explain the delay. Two days later the appellant again presented the memorandum of appeal with the full Court-fee and applied under section 149 that the delay should be excused. In the case of plaints insufficiently stamped Order VII, rule 11 (section 54 of the old Code), the Court is bound to give a few days to pay the correct fee. Delay could be excused if the insufficiency was caused by a mistake as to the amount of the requisite stamps. But under section 149 it is now left to the discretion of the Court.

In Balkaran Rai v. Gobind Nath Tiwari (1) the opinion was expressed that these provisions of section 54 as regards a plaint were not made applicable to a memorandum of appeal by virtue of section 582. To meet this decision, a new section 582A was inserted which allowed the admission of insufficiently stamped memorandum of appeal presented within the proper period of limitation, provided the insufficiency of the stamps was caused by a mistake on the part of the appellant as to the amount of the requisite stamps. This enactment appears to us to recognis the correctness of the Allahabad ruling that section 54 did not apply to memoranda of appeals as, if it did, there would have been no need of the new section. Then we come to the present Code which, for section 582A, substituted a new section 149 not confined to memoranda of appeals but giving the Court a discretion in all cases to allow the payment of the fee at any time. This, in our opinion, is the section which governs the present case, and with respect we are not satisfied as to the correctness of the ruling in Achut Ramchandra Pal v. Nagappa Balb Balgaya (2) that under the present Code

(1) 12 A. 129 at p. 151 (F. B.); A. W. N. (1890) 39.
(2) 21 Ind. Cas. 337; 38 B. 41; 15 Bom. L. R 902.

Order VII, rule 11, is rendered applicable to memoranda of appeals by section 148 so as to make it incumbent upon us to admit memoranda out of time where the conditions of the rule are complied with. In the present case we are not prepared to differ from the exercise of the single Judge's discretion in admitting the appeal.

IN APPEAL No. 227 OF 1910.

Akkarazu Ramadoss had two sons, Sitaramayya and Janakiramayya. The plaintiff is the grandson of Sitaramayya. The defendant is the widow of Janakiramayya, who died in 1907. This suit is for the recovery of his property on the ground that the plaintiff and the deceased were members of an undivided Hindu family and that by survivorship the plaintiff has become entitled to it. The case for the defendant is that the properties were the self-acquisition of Janakiramayya.

The Subordinate Judge upheld the defendant's plea and dismissed the suit. Hence this appeal.

The plaintiff bases his claim on two grounds: (a) that Ramadoss, the common ancestor of himself and Janakiramayya, acquired large property with the aid of which the latter purchased the properties in suit; and (b) that his grandfather, Sitaramayya, and Janakiramayya had thrown their earnings into a common stock and that the properties sued for represent the savings and accumulations from the joint acquisition. We have heard Mr. Prakasam at considerable length and we are not satisfied that either of these allegations has been made out in this case. Ramadoss was apparently a man of methodical habits. He kept accounts and although, owing to lapse of time, all of them are not available, Exhibit E which relates to the period immediately preceding his death shows that he left only Rs. 84 and odd at the time of his death. This sum has been proved to have been spent for his funeral expenses. We see no reason to disagree with the conclusion of the Subordinate Judge that it has not been established that there was any nucleus of the property of Ramadoss in the hands of Janakiramayya. It has not been shown that any inams were in the possession of Ramadoss and that they descended to his sons. Exhibit N has not been proved. The property mentioned in Exhibit D has not been shown to be ancestral property. There is no evidence that the inam mentioned in Exhibit C ever was in the possession of Ramadoss.

As regards the theory of joint acquisition, prima facie the facts that the two brothers were lending their savings in their individual names, transacted separate business and kept separate accounts are against it. There is no reliable evidence that Sitaramayya remitted his earnings to his father or brother. On the death of Sitaramayya the properties left by him and the debts which he had advanced were all collected by one Gopalakrishnayya on behalf of the widow. No portion of these was mixed up with the earnings of Janakiramayya. On the other hand we have full and exhaustive accounts kept by Janakiramayya (Exhibit III series) after the death of his father in 1870, which show with what small beginnings he began life and how they were augmented month after month. The totals in Exhibit III series approximate to the properties now claimed in the suit. These accounts prove beyond doubt that the properties in dispute were the self-acquisition of Janakiramayya.

Mr. Prakasam laid stress on the fact that Ramadoss applied for a succession certificate to the estate of his son, Sitaramayya. There is nothing to show that the certificate was granted or that any moneys were collected by him; non constat that any money, if collected, reached Janakiramayya and was mixed up by him with his own money. Subsequent to the death of Sitaramayya and Ramadoss, Janakiramayya brought up his brother's son and grandsons, educated them and got them married. They were apparently living with their mother in Janakiramayya's house. From these facts Mr. Prakasam argues that they constituted members of a joint Hindu family with the deceased and that the burden was upon the defendant to prove that the properties were not ancestral. We are unable to uphold this contention. As the Subordinate Judge has pointed out, Janakiramayya appears to have done just as much for the descendants of his brother who have never made any claim to share in his property. Further, all these relations including the plaintiff and his father appear to have been treated by Janakiramayya rather as dependents than as co-sharers. A joint family pre-supposes the possession of common property. Under the Hindu Law mere living together of the members of the family will not make them joint owners of properties acquired by each individual member. There must have been a nucleus of ancestral property which was utilized for the purpose of making the subsequent acquisition, or the members must have thrown their joint earnings into hotchpot with the intention of giving up their individual rights in them. Mr. Justice Chamier examines all the previous rulings upon the subject in Ram Kishen Das v. Tanda Mal (3) and says that "there is no presumption that property found in the possession of any one member is joint family property unless it is shown that the family as such possessed at least some property." In another place the learned Judge says that it is only when there is "ancestral property by means of which other property may have been acquired, then it is for the party alleging self-acquisition to prove that it was acquired without any aid from the family estate." We entirely agree with these propositions. In Dhurm Das Pandey v. Musammat Shama Soondri Debiah (4) Lord Campbell states distinctly at page 240: "It was allowed that this was a family who lived in commensality, eating together and possessing joint property." The Judicial Committee laid down that under these circumstances the mere fact that purchases were made in the names of individual members of the family was not evidence of separate ownership. Vedavalli v. Narayana (5) proceeds on the same principle.

We have found that there was no nucleus of ancestral property proceeding from Ramadoss and that his two sons did not throw their earnings into a common stock. On these findings the decisions quoted by Mr. Prakasam have no application. We agree with the Subordinate Judge in his conclusion and dismiss the appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(3) 10 Ind. Cas. 543; 33 A. 677; 8 A. L. J. 723.
(4) 3 M. I. A. 229; 6 W. R. (P. C.) 43; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 147; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 271; 18 Eng. Rep. 484.
(5) 2 M. 19; 2 Ind. Jur. 709.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.
CIVIL APPEAL No. 189 OF 1909.
August 10, 1914.
Present:—Sir John Edward Power Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Kumarasawmy Sastri.

ADAIKULAM CHETTI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

SUBBAN CHETTI AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Hindu Law—Joint family—Managing member living separately—Mortgage in his sole name—Loan advanced out of family funds—Suit on mortgage—Non-joinder of other members, whether bars suit—Assignment—Consideration.

Where a person purporting to act for his sole benefit uses funds in which his brothers have a share for obtaining a bond, the fact that he may be accountable to his brothers affords no ground for dismissing the suit on the mortgage for non-joinder. The fact that there are disputes between the plaintiff and those interested in the profit of the transaction, would be no ground for holding that he has lost the sole right of suit.

Sachitanada Mohapatra v. Baloram Gorain, 24 C. 644; Kishen Parshad v. Har Narain Singh, 9 Ind. Cas. 739; 33 A. 272; 15 C. W. N. 321; 8 A. L. J. 256; 9 M. L. T. 343; 21 M. L. J. 378; 13 C. L. J. 345; 13 Bom. L. R. 359; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 395; 38 I. A. 45 (P. C.); Adaikkalam Chetti v. Marimuthu, 22 M. 326; 9 M. L. J. 31; Bungsee Singh v. Soodist Lall, 7 C. 739; 10 C. L. R. 263 and Gopal Dass v. Badri Nath, 27 A. 361; 2 A. L. J. 3, followed.

Sheikh Ibrahim Tharagan v. Rama Aiyar, 10 Ind. Cas. 874; 35 M. 685; 21 M. L. J. 508; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 442, distinguished.

Where there has been an assignment of mortgage, the mere non-payment of consideration to the assignor will not afford the mortgagor a good defence.

Appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Tanjore, in Original Suit No. 49 of 1906.

Mr. T. Narasimha Aiyangar, for the Appellant.

Messrs. T. Rangachariar, L. S. Veeraraghava Aiyar, for Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

WALLIS, OFFG. C. J.—I have had the advantage of reading the judgment of my learned brother and shall only deal with the right of the plaintiff, a member of a joint family, to maintain a suit to recover money belonging to the joint family advanced by him on mortgage to the defendants without joining the other members of his family interested in the money.

ADAIKULAM CHETTI v. SUBBAN CHETTI.

According to the view we take of the facts and for reasons given in the judgment of my learned brother, we hold that the money was advanced to the mortgagor without disclosing that it belonged to the joint family, and at a time when the plaintiff was not the managing member of the family. It was held in Adaikkalam Chetti v. Marimuthu (1) and other cases that in the cases of joint family where the contract was in the name of the plaintiff, he was entitled as the agent of an undisclosed principal to sue on it himself without joining the other members of the family. This decision, it is true, was not approved of in Seshan Pattar v. Veera Raghava Pattar (2) but appears to me to be supported by the recent ruling of the Privy Council in Kishen Parshad v. Har Narain Singh (3) where the fact that the contract was properly entered into by the plaintiff, was, it seems to me, treated as one of the grounds entitling him to sue. I do not find anything inconsistent with the proposition in the judgment of Benson and Sundara Aiyar, JJ., in Sheikh Ibrahim Tharagan v. Rama Aiyar (4). The bond in that case had not been taken in the name of the managing member who brought the suit, but in the name of another member who was joined as the 16th defendant. Certain payments to 16th defendant were held bad on the ground that they were fraudulent, but there is no suggestion that in the absence of fraud he could not have sued himself. He had not done so, and the managing member sued as such making him a defendant. The second question in the appeal was whether the managing member could maintain the suit without joining all the members of the joint family in addition to the member who had taken the bond. It was held that he could, and the learned Judges referred to the decision of the Privy Council in Kishen Parshad v. Har Narain Singh (3) in support of their view that in such a suit the managing member was entitled to represent the family. The observation at the bottom of page 690, as I read it, means no more than that their Lordships did not rest their decision solely on the ground that the contract sued on was in the name of the managing member. In any case this point was not before the learned Judges for decision. I agree that the appeal must be allowed with costs and on the other terms in the order of my learned brother.

KUMARASAWMY SASTRI, J.—The plaintiff, who is the appellant, sues to recover Rs. 13,000 alleged to be due on a mortgage in his favour, dated 13th August 1895, and Rs. 4,000 due to him and second defendant on a subsequent mortgage, dated 21st June 1888, executed by the first defendant in favour of the second defendant and two others and in respect of which the plaintiff got assigned to him two of the shares of the other two persons.

The case for the plaintiff was that he and the second defendant were divided and that the money claimed belonged to him. Various defences were raised by the defendants, but, for the purpose of this appeal, it is only necessary to consider a few of them. One defence was that the moneys claimed were not due to the plaintiff alone, but to the plaintiff and his brothers who were members of an undivided family and that the plaintiff was not entitled to maintain the suit without joining all those who were interested in the mortgage-money. Another defence was that the plaintiff was not entitled to sue for his money by a sale of the properties as the mortgage was a usufructuary mortgage. It was also pleaded that the suit was barred by limitation. The Subordinate Judge held that, though the mortgage for Rs. 13,000 was obtained by the plaintiff in his name, it was obtained by him as a member of an undivided family and that the loan was advanced out of family funds.

As regards the claim for Rs. 4,000 he held that it was not proved that Rangam Chetti, one of the plaintiff's assignors, received consideration for the transfer and that consequently the transfer, Exhibit B, was not valid. He held that the suit was not barred by limitation, as the bond contained a covenant to pay and was not a purely usufructuary mortgage. He dismissed the suit on the ground of non-joinder of the other persons interested in the mortgage-money.

As regards the finding of the Subordinate Judge on the first issue I am of opinion that the plaintiff has not proved that the

(1) 22 M. 326; 9 M. L. J. 31.

(2) 4 Ind. Cas. 38; 32 M. 284; 5 M. L. T. 351; 19 M. L. J. 372.

(3) 9 Ind. Cas. 739; 33 A. 272; 15 C. W. N. 321; 8 A. L. J. 256; 9 M. L. T. 343; 21 M. L. J 378; 13 C. L. J. 345; 13 Bom. L. R. 359; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 395; 38 I. A. 45 (P. C.).

(4) 10 Ind. Cas. 874; 35 M. 685; 21 M. L. J. 508; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 412.

mortgage-money was his separate or self-acquired property. It is not denied that the plaintiff and his brothers were at one time joint members of a family owning extensive properties. The plaintiff has not proved that on the date of Exhibit A there was a partition between himself and his brothers and it is not shown how he acquired Rs. 13,000. The second defendant, no doubt, admits that, on the date of Exhibit A, the plaintiff was living separately, but mere separate living will not entitle the plaintiff to use properties, which were joint properties and which were not divided, so as to give him an absolute title to the mortgage-money lent by him out of such funds. The question, however, is whether the mere fact that others are entitled to an account of the mortgage-money and to a share therein would make them necessary parties to the suit. It appears from the document, Exhibit A, that it was taken in the sole name of the plaintiff without reference to any other person and the appellant's Vakil argued that it was open to the plaintiff to sue in his own name, (1) because the contract was between himself and the first defendant without disclosing the fact that the plaintiff was acting for anybody else or using the funds of third parties and consequently he should be deemed to be in the position of an agent contracting for an undisclosed principal and (2) because the plaintiff, who on the finding of the Subordinate Judge must be taken to be the managing member of the family, can maintain the suit on the mortgage which was taken in his own name without joining the other members of the family who may be interested in the mortgage-money.

As regards the first point, the evidence on record shows that, though there was no actual partition by metes and bounds, the plaintiff was living separately from his brothers for several years. The separate living is spoken to by the plaintiff and his witnesses and the second defendant in his evidence admits that at the time of the execution of Exhibit A (deed of mortgage for Rs. 13,000) the plaintiff was not living in the family but taking his meals separately. It also appears from the evidence that there was an ineffectual attempt to effect a partition by metes and bounds. The position, therefore, was that the plaintiff at the date of the mortgage, Exhibit A, was living separately and that he took the mortgage in his own name with funds in which his brothers were interested and had a share. The evidence of the plaintiff and his brothers leaves no room for supposing that, when he lent the money, the plaintiff was acting as the managing member of an undivided family or was representing any interests but his own. Where a person purporting to act for his sole benefit, uses funds in which his brothers have a share, the fact that he may be accountable to his brothers affords no ground for dismissing the suit on the mortgage for non-joinder. It is not the case of a member of an undivided family suing in respect of a mortgage taken by the members of a family, and the mere fact that the plaintiff used family funds to obtain the benefit for himself will not entitle the mortgagor to question the plaintiff's rights to enforce the contract between the parties. The position of the plaintiff in such a case could not be worse than that of a benamidar and it has been held in Sachitananda Mohapatra v. Baloram Gorain (5) that a benamidar can sue to recover his dues on a mortgage taken in his name.

In Adaikkalam Chetti v. Marimuthu (1) it was held that the mortgagee can sue to recover the mortgage-money due on a bond taken in his sole name without joining the other members of the family, even though he might be a member of an undivided Hindu family. The ground of the decision was that the contract on which the suit was based was in his sole name and did not purport to have been obtained by him on behalf of any others but himself. The recent decision of the Privy Council in Kishen Parshad Singh v. Har Narain Singh (3) supports the view taken in the above case. It is argued that though living separately plaintiff, who was dealing with family moneys, must be treated as the agent for the other members of the undivided family and that in such cases the contract is really with all the members of the family. Even if plaintiff was the agent, I am of opinion that he can sue alone as he did not disclose that he was acting for the other members of the family. In Bungsee Singh v. Soodist Lall (6) the right of the mortgagee to sue on the mortgage was upheld on the ground that the plaintiff should be regarded as contracting not only on behalf of himself but on behalf of undisclosed principals, i.e., the other members of the family. As this case was cited with approval in Adaikkalam Chetti v. Marimuthu (1) it must be taken that their Lordships approved of the principle on which the decision was based. A similar view was taken in Gopal Das v. Badri Nath (7). Having regard to the fact that the plaintiff while living separately was using family funds to obtain a mortgage in his own name, it is hardly likely that he would have disclosed to the mortgagor the fact that he was using family funds or was acting on behalf of anybody except himself. The first defendant, who is the mortgagor, does not state that at the time of the mortgage the plaintiff disclosed the name of any other person as having an interest. He admits that the mortgage-deed was executed in plaintiff's name and simply states that the second defendant, Rangam Chetti, and Vydialingam Chetti, referred to in the plaint, are undivided. It is not pleaded and there is no evidence on record to show that the plaintiff did at the time of making the contract disclose that he was contracting not only on behalf of himself but also on behalf of the other members of the family. In Bungsee Singh v. Soodist Lall (6) and Gopal Das v. Badri Nath (7) it was held that the onus of proving the plea is on the defendant. I am, therefore, of opinion that the plaintiff is entitled to sue on a mortgage obtained by him in his sole name while he was living separately from his brothers and that the mere fact that his brothers had an interest in the funds, would afford no defence to the mortgagor in a suit filed on the mortgage. Even assuming that the plaintiff was on the date of the mortgage in the position of the managing member of an undivided family, the decision of the Privy Council in Kishen Parshad v. Har Narain Singh (3) is a clear authority for holding that the managing member of an undivided family can sue on a contract entered into by him in his own name without joining the other members of the family. The ground upon which their Lordships based their decision is that it was competent for the managing member to enforce at law contracts which he was entitled to make or discharge in his own name and that the defendant, while entitled to insist that all persons with whom he expressly contracted should be made parties, is not entitled to demand that persons who were merely interested in the profits of the transaction should be treated as parties necessary to its enforcement.

(5) 24 C. 644.
(6) 7 C. 739; 10 C. L. R. 263.

It is argued for the respondents that the right of the managing member to sue on contracts entered into by him in his own name ceases as soon as disputes arise in the family or if any member begins to live separately. I am unable to find any authority for this broad proposition. The only ground on which it can be supported is that the sole right to sue is based on the right of the managing member to represent the family in all transactions affecting the family and that such right ceases on the other members of the family revoking the authority of the managing member to bind them. There are, no doubt, observations in Sheikh Ibrahim Tharagan v. Rama Aiyar (4) to the effect that the right of the managing member to sue on a contract entered into with him without joining the other members is based on the theory that he completely represents the family in all transactions with other parties, but their Lordships of the Privy Council rested their decision on broader grounds. Their observations at pages 276 and 277 make this clear. If the right of the plaintiff to sue without joining the other members of the family rests on the general principle of law that the person in whose name the contract is made can enforce it without joining persons simply interested in it, the fact that there are disputes between the plaintiff and those interested would be no ground for holding that he has lost the sole right of suit. It would, of course, be open to those who have an interest in the mortgage-money to apply to be made parties to the suit, and even if they do not do so, the Court has the power to safeguard their interests. There is no reason why the mortgagor, whose contract was with one member of the family, should take advantage of the disputes between the members and withhold a payment which, under his contract, he was legally bound to make to the person with whom he mortgaged the property. I am of opinion that the Subordinate Judge was wrong in dismissing the suit on the mortgage Exhibit A on the ground of non-joinder.

(7) 27 A. 361; 2 A. L. J. 3.

As regards the claim for Rs. 4,000, it is difficult to see how the decision of the Subordinate Judge can be supported. The mortgage was in the name of the second defendant and two of his brothers, Rangam Chetti and Vydialingam Chetti. Exhibits B and B1 are transfers by Rangam Chetti and Vydialingam Chetti to the plaintiff of their interests in the mortgage. These documents which were duly executed on the 6th January 1906 and 28th December 1905, were registered. The evidence that the consideration for Rangam Chetti's assignment was not paid is very meagre. Even assuming that consideration was not paid, it would not invalidate the transfer, as mere non-payment of consideration would be no ground for holding that property did not pass. The question as to consideration is one between the transferor and the transferee and it is difficult to see how the mortgagor can take advantage of the non-payment of consideration for the assignment.

The appellant's Vakil states that the appellant is willing to give such security as the Court may direct to safeguard the interests of the second defendant and the other members of the family who might be interested in the mortgage-money. I am of opinion that their interests will be sufficiently safeguarded by requiring the appellant to give security to the satisfaction of the Subordinate Judge before he executes the decree.

I would, therefore, reverse the decree of the Subordinate Judge and pass a decree for the plaintiff as prayed with costs in this and in the lower Court. There will be the usual mortgage-decree. Time for redemption six months.

Appeal allowed.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL No. 83 OF 1912.

June 24, 1914.

Present: —Mr. Justice Ormond and Mr. Justice Twomey.

MAUNG PU AND OTHERS—APPELLANTS

versus

LUCY MOSS AND ANOTHER—RESPONDENTS.

Gift by old lady to her children—Undue influence—Presumption of domination or confidential relationship.

Under English Law there is no presumption of undue influence in the case of a gift to a son, grandson or son-in-law, even if made during the donor's illness and a few days before his death.

Beanland v. Bradley, 2 Sm. & G. 339; 65 Eng. Rep. 427; quoted in Lord Halsbury's Laws of England, Volume XV, at page 108, referred to.

The Indian Law in this respect would be the same. Otherwise no gift by an old father to his son would be valid unless the son could show that the confidential relationship, i.e., the intimate relationship of father and son, had ceased.

Morley v. Loughnan, (1893) 1 Ch. D. 736; 3 R. 592; 68 L. T. 619; 62 L. J. Ch. 515, referred to.

Ismail Mussajee Mookerdam v. Hafiz Boo, 10 C. W. N. 570; 3 C. L. J. 484; 8 Bom. L. R. 379; 16 M. L. J. 166; 1 M. L. T. 137; 3 A. L. J. 353; 33 C 773 (P. C.), followed.

Mr. Lentaigne, for the Appellants.

Mr. N. M. Cowasjee, with him Mr. Dantra, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

ORMOND, J.—This was a suit originally instituted by Ma Hmwe Gaing, the widow of John Nepean deceased, against Maung Pu (her son-in-law), Mi Mi (her adopted daughter), (Maung Pu's wife), Ma Kin Min (another adopted daughter) and Maung Shu Maung (the minor son of Mi Mi and Maung Pu), to set aside a deed of gift, dated the 5th March 1909, on the ground that it was obtained by the undue influence of Maung Pu. Ma Hmwe Gaing died during the pendency of this suit and her daughter and son, Lucy Moss and Charles Nepean, were substituted as the plaintiffs. Mi Mi, wife of Maung Pu, also died and her representatives were substituted in her place. The plaintiffs obtained a decree on the original side of this Court and the defendants now appeal.

Ma Hmwe Gaing had a house at Shwegyin where she lived. She was an old lady of over 80 years of age. Her husband John Nepean, who died about 30 years ago, left a thousand acres of land and Rs. 10,000 to his wife and to each of his three children, MAUNG PU v. LUCY MOSS.

Lucy Moss, Charles Nepean and George Nepean, since deceased. Maung Pu is an Advocate of this Court. After marrying Mi Mi he was sent to England and was called to the Bar and his expenses were partly defrayed by his mother-in-law, Ma Hmwe Gaing. Shortly after he had returned to this country, Ma Hmwe Gaing in July 1908 made a gift of her 1,000 acres in five equal shares to her two adopted daughters, Mi Mi and Ma Kin Min, and her three natural grandchildren and she appointed Maung Pu as the manager and trustee at a remuneration of 20 per cent. of the profits. In August 1908, Ma Hmwe Gaing gave Rs. 37,000 to Maung Pu to invest for her. At that time Maung Pu was living in Rangoon, Ma Hmwe Gaing was living at Shwegyin and Mrs. Lucy Moss was also living at Shwegyin next door to her mother's. Early in October 1908 Ma Hmwe Gaing wanted the money back and it is clear from the evidence that she wanted it back because her daughter, Mrs. Lucy Moss, had given her to understand that Maung Pu was making a wrong use of the money. Maung Pu and his wife came over to Shwegyin and Ma Hmwe Gaing then wanted to go and stay with Maung Pu at Rangoon. Mrs. Lucy Moss did her best to persuade her mother not to go. In order to prevent her going, Mrs. Lucy Moss on Saturday the 17th October took away her mother's jewelry box and returned it on the 20th October, Tuesday. On that night the old lady, Ma Hmwe Gaing, and her adopted daughter, Ma Kin Min, went with Maung Pu and Mi Mi to Rangoon and stayed with them there until July 1909. On the next day (21st October) Charles Nepean filed a civil suit against his mother and the beneficiaries to set aside the deed of settlement of July 1908 and on the same day Charles Nepean and his sister, Mrs. Lucy Moss, filed a complaint (purporting to act on behalf of their old mother) against Maung Pu and Mi Mi of a criminal misappropriation of the money entrusted to Maung Pu for investment. Rupees 16,000 of the money had been placed on deposit by Maung Pu and the deposit receipt given to his mother-in-law. Mrs. Lucy Moss obtained possession of this receipt and refused to give it back to her mother. On the 5th January 1909 an agreement for the purchase of a house at a price of Rs. 35,000 was made in the name of Mi Mi and Rs. 5,000 was paid to the vendor. On the 15th January 1909 Rs. 15,000 was paid and on the 15th February 1909, the balance of Rs. 15,000 was paid and possession given. On the 5th March 1909 Ma Hmwe Gaing executed a deed of gift of certain jewelry to her two adopted daughters and Rs. 36,000 in three equal shares to her two adopted daughters, Mi Mi and Ma Kin Min, and Maung Shu Maung, the minor son of Maung Pu and Mi Mi. That document was prepared by Mr. Rahman, an Advocate of this Court, who had received instructions from Ma Hmwe Gaing two months previously. That is the document which is sought to be set aside. On the 11th February 1909 the deposit receipt having been recovered by Ma Hmwe Gaing, Rs. 16,000 was transferred from deposit to current account in the name of Maung Pu. The moneys paid for the house were the moneys belonging to Ma Hmwe Gaing and formed part of the original Rs. 37,000, and it is clear that that was the money which Ma Hmwe Gaing intended to make a gift. In July 1909 Ma Hmwe Gaing became very ill and Maung Pu telegraphed to Mrs. Lucy Moss to come to Rangoon. She came and found her mother very ill and shortly after she took her back to Shwegyin. On the 23rd November 1908 the old lady filed a written statement in Charles Neapen's suit (to set aside the settlement of July 1908), in which she supported the settlement, but on the 29th July 1909 after she had returned to Shwegyin after her illness, she filed a second written statement in which she confessed judgment and consented to a decree for the relief prayed for. On the 5th January 1909, the day when the agreement for the purchase of the house was made, Colonel Davis was called in and he certified that the old lady was of sound mind and capable. On the 5th March 1909 when the deed of gift was executed, Major Rost was called in and he certified to the same effect. Charles Nepean having alleged in his plaint (in October 1908) in the suit to set aside the settlement of July 1908 that Ma Hmwe Gaing was 82 years old and her mental capacity had been affected by old age and that she was under the influence of Mi Mi and Maung Pu, it was only prudent on the occasion of this second gift to have reliable medical evidence to show that the old lady's mental capacity was not impaired. The learned Judge held that the deed could not be set aside on the ground of unsoundness of mind in the old lady, but he found that she was of weak intellect and infirm and liable to be influenced and that she did not have full capacity of knowledge as to what she was doing, that the gift was produced by influence brought to bear upon her and further that the relationship which existed between her and Maung Pu and his wife was such as would bring the case within the purview of the rule of equity as to confidential relationship and that, therefore, even assuming that the gift was properly made, it was the effect of influence induced by those relations and that the burden, therefore, lay on Maung Pu to show that she had independent advice or that she adopted the transaction after the influence was removed.

Accession No 75396

The learned Judge, in finding that at the time of the gift the old lady was of weak intellect, infirm and liable to be influenced and that she did not have full capacity of knowledge as to what she was doing, relied upon the evidence of Colonel Davis. Colonel Davis at the hearing, though called as a witness for the plaintiff, emphasises the fact that the old lady was fairly clear and understood clearly enough what she was doing. In my opinion there is nothing in the evidence to warrant the finding that the old lady was of weak intellect. Colonel Davis says that she might have been influenced. He came to that conclusion owing to the want of decision that she displayed. She appeared to him to be vacillating and undecided, because she would mix up the buying of the house with giving money to buy the house. He goes on to say: "I think she knew she was giving a large sum of money for buying a house and was quite willing to do so. But at the same time I think she might have been influenced; her willingness may possibly have been due to influence brought to bear upon her." At that time there was only a contract to buy the house and the old lady may well have considered the house was really her gift. But there is nothing in Colonel Davis' evidence to show that the old lady was at any time vacillating or undecided about making the gift: whether the gift took the form of the house or of the purchase-money for the house. His surmise that she might possibly have been influenced is a pure hypothesis which has nothing to support it. There is nothing in the evidence to show that the gift was induced by influence exerted by Maung Pu.

The learned Judge has found that there was a confidential relationship existing between the old lady and Maung Pu and his wife which vitiated the gift, unless Maung Pu could show that the gift was made without any influence having been exerted by him. The learned Judge has, I think, overlooked the fact that under English Law there is no presumption of undue influence in the case of a gift to a son, grandson or son-in-law even if made during the donor's illness and a few days before his death [Beanland v. Bradley (1) quoted in Lord Halsbury's Laws of England, Vol. XV, at page 108]. The Indian Law in this respect would be the same. Otherwise no gift by an old father to his son would be valid unless the son could show that the confidential relationship, i.e., the intimate relationship of father and son, had ceased.

The learned Judge has relied to a great extent upon the English decision of Morley v. Loughnan (2). That was a very strong case in which the donee was to all intents and purposes in the position of both medical and spiritual adviser to the donor. Mr. Cowasjee, for the respondents, has urged before us that the confidential relationship of lawyer and client existed and that Maung Pu was the old lady's legal adviser. This suggestion was first made in appeal; no mention of it is to be found in the plaint or in the issues. Maung Pu, no doubt, consulted lawyers on behalf of the old lady and he may have given her legal advice; but I think he clearly did so as a son-in-law and not as a professional lawyer. It is clear that Mrs. Lucy Moss tried to exert her influence over the old lady to prevent her from benefiting her adopted children. There is nothing to show that Maung Pu exerted any counter-influence; but assuming that he did, there was no undue influence. The remarks of their Lordships of the Privy Council in the case of Ismail Mussajee Mookerdam v. Hafiz Boo (3) are apposite. The transaction was very natural and reasonable under the circumstances existing at the time. The natural family had been provided for. The old lady must have been deeply irritated by the conduct of Mrs. Lucy Moss and Charles Nepean in seizing her jewels and in filing the criminal and civil proceedings in October 1908 and she had never wished to benefit them. She was old and in case of her death they would have inherited equally with the adopted children. As in the case cited above, there is no evidence establishing any general case of domination on the part of Maung Pu and his wife and of subjection on the part of the donor. Even if a presumption is to be raised against Maung Pu in this case with reference to the interest taken by Maung Pu's wife and child under the gift, no such presumption could be raised in connection with the interest taken by Ma Kin Min who had lived all along with her adoptive mother. The gift to her could only be set aside if it were established by evidence that the gift had in fact been induced by undue influence; and there is no such evidence. In my opinion the plaintiffs have failed to make out their case, and no onus rested on Maung Pu to disprove influence. I would allow the appeal with costs in both Courts, ten gold mohurs a day as Advocate's fee for every day's effective hearing after the first in both Courts.

(1) (1854) 2 Sm. & G. 339; 65 Eng. Rep. 427.
(2) (1893) 1 Ch. D. 736; 3 R. 592; 68 L. T. 619; 62 L. J. Ch. 515.

TWOMEY, J.—I concur.

Appeal allowed.

(3) 33 C. 773(P.C.); 10 C. W. N. 570; 3 C. L. J. 484; 8 Bom. L. R. 379; 16 M. L. J. 166; 1 M. L. T. 137; 3 A. L. J. 353.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL NO. 428 OF 1912.

April 15, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Tudball and Mr. Justice Chamier.

BISHESHAR PRASAD AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

GOBINDRAM AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. VI, r. 17—Amendment of plaint—Introducing cause of action barred by limitation, whether permissible.

A plaintiff cannot be allowed to amend his plaint by introducing a cause of action which since the institution of the suit has become barred by limitation.

First appeal from a decree of the Officiating Additional Subordinate Judge of Allahabad.

Dr. Satish Chandra Banerji (with him Mr. Durga Charan Banerji), for the Appelants.

Mr. A. P. Dube (with him Mr. Damodar Das), for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—This appeal arises out of a suit brought by the appellants upon a hundi drawn in their favour by the respondents on March 2nd, 1909, made payable 54 days after date, i. e., on April 25th. The hundi was dishonoured on or about March 7th (the exact date is not known). The suit was instituted on April 9th, 1912, and was clearly barred by limitation, as was held by the Court below. The only question for decision in this appeal is whether the Court below was right in refusing to allow the appellants to amend their plaint so as to rest their claim upon a letter, dated March 11th, 1909, said to have been written to them by respondents containing a promise to pay the amount of the hundi on or about April 23rd. It appears that the appellants endorsed the hundi to the Allahabad Bank by whom it was presented for acceptance. When the appellants were informed by the Bank that the hundi had been dishonoured, they gave the Bank a jakri hundi on another firm in Bombay from whom the Bank in due course received payment. Meanwhile the appellants had informed the respondents that the original hundi had been dishonoured and the respondents are said to have written to them the letter of March 11th, 1909, on which they now wish to rest their case. In this letter the respondents said that the dishonour of the hundi was due to a mistake and they hoped to arrange to have it accepted. They said also that if the jakri hundi was accepted, they would arrange to pay the amount two or three days before it fell due. After the question of limitation had been argued and the case of limitation had been reserved for judgment, the appellants put in a petition saying that they had been unable to find the letter of March 11th, 1909, when they brought the suit but that they had recently come across it and they asked for leave to amend the plaint by setting out the contents of the letter and alleging that a cause of action accrued to them on April 23rd. The Subordinate Judge rejected this petition. It was urged before us that under Order VI, rule 17, a Court has power to allow an amendment of this kind at any stage of the proceedings and that the Subordinate Judge ought to have allowed it.

It may be that the Court has power under the present Code to allow an amendment of this kind which would introduce a fresh cause of action and alter the whole basis of the suit. Amendments have been allowed under the existing Code of Civil Procedure which could not have been allowed under the former Code and we have been referred to cases upon the corresponding provisions in force in England in which far-reaching amendments were allowed (Order XXVIII, rule 1, Rules of Supreme Court, 1883) but neither in England nor in India will the Courts as a rule allow a plaintiff to amend his plaint by introducing a cause of action which since the institution of the suit has become barred by limitation. That is the case here. It must also be noticed that this suit was not instituted till more than three years after the transaction, and that the application for leave to amend was made at a very late stage of the suit after the parties had definitely agreed not to put in any evidence on the question of limitation. The affidavit in support of the application for leave to amend is vague and we doubt whether the appellants made any search for the letter before instituting the suit. In the circumstances we are not prepared to hold that the Court below was wrong in refusing to allow the plaint to be amended. The appeal is dismissed with costs, but the decree will not be prepared until the respondents make good the deficiency of Rs. 355 in Court-fees in the Court below.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL No. 119 OF 1910.

January 26, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Miller and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

GADIAN CHETTIAR—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

GADIAN CHETTIAR AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Hindu Law - Partition—One member separating from others—Presumption—Evidence—Re-union, separation.

Where one co-parcener separates from the rest, there is no presumption that the latter remain united.

Balabux v. Rukhmabai, 30 C. 725 (P. C.); 30 I. A. 130; 7 C. W. N. 642; 5 Bom. L. R. 469, followed.

Where subsequent to the separation of one member, the other members take separate meals, acquire property in their own names, separately pay kists, etc., all these things point to a separation in interest between the members of the family and outweigh the effect of any recital of non-division made in stray documents.

Appeal against the decree and judgment of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Kumbakonam, in Original Suit No. 55 of 1907.

FACTS.—Plaintiff sued for partition and delivery of his share of family properties, on the ground that plaintiff's father, Sundaram, and 1st defendant's father, Vythilinga, were undivided brothers. Defendant No. 2 was the undivided son of the 1st defendant. The said Vythilinga had another son named Subramania, who had a son named Vythilinga, both of whom had died before suit. Defendants Nos. 5, 7, 9, and 10 were the plaintiff's sons. Defendants Nos. 6 and 8 were the sons of the 5th and 7th defendants respectively. Plaintiff's father had predeceased 1st defendant's father. After the death of Vythilinga, his son Subramania and the 1st defendant were managing the family affairs.

Defendants Nos. 1 and 2 pleaded division when Subban, the brother of the plaintiff's father and of the 1st defendant's father separated and left the family a long time ago. They also contended that plaintiff should have sued for the share which belonged to his branch of the family and that the present suit confined only to his share was not sustainable.

They further pleaded that plaintiff's suit was barred by limitation, he having been excluded from participation in profits from suit lands to his knowledge for over twelve years preceding the suit. They, however, admitted that items 1 to 97 of the plaint Schedule were ancestral properties and alleged that they were not divided by metes and bounds but enjoyed according to shares.

The lower Court found that the plaintiff's suit was maintainable, but that the family had become divided at the time Subban separated and left the family and that the plaintiff's suit was also barred by limitation, inasmuch as he was excluded to his knowledge from participation in profits for more than twelve years preceding the suit, and finally dismissed the plaintiff's suit.

Mr. V. C. Seshachariar, for the Appellant :—The contesting defendants who alleged division had not proved it. There was no document to evidence, nor was any date assigned to, it. Though the members lived separately, they had joint money dealings. There were documents which contained recitals as to the family being in a state of non-division. The ordinary presumption was that a Hindu family was joint in estate, food and worship and that the burden of proof as to division lay heavily on the contesting defendants, and they had not discharged the same. Enjoyment of different items of properties by different members could only affect the mode of enjoyment and not the status of the parties. As to exclusion from participation in profits there was no clear finding that the plaintiff had been excluded, to his knowledge, from participation in the profits of all the items of suit properties for over twelve years preceding the suit. In any event the plaintiff was entitled to a partition of plaint items 1 to 97 which were admittedly ancestral.

Mr. G. S. Ramachandra Iyer, for the contesting Respondents :—When one member of an undivided Hindu family separated, there was a separation in interest among all the members. The members messed separately and lived in different places. The payments of kist were made in equal halves. The joint money dealings could not signify much as there were numerous separate money dealings. The recitals in documents as to a state of non-division were simply attempts on the part of the plaintiff to create evidence in his favour. The evidence taken as a whole warranted the finding of the lower Court that the plaintiff was excluded, to his knoweldge, from participation in the profits of the properties in dispute for over twelve years preceding the suit. And so far as items 1 to 97 of the plaint were concerned, plaintiff was not entitled to ask for their partition inasmuch as there were strangers, who were not parties to the suit, entitled to participate in the profits of at least some of those items.

JUDGMENT.

MILLER, J.—The first question to be decided is whether the plaintiff is a member of the joint family of which the 1st defendant and some of the other defendants are also members. The facts stand like this: admittedly a good many years ago—the date is not fixed —one of three brothers, Subban Chetty, Vythilingam Chetty and Sundaram Chetty, became divided from the family. Vythilingam was the father of the 1st defendant and one Subramaniam who is now dead, and Sundaram Chetty was the father of the plaintiff. According to the defendants the family became divided when Subban Chetty left it and lived separately, and according to the plaintiff Sundaram and Vythilingam remained members of a joint family. The ancestral lands of the family, items 1 to 97, were not divided by metes and bounds and there were after Subban Chetti's departure some joint dealings —money-lending transactions—in which the plaintiff and his uncle operated together. The Subordinate Judge found that there was a division on the date when Subban Chetty separated himself from the family and, on the whole, I think he is right. In paragraph 29 of his judgment, he states the law, it seems to me, a little too strongly where he says: "This separation must in law be deemed to have been complete as amongst the three brothers." But the effect of the case in the Privy Council, Balabux v. Rukhmabai (1), on which he relied, is to my mind, where one brother out of three has separated from the others, there must be something to indicate an agreement among the others to remain members of a joint family or some evidence of subsequent re-union : in other words there would be a presumption that the partition was complete, that is, it would no longer lie on the party alleging separation to prove it affirmatively in the first instance. Here we have the fact that Subban Chetti went away; we have no details as to any agreement between the other brothers at that time and on the other hand we have some other circumstances which strongly suggest that after that time, the members of the family were separate. They were living separately in the same house, with separate preparation of meals. This is not adequately explained on the plaintiff's side. There is a still stronger circumstance: the separate payment of kists in equal halves on lands which at one time belonged to the joint family. There were also separate dealings during the life-time of the plaintiff's uncle Vythilingam. There were also separate acquisitions of property by the plaintiff and Vythilingam. All these things certainly point to a separation in interest between the members of the family.

(1) 30 C. 725 (P. C.); 30 I. A. 130; 7 C. W. N. 642; 5 Bom. L. R. 469.

We have besides that what is undoubtedly a strong circumstance. We do not find the management of the family income by one member of the family but the division of the produce into shares. That is only explained on behalf of the plaintiff as being a convenient mode of enjoyment but, undoubtedly, that mode of enjoyment gives rise to the inference that the parties were separate in interest.

I need not discuss all the documents in the case. There are some—and Exhibit S is one—in which there are recitals of non-division and Subramaniam Chetty seems to have subscribed to a recital of that sort. In others are found statements made by the plaintiff himself and the reason for making them may be that he was only seeking to establish a claim for the properties which were acquired by Vythilingam. It seems to me that the recitals in these documents are not strong enough to warrant the decision that the family remained undivided after the departure of Subban Chetti from it.

There are other documents which point distinctly the other way, for instance, Exhibits U and U1. These show that money was borrowed from the plaintiff himself to pay off the debt due to another member of the family, Subramaniam Chetty. I do not think it is necessary to refer to the other documents produced on both sides. We have considered them all as well as the oral evidence and on the whole I am unable to differ from the Subordinate Judge in his decision that the family is a divided family. The result of that is that the plaintiff is not entitled to a share as a co-parcener. But in respect of the 97 items of property admittedly ancestral, he is entitled to a partition as a tenant-in-common. The Subordinate Judge has refused decree on the ground that the plaintiff must bring a separate suit, and that decision has been to some extent supported on behalf of the respondents on the ground that there may be other parties interested in the division of those lands the melvaram of which formed the family property. I am unable to see any reason why the plaintiff should not in this suit be held entitled to have his partition. To my mind there is no difficulty in arriving at a correct preliminary decree for partition, even though there may be some persons who are not parties to the suit but who may be interested in another portion of the melvaram.

As regards the other items, some of them were purchased by the plaintiff and in these the defendants claim no relief, and the remainder, it is asserted, was purchased by Vythilingam and as regards those I am satisfied that the plaintiff's right to claim a share in them was denied by Vythilingam's sons, Subramaniam, and the 1st defendant more than twelve years before the suit. I agree with the Subordinate Judge on the evidence that the plaintiff must have been early in 1895, to his knowledge, denied a right to share in these lands and in the produce thereof and that he has not been in possession of any of them or received anything therefrom since that date. In these circumstances I do not see how to avoid the conclusion in respect of these items that the plaintiff's claim to a partition is barred by limitation.

The result will be that the decree of the Subordinate Judge will be modified by directing a partition of the plaintiff's 1/10th share in items 1 to 97 and confirmed as to the rest.

The decree which I propose to make is that a preliminary decree be passed for the partition of the plaintiff's 1/10th share in items 1 to 97 and that the suit as regards the other items be dismissed. The order of the Court below in respect of costs will stand and in this Court proportionate costs are to be paid and received as between the plaintiff and Mr. Ramachandra Aiyar's clients and the other defendants will bear their own costs.

MUTHIAH CHETTIAR v. BAWA SAHIB.

TYABJI, J.—I agree. I only wish to point out that in the Privy Council decision in Balabux v. Rukhmabai (1) the arguments seem to have been that the general presumption that property belonging to a Hindu family is joint unless the contrary is proved, continues to prevail even after it is shown that there has been a partition and as the result of the partition one of the co-parceners has taken away his share and severed his interest from the co-parcenary. See reports of arguments for the appellants in Balabux v. Rukhmabai (1). It was in respect of that contention apparently that their Lordships say at page 736: "It appears to their Lordships that there is no presumption when one co-parcener separates from the others, that the latter remain united."

I have nothing to add to what my learned brother has said with reference to the rest of the case.

Decree modified.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL AGAINST APPELLATE ORDER NO. 80 OF 1913.

CIVIL REVISION PETITION NO. 793 OF 1913.

September 30, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Oldfield and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

MUTHIAH CHETTIAR AND ANOTHER—COUNTER-PETITIONERS NOS. 1 AND 2—APPELLANTS

versus

BAWA SAHIB AND OTHERS—PETITIONER AND COUNTER-PETITIONERS NOS. 3 TO 6—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 151, O. XXI, r. 90, application under, made out of time—Inherent powers of Court, exercise of—Limitation (Act IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 181.

The inherent powers of a Court are not to be used for the benefit of a litigant who has his remedy under the Code of Civil Procedure, much less for one who, having his remedy, has lost it by his own delay.

Therefore, a Court cannot in the exercise of its inherent powers set aside an irregular sale held in execution of a decree when the application of the judgment-debtor under Order XXI, rule 90, is found to be barred by time.

Venkata v. Sama, 14 M. 227; Tasadduk Rasul Khan v. Ahmad Husain, 20 I. A. 176; 21 C. 66 (P.C.), followed.

Deridas Jagjivan v. Pirjada Begum, 8 B. 377 and Dwarka Nath Misser v. Barinda Nath Misser, 22 C. 425, referred to.

Syud Tuffuzzool Hossein Khan v. Rughoonath Pershad, 14 M. I. A. 40; 7 B. L. R. 186; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 434; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 656; 20 Eng. Rep. 701; Gurdeo Singh v. Chandrikah Singh, 1 Ind. Cas. 913; 36 C. 193; 5 C. L. J. 611 at p. 620; Badaricharya v. Ramachandra, 19 B. 113; Ramchandra v. Draupadi, 20 B. 288, Reasut Hossein v. Hajee Abdoollah, 3 I. A. 221; 2 C. 131; 26 W. R. 50 (P. C.), Ram Kirpal v. Musammat Rup Koeri, 11 I. A. 37; 6 A. 269 (P. C.); 4 Saraswati's P. C. J. 489; Chandi Charan Laha v. Manoranjan Chattopadhya, 18 Ind. Cas. 275; 17 C. L. J. 416, Gokul Mandar v. Padmanand Singh, 29 C. 707 at p. 715; 4 Bom. L. R. 793; 6 C. W. N. 825; 29 I. A. 189 (P. C.) and Athikarath Nanu Menon v. Erathanikat Komu Nayar, 21 M. 42, referred to.

Per Tyabji, J.—The expression "inherent power" implies that the power is not conferred by or affected by an act of the Legislature.

Appeal against the order of the District Court of Madura, in Civil Miscellaneous Appeal No. 8 of 1913, dated 26th April 1913, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Melur, in Execution Appeals Nos. 396 and 397 of 1912.

Petition, under section 115 of Act V of 1908, praying the High Court to revise the order of the District Court of Madura, in Civil Miscellaneous Appeal No. 8 of 1913, preferred against the order of the Court of the District Munsif of Melur, in Execution Appeals Nos. 396 and 397 of 1912.

Mr. C. V. Ananthakrishna Aiyar, for the Appellants.

Mr. A. Krishnaswamy Aiyar, for Mr. T. Natesa Aiyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

OLDFIELD, J.—This appeal and the revision petition relate to an order by the District Munsif which the District Judge has confirmed, setting aside a sale in the following circumstances:—The decree under execution directed the sale of items in a particular order and the sale proclamation followed it. They were, however, sold in a different order and the sale was confirmed. The judgment-debtor then moved the Court unsuccessfully under Order XXI, rule 89, of the Code of Civil Procedure. After an appeal against the order dismissing that petition had failed, he applied under Order XXI, rule 90, of the Code of Civil Procedure, obtaining an order excusing his delay in doing so. The District Munsif held that no case of interference under that rule had been established, but set aside the sale in the exercise of the inherent powers. The learned District Judge in the order under appeal held that the delay could not be excused with reference to sections 5 and 14 of the Limitation Act, but that the exercise of the Court's inherent powers was not subject to the law of limitation and was justified by the circumstances of the case. He confirmed the District Munsif's order without deciding explicitly whether there was irregularity in the conduct of the sale or consequent loss, either with reference to rule 89 or generally.

The existence of the inherent powers of Courts is first recognised by Statute in the present Code, though it has frequently been the basis of decisions. It is necessary to scrutinise cases, in which it is relied on, closely in order that it may not, owing to that recognition or otherwise, lead to arbitrary disposals, actuated by individual sentiment or mere disinclination for the exertion involved in investigation of the law. It is necessary in order to such scrutiny here to ascertain what the necessity was for resort by the judgment-debtor, the petitioner before the District Munsif and the 1st respondent here, to the inherent powers of the Court; that is what remedies he had under the Code of Civil Procedure and what obstacle by way of limitation or otherwise there was to his taking them. The appellant's contention is shortly that he had his remedy under Order XXI, rule 90, or section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure, but lost it through his delay, and that in such circumstances the use of the Court's inherent powers for his benefit is not justified.

Order XXI, rule 90, of the Code of Civil Procedure deals with the circumstances in which sales may be vitiated by irregularity in their conduct; and here, no doubt, the complaint was that the Court had no jurisdiction to sell as it did because the decree under execution authorized it to sell item 3 only after item 4, instead of, as it did, before it. There was, therefore, it is argued, not an irregularity to which rule 90 applied, but an illegality. Now it is doubtful whether this distinction is open to the 1st respondent who proceeded statedly under rule 90. Vide Venkata v. Sama (1) and Tasadduk Rasul Khan v. Ahmad Husain (2). But I pursu that argument no further, because if the proceedings are not under rule 90, they were certainly under section 47. In the former case it would have been necessary for the 1st respondent to prove substantial loss. But in both cases he would have been out of time.

It is not disputed that his petition was presented too late, if it was one under rule 90. If, however, it was under section 47 it is urged that Article 181, Schedule II, of the Limitation Act applied and he was in time, the special Article 166 covering only applications under rules 89 and 90. This restriction of Article 166 corresponds with nothing in its wording, which is absolutely general; and the attempt to impose it has been supported by reference to the fact that the Article was substituted for Articles 166 and 172 in the prior Act of 1877, which related only to applications under sections 310A and 311 of the Code then in force. It is stated that this is borne out by the statement of reasons and objects connected with the present Act. But it has not been shown how reference to such a statement is a legitimate or necessary aid to the interpretation of a provision, the language of which is clear. The 1st respondent's application, though it may have been made under section 47, was one to set aside a sale, and under Article 166 it must be held to have been out of time. It is not contended here that, if the application is subject to the Limitation Act, either section 5 or section 14 would have enabled the District Munsif to excuse the delay in its presentation.

The questions are then whether (1) the inherent powers of the Court can be invoked for an object which resort to its statutory powers could have secured, (2) whether such invocation is subject to any limitation. It may be stated at once that, as (1) must be answered in the negative, there is not, and is not likely to be any authority dealing with (2). It is only necessary to add that, though no doubt Article 18, Schedule II, of the Limitation Act, the general Article, is not exhaustive, vide Devidas Jagajivan v. Pirjada Begum (3) and Dwarka Nath Misser v. Barinda Nath Misser (4), the cases exempted from it form a well-defined class to which further

(1) 14 M. 227.
(2) 20 I. A. 176; 21 C. 66 (P. C).
(3) 8 B. 377.
(4) 22 C. 425.

reference will be made, those in which the inherent power exercised is ministerial or impliedly necessary in order to the performance of the Court's statutory duties.

As regards (1) reliance has been placed mainly on a very widely expressed dictum in Syud Tuffuzzool Hossein Khan v. Rughoonath Pershad (5) and its adoption in Gurdeo Singh v. Chandrikah Singh (6): "To proceed, as far as the practice of this Court will allow him, to re-call and cancel an invalid order is not simply permitted to, but is the duty of a Judge, who should always be vigilant not to allow the act of the Court itself to do wrong to the suitor." By this general statement what did their Lordships of the Privy Council intend to decide? Firstly, it may be doubted whether their reference to the practice of the Court was not intended to safeguard the Court's duty to respect, not only the practice, but also the law. And next, though the application of the dictum is somewhat obscure, it is doubted whether it was meant to authorise the unconditional license for which 1st respondent argues. As appears from the statement of facts, there had been a sale alleged (without contradiction) to have become absolute, of property which no Court could sell. The Judge set the sale aside of his own motion, though he afterwards heard the purchaser. The observation quoted was made in appeal against the decision in the latter's suit to enforce his right under the sale; and it apparently meant no more than that he could not disregard the order of attachment and rely on the absolute character of the sale, since the discussion of the merits, which follows, could not have been necessary on any other interpretation. It did not mean that such an order of cancellation created or annihilated rights or was more than declaratory of the void nature of a transaction, which was void ab initio; and there was no question raised of the order having been passed, under any procedure similar to that under section 47, or of such procedure being available to the aggrieved person. In the other case referred to it was not suggested that there was any question of the statutory powers of the Court by the use of which the same result could have been reached, and it may (with all due respect) be doubted whether the reference to the Court's right to re-call an erroneous order was necessary or justified, since (for all that appears) the order of transfer to the file of the District Court, which was in question, was proper when it was passed and a re transfer appeared necessary only later. The case then, as the judgment also specifies, really fell under the other heading of the exercise of inherent power already referred to, that recognised as legitimate in cases not provided for by statute. Here again there was accordingly no question, as there is in the present case, of a form of procedure available, of which advantage has not been taken.

The distinction between the use of inherent powers proposed in the present case and that which is permitted in cases not contemplated by Statute may be illustrated by contrast between two sets of decisions, in both of which the cancellation of erroneous orders was in question. In the first, Badaricharya v. Ramchandra (7), Ramsing v. Babu Kisansing (8) and Ramchandra v. Draupadi (9), a Court constituted by special enactment, to whose procedure the Code of Civil Procedure did not apply, was in question and recourse was permitted to its inherent powers to justify a review and its setting aside of an order passed ex parte. But in the case of Courts subject to the Code of Civil Procedure, it has been held that they are bound by its provisions. In Reasut Hossein v. Hajee Abdoollah (10) the District Judge had re-called his erroneous order statedly on the ground that he could do so notwithstanding the absence of "any rule laid down for such a proceeding" in the Registration Act, under which his first order was passed. But the Privy Council holding that the Code of Civil Procedure applied, devoted its judgment to bringing a case within its provisions. In Ram Kirpal v. Musammat Rup Kuari (11) inherent powers were not mentioned; but it was held that the adjudication of a competent Court could not be set aside or disregarded by a Superior Court except in an

(5) 14 M. I. A. 40; 7 B. L. R. 186; 2 Suth. P. C. J 434; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 656; 20 Eng. Rep. 701.

(6) 1 Ind. Cas. 913; 5 C. L. J. 611 at p. 620; 36 C. 193.

(7) 19 B. 113.

(8) 19 B. 116.

(9) 20 B. 281.

(10) 3 I. A. 221; 2 C. 131; 26 W. R. 50 (P. C.).

(11) 11 I. A. 37; 6 A. 269 (P. C.); 4 Saraswati's P. C. J. 189.

appeal properly preferred. And in Chandi Charan Laha v. Manoranjan Chattopadhya (12) the grant of a review on grounds other than those contemplated by Order XLVII, rule 1, and in the exercise of inherent powers was held to be unsound, the proper course being to leave the party to seek his remedy in appeal.

The principle to be deduced from the cases referred to and others is clear, that the inherent powers of the Court are not to be used for the benefit of a litigant who has his remedy under the Code of Civil Procedure, much less for one who having his remedy has lost it by his own delay. The result is that the decisions of both the lower Courts must be set aside, the appeal against appellate order being allowed with costs throughout. The case falling under section 47, the civil revision petition is unnecessary and is dismissed. There will be no order as to costs.

TYABJI, J.—It is admitted that the execution sale was not in accordance with the terms of the decree, inasmuch as the decree required that the third item of property should be sold after the 4th, but the 3rd was actually sold before the 4th.

It was not contended on behalf of the appellant that there was no remedy open to the respondent. It was suggested that a suit may be available to him, but that Order XXI, rules 89 and 90, provided for cases in which sales could be set aside, that section 47 of the Civil Procedure Code provided for the forum and the method by which those rights were to be enforced and that as the present case did not come within the terms of those provisions of a self-contained Code, the Court could not add to these provisions any more than to the rules relating to res judicata, Gokul Mandar v. Padmanund Singh (13). The answer to this argument seems to me to be that though the result in this case may have to be brought about by setting aside the sale (to which process section 47 and rules 89 and 90 apply), what is sought to be done is primarily to rectify a wrong procedure followed by the Court. The power to rectify their own mainfest errors of the kind here in question, it seems to me, Courts must always have. I am, therefore, of opinion that the Courts were right in considering the case to fall within their inherent jurisdiction, Syed Taffazzool Hossein Khan v. Rughoonath Pershad (5). I entirely agree, however, with my learned brother that the inherent jurisdiction of the Court is not to be used so as "to lead to arbitrary disposals actuated by individual sentiment or mere disinclination for the exertion involved in investigation of the law."

The next question is whether the application was barred by limitation. In my view the error was of a nature similar to that in the cases cited by me, and it was within the power and, subject to what I am about to say, it was the duty of the Court to set its procedure right when its error was brought to its notice. In my view, therefore, Article 166 of the Limitation Act does not directly apply.

But though the bar of limitation would not in my view be directly applicable, it seems to me that the Courts would not only be justified in considering the question in the light of the period of limitation allowed by the Legislature for applications resulting in a similar way, but that, for the reasons I am about to state, the Courts are bound to consider it in that light. Cf. Athikarath Nanu Menon v. Erathanikat Komu Nayar (14). Taking the facts of the present case it seems to me that though there was an error which the Court would have been justified in rectifying of its own motion, it was incumbent on it to consider whether the error having been committed it would be proper to exercise a discretionary jurisdiction arising from its inherent powers. The expression 'inherent power' implies that the power is not conferred by or affected by an act of the Legislature. Where the jurisdiction of the Court is expressly given by the Legislature, it is the legislative jurisdiction that arises and there is no room for speaking of the inherent jurisdiction. In deciding the question whether the Court will exercise its inherent powers, it may well proceed on the basis that if the party aggrieved by the error of procedure has acquiesced in the error and has not chosen to apply to the Court with due diligence, his laches would not indeed deprive the Court of the inherent jurisdiction to set right its own error, but indicate that it might be a greater error to set about rectifying a long past error to the detriment perhaps of persons who have honestly proceeded on the basis that the action of the Court was right. Such conduct of the party alleging himself to be aggrieved would also point to the injury suffered by him having been slight. The Court may reasonably take as a guide for the standard of the diligence to be exercised by the parties concerned the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act and for its guidance as to circumstances which would justify interferences the provisions of law contained in regard to matters most nearly analogous to those brought in question by reason of the Court's inherent powers. This will prevent "arbitrary disposal" in the manner above referred to. In the present case by analogy it seems to me that the Courts would have been right in guiding themselves by the provisions of Article 166 of the Indian Limitation Act and Order XXI, rules 89 and 90, of the Civil Procedure Code.

(12) 18 Ind. Cas. 275; 17 C. L. J. 416.

(13) 29 C. 707 at 715; 4 Bom. L. R. 793; 6 C. W. N. 25; 29 I. A. 189 (P. C.).

(14) 21 M. 42.

Considering the question in this light I find that there were applications by the respondent under Order XXI, rules 89 and 90, both of which were dismissed; and in the course of the decision in the latter (which alone is printed for our use) it is stated that no case for relief under Order XXI, rule 90, was established, by which I understand that no substantial injury has been sustained by reason of the irregularity in the sale.

In such a case it seems to me to be clear that the Courts exercised that inherent jurisdiction wrongly, and their order setting aside the sale should be reversed. I agree, therefore, in the order proposed by my learned brother.

Appeal allowed;
Petition dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 1607 OF 1912.

September 15, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Napier.

PEDDIBHOTLA KAMESWARAMMA, MINOR, BY BROTHER AND NEXT FRIEND HEMADRI SRIRAMULU—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

BEZWADA CHELAPATHI—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 99—Irregularity not affecting merits of case—Improper admission of additional evidence—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 167.

The improper admission of additional evidence by an Appellate Court is no ground for setting aside the decree of that Court, unless the second Appellate Court is satisfied that the decision on the merits is wrong and that the improper admission might have resulted in such a wrong decision.

Andiappa Pillay v. Muthukumara Theran, 14 Ind. Cas. 140; (1912) M. W. N. 450; 11 M. L. T. 241; 36 M. 477, referred to.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the Temporary Subordinate Judge of Masulipatam, in Appeal Suit No. 366 of 1911, preferred against that of the Principal Munsif of Masulipatam, in Original Suit No. 375 of 1905.

Mr. V. Ramadoss, for the Appellant.

Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—So far as the Appellate Court's power to permit additional evidence to be produced before it is concerned, we ought to follow the Full Bench decision in Letters Patent Appeal No. 118 of 1911, which decision seems to us to be in accordance with the ruling in Second Appeal No. 819 of 1911 and with the decision in Andiappa Pillay v. Muthukumara Theran (1).

In the present case, we are satisfied that the lower Appellate Court did not go beyond the powers given to it by Order XLI, rule 27 (1) (b), of the Code of Civil Procedure in admitting Exhibits E, E1, F and F1.

But we think that Exhibit D was improperly admitted in evidence, as the order of the Appellate Court requiring documents to be produced before it as additional evidence could not be made to include Exhibit D.

However, on a reading of the provisions found in section 99 and section 100, clause (c), of the Code of Civil Procedure and in section 167 of the Indian Evidence Act it seems to us that we ought not to interfere with the decision of the Subordinate Judge in appeal, unless we are satisfied that his decision on the merits is wrong and unless, further, we are satisfied that his improper admission of Exhibit D might possibly have resulted in such a wrong decision on the merits.

(1) 14 Ind. Cas. 140; (1912) M. W. N. 450; 11 M. L. T. 241; 36 M. 477.

As we are not satisfied that his decision on the merits is wrong, we shall dismiss this second appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 429 OF 1913.

September 9, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Napier.

The Honourable Raja VASUDEVA RAVI VARMA styled VALIA NAMBIDI AVERGAL, RESIDES IN KOLLANGODE AMSON, DESAM, PALGHAUT TALUQ —PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

ATHI KOTTIL EAZHUVAN KANNANUR VALIA RAMAN'S SON, PAZHANAN alias PAZHANIVELAN AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 99, O. II, r. 2 – Misjoinder of causes of action—Appellate Court, right of, to reverse decree - Cause of action not established against some defendants, whether bars fresh suit on true cause of action.

An Appellate Court has no power to reverse the decision of the first Court on the ground of misjoinder.

Lala Rup Narain v. Gopal Devi, 3 Ind. Cas. 382; 36 C. 780; 13 C. W. N. 920; 6 A. L. J. 567; 10 C. L. J. 58; 5 M. L. T. 423; 11 Bom. L. R. 833; 93 P. R. 1909; 146 P. W. R. 1909 (P. C.); 19 M. L. J. 548; 36 I. A. 103; 68 P. L. R. 1910, followed.

If a suit is dismissed against some of the defendants, as the cause of action on which the suit was brought is not established so far as those defendants are concerned, the plaintiff is not precluded from bringing a new suit on the true cause of action which he has against them.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the Temporary Subordinate Judge of Palghaut, in Appeal Suit No. 886 of 1911, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Alatur, in Original Suit No. 325 of 1911.

Mr. C. V. Ananthakrishna Aiyar, for the Appellant.

Mr. T. R. Krishnaswamy Aiyar, for Mr. T. R. Ramachandra Aiyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The lower Appellate Court has dismissed the plaintiff's suit so far as it prayed for relief against the defendants Nos. 2 and 4 to 6 on the ground (as we understand the lower Court's judgment) that the plaintiff's cause of action against these defendants was separate from the plaintiff's cause of action against the other defendants, and hence the suit is bad for misjoinder of parties and causes of action.

It has been held by the Privy Council in Lala Rup Narain v. Gopal Devi (1) [see section 99 of the Code of Civil Procedure and Narayana Nambudripad v. Narayana Nambudripad (2)] that an Appellate Court has no power to reverse the decision of the first Court on the ground of misjoinder.

The lower Appellate Court's dismissal of the plaintiff's suit against the defendants Nos. 2 and 4 to 6 might, however, be supported on another ground, that the plaintiff has based his claim only on a single cause of action as against all the defendants. That cause of action included, as its most material allegation of fact, the statement that all the defendants held directly or indirectly under a lease of 1025 M. E. (1850). It has been found that the defendants Nos. 2 and 4 to 6 had nothing to do with that lease. Hence the cause of action on which the suit was brought has not been established so far as the defendants Nos. 2 and 4 to 6 are concerned, and the suit as against them was rightly dismissed. This would, of course, not prevent the plaintiff from bringing a new suit on the true cause of action which he has against the defendants Nos. 2 and 4 to 6.

We, therefore, dismiss the second appeal, but as the defendants Nos. 2 and 4 to 6 raised the untenable pleas of limitation and misjoinder of parties and causes of action, we make no order as to costs in this appeal.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 3 Ind. Cas. 382; 36 C. 780; 13 C. W. N. 920; 6 A. L. J. 567; 10 C. L. J. 58; 5 M. L. T. 423; 11 Bom. L. R. 833; 93 P. R. 1909; 146 P. W. R. 1909 (P. C.); 19 M. L. J. 548; 36 I. A. 103; 68 P. L. R. 1910.

(2) 25 Ind. Cas. 25.

JAGANNATH v. RAM NATH.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 877 OF 1908.

November 25, 1909.

Present:—Mr. Justice Tudball.

JAGANNATH—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

RAM NATH AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Registration Act (III of 1877), ss. 28, 32, 49, 60—Registration by Sub-Registrar within whose jurisdiction property not situate - Fictitious property mentioned in deed—Fraud.

The object of registration is the prevention of fraud and to make public all transfers of property.

Therefore, a document is not registered in accordance with the Act if no part of the property comprised in the deed is situate within the jurisdiction of the Registrar who registers the deed.

Mujib-un-nissa v. Abdur Rahim, 23 A. 233 (P. C.); 28 I. A. 15; 5 C. W. N. 177, followed.

Hardei v. Ram Lal, 11 A. 319; A. W. N. (1889) 101 (F. B.), referred to.

Second appeal from the decree of the District Judge of Agra.

Dr. Satish Chandra Banerji, for the Appellant.

Mr. J. N. Chaudhri, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The facts of the case out of which this appeal has arisen are as follows:—One Chiraunji Lal was the owner of the property now in suit. He died on 19th February 1909, leaving as his heirs the plaintiff-appellant, Bansi Dhar, defendant No. 1, and one Sham Lal. Some ten years prior to his death, that is, on 27th April 1890, he executed a deed of gift to defendant No. 2 of the whole of his property. The deed was registered in the office of the Sub-Registrar of Bindraban, but no part of Chiraunji's property was situate within the local jurisdiction of that officer. In order, therefore, to secure registration an item of property was included in the deed of gift purporting to be within the jurisdiction of that officer. As a matter of fact no such property was ever in existence. The document was, however, presented, accepted and registered. On 21st December 1896 defendant No. 1 sold the property now in suit to defendants Nos. 2 and 3. On 30th August 1899 the plaintiff himself purchased from the donee another portion of the gifted property. In 1900 after the death of Chiraunji, Sham Lal, the third heir, brought a suit to recover a one-third share and the present plaintiff was made a defendent. He contested the claim basing his title on the deed of gift and his own sale-deed.

Then on 19th March 1907 the plaintiff brought the present suit, alleging that Chiraunji was a man of weak intellect and that the deed of gift had been obtained from him by undue influence and was, therefore, invalid, that the registration had been fraudulently obtained by including in the document property which was non-existent and, therefore, the deed was of no avail, that Chiraunji was dispossessed from 21st December 1896, the date of the sale-deed, by Bansi Dhar, defendant No. 1, in favour of defendants Nos. 2 and 3. He, therefore, claimed as heir his one-third share in the house in suit and asked for partition. The defendants contested the suit pleading (1) that there had been no undue influence, (2) that the suit was time-barred, (3) that the registration was good in law. There were other defences to the suit with which I am not concerned.

The Court of first instance held (1) that the deed of gift had been obtained by the exercise of undue influence over a man of weak mind, (2) that the deed of gift had not been duly registered in accordance with the Registration Act and (applying section 49) that it did not operate to pass title, that the suit was not time-barred in that it had been brought within the time allowed for suits for possession. I presume the Munsif meant that it had been brought within 12 years of Chiraunji's death. The claim was decreed.

On appeal the District Judge held (1) that the deed of gift was duly registered in accordance with the Act, (2) that undue influence had not been exercised and that Chiraunji was not of weak mind, (3) that the suit was time-barred, in that it had not been brought within three years of Chiraunji's death if he were insane, and also because it had not been brought within twelve years of the deed of gift, the date thereof being the date on which the donee took possession adversely to the donor, and the plaintiff being the representative of the latter. The suit was, therefore, dismissed.

The plaintiff appeals and urges (1) that the deed of gift has not been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Registration Act and, therefore, section 49 operated to prevent the passing of the title, and (2) that the suit is not barred by time. In regard to registration stress is laid on the decision of their Lordships of the Privy Council in Mujib-un-nissa v. Abdur Rahim (1) as practically overruling the decisions of this Court in Hardei v. Ram Lal (2) and other earlier cases Har Sahai v. Chunni Kuar (3), Husaini Begam v. Mulo (4). In my opinion this argument has great force. In Hardei v. Ram Lal (2) it was held by a Full Bench of this Court that the word "registered" as used in section 49 of the Act refers to the act of registration by the Registering Officer and not to matters of procedure or conduct of parties, that that section read with section 60 only means that a document to be admissible in evidence for the purposes of section 49 must be registered, i.e., the officer must have put upon it the certificate mentioned in section 60, and that if he has done so, the document bearing the certificate becomes admissible in evidence, and it has been registered within the meaning of section 60, and becomes under the second paragraph thereof admissible in evidence and the operation of the second paragraph is not interfered with by section 49. In this case the document had been presented and execution admitted by a person who was not qualified to do so under sections 32 and 35 of the Act.

In Mujib-un-nissa v. Abdur Rahim (1) the facts were similar. A document was presented in the proper office by a person who was not qualified to do so. Moreover, he also admitted execution not being qualified to do so. A Bench of this Court expressed dissent from the ruling of the Full Bench in Hardei v. Ram Lal (2), but considered itself bound by that ruling. The judgment of Burkitt, J., is a very clear one and shows the palpable departure from the Act that had taken place in the course of the registration, and how in his opinion the latter was not in accordance with the Act. Before their Lordships of the Privy Council no attempt was made to justify the registration as having been done regularly in accordance with the Act. Reliance, however, was placed on section 87 and it was urged that there had only been a defect in procedure which did not validate the act of registration. Their Lordships of the Privy Council repelled this, holding that the error was of a more radical nature and that in view of the terms of section 32, it was clear that the power and jurisdiction of the Registrar only came into play when he was invoked by some person having a direct relation to the deed. They held that the registration was invalid and illegal and section 49, therefore, operated to prevent the document affecting the immoveable property comprised therein. It seems to me clear, therefore, from this ruling that the endorsement on a document of the certificate of registration, unless it is made by a Registrar whose power and jurisdiction have been properly invoked, does not amount to a registration in accordance with the Act within the meaning of section 49. This ruling clearly overrides that of the Full Bench in Hardei v. Ram Lal (2).

But the facts of these two cases are different from those of the present case, and it remains to be seen whether the principle of the Privy Council ruling applies equally to the latter as to the former. In the present case it is urged that the document was not presented at the proper Registration office, because no part of the property to which it related was situate within the sub-district of the Sub-Registrar and, therefore, the Sub-Registrar had no jurisdiction. It is pleaded that though a property was entered as situate within the sub-district, as a matter of fact it was not so situate, and section 28 demands that the document shall be presented in the office of a Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district a part at least of the property "is" situate and not in the office of one in whose sub-district a part of the property purports to be situate. On the other hand it is urged that it is not one of the duties of a Registrar to make inquiries as to whether the property does or does not, as a matter

(1) 23 A. 233 (P. C.); 28 I. A. 15; 5 C. W. N. 177.
(2) 11 A. 319; A. W. N. (1889) 101 (F. B.).
(3) 4 A. 14; A. W. N. (1881) 105; 6 Ind. Jur. 379.
(4) 5 A. 84; A. W. N. (1882) 183.

of fact, lie within his sub-district, that if on the face of the document any of the properties lies within his territorial jurisdiction, he has jurisdiction to register. It is true that the Act does not contemplate any such inquiry by the Sub-Registrar. In a case such as the present he has merely to examine the document, if presented by a proper person, to see if on the face of it he has jurisdiction; but if a fraud of this nature (and it amounts to a fraud) be practiced on him, it cannot be said that he, as a matter of fact, has jurisdiction. Section 28 ends as follows: "within whose sub-district the whole or some portion of the property to which such document relates is situate." This clearly means "is, as a matter of fact, actually situate" and not "purports on the face of the document to be situate." The language of the section is clear and unambiguous and must receive its plain ordinary meaning. In the present case the property entered in the document as lying within the sub-district of Bindraban has been held to be non-existent, no portion of that property was situate in that sub-district and, in my opinion, the Sub-Registrar had no jurisdiction over the property to which the document actually related. No portion was within his sub-district. In these circumstances the principle of the Privy Council ruling in Mujib-un-nissa v. Abdur Rahim (1) applies. Section 32 of the Act lays down that the document shall be presented at the proper Registration office by the proper person or persons. If not presented at the proper office, but at the wrong office, the Sub-Registrar clearly has no jurisdiction and his registration is not in accordance with the Act. It is not an error in procedure within the meaning of section 87, but an entire absence of jurisdiction. The object of registration is the prevention of fraud and to make public all transfers of property. To hold that the Registrar of Bindraban had jurisdiction in such a case as this would be to open a very wide door to fraud. I, therefore, hold that the document in question was not registered in accordance with the Act and that section 49 of the Act applies.

The next point is one of limitation. The suit was brought more than 12 years after the execution of the deed of gift. The lower Appellate Court has held that Bansi Dhar defendant took possession on 27th April 1890 adversely to the donor, that being the date of the gift. It is urged for the appellant that he, in his plaint, stated that Chiraunji was first dispossessed on 21st December 1896 and that the defendants produced no evidence to prove 12 years' adverse possession. The finding of the lower Court is one of fact, viz., that the donee took possession in 1890. This finding is not attacked in the petition of appeal on the ground that there is no evidence at all, to support it, on the record. The possession of the donee under the invalid deed of gift was adverse to the donor and time began to run from 1890. The plaintiff sues as heir of the donor. He brought his suit in 1907. It is, therefore, barred by time.

The appeal, therefore, fails and is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL No. 185 OF 1911.

September 11, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sankaran Nair and Mr. Justice Spencer.

NALLURY KRISHNAMMA AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

KAMAPALLI RAMALINGAM (DIED) AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Adoption, Illatom form of—Custom—Presence of son of adoptive father, whether invalidates Illatom adoption—Hindu Law—Presumption.

Under Hindu Law an adoption is invalid where the adoptive father has a son, but the illatom adoption is opposed to Hindu Law and is based on custom and, therefore, no presumption of Hindu Law can apply to such an adoption.

The existence of a son is no bar to an illatom adoption.

Appeal against the decree of the Court of the Temporary Subordinate Judge of Guntur, in Original Suit No. 1 of 1910.

Mr. T. Prakasam, for the Appellants.

Messrs. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar and A. Venkatarayaliah, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—One Lingayya adopted in the illatom form Ramakrishnamma and married him to his daughter while he had a son Venkatachallam living. The question now in issue between the sons of Venkatachallam and Ramakrishnamma is, whether that adoption is valid and whether the descendants of the latter are entitled to a share of the property held by Lingayya.

The Subordinate Judge has upheld the adoption and their right to a share. The sons of Venkatachallam appeal.

The adoption took place more than 50 years ago when Lingayya was living with his two brothers as members of an undivided family. Ever since the adoption or marriage Ramakrishnamma was living with the other members of the family. An illatom son is adopted when assistance is needed by the adopter in the cultivation of the family estate or for its management, and in this case there is no doubt that Ramakrishnamma participated in the management of the estate. When a partition was effected between Lingayya and his brothers, Ramakrishnamma was treated as a member of Lingayya's branch and remained with them. Shortly before Venkatachallam's death in August 1904, there was an agreement for partition between him and Ramakrishnamma. This, no doubt, is denied by the appellants. But Ramakrishnamma's descendants are admittedly in exclusive possession of certain properties which were in the possession of Venkatachallam and the appellants' plea that such possession was obtained by trespass, is not proved. Their complaint was dismissed by the Magistrate; and the Judge rightly points out that possession by trespass is inconsistent with the fact that the respondents are in possession of portions of properties. After Venkatachallam's death his son, one of the appellants before us, called Ramakrishnamma's son a co-sharer (Exhibit B2). This conduct of the family for about 50 years and the agreement for partition in particular is very strong evidence against the appellants. It is contended before us that an illatom adoption made when there is a son living, is invalid. It is true that an adoption is invalid under Hindu Law when the adoptive father has a son. But the illatom adoption itself is opposed to Hindu Law and no presumption of invalidity, therefore, arises on the ground suggested. The evidence of the appellants' witnesses is, not that the existence of a son alone precludes an adoption, but no adoption can be legally made when there is a son or brother alive. This finds no support in Hindu Law and is in favour of the view that we should not look to the principles of the Hindu Law to determine the incidents of the custom. The respondents have proved only two instances of adoption where there was a son and the Judge rightly observes that the evidence is insufficient to prove a custom. But we find that it has been judicially recognized. In the suit out of which Second Appeal No. 45 of 1905 arose, many instances of illatom adoption by persons who had sons were proved and this Court held that the evidence was sufficient to prove the custom.

We are, therefore, of opinion that Ramakrishnamma's adoption is valid and dismiss this appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEALS NOS. 1200 TO 1202 OF 1913.

September 25, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar.

ALAVALA BALAYYA AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS NOS. 1 TO 6—APPELLANTS IN ALL

versus

IN SECOND APPEAL NOS. 1200 AND 1201 OF 1913.

ALAVALA GURUVAYYA—DEFENDANT No. 2—RESPONDENT

AND

IN SECOND APPEAL NO. 1202 OF 1913.

LALAM SWAMI AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS NOS. 2 AND 6—RESPONDENTS.

Trusts Act (II of 1882), s. 90—Co-owner, renewal of debt by, in his sole name—Unfair advantage—Cestui que trust—Declaratory suit, maintainability of.

Where one of the two co-owners of a debt obtains a document in his own name in derogation of the right of the other, the latter has a right to have it declared that the former holds the document for the latter's benefit also under section 90 of the Trusts Act, 1882.

Second appeals against the decrees of the District Court of Kurnool, in Appeal Suits Nos. 116, 117 and 113 of 1912, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Kurnool, in Original Suits Nos. 149, 150 and 148 of 1912, respectively.

DULARE LAL v. HAZARI LAL.

FACTS.—The facts of the case appear from the judgment.

Mr. T. Prakasam, for the Appellants:—The plaint, though not happily worded, is to the effect that the 2nd defendant gained an undue advantage over the plaintiffs (co-owners of the debt with him) by availing himself of his position as such co-owner in getting the deed renewed in his sole name. The plaintiffs had thus a cause of action for the declaration prayed for. The District Judge erred in dismissing the suit.

Mr T. R. Ramachandra Iyer, for the Respondents:—The plaint as framed does not disclose a cause of action. The plaintiffs are not jeopardized by the deed. The District Judge is right in dismissing the suit.

JUDGMENT.—Though the plaint is not worded in legal phraseology, we think that the allegations therein are intended to convey that the 2nd defendant, a co-owner with the plaintiffs of a certain debt, "availing himself of his position as such" gained the advantage of a fresh deed for the debt in his sole name in derogation of the plaintiffs' right. Put in this manenr the plaintiffs have a cause of action for a declaration that the 2nd defendant holds that document for the plaintiffs' benefit also, the plaintiffs having a 4/5ths interest in it (see section 90 of the Trusts Act).

That was practically the decree given by the District Munsif and the learned District Judge ought not to have disturbed that decree. His decision is set aside, and the District Munsif's decree restored with costs in this and in the lower Appellate Court.

The connected second appeals follow.

Appeals allowed; Decrees set aside.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 724 OF 1913.

June 19, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sundar Lal.

DULARE LAL—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

HAZARI LAL—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), ss. 11, 24, cl. (4)—Res judicata—Suit transferred from Court of Small Causes to that of Munsif for trial—Appeal, whether competent—Decision, whether can operate as res judicata in suits not cognizable by Small Cause Courts.

A small cause suit which is transferred to a Munsif retains its character as such and no appeal lies against the decision of the Munsif in such a suit, nor can his decision operate as res judicata for purposes of other suits not cognizable by Small Cause Courts.

Second appeal from the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Farrukhabad.

Mr. A. P. Dube, for the Appellant.

Dr. Surendra Nath Sen, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—This appeal arises out of the following circumstances. One Hazari Lal obtained a consignment of treacle, to pay for and take delivery of which he borrowed money from Dulare Lal. The understanding was that the treacle was to be sold and the money advanced by Dulare Lal was to be realized in the first instance from the price it may fetch; and the balance, if any, was payable to Hazari Lal. Hazari Lal, alleging that there was a balance of Rs. 841-10-3 due to him after satisfying Dulare Lal's debt, instituted the present suit against the defendant in the Court of the Munsif of Farrukhabad. Dulare Lal on his part alleged that the price realized at the sale was not sufficient to pay the amount due to him from the plaintiff and that a sum of Rs. 308-5-6 was due to him from the plaintiff. He brought a suit to recover this amount in the Court of Small Causes. The suit of Dulare Lal was transferred from the Court of Small Causes to that of the Munsif for trial along with the cross suit which had been filed by Hazari Lal. The two suits were tried together. The Munsif came to the conclusion that a sum of Rs. 308-5-6 was due to Dulare Lal. He, therefore, decreed Dulare Lal's suit and as a result of his finding, he dismissed the suit of Hazari Lal. Now the suit of Dulare Lal was a suit of the nature of suits triable by a Court of Small Causes and it was filed in that Court. Under section 24, clause 4, of the Code of Civil Procedure the suit still retained its character as a Small Cause Court suit though tried by the Munsif and the decree passed in that case, therefore, was final and not open to appeal, and was not in fact appealed against. Hazari Lal, however, filed an appeal against the decree in the suit for Rs. 841-10-3 which he had instituted,

In that suit the Court came to the conclusion that a sum of Rs. 898-5-0 (including interest) was due to Dulare Lal and after setting off against it the sum of Rs. 308-5-6 for which a decree had been obtained in the Small Cause Court suit, it gave a decree for the balance. The defendants' contention in this case is that an appeal ought to have been preferred to the Court below from the decree passed in the Small Cause Court suit and as no appeal was preferred, the said decree operated as res judicata and it was not open to the Court in appeal to go behind it and determine that a sum of Rs. 898-5-0 was due to the plaintiff. And he relies for that purpose upon the analogy of the case in which decrees had been passed in suits tried together but in which all the decrees passed had not been appealed against. As I have already observed, the Small Cause Court suit which had been transferred to the Munsif retained its character as such. It was not open to appeal. It was tried by the Munsif only as a Court of Small Causes and his decision in that case could not operate as res judicata for purposes of the other suit for Rs. 841-10-3, which the Court of Small Causes was not competent to try. The plea has no force and I dismiss the appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

LETTERS PATENT APPEAL No. 7 OF 1913.

August 19, 1914.

[Present:—Mr. Justice Oldfield and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

AIYA GOUNDEN AND OTHERS—APPELLANTS

versus

JAYAN MANDALATHIPATHI GOPANNA MAURADIYAR—RESPONDENT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXIII, r. 1—Withdrawal of suit—"Sufficient grounds"—Material irregularity—Revision—Letters Patent Appeal.

The words "sufficient grounds" referred to in Order XXIII, rule 1 (2) (b), of the Civil Procedure Code are ejusdem generis with the defect referred to in rule 1 (2) (a) of the said Order.

Burathagunta Pentadee v. Thurlapatti Rajamma, 8 Ind. Cas. 868; (1911) 1 M. W. N. 105; 9 M. L. T. 204, followed.

Discretion vested in a Court to allow a plaintiff to withdraw a suit is not judicially exercised when it is exercised inspite of the defendant's opposition to condone defects in the plaintiff's conduct of his case which were due entirely to the plaintiff's own default and for which no excuse was attempted.

An illadvised grant of permission to withdraw a suit with leave to sue again may be such a material irregularity as is contemplated by section 115 (c), Civil Procedure Code.

Where a single Judge of the High Court rejects a petition for revision, a Letters Patent Appeal lies against the order of rejection.

Rama Aiyer v. Venkatachala Padayachi, 30 M. 311; 2 M. L. T. 84; 17 M. L. J. 123; 5 Cr. L. J. 288, followed.

Appeal, under section 15 of the Letters Patent, against the order of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sankaran Nair, dated 12th December 1912, in Civil Revision Petition No. 698 of 1911, presented against that of the District Munsif of Udamulpet, in Original Suit No. 665 of 1910.

FACTS.—A civil revision petition was filed in the High Court under section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure against an order of the District Munsif of Udamulpet, granting leave to withdraw a suit pending before him with liberty to institute a fresh suit for the subject-matter of the suit, under Order XXIII, rule 1, of the Code of Civil Procedure. The above application was made by the plaintiff after he had almost closed his case. The grounds of the application were that by reason of the death of his brother he could not be present at the adjourned hearing of the suit, that the extent of the suit land given in the plaint was incorrect and that a commission must be issued for taking the measurements of the said land. The suggestion of a commission was apparently made for the first time in the petition. The defendant opposed the application on the grounds that it ought not to be granted at that stage of the case and that the reasons assigned were not sufficient, within the meaning of "other sufficient grounds" in clause 2 (b) of Order XXIII, rule 1, of the Code. These objections were overruled and leave was granted by the District Munsif. The revision petition filed in the High Court was dismissed by Sankaran Nair, J. His Lordship's order was as follows:—"I see no reason to interfere under section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code. The petition is dismissed with costs." Against this latter order, the defendant preferred the above Letters Patent Appeal.

AIYA GOUNDEN v. JAYAN MANDALATHIPATHI GOPANNA MAURADIYAR.

Mr. T. R. Venkatrama Sastri, for the Respondent, took a preliminary objection to the maintainability of the appeal on the ground that the order appealed against was not a "judgment" within the meaning of clause 15 of the Letters Patent, and relied on Palaniappa Chetti v. Annamalai Chetti (1); Chinnasami Mudaly v. Arumuga Goundan (2); Tuljaram Row v. Allagappa Chettiar (3); Maruthamuthu Pillai v. Krishnamachariar (4).

The preliminary objection was, however, overruled with reference to the decision in Rama Aiyar v. Venkatachala Padayachi (5).

Mr. T. Ramachandra Rao, for the Appellants:—Under Order XXIII, rule 1, of the Civil Procedure Code, leave to withdraw can be given only if there is formal defect or other sufficient grounds. In the present case there is no formal defect and the grounds mentioned in the application do not come under "other sufficient grounds" which must be ejusdem generis with those mentioned in clause (a). The Court below had, therefore, no jurisdiction to grant leave. Further leave ought not to have been granted at the stage which the case had reached. This Court can consequently interfere in revision under section 115, not only on the ground that the Court below exercised a jurisdicti n not vested in it, but also on the ground that it acted with material irregularity which has affected the decision on the merits,—Vide Kharada Co. Ld. v. Durgatharan (6), Burathagunta Pentadee v. Thurlapatti Rajamma (7), Khub Chand v. Ajodhia Prashad (8), Mahipat v. Nathu (9), Hira Lal Mitra v. Uday Chandra Dey (10).

Mr. T. R. Venkatarama Sastri, for the Respondent:—The case comes within "other sufficient grounds" in clause (b) of Order XXIII, rule 1. "Other sufficient grounds" must not be held to mean causes ejusdem generis with the cause mentioned in clause (a). The ejusdem generis principle of construction ought not to be adopted in such cases. It was not adopted in the construction of Order XLI, rule 27 (additional evidence in appeal), see Andiappa Pallay v. Muthukumara Theran (11) or in the review sections of the Code, vide In the matter of the petition of Hadjee Abdoollah, Reasat Hossein v. Hadjee Abdoollah (12). Further, in this case, the Court below had a discretion vested in it and had exercised it in a particular way. This Court will not interfere under section 115 of the Code in such cases.

JUDGMENT.—We disallow the preliminary objection that no Letters Patent Appeal lies with reference to Rama Aiyar v. Venkatachala Padayachi (5).

There is no doubt that an ill-advised grant of permission to withdraw a suit with leave to sue again under Order XXIII, rule 1 (2) (b), may be such a material irregularity as is contemplated by section 115 (c) of the Civil Procedure Code.

Here the District Munsif granted permission, after a substantial portion of the plaintiff's case had been heard, on his affidavit that (1) he could not attend the hearing owing to his brothers's death; (2) that he wished for the issue of a commission, apparently then first mentioned; (3) that he ought to have certain measurements made and a plan prepared.

We are prepared to hold that the "sufficient grounds" referred to in Order XXIII, rule 1 (2) (b), must be ejusdem generis with the defect referred to in rule 1 (2), (a) with reference to the usual interpretation of these words elsewhere in the Code and to the explicit authority of Burathagunta Pentadee v. Thurlapatti Rajamma (7), and that it is clear that the District Munsif acted on nothing in any way resembling a formal defect and that his order is unsustainable. But whether or not this interpretation of the phrase "sufficient grounds" be adopted, we must hold that his discretion was not exercised judicially, since it was exercised in spite of the defendants' opposition to condone defects in the plaintiff's conduct of his case, which were due entirely to his own default and for

(1) 27 M. 223 at p. 225; 14 M. L. J. 74.

(2) 27 M. 432.

(3) 8 Ind. Cas. 340; 35 M. 1; (1910) 1 M. W. N. 696; 8 M. L. T. 453; 21 M. L. J. 1.

(4) 30 M. 143.

(5) 30 M. 311; 2 M. L. T. 84; 17 M. L. J. 123; 5 Cr. L. J. 288.

(6) 5 Ind. Cas. 187; 11 C. L. J. 45.

(7) 8 Ind. Cas. 868; (1911) 1 M. W. N. 105; 9 M. L. T. 104.

(8) 21 Ind. Cas. 76; 11 A. L. J. 733.

(9) 4 Ind. Cas. 252; 33 B. 722; 11 Bom. L. R. 1109.

(10) 14 Ind. Cas. 33; 16 C. W. N. 1027; 16 C. L. J. 103.

(11) 14 Ind. Cas. 140; (1912) M. W. N. 450; 11 M. L. T. 241; 36 M. 477.

(12) 2 C. 131 at p. 140 (P. C.); 3 I. A. 221; 26 W. R. 50.

which no excuse was attempted. The facts closely resemble those dealt with in Bai Kashibai v. Shidappa Anapa (13), a decision in which we express our respectful concurrence. The Letters Patent appeal and petition are allowed with costs. The District Munsif's order is set aside and he is directed to restore the suit and dispose of it according to law.

Appeal allowed.

(13) 21 Ind. Cas. 23; 37 B. 682; 15 Bom. L. R. 823.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 1172 OF 1913.

June 1, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Tudball.

MUHAMMAD NAJIB ULLAH—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

JAI NARAIN AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDETTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908*), O. XXI, rr.* 91, 93—Suit by auction-purchaser to recover back purchase-money, whether maintainable.

An auction-purchaser can bring a suit to recover back the purchase-money on the ground that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest in the property sold at the date of the sale.

Munna Singh v. Gajadhar Singh, 5 A. 577; A. W. N. (1883) 130, followed.

Kishun Lal v. Muhammad Safdar Ali Khan, 13 A. 383; A. W. N. (1891) 138; Dorab Ally Khan v. Abdool Azeez, 5 I. A. 116; 2 C. L. R. 529; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 519; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 818; 2 Ind. Jur. 426; 3 C. 806 (P. C.); Sidheswari Prasad Narain Singh v. Goshain Mayanand Gir, 19 Ind. Cas. 986; 11 A. L. J. 606; 35 A. 419, referred to.

Second appeal from the decree of the Additional Judge of Aligarh.

Mr. Muhammad Ishaq Khan, for the Appellant.

The Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—This appeal arises out of a suit brought under the following circumstances. On the 14th of October 1887 a mortgage was executed by Chattar Singh, the defendant No. 2, in favour of Ram Saran Das, father of the defendant Jai Narain. A decree was obtained on foot of this mortgage in the year 1892. Certain property was sold in execution of that decree on the 26th of November 1910 and purchased by the plaintiff. How it was that the decree remained under execution for this protracted period is not explained. The sale was confirmed and the plaintiff was put into formal possession. He then alleges that he applied for mutation when it appeared from a report of the Kanungo that Chattar Singh had already sold the property under two sale-deeds, dated respectively the 17th of September 1883 and the 23rd of June 1886. Mutation was refused and thereupon the present suit was instituted. It is not shown that the plaintiff was in any way opposed by the vendees under the two sale-deeds or their representatives. Various pleas were taken. It was alleged that the judgment-debtor had "a saleable interest" and it was contended that the suit did not lie. The Court of first instance found that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest and the suit lay and granted the plaintiff a decree. Upon what ground the Court of first instance came to the conclusion that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest, does not appear from the judgment beyond the facts that the two sale-deeds were proved. The defendant No. 1, Jai Narain, appealed and the lower Appellate Court allowed the appeal and set aside the decree of the Court of first instance. It held that the suit was not maintainable, but left undecided the issue, "whether or not the judgment-debtor had any saleable interest." The plaintiff has appealed and contends that the lower Appellate Court was wrong in deciding that the suit was not maintainable, and his learned Counsel relies on the Full Bench decision of Munna Singh v. Gajadhar Singh (1) and also on the case of Kishun Lal v. Muhammad Safdar Ali Khan (2), which followed with hesitation the Full Bench case. Apart from these decisions we should have some difficulty in holding that a suit like the present can be maintained. It seems to us that, apart from the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, a suit to recover back the purchase-money by an auction-purchaser does not lie. See remarks of their Lordships of the Privy Council in Dorab Ally Khan v. Abdool Azeez (3). In the absence of authority we should be disposed to hold that if the right is the creation of the Civil Procedure Code, the remedy ought also to be limited to the remedy provided by the Code. It is obviously most inconvenient after the sale has taken place that the auction-purchaser should be entitled to come in and allege that the sale was bad on the ground of a defect in the debtor's title. It may well have been that the money realised by the sale of the property has been distributed amongst a number of creditors. On the other hand if the auction-purchaser's right is confined to the remedy provided by the Code, under ordinary circumstances his application to set aside the sale would be made within one month and before the distribution of the money realised by the sale. We find it, however, impossible to distinguish the present case from the case of Munna Singh v. Gajadhar Singh (1). The learned Additional District Judge refers to the case of Sidheswari Prasad Narain Singh v. Goshain Mayanand Gir (4). The head-note of this case is somewhat misleading.* That case like the present was a suit to recover back purchase-money on the ground of defect in the judgment-debtor's title. The Court, no doubt, considered what was the origin of the plaintiff's right to get back his purchase-money and the Court expressed its opinion that such rights as he had were the creation of the Code of Civil Procedure, but it did not and could not as a Bench overrule the Full Bench decision above referred to. We, as a Bench, feel ourselves bound by the decision of the Full Bench ruling in the case of Munna Singh v. Gajadhar Singh (1). Before deciding whether we will refer the case to a larger Bench or finally deciding the appeal, we think it desirable to refer an issue as to the interest of the judgment-debtor at the time of the sale.

(1) 5 A. 577; A. W. N. (1883) 130.

(2) 13 A. 383; A. W. N. (1891) 138.

(3) 5 I. A. 116; 2 C. L. R. 529; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 519; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 818; 2 Ind. Jur. 426; 3 C. 806 (P. C.).

We accordingly refer the following issue, "Had the judgment-debtor any saleable interest in the property at the date of sale?" In deciding this issue the Court will not necessarily be bound to hold merely in proof of the sale-deeds that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest, because if it should appear that the judgment-debtor was in possession or had acquired a title in any other way he would, in our opinion, have a "saleable interest" and the sale could not be set aside. The parties may adduce any further evidence relevant to this issue. The case will be put up on return of the finding and the usual ten days will be allowed for filing objections.

Issue remitted.

(4) 19 Ind. Cas. 986; 11 A. L. J. 606; 35 A. 419.

* This remark does not apply to the Head-note of Indian Cases.—Ed.

Accession No. .....

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 1293 OF 1913

September 30, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Hannay.

MURUGAPPA CHETTIAR—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

RAMANATHAN CHETTIAR—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908), ss. 3 (11) 77—Jurisdiction of Revenue Courts—Tree pattas—Vari payable for trees, if 'rent.'

Vari or tax payable in respect of trees held on tree pattas is not 'rent' as defined in section 3 (11) of the Madras Estates Land Act I of 1908, and a suit to recover such vari or tax is not cognisable by a Revenue Court under section 77 of the said Act.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of Ramnad, in Appeal Suit No. 914 of 1911, preferred against that of the Deputy Collector of Devakottah, in Summary Suit No. 225 of 1911.

FACTS.—Plaintiff sued in the Revenue Divisional Officer's Court at Devakottah, Ramnad District, for arrears of rent due from the defendant on a lease of trees alone. The defendant denied the lease and objected to the jurisdiction of the Court on the ground that the trees were not a 'holding,' within the meaning of the Madras Estates Land Act I of 1908, that vari payable for trees was not rent and that, consequently, the Revenue Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit. The Court, however, passed a decree for the plaintiff. On appeal the District Judge upheld the contention of the defendant as to jurisdiction and dismissed the suit. The plaintiff thereupon preferred this second appeal to the High Court.

Mr. A. Krishnaswami Iyer, for the Appellant:—The lower Appellate Court misconstrued the patta tendered by the plaintiff. The trees constituted a holding under the Madas Estates Land Act, the rent being fixed from convenience at so much per tree.

Messrs. K. Srinivasa Iyengar and A. Venkatrayaliah, for the Respondent:—The Madras Estates Land Act does not at all contemplate a patta for trees alone as a holding. Vide the Amendment Bill now introduced. The suit, therefore, is not brought in the proper forum, JUDGMENT.—We agree with the District Judge that the plaint pattas are tree pattas only, and not pattas for the land on which the trees stand. The 'vari' payable under them is not 'rent' within the definition of section 3 (11) of the Madras Estates Land Act and the suit is not covered by section 77.

It should not have been dismissed, but the plaint should have been returned for presentation to the proper Court. This will now be done. The appellant must pay the respondent's costs in this Court.

Plaint returned.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.
CIVIL APPEAL No. 280 OF 1911.
August 7, 1914.
Present:—Sir John Power Edward Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Hannay.
Sri DATLA VENKATASUBBA RAJU GARU AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS
versus
GATTEM VENKATARAYADU, MINOR, BY SANI VARAPU VENKIAH—DEFENDANT No. 2—RESPONDENT.

Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 12—Presumption of legitimacy Alienation by father 276 days before birth of son- Right of son against purchaser for value—Burden of proof.

Section 112 of the Evidence Act raises only a presumption of legitimacy and has no reference to the date of conception.

A purchaser for value is not bound to enquire whether the wife of the seller is enceinte and the right of a son in the womb cannot, therefore, prevail against him.

If the son wishes to rely on the defence that he was conceived before the date of the alienation, it is incumbent upon him to prove this by clear and satisfactory evidence.

Appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Cocanada, in Original Suit No. 76 of 1910.

Mr. P. Narayana Murthy, for the Appellants.

Mr. P. Somasundaram, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—In this case the Court has found that the alienation by the first defendant, the undivided father of the 2nd defendant, was made 276 days before the birth of the second defendant, and has come to the conclusion that it was made after the second defendant was conceived and at a time when the second defendant had acquired an interest in the property. This conclusion he has based on section 112 of the Evidence Act which provides: "The fact that any person was born during the continuance of a valid marriage between his mother and any man, or within two hundred and eighty days after its dissolution, the mother remaining unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is the legitimate son of that man unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten." The presumption is that a child born within 280 days after possibility of access shall be deemed to be the legitimate child of the father. It is not that such a child was conceived 280 days before its birth. Two hundred and eighty days was, no doubt, the period chosen in the section because it is accepted as the average period of gestation, but Taylor and other medical authorities show that it is only an average and that the period is often longer or shorter in individual cases. In these circumstances there does not seem to be any strong reason for raising a presumption that the particular child was conceived two hundred and seventy six days before his birth. Whether he was or not is not susceptible of proof as, where access has been continuous, even the mother could not give the date of conception within a few days.

We have not been referred to any more or less arbitrary rule of Hindu Law fixing the date of conception at so many days before birth and, as observed in Minakshi v. Virappa (1), science has not arrived at such a point that, where there has been frequent opportunity of access between the parents, a conclusive opinion can be formed as to the exact moment of conception. In this state of things the learned Judges observed that there are obvious reasons of convenience for holding that a purchaser for value is not bound to inquire whether the wife of the seller is enceinte and suggested that the rights of a son in the womb to ancestral property might possibly not prevail against an alienee for value. We abstain from discussing the question, as it is unnecessary and the respondent is not represented before us.

(1) 8 M. 89.

For the purposes of the present case it is sufficient to say that if the 2nd defendant desires to rely on the defence that he was conceived before the date of the alienation in question, it is incumbent on him to prove it by clear and satisfactory evidence and this he has failed to do. We must allow the appeal and modify the decree accordingly with costs both here and below.

Appeal allowed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

CIVIL REVISION PETITION No. 36 OF 1914.

June 18, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, Kt., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Tudball.

RAM NARAIN—APPLICANT

versus

MUHAMMAD SHAH—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 115—Revision—Remedy by regular suit available—Practice.

Ordinarily it is contrary to the practice of the High Court to entertain an application in revision when a remedy by way of regular suit is open to the applicant, but each case must be judged upon its own peculiar circumstances.

Application in revision against an order of the Subordinate Judge of Aligarh.

Mr. Pearey Lal Banerji, for the Applicant.

Mr. Agha Haidar, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—This is an application in revision and arises out of the following circumstances. The opposite party obtained a mortgage decree against certain property. The decree was put into execution and the property sold. The present applicant, Ram Narain, filed an application to have the sale set aside. It was disallowed. He appealed to this Court which dismissed the appeal on the 12th of May 1913. The decree-holder purchased the property at the sale. He applied to the Court to be placed in possession of the property. An order was issued to the Amin. Ram Narain filed an application under Order XXI, rule 100. On the date fixed the decree-holder failed to appear. The Court found that the objection, filed by Ram Narain, was valid and that he was in possession of the property to which his objection related, and it passed an order dismissing the application for delivery of possession with costs, for want of prosecution. The proper order which the Court ought to have passed on this application was an order directing the objector, Ram Narain, to be reinstated in possession of the property.

However, a short time after this the decree-holder again put in a fresh application asking the Court to place him in possession of the property which he had purchased. An order was passed and the Amin went and placed him in formal possession. Thereupon Ram Narain again applied to the Court under Order XXI, rule 100, and that Court without making any inquiry rejected the application on the ground that by reason of this Court's order, dated the 12th of May 1913, Ram Narain had no locus standi for the objections taken by him against delivery of possession to the opposite party. It is quite clear that the Court below had completely misunderstood the judgment of this Court, dated the 12th of May 1913. Ram Narain within three weeks of this order applied to the Court below for review. That application remained pending till the 2nd of January 1914, when it was finally rejected. He filed the present application in revision on the 2nd of February 1914. There has been, therefore, no undue delay. Objection is taken that it is contrary to the practice of this Court to entertain an application in revision when a remedy by way of regular suit is open to the applicant. We agree with this. Ordinarily this practice should be followed, but each case must be judged upon its own peculiar circumstances. In the present case it is quite clear that Ram Narain had obtained an order entirely in his favour on the 4th of August 1913. It was an order passed after consideration of the merits, though, no doubt, it was ex parte in so far as the other side had not appeared. In the circumstances of the present case we think that we ought to entertain the application in revision. It is quite clear that the lower Court's order, which the applicant seeks to revise, is quite wrong. The Court ought to have gone into the question raised by the application and ought to have passed a proper decision thereon instead of summarily rejecting it. We, therefore, allow this application, set aside the Court's order and remand the case to that Court with orders to re-admit the application on its original number and proceed to hear and determine the same according to law. Costs of this application will be costs in the cause and will abide the result.

Application allowed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL MISCELLANEOUS PETITION No. 2123 OF 1911.

October 6, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Oldfield and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

MOIDEEN KUPPAI AND ANOTHER—RESPONDENTS Nos. 1 AND 2—PETITIONERS

versus

PONNUSWAMY PILLAI—APPELLANT—RESPONDENT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), ss. 148, 151—Decree of High Court--Time fixed for performance of act—Extension of time, if can be granted—Jurisdiction.

Where a decree passed by the High Court in second appeal directed that on payment by the plaintiffs to a certain defendant of a sum of Rs. 50 within three months from its date a moiety of the suit property should be delivered to the plaintiffs and where the plaintiffs, without applying for a review of the judgment, prayed for an extension of the time originally granted, on the ground that they were minors and that their next friend, in collusion with the said defendant, had misconducted himself wilfully by not making the payment within the time fixed:

Held, that there was no provision of law under which the extension prayed for could be granted and that neither section 148 nor section 151 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908) was applicable to the case.

Kotaghiri Venkata Subbamma Rao v. Vellanki Venkatarama Rao, 24 M. 1, at p. 10 (P. C.); 4 C. W. N. 725; 27 I. A. 197, followed.

Per Tyabji, J.—Ordinarily inherent power is something which inheres in a Court by the very fact of its being empowered to exercise any jurisdiction at all, so that it comes either within the express sense of the law or within the consequences that may be gathered from it.

Hukum Chand Boid v. Kamalanand Singh, 33 C. 927 at p. 931; 3 C. L. J. 67 and Preston Banking Co. v. William Allsup and Sons, (1895) 1 Ch. 141; 64 L. J. Ch. 196; 12 R. 51; 71 L. T. 708; 43 W. R. 231; referred to.

Petition praying that, in the circumstances stated in the affidavit filed herewith the High Court will be pleased to extend the time for payment by (the respondents petitioner to the (appellant) respondent herein the sum of Rs. 50 decreed to him by this Hon'ble Court in Second Appeal No. 587 of 1904, dated 20th November 1906, and to direct the (appellant) respondent herein to deliver a moiety of the property in suit described in the schedule attached to the decree of this Hon'ble Court in the said Second Appeal No. 587 of 1904.

FACTS.—The present petitioners (minors represented by their next friend) were the respondents (plaintiffs) in Second Appeal No. 587 of 1904 on the file of the High Court, Madras, and the present respondent was the appellant (8th defendant) therein. By the decree passed by the High Court in the said second appeal, it was directed that on the payment by the respondents in that appeal (hereinafter called the petitioners) to the appellant therein (hereinafter called the respondent) of a sum of Rs. 50 within three months of the said decree, the respondent do deliver possession of a moiety of the property in suit to the petitioners. Default having been made in paying the Rs. 50 within the time fixed, the petitioners by a new next friend applied to the lower Court for extension of time to pay the amount on the ground that the former next friend had fraudulently colluded with the 8th defendant and wilfully committed default in paying the same in time. This petition was dismissed and the dismissal was eventually upheld by the High Court in Mohideen Kuppai v. Mariam Kanni (1), on the ground that the lower Court had no power to extend the time fixed by a decree of the High Court. Their Lordships, however, having left open the question whether they would interfere when a proper application was made to them, the present application was filed by the petitioners praying for the extension of time.

Mr. K. Raja Iyer, for Mr. S. Srinivasa Iyengar, for the Petitioners:—The plaintiffs are minors and ought not to be prejudiced by any fraudulent act on the part of their next friend in colluding with the 8th defendant. Being infants they are wards of Court and Courts are bound to watch their interests. The Court has got inherent power to remedy injustice. Sections 148 and 151 of the Civil Procedure Code have invested Courts with ample powers to vary decrees as justice may require. If Courts do not interfere in such cases administration of justice will become futile. Further, their Lordships in prior proceedings held they had power to interfere and only left open the question whether the case was one fit for interference. The respondent cannot now go behind the decision and rake up the question of jurisdiction. The affidavits filed clearly prove collusion and fraud on the part of the former next friend.

(1) 12 Ind. Cas. 139; 10 M. L. T. 284; 21 M. L. J. 1018; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 240.

Mr. T. V. Gopalaswami Mudaliar, for the Respondent:—The decree mentions payment within the time fixed as a condition precedent to the delivery of the property. Their Lordships in prior proceedings held it to be so. Being an essential part of the decree it could only be set right by an appeal or review. Kotaghiri Venkata Subbamma Rao v. Vellanki Venkatarama Rao (2). None of these courses have been adopted. The grant of the extension of time prayed for will have the effect of varying the decree, which the Court has no power to do on this petition. Section 148 of the Code of Civil Procedure is inapplicable, since this is not an act prescribed or allowed by the Code. Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure also is inapplicable.

JUDGMENT.

OLDFIELD, J.—The decree in question in this petition was passed by this Court in second appeal and is for delivery to plaintiffs of certain property on their paying Rs. 50 within three months from its date. The payment was not made, and plaintiffs were refused an extension of the time for making it when they applied for one to the lower Courts. They appealed to this Court against this refusal in Mohideen Kuppai v. Mariam Kanni (1) and failed here also, one ground for the decision being that the lower Courts had no power to extend time fixed by the decree of this Court. The judgment concluded with the observation: "We do not decide the question whether this Court should extend the time, if and when a proper application is made to it for the purpose." The present application has, therefore, been made. It is opposed on the merits and also on the ground that payment within the time fixed being specified in the decree as a condition precedent to plaintiffs' right to delivery under it, the grant of an extension of time would be in effect a modification of the decree, which the Court has no power to make otherwise than on a proper application for review. It is not contended by plaintiffs that their present application is or could be treated as one for review.

We deal with the question, without reference to the argument that it is already concluded by the description in the judgment of Mohideen Kuppai v. Mariam Kanni (1), of the provision as to payment within a fixed time as a condition precedent, that is, as an essential part of the decree, for it is not clear that the implications of that view were considered by the learned Judges.

We, however, cannot see how the specific direction as to time, given in the decree, is not an essential part of it; and we have not been shown by argument or authority that we have power to modify the decree in respect of it to respondent's prejudice. Section 148, Code of Civil Procedure, is inapplicable, since it applies only to cases in which time has been fixed for the doing of acts prescribed or allowed by the Code. Cases of extension of time for payment under a mortgage decree are covered by Order XXXIV, rule 8, (section 87, Transfer of Property Act). Specific provision being absent, petitioners would rely on the inherent powers of the Court. But there is no precedent for their exercise in order to the modification of a decree not alleged to be erroneous in itself.

Petitioners have also contended that the time fixed in the decree does not run against them, because they are minors and that an extension is, therefore, unnecessary. That is not material in connection with their present application and we express no opinion regarding it. It is sufficient that the grant of the relief now asked for is not within the power of the Court. The civil miscellaneous petition must, therefore, be dismissed with costs.

TYABJI, J.—On the 20th November 1906 a Division Bench of this Court decreed that the 8th defendant (the respondent to this petition) do deliver over a moiety of the property in suit to the plaintiffs (the present petitioners) on payment of Rs. 50 within three months from the date of the decree.

(2) 24 M. 1 at p. 10 (P. C.); 4 C. W. N. 725; 27 I. A. 197.

GUPTAR TEWARI v. DEBI SARAN TEWARI.

The present petition prays in form for an extension of the time for the payment. The ground is that the plaintiffs are minors and that their next friend, in collusion with the 8th defendant, misconducted himself wifully in not making the payment within the time. Section 148 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, has no application as the act for doing which time is sought to be enlarged, is not an act "prescribed [See section 2 (16)] or allowed by the Code." Obviously the petition is by way neither of appeal nor review under section 114 or 151, and must fail on the authority of Kotaghiri Venkata Subbamma Rao v. Vellanki Venkatarama Rao (1).

It is argued, however, that the Court has inherent powers under section 151 to vary the decree as suggested. It is difficult to consider that the addition of section 151 to the law of Civil Procedure in 1908 can affect the exposition of the law contained in Kotaghiri Venkata Subamma Rao v. Vellunki Venkatarama Rao (1), but I will for the purposes of argument assume that it may be so.

On this assumption and without attempting to define what inherent power means or to restrict its ambit, I presume it may ordinarily be taken to be something which inheres in a Court by the very fact of its being empowered to exercise any jurisdiction at all, so that it comes either within the express sense of the law or within the consequences that may be gathered from it, as Woodroffe, J., said in Hukum Chand Boid v. Kamalanand Singh (2). If inherent powers are to be invoked for a solution of the question now before us, will they not tell rather in support of the view that the Court in 1906 had inherent powers to settle finally the disputes between the parties on terms which cannot be disturbed? Preston Banking Co., v. William Allsup and Sons (3).

But assuming further that we have the fullest powers untrammelled by the Legislature or the decisions, the present case does not seem to me to be one in which it is necessary to grasp at powers not falling within sections 151 and 152 of the Civil Procedure Code. The lure that it is necessary to interfere for otherwise the Court's efforts to administer justice would be futile, is akin to the invocation of public policy, and that as we all know is an unruly horse. But even that unruly horse is not available to the applicant. I see nothing approaching public policy in favour of adopting the view that the question whether the plaintiffs' next friend colluded with the 8th defendant and the legal effect of any such collusion on the rights of the parties in the decree of 1906, should be determined in the present application.

I express no opinion on the question whether a review application would be open to the petitioner as that question is not directly before us.

The petition will be dismissed with costs.

Petition dismissed.

(2) 33 C. 927 at p. 946; 3 C. L. J. 67.
(3) (1895 1 Ch. 141; 64 L. J. Ch. 196; 12 R. 51; 71 L. T. 708; 43 W. R. 231.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

EXECUTION SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 1390 OF 1913.

May 23, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Tudball.

GUPTAR TEWARI—OPPOSITE PARTY—APPELLANT

versus

DEBI SARAN TEWARI—APPLICANT—RESPONDENT.

Pre-emption—Appeal—Amount increased—No time fixed for payment of additional amount—Payment within reasonable time, validity of.

In a pre-emption decree the plaintiff was ordered to pay a certain sum of money within a limited time. In appeal this amount was increased, but no time was fixed for the payment of this additional amount. The pre-emptor, however, paid it in a month and one day after the decree:

Held, that the payment was within reasonable time and the pre-emptor was entitled to execute his decree.

Execution second appeal from a decree of the Subordinate Judge of Gorakhpur.

Mr. M. L. Agarwala, for the Appellant.

The Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—This is an execution case arising out of a pre-emption suit. The real facts seem to have been that the Court of first instance decreed the plaintiff's suit subject to his making a payment of Rs. 999, Rs. 24 out of which should be paid to the vendee. The Munsif's decree was not strictly in accordance with the judgment. We are, however, not concerned with that now. He subsequently amended it. Whether he had power to do so, we need not decide. The vendee appealed complaining that the consideration allowed ought to be more than that decreed by the Court of first instance. Mr. Rose by his judgment directed that he (the pre-emptor) should deposit the further sum of Rs. 825, including the Rs. 24 directed by the first Court. This was really in addition to the money payable to the prior mortgagee. No time was mentioned when this Rs. 801 should be paid. The decree which was made was a simple dismissal of the appeal, obviously not in accordance with the judgment and in a grossly careless way. The pre-emptor in a month and one day after the decree paid the Rs. 801 into Court, and then claimed possession of the property. The Court to whom application was made for execution of the decree refused to order possession holding that as the money was not paid within the time allowed by the Court of first instance, the applicant was not entitled to execution. It was an absolute impossibility for the pre-emptor to pay the sum of Rs. 801 at the time allowed by the Court of first instance, because it was not until the 12th of April 1912 that any Court had directed that he should pay this sum and the time allowed by the first Court expired on the 4th of April 1912. The matter, therefore, stands thus. The Court has not limited any time within which the Rs. 801 should be paid. The pre-emptor certainly paid it within a reasonable time after he was ordered to pay it. Under the circumstances of the case we think material justice requires that the plaintiff should be entitled to execute his decree. We accordingly set aside the decrees of both the Courts below and order that the application should be restored to its original number on the file of the first Court and determined according to law, having regard to what we have said above. The appellant will have his costs.

Appeal decreed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 2606 OF 1913.

August 25, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

RAMINEEDI RAMACHANDRAYYA alias RAMACHANDRA ROW—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

BOBBA JANKIRAMAYYA AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Minor—Alienation of land by guardian for valid debt—Recitals in documents as to its binding nature, whether sufficient—Evidence.

Mere recitals in documents as to the binding nature of debts incurred by a minor's guardian are not enough to charge a minor with liability. There must be evidence aliunde to establish it.

Lala Brij Lal v. Musammat Inda Kunwar, 23 Ind. Cas. 715; 26 M. L. J. 443 (P. C.); 18 C. W. N. 649; 12 A. L. J. 495; 36 A. 187; 19 C. L. J. 469; (1914) M. W. N. 405; 15 M. L. T. 395; 16 Bom. L. R. 352; 1 L. W. 794, followed.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Bezwada, in Appeal Suit No. 45 of 1912, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Narasapur, in Original Suit No. 102 of 1909.

FACTS.—A mother, acting as the guardian of her minor son, sold the inam lands in order to pay off debts incurred by her husband and to give maintenance to the paternal grandmother of the minor. The sale-deed recited how the purchase-money was spent. On attaining majority the son sued to have the sale set aside and to get possession restored to him. The first Court found that the entire consideration had not passed and decreed the suit. On appeal the District Judge set aside the decree holding that the recitals in the sale-deed were sufficient evidence of the binding nature of the debt and the money was satisfactorily shown to have been spent by the guardian for purposes binding upon the plaintiff. The plaintiff then preferred a second appeal to the High Court.

Mr. V. Ramesam, for the Appellant.

Mr. P. Narayanamurthi, for the Respondent.

RAVULAPATI PAPI REDDI v. NANDURU PEDA VENKATACHARYULU.

JUDGMENT.—The Subordinate Judge, reversing the decree of the District Munsif, has held that consideration binding on the plaintiff passed to the extent of Rs. 291 out of Rs. 425 recited in Exhibit I and that the circumstances of the case justified the inference that the balance of the sale price was also applied for his benefit. We do not find any evidence on which these findings could be legitimately based. Except for two items (to which Exhibits II and VII C relate) aggregating Rs. 129, there is no evidence beyond recitals in the documents themselves to show that the debts were binding on the minor (plaintiff).

In the case of the suit sale-deed, Exhibit I, the recital is to the effect that the sale was effected (apart from the debts evidenced by Exhibit II) to clear off debts left by the minor's father, which is not at all the case put forward now and which is found to be untrue by the Subordinate Judge. It has been held by the Privy Council in Lala Brij Lal v. Musammat Inda Kunwar (1) that such a recital should not by itself be treated as evidence of the binding nature of the debt and that there must be evidence aliunde. There is no such evidence here. The same principle applies to the recitals in Exhibits II to VII C. There is no evidence of representations made by the plaintiff's mother to second defendant and no evidence of inquiries made by him.

We must, therefore, set aside the decree of the Subordinate Judge and give the plaintiff a decree for recovery of possession of the suit property on payment of Rs. 129 and the declaration sued for.

Each party should bear its own costs throughout.

Appeal allowed: Suit decreed.

(1) 23 Ind. Cas. 715; 26 M. L. J. 443 (P. C.); 18 C. W. N. 649; 12 A. L. J. 495; 36 A. 187; 19 C. L. J. 469; (1914) M. W. N. 405; 15 M. L. T. 395; 16 Bom. L. R. 352; 1 L. W. 794.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 73 OF 1913.

August 28, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Napier.

RAVULAPATI PAPI REDDI—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

NANDURU PEDA VENKATACHARYULU—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908), s. 3 (2 (d) —Agraharam - Grant—Presumption—Burden of proof.

There is no presumption that the grantees of lands situated in an agraharam were not possessed of the kudivaram right on the date of the grant.

Where, therefore, such grantees allege that land revenue only and not land was the subject of the grant, it is for them in order to oust the jurisdiction of the Civil Court to establish by evidence that the agraharam is an estate within the meaning of section 3 (2) (d) of the Madras Estates Land Act.

Kidambi Jagannathcharyulu v. Pidipite Katumbarayudu, 25 Ind. Cas. 891; 27 M. L. J. 233, followed.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the Temporary Subordinate Judge of Masulipatam, in Appeal Suit No. 70 of 1912, preferred against that of the Court of the District Munsif of Bezwada, in Original Suit No. 566 of 1910.

Mr. V. Ramadoss, for the Appellant.

Mr. P. Nagabushanam, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The first point for decision is one of jurisdiction, which turns on whether the agraharam in which the suit lands lie is an "estate" within the definition of section 3 (2) (d) of the Madras Estates Land Act. If it is so, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court is ousted, but this has to be established by the party who seeks to oust the jurisdiction, in this case the appellant (defendant). He has to show in this case:

(1) That the original grant by the zemindar was of the land revenue alone.

(2) That the original grantee or grantees were not at the time of the grant possessed of the kudivaram of the village.

(3) That the grant was confirmed or recognised by the British Government.

There is no question about (3) and as regards (1), the circumstances in evidence justify the inference that the zemindar only granted what he was himself possessed of, i.e., the land revenue only. The difficulty is about (2). Appellant's Vakil admits that he has adduced no evidence on the point, but he contends that the burden of proof has been wrongly thrown upon him. We must hold, following the decision in the latest case, Kidambi Jagannathcharyulu v. Pidipite in Katumbarayudu(1), that in deciding whether a village falls within the scope of section 3 (2) (d), Madras Estates Land Act, there is ab initio no presumption that the grantees were not possessed of the kudiwaram at the time of the grant. This has to be proved by the party alleging it: no doubt facts might be proved from which the desired inference could be drawn and in the case of an old grant like the present, no other means of proof would probably be available. But this has not been done in the present case: and we must hold the decision of the lower Appellate Court on the question of jurisdiction to be correct.

As regards the right to eject, the findings of the lower Appellate Court conclude the case.

The second appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 25 Ind. Cas. 891; 27 M. L. J. 233.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 568 OF 1913.

June 11, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Rafique.

GAYA PRASAD AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

CHOTOO AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS

Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 5—Omission of respondent's name in memorandum of appeal—Bona fide mistake, effect of—Admission of receipt of consideration in mortgage-deed, whether admissible in evidence.

Where the omission of the name of a respondent from the memorandum of appeal is due to an oversight and bona fide mistake, the Court can extend the period in favour of the appellant under section 5 of the Limitation Act.

Jamna v. Ibrahim, A. W. N. (1888) 58, Noothi Subbarayadu v. Dara Lingayya Garu Suryapracharalingam Garu, 18 M. L. J. 461, Corporation of the Town of Calcutta v. Anderson, 10 C. 445, referred to.

An admission of the receipt of consideration contained in a mortgage-deed is admissible in evidence against a purchaser by private treaty.

Manohar Singh v. Sumirta Kuar, 17 A. 428; A. W. N. (1895) 93, Behari Lal v. Makhdum Baksh, 18 Ind. Cas. 744; 11 A. L. J. 221; 35 A. 194, referred to.

Second appeal from the decree of the District Judge of Allahabad.

Messrs. W. Wallach and Haribans Sahai, for the Appellants.

Mr. Ladli Prasad Zutshi, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—This appeal arises out of a suit brought to enforce a mortgage. It appears that one Alopi executed a deed of mortgage in respect of a house on the 25th of June 1888 in favour of Sham Lal and Gaya Prasad. After the death of the mortgagor and one of the mortgagees, viz., Sham Lal, the surviving mortgagee, Gaya Prasad, instituted a suit in the Court of the Munsif of Allahabad on the 29th of May 1909 to recover the mortgage money by sale of the mortgaged house. He joined with him his sons as co-plaintiffs on the allegation that they were members with him of a joint undivided Hindu family. The claim was brought against the heirs of Alopi and some transferees from the latter. The claim was resisted on the ground, among others, that Alopi did not execute the mortgage-deed in suit nor did any consideration pass on it. On the 2nd of August 1909 the learned Munsif dismissed the suit. The plaintiffs preferred an appeal to the District Judge who remanded the case on the 29th of April 1910. The defendants appealed to this Court from the order of remand. They were successful in their appeal and the order of the first Court was restored. The judgment of this Court was delivered on the 4th of November 1911. On the 23rd of February 1912 one Babu Lal purchased the house in question from Musammat Ram Kali. In April 1912 the plaintiffs filed an application for a review of the judgment of the Bench of this Court which had dismissed their claim on the 4th of November 1911. They contended that the Court should have set aside the order of remand if it was erroneous, but should not have dismissed the plaintiffs' claim and restored the decree of the first Court. On the 4th of June 1912 the application of the plaintiffs was accepted and the decree of this Court dated the 4th of November 1911 was modified. It was held that the order of remand made by the District Judge on the 29th of April 1910 could not be sustained, and it was accordingly set aside. The case was remanded to the District Judge for disposal according to law. It should be observed here that Babu Lal was brought on the record as respondent in the case during the pendency of the application for review. The learned District Judge disposed of the appeal first by a judgment dated the 7th of December 1912, by which he decreed the claim of the plaintiffs. Subsequently Babu Lal appeared before the District Judge and said that no notice of the hearing of the appeal was sent to or served upon him and the decree made in the appeal should not be held to be binding upon him. The learned District Judge found that by some mistake notice had not been sent to Babu Lal and re-heard the appeal against him. He wrote his second judgment on the 12th of February 1913 and came to the conclusion, that the passing of consideration on the mortgage in suit had not been proved and he, therefore, dismissed the claim. The plaintiffs preferred an appeal to this Court on the 24th of May 1913. They did not implead Babu Lal as a respondent in the appeal. About two and half months afterwards an application, supported by an affidavit, was filed on behalf of the plaintiffs asking to have the name of Babu Lal brought on the record among the respondents, on the ground that his name had been left out by an oversight. The application was allowed by a learned Judge of this Court subject to any objections that may be taken by Babu Lal at the hearing of the appeal.

Babu Lal accordingly takes a preliminary objection to the appeal against him on the ground that so far as he is concerned, the appeal is barred by limitation. On the other hand the contention for the plaintiffs-appellants is that the omission of the name of Babu Lal from the memorandum of appeal was due to an oversight on the part of the clerk of Mr. Wallach and under section 5 of the Limitation Act the period should be extended against Babu Lal. In support of this contention the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs-appellants relies on Jamna v. Ibrahim (1) and Noothi Subbarayadu v. Dara Lingayya Garu Suryapracharalingam Garu (2). On the other hand the learned Counsel for Babu Lal cites the case of Corporation of the Town of Calcutta v. Anderson (3). All that the Calcutta case lays down is that sufficient cause must be shown to the satisfaction of the Court before the provisions of section 5 of the Limitation Act can be applied. This proposition of law cannot be disputed. On the other hand the Allahabad and Madras cases show that under circumstances similar to those of the present case section 5 of the Limitation Act was applied. I think that the affidavit on behalf of the plaintiffs-appellants shows clearly that the omission of the name of Babu Lal from the appeal was due to a bona fide mistake. Under section 5 of the Limitation Act I extend the period in favour of the plaintiffs-appellants.

Now as to the merits of the appeal, it is contended on behalf of the plaintiffs-appellants that the learned Judge under a misapprehension of law came to the conclusion that the recital as to the passing of consideration contained in the deed of mortgage was no evidence against Babu Lal, the purchaser of the property. It is further said that the learned Judge ignored the evidence on the point in the case. It appears that the learned Judge relied upon Manohar Singh v. Sumirta Kuar (4) as to the effect of the recital made in the deed about the passing of consideration. In Behari Lal v. Makhdum Bakhsh (5) it has been held recently by a Bench of this Court that the admission of the receipt of consideration contained in a mortgage-deed is admissible in evidence against a purchaser by private treaty. In the last mentioned case the case of Manohar Singh v. Sumirta Kuar (4) was considered, but not followed. The learned Judge of the Court below was, therefore, in error in holding that the admission of the receipt of consideration contained in the mortgage-deed was not admissible in evidence. He also ignored the direct evidence in the case. In his first judgment of the 7th of December 1912 he referred

(1) A. W. N. (1888) 58.

(2) 18 M. L. J. 461.
(3) 10 C. 445.
(4) 17 A. 428; A. W. N. (1895) 93.
(5) 18 Ind. Cas, 744; 35 A. 194; 11 A. L. J 221.

to the depositions of Gaya Prasad and Mahabir Prasad and believed them as to the passing of consideration for the bond in suit, but he made no reference to them in his second judgment. Moreover, he says that the deed in suit was given in lieu of a prior deed, which the plaintiffs have not produced nor accounted for its non-production. As a matter of fact the prior deed is on the record. The plaintiffs-appellants contend that the case should be remanded to the Court below under Order XLI, rule 25, Civil Procedure Code, for disposal according to law. I think that is the proper course to adopt in the present case, vide Yarali v. Hashmat Bibi (6).

I, therefore, remand the case to the lower Appellate Court with reference to the remarks made above for the trial of the issue, whether consideration passed on the mortgage-deed in suit. The learned Judge will decide this issue upon the evidence already on the record. Ten days will be allowed for objections on return of the findings.

Case remanded.

(6) A. W. N. (1897) 90.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 1195 OF 1913.

June 24, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Tudball.

ABDUL HAMID—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

MASEETULLAH AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Pre-emption, suit for—Alternative relief, whether can be claimed—Suit based on Muhammadan Law—Custom proved—Suit, whether to be decreed.

A pre-emptor ought to be allowed to base his case in the alternative, on the Muhammadan Law or custom. Therefore, a suit for pre-emption based on Muhammadan Law can be decreed without an amendment, if it is proved that a custom of pre-emption prevails and the plaintiff has brought himself within it.

Second appeal from the decree of the Additional Judge of Moradabad.

Dr. Satish Chandra Banerji and Mr. Muhammad Ishaq, for the Appellant.

Mr. B. E. O'Conor and the Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—This appeal arises out of a suit for pre-emption. The sale dates back to the year 1910 and the present suit was instituted the same year. The plaintiff based his suit on Muhammadan Law. When the suit had been pending for some time (apparently as a reply to paragraph 2 of the written statement), plaintiff applied to the Court for leave to amend the plaint by claiming pre-emption under Muhammadan Law and in the alternative under the Wajib-ul-arz. The Court refused to grant this amendment on the ground that it would alter the nature of the cause of action. The Court then proceeded to try the case as a case based on Muhammadan Law. It found that the conditions of Muhammadan Law had not been fulfilled and dismissed the plaintiff's suit. The plaintiff appealed. The learned District Judge held that an application for amendment might have been made, but it was made altogether too late. It seems to have assumed that a custom of pre-emption did prevail and then dismissed the suit without deciding any other issues. It held that inasmuch as a custom of pre-emption prevailed a claim under the Muhammadan Law could not be sustained.

In our opinion where a plaintiff seeks pre-emption, he ought to be allowed to put his case in the alternative and we think that in the present case the amendment should have been allowed, but even without an amendment the Court could have decreed the plaintiff's claim under the custom if it found that such a custom prevailed and the plaintiff brought himself within it. The real object of the suit was to get possession by pre-emption and such a course could not possibly have taken the other side by surprise because it was the defendant who was setting up the existence of the custom in order to defeat the plaintiff's claim under the Muhammadan Law. In effect the judgment of the lower Appellate Court has refused the plaintiff a decree for pre-emption on the ground that a custom exists under which he has a right to get it. We wish it clearly to be understood that in the foregoing remarks we are in no way expressing any opinion on the merits of the case. For example, the Court of first instance has held that the plaintiff was offered this property in the first instance and refused to take it. If this should turn out to be the fact, the plaintiff cannot possibly succeed either under the Muhammadan or Customary Law. Another point which has not been gone into by the Courts is whether or not, assuming that there is a custom of pre-emption prevailing in the village, it applies to the property the subject-matter of the present suit. We may point out that it does not follow that because there is a custom of pre-emption amongst the zemindars, there is also a custom of pre-emption prevailing between muafidars. An extract from the Wajib-ul-arz might under certain circumstances be sufficient to prove the existence of the custom between the zemindars while it would be quite insufficient to prove the existence of the custom between muafidars.

Before finally deciding the appeal we think it desirable to send down certain issues to the Court below. We accordingly refer the following issues:

(1) Did the plaintiff refuse to purchase the property?

(2) Does any custom of pre-emption prevail which applies to the property the subject-matter of the suit and if so, is the plaintiff entitled under that custom to a decree in respect of the property which formed the subject-matter of the two sale-deeds?

(3) Did the plaintiff perform the conditions required by the Muhammadan Law?

(4) What was the real price?

If the Court finds it convenient without dislocating its business it will dispose of these issues as soon as possible. The parties may adduce further evidence relevant to the second issue but to no other issue. On return of the findings the usual ten days will be allowed for filing objections. The case will be put up early on return of the findings.

Case remanded.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 375 OF 1913.

October 6, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Hannay.

ANANTHA IYER—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

Mittadar RAMASWAMI IYER—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 58 (a)—Mortgage—Document styled Diggu Bhoghyam—Construction—Transfer of interest in immoveable property.

A document styled as Diggu Bhoghyam ran as follows:

Diggu Bhoghyam executed and delivered on 10th September 1863, corresponding to 27th Avani of Rudirodhgari year, in favour of Ranga Rayar Avergal Zamindar.....by Varadayyan and Anantayyan, sons of.....as follows: "A Cowle has been granted for the land in the Cusbah Kandeli, village named Nagari Divitkaran Punja, which was granted as Manyam to us by you, (Here follow details of the land) to Chinna Gownden, son of.....for Rs. 12-4-0 per annum. My father put that into your possession on 29th Chithrai of Kalayukthi year (1858) and executed a document. In that matter you have still to enjoy it from the current year Rudirodghari (1863) to Prabhava (1867-1868). Besides that, Rs. 55 have again been received this day on the security of the said land. This shall bear interest from to-day according to law. For the total of the principal and interest you shall enjoy the said land for 13 years from Vibhava (1868-1869) up to Vikaram (1880-1881) and put the land into our possession at the cultivation season in Chitrai month of Vishu. That is to say, Rs. 12-4-0 being the thirva on the aforesaid land should be collected from the aforesaid Chinna Gownden. Even though the said lands should lie waste owing to act of God or the State during the said years, you need not grant any remission to him. This is Diggu Bhoghyam executed of our own free will":

Held, that the document is a mortgage, as there is a transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property within the meaning of section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act, and not merely an assignment of the income for a period.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of North Arcot, in Appeal Suit No. 312 of 1912, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Tirupathur, in Original Suit No. 13 of 1911.

Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar, for the Appellant.

Mr. K. Srinivasa Aiyangar, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The question is whether the lower Courts are right in holding that Exhibit A, the contract between the parties which is the basis of the suit, is not a mortgage.

The document is described as Diggu Bhoghyam. Bhoghyam is an ordinary Telugu word for an usufructuary mortgage, and it was stated by the Vakil for the appellant that Bhoghyam is the term generally used in the North Arcot District for an usufructuary mortgage for a fixed term within which the whole debt is discharged. These conditions are to be found in the present document which has been translated thus:—"Diggu Bhoghyam executed and delivered on 10th September 1863, corresponding to 27th Avani of Rudirodghari year, in favour of Ranga Rayar Avergal Zamindar.....by Varadayyan and Anantayyan, sons of... ...as follows:—'A Cowle has been granted for the land in the Cusbah Kandeli, village named Nagari Divitkaran Punja, which was granted as Manyam to us by you, (here follow details of the land) to Chinna Gownden, son of.....for Rs. 12-4-0 per annum, is it not so? My father put that into your possession on 29th Chithrai of Kalayukthi year (1858) and executed a document. In that matter you have still to enjoy it from the current year Rudirodghari (1863) to Prabhava (1867-1868.) Besides that, Rs. 55 have again been received this day on the security of the said land. This shall bear interest from to-day according to law. For the total of the principal and interest you shall enjoy the said land for 13 years from Vibhava (1868-1869) up to Vikrama (1880-1881) and put the land into our possession at the cultivation season in Chitrai month of Vishu. That is to say, Rs. 12-4-0 being the thirva on the aforesaid land should be collected from the aforesaid Chinna Gownden. Even though the said lands should lie waste owing to act of God or the State during the said years you need not grant any remission to him. This is the Diggu Bhoghyam executed of our own free will.'"

On the 18th September Ranga Rayar executed a counterpart of Exhibit A to the executant of Exhibit A. The counterpart agreement is Exhibit A (1).

The lower Court, as we understand the judgment, holds that Exhibit A is not a mortgage on two grounds: viz., (1) because the creditor was not placed in possession of the property to enjoy rents and profits until his claim was satisfied and (2) because the instrument does not give the creditor the right to proceed against the land or to enter on it in the event of default of payment of the rent as provided in the document. The cases Abdulbhai v. Kashi (1) and Nidha Sah v. Murli Dhar (2) are cited in the judgment apparently as analogous cases, but as has been often observed, a decision as to the nature of the transaction in one document is little or no guide for construing another document executed under a different set of circumstances. There are, of course, points of difference between the document now in question and those considered in the cases cited which the learned Vakil for the appellant has relied upon as distinguishing those cases from the present. It seems to us that the construction of Exhibit A has to be decided with reference to the definition of a mortgage in section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act and the particular facts of the case. As to the first point upon which the lower Court relies, the property was already in the possession of a tenant and the mortgagee was given such possession as the case would admit of, viz., the right to receive rent from the tenant and although there is no authority in so many words that he should retain possession until the debt is paid, it is really to be implied from the fact that the parties appear to have agreed upon the time which would be required to pay off the debt and have entered that period in the instrument. Such an arrangement would not alter the true nature of the document. It might nonetheless be an usufructuary mortgage or if not, an anamolous mortgage under section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act.

The second point would not, we think, be conclusive against the instrument being a mortgage. The question really is whether Exhibit A evidences a debt and the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property as security therefor. As to there being a debt we think there can be no doubt. Interest is provided for on the amount borrowed and this would itself indicate that the relationship of debtor and creditor existed during the mortgage period. Whether the interest transferred is the right to receive the rent of the land specified in the document or the right to possession, in either case there was a transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property within the meaning of section 58 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act. That the interest so transferred was intended to be a security for the debt is expressly stated in the document itself. We find ourselves unable to accept the contention for the respondent that there was merely an assignment of rent for a period and no transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property. The learned Vakil relied chiefly upon the Privy Council decision in Nidha Sah v. Murli Dhar (2) in this connection, but as the document therein dealt with is not set out in full in the report, it is impossible to say that the terms were sufficiently similar to justify the application of the ruling to this case. On all points, therefore, it seems to us that the document Exhibit A is essentially a mortgage. A comparison of Exhibit B (the prior document mentioned in Exhibit A) with Exhibit A also furnishes internal evidence that it was the intention of the parties to enter into a mortgage transaction. The first document was merely called a debt-bond and was admittedly not a mortgage. The second was described as a mortgage and contains, as we have said, the essentials of a mortgage. The provision that the land was to be security for the debt is specially important in this connection as illustrating the intention of the parties. In such circumstances it is but reasonable to assume that the parties intended to create a mortgage.

(1) 11 B. 462.

(2) 25 A. 115 (P. C.); 30 I. A. 54; 5 Bom. L. R. 111; 7 C. W. N. 289.

We, therefore, set aside the decrees of the lower Courts and remand the suit to the District Munsif for disposal on the other issues in the case. Costs will abide the ultimate result of the suit.

Appeal allowed; Case remanded.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

ORIGINAL CIVIL JURISDICTION APPLICATION.

May 28, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chaudhuri.

In the matter of THE INDIAN ARBITRATION ACT

AND

In the matter of ARBITRATION

BETWEEN

JAGAT HARI-BEPIN BEHARY PODDAR —PLAINTIFFS

versus

MORAN & CO.—DEFENDANTS.

Arbitration—Arbitrator going beyond reference—Documents acted upon not disclosed—Award.

An ward is bad if the arbitrators go beyond the scope of reference and decide disputes not submitted to them.

An arbitrator acts illegally if he does not disclose to the parties the documents upon which he acts.

FACTS.—There was a contract between Jagat Hari and Moran and Co. by which the former had contracted to supply 700 bales of jute. These were delivered and were found to be of inferior quality. The plaintiffs asked for an opportunity to make another tender which was granted to them, and they delivered 447 bales under the second contract. These were also found to be of inferior quality and at the invitation of the plaintiffs the matter went for arbitration before the tribunal of the Chamber of Commerce, but later in submitting their case the plaintiffs questioned the competency of the Chamber to try their case.

The grounds of the plaintiffs' objections were—(1) that the arbitrators had gone beyond the scope of the reference, inasmuch as the dispute arising about 447 bales was not covered by the original contract, but was upon a new contract, and that there never had been a submission to the arbitration of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce upon the dispute arising on the second contract; (2) that the plaintiffs did not know the rules nor had they any notice of such rules; (3) that several of the rules were against public policy and against the principles of justice.

The plaintiffs obtained a Rule against the defendants to show cause why the award of the Chamber should not be set aside.

Messrs. B. C. Mitter and Langford James, for the Respondents, showed cause.

Mr. C. R. Das (and in his absence Messrs. S. R. Das and H. D. Bose), for the Plaintiffs, in support of the Rule.

Mr. Mitter:—In the first place, what is meant by reference to arbitration? It means a contract between the parties contained in the submission that whatever decision the arbitrators would give will be accepted, and it is upon that footing that awards are enforceable and used to be enforced by suits. That is in the nature of a binding contract. It is difficult to see where the question of public policy comes in. The question of public policy can only be applied to cases where the interests of the public are in some manner involved; for instance, the bribery of an officer of Court is a question of public policy and cannot be allowed. But what difference does it make to the public if the applicants in this case are made to refund to my clients Rs. 1,500 (which my client paid in advance for the 700 bales)? It is a dispute between the parties and it concerns them and them alone. It has no effect on the administration of justice. I cannot see the force of the argument which says that because an arbitrator is not bound to hear evidence or can decide in the absence of both parties, that is against good morals. What is against good morals? The parties have chosen their own methods and the public are not affected in the least. There is nothing illegal in two persons agreeing that their disputes were to be settled by A without taking any evidence at all. At the most it is an irregularity or informality that is cured by the Bengal Chamber Rule 25 which says: "Nor shall any award be set aside or varied by reason of any informality, omission, delay, mistake or error."

Again, as the plaintiffs were willing to refer the dispute to arbitration, then all those arbitration rules of the Bengal Chamber must be taken to be part of their agreement to refer, whether they had notice of those rules or not.

In Abdul Aziz Khan v. Appayasami Naicker (1) it was held on the question of title to property that though the law was not a good one, yet since so many titles to property had been accepted under the law, the Court was not going to depart from the practice. I invite your Lordship to adopt the same procedure in this case. These arbitrations have been going on for many years to the satisfaction of the majority of the commercial community.

Mr. Das:—I want to deal first of all with the grounds upon which I can get the award set aside, and in this connection I refer to Halsbury's Laws of England, Volume I, page 479.

One of the grounds taken here apart from the facts of the case is that evidence has been taken without my knowledge. Another ground is that the names of the arbitrators were not disclosed. My friend argues that I cannot take these points under the Chamber rules. I show that if you rely upon these rules as part of the agreement to refer, then these rules, inasmuch as they preclude me from exercising my rights under section 28 of the Contract Act, are void and not a part of the agreement and, therefore, I am entitled to get it set aside. If the rules are taken to be part of the agreement, their net result would be that they would take away my right to come to this Court and to ask for stay of proceedings by filing a suit.

One of the question which your Lordship has to consider is whether the agreement by which the parties agreed that the names of the arbitrators shall not be disclosed, is binding upon me or not.

[MR. JUSTICE CHAUDHURI.—What name are you entitled to? The Chamber is a corporate body and you are not entitled to any names designate.]

Mr. Das:—My answer is that the Contract Act does not contemplate arbitration by a corporate body.

[MR. JUSTICE CHAUDHURI.—The decisions are against you.]

Mr. Das:— No. The decisions which have been shown to your Lordship are decisions of arbitration by fluctuating bodies.

Again, the award was signed by arbitrators and the Registrar and it had nothing to do with the Chamber.

But the rules do not provide for the tribunal of arbitration to act on behalf of the Chamber or that the Registrar is to sign on behalf of the tribunal. On the contrary the rules make a distinction between the tribunal and the Chamber.

JUDGMENT.—In this matter the applicants were a firm known as Jagat Hari-Bepin Behary Poddar. They objected to an award filed by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce and they sought to restrain Messrs. Moran and Co., respondents, from enforcing the same. The contract upon which this matter arose was one No. 3540, dated the 15th October 1913. The petitioners sold

(1) 27 M. 131 (P. C.); 31 I. A. 1; 18 C. W. N. 186; 6 Bom. L. R. 7.

1,000 kutcha bales of Jamurki jute to the respondents. Under that contract the delivery was to be within November at the Juzdar Press of the Ludlow Manufacturing Co. Three hundred bales under this contract were delivered and accepted and 700 bales were delivered on the 27th November, but were rejected as being of inferior quality. There was no contest between the parties that the quality of this lot was inferior. Dispute, however, arose relating to the bales so delivered on the 5th of January 1914. The petitioners wrote a letter to the respondents to the effect that they were agreeable to take back the 700 bales rejected, provided they were allowed to deliver equal quality according to the terms of the original contract. They also agreed that in case the second delivery, meaning thereby the proposed delivery, was not up to the contract quality they would take the jute back without question. They enclosed a bill of lading for 447 bales for delivery to the Ludlow Manufacturing Co. in place of 700 bales and offered to deliver the remaining 253 bales within a fortnight. This offer was accepted by the respondents in their letter of the 6th of January 1914, which provided that if the jute the petitioners then offered to deliver was not satisfactory they were to take it back without further question and if questions of inferior quality arose, the jute was to be inspected by their Mr. Alexander. Four hundred and forty-seven bales were then taken to the Juzdar Press and they were rejected on the ground of inferior quality. The petitioners asserted in their letter of the 23rd January 1914 that the jute they had sent was up to the contract quality and they said that the matter be referred to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce. Dispute in the meantime had arisen about the return of the original 700 bales and the respondents claimed the refund of Rs. 14,384-8-6, which they had paid in advance for the 700 bales which had been originally delivered. The respondents, however, refused to refer the matter to the arbitration of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce until the money was refunded and they wrote saying that they would charge godown rents as against the petitioners for the 700 bales as well as 447 bales from the respective dates of delivery, that they would charge interest upon the amounts which had been paid and also the handling charges. The petitioners alleged that interest ought not to be charged, that they should not be made liable to any further charges inasmuch as the respondents-buyers had refused to deliver the 700 bales although the petitioners were ready and willing to take back the 700 bales. Mr. Alexander went to the Press and after inspection rejected the lot in question as being of inferior quality. A letter was written to the petitioners by the respondents, after which they were willing to refer the matter to the Chamber. The petitioners thereupon said that they had placed the matter in the hands of their Solicitors. Thereafter Messrs. Moran and Co. wrote to the Registrar stating their case and the points upon which they asked the decision of the Chamber. The Registrar of the tribunal of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce wrote to the petitioners on the 5th of February about the matter having been referred by the respondents to the Chamber. The petitioners replied on the 12th February that the arbitration had become impracticable and that they could not unhesitatingly refer the question to the Chamber as it was a question of the quality of the lots delivered, which had been mixed up. They, therefore, said that they would defer their answer to the case made by the respondents until they heard from the tribunal again. The Registrar then wrote to the petitioners on the 25th February 1914 that the Court as constituted required a statement by the 4th March. The petitioners sent a reply to that letter which bore no date—which was apparently received by the Registrar on the 26th February—the substance of that letter being that they reserved their statements pending the decision of the first point they had raised. They, however, sent Rs. 250 as arbitration fee to the Chamber. The Registrar then wrote again on the 4th March to the petitioners as follows: "I am instructed by the Court, which has been constituted to adjudicate the above dispute, to direct you, pending the decision of the point raised by you, to submit a full and complete statement regarding all matters of dispute between Messrs. Moran and Co. and yourself in connection with the present case." The letter then proceeded that unless the statements were sent by the 11th the arbitration would proceed. The petitioners asked for time and finally 16th March was the date fixed for sending their answer. They sent in their letter in which the first point they raised was that the arbitration could not be held. In the meantime the Registrar wrote to the parties on the 13th March to arrange for an inspection and certain bales were selected by the parties and left for inspection of the arbitrators. The petitioners alleged that they had been obliged owing to the circumstances to make the best of the circumstances, that they were not allowed to pack properly and that they did not think that the selection they had made was a proper one. It was, however, noticeable that on the 4th March when the Registrar wrote the letter to the petitioners that pending the decision of the point raised the petitioners would have to submit a full and complete statement, he also wrote a letter to the respondents on that date asking for statements from the Ludlow Manufacturing Co. and the Managing Agents of the Press House and insisted that that statements should be on sworn affidavits. No intimation was sent to the petitioners that the arbitrators had requested the other side to send in their sworn statements and apparently at no time were they informed that the arbitrators received such statements and that they had used them. The affidavit was dated the 9th March and was apparently seen by the respondents and the arbitrators. The award was filed in Court on the 2nd April 1914 and was apparently made on the 24th March 1914.

The petitioners take the following grounds: (1) That the arbitrators have gone beyond the scope of the reference, inasmuch as the dispute arising about 447 bales was not covered by the original contract, but was upon a new contract between the parties and there never has been a submission to the arbitration of the Bengal Chamber upon the dispute arising on the second part; (2) that they did not know the rules nor had they any notice of such rules; (3) that several of the rules are against public policy and against the elementary principles of justice.

I think that the award is bad on the first ground.

As regards the last ground I think that the arbitrators have disregarded the law. How in a judicial proceeding the documents used by the arbitrators cannot be disclosed to the parties I do not understand. In conclusion I make the Rule absolute so far as this application is concerned and set aside the award with costs.

Rule made absolute.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

APPEAL AGAINST APPELLATE ORDER No. 64 OF 1913.

August 26, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Oldfield and Mr. Justice Napier.

GOLLAMUDI VENKATASUBBA RAO—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

CHAPARALA ROSAYYA AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 145—Surety, liability of—Bond to restore property attached before judgment—Dismissal of suit—Appeal.

Section 145, Civil Procedure Code, deals with procedure, not with the extent of the surety's liability.

A bond given for release of property attached before judgment becomes defunct on the suit being dismissed, and the liability under the bond comes to an end. An order terminating the attachment is not necessary.

There is nothing in section 145, Civil Procedure Code, to restrict the right of appeal only to sureties. Where there is a refusal to enforce liability, other parties interested may appeal.

Appeal against the order of the District Court of Guntur, in Appeal Suit No. 191 of 1912, dated 18th February 1913, preferred against that of the Principal District Munsif of Guntur, in Execution Petition No. 1280 of 1911 (in Original Suit No. 676 of 1907), dated 15th November 1911.

Mr. L. S. Veeraraghava Aiyar, for Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar, for the Appellants.

Mr. S. Natesa Sastri (with him Mr. R. Vembu Aiyar), for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—A preliminary objection has been made to the hearing of the appeal on the ground that the order in question, one refusing to enforce a security bond against the sureties, is not appealable. It is urged that the last portion of section 145 of the Civil Procedure Code justifies only an appeal by the surety. We do not find anything in the wording to support this restriction and cannot recognise it.

The question on the merits is whether the bond which appellant seeks to enforce, is enforceable for the amount decreed to him in appeal, or became defunct when his suit was dismissed in the Court of first instance. The language of the bond is general, the guarantee being for the payment of any amount which may be decreed against defendant in this litigation (Thava), though it was, of course, executed to the Court of first instance. Section 145 deals with procedure, not the extent of the surety's liability. So also the cases cited, except Sheik Suleman v. Shivram Bhikaji (1). In that case the bond was worded rather more definitely than it is in the present. But the reasoning regarding the surety's liability under it supports respondents' contentions here. The proper ground of decision, however, is clearly that the bond before us was given for release of property attached before judgment and that, as such an attachment would be terminated on the suit being dismissed by the Court of first instance, liability under the bond substituted for the attachment would terminate then also. It is urged that under section 485 of the Code in force at the date of the execution of the bond, with reference to which this case must be decided, an attachment would not terminate except on the Court's passing an order removing it. It does not follow the liability under the substituted bond would continue until an order discharging it was passed; and there is in any case nothing to rebut the presumption, which we are prepared to make, that the Court performed its duty and passed such an order. Respondent's liability having terminated on the date of the dismissal of the suit by the Court of first instance, the lower Court's decisions in their favour were right.

The appeal against appellate order is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 12 B. 71.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 682 OF 1913.

June 10, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chamier.

NOBIN CHANDER BOSE AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

GADDA BERHAI—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Contract Act (IX of 1872), ss. 69, 70—Landlord and tenant—Costs of keeping premises clean—Tenant, whether liable—Suit to recover costs—Jurisdiction.

A landlord is not entitled either under section 69 or section 70 of the Contract Act to recover from his tenant the costs of sweepers and bhishtis employed under an order from the Municipal Board to keep the premises clean.

Such a suit is neither for an enhancement of rent nor for the recovery of dues under section 13 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act and is cognizable by a Small Cause Court.

Second appeal from the decree of the Additional Subordinate Judge of Cawnpore.

Mr. A. P. Dube, for the Appellants.

The Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The plaintiffs in this case are the owners of an ahata in the city of Cawnpore which contains a number of houses, one of which is occupied by the defendant. The plaintiffs in obedience to an order or notice issued by the Municipal Board of Cawnpore, issued probably under section 104 of the Municipalities Act, appointed two sweepers and a bhishti to keep the place clean. The plaintiffs' case is that all the occupants of the houses, including the defendant, are liable to contribute towards the wages of the sweepers. The present claim is for a sum of Re. 1-5-0. The suit was instituted in the Court of Small Causes at Cawnpore; but on the objection of the defendant the plaint was returned for presentation to the proper Court. The Judge of the Court of Small Causes gave no reason for holding that the case was not within the cognizance of a Court of Small Causes, except that it appeared to him to be a suit for enhancement of rent. To my mind it is obviously not a suit for enhancement of rent, and the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs in the Court is unable to suggest that any Article of the second Schedule of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act could possibly apply to the case except Article 13. He suggests that the suit is one for dues within the meaning of that Article. I hold that it is nothing of the kind and that the suit is triable by a Court of Small Causes. The suit was, however, tried by the Munsif and decided in favour of the plaintiffs. The defendant appealed. The District Judge held that the plaintiffs had no right of action against the defendant and he dismissed the suit. The plaintiffs have filed this second appeal. On the case being called on, an objection was put forward on behalf of the defendant-respondent that the suit being one of the nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes, no second appeal lay. As I have already stated there can be no doubt that the suit ought to have been tried by a Court of Small Causes. Therefore, it is one of the kind referred to in section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Then it was suggested that if this Court gave effect to this objection, it should set aside the proceedings altogether and direct that the plaint be returned for presentation to the proper Court. It is open to me, no doubt, to treat the memorandum of appeal as an application for revision. But if I do this the suit will be tried by a Court of Small Causes and inevitably there will be an application to this Court under section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, and this Court will have to decide whether the suit was maintainable. I have heard both sides and it appears to me that it would be waste of time and money to order a fresh trial in this case. It is suggested that the suit is maintainable against he defendant either under section 69 or 70 of the Contract Act. It seems to me that neither section applies. I, therefore, decline to treat this appeal as an application for revision. The appeal is not maintainable. I dismiss it, but make no order as to costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 662 OF 1913.

October 1, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar.

KAMARAVUTU MRUTYUNJAYUDU—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

Raja Saheb Maharban-i-Dostan Sree Raja RAVU VENKATA KUMARA MAHIPATHI SURYA ROW BAHADUR, SIRDAR, RAJAMUNDRY SIRCAR AND RAJA OF PITTAPURAM—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Grant—Service Inam—Right of resumption—Nakesh service—Grant prior to Permanent Settlement—Distinction between service grant and grant burdened with service.

Where the grant of certain lands as inam is (1) in consideration of past services done, (2) for enjoyment by the grantee from son to grandson, (3) and stipulates for the payment of kattubadi at Rs. 3 per annum, and (4) the service is nakesh, meaning thereby personal: the grant is resumable when the services are no longer required.

Per Sadasiva Iyer, J.—The question whether a grant is resumable or not, has to be decided on consideration of all the circumstances appearing in the evidence, including the nature of the service, the terms of the grant and the question whether the service is attached to it. A grant burdened with service even is liable to resumption, if the grantor by appropriate words reserves to himself the right of resumption.

Lakhamgarda v. Keshav Annaji, 28 B. 305; 6 Bom. L. R. 364; Sanniyasi Razu v. Salur Zamindar, 7 M. 268, Mahadevi v. Vikrama, 14 M. 365, Vadisapu Appandora v. Vyricherla Veerabhadraraju Bahadur, 12 Ind. Cas. 487; 10 M. L. T. 391; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 406, Raja Lelanund Singh Bahadur v. Government of Bengal, 6 M. I. A. 101; 4 W. R. 77 (P. C.); 1 Sar. P. C. J. 505; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 248; 19 E. R. 38; Radha Pershad Singh v. Budhu Dashad, 22 C. 938, Karupamaya Ananga Bheema v. Sondhi Prahaladha Bissoyi Ratno, 21 Ind. Cas. 833; (1914) M. W. N. 179; 14 M. L. T. 562, followed.

Where the service for the discharge of which a grant is made is styled "Nakesh" and is purely personal to the grantor, the grant is more or less of the nature of a darmilla grant; and if it was made prior to the Permanent Settlement, it is resumable by the grantor when such service is no longer required.

Alexander John Forbes v. Meer Mahomed Taquee 13 M. I. A. 438; 14 W. R. 28 (P. C.); 5 B. L. R. 529; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 351; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 588; 20 E. R. 614; Leelanund Singh v. Manorunjun Singh, I. A. Sup. Vol. 181; 3 C. 251; 2 Ind. Jur. 493; Venkata Narasimha Appa Rao Bahadur v. Sobhanadri Appa Rao Bahadur, 29 M. 52 (P. C.); 16 M. L. J. 1; 1 M. L. T. 3; 3 C. L. J. 1; 3 A. L. J. 55; 8 Bom. L. R. 1; 10 C. W. N. 161; 33 I. A. 46, distinguished.

Per Ayling, J., dissenting)—Such a grant is a grant merely burdened with service, and not in lieu of wages, and is not liable to resumption so long as the grantor is willing to perform the services. In cases of such grant, there is no distinction between services whether public or private.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Cocanada, in Appeal Suit No. 113 of 1911, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Peddapur, in Original Suit No. 608 of 1909.

Mr. P. Somasundaram, for Mr. P. Narayanamurthy, for the Appellant.

Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.

AYLING, J.—The decision of this appeal turns entirely on the constructions of Exhibit A and Exhibit I, the muchilika and patta evidencing the terms of the grant in 1868. The primary question is whether it was a grant burdened with a certain service, or a grant in lieu of wages: the distinction is drawn in three Privy Council cases, Alexander John Forbes v. Meer Mahomed Tuquee (1) and Leelanund Singh v. Munrunjun Singh (2) and Venkata Narasimha Appa Rao Bahadur v. Sobhanadri Appa Rao Bahadur (3). The answer is not easy; but looking (1) to the reference to past service whereby the patronage of the Diwan-am was deserved, (2) provision that the grantee was to enjoy from son to grandson and so on in succession, I am inclined to hold that this was a grant burdened with service. I do not think the mere description of the inam as a service inam, or the condition that "you (the grantee) shall be rendering service so as to deserve the patronage of the Diwan-am," are sufficient to negative this conclusion. There is, moreover, a clause reserving to the Raja a small kattubadi of Rs. 3 per annum—a feature which, if I rightly understand the judgment of the Privy Council in Forbes v. Mir Muhammad Tuquee (1), would, if present in that case, have been held conclusive in favour of the grantee.

Where the grant is of this nature "so long as the holders of those grants are willing and able to perform the services, the zemindar has no right to put an end to the tenure whether the services are required or not" [vide Leelanund Singh v. Munrunjun Singh (2) quoted in Venkata Narasimha Appa Rao Bahadur v. Sobhanadri Appa Rao Bahadur(3)].

(1) 13 M. I. A. 438; 14 W. R. 28 (P. C.); 5 B. L. R. 529; 2 Suth. P. C. J. 358; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 588; 20 Eng. Rep. 614.

(2) I. A. Sup. Vol. 181; 3 C. 251; 2 Ind. Jur. 493.

(3) 29 M. 52 (P. C.); 16 M. L. J. 1; 1 M. L. T. 3; 3 C. L. J. 1; 3 A. L. J. 55; 8 Bom. L. R. 1; 10 C. W. N. 161; 33 I. A. 46.

I can find no authority for holding that the nature of the services makes any difference in the case of such a grant: though in the case of a service grant where lands are enjoyed in lieu of wages, the power of arbitrary resumption would largely turn on whether the services were private or public. The Subordinate Judge appears to me to have wrongly construed Exhibits A and I and to have misunderstood the law on the subject.

I would set aside the decree of the Subordinate Judge and dismiss the suit with costs throughout.

SADASIVA AIYAR, J.—The first defendant is the appellant, the plaintiff (respondent) being the Rajah of Pittapur. The question is whether the nowkari (service) inam granted to the appellant's grandfather in 1868 by the plaintiff's father was granted in order that the income of the inam lands might be treated as wages for the personal service of 'Nakesh' or whether it was granted, not as wages for the said service, but as a grant subject to the condition of doing the 'Nakesh' service.

The learned Subordinate Judge on appeal held that the grant was of the former character. His reasons (as I understand them) are: (1) The service performed by the grantee was private and personal to the grantor and not a public service or an obligation of a feudal character. (2) The office goes by a particular designation, namely, 'Nakesh' and that office was conferred on the grantee. (3) This is a Darmilla grant, that is, a grant subsequent to Permanant Settlement. In Alexander John Forbes v. Meer Mahomed Tuquee(1) their Lordships say at page 464 "that in every case the right to resume must depend in a great measure upon the nature of the particular tenure or the terms of the particular grant." Their Lordships quote with approval on page 463 a decision of the Sudder Dewanny Adawlat of 1858 in which it was held that a tenure will be liable to resumption notwithstanding its hereditary nature, and even if it is a grant subject to conditions of service and not a grant in lieu of service, if the service be not performed. A fortiori it seems to me that the hereditary nature of the grant is not against the resumability of the grant where it is a grant in lieu of wages for service. Their Lordships set out in their judgment in that case that the service to be performed by the defendant was not attached to any particular office or known by any particular designation. They also point out that the grantee was not a private servant of the zemindar (See page 461). They further point out that if the public or Government representing the public had an interest in the service, the grant is not resumable (See same page 461 and page 462). Then at page 466 their Lordships say: "Had this been a grant reserving to the zemindar a small money-rent as well as the services, if indeed the latter are reserved to the zemindar, their Lordships would have had no doubt upon the case." It seems to me that this sentence, read in the light of the other passages in the judgment, means that if the services were reserved to the zemindar, the fact that a small money-rent was reserved (whether it is called katubadi or quit-rent or by any other name), their Lordships would have had no doubt that it was a resumable tenure.

The case in Leelanund Singh v. Munrunjun Singh (2) related to lands held on Ghatwali tenure. Ghatwali services were services performed for the protection of properties situated in a zemindari from the attacks of mountaineers and other turbulent people [See Raja Lelanund Singh Bahadur v. Government of Bengal (4)] and the British Government dispensed with those public services. It was held that the zemindar could not resume the lands held on such tenure. In Radha Pershad Singh v. Budhu Dashad(5) the learned Judges rely upon Alexander John Forbes v. Meer Mahomed Tuquee (1) in support of the distinction between the grant for services of public nature and one of services private or personal to the grantor, and they state that in the former case the zemindar is not entitled to resume, while in the latter case he may do so when the services are not required or when the grantee refuses to perform the services (See page 941). Even in the case of the grant of an estate burdened with a certain service (as distinguished from the grant of an office the performance of whose duties is remunerated by the enjoyment of certain lands), though the zemindar is not ordinarily entitled to resume, he is so entitled if in the grant itself appropriate terms are introduced giving the grantor a right to resume the lands on the non-fulfilment of certain conditions. See Alexander John Forbes v. Meer Mahomed Tuquee (1) and Lakhamgavda v. Keshav Annaji (6). See also Sanniyasi Razu v. Salur Zamindar (7) and Mahadevi v. Vikrama (8) as to the prima facie right of the zemindar to resume the grant made for personal services as distinguished from public service. In the case in Vadisapu Appandora v. Vyricherla Veerabhadraraju Bahadur (9) White, C. J., and Phillips, J., hold that the nature of a tenure has to be decided upon the evidence in each case and in the case of a grant subsequent to the Permanent Settlement to which services of a personal as opposed to public character are attached, the burden of proving that it is not resumable is on the grantee.

In Karupamaya Ananga Bheema v. Sondi Prahaladha Bissoyi Ratno (10) the opinion is expressed that a favourable quit-rent being reserved as payable to the zemindar was not of much importance on the question of the resumability of the grant [See also Sanniyasi Razu v. Salur Zemindar (7) and Mahadevi v. Vikrama (8) on this point, these decisions evidently having followed the opinion of their Lordships of the Privy Council in Alexander John Forbes v. Meer Mahomed Tuquee (1)]. In Venkata Narasimha Appa Rao Bahadur v. Sobhanadri Appa Rao Bahadur (3) their Lordships of the Privy Council quote with approval certain sentences from the judgment of this High Court, which indicate a few of the grounds on which this High Court held that the grant in that case was not resumabale. One of those grounds is that "no office by any particular designation was conferred by the original grantee, but an obligation of a feudal character was imposed upon him." Other grounds are the hereditary character of the grant and the invariable kattubadi received for a long series of years (about 120 years) without any attempt at resumption. As I said in the beginning the question whether the grant is resumable or not, has to be decided on a consideration of all the circumstances appearing in the evidence, including the nature of the service, the terms of the grant, the question whether the

(4) 4 W. R. (P. C.) 77; 6 M. I. A. 101; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 505; 1 Suth. P. C. J. 248; 19 Eng. Rep. 38.
(5) 22 C. 938.
(6) 28 B. 305; 6 Bom. L. R. 364.
(7) 7 M. 268.
(8) 14 M. 365.
(9) 12 Ind. Cas. 487; 10 M. L. T. 391; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 406.
(10) 21 Ind. Cas. 833; (1914) M. W. N. 179; 14 M. L. T. 562.

service is attached to any office known by any particular designation and so on. In the present case, the learned Subordinate Judge was, it seems to me, entitled to find on the terms of the grant, on the nature of the grant, on the date when it was made, on the nature of the service, on the designation given to the office and similar circumstances that it was a grant made in lieu of wages for the performance of personal service, though certain other circumstances (like the hereditary nature of the grant) tended in the other direction. No one fact is conclusive either way, though it seems to me from the sentence I have quoted from page 466 of Moore's Indian Appeals that their Lordships of the Privy Council considered that where the services were such as are reserved to the zemindar personally, there can be very little doubt that the inam was a resumable grant.

I would, therefore, dismiss the second appeal with costs.

BY THE COURT.—The appeal is dismissed with costs under section 98 of the Civil Procedure Code.

Appeal dismissed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CIVIL RULE No. 587 OF 1914.

June 19, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Holmwood and Mr. Justice Chapman.

Munshi ABDUL KADIR—DECREE-HOLDER—PETITIONER

versus

SHAHABAZPUR CO-OPERATIVE BANK AND OTHERS—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Co-operative Societies Act (II of 1912), ss. 19, 20—Charge, enforceability of—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 73.

Under section 73 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, a Co-operative Society cannot enforce a charge under section 19 of the Co-operative Societies Act, unless they have a decree or a charge under section 20 of the latter Act.

Rule against the order of the Munsif, Nabinagar, in Execution Case No. 147 of 1913, dated the 26th February 1914.

Moulvi A. K. Fazlul Huq, for the Petitioner.

Mr. A. Rasul (with him Babu Upendra Kumar Ray), for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—This is a Rule which was obtained by the decree-holder in an application under section 73 of the Code of Civil Procedure made by a Co-operative Society for enforcing a charge under section 19 of Act II of 1912. The application was undoubtedly made under section 73, and under that section we are of opinion that the Co-operative Society could have no priority to other creditors, unless there are one or more persons than one who have made applications to the Court for the execution of decrees for payment of money passed against the same judgment-debtors. To hold otherwise would be to give these Co-operative Societies a power which even Government in its much discussed certificate procedure does not claim. They would claim, in other words, to recover money without either decree or certificate or any legal title to enforce their debt. Admittedly there is no charge within the meaning of section 20 of the Co-operative Societies Act, so that the proviso to section 73 does not come in. It is possible that under section 19, the Society might have raised an objection to the attachment by reason of other sections of the Code of Civil Procedure, but with that we are not concerned. It appears to us perfectly clear that under section 73 the claim of a Co-operative Society cannot be enforced, unless they have a decree or a charge under section 20.

The Rule, therefore, must be made absolute and the order of the lower Court set aside without prejudice to any action which the Society may deem fit to take, if so advised.

The petitioner is entitled to his costs in this Rule which we assess at one gold mohur.

Rule made absolute.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 2587 OF 1912.

August 4, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar and Mr. Justice Kumaraswamy Sastri.

KOSURI SURAPARAJU AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

MANDAPAKA NARASIMHAM AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 64, O. XXI, r. 57, and O. XXXVIII, r. 1—Attachment before judgment—Records, destruction of—Re-attachment ex majori cautela, if amounts to abandonment of prior attachment

KOSURI SURAPARAJU v. MANDAPAKA NARASIMHAM.

—Dismissal of execution petition, whether affects prior attachment before judgment.

A re-attachment, in execution, ex majori cautela, of certain immoveable properties which had already been attached before judgment (the records relating thereto having been destroyed), does not raise any presumption that the original attachment was abandoned.

Hafiz Suleman v. Sheikh Abdullah, 16 A. 133; A. W. N. (1894) 13; Kishen Lal v. Charat Singh, 23 A. 114; A. W. N. (1900) 214; Puddomonee Dossee v. Roy Moothooranath Chowdhry, 12 B. L. R. 411 (P. C.); 20 W. R. 133, distinguished.

In cases where attachment before judgment has been obtained, no fresh attachment by means of an execution petition is necessary and all that is contemplated by section 64 of the Civil Procedure Code is the existence of a pending attachment. Mere dismissal of an execution petition has not the effect of causing an attachment before judgment to cease to exist.

Ram Newaz v. Ram Charan, 18 A. 49, distinguished.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of Kistna, in Appeal Suit No. 57 of 1912, preferred against that of the Subordinate Judge of Kistna at Ellore, in Original Suit No. 26 of 1911.

FACTS.—Certain immoveable properties were attached before judgment on 24th September 1904. The suit in which such attachment had been obtained was decreed two days later. On 23rd September 1907 the decree-holder applied for a re-attachment of the suit properties, as he was under the impression that re-attachment was necessary as the records relating to the original attachment had been destroyed. This attachment was duly effected. The plaintiffs who had in the meanwhile purchased the suit properties under a sale-deed, dated 29th September 1907, put in a claim petition which was rejected. They then filed the present suit under Order XXI, rule 103, Civil Procedure Code, for a declaration that their sale-deed was binding on the 4th defendant, who had by that time obtained an assignment of the original decree impleading also their vendors, defendants Nos. 1 to 3, as parties. The 4th defendant contested the suit on the ground that as the purchase had been made after the attachment had been effected, it conveyed no title to the plaintiffs. Both the lower Courts agreed with that contention and dismissed the plaintiffs' suit. The plaintiffs thereupon preferred this second appeal to the High Court.

Mr. V. Ramadoss, for the Appellants:—There was no subsisting attachment on the date of the sale to the plaintiffs. The attachment before judgment must be taken to have been abandoned because from 1904 to 1907 the decree-holder did nothing in pursuance thereof and applied for re-attachment of the same properties on 23rd September 1907. The assignment deed in favour of the 4th defendant is silent as to the existence of any attachment.

[The following cases were relied on: Hafiz Suleman v. Sheikh Abdullah (1), Kishen Lal v. Charat Singh (2) and Puddomonee Dossee v. Roy Moothooranath Chowdhry (3)].

Further, as the execution application filed on 23rd September 1907 was subseqently dismissed, the attachment should be deemed to have ceased to subsist; Krishna Subhudi v. Janaki Ram (4); Ram Newaz v. Ram Charan (5).

Mr. B. Somayya, for Mr. P. Narayanamurti, for the Respondents, was not called upon.

JUDGMENT.—The properties in dispute were attached before judgment. After that order the plaintiffs purchased the properties from the judgment-debtors at a private sale. Both the Courts below have held that the plaintiffs acquired no title to the properties against the attaching creditor. We think they are right. We are satisfied that the attachment was subsisting on the date of the sale to the plaintiffs. Exhibits XII and IV make it clear that there was a conditional attachment which was subsequently made absolute. Mr. Ramadoss asks us to say that as there was an application in 1910 to attach the properties again, the presumption is that the first attachment was abandoned. In 1910 the parties were under the impression that as the records relating to the original attachment were destroyed, an application for fresh attachment was necessary. This does not show that the original attachment was abandoned. The decisions in Hafiz Suleman v. Sheikh Abdullah (1) and Kishen Lal v. Charat Singh (2) only lay down that if a subsequent valid attachment was made, the title of the purchaser dated from the date of that attachment: they do not warrant the proposition that in all cases where parties ex majori cautela apply for a fresh attachment, the original attachment must be presumed to have

(1) 16 A. 133; A. W. N. (1894) 13.
(2) 23 A. 114; A. W. N. (1900) 214.
(3) 12 B. L. R. 411 (P. C.); 20 W. R. 133.
(4) 20 Ind. Cas. 149; 19 C. L. J. 248.
(5) 18 A. 49; A. W. N. (1895) 155.

been abandoned. Puddomonee Dossee v. Roy Mathooranath Chowdhry (1) is no authority for the proposition contended for.

Then it is argued that as there was no execution application subsisting, the attachment cannot be said to have been in force at the time of the sale. The law lays down that in cases where attachment is applied for prior to decree, no fresh attachment by means of an execution application is necessary and the language of section 64 of the Code makes it clear that all that is contemplated under that section is the existence of a pending attachment. The case in Ram Newaz v. Ram Charan (5) has no application, as in that case there was no attachment before judgment. We think the Courts below are right and dismiss the second appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 791 OF 1912.

May 27, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chamier and Mr. Justice Rafique.

BALGOBIND AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

RAM SARUP AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908) O. XLI, r. 22, scope of—Cross-objections by one respondent against another—Practice.

Under Order XLI, rule 22, an Appellate Court can allow a respondent to prefer cross-objections against another respondent.

Jadunandan Prosad Singh v. Koer Kalyan Singh, 13 Ind. Cas. 653; 16 C. W. N. 612; 15 C. L. J. 61; Abdul Ghani v. Muhammad Fasih, 28 A. 95, A. W. N. (1905) 200; 2 A. L. J. 667, referred to.

Second appeal from the decree of the Second Additional Judge of Meerut.

Dr. Surendra Nath Sen, for the Appellants.

The Hon'ble Mr. Motilal Nehru, Messrs. J. M. Banerji and Lalit Mohan Banerji, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—This appeal arises out of a suit for the dissolution of a partnership. A decree for dissolution was passed and a Receiver was appointed to make up the accounts of the partnership and submit a report. On receipt of the Receiver's report a decree was passed. The plaintiffs in the suit preferred an appeal to the District Judge, and some of the respondents filed cross-objections. Niadar Mal, one of the respondents to that appeal, in his cross-objections raised a question between himself and another respondent which did not concern the appellants. The learned Judge, after a careful consideration of the objection both on behalf of the appellants and the respondents, modified the decree of the first Court. The present appellants, who were respondents in the Court below, object to the decree of the lower Appellate Court on two grounds. They say that interest should not have been allowed on the sum found due to a partner either for the period prior to dissolution or subsequent thereto. The second objection is that the cross-objection of Niadar Mal that the sum of Rs. 550 had not been paid to him by Niadar Singh respondent in the Court below should not have been entertained in view of the provisions of Order XLI, rule 22, Code of Civil Procedure. We think that neither of the grounds taken in appeal has any force. The lower Appellate Court allowed interest to all the partners to whom any sum of money was found due from other partners. The rate of interest awarded was not high and it is not contended that the lower Court had no power to decree interest. As to the second objection the case of Jadunandan Prasad Singh v. Koer Kalyan Singh (1) may be referred to, also the case of Abdul Ghani v. Muhammad Fasih (2). The latter case was decided when the old Code of Civil Procedure was in force. It was held that under special circumstances it was competent to an Appellate Court to allow a respondent to take cross-objections against another respondent. The Calcutta case was decided under the present Code of Civil Procedure. The learned Judges of the Calcutta High Court say that the language of Order XLI, rule 22, of the Code of Civil Procedure is comprehensive enough to admit of cross-objections being preferred by one respondent against another. As accounts were being taken between all the parties, whether plaintiffs or defendants, we think that Niadar Mal was entitled to take objections as to the sum of Rs. 550 against Niadar Singh, who was also a respondent in the case before the lower Appellate Court. The appeal, therefore, fails and is dismissed with costs. There are cross-objections on behalf of the plaintiffs-respondents which are not pressed and are dismissed with costs.

(1) 13 Ind. Cas. 653; 16 C. W. N. 612; 15 C. L. J 61.
(2) 28 A. 95; A. W. N. (1905) 200; 2 A. L. J. 667.

Appeal dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 1401 OF 1913.

July 4, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sunder Lal.

CHIRANJI LAL—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

POORNA AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 68, 69—Illiterate witness—Mark of attesting witness on mortgage-deed—Proof of document—One attesting witness called, effect of.

Section 68 of the Evidence Act requires that at least one attesting witness should be called for the purpose of proving the execution of the document. The witness may or may not be able to prove the document or he may have forgotten all the incidents relating to its execution or may dishonestly deny its execution altogether.

In order to prove a document to have been signed by a witness or to have been in his handwriting, it should be shown to him and he should be questioned directly upon the point.

If a man fixes his mark on a mortgage-deed as a witness, he is an attesting witness within the meaning of section 69 of the Evidence Act.

Pran Krishna Tewary v. Jadu Nath Trivedi, 2 C. W. N. 603; Neel Kanto Pandit v. Jaggobundhu Ghose, 12 B. L. R. App. 18, referred to.

Bakhshi Ram v. Liladhar, 21 Ind. Cas. 619; 35 A. 353; 11 A. L. J. 371; Babu Gunga Persad v. Babu Inderjit Singh, 23 W. R 390 (P. C.), referred to.

Second appeal from the decision of the District Judge of Agra.

Mr. Benode Behari, for the Appellant.

JUDGMENT.—This is a suit on a mortgage dated November 7th, 1907, for a sum of Rs. 99, which is said to have been advanced for the payment of a decree in execution of which the property was put up to sale. The defendants denied the mortgage and the plaintiff had, therefore, to prove it. The Court below dismissed the suit on the ground that the execution of the mortgage had not been proved in accordance with the requirements of sections 68 and 69 of the Evidence Act.

The document is one which under section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act is required to be attested by not less than two witnesses. It purports to bear the signature of one Kishori Lal as an attesting witness and the mark of one Kamla, the other attesting witness. Kishori Lal is no longer living, but Kamla was called to prove the bond. The plaintiff himself also went into the witness-box to prove its due execution and the payment of consideration. Kamla is illiterate and he could only make his mark. He has stated that Musammat Prano, the mortgagor, executed the mortgage before him, that she put her mark on the document, that he witnessed the said document and put on his mark thereto. The document was not placed in his hands and no question was put to him to ascertain whether the mark which appears under the name of Kamla was made by him or at his instance, nor was the mark put on by Musammat Prano similarly shown to have been made by her or at her instance. But the witness did state that the document was marked by Prano in his presence and that his own mark too was put on the document then and there. Chiranji Lal proved the document and also the passing of consideration. The Munsif held that the document was not legally proved. Under section 68 of the Evidence Act if a document is required by law to be attested, it cannot be used in evidence until at least one attesting witness has been called for the purpose of proving its execution. All that the section requires is that the witness should be called for the purpose of proving the execution. The witness may or may not be able to prove the document; he may have forgotten all the incidents relating to the execution or he may dishonestly deny the execution of the document, but the only obligation that section 68 imposes upon the plaintiff is of calling one attesting witness at least, whatever that man may depose to. In calling Kamla, therefore, the plaintiff complied with the condition imposed by section 68. Kamla, however, only made a mark and it may be suggested that he was not an attesting witness who could prove his signature. In the case of Pran Krishna Tewary v. Jadu Nath Trivedy (1) the question arose whether a marksman is an attesting witness within the meaning of section 69. At page 605 of the report their Lordships ruled as follows: "We are of opinion that this contention is not correct, and that there is no good reason for holding that a marksman cannot be an attesting witness within the meaning of section 59 of the Transfer of Property Act and section 68 of the Evidence Act. According to the general policy of our law, a signature includes a mark —[see the General Clauses Acts of 1887 and 1897 (Act I of 1887, section 3, clause 12, and Act X of 1897, section 3, clause 52), Act XIV of 1882, section 2, and Act III of 1877, section 3] and there is no reason why the case of a mortgage deed should form an exception." I think the law is correctly laid down in that case and Kamla was an attesting witness within the meaning of that term as used in section 68 of the Evidence Act. The document also bears the name of another attesting witness named Kishori Lal. The Court of first instance observes that it has not been proved that Kishori Lal's signature was made by him in his own handwriting. It was not necessary to prove the signature of each of the attesting witnesses. The document on the face of it has two attesting witnesses and under section 69 of the Evidence Act it was not necessary to prove the signature of one attesting witness at least to have been in his handwriting, as that condition is required only when no attesting witness can be found or when the document purports to have been executed in the United Kingdom. The conditions of sections 68 and 69 were, therefore, fully complied with.

(1) 2 C. W. N. 603.

CHIRANJI LAL v. POORNA.

The only point on which the evidence is defective lies in the fact that the document was not actually put to the witness and the signature neither of the executant nor of the attesting witness actually proved by reference to the document itself. Under section 67 of the Evidence Act when a document is alleged to be signed by a particular person or to have been in his handwriting, the signature or the handwriting of so much of the document as is alleged to be in that person's handwriting must be proved to be in his handwriting. This can only be done by showing the document to the witness and questioning him directly upon that point. That, no doubt, is the correct method of proving the document. In an earlier case, Neel Kanto Pandit v. Jaggobundhoo Ghose (2), the execution of the document is said to have been proved in this manner, "It appears that in this case the evidence which was given in support of the document upon which the defendants' case depends, was that of a Qazi before whom the vendor came and admitted the deed to be his, and caused it to be registered, bringing witnesses to his execution thereof, and in fact going pretty much through the same forms as are now in force under the Registration Act. Upon that evidence the lower Appellate Court very naturally came to the conclusion that the deed was proved, and the only question which we have to consider is, whether the Court was precluded from doing so by section 67 of the Evidence Act. Now it is contended that that section renders it necessary that direct evidence of the handwriting of the person who is alleged to have executed the deed, must be given by some person who saw the signature affixed. But that is not expressly stated in the section, and it does not appear to me that that was the intention of the Legislature. It seems to me that that section merely states with reference to deeds what is the universal rule in all cases, that the person who makes the allegation must prove it. It lays down no new rule whatever as to the kind of proof which must be given." It may be that the plaintiff's Pleader was misled by this ruling or by the practice prevailing in the Court of first instance, and the document was not placed in the hands of the witness. In a case like this the presiding officer of the Court ought to have himself directed this to be done. In the case of Bakhshi Ram v. Liladhar (3) a Division Bench of this Court under somewhat similar circumstances considered it desirable to send the case back to give the plaintiff an opportunity of formally proving the document. Their Lordships of the Privy Council in the case of Babu Gunga Prasad v. Babu Inderjit Singh (4) adopted a somewhat similar course. I think that in this case the ends of justice require that the plaintiff should be given another opportunity of formally proving the document.

The case has not been properly tried in either of the Courts below. I set aside the decree of the Court below and remand the case to the Court of first instance through the District Judge of Agra under Order XLI, rule 23, and direct that Court to restore the suit to its file of pending cases and after recording such evidence as the parties may adduce relevant to the issues before him, to dispose of the case in accordance with law. As the defect in the proof of the document in this case was mainly due to the fault of the plaintiff or his legal adviser, I direct that costs incurred in this Court and in the lower Appellate Court by the appellant shall be borne by him. The costs in the first Court shall be costs in the cause.

(2) 12 B. L. R. App. 18.

(3) 21 Ind. Cas. 619; 11 A. L. J. 371; 35 A. 353.

(4) 23 W.-R. 390 (P. C.).

Appeal decreed; Cause remanded.

COURT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE, UNITED PROVINCES.

PETITION No. 14 OF 1913-14 OF UNAO DISTRICT.

February 2, 1914.

Present:—Sir Duncan Colvin Baillie, S. M., and Mr. Tweedy, J. M.

SANWAL SINGH—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

PRAG DAT AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Ejectment—Shikmi tenant, entry as—Civil Court decree finding tenant proprietor and mortgagor of holding and allowing redemption, effect of.

A person entered in the patwari's papers as shikmi tenant, but having a Civil Court decree in his favour which says that he is the proprietor of the holding and entitled to redeem it, cannot be ejected from that holding so long as that decree holds good.

Appeal from the decree of the Commissioner, Lucknow, dated 5th September 1913.

JUDGMENT.

TWEEDY, J. M.—(January 24th, 1914).—The decision of the Munsif clearly awards proprietary rights to the appellant in part of the respondents' property. The contention of the appellant all along was that he was the mortgagor and not a shikmi. We have then the decision of a competent Court that the appellant holds the equity of redemption in this land and he has been allowed to redeem. Upon this evidence the appeal should be decreed. It is open to the respondent to get the Munsif's decision reversed in appeal and if he does so he can eject the appellant. But as things stand the verdict of the Civil Court is in the appellant's favour and his ejectment as a shikmi might cause considerable difficulty. I would decree the appeal and setting aside the decision of the Courts below would quash the notice of ejectment. Costs on parties.

BAILLIE, S. M.—I concur.

Appeal allowed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 481 OF 1913.

May 29, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Piggott.

INAYAT HUSSAIN AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Possession—Evidence—Possession of one part, whether possession of other part.

Where in a suit for possession of land by the Secretary of State for India it is proved that the plot in dispute is a part of the Nazul lands which are in possession of the Government, it is not necessary to give further evidence of possession.

Second appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Agra.

Mr. Benode Behari, for the Appellants.

Mr. A. E. Ryves, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—This is a suit for possession of a small plot of unoccupied land situated in the town of Agra. It adjoins on one side a public thoroughfare and is situated at the back of the house of the defendants. The latter have, however, no door opening on to it. The plaintiff is the Secretary of State for India in Council, claiming this lands as part of what is known as Nazul land of the city of Agra, of which the plaintiff is the proprietor. The lower Appellate Court has found in favour of the plaintiff's title. The one substantial point taken in appeal is that the plaintiff should have been put to the proof of actual possession within limitation, the limitation period in this case being sixty years. The contention is based on the ruling of this Court in Jafar Husain v. Mashuq Ali (1).

The principle that a plaintiff suing in ejectment is bound to prove a subsisting title, that is to say, practically both title and possession within limitation, is undoubtedly correct and has been affirmed in a large number of cases. The question, however, as to what amounts to possession, and what sort of evidence may be required in order to prove possession, is one which must depend on the circumstances of the particular case. Thus in Oudh it was ruled that a Taluqdar, on proving title and proprietary possession in respect of a particular village, would be presumed to have been in actual or constructive possession of all the waste lands appertaining to that village, unless and until it were shown that some portion of such lands had been actually occupied by some person otherwise than as his lessee or licensee. In the present case it has been found that the defendants at any rate have not proved their possession over this land prior to the acts of trespass in the year 1909, which have led to the institution of the present suit, nor has it been denied that the plaintiff is in possession of the Nazul lands appertaining to the town of Agra. The issue on which the parties went to trial is whether this land formed part of the Nazul lands. The lower Appellate Court has found that the land in suit was shown as appertaining to the Nazul in certain official records prepared in the year 1879 and that action was taken on behalf of the plaintiff as soon as it was known that the defendants were occupying this land and were claiming possession over it as their own property. It does seem to me that in a case of this sort the plaintiff could not be expected to produce evidence of possession going beyond this. I accordingly dismiss this appeal with costs.

(1) 14 A. 193; A. W. N. (1892) 55.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 2110 OF 1913.

August 11, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar and Mr. Justice Kumarasawmy Sastri.

DESAYI alias ALLAM RAJU NANJUNDIAH—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

DESAYI alias ALLAM RAJU VENKATA-SUBBAYYA—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), s. 4—Suit for partition of inam—Necessity of certificate—Hindu Law—Joint undivided family—Desai inam—Devolution of inam on managing member—Right of other members to share Inam—Grant of land and not merely of land-revenue—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

The pre-requisite of filing a certificate under section 4 of the Pensions Act has no application where the suit in the Civil Court is for partition of the inam among the members of the family to which the grant was made, nor does that section apply where the grant is not merely of land-revenue but of land also.

Panchanada v. Nilakanda, 7 M. 191; Muthu Sri Jiejamba Bai Sahib v. Secretary of State for India, 15 Ind. Cas. 871; 23 M. L. J. 687; 12 M. L. T. 541; (1913) M. W. N. 255; 36 M. 591; Secretary of State v. Ikurti Subrayudu, 16 Ind. Cas. 18; 36 M. 559; (1912) M. W. N. 807; 12 M. L. T. 266; 23 M. L. J. 728; Ravji Narayan Mandlik v. Dadaji Bapuji, 1 B. 523; Mannu Lall v. Fazal Imam, 10 Ind. Cas. 353; 33 A. 580; 8 M. L. J. 692, followed.

Where on the date of the grant there was no kudivaram interest in the land, the presumption is that the grant is not merely of land-revenue but of land also.

Rama v. Subba, 12 M. 98, followed.

Where a Desai Inam devolves on the managing member of a joint undivided Hindu family for the time being, the presumption is that the devolution is for the benefit of all the members of the family and not for that of the manager alone. The other members of the family are, therefore, entitled to shares in the inam.

Gunnaiyan v. Kamakchi Ayyar, 26 M. 339, followed.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of Kurnool, in Appeal Suit No. 31 of 1912, preferred against that of the Subordinate Judge of Kurnool, in Original Suit No. 1 of 1908.

Mr. K. Narain Row, for the Respondent.

FACTS.—The second appeal arose out of a suit for partition. One of the properties to be partitioned was a personal inam, being land held under a desai grant. The defence set up the plea that the suit was not maintainable in the Civil Courts without a certificate from the Collector as required by sections 4 and 6 of the Pensions Act, XXIII of 1871. The Courts below were of opinion that the suit was not one in which the validity of a political grant was in question and held, following Panchanada v. Nilakanda (1), that there was nothing in the Pensions Act to bar the suit. The 1st defendant appealed to the High Court on the ground, inter alia, that the suit was not maintainable without the Collector's certificate.

Mr. N. A. Krishna Iyer (for Mr. T. R. Ramachandra Iyer), for the Appellant:—Suit is not maintainable without Collector's certificate. The Pensions Act applies to the case.

Panchanada v. Nilakanada (1), Rama v. Subba(2), Muthu Sri Jiejamba Bai Sahib v. Secretary of State for India(3), Kumara Tirumalai Naik v. Bangaru Tirumalai Sauri Naik (4) and Secretary of State for India v. Ikurti Subrayudu (5).

(1) 7 M. 191.

(2) 12 M. 98.

(3) 15 Ind. Cas. 871; 23 M. L. J. 687; 12 M.L.T. 541; (1913) M. W. N. 255.

(4) 21 M. 310.

(5) 16 Ind. Cas. 18; 36 M. 559 (1912) M. W. N. 07; 12 M. L. T. 266; 23 M. L. J. 728.

NANJUNDIAH v. VENKATA SUBBAYYA.

Mr. H. Balakrishna Rao, for the Respondent:—The Act applies only to grant of land-revenue or melvaram. Where the grant is of the land itself the Act does not apply.

JUDGMENT.—This second appeal is argued only with reference to items 56 to 58. The Courts below have held that plaintiff was entitled to a share in them.

The first defendant's (appellant's) contentions are two-fold. He says that as the properties came to him from Thimma Raju who was the last holder of this desai inam, the other members of his family can have no claim to them. It is found that at the time of the devolution he was the manager of the undivided family of which plaintiff was a junior member. He must, therefore, be deemed to have taken the property for and on behalf of the joint family. The principle of the decision in Gunnaiyan v. Kamakchi Ayyar (6) applies to this case. We hold that the properties are not 1st defendant's self-acquisition. The more important question relates to the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts to entertain the suit without a certificate under the Pensions Act. The finding of the Courts below we take to be that the grant to Thimma Raju's ancestors was of the land itself. There has been no suggestion that the original grantees had any kudivaram right in the soil prior to the grant to them. These considerations have to be borne in mind in deciding whether the Pensions Act applies to this case. Section 4 interdicts the filing of suits relating to pensions, grant of land-revenue or grant of money without a certificate. Whether grant of land is included in the term pension, has been much debated. It is pointed out by Collins, C. J., and Muttusawmy Aiyar, J., in Rama v. Subba (2) that the object of the enactment (the Pensions Act) was to prohibit parties from filing suits in Civil Courts in all cases of inams without the knowledge of the Government. The learned Judges incline to the view that as the Government is entitled to the reversion, if they choose to exercise their right, the Legislature has made it a condition precedent to the maintainability of these suits that a certificate from them should be filed. These observations are of great value in considering the right of an alienee to recover possession of an inam. When applied to a claim among the members of the family for partition, they have not the same significance. The learned Judges also observe at page 103: "These decisions show that in order that a grant of villages may not fall under the Pensions Act, it must be a grant of the free-hold therein or full ownership in the soil, qualified in no way by any reversion suggested by the terms of the grant in regard to future succession or transmission." The import of this passage seems to be that if the grantee was possessed of the kudivaram right at the time of the grant and all that the Government did was to transfer to him their right of land-revenue, the Pensions Act will be a bar. It is true that where the kudivaram had vested in the family and the Government conferred the melvaram right later on, it is unlikely that the two rights would have been kept separate. In the passage already quoted all that the learned Judges intended to lay down was that at the time of the suit, the Courts should apply their minds to the state of affairs which existed at the time of the grant. In the present case, as we prefaced, there is nothing to indicate that the grantees were the owners of the kudivaram right and that the grant to them was only of the land-revenue. The authorities to which we shall presently refer lay down that where there has been a grant of land, the Pensions Act is inapplicable. We have referred to Rama v. Subba (2) at some length having regard to the fact that one of the learned Judges who took part in that decision held the position of Inam Commissioner at one time. Our conclusion is that in cases of partition of the land granted as inam among members of the grantee's family the pre-requisite of filing a certificate under the Act has no application. This is supported by a large number of decided cases. Panchanada v. Nilakanada (1) lays this down in distinct terms. It has been approved and followed in Muthu Sri Jiejamba Bai Sahib v. Secretary of State for India (3) and Secretary of State for India v. Ikurti Subrayudu (5). The Bombay High Court in Ravji Narayan Mandlik v. Dadaji Bapuji (7) has taken the same view. Mannu Lal v. Fazal Imam (8) is to the same effect.

(6) 26 M. 339.

(7) 1 B. 523.

(8) 10 Ind. Cas. 353; 8 A. L. J. 692; 33 A. 580.

Following these decisions we must hold that the Courts below are right in deciding that their jurisdiction was not ousted by the Pensions Act. We dismiss the second appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

PUNJAB CHIEF COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 157 OF 1912.

October 13, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chevis.

KIRPA RAM—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

KIRPA RAM—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Claim by one proprietor against another for establishing occupancy-rights—When decree of Civil Court cannot be registered in Revenue Court—Return of plaint—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), ss. 77, 100.

A suit by one of the proprietary body against another for declaring that the former is the occupancy tenant of land belonging to the latter, falls under section 77 (3) (a) and is consequently triable only by a Revenue Court.

When a suit of this nature has been decided by a Munsif having no revenue powers his decree cannot be registered as that of a Revenue Court by the Chief Court. The ordinary course in such a case is to return the plaint for presenting it to a competent Revenue Court.

Ramjas v. Ralla, 1 Ind. Cas. 465; 25 P. R. 1909; 39 P. W. R. 1909; 70 P. L. R. 1909, referred to.

Second appeal from the decree of the Divisional Judge, Hoshiarpur Division, dated the 10th November 1911, affirming that of the Munsif, 1st Class, Una, dated the 31st August 1911, decreeing the claim.

Bakhshi Tek Chand, for the Appellant.

Mr. Sundar Das, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The plaintiff in this case pleads that he and defendant No. 31 are occupancy tenants of the land in suit, and seeks a declaration of his rights as occupancy tenant.

I am at a loss to understand how the lower Courts have entertained the case, for it appears to me clear that the cognizance of the Civil Courts is barred by section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, this being a suit by a tenant to establish his claim to occupancy rights. The fact that plaintiff is also one of the landlords of the joint Khata of which the land in suit forms a part, makes no difference whatever: this suit is brought by plaintiff in his capacity of tenant of the land which is in his possession, and he is clearly seeking to establish his claim to occcupancy rights which has been denied. It is quite incorrect to say (as has been urged before me) that plaintiff is objecting to partition, for reference to the plaint will show clearly that he has no objection to the partition of the proprietary rights, and only wants his possession of the land in suit to be preserved on the ground that he and defendants are occupancy tenants. The case, in my opinion, falls under section 77 (3) (d) of the Tenancy Act, and is triable only by a Revenue Court.

The Court of first instance was that of a Munsif who has no powers at all on the revenue side. I do not think that I should order the decree of that Court to be registered as the decree of a Collector of the first grade, for if such a course is improper in the case of a suit being tried by an officer whose powers on the revenue side are too low (vide Ramjas v. Ralla (1)], it would seem to be still more improper in the case of a suit being tried by an officer who has no powers at all on the revenue side. I accept this appeal, and set aside all the proceedings and direct the plaint to be returned by this Court to the plaintiff for presentation, if so advised, in a Revenue Court of competent jurisdiction.

I leave the parties to bear their own costs in all Civil Courts, for if defendants had raised the question of jurisdiction in the first Court, it is quite possible that that Court would have returned the plaint.

Appeal accepted.

(1) 1 Ind. Cas. 465; 25 P. R. 1909; 39 P. W. R. 1909; 70 P. L. R. 1909.

SUBRAMANIA CHETTY v. KULAYAPPAN.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL REVISION PETITION No. 664 OF 1913.

August 12, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Hannay.

SUBRAMANIA CHETTY—PETITIONER

versus

KULAYAPPAN alias MALAYANDI CHETTY AND OTHERS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXXIII, rr. 5, 6, 7—Pauperism inquiry—Jurisdiction of Court to decide questions other than paupersim—Plea of limitation, Court's power to decide.

After a notice is issued, under rule 6, Order XXXIII, of the Code of Civil Procedure the Court, in an inquiry under Order XXXIII, rule 7, is not divested of its jurisdiction to decide whether the applicant has a good cause of action on the merits, and can, therefore, decide questions of limitation arising on the facts alleged in the application.

An application for leave to sue as a pauper presented five years after attaining majority, is clearly barred and the suit cannot be maintained.

Petition, under section 115 of Act V of 1908, praying the High Court to revise the order of the Court of the District Munsif of Udamalpet, in Original Petition No. 721 of 1912, dated 21st July 1913.

FACTS.—The petitioner filed an application before the District Munsif of Udamalpet for leave to sue in forma pauperis. The cause of action seems to have arisen during the minority of the petitioner and he, in consequence, claimed the benefit of section 6 of the Indian Limitation Act. It, however, appeared from the pleadings that he had attained majority five years before suit. The District Munsif held an inquiry, not only as regards the pauperism of the applicant, but also as to whether the suit itself was barred by limitation. He held that the applicant was really a pauper and unable to pay the Court-fee, but found that the cause of action had become barred and dismissed the petition. Against this order a civil revision petition was filed in the High Court.

Mr. B. Narasimha Row, for Mr. T. M. Krishnaswami Iyer, for the Petitioner:—The District Munsif had acted wholly without jurisdiction in going into the merits of the case. He ought to have confined the inquiry to the pauperism of the petitioner and ought not to have considered the point of limitation. He, having found that the petitioner was really unable to pay the Court-fee, ought to have allowed the application. Once notice had been issued under Order XXXIII, rule 6, the only matter which the Court was competent to inquire into was the pauperism of the applicant, though at an earlier stage before any notice was issued, the Court could reject the application on any of the grounds specified in rule 5 of Order XXXIII.

Mr. V. Purushottama Iyer, for Mr. T. R. Venkatarama Sastri (with Mr. T. R. Ramachandra Iyer), for the Respondent, was not called on.

JUDGMENT.—The District Munsif on inquiry into the petitioner's application for leave to sue as a pauper found that the petitioner had not sufficient means to pay the Court-fee in the suit, but rejected the application on the ground that the petitioner's claim was clearly time-barred and that he had not a bona fide case to put forward.

It is contended that the District Munsif had no jurisdiction to inquire into the question of limitation in the inquiry as to pauperism and that the District Munsif having found the petitioner to be a pauper, the application should have been allowed.

The Court may reject an application for permission to sue as a pauper for any of the grounds specified in Order XXXIII, rule 5, of the Code of Civil Procedure before issue of notice to the opposite party under rule 6. When notice is issued under the latter rule, the evidence to be adduced is evidence in proof or disproof of pauperism. It is urged that by the terms of rule 6 the Court could not go into evidence upon any other matter than that of pauperism after notice had gone to the opposite party. I do not think this view is correct. Order XXXIII, rule 7 (1), of the Code of Civil Procedure provides for recording evidence generally and rule 7 (2) requires the Court to hear any argument which the parties may desire to offer on the question whether, on the face of the application and of the evidence, if any, taken by the Court as therein provided, the applicant is or is not subject to any of the prohibitions specified in rule 5. One of the points for consideration under rule 5 is whether the petitioner's allegations do not show a cause of action. And it has been held with reference to section 407 of the last Code (corresponding to Order XXXIII, rule 5, of the present Code) that the petitioner should show that he has a good subsisting cause of action capable of enforcement in Court and not barred by the law of limitation or any other law. The alteration in wording in the present Code (where the words "show a cause of action" have been substituted for the words "show a right to sue in such Courts" occurring in section 407 of the previous Code) does not affect the applicability of those decisions to the present Order and rule. I think, therefore, that the lower Court had power to inquire into a question of limitation affecting the petitioner's cause of action for the suit and for that purpose was entitled to record evidence.

As regards the finding that the petitioner's claim is barred by limitation, I see no reason to differ from the conclusion of the lower Court that the petitioner sued five years after attaining majority and that his claim is, therefore, barred by limitation. The cause of action given by the petitioners is the date of attaining his majority, and his own statement shows that that occurred about five years before the petition for leave to sue as a pauper was filed.

The petition is dismissed with costs.

Petition dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 994 OF 1913.

July 11, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Tudball.

BALDEO PRASAD AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

THE COLLECTOR OF PILIBHIT—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

U. P. Court of Wards Act (III of 1899), s. 48 – Notice to sue—Amendment of plaint—No change in cause of action, whether fresh notice required.

In a suit against a ward of a Court an amendment of the plaint should not be allowed if the effect of the amendment is to introdue a new "cause of action" which was not stated in the notice provided by section 48 to be given to the Collector but where it is sufficiently stated the amendment should be allowed and a fresh notice under the section is not necessary.

The object of section 48 of the Court of Wards Act is to give the Collector time to consider the nature of claim against the ward in order that the manager might investigate the matter and, if necessary, meet the claim without incurring needless cost.

Second appeal from the decision of the District Judge of Bareilly.

Mr. Kailas Nath Katju, for the Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, for the Appellants.

Mr. A. E. Ryves, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—This appeal arises out of a suit in which the plaintiffs claimed to recover the sum of Rs. 1,990-2-0. As originally framed, this sum was said to be the amount of a promissory note, dated the 20th of November 1909, together with interest thereon. The maker of the promissory note was one Pokhar Singh. The Collector of Pilibhit was sued as manager of the estate of Pokhar Singh in charge of the Court of Wards. The defence was that the promissory note was made after the estate had been taken over by the Court of Wards. On this defence being raised, the plaintiffs applied for an amendment of their plaint so as to enable them to fall back on a previous promissory note, dated the 15th of November 1907. The Court of first instance allowed the amendment and decreed the plaintiffs' suit. The amendment as made was, to say the least of it, inartistic.

The defendant objected to the amendment and in his memorandum of appeal, a ground was taken that the amendment ought not to have been allowed. The lower Appellate Court considered that the amendment ought not to have been allowed and dismissed the plaintiffs' suit. Hence the appeal.

Before the institution of the suit the plaintiffs served a notice on the Court of Wards in order to comply with the provisions of section 48 of the Court of Wards Act, which provides that "no suit relating to the person or property of any ward shall be instituted until after the expiration of two months after notice in writing has been delivered, stating the name and place of abode, the cause of action, and the relief which he claims." The form that the notice took was a copy of the intended plaint. In our opinion if the amendment which was made by the Court of first instance is allowed to stand, the plaintiffs' claim cannot be dismissed on the ground that the provisions of section 48 were not complied with. The notice required by section 48 was in fact served as provided by the section, and the suit is the same suit notwithstanding that a substantial change has been made as the result of the amendment.

BALDEO PRASAD v. COLLECTOR OF PILIBHIT.

The defendant, however, contends that the amendment ought never to have been allowed and that he was entitled in the lower Appellate Court to challenge the propriety of the amendment under the provisions of section 105 of the Code of Civil Procedure. There is one reason, and one reason only, why the amendment should not have been made subject, of course, to such terms as the Court should think just. The reason would be that the amendment allowed the introduction of a new cause of action, and the defendant was entitled under section 48 of the Court of Wards Act to a two-monthly notice in writing before a suit on foot of the new cause of action was instituted [See McInerny v. Secretary of State for India (1)].

Two questions arise, first, whether the amendment ought to have been allowed, and secondly, whether the notice which the plaintiffs delivered was a sufficient notice of the suit as set forth in the amended plaint. We think that if the effect of the amendment was to introduce a new "cause of action" which was not stated in the notice, then the amendment should not have been allowed because the defendant would not have received the two months' notice to which he was entitled under the provisions of section 48. If, on the other hand, the cause of action as set forth in the amended plaint was sufficiently stated in the notice which the plaintiffs served, then we think that the amendment was properly allowed.

We now proceed to deal with the case upon the principle which we have mentioned above. We have already stated that the notice which the plaintiffs delivered consisted of a copy of their plaint before the amendment. In this plaint the name and abode of the intending plaintiffs were set forth. So was the relief which they claimed. In paragraph 2 the following statement was made: "for a long time there were money dealings between the shop of the plaintiffs and Kunwar Pokhar Singh. Accordingly on the 20th of November 1909, the said Pokhar Singh, having adjusted his accounts under a former promissory note executed on the 15th November 1907, executed the promissory note sued on." Now suppose that the plaintiffs, after having delivered to the defendant a copy of this plaint as a compliance with section 48 of the Court of Wards Act and suppose that prior to the filing of the plaint, had come to the conclusion that they could not succeed on the basis of the promissory note of the 20th of November 1909 and that they themselves had altered their plaint by alleging that they sued on the note of the 15th of November 1907, using the note of the 20th November 1909 as an acknowledgment. Supposing further that after the filing of their plaint the defendant had pleaded that section 48 of the Court of Wards Act had not been complied with on the ground that the "cause of action" had not been stated as provided by section 48. On the assumptions which we have made, would such a defence have succeeded? If it would, then we think the amendment ought not to have been allowed and that the plaintiffs' suit was rightly dismissed by the lower Appellate Court.

But, on the other hand, it is necessary to see whether or not the plaint which the plaintiffs delivered as a notice under section 48 sufficiently states the "cause of action" as set forth in the amended plaint.

The expression "cause of action" has been defined to be every fact which it would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove, if traversed, to support his right to the judgment of this Court. In paragraph 2 of the unamended plaint the plaintiff set forth that there had been for a long time money dealings, that the account had been adjusted and a former promissory note given, and that on the 20th of November 1909 another promissory note had been given. Bearing in mind that the object of section 48 was to give the Collector time to consider the nature of claim against the ward in order that the manager might investigate the matter and if necessary meet the claim without incurring needless costs, we find it impossible to hold that the "notice" delivered by the plaintiff in the present case was not a sufficient statement of the "cause of action" as set forth in the amended plaint. It gave all the information necessary to enable the Collector to investigate the claim and two promissory notes are practically all the plaintiff need have proved. If we are correct in this then the amendment was properly made and the plaintiff's suit ought not to have been dismissed on the ground that the amendment was improper. It is clear that the plaintiff is not entitled to interest upon the entire amount of the second promissory-note. This document can now only be used as an acknowledgment of the previous debt. We have gone into the account and we find that the sum which the plaintiff is entitled to is the sum of Rs. 1,810, for principal and interest up to the date of the suit. From the date of the suit until payment he will get 6 per cent. simple interest on this amount. Inasmuch as in all probability all the litigation was caused by the plaintiff's in the first instance entering into a contract with Pokhar Singh after the estate had been taken over and bearing in mind also that in order to sustain the suit it was necessary that the plaint should be amended, we think that the parties should pay their own costs in all Courts. We accordingly grant the plaintiff a decree for the sum of Rs. 1,810, principal and interest, up to the date of the suit. From the date of the institution of the suit until payment he will receive interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum on the sum of Rs. 1,810, until payment.

(1) 13 Ind. Cas. 370; 38 C. 797.

Appeal decreed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

APPEAL AGAINST ORDER NO. 225 OF 1910.

August 12, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Napier.

KATHIRESAN CHETTIAR—PETTITIONER—APPELLANT

versus

RAMASAWMY CHETTIAR AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS NOS. 1 and 2—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXI, r. 90—"Whose interests are affected by the sale", meaning of—Attachment before judgment, effect of.

The words "interests" in rule 90, Order XXI, must be limited to the properties the subject of the application.

Where the applicant, a mere money decree-holder, relies merely upon an attachment before judgment of property other than that sold and applies for an order to set aside the sale, it cannot be said that he has such a present "interest" in the property sold as to entitle him to make the application under that rule.

Jogendra Nath Chatterjee v. Manmotha Nath Ghose, 15 Ind. Cas. 668; 16C.L.J. 565; 17 C.W.N. 80, followed.

Appeal against the order of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Madura East, in Execution Application No. 22 of 1910 (Original Suit No. 64 of 1909) on the file of the District Court of Madura.

Mr. T. Rangaramanujachariar, for the Appellant.

Mr. S. Varadachariar, for Mr. S. Gopalasawmy Aiyangar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

NAPIER, J.—This is an appeal arising out of an execution application in the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Madura (East) under Order XXI, rule 90, of the Civil Procedure Code, in Original Suit No. 64 of 1909. The decree-holder in another suit, Original Suit No. 167 of 1908, had attached certain properties of the defendants and brought them to sale. The sale was held and the purchase-money paid and received by the Court. Fourteen days after this payment, the petitioner herein presented an application for execution of the decree, which he had obtained some time previously, by the attachment and sale of the properties above referred to with an application to set aside that sale and a further application for rateable distribution in the assets already realized by the sale. The Subordinate Judge dismissed his application for rateable distribution, on the ground that he was not entitled to it not having applied to the Court for execution of his decree before the receipt of the assets by the Court, and for the same reason dismissed his application to set aside the sale. This appeal is from that order.

In this Court the appellant does not ask for rateable distribution of the realized assets, as he wishes the sale to be set aside on the ground of fraud. He does not claim to be a "person entitled to share in a rateable distribution of the assets," but he contends that he is a person "whose interests are affected by the sale" and is, therefore, entitled to apply. These words are newly inserted in the Civil Procedure Code of 1908 and are also to be found in rule 72 of the order. The language could certainly be read as wide enough to include a person in the appellant's position if taken by itself, and it is no answer that these words were inserted to set at rest doubts existing on the language of the old Code as to the meaning of the words "whose immoveable property has been sold." It may be that the Legislature intended by these words to describe persons claiming in the judgment-debtor's interest and it may also be that this is the true construction of the rule, but it cannot be so held for the mere reason that these wider words were substituted for the very narrow words in the previous Code, what we have to look to being the words themselves and not the intentions of the Legislature. It is sufficient, however, for the purpose of this case to decide, as we do, that the applicant is not a person "whose interests are affected by the sale" within the meaning of the rule. This conclusion can be arrived at by two methods. The first is that adopted in Jogendra Nath Chatterjee v. Manmotha Nath Ghose (1). There the Court held that the word "interests" must be limited to the property, the subject of the application and that, as the subject-matter of the sale sought to be set aside was the immoveable property sold, the interests that must have been affected by the sale must have reference to the same property. Taking that view the Court held that the applicant had no present interest in the property an attachment before judgment not giving him such interest. We agree that it is a necessary limitation of the word "interests" to confine it to the property concerned, as any other construction would open up an inquiry as to whether the applicant's pecuniary interests required satisfaction out of the property sold or whether there was other property available to him. It would further be difficult to draw a line between a decree-holder and a person claiming to be a creditor and if a creditor was a person whose interests were affected, it would necessitate the trial of his suit in the execution proceedings, a procedure which could never have been contemplated. There is another process leading to the same result, which is this: The rule specifically gives power to apply to a person "entitled to share in a rateable distribution of the assets." These words are added in the present Code, the old Code providing simply for the decree-holder. The words, therefore, extend the right to a person other than a party to the suit or his representative, but confine it to a certain narrow class of persons. If a person of the class of the applicant, namely, another decree-holder not entitled to share is to be considered as covered by the relative words "whose interests are affected by the sale," we have this extraordinary result, that the Legislature after inserting the words to extend the right and then confining it by very limited language, has nullified the effect of those words by words of wider application in the next sentence. In our opinion this is not an interpretation which can be properly put on the language of the rule were any other construction possible, and we hold that any decree-holder who has not obtained the right to share in a rateable distribution is not entitled to apply under the wider words of the succeeding sentence. This appeal, therefore, fails and is dismissed with costs.

SADASIVA AIYAR, J.—I entirely agree.

Appeal dismissed

(1) 15 Ind. Cas. 668; 16 C. L. J. 565 17 C. W. N. 80.

ABBAS BANDI BIBI v. SARJU PANDE.

COURT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE, UNITED PROVINCES.

PETITION No. 19 OF 1913-14 OF FYZABAD DISTRICT.

March 26, 1914.

Present:—Sir Duncan Colvin Baillie, S. M.

Musammat ABBAS BANDI BIBI AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

SARJU PANDE—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Ejectment, notice of—Co-sharers, several, in one tenancy—Patwari's papers, entry in, showing one co-sharer's name only—Notice against one co-sharer alone, whether valid.

Where besides the person whose name is recorded in the Patwari's papers, there are several other co-sharers in the tenancy as tenants-in-chief, a notice of ejectment must be issued against all the co-sharers, so that in a suit to contest that notice all of them may appear before the Court as parties and the questions raised in the suit be properly decided.

Appeal from the decree of the Commissioner, Fyzabad, dated 10th October 1913, upholding that of the Assistant Collector, Fyzabad.

Chowdhry Niammat Ullah, for the Appellants.

Babu Har Gobind Das, for the Respondent.

FACTS.—The defendants-landlords issued a notice of ejectment against the plaintiff whose name alone was recorded as tenant-in-chief in the Patwari's papers. The plaintiff brought a suit against the defendants to contest the notice of ejectment on several grounds, one of them being that besides the plaintiff there were several other persons as well who were co-sharers in the tenancy as tenants-in-chief.

The Court of first instance found that there were several other co-sharers with the plaintiff and the notice issued against one co-sharer alone was invalid. The Commissioner on appeal upheld the decision of the first Court, and the matter was further brought in appeal to the Board.

JUDGMENT.—I entirely agree with the Commissioner and the Court of first instance. It appears that besides the respondent there are several other persons who are co-sharers in this tenancy as tenants-in-chief. The questions raised cannot possibly be decided until they are made parties. I find no ground for interference and dismiss the appeal with costs on the appellants.

Appeal dismissed.

DAMBAR SINGH v. MURARI LAL.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 1684 OF 1913.

July 16, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chamier.

DAMBAR SINGH—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

MURARI LAL AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXI, r. 88 – Pre-emption—Co-sharer—Vendee, whether complete stranger.

The object of Order XXI, rule 88, is to enable a co-sharer in a mahal to keep out strangers. It provides for only one class of pre-emptors and lays down one simple rule, namely, that any one who is a co-sharer of the undivided property of which a share is sold, is entitled to pre-empt that share when the highest bid is made by a person who is not a co-sharer. Hence no pre-emption suit could be maintained as against the vendee who was a co-sharer in a different patti but in the same mahal.

Second appeal from the decision of the Subordinate Judge of Budaun.

Mr. B. E. O'Conor (with him Mr. Nehal Chand), for the Appellant.

The Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—A share in a patti was put up for sale in execution of a decree passed by a Civil Court. The defendants were the highest bidders and the property was about to be knocked down to them, when the plaintiff bid the same sum for it and claimed to be entitled to take the property as a co-sharer within the meaning of Order XXI, rule 88. His claim was rejected and he then brought the present suit. Having failed in both the Courts below he has filed this second appeal. Several questions were discussed by the Courts below, but in the view which I take of the case the only question for decision is whether he is entitled to the property under Order XXI, rule 88.

The tenure of the village is pattidari. The plaintiff has a share in the same patti as that in which the share sold lies. The defendants have a share in a different patti in the same mahal. The village was recently the subject of an imperfect partition. The different pattis are jointly responsible for the revenue assessed on the whole mahal. The plaintiff contends that as each patti bears a separate revenue, he and the holder of the share sold were co-sharers in undivided immoveable property within the meaning of Order XXI, rule 88, and the defendants are not co-sharers. This question arose but was not decided in Abdul Ghafoor v. Ghulam Husain(1). In my opinion the plaintiff's claim should be rejected. If the highest bidder had been a complete stranger to the village, there can, I think, be no doubt that defendants would have been co-sharers within the meaning of Order XXI, rule 88, and entitled to take the property if they bid the same sum as the stranger. The words "undivided immoveable property" must have the same meaning whether the highest bidder holds a share in the village or is a complete stranger. The object of the rule is, I think, to enable co-sharers in a mahal to keep out strangers, if they so desire. We are all familiar with the kind of Wajib-ul-arz which gives the preference to co-sharers of the whole mahal against strangers and gives the preference to co-sharers of the same sub-division of the mahal against co-sharers of the whole mahal and such provisions are to be found in the Acts relating to pre-emption in the Punjab and Oudh. But it is, I think, impossible to read all this into Order XXI, rule 88, which appears to me to provide for only one class of pre-emptors, and to lay down one simple rule, namely, that any one who is a co-sharer of the undivided property of which a share is sold, is entitled to pre-empt that share when the highest bid is made by a person who is not a co-sharer. Inasmuch as every part of each patti in the mahal now in question is responsible for the revenue assessed on the whole mahal, I am of opinion that the whole mahal is undivided property for the purposes of the rule. The appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 18 Ind. Cas. 959; 35 A. 296; 11 A. L. J. 297.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 2607 OF 1912.

July 13, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL OF TIRUPATI BY THE CHAIRMAN AT TIRUPATI—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

Sree Mahant PRAYAG DOSSJEE VARU—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Madras District Municipalities Act (IV of 1884), s. 53, Sch. A, cl. (3)—"Money-lender," meaning of—Occasional money-lender—Public purposes—Capacity of "owner and occupier."

The term "money-lender" as used in section 53 of the District Municipalities Act, read with Schedule A, clause(3) of the Act, implies a continuous and systematic lending almost amounting to a trade or business.

Where, therefore, a person casually or intermittently invests his surplus funds in mortgage or in personal security he is not to be considered a "money-lender" within the meaning of that section.

Jennings v. President Municipal Commission Madras, 11 M. 253, distinguished.

Kunmetta Chinnarappa v. Kona Thimma Reddi, 8 Ind. Cas. 677: (1911) 2 M. W. N. 111 at p. 113; 9 M. L. T 55; 21 M. L. J. 559, followed.

Where a person has a dual capacity of the trustee of a temple and the head of a Mutt, and in the former capacity occupies a building owned by him in the latter capacity, he is still an "occupier" for refund of money paid by him in that capacity.

Where the suit is simply to recover a tax illegally levied no declaration as to future rights and liabilities should be given.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of North Arcot, in Appeal Suit No. 97 of 1912, preferred against that of the Court of the District Munsif of Tirupati, in Original Suit No. 3 of 1911.

FACTS.– Suit was by the Mahant of Tirupati, as the Vicharanakarta of the Tirupati temple, for a declaration that he was not liable to pay certain taxes and to recover from the Municipal Council of Tirupati certain taxes which had been illegally collected from him. It would appear that the defendant Municipality assessed the Mahant with tax for being a money-lender and for keeping horses and vehicles. The plaintiff contended that he was not a systematic money-lender but only used occasionally to invest his surplus cash on personal security or in mortgage of immoveables and as such was not a money-lender within the meaning of the Act. As regards the horses and vehicles, he contended that they were exempt from tax as they were used for public purposes. The defendant Council contended that the Mahant was a money-lender, that as some of the horses kept by the Mahant were used by pilgrims they were liable to be taxed and that the suit itself was not maintainable, as the plaintiff was the owner of the buildings in respect of which the tax had been paid and which he was bound to pay. The lower Courts decreed the plaintiff's claim. The defendant Council thereupon appealed to the High Court.

Mr. L. A. Venkataraghava Aiyar, for the Appellant:—Lending out moneys even occasionally is following the calling of a money-lender. Jennings v. President, Municipal Commission, Madras (1). The building used for stabling Devastanam horses and vehicles is not exempt from liability to pay tax as some only of the horses and vehicles are used for temple processions and the rest are used by pilgrims. Such a use is not for a public purpose. The plaintiff being the owner of the buildings is not entitled to a refund of the tax.

Mr. K. Srinivasa Iyengar, for the Respondent:—Mere occasional lending does not make a person a 'money-lender' within the meaning of the Madras District Municipalities Act. There must be a systematic and continuous lending so as to amount to a trade or business. Kunmetta Chinnarappa v. Kona Thimma Reddi (2). The District Judge has found that there was no such systematic lending. The mere fact that some of the horses and vehicles are used by respectable pilgrims does not make the user any the less a user for a public purpose, as such pilgrims are allowed the use only as an honour by the Vicharanakarta. To constitute a public use it is not necessary that the use must be by persons belonging indiscriminately to all castes and creeds. The Vicharanakarta has a discretion in such matters. The plaintiff having paid the tax from the Devastanam funds and as occupier of the buildings and he having sued for its recovery as the trustee and occupier, is clearly entitled to recover.

JUDGMENT.—The first question for decision in this second appeal is whether the plaintiff (the Tirupati Mahant) is liable to be taxed under section 53 of the District Municipalities Act, read with Schedule A, clause (3), as a "person who exercises" the "calling" of a "money-lender." The learned Vakil, Mr. Venkataraghava Aiyar, who appears for the appellant, the Tirupati Municipality argues that lending out moneys even occasionally is following a "calling" and that that "calling" is the "calling" of a money-lender. He relies for this contention on certain observations in Jennings v. President, Municipal Commission, Madras (1). That case was decided on the interpretation of section 103 of the City of Madras Municipal Act of 1884, read with Schedule A of that Act. The whole arrangement of the classes of persons liable to pay Municipal taxes in Schedule A of the City of Madras Municipal Act of 1884 is different from the arrangement of the classes of persons made liable in Schedule A of the District Municipalities Act. The term "money-lender" does not occur in Schedule A of the City of Madras Municipal Act, whereas it occurs specifically in the District Municipalities Act. The case in Jennings v. President, Municipal Commission, Madras (1) only decided that a 'Benefit Society' was a person carrying on a calling (that is the calling or business of a Benefit Society) when it invested funds for profit. That case did not decide that such a Benefit Society carried on the calling or profession of a "money-lender." The word "money-lender" is not expressly defined in the District Municipalities Act, but we do not think that any person who casually or intermittently invests his surplus funds in mortgage or in personal security must necessarily be considered to follow the calling of a money-lender. As indicated in the case of Kunmetta Chinnarappa v. Kona Timma Reddi (2), "the money-lending transactions" must be so "numerous, continuous and systematic" that it might appropriately be called the "trade or business of money-lending." The facts found in the present case do not prove the transactions of loan entered into by plaintiff's predecessors to have been so continuous, numerous and systematic, and the learned District Judge was right in his conclusion that the plaintiff is not liable to be taxed as coming under the class of "money-lender" mentioned in Schedule A of the District Municipalities Act.

The next question is whether the building used for stabling the Devastanam coaches and horses is entitled to be exempted as used for a public purpose, the finding being that some of the horses are used to carry drums in the temple processions and others are used by respectable pilgrims to whom such an honour is shown by the Mahant. We think that such uses are uses for public purposes, notwithstanding that the persons who make such use of the vehicles and horses do not belong indiscriminately to all castes and creeds, and that a discretion is vested in the temple Vicharanakarta as to the members of the general public to whom such use is permitted of the said vehicles and horses.

(1) 11 M. 253.

(2) 8 Ind. Cas. 677; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 111 at p. 113; 9 M. L. T. 55; 21 M. L. J. 559.

Then it is contended that the plaintiff suing as the Temple Trustee is not entitled to recover the tax levied on the stable building which belongs to him in a different capacity, that is, as head of a Mutt to which the building belongs. But the facts show that plaintiff paid the tax as occupier and not as owner of the building. As he occupied the building by stabling the Devastanam horses and carriages there and paid the tax out of the Devastanam funds and not the Muttam funds, he was entitled to sue for the refund in his capacity as occupier, that is, in his capacity as Temple Trustee.

Lastly it is contended that the declaration granted to plaintiff (besides the refund of the illegally collected tax) is worded too widely and that this is not a case in which, in the discretion of the Court, any declaratory relief need be given. We agree with the contention and we direct that the declaration as to the future rights and liabilities of the parties be omitted from the decree.

With this small modification the lower Court's decree is confirmed with costs on the appellant.

Decree modified.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL No. 24 OF 1912.

August 11, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Kanhaiya Lal, A. J. C., and Mr. Kendall, A. J. C.

Thakur SURAJ BAKHSH, alias MAHARAJ BAKHSH, MINOR THROUGH HIS NEXT FRIEND, Thakur JAGDEO BAKHSH —PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

Thakurain CHHAB KUAR—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Statement made by party or his Pleader—Admissibility in evidence—Estoppel—Wajib-ul-arz, construction and value of—Proof of custom—Custom recorded in Wajib-ul-arz at variance with Mitakshara Law, weight of—Court, duty of.

The statements regarding a certain point made in a previous case by a party or his Pleader are admissible in evidence to prove or disprove that point again arising in a subsequent case and can be relied upon by the Court in considering that point. But the party or the person claiming through him in the subsequent case is at liberty to prove that the admissions appearing in those statements were mistaken or untrue, and is not estopped or concluded by them unless some other person has been induced by them to alter his condition.

Chandra Kunwar v. Chaudhri Narpat Singh, 29 A. 184 (P. C.); 4 A. L. J. 102; 11 C. W. N. 321; 5 C. L. J. 115; 17 M. L. J. 102; 2 M. L. T. 109; 9 Bom. L. R. 267, referred to.

A Wajib-ul-arz is properly admissible to prove a custom set out therein; and suits on the basis of custom may be decreed on entries in a Wajib-ul-arz alone. But where it appears that the entries connote the views of individuals as to the practice which they wish to see prevailing rather than the ascertained fact of a well-established custom, the wajib-ul-arz is of little value.

Lekraj Kuar v. Mahpal Singh, 5 C. 744 (P. C.); 6 C. L. R. 593; 7 I. A. 63; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 93; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 704; Rafique and Jackson's (P. C.) No. 61; 4 Ind. Jur. 423; Anant Singh v. Durga Singh, 32 A. 363; 6 Ind. Cas. 787; 14 C. W. N. 770; 7 A. L. J. 704; 12 C. L. J. 36; 13 O. C. 163; 37 I. A. 191; 12 Bom. L. R. 79; 20 M. L. J. 604; Muhammad Imam Ali Khan v. Husain Khan, 26 C. 81 (P. C.); 25 I. A. 161; 2 C. W. N. 737; Parbati Kunwar v. Chandarpal Kunwar, 4 Ind. Cas. 25; 10 C. L. J. 216; 6 A. L. J. 767; 13 C. W. N. 1073; 11 Bom. L. R. 890; 12 O. C. 304; 5 M. L. T. 427; 19 M. L. J. 605; 36 I. A. 125 (P. C.); 31 A. 457; Uman Parshad v. Gandharp Singh, 15 C. 20 (P. C.); 14 I. A. 127; 11 Ind. Jur. 474; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 71; Rafique and Jackson's (P. C.) No. 98 and Bajrang Singh v. Daulat Singh, 7 O. C. 134 at p. 135, referred to.

When a custom is startlingly at variance with the Mitakshara Law among Hindus following that law, a Court is entitled to look for substantial corroborations.

Appeal against the order of the Subordinate Judge, Sitapur, dated 22nd December 1911.

The Hon'ble Rai Sri Ram Bahadur, for the Appellant.

Babus Basudev Lal and Chhote Lal, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—Bisram Singh who owned zemindari property in villages Bhima, Surjanpur, Sair, Korta, Parwarbhari, Mowaiya, Samaia and Hararmau, died childless in 1901, leaving two widows, Musammat Lagan Kuar, the senior, and Musammat Chhab Kuar, the junior widow. Mutation was effected in the name of both the widows. Musammat Lagan Kuar died in November 1907 and mutation was then effected on 22nd April 1908 in favour of Musammat Chhab Kuar, the surviving widow. The plaintiff-appellant, Thakur Suraj Bakhsh Singh alias Maharaj Bakhsh, brought this present suit against Musammat Chhab Kuar on the allegation that during his life-time Thakur Bisram Singh had given to Musammat Lagan Kuar authority to adopt, and that according to the custom of the family also a widow had power of transfer and of adoption without any formal permission or authority from her husband. He alleged that accordingly Musammat Lagan Kuar adopted him on the 7th June 1907, with the usual religious ceremonies, and executed and caused to be registered a deed of adoption in his favour on that same date. He pleaded further that she executed a Will in respect of all her property in favour of him and of her brother, who is also named Suraj Bakhsh. One week later, he pleaded, owing to the defendant having put obstacles in the way of his taking possession, a serious riot took place as a result of which the plaintiff's real father and some servants were convicted in December 1907. He dated his cause of action from the 22nd April 1908 when mutation of names was effected in favour of the defendant. He, therefore, prayed for possession as owner of the entire property. As an alternative he prayed that, if his adoption were not deemed to be proved, a decree for possession of a half share should be passed in his favour on the basis of the Will, which was also dated the 7th June 1907. As a second alternative he prayed that, if adoption were deemed to be proved but that he were found not entitled to possession in the life-time of the defendant, a declaratory decree might be passed to the effect that he will be owner of the property after the defendant's death.

The defendant in reply denied the factum of adoption or that any Will had been made; she denied that any permission to adopt had been given by Bisram Singh, and denied the existence of any custom allowing a widow either to adopt or to transfer the family property, in which she had, she (defendant) alleged, only a life-interest.

The lower Court has entirely dismissed the plaintiff's claim. It found that Bisram Singh did not give permission to Musammat Lagan Kuar to adopt a son to him. It found that no family custom existed entitling her to adopt a son without his permission, or giving her power to transfer the share she was holding as a Hindu widow. Finding as above, it proceeded to record that no finding was necessary on the issues as to whether Musammat Lagan Kuar did or did not adopt the plaintiff and did or did not execute the Will; but it noted that if it were necessary to consider these issues it would have held them in the affirmative.

The plaintiff has brought his present appeal on the ground that permission to adopt the son is proved to have been given to Musammat Lagan Kuar by Bisram Singh and that the lower Court has improperly discredited the evidence on this point. It is also pleaded that on the evidence the lower Court should have held that Musammat Lagan Kuar had power to adopt a son without her husband's permission. It is also vaguely claimed that the lower Court ought to have given the alternative relief asked for by the plaintiff. This latter ground, however, was expressly not argued in this Court.

The two points which arise for our decision are (1), did Bisram Singh give Musammat Lagan Kuar authority to adopt? and (2) if not, had she, by family custom, power to do so without such authority? On both these points we unhesitatingly find against the plaintiff.

The reasons which the lower Court has given for disbelieving the oral evidence on the first point are cogent and convincing.

Evidence was led in a former suit on behalf of Musammat Lagan Kuar to prove that on the morning he died, Bisram Singh gave authority to his wife to adopt a son to him. Some of those same witnesses have been produced in this present case. We have no doubt that the lower Court is quite correct where it says: "My conclusion is that this case of the husband's authority to adopt was not thought much of at that time and, therefore, the witnesses were not tutored sufficiently on this point. It was enough that they made some mention of it in that case. Now that this point has been urged with some earnestness, the necessity of some changed statements has arisen." It transpired that Bisram Singh died under suspicious circumstances, having suddenly been taken ill and having lain unconscious for a few hours before his death; and it is admitted that his body was ordered to be taken into headquarters for post mortem examination for this reason. That being so, it must have become evident to the persons responsible for the prosecution of the present suit that it was hopeless to set up the case which they set up on the former occasion, that on the date Bisram Singh died he had of his own accord said to certain persons that his wife should adopt some one to perpetuate his name. It has been sought to prove now that some days before his death Bisram Singh stated that he had given permission to his senior widow to adopt a son to him from some of the boys of the Dikoli family. The instance has been put back two or three days and a specification has been introduced as to the family from which adoption was to be made. Several witnesses now pretend that they were summoned from Sair by Auseri Pasi, Sair being about one mile distant from Bhima, some time before Bisram's death and at the time when Bisram was about to marry Musammat Chhab Kuar it is pretended that Musammat Lagan Kuar was not consenting to the marriage by her husband of a second wife, and that Bisram Singh, therefore, called them, though they were persons of a different caste, in order that they might bring their influence to bear upon Musammat Lagan Kuar to persuade her to remove her objections. According to them Musammat Lagan Kuar stated that she objected to a second marriage because she would not be treated with as much consideration as at present. Upon this, according to the witnesses, Bisram Singh replied: "you will remain malik; and if I have a son by my second wife that will be called your son; and if that son died, you have power under the Wajib-ul-arz of Bhima to adopt a son, and you may adopt a son."

These are explanations which Bisram Singh, if Musammat Lagan Kuar had been objecting, would have given to her in the privacy of his own zenana; yet it is pretended that the moment he made this statement Lagan Kuar at once said, "very well, marry again." As to the fear of Musammat Lagan Kuar as to her future treatment, it is in evidence that Bisram Singh was not living with Musammat Lagan Kuar, but kept a low class woman in the house.

It is further to be noted that in September 1907, three months, that is to say, after the deed of adoption is said to have been executed, Musammat Chhab Kuar brought a suit in the Civil Court for a declaration that Musammat Lagan Kuar had no authority to adopt or to make a Will. That suit was dismissed not, however, on the merits, but on the ground that at the time no cause of action existed. In that case Musammat Lagan Kuar and the plaintiff by his guardian ad litem had raised the same pleas as are raised for the plaintiff in this case, namely, that she had received permission to adopt and that she had by family custom authority to do so even without such permission. The learned Pleader who appeared for the defendants in that case, admitted on the 18th of February 1908 that the Will executed by Musammat Lagan Kuar in favour of Suraj Bakhsh, her brother, was invalid as far as it purported to be in his favour, that he relied on the deed of adoption alone and that if the adoption failed he had no case. He further stated on the same date (apparently the learned Subordinate Judge did not consider the above statement sufficient) that Musammat Lagan Kuar was competent to adopt under the Wajib-ul-arz and the custom of the family, that Bisram's family and the family that owned Dikoli and Surjanpur were descended from the same common stock and that he did not rely on any permission of the husband to his widow to adopt. The above statements were made formally on behalf of Musammat Lagan Kuar and the present plaintiff as defendants in that suit admittedly by a Pleader who was engaged on their behalf. The lower Court has, and we consider rightly, placed certain reliance on these statements in considering the first of the two points which are now before us. It is objected in the grounds of appeal that these statements are inadmissible in evidence now; but this we cannot accept. It is also proved that in the case of Thakur Kalka Bakhsh Singh v. Musammat Lagan Kuar, Musammat Lagan Kuar on the 9th November 1907 stated that she had adopted this boy, but that neither had the boy come into her hands, nor had she given him any property, that she had adopted the boy to herself and not to her husband and that she had not obtained any permission from her husband to adopt, because at the time of his death she was not present. Musammat Lagan Kuar, or the plaintiff who claims through her, is certainly at liberty to prove that these admissions were mistaken, or were untrue, and is not estopped or concluded by them unless some other person has been induced by them to alter his condition. The above principle was cited and followed by their Lordships of the Privy Council in the ruling reported as Chandra Kunwar v. Chaudhri Narpat Singh (1), which follows a number of English precedents and which are all based on the dictum that what a person himself says to be true, or authorizes any person to say to be true, may reasonably be supposed to be so. Nothing, however, has been proved or even suggested in this case which can explain away these admissions: and we have no doubt that the lower Court was right, considering them along with the very imperfect evidence on the point, in finding that it was not proved that the husband gave any permission to Musammat Lagan Kuar to adopt a son to him.

The second point for consideration is whether by family custom Musammat Lagan Kuar as a widow had any power to adopt a son. The plaintiff has produced copies of six Wajib-ul-araiz of villages in which members of this tribe have shares, while the defendant has produced the Wajib-ul-araiz of Dikoli and Surjanpur which are also admittedly owned by members of this tribe. In the Wajib-ul-araiz of villages Surjanpur, Exhibit 4, Sair, Exhibit 5, Korla, Exhibit 6, Parwarbhari, Exhibit 7 and Samaia, Exhibit 8, it is set out in paragraph 4 that as for that portion of these villages which belongs to the Raja of Mahmudabad section 22 of Act I of 1869 applies, and for the others the custom set out in the Wajib-ul-arz of Mauza Bhima applies. The Wajib-ul-arz of Mauza Bhima on which the plaintiff particularly relies, has a record to the following effect:—"That daughters and their issue do not inherit, that in the absence of sons, widows inherit and that they have in such a case a power of transfer"; and further on it reads "that a custom of adopting a child from another Thakur family with whom the adoptor can sit at meals is recognised, and a widow too, without reference to any express desire of her husband, has power to adopt." Now it is to be noticed that in all these cases the co-sharers, who are recorded as stating the custom which is set out in the Wajib-ul-arz, are widows only: Musammats Soubha and Ram Kuar, wives of Bakhtawar Singh Thakur. Now it has been repeatedly held that a Wajib-ul-arz is properly admissible to prove a custom which is set out therein; and in some case suits on the basis of custom have been decreed on entries in the Wajib-ul-arz alone. Such a case was that of Lekraj Kuar v. Mahpal Singh (2). In that case the law has been carefully discussed under which such Wajib-ul-ariaz are legally admissible in evidence. But it has been repeatedly recognised that no class of evidence is more likely to vary in value than that of a Wajib-ul-arz. Their Lordships of the Privy Council in Anant Singh v. Durga Singh (3) expressly discounted the value which was to be attached to a Wajib-ul-arz, where it seemed probable that the entries recorded connoted the views of individuals as to the practice which they wish to see prevailing rather than the ascertained fact of a well-established custom; and in this ruling they referred with approval to two somewhat earlier rulings of the same Board reported as Muhammad Imam Ali Khan v. Husain Khan (4) and Parbati Kunwar v. Chandarpal Kunwar (5). A Wajib-ul-arz of this nature came before them in Uman Parshad v. Gandharp Singh (6) as long ago as 1887. Having remarked in this latter case that the Wajib-ul-arz has always been considered to be an official record of more or less weight according to the circumstances or the local custom of the District in which it is recorded, they go on to say that "this Wajib-ul-arz was the concoction of Fateh

(1) 29 A. 184 (P. C.); 4 A. L. J. 102; 11 C. W. N. 321; 5 C. L. J. 115; 17 M. L. J. 103; 2 M. L. T. 109; 9 Bom. L. R. 267.

(2) 5 C. 744 (P. C.); 6 C. L. R. 593; 7 I. A. 63; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 93; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 704; Rafique and Jackson's (P. C.) No. 61; 4 Ind. Jur. 423.

(3) 6 Ind. Cas. 787; 14 C. W. N. 770; 7 A. L. J. 704; 12 C. L. J. 36; 13 O. C. 163; 37 I. A. 191; 12 Bom. L. R. 79; 20 M. L. J. 604; 32 A. 363 (P. C.).

(4) 26 C. 81 (P. C.); 25 I. A. 161; 2 C. W. N. 737.

(5) 4 Ind. Cas. 25; 31 A. 457 (P. C.); 10 C. L. J. 216; 6 A. L. J. 767; 13 C. W. N. 1073; 11 Bom. L. R. 890; 12 O. C. 304; 5 M. L. T. 427; 19 M. L. J. 605; 36 I. A. 125.

(6) 15 C. 20 (P. C.); 14 I. A. 127; 11 Ind. Jur. 474; 5 Sar. P. C. J. 71; Rafique and Jackson's (P.C.) No. 98

Kuar herself received by the Settlement Officer as an expression of her views; but they are not entered as her views; they are entered as the official record of a custom. This does not only render these records useless but they are worse than useless, they are absolutely misleading, because they are evidence concocted by one party in his own interest." It will be better, remembering the above principle, to consider the Wajib-ul-arz on which the plaintiff has relied, together with those two which have been filed for the defendant, Exhibits A 2 and A1. In these two Wajib-ul-araiz customs are set out in one by Umrao Singh Lambardar and other co-sharers, male and female, and in the other by Kalka Bakhsh Singh and Umrao Singh Lambardars and other co-sharers, male and female. In both these it is set out that widows, if they succeed, will have no right of transfer and that no custom prevails either of haq jethansi or of adoption. It is perfectly clear, when we consider the principles which have been laid down as above by their Lordships of the Privy Council with reference to the construction of these Wajib-ul-araiz, that great value must be attached to Wajib-ul-araiz in which the co-sharers had met together and agreed upon the existence of custom by which they were all equally affected, or which were of general interest, or which imported rights and liabilities to which all would equally be subject. As observed by Chamier, A. J. C., in Bajrang Singh v. Daulat Singh (7): "The paragraph of the Wajib-ul-arz which dealt with customs regarding inheritance and succession was as a rule prepared upon information supplied by the proprietors of the Mouzah. The extent to which the accuracy of such information was tested depended largely upon the energy of the Settlement Officials. In a large number of instances in other districts if not in Fyzabad district also the information so acquired was I believe accepted as correct and recorded without further inquiry." An entry in a Wajib-ul-arz, e.g., made at the instance of women alone, that widows have a complete right of transfer or a power of adoption without previous authority would thus be of little value. Such Wajib-ul-arz as the latter will be open at once to the suspicion of being merely opinions recorded of what the co-sharers at the time thought better for themselves and will be open to the criticism which is so strongly expressed in the case of Uman Parshad v. Gandharp Singh (6) to which reference has been made above. And again where a Wajib-ul-arz sets out a custom, which is startlingly at variance with the Mitakshara Law among Hindus who follow that law, a Court will be entitled to look for substantial corroboration. For the above reasons we can attach but little value to these Wajib-ul-araiz on which the plaintiff bases his claim; particularly so when it is considered that entries to the contrary are to be found in the two Wajib-ul-araiz referring admittedly (see Musammat Lagan Kuar's Pleader's statement referred to above) to the same tribe to which Musammat Lagan Kuar belonged, where persons recording that statement were not only females, but comprised lambardars and a number of male and female co-parceners. No evidence worth the name of any instance in which this so-called custom was followed is on record.

For the above reasons we dismiss this appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(7) 7 O. C. 134 at p. 135.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL No. 124 OF 1912.

July 30, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Parlett and Mr. Justice Twomey.

Captain ABDUL RAHMAN KHAN LAUDIE, BY HIS AGENT, FAZAL RAHMAN KHAN—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

MA KYE—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Muhammadan Law—Khula divorce—Agent—Benami transaction—Source of purchase-money—Principle of "advancement"—Father purchasing property in son's name, whether gift—Presumption.

A Khula divorce is a divorce where the wife alone is [illegible] of having the marriage dissolved and in such a [illegible] the wife may reserve an option to revoke it.

Once a transaction is found to be benami, it becomes a question of evidence as to who is the real purchaser. The mere fact of one man posing at the time of purchase as agent for the benamidar is not conclusive proof that the purchase-money belonged entirely to the benamidar. The English principle of advancement is not applicable in this country.

When a Mussalman father purchases property in the name of his son, no presumption arises in India that a gift of the property was intended to be made to the son.

Where the plaintiff has never been in actual possession of the lands and has exercised no control over them, though they were bought in his name, the best criterion is to consider from what source the purchase-money came.

Gopeekrist Gosain v. Gungapersaud Gosain, 6 M. I. A. 53; 4 W. R. 46 (P. C.); 1 Sar. P. C. J. 493; 19 Eng. Rep. 20, followed.

Mr. Villa, for the Appellant.

Mr. May Oung, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The plaintiff-appellant, Abdul Rahman Khan Laudie, is a Captain in the I. M. S., now employed as a Civil Surgeon in the Punjab. He is the son of Karim Khan, who was for many years a Hospital Assistant on the Burma Railways and who died at Kyebwe in the Toungoo District in 1907.

Karim Khan at the time of his death was possessed of 14 holdings of paddy land. The defendant-respondent, Ma Kye, a Burmese woman who claims to have been Karim Khan's wife, is now in possession and the plaintiff sues her for the lands, alleging that they belong absolutely to him and that his father Karim Khan held them for him as his agent. He also contends that Ma Kye was not his father's legal wife or if she was his wife, that they were divorced in 1898. He alleges that he began a business of paddy trading and money-lending with his father about 1894 when he was a schoolboy of 17. His father was then receiving a salary of about Rs. 75 a month and had some private practice. In 1897 after passing the F. A. Examination the plaintiff went to England to study medicine. After that he took no part in the paddy trading and money-lending business, but he alleges that it was carried on by his father as his agent. It was out of the proceeds of this business that the heavy expenses of his medical training in England were defrayed and the lands in suit were bought by his father. The plaintiff states that he at first gave a power-of-attorney in 1896 to Ma Kye, but subsequently when he heard that Ma Kye and his father had quarrelled and separated he revoked it and sent his father a power-of-attorney from Edinburgh. After his father's death he came to Burma and obtained all the title-deeds of the lands from Ma Kye. He then appointed his brother Fazal Rahman Khan as his agent. Then followed a period of disputed possession. Ma Kye claimed that the lands belonged to her and let them out to tenants, while Fazal Rahman claimed the right to let the lands and receive the rents as his brother's agent. The District Magistrate at length took action under the Code of Criminal Procedure in 1911 and declared that Ma Kye was in lawful possession and that she should not be disturbed except by order of the Civil Court. Hence this suit by Captain Abdul Rahman Khan Laudie for possession of the lands in question.

These lands were bought in the last ten years of Karim Khan's life and were all bought in the name of his son Abdul Rahman Khan, the plaintiff. In the three of title-deeds filed by the plaintiff, Abdul Rahman is mentioned as the actual purchaser. In one, Exhibit A, Ma Kye is shown as the purchaser as agent for Abdul Rahman. But the unattested interlineations on this document render it extremely doubtful whether Ma Kye took any part in the conveyance or knew that she was being described in it as the agent of Abdul Rahman. In another, Exhibit E, Fazal Rahman is the purchaser as agent for Abdul Rahman. But Fazal Rahman states that he was merely a sub-agent of his father, Karim Khan. In the remainder of the title-deeds Karim Khan is the purchaser as agent for Abdul Rahman.

It appears that most if not all of the lands stood in the maps and the registers of the Revenue Department in Abdul Rahman's name at the time of Karim's death. But we note that the Revenue Surveyor, Tun Baw (D. W. No. 7), states that three of the holdings were still in the names of the original sellers at that time and the Revenue Surveyor at Ma Kye's request changed the lands to Ma Kye's name on the original sellers saying that she was the purchaser.

The defendant Ma Kye's case is that the money-lending and paddy trading business was hers alone. She was married to Karim Khan according to Mussalman rites when she was a young girl and lived with him up to the time of his death in 1907, a period of over 27 years. He lent her Rs. 1,000 to start business on her own account. It was out of the proceeds of this business that the various lands were bought and she, moreover, gave about Rs. 20,000 for Abdul Rahman's education in Toungoo and Rangoon and afterwards in England. She has four children by Karim Khan still surviving. She denies that Abdul Rahman ever took any part in the trading business. He was fully engaged with his studies for various examinations up to the time he went to England to qualify as a doctor. She denies that she ever received a power-of-attorney from him or acted as his agent. She is entirely illiterate and allowed her husband to arrange the various conveyances of the lands. She was ignorant of his action in putting the land in his son's name. She was in possession of the lands up to the time of her husband's death, letting them out to tenants and receiving the rents. But all the accounts were kept by her husband. She denies that they were ever divorced.

Much light is thrown on the case by a previous suit of 1899 in which Ma Kye sued Karim Khan for the cancellation of a document which she said she had been forced to execute. This document recited that she was appointed agent of Abdul Rahman in 1896 and that Abdul Rahman revoked the appointment in 1898, and by it she purported to resign all her rights "to all effects and chattels of what kind soever, real or personal, in which my name may appear as mortgagee, payee or claimant in law or in equity." She said in that case that Karim Khan told her to make over all her property, consisting of mortgaged lands and paddy, to his son and that when she refused he beat her. Karim Khan in that case said: "I trusted my wife and let her trade in her own name."

After hearing evidence the District Judge decided in September 1899 that Ma Kye had been coerced into signing the document of release and ordered its cancellation. Karim Khan did not appeal against the decision. In the plaint in that case Ma Kye stated that she had acquired property to the value of Rs. 13,642, consisting mostly of money lent out, and she furnished a list of the debtors. We find that several of the persons who afterwards conveyed the lands now in suit to Abdul Rahman or to Karim Khan as his agent are among the debtors in Ma Kye's schedule of 1899 and it appears from the evidence in the present suit, that they made over their lands in satisfaction of debts for which the lands had been given as security.

Among the exhibits in the suit of 1899 was a document purporting to be a copy of the power-of-attorney to Ma Kye in 1896, and it has an endorsement from which it would appear that it was put in by Ma Kye's Advocate in a still earlier suit in 1898 brought by her against some person unspecified. This endorsement is greatly relied on by the plaintiff as showing that Ma Kye was consciously acting as an agent in the year 1898. But we agree with the District Judge that this document should be excluded altogether from consideration. The original was filed in the suit of 1899 by the defendant, Karim Khan, and was presumably withdrawn when the case was finished. No reason is given for not producing the original in the present case, and though the copy is marked as a "True Copy" no explanation appears of the confusion of dates in the endorsement as noted by the District Judge. Besides, it would be necessary before deciding that Ma Kye acted consciously as the plaintiff's agent in 1896 to have the proceedings of the suit of 1898 put in evidence, and this has not been done. It may well be that the suit of 1898 was conducted for her by her husband Karim Khan and that the power-of-attorney was given by him to the Advocate for the plaintiff in the suit. In the suit of 1899 Karim Khan admitted that Ma Kye was his wife, but said he had divorced her for misconduct. This appears inconsistent with his next statement which is that "it was a khula divorce and she demanded the divorce." A khula divorce according to the text-books is a divorce where the wife alone is desirous of having the marriage dissolved, and it appears that in such a divorce the wife may reserve an option to revoke it. (Paragraphs 162 and 173, Principles of Muhammadan Law, Tyabji.) My Kye said that they had separated six months before. But the evidence in the present case shows that they resumed marital relations after the suit of 1899 was decided and lived together amicably up to the time of Karim Khan's death. Ma Kye became fully aware in 1898 of Karim Khan's design to oust her from the property and it is no doubt remarkable that when she re-united with him after the suit was decided, she took no steps to safe guard her interests. But it is possible, as the District Judge suggests, that having frustrated his scheme of 1898 she thought it unnecessary to do anything more. She had publicly asserted her rights in Court and may well have thought they were fully assured. As she was illiterate, it was easy enough for Karim Khan to keep her in ignorance of the actual terms of the various conveyances he arranged from time to time.

We agree with the District Judge in thinking it highly improbable that the plaintiff took part in the money-lending and paddy trading business. He was too young and too engrossed in his studies to have time for anything else before he went to Europe. He had no money to put into business, but on the contrary wanted as much as he could get for his education. Karim Khan had nothing but his pay and the small receipts from his private practice. The trading business was started with money borrowed from a Chetty. The greater part of the work fell to Ma Kye, but Karim Khan kept the accounts and gave such help as he could consistent with his medical duties on the Railway line. There can be no doubt that the business thus started was very successful and that it provided the funds required for the plaintiff's education as well as the money with which the various lands in suit were purchased.

Though Karim Khan was ostensibly acting merely as his son's agent, it is not shown that he was an agent except in the name. He rendered no accounts to his son, who did not presume to interfere with the management of the property until after Karim Khan's death. The evidence shows clearly that Ma Kye took an active part in the management and that she at one time worked some of the lands herself. The title-deeds remained with Karim Khan and Ma Kye until after the former's death when Ma Kye handed them over to Abdul Rahman. She says that she handed them over because Abdul Rahman and his brother assured her that "they would be straight over the matter," which may be cited as another example of Ma Kye's unsuspicious nature. Even the plaintiff does not allege that she made over the documents by way of admitting that the lands belonged to him and not to her.

The learned Judge found that the plaintiff failed to prove his title to the lands, as he could not show that they were bought with his money and on his behalf.

In our opinion this decision is right. The lands were bought by Karim Khan in the plaintiff's name but it is clear that the purchase-money was provided by Karim Khan himself or by Karim Khan and Ma Kye jointly. In a case of this nature where the plaintiff has never been in actual possession of the lands and has exercised no control over them though they were bought in his name, the best criterion is to consider from what source the money comes with which the purchase-money is paid [Cf. Gopeekrist Gosain v. Gungapersaud Gosain (1)]. In this case there can be no question but that all the money was provided from the paddy anw money-lending business which was carried on by Ma Kye and Karim Khan and in which the plaintiff had no part.

Karim Khan had a double motive for putting the lands in his son's name. In the first place, he was a Government servant and was not allowed to trade and, in the second place, his conduct in 1898 towards Ma Kye shows that he was ready to take advantage of her illiteracy and deprive her of all share in the proceeds of her industry.

It has been argued that as Ma Kye was not present at the execution of the actual conveyances (except indeed the highly suspicious document, Exhibit A, which purports to treat her as Abdul Rahman's agent), he cannot benefit under them, that if the transactions were benami it should be held at any rate that Karim Khan who actually effected the purchases, provided the whole of the moneys and, that by putting the lands in his son's name he manifested his intention of making a gift of them to his son for his son's "advancement."

But once the transactions are found to be benami it becomes a question of evidence as to who was the real purchaser. The mere fact that Karim Khan posed at the time of purchase as agent for the benamidar is not conclusive proof that the purchase-money belonged entirely to Karim Khan. Moreover, the English principle of advancement is not applicable in this country [see Gopeekrist Gosain v. Gungapersaud Gosain (1) already cited], and it would clearly be inequitable to apply it in favour of the plaintiff who is only one of six or more children of Karim Khan and who has already been raised to a position of affluence by means of funds derived from his father. We note also that there is ample authority for the proposition that "When a Mussalman father purchases property in the name of his son, no presumption arises in India, that a gift of the property was intended to be made to the son." Tyabji's Principles of Muhammadan Law, section 405. The plaintiff could succeed in this suit only by establishing the absolute title which he set up. He may be entitled to an interest in the property as one of his father's sons, but it is not necessary for us now to consider what that interest is. It is sufficient to find that he has not established the case on which he claimed to oust the respondent who is in lawful possession of the property.

(1) 6 M. I. A. 53; 4 W. R. 46 (P. C.); 1 Sar. P. C. J. 493; 19 Eng. Rep. 20.

The appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL REVISION PETITION No. 141 OF 1913.

July 21, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Oldfield.

VENKATACHALLAM PATTAR—PLAINTIFF—PETITIONER

versus

K. PARASU PATTAR AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 115, Sch. II, cl. 15—Perverse decision on facts—Erroneous admission of evidence—Perversity—High Courts Act (24 & 25 Vic. c. 104), s. 15—High Court in revision, interference by.

A decision which is perverse in law or facts can be set aside in revision.

A decision is perverse where it is a conscious deviation from some rule of law or procedure.

The test of perversity will be applicable also, when the error is of fact and the decision has been reached in defiance of facts which have been recognised by the lower Court as established or must be presumed to have been so, or when the decision is based on or involves material assumptions or inferences which there is nothing in fact or probability to support.

The decision of an arbitrator, who in the admission of evidence commits errors which do not materially affect his decision, cannot be said to be "perverse" and should not be set aside under section 115 of the Code.

Nagaraja Pillai v. Vythinatha Iyer, 9 Ind. Cas. 672; 21 M. L. J. 484; 9 M. L. T. 273; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 369; Amir Hassan Khan v. Sheo Bakhsh Singh, 11 C. 6 (P. C.); 11 I. A. 237; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 559; Rafique and Jackson's (P. C.) No. 83; Kali Charan Sirdar v. Sarat Chunder Chowdhry, 30 C. 397; 7 C. W. N. 545; Kristamma Naidu v. Chapa Naidu, 17 M. 410 (F. B.), followed.

Petition, under section 115 of Act V of 1908, praying the High Court to revise the order of the Subordinate Judge of South Malabar at Palghat, in Miscellaneous Petitions Nos. 1581 and 1586 of 1912, in Original Suit No. 23 of 1909.

Messrs. J. L. Rosario and A. Sundaram, for the Petitioner.

Messrs. T. R. Ramachandra Aiyar, A. Narayana Sarma and T. R. Narayana Ayyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The Court is asked by petitioner, the plaintiff, to exercise its powers of revision by setting aside an order under section 15, Schedule II, Civil Procedure Code. The petition is presented under section 115 (c), Civil Procedure Code, and section 15 of the Charter Act. Nagaraja Pillai v. Vythinatha Iyer (1) has been cited with regard to the latter; but I do not think that the reference to the Act extends the Court's powers in any material way in the present case. No doubt the occurrence of mere errors of fact or law in an order cannot justify interference with it. Amir Hassan Khan v. Sheo Bakhsh Singh (2) and Kali Charan Sirdar v. Sarat Chunder Chowdhry (3). But as was held in Kristamma Naidu v. Chapa Naidu (4), the case contemplated is that of a perverse decision on law or procedure, a decision being perverse where it is a conscious deviation from some rule of law or procedure. And I conceive that the test of perversity will be appliceble also, when the error is of fact and the decision has been reached in defiance of facts which have been recognised by the lower Court as established or must be presumed to have been so, or when the decision is based on or involves material assumptions or inferences which

(1) 9 Ind. Cas. 672; 21 M. L. J. 484; 9 M. L. T. 273; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 369.

(2) 11 C. 6 (P. C.); 11 I. A. 237; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 559; Rafique and Jackson's (P. C.) No. 83.

(3) 30 C. 397; 7 C. W. N. 545.

(4) 17 M. 410 (F. B.).

there is nothing in fact or probability to support.

The first objection taken to the order is one of law, that the parties having agreed in Exhibit A to a particular distribution of the properties in dispute, the award should have been accepted so far as it is in accordance with that agreement. Here there is no question of perversity. For the lower Court's action in rejecting the award as a whole was perfectly correct, since the agreement in Exhibit A was clearly conditional on a valid award being made.

Of the conclusions on which the lower Court based its order, two at least seem to me unassailable in revision and to afford sufficient justification for its decision. Firstly, it held that the arbitrator was guilty of misconduct in acting on Exhibit E series, abstracts of accounts, as though they had been produced by and bound respondents, when they were really produced by some person in plaintiff's interest, probably one Tharavanar, after the date of Exhibit B when the filing of documents closed. The arbitrator's evidence makes it clear that he did in fact proceed on Exhibit E series without any sufficient independent verification of items, and the lower Court was entitled to assume that he did so under the impression stated in his evidence, that the respondents filed them. The reasons it gave for holding this untrue and for its other conclusions mentioned above are largely based on inference and probability. But they cannot be treated as perverse on that account. Secondly, there is a finding that Exhibit JJ was produced by petitioner after the date of Exhibit B and that its acceptance by the arbitrator amounted to misconduct. No doubt the argument for an earlier date, based here on Exhibit C, is strong. But it is not alleged that this argument was put forward in the lower Court; and, if it was not, the date of the Court-fee label and the other facts referred to in the order afforded a legitimate basis for the conclusion reached.

It is argued that the lower Court's treatment of these portions of the case cannot be considered fairly apart from the remainder of its order and the disposition to decide against the petitioner in any event evinced therein. It is true that elsewhere in its order it was guilty of inconsequence and of failure to apply the law as it stated it, which would have justified criticism and might even have been described as perverse, if other grounds for a decision had not been available. But the two findings I have specified, especially that regarding Exhibit JJ., rest mainly on independent reasoning, in which the acceptance of other more objectionable portions of the judgment is not involved. My conclusion is, therefore, that they must stand. It is not disputed that they justify the order made.

The petition is, therefore, dismissed with costs.

Petition dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 767 OF 1913.

July 7, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Piggott.

CHATTAR SINGH AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

NAND KISHORE—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 106—Landlord and tenant—Lease—Tenancy from year to year and for fixed period—Holding over—Determination of tenancy—Notice—Breach of condition—Acceptance of rent—Waiver.

Where a lease is forfeited for an act done in contravention of the terms of the lease, an acceptance of rent subsequent to forfeiture would amount to waiver.

Where a tenancy is from year to year and for a fixed term and the tenant holds over after the expiration of the term, the tenancy would still continue to retain the character of an yearly tenancy and would determine by a six months' notice terminating with the year of tenancy.

Second appeal from a decision of the Additional Judge of Agra, modifiying that of the Munsif of Agra.

Messrs. D. R. Sawhny and S. K. Dar, for the Appellant.

Mr. S. N. Mushran (for the Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru), for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—This is a simple case. The plaintiffs are the owners of certain land, in respect of which they entered into a contract of tenancy with the defendant in the year 1897. The contract was for nine years certain, and at a yearly rent. On July the 9th, 1912, ANGAD DAS v. GHASITI.

the plaintiffs served the defendant with a month's notice to quit, and on his failure to comply brought the present suit. The plaintiffs have fallen between two stools, because they were not quite clear in their own minds whether they were suing for ejectment after forfeiture of the lease for breach of express conditions, or whether they were suing in virtue of their intrinsic right as lessors to get rid of a tenant with whom they were no longer satisfied.

The question of the alleged forfeiture has been considered by the Courts below and I agree with them that the plaintiffs were not entitled to eject on the ground of forfeiture. Apparently some buildings had been constructed on the land in suit in contravention of the terms of the lease, but the forfeiture has been waived by a subsequent acceptance of rent. There is no reason to suppose that rent was accepted in ignorance of what the tenant had been doing. Nor can I accede to the contention that the plaintiffs are entitled, without obtaining the ejectment of the defendant, to obtain an order for the removal of the constructions complained of. Their remedy is to get rid of the defendant. The important point argued before me is that the possession of the defendant from the year 1906 onward has been that of a tenant holding on after the expiration of the term of his lease. It is contended that the nature of the tenancy would then be determined by section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act, and that under the circumstances of this particular case the defendant would become a lessee holding from month to month and the contract of lease would be terminable on 15 days' notice expiring with the end of a month of the tenancy. I think this contention is not fairly open to the plaintiffs. They expressly described the defendant as holding on from year to year under the terms of the original contract of lease, after the period prescribed by that lease had expired. I hold that the tenancy is a tenancy from year to year and is terminable only by six months' notice expiring with the end of a year of the tenancy. This remedy is still open to the plaintiffs; but the present suit has been misconceived and brought upon an inadequate cause of action. This appeal must, therefore, fail and is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL No. 11 OF 1914.

April 6, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Stuart, A. J. C.

Baba ANGAD DAS AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

Musammat GHASITI AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 92—Public charities, suit in respect of—Relief against strangers not contemplated—Trespasser, whether to be made defendant—Possession, recovery of, suit for.

A relief against strangers for recovery of possession of property in their hands cannot be granted under the provisions of section 92, Civil Procedure Code; and the names of such strangers-defendants ought to be struck off the record.

Imami v. Mohammad Yusaf, 10 Ind. Cas. 712; 14 O. C. 65, referred to.

Appeal against the order of the District Judge, Lucknow, dated 15th December 1913.

Babu Lachman Parshad Varma, for the Appellants.

Shaikh Farzand Ali, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—In this case Angad Das and others having obtained permission from the Legal Remembrancer in accordance with the provisions of section 92, Act V of 1908, instituted a suit against Baba Gyan Das and others in which they asked that Baba Gyan Das should be removed from the office of the Mahant of the Sangat of Shah Ganj, Luchnow city, that Angad Das should be appointed in his place, that a certain Musammat Muni tambolin should be dispossessed from certain property alleged to belong to the sangat, that Musammat Ghasiti should be ejected from certain other property alleged to belong to the sangat, that Darogha Mir Yahia Ali should be ejected from another property alleged to belong to the sangat, and further that Baba Gyan Das should be made to deliver up the entire property of the sangat and be ordered to file accounts. The learned Judge struck the names of Musammat Ghasiti and Darogha Mir Yahia Ali off the record on the ground that the relief sought against them was not a relief that could be granted under the provisions of section 92. I agree with the learned District Judge that the relief sought against them does not fall within the provisions of that section. I am supported in this view by the decision in Imami v. Mohammad Yusuf (1). I, therefore, dismiss this appeal. The appellants will pay their own costs and those of the contesting respondents.

MOHAMMAD HUSAIN v. BASHIRAN.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 10 Ind. Cas. 712; 14 O. C. 65.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 1221 OF 1913.

July 6, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Piggott.

MOHAMMAD HUSAIN—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

BASHIRAN AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Muhammadan Law—Widow in possession of her husband's estate in lieu of dower—Transfer of such possession, how effective.

The right of a Muhammadan widow to remain in possession of her husband's estate in lieu of unpaid arrears of her dower-debt is a right of a peculiar nature and can only be transferred along with the dower-debt itself.

Ali Bakhsh v. Allahdad Khan, 6 Ind. Cas. 376; 32 A. 551; 7 A. L. J. 567; Ali Muhammad v. Aziz-ul-lah Khan, 6 A. 50; A. W. N. (1883) 204; Mahomed Ussudoollah Khan v. Ghasheea Beebee, 1 Agra H. C. R. 150, referred to.

Second appeal from the decision of the Additional Judge of Moradabad.

Mr. Agha Haidar, for the Appellant.

The Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The point raised in this appeal is a simple one. Musammat Wali-un-nissa was in possession of her late husband's estate as security for her unpaid dower-debt at the time when her husband died. She has executed a deed of gift, which purports to be a gift of the estate left by her late husband, in favour of the defendant-appellant, Mohammad Husain, who is her son. The plaintiffs-respondents are sisters of the defendant. Musammat Wali-un-nissa having died since, the plaintiffs sue to recover possession of their shares by inheritance in the estate of their late father, together with the cancellation of the transfer in favour of the defendant in so far as that transfer affects their shares. The claim has been decreed by both the Courts below.

In second appeal to this Court three points are raised by the memorandum of appeal, but the first and third of these have not been pressed. The plea on which the appeal is pressed is that the right of Musammat Wali-un-nissa to continue in possession until her dower-debt was satisfied was a transferable right, and must be presumed to have been transferred by her to the defendant. From this it is contended that, though the plaintiffs may be entitled to a declaration of the invalidity of the transfer in so far as it affects their shares, they are not entitled to possession as against Mohammad Husain, the transferee of Musammat Wali-un-nissa. The argument is based principally upon the case of Ali Bakhsh v. Allahdad Khan (1), and upon certain older cases reported in the 1st and 2nd Volumes of the Agra Law Reports, one or two of which are referred to in the judgment in Ali Bakhsh v. Allahdad Khan(1).

With regard to these Agra cases, I am content to say that they are all cases in which the widow who had made the transfer complained of was still alive. The Courts held that the husband's heirs were entitled to a decree declaring the nullity of any transfer purporting to be made by the widow while in possession in lieu of her unpaid dower-debt, but they could not recover possession of the estate itself, or of any share therein, during the life-time of the widow without first paying the balance of her dower-debt. I think this is undoubtedly the effect of the rulings in question, and I have noticed the point more particularly because of a plea which was taken in argument with regard to a certain expression used in the case of Mahomed Ussudoollah Khan v. Ghasheea Beebee (2). It was there noted that what the widow had alienated was, not her dower with its security, but the property itself and that the heirs were only entitled to recover possession by payment of the debt during her life-time or on her death. The interpretation sought to be put upon these words is that the learned Judges who decided that case intended to hold that the heirs could only recover possession on payment of the dower-debt, either to the widow during her life-time, or to the heirs of the widow after her death. It would almost seem as if some such meaning had been put on this expression by the learned Judge who delivered the judgment of the Court in Ali Bakhsh v. Allahdad Khan(1), but I do not think that there can be any real doubt as to the meaning of the context in which they occur. The learned Judges intended to say that the heirs could not in any case get possession against the widow during her life-time, without paying the arrears of the dower-debt. They went on to say that the said heirs "may be entitled" (the expression is hypothetical because they were discussing a point which was not strictly before them for decision) to recover possession during the life-time of the widow by payment of the dower-debt, or they might have a good claim to re-enter into possession without such payment on the death of the widow. However this may be, I do not think the older cases relied on by the appellant really help him.

(1) 6 Ind. Cas. 367; 7 A. L. J. 567; 32 A. 551.

(2) 1 Agra H. C. R. 150.

RAMAKRISHNA AIYAR v. CHINNA VENGAMMAL.

I should be content, moreover, to base my decision entirely upon the language used in various parts of the judgment in the case of Ali Bakhsh v. Allahdad Khan (1) by the learned Judge who delivered the judgment of the Court in that case. The whole point of the appeal is that the appellant claims to be the transferee of Musammat Wali-un-nissa's right to hold possession of the entire estate of her late husband until her dower-debt is satisfied. The answer to this plea is simply that he holds no deed transferring to him any such right. The deed in his favour is simply a transfer of the estate as such. It was pointed out in more than one case that such a deed does not operate as a transfer of whatever rights the widow may herself possess, for the simple reason that her right to possession over the property depends upon her right to the dower-debt and she must transfer this debt along with the security held by her for the said debt in order to make any effective transfer. This is pointed out in the case of Ali Bakhsh v. Allahdad Khan (1). Even in the case of Ali Muhammad Khan v. Aziz-ul-lah Khan (3), in a passage which is quoted with approval at page 574 of the ruling in Ali Bakhsh v. Allahdad Khan (1) it is pointed out that a deed which on the face of it purports to be an out-and-out transfer of a portion of her late husband's estate by a widow in possession of the same in lieu of arrears of her dower, contains on the face of it nothing to show that she had also conveyed to the vendee her right to the dower. It is sought to rest this appeal on the general principle that a person transferring certain property must be deemed to transfer whatever interests he has therein on the date of the transfer, but there seems to me to be abundant authority for the proposition that this doctrine does not cover the particluar case now under consideration. The right of a Muhammadan widow to remain in possession of her husband's estate in lieu of unpaid arrears of her dower-debt is a right of a peculiar nature, and it has been laid down that it can only be transferred along with the dower-debt itself. There has been, in my opinion, no such transfer in the present case. This appeal, therefore, fails and I dismiss it with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(3) 6 A. 50; A. W. N. (1883) 204.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 676 OF 1913.

October 9, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Oldfield and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

RAMAKRISHNA AIYAR AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

CHINNA VENGAMMAL AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 32 (5), 50—Relationship—"Conduct," meaning of.

In order to make a statement of a witness admissible in evidence under section 32 (5) of the Evidence Act it is not necessary that the special means of knowledge of the witness should be of a particular character: it is for the Court to decide whether the witness had such special means of knowledge or not.

Where the question is whether one person is related to another in any degree, the fact that according to the religious usage of the party the names of particular persons are usually recited or omitted during the performance of ceremonies, and the observance of pollution, are instances of conduct within the meaning of section 50 of the Evidence Act and are admissible in evidence.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of Trichinopoly, in Appeal Suits Nos. 370 and 387 of 1912, preferred against that of the Court of the District Munsif of Kulitalai, in Original Suit No. 103 of 1911.

Mr. A. Anantarama Aiyar, for Mr. T. V. Muthukrishna Aiyar, for the Appellants.

Mr. S. Parthasaradhi Aiyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—We cannot accept the District Judge's treatment of the evidence, mainly because he has not considered it fully with reference to sections 32 (5) and 50 of the Indian Evidence Act.

Section 32 (5) was material with reference to the evidence of the 1st plaintiff's witness and that of the 3rd plaintiff's witness regarding the 1st plaintiff's witnesses' statements to him. Section 32 (5) makes statements by persons not called admissible if (1) they were made before the beginning of the dispute and (2) they were made by a person having special means of knowledge. The first condition was apparently fulfilled here. As regards the second it is not essential that the special means of knowledge should be of any particular kind. It is for the Court to decide whether the maker of the statement can be supposed to have possessed them. The District Judge has not approached this evidence from this point of view.

Then as regards section 50, the District Judge has not referred to several pieces of evidence as to conduct. There are for instance the statement of the 3rd plaintiff's witness that he and his brother omitted names from the list recited at Shrarddas in accordance with the 1st plaintiff's instructions, and the statements by other witnesses that they observed pollution in each case consistently with the relationship alleged by the plaintiff. All this was admissible evidence under section 50 and should have been considered.

The District Judge has not referred to the evidence of the 7th plaintiff's witness, the family purohit, and has given no reason for the omission, stating however that there is no evidence in support of the plaintiff's case.

In these circumstances we must set aside the decision under appeal and remand the case to the lower Appellate Court for re-admission and re-hearing in the light of the foregoing. The costs here and in the lower Appellate Court up to date will be costs in the cause.

Appeal allowed; Suit remanded.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL NO. 92 OF 1912.

August 3, 1914.

Present:—Justice Sir Henry Hartnoll and Mr. Justice Ormond.

MA SHWE LA AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

MG KYIN AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 33, 92—Proof of fraudulent dealing with third person's property—Purchaser of equity of redemption—Representative-in-interest.

Section 92 of the Evidence Act does not prevent proof of a fraudulent dealing with a third person's property, or proof of notice that the property purporting to be absolutely conveyed in fact belonged to a third person who was not a party to the conveyance. For the purposes of section 33, Evidence Act, a purchaser of the equity of redemption is a representative-in-interest of the mortgagor.

Maung Bin v. Ma Hlaing, 3 L. B. R. 100 (F. B.), referred to.

Mr. J. R. Das, for the Appellant.

Mr. Coltman, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

ORMOND, J.—The documents Exhibits A and B purport to be deeds of sale of certain lands and are executed by the defendants in favour of U Shwe Po deceased and his wife. The plaintiffs are the widow and the legal representatives of U Shwe Po. The question in this appeal is whether the plaintiffs are entitled to the lands comprised in Exhibits A and B as owners, or whether they merely have a mortgage on those lands. The defendants' case is that, at the time of the execution of Exhibits A and B, they (the defendants) were merely mortgagees from one U Myaing, the owner, although their documents of title, Exhibits C and D, were in the form of absolute sales; that Exhibits A and B were intended merely to transfer to U Shwe Po and his wife the defendants' mortgages, and that all the parties concerned have in fact treated the transaction as such. Subsequently to the execution of Exhibits A and B the defendants have acquired the equity of redemption in these lands from U Myaing.

MA SHWE LA v. MG. KYIN.

The case came before the original side of this Court on a former occasion when it was held that the defendants were precluded under a Full Bench decision of this Court [Maung Bin v. Ma Hlaing (1)] from showing that these documents, Exhibits A and B, were not absolute conveyances. That decision was upheld in this Court on appeal; and on appeal to the Privy Council their Lordships remanded the case back to this Court for the question to be re-tried; and they directed that the rejected evidence should be heard subject to any objections that might be taken. Their Lordships refrained from expressing any opinion on the construction or application of section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act in relation to these documents; but they were of opinion that the case for the defendants disclosed a charge of fraud against the plaintiffs in relation to matters antecedent to these documents; i.e., that the plaintiffs took absolute conveyances of property from the defendants with notice, that they in fact belonged to a third person, namely, the defendants' mortgagor. Their Lordships point out that section 92 does not prevent proof of a fraudulent dealing with a third person's property or proof of notice that the property purporting to be absolutely conveyed, in fact belonged to a third person who was not a party to the conveyance. The matter has been re-tried; and the learned Judge on the original side has found (i) that, at the time when these documents, Exhibits A and B, were executed, the defendants to the knowledge of U Shwe Po and his wife were merely mortgagees, (ii) that it was intended by the parties i. e., by U Shwe Po, the defendants and U Myaing that the mortgages held by the defendants should be transferred to U Shwe Po and his wife, (iii) that it was unlikely that U Myaing knew in what form the mortgages were so transferred and that if U Shwe Po deliberately got deeds of sale executed, it was a fraud on U Myaing. And the learned Judge held that the plaintiffs are mortgagees only. The defendants now appeal.

Apparently the learned Judge found that U Shwe Po perpetrated a fraud upon U Myaing at the time of the execution of the documents, Exhibits A and B, and that U Myaing did not know the nature or contents of those documents. I do not think such finding is justified by the evidence, for Maung Kyin, the defendant, himself says :—"I transferred the land to Shwe Po with the full knowledge and consent of Shwe Myaing and at his request, because to Shwe Po he had to pay less interest. It was only a transfer from my name to U Shwe Po's name at U Myaing's request. Interest was not specified on that document. U Shwe Myaing knew that the document by which I was transferring the lands to U Shwe Po was a deed of sale", and he says that the transfer was made in the presence of U Myaing. In my opinion it would be only natural for U Myaing, who had given mortgages to Maung Kyin in the form of sales, to have the transfer of those mortgages also effected in the form of sales. The defendants' case, as I understand it, is not that U Shwe Po fraudulently caused the transaction to be effected in the form of a sale or that any fraud was intended against U Myaing at the time of the transaction; but that U Shwe Po having taken a transfer of a mortgage in the form of a sale with concurrence of U Myaing, the owner and mortgagor, and the defendants, the transferors, and U Shwe Po having treated the transaction as a mortgage, it is fraudulent now on the part of his widow and representatives to come to Court and assert that the transaction was a sale. The fraud would be subsequent to the document.

Now, inasmuch as the defendants do not allege fraud or mistake, etc., at the time of the execution of Exhibits A and B, evidence as to the fact of their not being the owners of the property at that time would be tendered in order to show that it was not intended to sell the property to U Shwe Po, and such evidence would be inadmissible under the Full Bench ruling.

And it would not be sufficient for the defendants to show that at the time of the execution of these documents they were only mortgagees; for they have since acquired the equity of redemption from their mortgagor. The doctrine enunciated in section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act would apply; and U Shwe Po would be deemed to have acquired the full proprietary interest in the property under those documents, unless the defendants are allowed to show apart from fraud, mistake etc., that it was not so intended. Mr. Coltman for the defendants contends that their Lordships of the Privy Council hold that because the defendants were not the owners at the time of the execution of Exhibits A and B, they are at liberty to show apart from fraud, mistake, etc., that a different transaction was intended than what is expressed in those documents. But their Lordships do not discuss the correctness of the Full Bench ruling; and under that ruling, if the defendants had been the owners of the property, they would have been precluded from showing, apart from fraud, mistake, etc., at the time of the execution of the documents, that a different transaction was intended. If the Privy Council judgment is to be read in this manner, different rules as to the admissibility of evidence would be applicable to a defendant who executes a conveyance, according as he had a good or bad title at the time of such conveyance.

(1) 3 L. B. R. 100 (F. B.).

According to the decisions, as they now stand, I think the defendants in this case are precluded from showing that the transaction was other than a sale.

In view, however, of the directions given by their Lordships I will deal with the first two findings of the learned Judge upon the assumption that evidence relevant to such findings was admissible. The findings are:—that when the documents Exhibits A and B were executed, the defendants, to the knowledge of U Shwe Po and his wife, were merely mortgagees, and that it was intended by all the parties concerned that the defendant's mortgages only should be transferred to U Shwe Po and his wife. Putting aside the evidence which has been admitted under section 33 of the Evidence Act and which, in my opinion, is inadmissible, I think these findings are correct. There is the defendant's evidence referred to above. His evidence also shows that it was because U Shwe Po was willing to take interest at Re. 1 per mensem from U Myaing, whereas the defendant was taking interest at the rate of Re. 1-8 per mensem, that the transfer was made, and this is corroborated by Exhibit 7, U Myaing's letter to defendant. U Myaing remained in possession of most of the property until he transferred the equity of redemption to the defendant. The amount paid by defendant (in November 1901) in respect of the land viz., Rs. 20,065-12, is said to be less than its then value, and the amount paid by U Shwe Po in February and March 1902, viz., Rs. 16,120. was still less, and there is no evidence that there was any fall in the value of land during these three months. Defendant says that Rs. 3,500 had been paid off by U Myaing.

U Shwe Po's two letters to defendant, Exhibits 8 and 9. and defendant's letter to U Shwe Po (which does not seem to be marked as an Exhibit but is next to Exhibit 9 in the record) show, I think clearly, that both parties treated the land as U Myaing's and that U Shwe Po was merely taking over defendant's mortgages in the land when he took the two receipts Exhibits 10 and 11.

The evidence which has been admitted under section 33 of the Evidence Act are the depositions in a former suit of U Myaing (who died four or five years ago) and of his daughter Ma Pwa U, which were put in by Mr. Giles for the defendants but objected to by Mr. Das, and the deposition of U Shwe Po in the same suit, which was put in by Mr. Das for the purpose of contradicting the other two depositions. The former suit was brought by Munnee on 5th February 1904 against U Myaing, Morrison, U Shwe Po and others for specific performance of a contract made by Morrison (U Myaing's attorney and mortgagee) with Munnee for the sale of land which comprised some of the land in this suit. Defendant was not a party to that suit. U Myaing alleged that the transactions evidenced by the documents, Exhibits A, B, C and D, were in fact mortgages and U Shwe Po alleged that they were sales. An issue was raised as to whether they were mortgages or sales, and it was decided that they were mortgages. On appeal it was held that the contract was not binding on U Myaing and that the above issue was, therefore, superfluous. It is unnecessary, I think, to decide whether the words "questions in issue" in section 33 would include a question raised in a wholly superfluous or irrelevant issue. But it was the common case of U Shwe Po and U Myaing that U Shwe Po acquired the defendant's title as at the time of the execution of Exhibits A and B and no more; it was an issue, therefore, between the defendant's predecessor-in-title and the defendant's successor-in-title and both may equally be said to be the representatives of defendant in interest. The same question was raised in both suits viz., what was the interest in the land which defendant acquired under Exhibits C and D from U Myaing and transferred to U Shwe Po under Exhibits A and B? U Myaing in the previous suit set up the same against U Shwe Po that the defendant does in this suit; but that would not make U Myaing the defendant's representative-in-interest. The defendant, having transferred his interest to U Shwe Po, admittedly had no interest in the land at the time of the previous suit; and so far as the present suit is concerned, he has not acquired any interest in the land since. The fact that he has subsequently acquired the equity of redemption from U Myaing forms no part of the plaintiff's or defendant's case. The plaintiff rests his case upon the documents Exhibits A and B. And if the defendant is allowed to adduce evidence to show, and succeeds in showing, that those documents were intended to effect a transfer of mortgages only, section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act would not avail the plaintiff. The plaintiff brings this suit against the defendant simply because the defendant happens to be in possession of the greater portion of those lands. The issue between U Myaing and U Shwe Po in the former suit must, therefore, be taken to be an issue either between two representatives-in-interest of the defendant or an issue between persons neither of whom represented any interest of defendant. And section 33 of the Evidence Act does not apply.

Mr. Coltman for the defendant urged before us that there was evidence on the record to show that U Shwe Po subsequently, in execution of a decree against U Myaing, attached a portion of the land which had been conveyed to him under Exhibit B. This evidence is to be found in the deposition of U Shwe Po in Munnee's case in which he denies having attached land which he had already bought, but reference is made to a plot of land marked E in a plan marked P in that suit as the land attached, and Mr. Coltman refers us to the execution proceedings under which that attachment was made. Those execution proceedings were not put in evidence in that case, though they were referred to by the Judge in his notes of the evidence as Civil Regular No. 78 of 1912, Civil Execution No. 64 of 1903, and they have not been put in evidence in this case. At the hearing, the fact that U Shwe Po attached part of the land which he alleges he had previously bought, formed no part of the defendant's case. In my opinion there is no evidence of that fact even if U Shwe Po's deposition was rightly admitted in evidence. And we should not be justified at this stage to refer to these execution proceedings in order to ascertain the boundaries of the land which was attached.

My view of the case then is shortly this: The defendants do not allege any fraud on the part of U Shwe Po at the time of or antecedent to the execution of Exhibits A and B, either against U Myaing or against the defendants. That being so, the defendants are precluded by the Full Bench ruling from showing that the transaction evidenced by Exhibits A and B was a transfer of mortgages and not outright sales. And they are precluded from showing that at the time of these documents they (the defendants) were in fact only mortgagees; because such evidence would be relevant only for the purpose of showing that at the time of the execution of Exhibits A and B it was intended that the transaction should be a transfer of the defendant's mortgages. If, however, evidence is admissible for the purpose of showing what was the real transaction the facts (apart from the evidence which has been admitted under section 33 of the Evidence Act) would clearly show that the parties concerned viz., U Myaing, defendant Maung Kyin and U Shwe Po, all intended that U Shwe Po and his wife should take a transfer of the defendant's mortgages in the form of outright sales.

I would, therefore, allow this appeal and decree the plaintiff's claim for possession and mesne profits which should be ascertained in the ordinary way. The plaintiffs-appellants should have their costs in all the proceedings in this Court both on the original and appellate sides.

HARTNOLL, J.—As ordered by their Lordships of the Privy Council, evidence has now been recorded as to what happened prior to the execution of the deeds Exhibits A and B and with the same object, certain evidence taken in Civil Regular No. 4 of 1904 of this Court has been admitted under the provisions of section 33 of the Evidence Act. It has been objected that evidence of the latter class has been wrongly admitted. In that suit an issue was fixed as to whether the conveyances of the 30th November 1901 and the 4th March 1903 were merely by way of mortgage, and evidence was recorded on the point. U Myaing in that suit asserted that they were only intended to operate as mortgages, while it was U Shwe Po's and Ma Shwe La's case that they were intended to be outright sales. On appeal it was held that the issue was superfluous. Mg. Kyin was not a party to that suit. The first point is whether the earlier proceeding was between the same parties or their representatives-in-interest as the parties in the present suit. The issue was between U Myaing on the one side and Mg. Shwe Po and Ma Shwe La on the other. In this suit the same issue is raised between Mg. Kyin on the one side and Ma Shwe La and the legal representatives of Mg. Shwe Po on the other. For the purpose of section 33 of the Evidence Act should it be held that U Myaing was a representative-in-interest of Mg. Kyin in the earlier suit? U Myaing at the time of the former suit was the owner of the lands. Mg. Kyin became their owner in U Myaing's place on the 20th November 1905 as by Exhibit 6, which has been admitted in evidence, he then purchased the equity of redemption. In such circumstances, as U Myaing was his predecessor-in-title, I think it is reasonable to hold that he was his representative-in-interest for the purpose of section 33 of the Evidence Act. It was also objected that the words "questions in issue" in the third proviso to section 33 of the Evidence Act do not include superfluous issues. The words themselves do not say so, and having regard to the principle underlying section 33 I would not uphold the objection. I would hold, therefore, that the evidence admitted under the provisions of section 33 was rightly admitted.

Looking at the evidence as a whole I see no reason to differ from the conclusions, arrived at by my learned colleague who is hearing this appeal with me and by the learned Judge in the original side, that the conveyances of the 30th November 1901 and 4th March 1903 and the sale certificate Exhibit D were intended to operate as mortgages. It is unnecessary for me to go into the evidence again in detail. I would, however, mention that in Exhibit 10 the receipt given by U Kyin to Mg. Shwe Po, the pucca building and its site is stated as belonging to U Myaing. If the sale certificate was not meant to operate as a mortgage why were these words put in? I would also say that the witness Shircore's evidence seems to me to be to the effect that the properties in dispute were not worth more in his opinion than the sums entered in Exhibits C and D. The correct area of the garden land seems to be 2·57 acres and not 4 acres 1 anna. Some of the garden land seems to have been taken by the railway. He, however, says that there was no deterioration in the value of land between November 1901 and 1903 and if so, it is difficult to understand why what was bought by Mg. Kyin in November 1901 for Rs. 8,500 should have been sold by him a few months later for Rs. 5,000. The difference in the consideration between that stated in Exhibits C and B strongly supports Mg. Kyin's case. Again there is the fact that Mg. Shwe Po's representatives did not have possession of the lands except as to one parcel between about February 1902, when the transaction took place, and December 1905, when this suit was brought, and in the interim took no steps to enforce possession. It must be remembered that according to Shircore the boom began in 1904, and it may be that it was the enhancement in the price of the lands that led to this claim. The earlier suit was launched in February 1904 and Shircore says that Courts have held that the boom began in 1903. The boom may have led to the line of defence taken by Mg. Shwe Po and Ma Shwe La in the earlier suit.

As regards the contention that Mg. Shwe Po attached a portion of the land he claims to have purchased, I am unable to find this proved from his deposition and the execution proceedings in which it was attached not having been put into evidence, cannot, in my opinion, be referred on.

The next point for consideration is whether there has been proved to have been any fraudulent dealings by Mg. Shwe Po and Ma Shwe La antecedent to the execution of the conveyances of the 4th March 1903. The burden of proof lies on Mg. Kyin to prove such, and I am unable to see that he has done so. If it could be proved that without Mg. Myaing's knowledge and in order to cause him loss the conveyances were made in the form of outright sales instead of in the form of mortgages, then it might be held that a fraud was perpetrated on Mg. Myaing, but Mg. Kyin's own evidence does not support such a conclusion. His story is that conveyances were taken in the form of sales so that Mg. Myaing could not mortgage the lands to others, and that the transfers were made to Mg Shwe Po as he was satisfied with a lesser rate of interest. At page 15 of his evidence he said that U Myaing knew that the document by which he was transferring the lands to U Shwe Po was a deed of sale and he says the same thing again at page 19 of his evidence. U Myaing had agreed to the same procedure before when he transferred the lands to Mg. Kyin. Again at page 18 of his evidence U Kyin says that when he agreed with U Shwe Myaing and Shwe Po to take his money and transfer the property to U Shwe Po, the understanding was that the document was to be of the same nature as his document. It is true that at page 19 of his evidence he endeavours to make out that U Shwe Myaing did not know what form the document took, but it is clear that on a full consideration of U Kyin's evidence that Mg. Myaing agreed to the conveyance to Mg. Shwe Po being in the form of sale, and the reason seems to have been in order to prevent him mortgaging the lands to others. It cannot, therefore, be said that the conveyances were drawn as absolute sales without his concurrence and knowledge and behind his back. The only way in which it could be said that Mg. Shwe Po and Ma Shwe La had a fraudulent intention would be if it could be held to be proved that they had it in their minds at the time they took the conveyances to misuse them and to use them to support a fraudulent claim in due course. If they had a dishonest mind at the time, U Myaing and Mg. Kyin could not possibly know that they had if they kept their thoughts and intentions to themselves. Bearing in mind that the burden of proof lies on Mg. Kyin, can it be inferred from the evidence that Mg. Shwe Po and Ma Shwe La had such a wrongful intention when they took the conveyances? Mg. Kyin explains how they could have taken them without any such dishonest and concerted intention at the time. The reason was that U Myaing should not be able to mortgage the lands to others. The intention to misuse the conveyances may have come to their minds long after execution and may have been due to the boom in land that occurred. I am, therefore, unable to hold proved that there was any fraudulent intention on the part of Mg. Shwe Po and Ma Shwe La at the time of, or prior to, the execution of the conveyances, Exhibits A and B.

Therefore, according to the provisions of section 92 of the Evidence Act as interpreted by the decision of this Court in the Full Bench ruling of Maung Bin v. Ma Hlaing (1), oral evidence is not admissible to vary their contents. Their Lordships have expressly not considered as yet the correctness or otherwise of this ruling.

With regard to the claim of Mg. Kyin that redemption should not be allowed without first paying the sum due on the mortgage of the 21st May 1895, Mg. Kyin allows that when he conveyed the lands to Mg. Shwe Po and Ma Shwe La he knew of the mortgage to Morrison. It is true that in portions of his evidence U Kyin endeavours to make out that the land mortgaged to Morrison was other than that mortgaged to him, but looking at his evidence as a whole it is proved to my mind that he knew that the land mortgaged to Morrison was a portion of that mortgaged to him before his transactions with U Shwe Po. I would especially refer to pages 17 and 18 of his evidence. The principle enunciated in section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act, therefore, comes into operation.

I, therefore, concur in the order proposed by my learned colleague.

Appeal allowed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEALS NOS. 2248 TO 2254 OF 1912.

July 30, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sankaran Nair and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

Sriman Satakopa Sri PARANKUSA ZATINDRA MAHADESIKASWAMI —PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

P. SUBRAMANIA PILLAI AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 90—Presumption—Genuineness of document 30 years old—Question of law or fact —Second appeal—Zemindar, grant by—Ashtabogam and Sarvamaniam, meanings of.

Where the question is whether the grant made by a zemindar was only of land with the occupancy rights therein or of land revenue merely, the fact that in the inam grant the terms "Ashtabogam" and "Sarvamaniam" are used, merely means that there is no superior holder and that all the rights of the grantor are conveyed without reservation. Such rights as communal rights, are not conveyed by such words and rights of occupancy also can be presumed to have been excluded, if there were tenants already on the land. The grant should be construed as one of land revenue, and not of the land itself.

Sankaran Nair, J.—The presumption which the Court has to raise under section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act as to the genuineness of a document 30 years old, is one of fact and stands on the same footing as any other piece of evidence and the question being one of fact, the High Court in second appeal will not interfere with a finding given on it by the lower Court.

Tyabji, J. (dissenting)—Such a presumption is one of law and the High Court can in second appeal interfere and see if the findings of the lower Court are correct.

Shafiq-un-nissa v. Shaban Ali Khan, 26 A. 581 at p. 587; 9 C. W. N. 105; 6 Bom. L. R. 750; 7 O. C. 290; 30 I. A. 217, Imrit Chamar v. Sridhar Panday, 13 Ind. Cas. 120; 17 C. W. N. 108, 15 C. L. J. 7, followed.

Second appeals against the decrees of the District Court of Tinnevelly, in Appeal Suits Nos. 447 to 453 of 1911 respectively, presented against those of the District Munsif of Ambasamudram, in Original Suits Nos. 519 to 525 of 1910 respectively.

Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyanger (with him Mr. K. Raja Aiyar), for the Appellants.

Mr. M. D. Devadoss, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

SANKARAN NAIR, J.—The question is whether the land itself, i. e., both the melvaram and the kudivaram, constitute the inam. or only the melvaram as contended by the defendants-tenants who claim the kudivaram, the occupancy right in the land. The District Judge has upheld the defendants' contention. In second appeals it is argued that certain documents place the question of the plaintiff's right to the kudivaram beyond all reasonable doubts. Exhibit E is alleged to be the original inam grant and it is contended on behalf of the appellants that it is not open to the District Judge to hold it is a forgery after the District Munsif had accepted it as genuine under section 90 of the Evidence Act. I think the District Judge is entitled to and bound to form his conclusion and if he refuses to accept it as genuine, his finding is one of fact and stands on the same footing as any other finding on evidence on the genuineness of documents. I am also satisfied that the District Judge had good reasons for his conclusion which it is not open to us in second appeal to set aside. But even assuming it to be genuine, I am of opinion it does not support the plaintiff's contention. The grant made by the zemindar, is no doubt, of the land itself with the Ashtabogam incidents. But this form of conveyancing only implies that there is no superior holder and that all rights of the grantor are conveyed by it without any reservation. Thus it has been repeatedly pointed out that such grants do not convey communal property, temples, public paths, etc. Similarly it does not interfere with the rights of the ryots who might then be in occupation. This has been pointed out long ago, (see the report of the Tanjore Collector, page 91, papers on the mirasi right) and express reservation of the rights of the ryots is not often made; where there were no ryots on the land, for instance when it was Pannai or home farm land, the grant was of the complete ownership: so was it when the ancient Rajas, as they often did, purchased the kudivaram rights before making the grant. But in the absence of any such proof the grant by itself does not imply the conveyance of kudivaram interest.

Mr. Srinivasa Aiyanger next contends that the term "Sarvamaniam" implies that the kudivaram also is vested in him. Wilson's Glossary lends some support to this contention. But the term is also used in contradistinction to Ardhamaniam to imply that the entire Government revenue and not a share alone has been granted in inam.

That the Government assessed the inam- dar with the second crop assessment is no doubt a point in his favour, as it shows prima facie that he was treated as the owner of the kudivaram if, as contended by Mr. Srinivasa Aiyangar, the assessment was imposed on the inamdar as tenant. But this is not clear, and apart from it this is in conflict with the rest of the plaintiff's case, which is that the full interest in the land including the claim of the Government to revenue was conveyed to the inamdar.

As to the next contention that it is proved that the lands were in possession of certain ryots who were not of the plaintiff's family, it is enough to say that there is no evidence that they surrendered possession to the inamdar and there is nothing to rebut the presumption that they were not the defendants' predecessors-in-title.

The other arguments do not require any notice. The question is one of fact. It does not depend on the construction of documents which may be a question of law, but on inferences from documents. I am unable to say that the District Judge was not entitled to arrive at the conclusion he has arrived at; but as my learned brother differs, the second appeals are dismissed with costs under section 98 of the Civil Procedure Code.

TYABJI, J.—The first point taken before us is that Exhibit E having been presumed to be genuine by the District Munsif under section 90 of the Evidence Act, it was not open to the District Judge in appeal to disturb that finding. The appellant does not complain that owing to the District Munsif's presuming the genuineness of the document, evidence was not adduced that the appellant desired to adduce as to the genuineness of the document. It was argued that the question depended upon the sufficiency of the evidence tending to show that Exhibit E is genuine. For section 90 of the Evidence Act lays down that, where a document is 30 years old and it is produced from proper custody, these circumstances in themselves may be considered sufficient for proof of the genuineness and the execution of the document. It is laid down in section 90 that the Court "may presume" certain facts. It was argued that that expression permits the Court not to regard the facts as proved, and to call for further proof, that in the absence of such further proof the Court may hold that the document was "not proved." So understood the section does not preclude the Court from holding that these circumstances are insufficient in themselves to prove the said facts.

The question whether the Courts had erred in not raising the presumption was before the Privy Council in Shaliq-un-nissa v. Shaban Ali Khan (1), where both the Courts in India had refused to act on the presumption. In dealing with that question their Lordships did not proceed on the basis that it was a question of fact on which there were concurrent findings. It would, therefore, seem that their Lordships were of opinion that the question before them was one of law. The same view is supported by the decision in Imrit Chamar v. Sirdhar Panday (2).

It seems to me, therefore, that in accordance with the authorities above referred to (I express no opinion of my own on this point) we must proceed on the basis that the question whether Exhibit E should have been presumed to be genuine (on which the lower Courts have taken different views), is a question which it is incumbent on us to decide as a point of law.

If this is so, then, though I greatly regret having to express an opinion which is opposed to that of the learned District Judge and of my learned brother, I feel constrained to say that the District Munsif's view seems to me to be the correct one. I think that there were no sufficient reasons for the District Judge to have reversed the District Munsif's decision on this point, especially as the District Munsif had acted in accordance with what I believe to be the usual practice. It is usual, I believe, to act on the presumption laid down in section 90 unless there are reasons indicating that it would be unsafe or improper to do so. In this case there were documents and other circumstances strongly corroborating the presumption that Exhibit E was genuine. Exhibit E is no doubt a very important piece of evidence.

But it is not necessarily conclusive of the appeal, and I, therefore, think it necessary to deal shortly with the argument for the appellant that, even if the decision of the District Judge as to Exhibit E must stand, the decision of the District Munsif in favour of the appellant on the result of the rest of the evidence should not have been disturbed by the learned District Judge. This is a question which at first sight appears to have reference to the appreciation of evidence. But I must confess to having been convinced by the able argument on behalf of the appellant that the question depends upon the interpretation of documents and upon the inference to be drawn from facts which are found by the learned District Judge and it seems to me, therefore, that from this aspect also the case is capable of review in a Court of second appeal. On examining the basis of the learned District Judge's decision I think with great deference that he has proceeded on assumptions and views of the effect of the documentary evidence which seem to me to be erroneous. It is unnecessary to set out elaborately this argument on behalf of the appellant, as my view on these questions will not affect the order that we shall now pass. I will only state that in my view the documentary evidence points in favour of the appellant if read in the light of the Standing Orders of the Board of Revenue and the other authorities showing the practice relating to second crop assessment and to the matters which are the subject of the appeal.

(1) 26 A. 581 at p. 587 (P. C.); 9 C. W. N. 105; 6 Bom. L. R. 750; 7 O. C. 290; 30 I. A. 217.

(2) 13 Ind. 120; 17 C. W. N. 108; 15 C. L. J. 7.

If my opinion had to prevail, I would consequently allow the appeal, and restore the District Munsif's decree with costs in all Courts. As my learned brother's opinion is, however, that the appeal should be dismissed with costs, that will be the order of the Court under section 98 of the Civil Procedure Code.

Appeal dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 1110 OF 1913.

June 26, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sundar Lal.

SHAMBHU—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

CHETRAM AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

U. P. Land Revenue Act (III of 1901), ss. 110, 111, 233 (k)—Co-sharer not recorded as such, whether bound by partition proceedings—Prohibition under s. 233 (k), applicability of.

In a partition proceeding before a Revenue Court it is not necessary for a person who is not a recorded co-sharer to come forward to assert his right and to claim proprietary interest in the plots, inasmuch as it is only a recorded co-sharer to whom notice is given and who alone is competent to object to the partition.

Therefore, a co-sharer who is not a recorded co-sharer is not precluded under section 233 (k) of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, III of 1901, from setting up his title in a Civil Court.

The prohibition under section 233 (k) of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, III of 1901, refers to the case of persons who were parties to the partition proceedings, or who should have been made parties thereto, and whose claims could have been heard under sections 111 and 112 of that Act.

Second appeal from the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Meerut.

Mr. Sital Parsad Ghosh, for the Appellant.

Mr. A. H. C. Hamilton, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—This is a suit to obtain a declaration that certain plots of land (Nos. 1042 and 1044) were the property of the plaintiffs. It appears that the defendants alleging that the plaintiffs were their tenants, brought a suit for ejectment in the Revenue Court. The present plaintiffs in answer to that suit pleaded that they were proprietors and under section 202 of the Tenancy Act the then defendants were directed to establish their right in the Civil Court by a regular suit. Hence the present suit by the plaintiffs. It may be noted that originally the plaint covered a claim to plots other than 1042 and 1044 also, but by a subsequent amendment to avoid the plea of misjoinder, the claim was limited to these two plots, and both parties are agreed that whatever declarations are to be made in this case may be limited to those plots and that the decree of the Court below which erroneously included other plots should be amended accordingly.

In the present suit the defendants in the Revenue Court now claim a declaration of their right to these plots. Both the Courts below have found that their title has been fully made out and have granted them a decree. In appeal, however, the point pressed for consideration is that the matter is barred under section 233 (k) of Act III of 1901, SHAMBHU v. CHETRAM.

It appears that the names of the plaintiffs were recorded as tenants only of plots Nos. 1042 and 1044. One Mohan Lal, a purchaser of a share of the village, applied for the partition of his share. To that proceeding all the recorded co-sharers were made parties, but as the present plaintiffs were not the recorded co-sharers in the mahal they were not made parties to these proceedings. The Revenue Court, therefore, behind their back proceeded to make the partition and assigned these plots to one of the parties in the partition proceeding. It is urged that the plaintiffs, though not the recorded co-sharers, should have come forward to assert their right and to have claimed a proprietary interest in these plots and having failed to do so, they are now precluded from setting up their title under section 233 (k) of Act III of 1901. Under section 110 of the Land Revenue Act, on an application being made for partition by a recorded co-sharer, the Collector is required to issue a proclamation calling on such of the recorded co-sharers of the mahal as have not joined the application to appear before him and to state their objections, if any, to the partition. Under section 111 of the same Act any recorded co-sharer may object to the partition and if the objections of such recorded co-sharer raise a question of proprietary title, the Collector is authorized to try the question himself as a Civil Court or to require any party to have the question determined by a competent Civil Court. It may be noted that it is only a recorded co-sharer to whom notice is given and who alone is competent to come in the Revenue Court to object to the partition. In this case the present plaintiffs were not recorded co-sharers; no notices, therefore, of the proceeding were given to them: they could not be made parties to the proceeding and they could not be heard by that Court in support of their objections. That being so, in my opinion, they were not bound by the result of the partition proceedings. They could not be affected by a judgment in a case between other parties. It is, however, urged that the present plaintiffs ought to have still gone up to the partition Court and asked that Court to stay partition pending an application by them for the entry of their names, which ought to have been made by them in the Revenue Court. I am not aware under what provision of law these defendants could restrain the Revenue Court from going on with the partition proceeding. The Court was not bound to stay its hands. It is not certain whether the Revenue Court would have recorded their names even if an application for that purpose had been made, and the chances are that they would have been referred to a Civil Court to establish their rights. If the contention of the learned Vakil for the appellants is correct, even if these men had gone and brought a suit in the Civil Court and finally established their rights, the partition made in the Revenue Court behind their back would still have been binding on them. Reliance has been placed upon the provisions of section 233 (k) of the Land Revenue Act of 1901. Under that section no person can institute any suit or other proceeding in the Civil Court with respect to matters specified in that section. Among the matters so specified is the following in clause (k), viz., "partition or union of mahals except as provided in sections 111 and 112." This is not a suit or any matter which could have been adjudicated upon under these two sections and I think the prohibition refers to the case of persons who were parties to the partition proceedings, or who should have been made parties thereto, and whose claims could have been heard under sections 111 and 112 of that Act. It would be reading the section much more widely if the prohibition was read so as to include cases of persons who were not and could not be made parties to those proceedings. An unreported* case, Second Appeal No. 211 of 1912 decided on June 22nd, 1912, by Chamier, J., has been relied upon in support of the contention. So far as I am able to consider the judgment in that case, it seems to proceed upon the special circumstances of that particular case. I think the decision in the case of Khasay v. Jugla (1) applies to the circumstances of this case. The same view was taken in the case of Awadh Bihari Lal v. Ishri Prasad (2). I am unable to follow the ruling in Second Appeal No. 211 of 1912* already referred to, as,

(1) 28 A. 432; A. W. N. (1906) 79.
(2) 4 A. L. J. 662; A. W. N. (1907) 172.

*But reported in Musammat Tarifan v. Fateh Din, 15 Ind. Cas. 685 and not elsewhere.—Ed.

n my opinion, the facts of the two cases are not parellel and in any case the ruling is contrary to the cases cited by me and is not based upon a correct interpretation of the provisions of section 233 (k).

I dismiss the appeal with costs, subject to this order that the decree will be amended in the manner indicated by me, and limited to plots Nos. 1042 and 1044.

Appeal dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 823 OF 1912.

July 20, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Tudball.

RAM CHARAN LAL—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

KARIM-UN-NISSA BIBI AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1901), s. 95—Power to fix rent.

In proceedings under section 95 of the Agra Tenancy Act the Court has no power to fix the amount of rent, it can only ascertain what in fact the rent payable is.

Second appeal from the decree of the District Judge of Allahabad.

Dr. Satish Chandra Banerji, for the Appellant.

The Hon'ble Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The history of this unfortunate case is told in the judgment of the lower Appellate Court. The litigation which was really of a very simple nature commenced in the year 1906. After various vicissitudes it came before Mr. Holme, District Judge of Allahabad. He decided in his judgment all the questions between the parties, and all that can be taken exception to is the last line of his decree dated the 30th of March 1912. The proceedings originally were brought under section 95 of the Tenancy Act, which provides that at any time during the continuance of a tenancy either the land-holder or the tenant may sue for a declaration as to any of the matters therein set forth, clause(d), "the rent payable in respect of the holding and whether payable in cash or kind."

The learned District Judge was unable to say what the rent payable in respect of certain lands was, because no rent had ever in fact been fixed either by agreement of the parties or by the Court. It seems to us quite clear that it was never intended that the Court in proceedings under section 95 was to fix the amount of rent. Under section 95 it was intended that the Court should ascertian what in fact was the rent payable, that is to say, if there was a dispute between the land-holder and tenant as to what the amount was it would be the duty of the Court to say which side was right, but it was not intended that the Court should receive evidence and consider circumstances where no rent had ever been agreed upon or fixed by the parties. It is quite clear from the judgment of the learned District Judge that he never intended to make a declaration that no rent was ever to be payable for the land. It is quite clear that rent must be paid after it has been fixed either by agreement between the parties or through the Court. We are quite sure that if an application had been made to the learned District Judge, he would have made his decree quite clear on this point. In order to avoid any future confusion, we direct that the decree of the Court below shall be modified so as to read as a declaration that no rent had heretofore been paid or fixed in respect of the said lands, in lieu of the words "that no rent is payable in respect of the said lands."

As, in our opinion, the amendment could have been obtained without an appeal, we direct that each party do pay their own costs in this appeal.

We modify the decree of the Court below as indicated above.

Decree modified.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 1264 OF 1913.

September 16, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Napier.

MULPURI VEERAYYA AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

SANAGAVARAPU SIVAYYA AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Specific performance - Contract to sell land—Contract Act (IX of 1872), s. 55—Time not of essence of contract—Presumption, whether rebuttable—Default in payment—Offer by post to tender expenses—Abandonment—Earnest money, forfeiture of.

RAJAB ALI v. RAJJOO KHAN.

The equitable presumption that time is not of the essence of a contract to sell landed property is rebuttable in certain circumstances, as when the sale is arranged in order to meet the expenses of a marriage taking place on a certain date.

Where the vendee undertakes to bear the expenses of the sale and registration, his failure to tender them sufficiently early is a strong piece of evidence of default on his part. A mere offer by postal letter to tender such expenses is not a legal tender.

A suit for specific performance of a contract to sell land instituted 20 months after the date of the contract during which time other circumstances have intervened, cannot be decreed on the ground of waiver.

Earnest money forfeited to the vendor under the terms of the contract cannot be recovered.

Natesa Aiyar v. Appava Padayachi, 19 Ind. Cas 462; (1913) M. W. N. 341; 13 M L. T. 391; 24 M. L. J. 488, followed.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of Kistna, in Appeal Suit No. 13 of 1912, preferred against that of the Court of the Temporary Subordinate Judge of Masulipatam, in Original Suit No. 17 of 1909.

FACTS.—By an agreement dated 5th June 1907, defendants undertook to register within a week a sale-deed in favour of plaintiffs and to put them in possession of 8 acres of land on the plaintiffs' paying the sum of Rs. 2,656 at the time of registration of the sale-deed, and the plaintiffs undertook to pay the expenses of the execution and registration of the sale-deed and agreed to forfeit the earnest money in case of their failure to pay. Within a week from the date of the agreement the defendants informed the plaintiffs of their intention to cancel the contract as the purchase-money urgently required for a marriage was not paid by the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs did not take any notice of this for 20 months. Meanwhile the defendants mortgaged the land elsewhere. The plaintiffs then immediately sued for specific performance of the contract the defendants had made with them, alleging that they were willing to perform their part and that they offered the money to the defendants but that the latter could not execute a sale-deed. The Sub-Judge decreed the suit on the ground that both parties were at fault and that there was no evidence of acquiesence or abandonment on the part of the plaintiffs. On appeal the District Judge held that time was of the essence of the contract and that the failure of the plaintiffs to do anything for such a long period of time was sufficient evidence of abandonment. The case then came up to the High Court in second appeal.

Mr. N. S. Narasimha Chariar, for Mr. V. Ramadoss, for the Appellants.

Mr. V. Ramesam, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—We cannot assume that the lower Appellate Court ignored the equitable presumption that time is not of the essence of the contract in cases of contracts for sale and purchase of landed property. Its finding of fact, after a consideration of the evidence and the circumstances, that both parties intended time to be of the essence of the contract cannot, therefore, be interfered with in second appeal.

We must also accept the finding of the lower Appellate Court that the plaintiffs failed to perform that portion of the contract which they had to perform first, (namely), the tender of the expenses of the execution and registration of the sale-deed to defendants before the plaintiffs could call upon the defendants to execute the sale-deed. A mere offer by postal letter to tender such expenses is not a legal tender.

The question, again, of the right of the defendants (respondents) to a forfeit of the earnest money on plaintiffs' failure must be decided in the defendants' favour on the strength of the recent Full Bench ruling in Natesa Aiyar v. Appavu Padayachi (1).

The second appeal fails and is dismiseed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 19 Ind. Cas. 462; 24 M. L. J. 488; (1913) M. W. N. 341; 13 M. L. T. 391.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 749 OF 1913.

June 17, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sundar Lal.

RAJAB ALI AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

RAJJOO KHAN AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Easements Act (V of 1882), s. 18—Landlord and tenant—Customary easement.

RAJAB ALI v. RAJJOO KHAN.

The right to crush sugarcane and to express, boil and concentrate the juice on a piece of land in the abadi, is incidental to the cultivation of sugarcane and is of the nature of a customary easement referred to in section 18 of the Easements Act, and can be acquired by a tenant against his landlord.

Mounsey v. Ismay, (1865) 34 L. J. Ex. 52; 3 H. & C. 486; 11 Jur. (N. S.) 141; 12 L. T. 27; 13 W. R. 521; 140 R. R. 567, Ashraf Ali v. Jagan Nath, 6 A. 497; A. W. N. (1884) 186, Mercer v. Denne, (1905) 2 Ch. 538; 74 L. J. Ch. 723; 93 L. T. 412; 3 L. G. R. 1293; 21 T. L. R. 763; 70 J. P. 65; 54 W. R. 303; Ilahi Bakhsh Khan v. Din Muhammad, 14 P. R. 1897, referred to.

Second appeal from a decree of the District Judge of Azamgarh.

Mr. Abdul Raoof, for the Appellants.

Mr. Surendro Nath Sen, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—Sheikh Rajab Ali and others, the plaintiffs in this case, are co-sharers and lessees in the village of Mir Ahmadpur. They represent thus altogether (i. e., in their capacity as co-sharers and as lessees from other co-sharers) a ten-annas interest in the village. The co-sharers of the remaining six-annas interest in the village, nor their lessors in respect of the interest held by them as lessees are parties to this suit. The defendants are old occupancy tenants of the village which is joint and undivided. They are thus the tenants of the entire body of co-sharers owning the full sixteen-annas interest in the village.

In the abadi of the village there is a plot of waste land bearing No. 637, which, of course, is the common property of all the co-sharers. The plaintiffs' case is that in this plot of land a portion (the boundaries of which are set out in the plaint) has been in the exclusive possession of the plaintiffs. They allege that the defendants have recently entered upon this portion of land, and constructed certain temporary structures. They have put up certain cattle troughs, sheds, sugarcane presses, and the usual machinery for expressing, boiling and concentrating sugarcane juice on the said land, and are using it for the said purpose. As these acts have been done without the consent of the plaintiffs, they sue for the possession of the land, the removal of the said constructions, etc., and for the injunctions set out in the plaint.

The defence to the suit is that by village custom the defendants, who are old sugarcane cultivators of the village, are entitled to use this plot of land for the purpose of expressing and boiling the sugarcane juice and cognate purposes. These operations follow the reaping of the sugarcane harvest, and the tenants are entitled to use this plot of land for the said purpose. The only other defence that calls for notice here is the plea that the plaintiffs cannot maintain this suit without impleading the other zemindars of the village.

The Court of first instance held that the defendants had not proved the alleged customary right claimed by them, and their act of entering upon the said land was an act of trespass, which any of the co-sharers of the village could sue to prevent. It decreed the claim in full. On appeal the learned District Judge after carefully examining the evidence on the record came to the conclusion "that the defendants have established a customary right of using the land in suit for pressing and boiling sugarcane by erecting temporary buildings for several years past." He also was of opinion that the plaintiffs could not maintain this suit without joining the other co-sharers of the village and that the suit was, therefore, bad for non-joinder of parties. He, therefore, set aside the decree of the Munsif and dismissed the plaintiffs' claim.

The plaintiffs have preferred this appeal against the said decree. It has been argued on their behalf that the customary right claimed by the defendants has not been made out, and cannot be given effect to in law, and that the plaintiffs alone were entitled to maintain this suit, which was for the ejectment of trespassers from their lands, without impleading the other co-owners. It was also urged that the tenants could not acquire the right claimed which was of the nature of an easement as against their landlords, the zemindars.

The right claimed by the defendants in this case is not a right of easement claimed by the owner of a dominant tenement against a servient tenement. It is a claim of the nature of a customary easement of the class referred to in section 18 of the Indian Easements Act, 1882, and recognized in numerous cases, both in this country and in England [see Mounsey v. Ismay (1), Ashraf Ali v. Jagan Nath (2), Mercer v. Denne (3)]. It is very similar to the right claimed in the case of Ilahi Bakhsh Khan v. Din Muhammad (4). In that case the defendants claimed a right to dry tobacco on certain lands adjacent to the place where they had set up mills for grinding snuff. It was found that the land had been used for that purpose for more than twenty years by the defendants, and that a drying ground in the immediate proximity of the mills was essential to their use. The Court held that such user conferred on the defendants a right to use the land for the said purpose. On the findings of the learned Judge, the defendants have made out the claim to the customary easement set up by them, and the suit was rightly dismissed on that ground.

(1) (1865) 34 L. J. Ex. 52; 3 H. & C. 486; 11 Jur. (N. S.) 141; 12 L. T. 27; 13 W. R. 521; 140 R. R. 567.

(2) 6 A. 497; A. W. N. (1884) 186.

(3) (1905) 2 Ch. 538; 74 L. J. Ch. 723; 93 L. T. 412; 3 L. G. R. 1293; 21 T. L. R. 763; 70 J. P. 65; 54 W. R. 303.

In the view that I have taken of the first point it is unnecessary to decide the second point, viz., whether the plaintiffs have a right to sue without joining the other zemindars as parties to this suit. The question is one on which the decisions are by no means uniform. The only effect of accepting this plea is to relegate the plaintiffs to another suit with the necessary array of parties. Now that the matter has been tried out between the plaintiffs and the defendants, the parties to the suit will at any rate be bound by this decision. I, therefore, prefer to rest my judgment on the first ground alone. It has not been urged that the customary right claimed is unreasonable or that the use, that the defendants are making of the land, is excessive or unreasonable or unnecessary and not essential to the cultivation of the sugarcane crop. The crushing of the sugarcane and the expression and boiling of the juice is the last of the agricultural operations incidental to the cultivation of sugarcane; and the right claimed here is enjoyed by the tenants unopposed wherever the relations between the landlords and the tenants are on the usual footing of cordiality.

I, therefore, dismiss the appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(4) 14 P. R. 1897.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL No. 270 OF 1911.

September 9, 1914.

Present:—Sir John Edward Power Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

THAITHOTTATHIL POKKAR—DEFENDANT No. 5—APPELLANT

versus

RAMACHANDRA SHENOY AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Mortgage-debt—Compound interest payable until default—No provision after that date—Interest—Presumption.

While a person owing money must be deemed to have borrowed it on the understanding that he would pay some compensation for its use, either as simple interest or damages, there is no presumption that he agrees to pay compound interest, as that is not an ordinary incident of the borrowing.

Therefore where a bond provides for compound interest till a certain period but there is no provision for the payment of any interest after that date the creditor is not entitled to compound interest after that date but only to simple interest upon the amount of the principal and interest due on that date.

Chajmal Das v. Bhukan Lal, 17 A. 511; 22 I. A. 199; followed.

Appeal against the decree of the District Court of North Malabar, in Original Suit No. 19 of 1910.

Mr. C. Madhavan Nair, for Mr. J. L. Rosario, for the Appellant.

Mr. C. V. Ananthakrishna Aiyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—We think that the provision for compound interest in the document sued on relates only to the period during which the principal remains unpaid, that is, the four years from the date of the document providing for its payment. After that date there is no provision in the document for the payment of any interest. It has been held by the Privy Council in Chajmal Das v. Brij Bhukan Lal (1) that in such cases the mortgagee will be entitled only to simple interest by way of damages, not to compound interest. The principle of this decision we take to be that while a person owing money must be deemed to have borrowed it on the understanding that he would pay some compensation for its use, either as simple interest or damages, there is no presumption that he agrees to pay compound interest, as that is not an ordinary incident of the borrowing.

(1) 17 A. 511; 22 I. A. 199.

Following this decision we hold that plaintiff is not entitled to compound interest after the expiry of the four years, but only to simple interest at 8 per cent. upon the amount of principal and interest due on that date as provided in Exhibit A. Subject to this modification this appeal is dismissed. The plaintiff and the 5th defendant will pay and receive proportionate costs. The appellant will pay the 7th respondent's costs. Time for payment is extended to three months from this date.

Appeal dismissed with modification.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

APPEAL FROM APPELLATE DECREE No. 3056 OF 1912.

March 10, 1914.

Present:—Sir Lawrence Jenkins, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Woodroffe.

KAILASH CHANDRA PODDAR—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

GOPAL CHANDRA PODDAR—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Compromise decree—Suit to set aside—Previous application for review on same ground dismissed—Suit, whether maintainable.

A party whose application for review of a compromise decree on the ground that he had not consented was dismissed, cannot sue to set aside that decree on the same ground.

Ram Gopal v. Prasanna Kumar, 2 C. L. J. 508; 10 C. W. N. 529, followed.

Gulab Koer v. Badshah Bahadur, 2 Ind. Cas. 129; 10 C. L. J. 420; 13 C. W. N. 1197, distinguished.

Appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Faridpur, dated the 23rd July 1914, reversing that of the Munsif, Bhanga, dated the 8th May 1911.

Babu Brojendra Nath Chatterjee, for the Appellant.

Babu Brojo Lal Chakravarty, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The present plaintiff sued the defendants and a compromise was alleged to have been effected. A decree was passed in accordance with that compromise, and it is not suggested that there was any failure to observe the provisions of Order XXIII. The present plaintiff No. 1 subsequently came to Court, not by way of appeal from an order made under Order XXIII, but for a review of the decree, and his application was based upon the allegation that he had not consented. He adopted the proper procedure in so applying. The result of his application, however, was unfavourable to him and it was dismissed. Subsequently this suit was brought, and the applicant for review as well as his co-plaintiff in the former suit are the plaintiffs in this suit. There is the same allegation of no consent, and it is further suggested that there was fraud. Fraud has been negatived, so that the only ground of relief is the absence of consent. In these circumstances, it appears to me that this suit should have been dismissed; for, I think, the only question on which a decision has been given in the suit in favour of the plaintiffs was one which was decided adversely in the former litigation.

This view is in accordance with the decision in Ram Gopal v. Prasanna Kumar (1), which we treat as a decision entitled to respect and we, therefore, follow that decision notwithstanding what has been said in Gulab Koer v. Badshah Bahadur (2). We may point out that in this last named case the relief sought was based on fraud, and so it has no application to the present case.

The result is that the appeal must be allowed and the suit dismissed with costs throughout.

Appeal allowed; Suit dismissed.

(1) 2 C. L. J. 508; 10 C. W. N. 529.
(2) 2 Ind. Cas. 129; 10 C. L. J. 420; 13 C.W.N. 1197.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL REVISION PETITION No. 305 OF 1913.

October 23, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Kumarasawmy Sastri.

K. VENKATA RAO—COUNTER-PETITIONER—PETITIONER

versus

MARWADI MOTIRAM—PETITIONER—RESPONDENT.

Legal Practitioners Act (XVIII of 1879), s. 14—Proceedings initiated in District Court—Reference to High Court - Power of District Judge to award costs of proceedings before him.

A District Judge has no power to award costs in a matter referred by him to the High Court under the Legal Practitioners Act. The High Court alone has power to give directions as to the award of costs incurred between the date of the petition and the date of reference to the High Court.

RAJANI BALA DASI v. BHAJA HARI KOLEY.

Petition, under section 115 of Act V of 1908, praying the High Court to revise the order of the District Court of Bellary, in Original Petition No. 313 of 1911.

FACTS.—The respondent filed a petition before the District Judge of Bellary complaining of the conduct of the present petitioner. The Judge thereupon referred the matter to the High Court and the reference was duly disposed of. The order of the High Court provided for the costs of the present respondent in the matter of the said reference, but was silent as to the costs incurred before the District Judge. The respondent then applied to the District Judge for the said costs and had the same granted to him. Against the said order granting costs the petitioner preferred this civil revision petition under section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code.

Mr. S. Ranganadha Iyer, for the Petitioner:—The order of the District Judge as to costs is entirely without jurisdiction, as he has no power to grant the same and the High Court alone can grant it.

Mr. M. Govindarajulu Naidu, for the respondent:—The District Judge, having been moved by the respondent on his petition and having conducted an inquiry thereon, had power to award costs incurred before him in respect of such inquiry.

JUDGMENT.—The District Judge had no power to award costs in a matter referred by him to the High Court under the Legal Practitioners Act. The High Court in disposing of the reference provided for costs and if the counter-petitioner wanted to get any costs incurred by him in the lower Court, he should have got directions from the High Court as to the costs incurred by him between the date of his petition against the legal practitioner and the date when the Judge referred matters to the High Court. The Legal Practitioners Act does not authorise the District Court to award any costs. I set aside the order of the District Judge with costs in this and the lower Court.

Petition allowed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

APPEAL FROM APPELLATE DECREE No. 3182 OF 1912.

May 28, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Fletcher and Mr. Justice Richardson.

Srimati RAJANI BALA DASI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

BHAJA HARI KOLEY AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Cess Act (IX of 1880, B. C.), s. 95—Returns, whether admissible in evidence in favour of the person filing them—Words as to address, directory.

Under section 95 of the Cess Act, 1880, the returns filed by or on behalf of any person in pursuance of the Cess Act are not admissible in evidence in his favour.

The words as to the return bearing the signature and address of the person or his authorized agent in section 95 of the Cess Act are only directory and the fact that a wrong address is given, does not make the return admissible in evidence in favour of the person by or on whose behalf it was filed.

Appeal against the decree of the Additional Subordinate Judge of Hooghly, dated the 19th July 1912, modifying that of the Munsif, second Court, Hooghly, dated the 6th September 1911.

Babu Nagendra Nath Ghosh, for the Appellant.

Babu Bepin Behari Ghosh, Senior, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.

FLETCHER, J.—This is an appeal against the judgment of the Additional Subordinate Judge of Hooghly, dated the 19th of July 1912, modifying the decree passed by the Munsif.

The suit was brought by the plaintiff as heir of her deceased husband, Sarat Chandra Ghosh, to recover against the defendant No. 1 an 8-annas share of the rent for certain holdings. The defendant No. 2 is the uncle of the late husband of the plaintiff and owns the other 8-annas share in the holding.

The only point that has been argued before us is, whether the learned Judge in the lower Appellate Court rightly rejected certain road-cess returns which had been given in evidence by the plaintiff in the Court of first instance.

The defendant No. 2 is a formal defendant to this suit, and no relief was asked against him.

MUHAMMADE v. MAYI KUNHI HAJI.

The road-cess returns in question were filed by the defendant No. 2 during the minority of the late husband of the plaintiff as his certificated guardian.

Section 95 of the Cess Act, 1880, provides that "every return filed by or on behalf of any person in pursuance of the provisions of this part shall bear the signature and address of such person, or his authorised agent, and shall be admissible against such person, but shall not be admissible in his favour."

It has been argued before us that as the returns in question were not signed by Sarat Chandra owing to his minority and as the defendant No. 2 as his certificated guardian was not his authorised agent, the section allows the returns to be used as evidence in favour of the plaintiffs. But this argument is not borne out by the language of the section.

The section provides that the returns filed by or on behalf of any person in pursuance of the Act are admissible in evidence against him, but not admissible in his favour.

The words as to the return bearing the signature and address of the person or his authorised agent appear to me to be directory only.

I can see nothing in the section that provides that if, for instance, a wrong address is given, the return would be admissible in evidence in favour of the person by or on whose behalf it was filed.

I think the learned Judge in the lower Appellate Court was right in refusing to accept these returns in favour of the plaintiff.

The present appeal, therefore, fails and must be dismissed with costs.

RICHARDSON, J.—I agree.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL No. 50 OF 1912.

October, 6, 1914.

Present:—Sir John Edward Power Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

MUHAMMADE AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS Nos. 1 TO 4—APPELLANTS

versus

MAYI KUNHI HAJI AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFF No. 5 AND DEFENDANTS Nos. 1 TO 19—RESPONDENTS.

Malabar Law—Anandravan, whether can acknowledge mortgage by karnavan—Right to acknowledge mortgage right - Limitation Act (XIV of 1859*), s.* 1 (15)—Limitation Act (IX of 1871*), Sch. II, Art.* 148.

An anandravan cannot be said to be a person claiming under a karnavan within the meaning of section 1 (15) of Act XIV of 1859 or Article 148, Schedule II, of Act IX of 1871, and has, therefore, no right to save from limitation a mortgage by acknowledgment, nor can such acknowledgment be effective even if construed as one by a co-mortgagee.

Bhogilal v. Amritlal, 17 B. 173; Vaikunta Bhakta v. Kunni Pakki Beari, 1 Ind. Cas. 203; 5 M.L.T. 208; 19 M. L. J. 288; Ganapathi Naika v. Makki Keyi, 1 Ind. Cas. 204; 5 M. L. T. 261, followed.

Appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of South Canara, in Original Suit No. 17 of 1911.

Messrs. T. Rangachariar and K. Sundara Row, for Mr. K. Naraina Row, for the Appellants.

Mr. K. Kutti Krishna Menon, for Mr. J. L. Rosario, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The mortgagee in this case was the karnavan and the alleged acknowledgments were made while the Acts of 1859 and 1871 were in force by an anandravan. We agree with the Subordinate Judge that the anandravan was not a person claiming under the mortgagee within the meaning of section 1 (15) of Act XIV of 1859 and Article 148 of the Act of 1871 so as to make an acknowledgment by him save limitation. Regarding him as a co-mortgagee, we agree with Bhogilal v. Amritlal (1), which has been followed in Vaikunta Bhakta v. Kunni Pakki Beari (2) and Ganapathi Naika v. Makki Keyi (3), that an acknowledgment by one co-mortgagee alone was ineffective for the purpose of saving limitation under these Acts.

Lastly, Mr. Rangachari's contention that the person making the acknowledgment was in fact the karnavan at the time does not appear to have been raised before the Court of the Subordinate Judge. Nor is it taken in the grounds of appeal.

(1) 17 B. 173.
(2) 1 Ind. Cas. 203; 5 M. L. T. 208; 19 M. L. J. 288.
(3) 1 Ind. Cas. 204; 5 M. L. T. 261.

The appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 1539 OF 1913.

July 8, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sundar Lal.

LALA RAM—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

MAN SINGH AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Jurisdiction—Small Cause Court suit—Defendant pleading proprietary title, whether nature of suit altered.

Whether or not a suit is of the nature triable by a Court of Small Causes depends upon the frame of the suit itself, and not upon the defence that the defendant may set up.

Therefore, a suit for the recovery of Rs. 15 being the value of certain trees cut down by the defendant, although filed in the Munsif's Court, is of the nature cognizable by a Small Cause Court and its nature is not altered even if a question of proprietary title is raised by the defendant.

Sada Shankar v. Brij Mohan Das, 20 A. 480; A. W. N. (1898) 129, followed.

Sitab Rai v. Dubal, 6 C. L. J. 218, not followed.

Churaman v. Balli 9 A. 591; A. W. N. (1887) 121, referred to.

Second appeal from a decree of the Additional Subordinate Judge of Mainpuri.

Mr. Vishun Nath, for the Appellant.

Mr. M. L. Agarwala, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—On this appeal being called on for hearing Mr. Agarwala on behalf of the respondents raised a preliminary objection that no appeal lay to this Court under section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure as the suit was of the nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. It was a suit for the recovery of Rs. 15 being the value of certain trees cut down by the defendants. On the plaint as framed the suit was a suit for money which lay in the Court of Small Causes. It was, however, filed in the Court of the Munsif and under the law one appeal only is given to the lower Appellate Court, the right of second appeal being taken away by the Code. Mr. Vishun Nath on behalf of the plaintiff-appellant has urged that the suit is not a Small Cause Court suit as a question of title had arisen, and he has relied upon two cases. The first is that of Churaman v. Balli (1). That was a suit for malikana and it was found in that case, that the malikana was a charge upon immoveable property. The suit in that case, therefore, was not a Small Cause Court suit. The second case relied upon is a ruling of the Calcutta High Court, Sitab Rai v. Dubal Nagesia (2). That was a suit by a jotdar for the value of trees cut down by the defendants. The defendants, who were tenants of other lands in the village, claimed a customary right to cut down trees outside their holdings for certain purposes. In view of the defence the Calcutta High Court held that a question of proprietary or customary right was raised and that, therefore, the suit was not a Small Cause Court suit. In my opinion, whether or not a suit is of the nature triable by a Court of Small Causes depends upon the frame of the suit itself and not upon the defence that the defendant may set up. I am unable to agree with the view taken by the Calcutta High Court. It is not the defence that determines the nature of the suit, but it is the plaint. I find that in a case in this Court, Sada Shankar v. Brij Mohan Das (3), a Bench of this Court has held that although a question of proprietary title had arisen in the case, yet as the suit was upon the plaint a suit of the nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes and even though the plaint was returned under section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act for institution in the Munsif's Court, the suit still retained the character ascribable to it according to the plaint. The fact that a question of proprietary title arose did not alter its nature. I think, sitting as a single Judge, I am bound by the ruling of this Court. I hold that no second appeal lies and I dismiss the appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(1) 9 A. 591; A. W. N. (1887) 121.
(2) 6 C. L. J. 218.
(3) 20 A. 480; A. W. N. (1898) 129.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

CRIMINAL APPEAL No. 768 OF 1914.

November 23, 1914.

Present:—Sir Charles Fox, KT., Chief Judge, aud Mr. Justice Parlett.

NGA KYA THIN—APPELLANT

versus

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 24—Murder—Confession to Thugyi on inducement to confess, whether admissible—Questions and answers based on such confession, admissibility of.

The thugyi or headman of a village is a person in authority within the meaning of section 24 of the Evidence Act. Therefore, the confession made by an accused to the thugyi on being sent for by him after he was told that he would not be punished if he had not taken part in the offence, is irrelevant and inadmissible in evidence, as what the thugyi told the accused was an inducement to make a statement.

Other questions and answers in the examination of the accused based on this inadmissible statement are also inadmissible.

Appeal from the order of the Sessions Judge of Prome, dated the 28th September 1914, passed in Sessions Trial No. 63 of 1914.

JUDGMENT.

Fox, C. J.—The appellant, Kya Thein, was tried with Lu Po and Po U for the murder of Pan Bu. Lu Po and Po U were acquitted. Kya Thein was convicted and sentenced to death.

None of the witnesses saw the murder committed. Two of them say they saw Kya Thein following Pan Bu who was going in the direction of the spot where Pan Bu was assaulted. One witness said that on the morning of the day on which the murder was committed, he saw the dah which was subsequently found near where Pan Bu's corpse had lain, in Kya Thein's hand. His father said he fell in with him returning to the village as he (the father) was driving back his cattle, presumably sometime in the forenoon of the day.

There is also evidence that in the afternoon of the day, Kya Thein openly made some enigmatic remarks about what would happen if one man killed another without any one else being present and what would happen if two men murdered a man. Some of this evidence appears doubtful, but even if it was all true, it would not warrant the conviction of Kya Thein. He has been convicted on the conclusions which the Judge drew from statements he himself made. The first of those was made to the headman of a village close to Kya Thein's village four days after the murder. The others were made to the Committing Magistrate and Sessions Judge. The later ones are not entirely the same as the first; where they differ from it the later ones show an attempt to offer explanation of his conduct more favourable to himself, but in the main they followed up the first statement. None were confessions in the ordinary sense of the word, but all contained incriminating statements from which the Judge and assessors drew the conclusion that he took part in the murder even if he alone did not commit it. The circumstances under which the village headman came to question Kya Thein and what he exactly said to him have not been gone into as fully as they might have been. In the Magistrate's Court Maung Aung said he questioned him for about two hours in the presence of a ten-house gaung, Maung Pu. He had sent for him: he did this because he had been told that the Township Officer had ordered him to investigate the case. The Police Inspector, however, stated that whilst he was making inquiries suspecting Kya Thein, the thugyi Maung Aung intervened and asked to be allowed to question him.

In the Sessions Court Mg. Aung stated what took place in the first instance at the protracted interview in the following words: he spoke from memory having taken nothing down in writing:—

"I questioned him. He said, 'I know the facts. I want to speak out. I am afraid of the thugyi Lu Po's brother (referring to the thugyi of his own village) and I am also afraid of Lu Po.' I told him not to be afraid of the thugyi. He said 'Shall I be punished, if I speak out.' I told him, 'if you took part, you will be punished. If not, you will not.' (This last word was evidently omitted by the Sessions Judge by inadvertence). He said, 'In that case as I did not take part, I will speak out' ".

Kya Thei then proceeded to state his story which certainly could not have taken two hours or anything like so long a time to relate. In the Magistrate's Court Maung Aung said that at the beginning he questioned the accused as to whether he did not know anything about the case. Kya Thein said if nothing would happen to him he would reveal the facts of the case, and then he (Maung Aung) said that if he was not concerned nothing would happen to him. There can, I think, be little doubt that whatever the actual expressions used were, the impression conveyed to Kya Thein's mind must have been that if he had not taken part in the actual murder, he would not be punished. He made a statement according to which he did not take part in the actual murder, which he said was committed by Po U and Lu Po without any assistance from him. His subsequent statements were to the same effect and his defence was that he should not be convicted as he had brought the case against his fellow-accused to light. The other two accused escaped conviction because there was no trustworthy evidence against them. The main facts stated by Kya Thein, however, have the ring of truth. Although it is possible that the murder of Pan Bu and the dragging or carrying of his body from the place where he was first struck to where his corpse was found may have been done by one man and that that man was Kya Thein, it appears far more probable that those things were done by two men and there does not appear to be any reason why Kya Thein should have said they were done by Po U and Lu Po, if they did not do them.

The first question, however, which arises in the case is whether Kya Thein's first statement amounting in law to a confession was admissible in evidence. Maung Aung, the thugyi, was a person in authority within the meaning of section 24 of the Indian Evidence Act, and the question is whether it should be held that the incriminating statement and confession appears to have been caused by any inducement, threat or promise proceeding from him sufficient in the opinion of the Court to give Kya Thein ground which appears to him reasonable for supposing that by making it he would gain any advantage or avoid any evil of a temporal nature in reference to the proceedings against him. In the first place it is to be noted that Kya Thein did not go to the thugyi of his own motion. He was sent for and must have gone to him because he was sent for by a person in authority. He did not at once offer to make a statement. He made one only after the thugyi had told him he would not be punished if he had not taken part in the murder. The question then is whether what the thugyi said to him constituted an inducement to make a statement, for I do not think there can be any doubt that the statement was caused by what the thugyi said to him. The object of the thugyi must have been to induce him to make a statement about the murder. His assurance that the man he was talking to about it would not be punished if he had not taken part in it, brought out the statement.

In Ameer Ali and Woodroffe's notes to section 24 of the Evidence Act are given examples of expressions which have been held to constitute inducements, threats or promises. Some are weaker than those which the thugyi said he used to Kya Thein. It is evident that the Courts jealously guard against every attempt by a person in authority to obtain self-incriminating statements from suspected or accused persons.

In my opinion what the thugyi said to Kya Thein was an inducement and as Kya Thein's confession was caused by it, what was said gave him reasonable grounds for supposing that by making it he would escape all punishment, the confession was irrelevant and inadmissible in evidence. Excluding this as evidence against him there remains the fact that he pointed out the place or the proximity of the place where the dah with which the murder was in all probability committed was found. This was consistent with his story that he was a witness of the murder and saw what took place afterwards, and amongst other things saw Lu Po put the dah behind a tree. There are also his statements in examination by the Magistrate and Judge to be considered. In those he omitted, except when questioned by the Judge upon what he had stated to the thugyi, all reference to his having heard Lu Po and Po U conspiring together to rob and kill Pan Bu. He said he left the village to look for a bullock and saw his two co-accused at the edge of some jungle and thinking that they were hunting wild cats, he followed them from a distance and whilst doing so, he saw Po U strike Pan Bu and Po U and Lu Po drag him off into the water-course where Po U cut his neck. He thus represented himself as having been a spectator of the occurrence by chance and not by design, whereas in his statement to the thugyi the fact that he was on the spot by design is scarcely concealed.

The Sessions Judge in his memorandum of what the accused stated to him makes him say "Yes" to the question, "Did you cut Mg. Pan Bu with a dah?" This is an obvious mistake and must again be due to inadvertence. The actual answer according to the record in Burmese was "No" and from the subsequent questions this must have been the actual answer. If there had not been a record in Burmese as well as one in English, the mistake might have led to serious results. The Sessions Judge questioned Kya Thein as to whether he had not told the thugyi that he had heard Lu Po and Po U conspire to kill Pan Bu and Kya. Thein admitted he had done so, and on this were founded other questions which could only have been asked by the Judge if the statement made to the thugyi was properly in evidence. All these questions and answers must, in my opinion, be left out of consideration, since the basis of them was inadmissible. The result is that, in my opinion, this is not sufficient to support the conviction of the accused and I would reverse the conviction and sentence and acquit him.

PARLETT, J.—I concur.

Sentence reversed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL APPEAL No. 1076 OF 1913.

February 4, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Holmwood and Mr. Justice Sharfuddin.

C. BALTHASAR—APPELLANT

versus

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), ss. 405, 409—Criminal breach of trust—Misappropriation of sale-proceeds—Intention at time of sale—Auctioneer not carrying out terms of contract, liability of.

Section 405, Indian Penal Code, does not cover misappropriation of the sale-proceeds of property entrusted to a person.

A person cannot be said to have disposed of the sale-proceeds of property entrusted to him in violation of his contract dishonestly, unless it is shown that he had the intention of dishonestly appropriating the sale-proceeds at the time of the sale.

An auctioneer cannot be said to be liable for criminal breach of trust if he does not punctually carry out every term in the agreement.

A person charged with criminal breach of trust of property entrusted to him cannot be convicted of embezzling the amount obtained by dealing with the property.

Criminal appeal against the order of the Fifth Presidency Magistrate, Calcutta, dated 6th December 1913.

Mr. Bagram (with him Babu Tarkessur Pal Chowdhury), for the Appellant.

Babu Manmatha Nath Mukerjee, for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.—This is an appeal from the judgment and sentence of the learned Presidency Magistrate, Fifth Court, convicting the appellant C. Balthasar, of an offence under section 409 of the Indian Penal Code and sentencing him to pay a fine of Rs. 500 or in default to be rigorously imprisoned for four months on the first count of the charge, no separate sentence being passed on the other two counts of the charge.

The first objection raised to this conviction is that the charge is defective and misleading and that no conviction can be held upon that charge for the alleged misappropriation of the sale-proceeds of the furniture. The second objection is that there is no finding of when and how the appellant misappropriated the sale-proceeds and nothing to show dishonest intention.

The charge is a curious one and runs as follows:—"That you on or about the 24th November 1912, in Calcutta, being a public auctioneer, committed criminal breach of trust in respect of three articles of household furniture, almirah, etc., worth Rs. 109, given to you by Mr. W. J. O'Grady for sale and remittance of the sale-proceeds to him, and you thereby committed an offence under section 409 of the Indian Penal Code;" and the other two charges are similar with regard to sales of furniture on the 5th December 1912 and on the 22nd December 1912.

It is argued, and in our opinion very forcibly argued, that this charge cannot possibly relate to the alleged misappropriation of the sale-proceeds. Section 405 says: "Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in violation of any direction of law,.....or of any legal contract, expressed or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust,.....is guilty of criminal breach of trust." Now, substituting the word "furniture" for the word "property," it would be clear that the section does not cover misappropriation of the sale-proceeds. But even assuming, as we think it ought to be assumed, that the word "property" includes furniture or the value thereof, even then it could not be said that the appellant had disposed of the furniture or the value thereof, namely, the sale-proceeds, in violation of his contract dishonestly, unless it were shown that he had the intention of dishonestly appropriating the sale-proceeds at the time of the sale; and the dates given in the charge clench this contention which is admitted by the learned Vakil for the prosecution. He says that it is incumbent on the prosecution to prove that on the date of sale the accused intended to misappropriate the sale-proceeds. There is absolutely no evidence for that, and indeed all the evidence goes to the contrary. There was a regular business going on and all moneys received were paid into the account of that business and the ordinary practice of the business was to pay the sale-proceeds out to the owners of the goods sold one month after the sale, and it is put forward as evidence of the dishonest intention of the appellant, that not having been able to pay the money due on the 23rd December in connection with the sale of the 24th November, he still went on selling the furniture for Mr. O'Grady on the 29th December and took the sale-proceeds. But this apparently was with Mr. O'Grady's knowledge and consent, and it was not till January or February that Mr. O'Grady removed the remainder of his furniture from the appellant's hand. It cannot be said that the auctioneer is liable for criminal breach of trust if he does not punctually carry out every term in the agreement. For instance, if he did not hold the sale on the agreed date, the 24th November, it could not be said that he committed criminal breach of trust. In the same way if there was delay in payment, that is not in itself a breach of trust. On the dates in the charge it is clear that the wider sense which is sought to be given to the charge cannot possibly be accepted. The offence having been said to have been committed on the 24th November, it cannot be applied to misappropriation of money on or after the 23rd December. It is conceivable that a charge might have been framed to cover the whole circumstances of the transaction, but this is not such a charge; and it seems to us to fall within the rule laid down in the case of Bipra Das Giri v. Niradamoni Bewa (1), to which one of us was a party, that where the charge against the accused is to the effect that he committed breach of trust in respect of some property which he took from the complainant and was, therefore, guilty of an offence punishable under section 406, but at the trial he was convicted of embezzling not the property but the amount obtained by dealing with the property, the conviction was bad and must be set aside. We are, therefore, of opinion that, on the first point, this appeal must succeed and the conviction and sentence must be set aside.

But as that might render a re-trial necessary, we must also proceed to deal with the second point, namely, whether there is any finding or any evidence of dishonest intention referable to the 24th November, 5th December and 22nd December, respectively, in respect of these three charges. We are unable to find any such finding or any such evidence, and none has been shown to us. It is not pretended that on the dates of the auction sales the appellant had the slightest dishonest intention or did not mean to make good the money to the complainant.

It is admitted that, owing to terrible domestic misfortune in which the complainant himself deeply sympathised, he was unable to attend to his business and fell into grave pecuniary difficulties. Under these circumstances, he has been unable to satisfy his creditors of whom the complainant is one. But that he has been endeavouring to do so is clear from the evidence of Mrs. Brennan who, although she comes forward with the allegation that she has been cheated by the appellant, admits that she has been paid every penny of her money except Rs. 2-13. Then again it is sought to show dishonesty from the evidence of one Mr. Salt, a Civil Engineer, who says that he instituted a case on the same ground as the present case against the appellant in the Second Presidency Magistrate's Court, but withdrew it on getting a hundi which subsequently turned out to be a bogus one on a forged Bank (whatever that may be), and it was dishonoured. He was cross-examined to show that he had received a notice from the Court prohibiting the accused from paying the money on the hundi. This he denied, but the learned Counsel who appears for the appellant has very rightly laid before us the actual order of this Court prohibiting the appellant from paying the money due on that hundi to Mr. Salt on the ground that it was attached by one of Mr. Salt's creditors. There is, therefore, absolutely no evidence of dishonesty in this incident, nor, had it been shown that the appellant acted dishonestly towards Mr. Salt, could we have accepted that as any evidence of intention in the present case: for we are not aware when these transactions took place with Mr. Salt, and there is nothing in the evidence to show it. We are, therefore, on the second point also of opinion that the conviction is bad, there being no evidence and no finding of dishonest intention within the meaning of section 405 of the Indian Penal Code.

(1) 12 C. W. N. 577; 7 Cr. L. J. 372.

The conviction and sentence are, therefore, set aside and the accused acquitted. The fine, if paid, will be refunded and the appellant will be discharged from his bail.

Appeal allowed.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

CRIMINAL APPEAL No. 422 OF 1914.

November 4, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Lindsay, J. C.

GAJJA—ACCUSED—APPELLANT

versus

EMPEROR—PROSECUTOR—RESPONDENT.

Arms Act (XI of 1878), ss. 4, 20—"Arms," definition of—Weapon, dangerous and probably to cause death if used—Pole-axe.

The definition of "arms" in the Arms Act is neither exhaustive nor altogether happy.

Emperor v. Satish Chandra Roy, 34 C. 749; 11 C. W. N. 971; 6 Cr. L. J. 227; 6 C. L. J. 751, referred to.

The mere fact that a weapon is dangerous and, if used, may probably cause death, does not make it "arms" within the meaning of section 4 of the Arms Act.

A weapon consisting of a plain lathi, a blade and two moveable screws and so contrived that by loosing the screws the blade may be detached from the shaft made up of the lathi, is not "arms" as defined in section 4 of the Arms Act, although the weapon may be described as a pole-axe.

Appeal against the order of the Sessions Judge, Hardoi, dated 4th September 1914.

Mr. St. G. Jackson, for the Appellant.

The Government Pleader, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The appellant, Gajja, has been convicted under section 20 of the Arms Act and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for two years. The charge against him was that he was in possession of a weapon which the learned Judge describes in his judgment as a pole-axe.* This weapon is of a somewhat curious construction. It consists of a plain lathi, a blade and two moveable screws. The weapon has been so contrived that by loosing the screws the blade may be detached from the shaft which is made up of the lathi. The learned Judge has called this weapon, as I have said, a pole-axe or a kanta, and the principal point taken a—lathi.

*The weapon in question was constructed as below —Ed.

b—blade.
c and d—moveable screws.

in appeal is that the weapon is not "arms" within the meaning of that expression as defined in section 4 of the Arms Act (XI of 1878). As has been remarked in the Calcutta case reported as Emperor v. Satish Chandra Roy (1), the definition of "arms" in the Arms Act is neither exhaustive nor altogether happy. I have had this weapon sent for and I have examined it and so far as I can see, it cannot be said to be either fire-arms, a bayonet, a sword, a dagger, a spear, a spear-head, a bow or an arrow. I am not aware of any authority for the proposition that an instrument which might be described as a pole-axe is "arms" within the meaning of this definition; on the contrary, I should be rather inclined to suppose that it is not. The only pole-axe which is known to me is an implement which is used by butchers for killing cattle. Altogether this weapon, although of a somewhat ingenious construction, seems to me to more closely resemble an implement which is very commonly seen in villages and in which a blade is fastened to a long lathi for the purpose of cutting branches of trees for the purpose of feeding goats and other animals. It may be, of course, as the learned Judge remarks, that the weapon is a dangerous weapon and if used might probably cause death, but this description might be applied to any kind of domestic utensil, such for example as a carving knife or the gandasa which is to be found in every Indian hut. It cannot be said that because the weapon is a dangerous one, it is "arms." I am unable to satisfy myself after inspection of this implement that it is "arms" within the meaning of the Act and I think, therefore, that this appeal must be allowed. I accept the appeal, set aside the conviction and sentence and direct that the accused, Gajja, be acquitted and released.

Appeal allowed.

(1) 34 C. 749; 11 C. W. N. 971; 6 Cr. L. J. 227; 6 C. L. J. 751.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 808 OF 1914.

June 18, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.

KANCHAN MALLIK AND OTHERS—ACCUSED—PETITIONERS

versus

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Appeal (Criminal)—Appellate Court, duty of.

In an appeal from a conviction and sentence it is for the Appellate Court, as for the first Court, to be satisfied affirmatively that the prosecution case is substantially true and that the guilt of the appellant has been established beyond all reasonable doubt.

Criminal revision against an order of the Sessions Judge, Khulna, dated 25th March 1914, modifying on appeal the order of the Deputy Magistrate, Khulna, dated 13th March 1914.

Maulvi Fazlul Huq, for the Petitioners.

JUDGMENT.—In this case the petitioners were convicted under sections 186 and 144, Indian Penal Code, and sentenced, petitioners Nos. 1 and 3 to three months' rigorous imprisonment and to pay a fine of Rs. 50 under each section, and petitioner No. 2, Harmuz Ali, who is said to be a boy of 13 or 14 years of age, to pay a fine of Rs. 25 under each section. The sentences of imprisonment on the petitioners Nos. 1 and 3 were to run concurrently. They obtained a Rule from this Court calling upon the District Magistrate of Khulna to show cause why the order complained of should not be set aside and such other or further order made as to this Court might seem fit and proper, on the ground that at the hearing of the appeal by the learned Sessions Judge the learned Sessions Judge approached the consideration of the case from a wrong standpoint. On turning to his judgment we find that he opens his judgment as follows:—"The prosecution has examined nine witnesses and the defence two (out of five in all) to prove the rival occurrences. The lower Court with the witnesses before it has believed the former, and unless reasonable ground is given me for differing, I must accept that finding of fact." That is to say, he has practically called upon the appellants before him to establish to his satisfaction that the first Court has come to a wrong finding. This is not the standpoint from which an appeal in a criminal case is to be approached. In an appeal from a conviction and sentence it is for the Appellate Court, as for the first Court, to be satisfied affirmatively that the prosecution case is substantially true and that the guilt of the appellants has been established beyond all reasonable doubt.

We are, therefore, of opinion that the order of the Appellate Court must be set aside, and we accordingly set it aside and direct that the appeal be re-heard. At the re-hearing of the appeal it will be for the consideration of the Sessions Judge whether the cumulative sentences in the case of Harmuz Ali ought or ought not to be affirmed. In these terms we make the Rule absolute.

Rule made absolute.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISIONS NO. 176 AND 294B OF 1914.

September 29, 1914.

Present:—Sir Charles Fox, KT., Chief Judge.

ELIAS AND ANOTHER—ACCUSED—PETITIONERS

versus

EZAKIEL—COMPLAINANT—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 350, 544—Transfer of Magistrate pending trial—Expenses of prosecution witnesses recalled, whether to be paid by accused.

Where on the transfer of the trying Magistrate the accused claims under section 350, Criminal Procedure Code, to have the witnesses re-examined by the succeeding Magistrate, the witnesses should be re-summoned without payment of any fees.

Review of the order of the Township Magistrate of Bassein, dated the 2nd of September 1914, passed in Criminal Trial No. 50 of 1914.

FACTS.—The facts appear from the following order of reference made by the Sessions Judge of Bassein :—

In this case the petitioners are under trial in the Court of the Township Magistrate of Bassein on the complaint of one Ezakiel. After the whole of the prosecution evidence had been taken the Magistrate framed charges under section 323, Indian Penal Code. At this stage the Magistrate was transferred and was succeeded by Mg. U Gyaw. The petitioners then claimed under section 350, Criminal Procedure Code, to have the witnesses re-examined by the new Magistrate. The Township Magistrate then passed the following order: "Summon prosecution witnesses on payment of fees by accused."

The petitioners now apply to have the order requiring them to pay fees which, I take it, means only process fees set aside.

I think the order should be set aside. Section 350, Criminal Procedure Code, gives the accused, in the circumstances arising in this case, an absolute right to have the witnesses re-called and re-examined. No condition is imposed and, in my opinion, it is not within the competence of the Magistrate to impose any condition.

The imposition of such a condition as in the present case might conceivably have the effect of a denial of the right expressly conferred by section 350.

I, therefore, submit the proceedings to the Chief Court with the recommendation that the order of the Magistrate be set aside and that he be directed to re-summon the prosecution witnesses without requiring any payment by the accused.

I would add that in such circumstances it seems inequitable that the complainant should have to pay the further expenses incurred. The case seems to be one in which the Magistrate should exercise his discretion under section 544, Criminal Procedure Code, and direct the payment of the additional expenses by the Government. The case, however, is not dealt with in the rules for the payment of expenses of witnesses framed under that section.—Instructions for keeping Criminal Register No. III—and I am in some doubt whether, in view of those rules, the Magistrate can direct the payment of the expenses of the witnesses by the Government. I would, therefore, ask that, if possible, instructions should be given to the Magistrate on this point also.

In re RAMBILAS.

ORDER.—The order of the Magistrate requiring the accused to pay fees for the summoning of the prosecution witnesses is set aside, and he is directed to re-summon them without payment of any fees.

His attention is called to rule 20, paragraph 870, of the Lower Burma Court's Manual, Volume II, and to rule 1 (3) of the rules as to payment of witnesses' expenses published at page 137 of Volume II of the Lower Burma Courts Manual.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 326 OF 1914.

CRIMINAL REVISION PETITION No. 279 OF 1914.

October 21, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Hannay.

In re RAMBILAS AND OTHERS—ACCUSED—PETITIONERS.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 179—Hundis sent for encashment to Bombay from Dharapuram in Erode—Receipt of hundi and misappropriation of proceeds in Bombay—Petitioner resident of Bombay—Jurisdiction of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Erode, to try offence—Criminal breach of trust, offence of, when complete.

Where the petitioners who were brokers residing and carrying on business in the Bombay Presidency, were charged with having committed criminal breach of trust before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Erode in respect of the proceeds of certain hundis entrusted to them for encashment by the complainants, merchants of Dharapuram in Erode, and the hundis were received and cashed by the petitioners in Bombay and the sale-proceeds retained and misappropriated there:

Held, that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Erode had no jurisdiction to try the case and section 179 of the Criminal Procedure Code did not give him jurisdiction.

The offence of criminal breach of trust is completed by the misappropriation or conversion of the property dishonestly, i. e., with the intention of causing wrongful gain or wrongful loss. It is only the intention which is essential. Whether wrongful gain or loss actually results is immaterial; it is a consequence but no essential part of the offence, and a person is not accused of the offence by reason of it.

Ganeshi Lal v. Nand Kishore, 15 Ind. Cas. 319; 13 Cr. L. J. 479; 10 A. L. J. 45; 34 A. 487, referred to.

Queen-Empress v. O'Brien, 19 A. 111; A. W. N. (1896) 191; Mahadeo v. Emperor, 6 Ind. Cas. 563; 11 Cr. L J. 372; 7 A. L. J. 319; 32 A. 397; George Langridge v. Grace Atkins, 17 Ind. Cas. 792; 13 Cr. L. J. 856; 10 A. L. J. 431, 35 A. 29, Assistant Sessions Judge of North Arcot v. Ramaswami Asari, 22 Ind. Cas. 991; 1 L. W. 302; (1914) M. W. N. 324; 15 Cr. L. J. 207; 26 M. L. J. 235, explained.

Petition, under sections 435 and 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, praying the High Court to revise the order of the Sub-Divisional first Class Magistrate of Erode, in Calendar Cases Nos. 110 of 1913 and 3 of 1914.

Dr. S. Swaminadhan, for the Accused.

The Public Prosecutor, for the Crown.

ORDER.—The petitioners, who are stated to be brokers carrying on business in the Bombay Presidency, are accused in two cases on the file of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Erode. The complaint against them is that they committed criminal breach of trust in respect of the proceeds of certain hundis, entrusted to them for encashment by the complainants, merchants of Dharapuram in the Erode Sub-Division.

The question is whether the Erode Sub-Divisional Magistrate has jurisdiction to try the cases.

From the recitals in the complaints, it is clear that the hundis were received and cashed by the accused (petitioners) in Bombay and that the cash proceeds were retained and misappropriated there.

It is conceded in the course of the hearing before us that the accused have been, and still are, residing outside this Presidency; so that section 185 of the Criminal Procedure Code does not apply.

The Sub-Divisional Magistrate has held the cases to fall within his jurisdiction in virtue of section 179 of the Criminal Procedure Code, on the ground that the wrongful loss occasioned by accused's act accrued to complainants at their residence and place of business, Dharapuram.

We have carefully considered the effect of section 179 of the Criminal Procedure Code read with section 405 of the Indian Penal Code, and are clearly of opinion that it cannot be interpreted as giving jurisdiction to the Erode Sub-Divisional Magistrate to try the present cases. The offence of criminal breach of trust is completed (assuming a preliminary trust) by the misappropriation or conversion of the property (in this case the cash proceeds of the hundis) dishonestly, i.e., with the intention of causing wrongful gain or wrongful loss. It is only the intention which is essential. Whether wrongful gain or loss actually results is immaterial: it is a consequence, but no essential part of the offence, and a person is not accused of the offence by reason of it. The learned Public Prosecutor has drawn our attention to the second part of section 405, which deals with dishonest use or disposal of property in violation of law or contract. He says accused had contracted by letters received at Dharapuram to remit the amounts to the complainants there; and argues that the contract was broken by failure to deliver the money at Dharapuram, and that this fact gives jurisdiction to the Erode Court. We are unable to follow this reasoning. In the first place the present case falls under the first, and not the second, part of the section: the complaint clearly charges dishonest misappropriation to accused's own use, and not use or disposal in violation of law or contract. Secondly, if it were otherwise, the offence would be committed where the dishonest use or disposal took place—not where the contract was made or should have been performed.

No authority has been quoted in support of this last argument, but the Sub-Divisional Magistrate has based his decision on two rulings of the Allahabad High Court, Queen-Empress v. O'Brien (1) and Mahadeo v. Emperor (2). These cases are undoubtedly in point and afford some authority in support of his view. We observe that in the first case, the Court was proceeding under section 185 of the Criminal Procedure Code and appears to have been influenced to some extent by considerations of convenience. The second case was decided by a single Judge, who was disposing of a revision petition against a conviction. In declining to interfere he quoted Queen-Empress v. O'Brien (1) and was prepared to follow it, but he also relied on section 182 of the Criminal Procedure Code as giving jurisdiction, and, further, on section 531 of the Criminal Procedure Code as justifying his refusal. This decision certainly adds nothing to the earlier one, and, if the latter is to be taken as an expression of opinion on the strict interpretation of section 179, then with all respect we are unable to follow it.

In a later case, Ganeshi Lal v. Nand Kishore (3), another learned Judge of the same Court, Karamat Husain, J., while distinguishing Queen-Empress v. O'Brien (1) on the facts, discussed the meaning of section 179 of the Criminal Procedure Code in relation to a similar case to the present one and expressed exactly the same view as we are inclined to adopt. In a still later case George Langridge v. Grace Atkins(4), another learned Judge (Mahomed Rafique, J.) elected to follow Queen-Empress v. O'Brien (1) but did not discuss the point apart from the rulings thereupon.

The only case of this Court to which we are referred is that of the Assistant Sessions Judge of North Arcot v. Ramaswami Asari (5). This arose out of an application to quash the commitment, and the main part for determination was the applicability of section 188 of the Criminal Procedure Code and the necessity of a certificate from the Political Agent. Spencer, J., remarked that the loss occasioned by the breach of trust in that case was a "consequence" within the meaning of section 179 of the Criminal Pro-

(1) 19 A. 111; A. W. N. (1896) 191.

(2) 6 Ind. Cas. 563; 11 Cr. L. J. 372; 7 A. L. J. 319; 32 A. 397.

(3) 15 Ind. Cas. 319; 13 Cr. L. J. 479; 10 A. L. J. 45; 34 A. 487.

(4) 17 Ind. Cas. 792; 13 Cr. L. J. 856; 10 A. L. J. 431; 35 A. 29.

(5) 22 Ind. Cas. 991; 1 L. W. 302; (1914) M. W. N. 324; 15 Cr. L. J. 207; 26 M. L. J. 235.

cedure Code sufficient to give jurisdiction, and quoted Queen-Empress v. O'Brien (1) and George Langridge v. Grace Atkins (4) as authority. But the bulk of the judgment of both learned Judges was devoted to the effect of the want of a certificate, and with all respect we do not feel compelled to treat this as a considered ruling on the point binding upon us.

These are all the cases to which we are referred : and we do not think their effect would justify our adopting a different interpretation of section 179 of the Criminal Procedure Code and section 405 of the Indian Penal Code to that which a careful consideration of the sections themselves seems to indicate.

We set aside the order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and direct the discharge of the petitioners.

Conviction set aside;
Accused discharged.

BOMBAY HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL CONFIRMATION CASE No. 3 OF 1914.

March 9, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Heaton and Mr. Justice Shah.

EMPEROR—PROSECUTOR

versus

HANMARADDI RAMARADDI—ACCUSED.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 162—Statements to Police Officers, admissibility of—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 157.

Under section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code a Police Officer can be allowed to depose to what a witness had said to him in the course of the investigation for the purpose of corroborating the testimony of that witness before the trial Court.

Per Shah, J.—Section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code excludes only the writing.

Criminal Confirmation Case No. 3 with Criminal Appeal No. 42 of 1914 from conviction and sentence passed by the Sessions Judge of Dharwar.

Mr. Velinkar (with him Mr. V. V. Bhadkamkar), for the Accused.

Mr. S. S. Patkar, Goverment Pleader, for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.

HEATON, J.—A certain Hanmaraddi has been convicted of the murder of Rama Valikar and has been sentenced to death. The case comes before us for confirmation of that sentence and also on the appeal of the convict.

It appears that about the 22nd of August 1913 the corpse of a man, whose head was almost severed from his body, was found in the village of Haleratti. On making inquiries the Police discovered from the neighbouring villagers that the murdered man had been accompanied by another man and a woman. They were all strangers to that locality. Neither the identity of the murdered man nor his companions was at the time ascertained. About a month later, however, the identity of the murdered man came to be suspected. His wife was questioned and thereafter the Police were enabled to make complete inquiries. They discovered that the murdered man was one Rama and that his companions were the accused and the deceased's wife, Honnava It was found that Honnava had for some time been living at Makrabi where the accused also lived, that her husband had been working at another village, Magal, that he had taken his wife from Makrabi for a time and that thereafter he and his wife set out to go to Haveri and were joined on the way by the accused. On their journey these three persons crossed the ferry between Bannimatti and Galagnath, whence they proceeded to the place where the corpse was subsequently found. From there Honnava and the accused returned, spending the night at a village on the way and re-crossing the ferry on the following day. This gave the Police an opportunity of which they availed themselves of tracing the movements of these persons and identifying the individuality of each. They have been enabled to put before the Court perfectly credible evidence of all the circumstances that I have stated. Then there is the evidence of the dead man's wife Honnava, who describes how her husband was murdered. It is said that she is an accomplice witness. However that may be, we must, in a case of this kind, regard her evidence with caution, because whether an accomplice or not, she was present at the murder and for weeks thereafter she gave no information about the crime and it is proved that she had illicit intimate relations with the accused. It does not seem to me to matter in the least whether you call her an accomplice or not. Her evidence must be valued in relation to these circumstances. However, in the light of the surrounding circumstances, from the undoubted truth of the facts that the three persons travelled together, that one of them was left dead where his body was found and that the other two returned to their village together, there can be little doubt that the man was murdered by one or both of them. This conclusion is fortified by the subsequent conduct of the accused himself who gave an untrue account of his proceedings and had two letters written at intervals of about a fortnight which were designed to induce people to believe that the murdered man was still alive and working in a distant village. Here, again, the evidence is, to my mind, credible and indeed convincing. Taking the circumstances as a whole, they leave no doubt whatever that the accused was the man, whether helped by the woman or not it does not matter, who killed Rama.

The credit of the elucidation of these circumstances is mainly due to the promptness and intelligence of the Police inquiry and for that inquiry I gather, Balwant Vyankatesh, Sub-Inspector of Haveri, is mainly responsible.

For these reasons I confirm the conviction and also the sentence in this case.

There has arisen and has been discussed a point as to the meaning of section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code. It appears that amongst the villagers, who were near the scene of the offence when the murder took place, was a boy who happened to see the three persons. The deceased's wife before the Committing Magistrate stated that she had not seen this boy. Before the Sessions Court she stated that she had seen him. On this state of facts the defence might very easily and with no other facts bearing on the point known with some force argue that the woman had changed her story, that the earliest known account of the matter which she gave was less favourable to the prosecution case than that she gave to the Sessions Court and thereon they might very properly found an argument that the witnesses had been tampered with and that the case presented clear indications of that kind of influence which properly ought to raise doubts in the mind of the trying Judge. To rebut an argument of this kind it was proved from the mouth of the investigating Police Officer that to him the deceased's wife had said that she saw the boy. If what the investigating Police Officer says be true, then it completely destroys the defence argument. The question argued before us is, whether the Police Officer could, as the law stands, be allowed to depose to what this woman had said to him for the purpose of corroborating what she said before the Sessions Judge. My own opinion is that the Police Officer could depose to that effect. I do not propose to discuss the various authorities which have been referred to. Lengthy arguments on this very point find a place in the books. I will only say that I do not think that either by its terms or by its intention section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code prohibits the Court from receiving such evidence for such a purpose.

SHAH, J.—I concur. The learned Sessions Judge has examined the evidence with great care in an exhaustive judgment and has considered all the arguments urged in favour of the defence. Substantially the same arguments have been urged before us. Generally speaking I agree with the lower Court in its appreciation of the evidence and with the inferences drawn by it.

It is not disputed before us that the deceased whose body was found on the 22nd August last was Rama, the husband of Honnava, and the evidence in the case clearly establishes the fact.

I accept the evidence of Honnava and Gudda as true in the main. Honnava's evidence, no doubt, must be received with caution, though I do not accept the argument that she is an accomplice. She did not give out her present story soon after the occurrence and gave varying accounts from time to time, which was to a certain extent natural under the circumstances. Having regard to the proved circumstances in the case, I am inclined to believe her present account that she saw the accused killing the deceased. As to the evidence of Gudda, quite apart from the fact whether he was seen by Honnava or not, I accept it as true, despite the criticism of Mr. Velinkar on his evidence.

EMPEROR v. HANMARADDI RAMARADDI.

The fact of the journey of the deceased and Honnava in the company of the accused is proved by reliable evidence in the case. The subsequent conduct of the accused, which I do not propose to examine in detail, lends strong corroboration to the prosecution story. It is enough to refer to his association with the letters, Exhibits 27 and 28. The accused is proved to have taken those letters to Satyava, which appear on the evidence to have been written at his instance. It is proved that the deceased was never at Amlikop. The obvious inference that arises from the proved conduct of the accused is that he was trying to conceal the death of Rama, which was known to him. On a careful consideration of the evidence and the arguments advanced on behalf of the accused, I have no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that the deceased Rama was murdered by the accused. The circumstances connected with the crime demand that the sentence should be confirmed.

The Police investigation in this case appears to me to have been made with unusual ability and thoroughness, and affords a telling illustration of the manner in which a case could be investigated without the aid of a confession.

I desire to allude to a point which has been raised before us in connection with Honnava's evidence. It has been pointed out that though she stated before the Committing Magistrate that she did not see any Kurbar boy then, she now denies having made that statement, and says that she had seen a boy from Haleritti. It is urged that the statement before the Committing Magistrate represents the truth. Even then I do not think that the main conclusion in the case is affected in any way. It is urged on behalf of the prosecution, however, that the argument is based upon a misapprehension of facts and that the Sub-Inspector has been examined to show that Honnava stated before the Police that she did see a boy at the time. The question of law that arises is, whether the prosecution can be allowed to adduce oral evidence in proof of her statement before the Police in order to corroborate her testimony at the trial. Her statement to the Police was admittedly reduced to writing, and it is common ground that such writing cannot be used as evidence. Mr. Velinkar contends, and not without force, that it would be unreasonable to allow any oral evidence of the statement to be given when the writing containing the statement cannot be proved. On the other hand, it is argued on the strength of section 157 of the Evidence Act that the right of the prosecution to prove any statement to corroborate the testimony of any witness under that section is not taken away by section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure which only provides that the writing shall not be used as evidence. The point is not free from difficulty which is sufficiently reflected in the diversity of judicial opinions bearing on the question. The judgment of Knox, J., in Rustam v. Emperor (1) and the observations of Beaman, J., in Emperor v. Narayan Raghunath Patki (2) represent one side of the question and the judgment of Karamat Husain, J., in the case of Rustam v. Emperor (1) and the decisions in Fanindra Nath Banerjee v. Emperor (3); Emperor v. Nilakanta (4) and Muthukumaraswami Pillai v. Emperor (5) represent the other side. I have carefully considered the question, and on the whole I incline to the view that looking to the plain language of section 162, Criminal Procedure Code, the writing only is excluded from evidence, but the right to prove any statement made to the Police by oral evidence to corroborate the testimony of any witness is not taken away by that section. This conclusion derives support, from or is at least in consonance with, the view taken by this Court in Emperor v. Babaji (6) in which the Court, while directing a re-trial, ordered that the Chief Constable should be examined as to the statements made to him by the witnesses during the Police investigation. Such an order would be inappropriate, if the oral evidence of the statements were inadmissible. The anomaly, if any, can be remedied by the Legislature. Our duty plainly is to construe the section without unduly straining the language used by the Legislature. I think, therefore, that the evidence of the Sub-Inspector was rightly

(1) 6 Ind. Cas. 101; 7 A. L. J. 468; 11 Cr. L. J. 235.
(2) 9 Bom. L. R 789; 32 B. 111; 6] Cr. L. J. 164; 2 M. L. T. 414 (F. B).
(3) 1 Ind. Cas 970; 5 M. L. T. 97; 13 C. W. N. 197; 9 C. L. J. 199; 9 Cr. L J. 452; 36 C, 281.
(4) 14 Ind. Cas. 849; (1912) M. W. N. 207; 13 Cr. L. J. 305; 22 M. L. J. 490; 35 M. 247; 11 M.L.T. 1 Supp.
(5) 14 Ind. Cas. 896; 13 Cr. L. J. 352; (1912) M. W. N. 549; 12 M. L. T. 1; 35 M. 397.
(6) 9 Bom. L. R. 366; 5 Cr. L. J. 353.

admitted on this point. At the same time, I think that under ordinary circumstances the admission of the oral evidence of the statements made to the Police when they are reduced to writing is not in keeping with the spirit of section 162, Criminal Procedure Code, and the existence of exceptional circumstances would be absolutely necessary to give any appreciable value to such evidence. In this case, for instance, Honnava's statement in question at the trial deserves to be credited, not simply because the Sub-Inspector says that she had made a statement to that effect to him, but mainly on the additional ground that though it was suggested in her cross-examination that she had made a contradictory statement before the Committing Magistrate, it could not be suggested to her that her earlier statement to the Police on this point was in conflict with her present version and that the Sessions Judge did not ask her any question on this point, though she was re-called on the 8th January after the Sub-Inspector was examined and questions on other points, arising out of her statement reduced to writing before the Police, were put to her by the Court.

Conviction and also sentence confirmed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.
CRIMINAL REVISION No. 310 OF 1914.
May 27, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Piggott.
NATHI MALL—APPLICANT
versus
EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 12, 460 528 -Transfer of case Magistrate made Chairman of Municipal Board, whether still Magistrate and subordinate to District Magistrate—Jurisdiction.

A Magistrate, who is gazetted to the office of the Chairman of a Municipal Board and takes charge of that office, is divested of his territorial jurisdiction as Magistrate and is no longer subordinate to the District Magistrate. The latter, therefore, cannot transfer any criminal case to him for trial.

Criminal revision from an order of the District Magistrate of Cawnpur.

Mr. E. A. Howard, for the Applicant.

Mr. R. Malcomson, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—The District Magistrate of Cawnpur has for certain reasons given in his order transferred a criminal case pending in the Court of Mr. J. N. G. Johnston, Joint Magistrate of Cawnpur, for trial by Mr. R. H. Williamson, Chairman f the Municipal Board, Cawnpur. I have no doubt that when Mr. R. H. Williamson was gazetted to the office of the Chairman, Municipal Board, and took charge of that office, he was thereby divested of his territorial jurisdiction as Magistrate, first Class, attached to the Cawnpur District. Even if it could be contended that Mr. Williamson continued to be a Magistrate of some sort while holding the office of Chairman, Municipal Board, I am quite clear that he is not a Magistrate subordinate to the District Magistrate. The order complained of cannot be sustained. It is, therefore, set aside.

Order set aside.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.
CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 599 OF 1914.
May 25, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.
SHERATI SHEIKH alias SHERATI SARCAR—ACCUSED—PETITIONER
versus
EMPEROR ON THE COMPLAINT OF GOBINDA CHANDRA SHAHA —OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 494—Accomplice—Withdrawal of prosecution, effect of—Prior statements of accomplice, whether should be produced.

An accomplice, who is tried jointly with the accused, ceases to be on trial with the accused as soon as the prosecution against him is withdrawn under section 494 of the Criminal Procedure Code, and becomes a competent witness in the case.

Prior statements of such a witness made to and verified by a Magistrate must be made accessible to the accused for the purposes of cross-examination and, if necessary, contradiction.

Criminal revision against an order of the Additional Sessions Judge, Mymensingh, dated 9th March 1914, affirming that of the Deputy Magistrate, Tangail, dated 26th January 1914.

Babu Monmotha Nath Mukerjee, for the Petitioner.

In re PERUMAL NAIDU.

JUDGMENT.—In this case one Sherati Sheikh was convicted on the 26th January 1914 under section 411 of the Indian Penal Code and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for three months and to a fine of Rs. 40.

It appears that in the first instance the petitioner and one Mojum Khan were placed on their trial together and that on the 6th November, with the consent of the Court, the Public Prosecutor withdrew from the prosecution of Mojum Khan under section 494 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

Mojum Khan was thereupon examined as a witness, and it is largely upon his evidence, the evidence of an accomplice, that the petitioner has been convicted.

It appears also that prior to the trial Mojum Khan had made a confession to a Magistrate and that his confession was subsequently verified by the same or another Magistrate to whom presumably, therefore, the confessing prisoner made further statements. The confession and these further statements have not been placed on the record, and on this ground copies were refused to the petitioner.

On his behalf it is then contended before us, first, that no formal order of discharge having been recorded in the case of Mojum Khan, his evidence was inadmissible; and, secondly, that the petitioner has been prejudiced by the failure of the prosecution to produce the confession and further statements of the said witness.

The first contention is based on the case of Banu Singh v. Emperor (1), but in the present case it is clear that notwithstanding the inadvertent omission to record a formal order of discharge the accomplice ceased to be on trial with the present petitioner as soon as the prosecution against him was withdrawn and that being so, he became a competent witness. The matters urged against the value of his testimony do not render it inadmissible.

There can, however, be no question that for the purposes of cross-examination and if necessary, contradiction the prior statements of the witness should have been made accessible to the accused, and we are at a loss to understand why the Public Prosecutor should have withheld them and why the trying Magistrate failed to compel their production.

(1) 33 C. 1353; 10 C. W. N. 962; 4 Cr. L. J. 145.

We, therefore, set aside the conviction of and sentence imposed upon the petitioner and direct that he be re-tried, the re-trial to take place before some other competent Magistrate at Tangail if available, if not at the District headquarters.

Rule made absolute.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 689 OF 1914.
CRIMINAL REVISION PETITION No. 580 OF 1914.
October 15, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar.

In re PERUMAL NAIDU AND OTHERS —ACCUSED Nos. 1 AND 3 TO 6—PETITIONERS.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 424—Appellate Court, whether entitled to alter conviction for principal offence into one of abetment—Abettor present at commission of offence, whether can be convicted of principal offence.

An Appellate Court cannot alter a conviction of an accused into one of abetment.

If an accused who abetted an offence was present at the commission of it he is rightly convicted of the principal offence.

Petition, under sections 435 and 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, praying the High Court to revise the judgment of the first Class Deputy Magistrate of Saidapet Division, in Criminal Appeal No. 14 of 1914, preferred against that of the Second Class Magistrate of Poonammalle in C. C. No. 43 of 1914.

Mr. R. N. Aiyanger, for the Petitioners.

ORDER.—The Appellate Magistrate should not have altered the conviction of the 1st accused to one of abetment and he had no right to alter it. [See Padmanabha Payi Kanniah v. Emperor (1)]. As the 1st accused was present at the commission of the offence which he abetted, he was rightly convicted by the trial Magistrate of the principal offence (section 114, Indian Penal Code).

On the merits I see no reason to interfere and having pointed out his error to the Appellate Magistrate, I reject this revision petition.

Petition rejected.

(1) 5 Ind. Cas 145; 7 M. L. T. 79; 11 Cr. L. J. 49; 20 M. L. J. 84; 33 M. 264.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 412 OF 1914.
CRIMINAL REVISION PETITION No. 344 OF 1914.
November 12, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling.
In re ANANTHA PADIYARA—ACCUSED No. 4—PETITIONER.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 239—"Same transaction," meaning of—Trespass and on ejection assembling men to force entry, whether part of same transaction—Joint trial, whether legal.

The act of a trespasser in entering into a factory, and, subsequent to his ejection therefrom, his act in assembling men to force an entry into it, are acts unconnected with each other and do not form part of the same transaction, within the meaning of section 239 of the Criminal Procedure Code, and a joint trial for such offences is illegal.

Mussalappa v. Emperor, 6 Ind. Cas. 242; 7 M. L. T. 367; 11 Cr. L. J. 293; (1910) M. W. N. 541; Gobind Koeri v. Emperor, 29 C. 385; 6 C. W. N. 485; Subrahmania Aiyar v. King-Emperor, 25 M. 61; 11 M. L. J. 253; 3 Bom. L. R. 540; 5 C. W. N. 866; 28 I A 257 (P. C.); 2 Weir 271, followed.

Petition, under sections 435 and 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, praying the High Court to revise the judgment of the Sessions Court of South Canara, in Criminal Appeal No. 60 of 1913, preferred against that of the Joint Magistrate of Coondapur in C. C. No. 66 of 1913.

Dr. Swaminadhan, for the Petitioner.

The Acting Public Prosecutor, for the Government.

ORDER.—The sole question for determination in this case is whether the offences forming the subject-matter of the three charges can be said to have been committed "in the same transaction" within the meaning of section 239 of the Criminal Procedure Code. The second and third charges may be said to arise out of actions of the same unlawful assembly in prosecution of the same common object, and forming part of the same transaction. But this cannot, in my opinion, be said of the first charge, which relates to the initial trespass of accused Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 11 into the factory. The formation of the unlawful assembly which committed the acts referred to in the second and third charges only began after the ejection of the trespassers and I cannot find any ground for holding that the collection of this assembly formed part of any pre-concerted plan entertained at the time of the original trespass. It seems to have arisen solely in consequence of the forcible ejection of the trespassers.

The cases dealt with in Mussalappa v. Emperor (1) and Gobind Koeri v. Emperor (2) are very similar cases, in each of which there was held to be misjoinder of charges, and I can only hold that there was misjoinder here in respect of the first charge on the one hand and the second and third charges on the other.

The conviction must, therefore, be set aside. Vide Subrahmania Aiyar v. King-Emperor (3).

As petitioner has already undergone the sentence imposed on him, it does not seem necessary or desirable to order a re-trial and neither his Counsel nor the Public Prosecutor suggest that course.

Petition allowed; Conviction set aside.

(1) 6 Ind. Cas. 242; 7 M L T. 367; 11 Cr. L. J. 293; (1910) M. W. N. 541.
(2) 29 C. 385; 6 C. W. N. 468.
(3) 25 M. 61; 11 M. L. J. 233; 3 Bom. L. R. 540; 5 C. W. N. 866; 28 I. A. 257 (P. C.); 2 Weir 271.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 697 OF 1914.
CRIMINAL REVISION PETITION No. 586 OF 1914.
November 19, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar.
EMPEROR—PETITIONER
versus
RICE—ACCUSED.

Motor Vehicles Act (XI of 1890), s. 6 (1)—Charge against both coachman and owner, whether illegal.

There is nothing in section 6 (1) of Act XI of 1890, restricting the prosecution of either the "coachman or the owner." The prosecution of both or one after another is not illegal. A conviction of one does not operate as a bar to the trial of the other.

Petition, under sections 435 and 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, praying the High Court to revise the order of the Court of the Honorary Presidency Bench Magistrates, Egmore, in C. C. No. 21338-A of 1914.

The Crown Prosecutor, for the Government

Mr. S. Venkatachallam Pillai, for Mr. S. Gurusami Chetty, for the Accused.

ORDER.—The Honorary Magistrates were wrong in holding that under section 6 (1) of Act XI of 1890 "either the coachman or the owner" could be prosecuted, evidently meaning that both cannot be prosecuted and that the prosecution of one is a bar to the prosecution of the other.

EMPEROR v. GANESH.

I see nothing in the section which prevents the prosecution of both together or one after the other.

The order of acquittal is set aside and the case will be heard and disposed of by the Bench de novo.

Acquittal set aside.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION No. 1036 OF 1913.

February 16, 1914.

Present:—Justice Sir George Knox, KT.

EMPEROR—PROSECUTOR

versus

GANESH AND OTHERS—ACCUSED.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 110, 112—Detention in custody on mere request of Police—Magistrate to consider reasons and to place them on record.

Persons, who after investigation made have been found to be persons not proved to have been concerned in any cognizable offence and against whom there is no reasonable complaint or suspicion of their having been so concerned, should at once be released and any further detention of them is a detention not warranted by law. A Magistrate has no jurisdiction of any kind to act under section 110 of the Code of Criminal Procedure until he has sufficient information before him as will suffice for making an order in writing setting forth its substance and the further particulars required by section 112 of the Code.

Reference submitted by the Sessions Judge of Cawnpore as per his letter No. 59/III, dated 21st January 1914.

JUDGMENT.—From the papers on the record it would appear that Ganesh and Raja had been arrested by the Police on a suspicion of having been concerned in a dacoity. That suspicion was apparently ill-founded, and on the 8th of April the Police asked for the detention of these two persons as persons against whom an inquiry ought to be made under section 110 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. This Court has always pointed out that procedure of this kind is illegal. The Magistrate, upon receiving the report from the Police, should at once have declined to pass any such order. Ganesh and Raja were persons who after investigation made had been found to be persons not proved to have been concerned in any cognizable offence and against whom there was no reasonable complaint or suspicion of their having been so concerned. They should have been at once released and any further detention of them was a detention not warranted by law. The Police, however, while to their credit they informed the Magistrate that this was the state of things, asked that Magistrate to detain Ganesh and Raja in custody and to authorise their detention for a still further time. The learned Magistrate upon this request of the Police authorised detention but did not record his reasons for so doing. Here he committed a clear breach of the law. If he had, as the law requires him to do, paused to consider reasons and to place them on record, he would probably have discovered the false position into which he was getting.

A Magistrate has no jurisdiction of any kind to act under section 110 of the Code of Criminal Procedure until he has such information before him as will suffice for his making an order in writing, setting forth its substance and the further particulars required by section 112 of the Code. The Magistrate had no such foundation and he made no order such as is required under section 112. All that the Magistrate had before him on the 8th of April pointed strongly to the inference that Ganesh and Raja had been wrongly suspected of dacoity and that with an object of their further detention proceedings under section 110, they resting on no substance at all, were being used against them. Unconsidered action like this tends to bring discredit upon Magistrates. Ganesh and Raja were detained in custody, the former until the 20th of April and the latter until the 15th of April. A third person, Chumman, was arrested on the 9th of April and remained in custody until the 18th of June. So little foundation had the Police for their action at that time that it was not until the 22nd April that the notice required by section 112 was read over to Ganesh, Raja, and Chumman. The notice which was read over on the 22nd was an utterly bad notice, and I am somewhat surprised that the learned Magistrate should have affixed his signature to it. It did not set out the substance of the information that the Magistrate had received. From its terms it would appear that the Magistrate had no information before him until the 22nd of April and that this order authorising detention, as pointed out above, was an order not justified by law. So unprepared even then was the evidence against these persons that it was not until the 8th of May that any witnesses except a Sub-Inspector were examined as against them. After the 8th of May, the action of the learned Magistrate continues to be as erratic as before. He takes the evidence of three witnesses against Ganesh and the others, and then the evidence of sixteen witnesses who apparently deposed in their favour. On the 10th of May, the Sub-Inspector was again sent for, examined and cross-examined. Counsel for the accused then asked for two days' time in which to produce a copy of a document, then for two days further in order to produce a Law Report. A Sub-Inspector was next asked to produce Law Reports in support of his view. This occupied the Court to the 20th of May. On the 20th of May both the Sub-Inspector and Counsel for Ganesh and others asked permission to produce further evidence. Twenty-six witnesses were put forward by this Sub-Inspector and twenty-two witnesses were put forward by Ganesh and others. Finally, on the 18th of June, Ganesh, Raja and Chumman were called upon to execute bonds with sureties for periods of one year and under.

No wonder that the learned District Magistrate observes that the learned Magistrate's action in this case is open to severe stricture. If the learned Magistrate would only follow the procedure laid down in the Code and not a fancy procedure of his own, he would find that he would decide cases better and at a far less cost of time and trouble to all concerned.

Let the record be returned.

Record returned.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.
CRIMINAL RULE No. 404 OF 1913.
May 8, 1913.
Present:—Mr. Justice Imam and Mr. Justice Chapman.
ANUKUL CHANDRA ROY—PETITIONER
versus
KAMARALI SARDAR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Workmen's Breach of Contract Act (XIII of 1859), s. 2—Order of imprisonment, when to be passed—Appeal from order under s. 2, whether lies.

As an order passed by a Magistrate under section 2 of the Workmen's Breach of Contract Act does not come under the provisions of section 408, Criminal Procedure Code, no appeal lies to a Sessions Judge from such an order.

An order of imprisonment cannot be passed under section 2 of the Workmen's Breach of Contract Act unless there is a non-compliance with the order of re-payment or carrying out the contract.

Babu Brojendra Nath Chatterjee, for the Petitioner.

JUDGMENT.—This was a Rule calling upon the District Magistrate of Nadia as well as the opposite party to show cause why the decision of the learned Sessions Judge should not be set aside on the ground that it was passsd without jurisdiction, and why the order of the Honorary Magistrate should not be set aside on the ground that Act XIII of 1859 does not apply to the accused.

The accussd in this case has been ordered under section 2 of Act XIII of 1859 to perform a certain contract that he entered into as a workman. All that we have got to see in connection with this case is whether the accused is a workman or not. The evidence is clear that he is a workman. In fact the contract was given to him on the basis of his being a workman and he engaged to do the work himself and to get it done by others, and in consideration of his agreeing to do this he received from the petitioner's master large sums of money aggregating to over Rs. 8,000. A certain portion of the work has been done and Rs. 2,078 is yet due for which work has to be rendered. The accused has refused to do any more work and hence the order passed by the Honorary Magistrate in this case. Against that order the accused appealed to the Judge, who has set aside the order of the Honorary Magistrate on the ground that the Act does not apply to the accused along with some other grounds. We see that in this case no appeal lay to the Judge. The order passed by the Magistrate does not come under the provisions of section 408 to make it appealable to the Judge. We, therefore, set aside the order of the learned Judge purporting to have been passed in appeal. That order being vacated, the order of the Honorary Magistrate will remain.

But we notice that the learned Magistrate has erred in directing the accused to suffer imprisonment for three months. That order could be passed under section 2 after there is a non-compliance with the order of re-payment or carrying out the contract.

We, therefore, make the Rule absolute in respect of the first part of the Rule and discharge the Rule in respect of the second portion.

The first part of the Rule made absolute.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION No. 867 OF 1914.

November 6, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Tudball.

SAGARMAN OR SURJIRAMA—APPLICANT

versus

EMPEROR THROUGH BHAGWAN DAS—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 195—Sanction to prosecute—Application made after four months—Delay, whether excusable.

An application for sanction to prosecute ought to be made promptly. A delay of four months is too long.

Revision against an order of the Sessions Judge of Agra.

Mr. Howard, for the Applicant.

Mr. Benode Behari, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—This and the connected applications numbered 868, 869 and 870 are applications in respect of sanctions which were granted by the Sessions Judge of Agra for the prosecution of the applicants for offences under sections 211 and 193 of the Indian Penal Code. The applicant, Raghbar Dayal, had a brother who was drowned, accidently or otherwise, in the river at Agra. He thought that the opposite party had been instrumental in the death of his brother. The Police made inquiries and reported that the death was accidental. He filed a petition in Court and the Magistrate made further inquiries and on the 5th of December 1913 dismissed his complaint. The inquiries had been made under section 203 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Four months afterwards the opposite party applied to the Magistrate for sanction. The Magistrate chiefly on the ground that the opposite party had been guilty of unexplained delay in applying for sanction, refused to grant it. The Sessions Judge has granted the sanction.

In my opinion the order of the Magistrate is the better of the two. It is hardly credible that the opposite party had no knowledge of the proceedings in Court and if they wished to obtain sanction, they ought to have come into Court promptly and not after so long a period as four months. In such a case as this it is highly undesirable to grant sanction. I, therefore, allow the application and set aside the order of the Sessions Judge.

Application allowed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL RULE No. 595 OF 1914.

May 21, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.

MANIPUR DEY—PETITIONER

versus

BIDHU BHUSAN SARKAR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 133—Question of title raised—Magistrate, duty of, to decide bona fides of question—Procedure—Civil Court, reference to—Party failing to have recourse to Civil Court—Magistrate, power of—Power under s. 133, how to be used.

Per Sharfuddin, J. (Teunon, J. dubitante)—

When a person called upon to show cause under section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, raises a question of title, the trying Magistrate must decide whether the question has been raised bona fide or it is set up only to oust the jurisdiction of the Court. If the Magistrate finds that the claim set up is a mere pretence, he should pass final orders and make the Rule absolute, but if he finds that it is bona fide raised, he should stay his hand and refer the party to Civil Court. And if the party within a reasonable time does not have recourse to Civil Court, the Magistrate may then proceed to make the Rule absolute.

MANIPUR DEY v. BIDHU BHUSAN SARKAR.

The provisions of section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, should be sparingly used as any order passed under the section cannot be questioned in any Civil Court.

Criminal Rule against the order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Manikganj, dated the 28th February 1914.

Mr. K. N. Chowdhuri, Counsel, with Babu Upendra Lal Roy, for the Petitioner.

Mr. P. L. Roy Counsel, with Babu Ramoni Mohan Chatterji, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.

SHARFUDDIN, J.—This is a Rule calling upon the District Magistrate of Dacca to show cause why the order passed under sections 133 and 137, Criminal Procedure Code, dated the 28th February 1914, should not be set aside on the ground that having regard to the bona fide question of title raised and in the absence of any finding that the objection raised was not bona fide, the order is without jurisdiction. It appears from the order of the Deputy Magistrate concerned, that Manipur Dey, the petitioner before us, on receipt of a notice under section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, appeared and alleged that the pathway in question was not a public pathway. The following are the findings of the trying Magistrate with regard to the objection thus raised: "It is contended on behalf of Manipur that the way cannot be called public if a few neighbours and acquaintances have acquired mere permissive right thereto. . . . It is idle in the present case to urge that the way is Manipur's private property; it is waste land lying between houses and extending beyond Manipur's house. . . . It is pointed out that the Settlement Department has not recognised the way as a public rasta. It is to be remembered that a rasta which is less than 15 links in width is incapable of representation on the Settlement map (scale 16 inches to a mile), and is ordinarily ignored in the khatians." Section 133 occurs in a Chapter headed Public Nuisances, and the section itself deals with unlawful obstruction, etc., of any way, etc., used by the public, etc. Sub-section (2) of section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, provides that no order duly made by a Magistrate under this section shall be called in question in any Civil Court. From this latter provision it is clear that the provisions of section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, should be sparingly used. Any order passed under this section cannot be questioned in any Civil Court. It is, therefore, necessary that if the party against whom the order is contemplated to be passed, raises a question that the pathway is not a public property in the sense of the provisions of this section, the Magistrate trying the case should be careful not only to decide as to whether the pathway in question is situated on a private land, or if it is for public use, but he should even when the claim of the objector is not substantiated, find whether the claim is bona fide, or it is set up only to oust the jurisdiction of the Court. If the Magistrate finds that the claim which is set up is a mere pretence, he should then proceed to pass a final order and make the Rule issued by him absolute. If, however, he finds that the claim, although not substantiated, is not a mere pretence and is not raised to oust the jurisdiction of the Court, but that it is raised bona fide, he should stay his hand and refer the party to Civil Court. And if the party within a reasonable time does not have recourse to Civil Court, the Magistrate may then proceed to make the Rule absolute. In the present case the objector, who is the petitioner before us, had contended that the pathway in question was a private property and that only the neighbours and acquaintances had been using it in a permissive way. The question is whether this contention on the part of the objector is a bona fide contention or not. From the findings of the lower Court it is clear that the pathway in question is close to the objector's house. It is apparent from the judgment of the lower Court that the path in question has not been shown as a pathway in the map prepared by the Settlement Department. Regard being had to the above two facts, I think it was necessary for the lower Court to have come to a finding as to whether the claim set up by the objector was a mere pretence or whether it was bona fide. In this view I am supported by a number of authorities of this Court, viz., the cases of Belat Ali v. Abdur Rahim (1);

(1) 8 C.W.N. 143; 1 Cr. L. J. 70.

Matukdhari Tewari v. Hari Madhab (2); Luckhee Narain v. RamKumar(3)and Preonath v. Gobordhone (4).

For the above reasons, I would set aside the order complained against and make the Rule absolute. I would further direct that the lower Court should try the case from the point reached on the 13th January 1914 and dispose of it according to law.

TEUNON, J.—Having regard to the long series of decisions in which this Court has held that when a person called upon to show cause under section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, raises a question of title the trying Magistrate must decide whether that question has been raised in good faith; I am prepared, in the present case, without agreeing in all the reasons advanced by my learned colleague to assent to the order proposed by him.

Rule made absolute.

(2) 9 C. W. N. 72; 2 Cr. L. J. 11; 31 C. 979.
(3) 15 C. 564.
(4) 25 C. 278.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

CIVIL REVISION NO. 50 OF 1914.

May 23, 1914.

Present:—Justice Sir George Knox, KT.

RAJA RAM—APPLICANT

versus

EMPEROR—OPPISITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 4 (h), 195, 476—Complaint—Sanction.

Where the order of the Court was "I hereby complain against R ..... that he on..... .....filed two false and forged bonds in suit No. ....., ... in the Court of.....and thereby committed an offence under sections 471/467 and 209, Indian Penal Code. The papers will be sent to the District Magistrate with the request that they may be made over to a competent Court for disposal:"

Held, that this was a complaint as defined in section 4 (b) and not a sanction under section 195 or section 476 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Civil Revision from an order of the Sessions Judge of Mainpuri.

Mr. W. Wallach, for the Applicant.

Mr. A. E. Ryves, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—This is an application in revision. One Raja Ram asks this Court to set aside an order passed by the Judge of Mainpuri on the 10th of March 1914. The application does not state whether the Judge of Mainpuri passed the order as a District Judge or Sessions Judge. I have read the order which the applicant asks me to set aside and I have heard a very long and strenuous argument made by the learned Counsel for Raja Ram. The order as it stands is very clear. It runs as follows: "I hereby complain against Raja Ram, son of Ganga Ram, Brahman of Kachal that he, on 15th of July 1912, filed two false and forged bonds in Suit No. 337 of 1912 (Raja Ram v. Babua) in the Court of Small Causes, Mainpuri, and thereby committed an offence under section 471/467 of the Indian Penal Code and section 209 of the Indian Penal Code. The papers will be sent to the District Magistrate with the request that they be made over to a competent Court for disposal." This document falls within the definition of the word "complaint" as given in section 4 (h) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. It is an allegation made in writing to a Magistrate with a view to his taking action under the Code of Criminal Procedure that some person known and mentioned in the complaint has committed the offence. It is not a sanction given under section 195 or under section 476 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The Judge was a Court to which the Munsif of Mainpuri was subordinate. He was acting within his jurisdiction in making the complaint and it has not been shown to me that in taking such action he was acting with material irregularity. The order is not open to revision. I dismiss this application with costs. The stay order is removed.

Application dismissed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL RULE NO. 27 OF 1914.

February 13, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Holmwood and Mr. Justice Sharfuddin.

PRABHAT CHANDRA CHATTERJEE AND OTHERS—1ST PARTY—PETITIONERS

versus

PRASANNA KUMAR SEN AND OTHERS—2nd PARTY—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 145, 522—Order under s. 522, whether bars proceedings under s. 145.

An order under section 522, Criminal Procedure Code, which is never carried out, does not bar the jurisdiction of a Criminal Court under section 145.

Application for revision against the order of the Deputy Magistrate, Faridpur, dated the 24th October 1913, in a proceeding under section 145, Criminal Procedure Code.

Mr. Bagram and Babu Monmatha Nath Mukherjee, for the Petitioners.

Messrs. Caspersz and A. K. Fazul Huq and Babu Probodh Chandra Roy, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—This was a Rule calling upon the District Magistrate of Faridpur and the opposite party to show cause why the order under section 145 should not be set aside as made without jurisdiction, inasmuch as there is a subsisting order under section 522 which rendered any order under section 145 ultra vires.

What we understood by the subsisting order under section 522 was the order by which the Criminal Court had, as a matter of fact, restored possession to the person who had been ejected from the property by criminal violence. But having heard from the learned Counsel on both sides the actual facts in connection with this case, we find that possession under section 522 was never as a fact delivered to the petitioner and that there was no bar to any proceeding under section 145 which the Magistrate, whose concern under that section is only with the place of his district, was not entitled to take. It is in vain to say that the Magistrate has no jurisdiction to stay his own order under section 522 or that the effect of the conviction being set aside by the High Court does not necessarily do away with the order under section 522 and specific order must be passed by the Appellate Court setting it aside. All this is perfectly true as a proposition of law; but here, as in all questions of possession, we have to deal with what is purely a question of fact and the facts being as they are, we find that the order purporting to have been passed under section 522 on the 22nd February 1913 was infructuous and was never carried out and it was, therefore, no bar to the jurisdiction of the Criminal Court under section 145. To hold otherwise would be to take grave risks of continual breaches of the peace in connection with matters which had been dealt with by judicial orders which had never been carried out. The mere fact that an order has been obtained cannot possibly oust the jurisdiction of another Court, which has to deal with the preservation of the peace, in face of the fact that the previous order has never been carried out.

The Rule must, therefore, be discharged.

Rule discharged.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION No. 274-B OF 1913

September 2, 1913.

Present:—Mr. Justice Twomey.

MA THAW—PETITIONER

versus

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 488, 490—Maintenance - Recovery of arrears—Jurisdiction.

An order for the recovery of arrears of maintenance may be made either by the Magistrate who passed the original order or by a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the district where the person ordered to pay maintenance has gone to reside.

JUDGMENT.—The facts of this case are set forth in the following extract from the order of reference by the Bassein Sessions Court:—"On the 28th October 1910 the the petitioner, Ma Thaw, was granted by the Second Additional Magistrate of Bassein, in his Criminal Miscellaneous No. 103 of 1910, an order under section 488 of the Criminal Procedure Code, directing her husband, Maung Tut Ni, to pay her monthly the sum of Rs. 20 for the maintenance of herself and her child.

"On the 12th August 1913 Ma Thaw applied to the Second Additional Magistrate, Bassein, for the recovery of Rs. 200 due as arrears under this maintenance order. On the same day the Second Additional Magistrate Maung San Win, a First Class Magistrate, returned the petition to her with an endorsement to the effect that under section 490, Criminal Procedure Code, the order can only be enforced by a Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the respondent now is. In the heading of the petition it was stated that the respondent was an Excise Officer, serving at Minhla, Upper Burma (Thayetmyo District.)

"Ma Thaw now applies for revision of this order, filing the original petition and order.

MA THAW v. EMPEROR.

"In my opinion the Magistrate's order is wrong. Section 490 is not very satisfactorily worded, and when taken by itself suggests the view that the Magistrate has taken. But even by itself I do not think it is sufficient to establish that view. As a matter of natural principle if a Magistrate has power to pass an order he, has also the power to take the necessary steps to enforce it.

"In this particular case it would appear that the respondent was living in the Bassein District when the order was passed. But supposing that no order had yet been passed and that this was an application for an order for maintenance, then the Second Additional Magistrate would have jurisdiction to pass the order provided that petitioner could show that she and respondent had last resided together in this district. See section 488 (9). On the Magistrate's view, although he could pass that order he could not afterwards enforce it, which is absurd.

"In the case of Queen v. Karri Papayamma (1), it was held that section 538 of the old Code did not deprive the Magistrate who has made an order for maintenance of the power given to him by section 536. The only difference between the two Codes seems to be that the words 'may be enforced' in section 490 of the present Code have been subtituted for 'shall be enforceable' in the old one. This does not seem to me to make any essential difference.

"The learned Judges of the Madras High Court held, however, that the Magistrate who passed the order (including, of course, his successor) had discretion either to exercise his jurisdiction or to refer the applicant to the Magistrate having jurisdiction at the place in which the respondent is to be found. With all due respect to this opinion I am unable to agree with it. The effect of the law, as the learned Judges interpreted it and as I understand it, is to give the applicant the option of proceeding either in the Court which originally passed the order or in that having local jurisdiction over the respondent. I know of no authority under which either of those Courts could refuse to exercise a jurisdiction which it possesses merely on the ground that some other Court also has concurrent jurisdiction. If the principle were adopted, then it seems to me that any of the Courts referred to in section 488 (9) would also have discretion to refuse to exercise the jurisdiction conferred by that clause.

"As a matter of fact this portion of section 490 seems to be superfluous. Section 488 (3) prescribes the procedure to be adopted in case of a breach of the order, and section 488 (9) appears to apply to this clause just as much as to clause (1).

"No doubt there may be inconvenience in proceeding in Bassein, but there is obviously at least equal inconvenience if the petitioner is referred to Thayetmyo. She would have to travel there and stay there some time, and it is quite likely that, as she says in her present petition, she cannot afford to do so. In this case the order of the Magistrate would operate to deprive her of her legal right to have the order enforced."

I concur in the learned Sessions Judge's remarks. The provisions of section 490 cannot be held to derogate from section 488 (3). Under section 488 (3) the Magistrate who has passed the order for maintenance can levy the amount due in the manner provided for levying fines, that is to say, he can issue a warrant under section 386 for the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the person against whom the order was passed. Such a warrant can be executed either within the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate, or without such limits under section 387 when it has been endorsed by the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the moveable property is found. It must be held that section 490 merely provides an alternative course by enabling the person in whose favour the order was passed to apply direct to a Magistrate in any district where the person bound by the order may be. That Magistrate, on satisfying himself as to the identity of the parties and the non-payment of the allowance, will enforce the order by issuing a distress warrant in accordance with section 386. I agree with the Sessions Judge in thinking that it is left to the applicant to choose whether she should apply to the Magistrate who passed the original order or to a Magistrate having jurisdiction at the place where the respondent may be.

(1) 4 M. 230; 2 Weir 652.

The order of the Second Additional Magistrate, Bassein, returning the petition is set aside and it is ordered that the said Magistrate shall receive it and deal with it according to law.

Order set aside.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE NO. 727 OF 1914.

June 4, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.

GAYA ROY—PETITIONER

versus

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Police Act (IV B. C. of 1866), s. 13B, cl. (c)—Police constable in possession of money contrary to order, conviction of—Defence, consideration of—Plea of guilty—Admission—Government order, proof of—Practice.

A copy of the Government order or an extract therefrom or a reference thereto should be placed on the record if a person is convicted of having contravened that order.

A Police constable when being tried under section 13B, clause (c), of Act IV of 1866 for being in possession of a sum of four annas while on duty contrary to an order of the Commissioner of Police, pleaded guilty to having the money in possession but stated he was not on duty:

Held, that the plea of guilty was to be looked upon merely as an admission of the fact that he had at the time in question the sum of annas four upon his person and that he could not be convicted unless his defence was considered and adjudicated upon.

Criminal revision against an order of the Second Presidency Magistrate of Calcutta, dated the 1st May 1914.

Babu Tarakeswar Pal Chowdhury, for the Petitioner.

JUDGMENT.—In this case the petitioner, a Police constable, was convicted under section 13B, cl. (c), of Act IV of 1866 and sentenced to 14 days' rigorous imprisonment. The charge against him was that while on duty in Kyd Street he was in possession of a sum of annas four contrary to an order passed by the Commissioner of Police, which was his duty as such Police officer to obey. He was placed on his trial and one witness was examined. Thereupon, it appears, the accused pleaded guilty to having, as a matter of fact, the money in his possesion. He was thereupon convicted and thereafter obtained the present Rule from this Court calling upon the Chief Presidency Magistrate to show cause why the conviction of and the sentence imposed upon him should not be set aside on the ground, first, that the order said to have been contravened was not proved, and secondly, that it was not proved that the constable at the time in question was on duty. In his explanation the Presidency Magistrate says: "the rule, the contravention of which was the subject-matter of the complaint, is contained in Government Order No. 746 P., dated 12th February 1910, and as such requires no formal proof." That may be so. But it was advisable that a copy of the Government Order or an extract therefrom or a reference thereto should have been placed on the record. It is then stated that the witness examined, viz., the Sub-Inspector deposed that the accused was on duty at the time in question. The duty has not been specified. The accused now states that at the time in question he was in fact not engaged on Police duty, but was engaged in the private business of a certain Police officer. It would seem from the affidavit filed in support of the application for the present Rule, which has not been contradicted, that before the trying Magistrate he made this statement and also the statement that he had been on duty the previous night. It would thus appear that his plea of guilty is to be looked upon merely as an admission of the fact that he had at the time in question the sum of annas four upon his person.

In these circumstances, we make the Rule absolute, set aside the conviction and sentence and direct that the petitioner be re-tried and that in the re-trial his defence be considered and adjudicated upon. We further direct that the re-trial do take place at the Central Police Court before the Chief Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate to be nominated by him.

Rule made absolute.

In re THE SESSIONS JUDGE, MADURA.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.
CRIMINAL MISCELLANEOUS PETITION NO. 485 OF 1914.
November 14, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Spencer.
In re THE SESSIONS JUDGE, MADURA —PETITIONER.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 212, 347—Magistrate, power of, to commit to Sessions after summoning and examining defence witnesses.

The discretion given to a Magistrate to commit a case to the Sessions, under section 347 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is neither restricted nor taken away merely because he issues summons to the defence witnesses under section 212 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and examines them.

Phanindra Nath Mitra v. Emperor, 1 Ind. Cas. 469; 12 C. W. N. 1014; 8 Cr. L J. 221; 36 C. 48, followed.

Queen-Empress v Ahmadi, 20 A. 264; A. W. N. (1898) 52, Emperor v. Muhammad Hadi, 26 A. 177; 1 Cr. L. L. 357, dissented from.

Petition praying that in the circumstances stated therein the High Court will be pleased to quash commitment of the accused in Sessions Case No. 56 of 1914, on the file of the Court of the Sessions Judge, Madura, (R. C. XII of 1914, on the file of the 2nd Class Magistrate, Nelakottai).

ORDER.—Section 347, Criminal Procedure Code, empowers a Magistrate in any trial at any stage of the proceedings, when he makes up his mind to commit for trial, to stop further proceedings and commit the accused. It is pointed out in Phanindra Nath Mitra v. Emperor (1) that this section belongs to Chapter XXIV and is not governed by the provisions of section 208 in Chapter XVIII, which lay down the procedure to be followed before the Magistrate decides that the case is one for the Sessions.

The above ruling dissents from the views expressed in Queen-Empress v. Ahmadi (2) and in Emperor v. Muhammad Hadi (3) and is based on sound reasons. It is true that there the application to cite defence witnesses, was made after the Magistrate had decided to commit, while here the Magistrate had already issued summonses to the defence witnesses named in the list put in by the accused's Pleader on September 21st and had examined some of them before he made up his mind on September 29th to commit.

(1) 1 Ind. Cas. 469; 36 C. 48; 12 C. W. N. 1014; 8 Cr. L. J. 221.
(2) 20 A. 264; A. W. N. (1898) 52.
(3) 26 A. 177; 1 Cr. L. J. 357.

GENU MANJHI v. EMPEROR.

But section 212 of the Code of Criminal Procedure shows that it is not imperative on a Magistrate to examine any defence witnesses after reaching the stage of framing a charge under section 210; and the power to stop proceedings at any stage which section 347 rests in him, is unqualified.

Applying, therefore, the test applied in Phanindra Nath Mitra v. Emperor (1) there is no ground to interfere with the order of commitment in this case. The records will be returned to the Sessions Judge in order that he may proceed with the trial.

Records returned.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.
CRIMINAL REFERENCE NO. 433 OF 1914.
May 8, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.
GENU MANJHI AND ANOTHER—ACCUSED —PETITIONER
versus
EMPEROR ON THE PROSECUTION OF KURKURI TANTI—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), ss. 147, 323—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 236, 237, applicability of—Rioting, charge and conviction of—Appellate Court, power of, to set aside conviction of rioting and convict under s. 323.

Where the accused were originally charged under section 147, Indian Penal Code, and convicted and sentenced under that section, but on appeal the Appellate Court held that there was no case under section 147, Indian Penal Code, but that there was a case against them under section 323, Indian Penal Code, and accordingly set aside the conviction and sentence under section 147, Indian Penal Code, and convicted the accused under section 323, Indian Penal Code, although no charge was originally framed against them under that section:

Held, that as no charge was framed against the accused of an offence under section 323, Indian Penal Code, they were not prepared to give any defence against that charge; and, unless the facts of the case brought it under section 236, Criminal Procedure Code, they could not be lawfully convicted of any other offence under section 237 of the Code.

Yakub Ali v. Lethu Thakur, 30 C. 288, referred to.

Criminal revision against an order of the Sessions Judge, Bhagalpur, dated the 15th January 1914.

BECHAI v. EMPEROR.

Babus Dasarathi Sanyal and Atul Chandra Dutt for Babu Sailendra Nath Palit, for the Petitioners.

JUDGMENT.—This is a Rule calling upon the District Magistrate of Bhagalpur to show cause why the conviction of and the sentence passed on the petitioners under section 323, Indian Penal Code, should not be set aside on the ground that there was no charge framed against them of any offence under that section, or why such other order should not be made as to this Court may seem fit and proper.

It appears that the petitioners were originally charged under section 147, Indian Penal Code, and convicted and sentenced under that section to undergo rigorous imprisonment for four months. On appeal, the Appellate Court held that there was no case under section 147, Indian Penal Code, and that there was a case against the accused under section 323, Indian Penal Code, for having caused hurt. The learned Sessions Judge, therefore, set aside the conviction and sentence under section 147, Indain Penal Code, and convicted the petitioners of the offience of commiting hurt and inflicted a fine of Rs. 50 on each. They moved this Court and obtained the present Rule. The Magistrate in his explanation says that most likely the petitioners relied on section 238 of the Criminal Procedure Code, but their case really falls under section 237 of the Code. Section 237 has to be read with section 236. If the facts of the case do not fall under section 236, section 237 has got no application. There is no doubt that the offence committed, as found by the lower Appellate Court, was an offence of causing hurt. But the accused were not prepared to give any defence against the charge of hurt. There was no charge framed against them for an offence of causing hurt. They had, therefore, no opportunity to defend themselves on this charge.

In making this Rule absolute we may refer to the case of Yakub Ali v. Lethu Thakur (1) which is on all fours with the present case.

The Rule is, therefore, made absolute. The fine, if paid, must be refunded.

Rule made absolute.

(1) 30 C. 288.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION NO. 234 OF 1914.

June 17, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Chamier.

BECHAI—PLAINTIFF—APPLICANT

versus

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 117—Enquiries under Chap. VIII—Rules of evidence—General repute, evidence of—Admissibility of evidence, test of—Witness to general reputation—Examination and cross-examination—Practice.

Enquiries under Chapter VIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure are governed by the ordinary rules of evidence. Evidence which would not be admissible at an ordinary trial should not be admitted at a trial under section 117 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

Evidence of general repute may be either evidence as to the general opinion of the neighbourhood or community in which the person concerned lives or to which he belongs, or the personal opinion of the witnesses who are examined.

The test of the admissibility of evidence of general opinion is whether it shows the general reputation of the man, not necessarily the opinion of the entire community to which he belongs but at least the opinion of a considerable number of persons. It must not be merely the repetition of what one or two persons have said to the witness.

A witness to general reputation may be examined and cross-examined as to his means of knowledge and when he gives his own opinion, he may be asked to give the grounds of his opinion and to give the names of the persons whom he has heard speak against the character of the person concerned.

Criminal revision from an order of the District Magistrate of Allahabad.

Mr. G. P. Boys, for the Applicant.

Mr. R. Malcomson (Assistant Government Advocate), for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.—The applicant has been bound over to be of good behaviour.

The Police relied upon three classes of evidence relating respectively to

(1) applicant's association with bad characters,

(2) his connection with specific acts of theft,

(3) his general repute.

On appeal the District Magistrate rightly ruled out all the evidence of the first of these classes on the ground that there was no proof that the persons with whom applicant is said to have associated are in reality bad characters. As regards the evidence of general repute he remarked that a large proportion of it was not in fact admissible being merely hearsay, and much that was admissible was of very little value because it had not been properly tested. But he was of opinion that the admissible evidence of general repute coupled with the evidence of the applicant's connection with what he calls a "long catalogue of crime" was more than sufficient to justify the orders of the Deputy Magistrate.

To me it appears that there is no evidence at all that the applicant was in any way connected with or responsible for any of the specific offences referred to in the record. He has not only never been convicted of any offence, but it is said that he has never even been named in any first report or complaint of a crime or summoned to a Criminal Court as an accused person. The so-called evidence which is supposed to connect him with various offences consists of (1) Police lists of cases in which he is said to have come under suspicion, (2) the statements of witnesses each of whom says that he suspected the applicant of complicity in this or that isolated offence, (3) a list of cases in which the applicant's house has been searched on suspicion that he had committed some offence. None of this proves that the applicant has committed any offence. Police lists of the kind here referred to have been repeatedly held to be inadmissible and suspicion cannot take the place of proof that a man has committed an offence. I may point out also that the evidence regarding the searches has been used in a most unfair manner. Nothing suspicious has ever been found in the man's house. This fact is not allowed to count in his favour, but the fact that his house was searched at all is treated as a strong point against him as evidence that the applicant has been in any way convicted of any specific offence. All this is quite worthless. No one would dream of putting forward such materials as evidence in support of a charge of a specific offence.

Many Magistrates seem to think that proceedings under Chapter VIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure are not governed by the Evidence Act at all and they admit anything which the Police choose to put forward in the name of evidence.

When, as in the present case, it is shown that a mass of irrelevant materials has been used as evidence, one has to choose between examining the record in order to ascertain whether there is admissible evidence sufficient to justify the order which has been passed, and setting aside the proceedings altogether and either ordering a fresh inquiry or leaving it to the Magistrate to take further proceedings if he thinks proper. In the present case I choose the latter alternative, because it appears to me that no serious effort has been made to keep out irrelevant matter and it is impossible to say that the applicant has not been prejudiced by the way in which the proceedings have been conducted.

No less than sixty-three witnesses were produced by the Police, but their evidence does not prove that the applicant took part in any of the offences mentioned by them. It seems, therefore, that if the applicant is to be bound over it must be on the strength of such evidence of his general reputation as may be available.

As the Deputy Magistrate, who passed the order in this case, seems to have somewhat vague notions as to what is evidence of general repute, a few remarks on the subject may not be out of place. A good specimen of what has been considered valuable evidence of this description is to be found in the evidence of the witness Amir Husain. This man said that a theft occurred in his house a few years ago, so he sent for some local bad characters and adjured them to tell him whether they had had any hand in it. They with one accord took Ganges water, tulsi leaves, etc., in their hands and swore that they were innocent. When pressed to say who had committed the theft, these worthies said that their profession had been taken up by the present applicant. This evidence does not purport to give the opinion of any considerable body of men regarding the applicant, but merely repeats the self-exculpatory insinuation of a few persons that the applicant may have been responsible for the particular offence that had been committed.

It has been suggested more than once that the rulings of this and other High Courts as to the meaning of evidence of general repute make it difficult, if not impossible, for the Police to prove by such evidence that a man is an habitual offender. The suggestion, even if well founded, would be no reason for supposing that the Courts had misinterpreted the law. But the suggestion is generally made by those who will not take the trouble to find out what evidence of general repute means or who hold that the words "evidence of general repute or otherwise" in section 117 of the Code are intended to let in various kinds of so-called evidence which would not be admissible at any ordinary trial. This Court has always held that inquiries under Chapter VIII of the Code are governed by the ordinary rules of evidence and, apart from any difficulty that may arise from the reluctance of people to give evidence in such cases for fear of the consequences to themselves (nothing of this kind is suggested in the present case), there ought to be no difficulty in proving that a man is an habitual thief or robber by proper evidence of general repute, where there really do exist grounds for taking this kind of action against him.

Evidence of general repute may be either evidence as to the general opinion of the neighbourhood or community in which the person concerned lives or to which he belongs, or the personal opinion of the witnesses who are examined. The test of the admissibility of evidence of the former kind is whether it shows the general reputation of the man, not necessarily the opinion of the entire community to which he belongs but at least the opinion of a considerable number of persons. It must not be merely the repetition of what one or two persons have said to the witness. A witness to general repute may, of course, be examined and cross-examined as to his means of knowledge and when he gives his own opinion he may be asked to give the grounds of his opinion and to give the names of the persons whom he has heard speak against the character of the persons concerned.

It is needless to cite authorities for this. There should be no difficulty in keeping evidence of general repute within proper limits. I trust that if further proceedings are taken against the applicant the Deputy Magistrate will be careful to exclude all irrelevant matter.

The order requiring the applicant to furnish security for good behaviour is set aside and if he is still in custody, he must be released. I leave it to the Magistrate to decide whether it is advisable to take further proceedings against him.

Order set aside.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REFERENCE No. 133 OF 1914.

July 16, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.

SUBANS SINGH—COMPLAINANT

versus

MAHABIR PROSHAD SINGH AND OTHERS —ACCUSED.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 250—Compensation, order to pay—Opportunity to show cause, sufficiency of.

Where a Magistrate passed an order to the following effect: "Judgment delivered. Accused acquitted. . . . . Complainant to pay Rs. 50 compensation to each of the accused under section 250, Criminal Procedure Code, and show cause why he should not pay. Subans Singh (complainant) is absent. His brother verbally shows cause which is insufficient. Order made absolute:"

Held, that the complainant was in fact given no opportunity of showing cause, and that therefore the order could not be sustained.

Criminal reference by the Sessions Judge of Patna, dated 6th January 1914, against an order of the Sub-Divisional Officer, dated January 25th, 1914.

Mr. Bagram, Counsel, with Babu Baidyanath Narain Sinha, for the Complainant.

Babus Monmatha Nath Mukherjee and Siva Nandan Ray, for the Accused.

JUDGMENT.—This is a reference made by the Sessions Judge of Patna recommending that an order under section 250, Criminal Procedure Code, passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Barh, should be set aside on the ground that the complainant was not given an opportunity of showing cause against the said order.

It appears that the complainant instituted a case against 24 accused. The case was tried before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Barh and resulted in the acquittal of the accused.

Thereupon the Magistrate made the following order as appears from the order-sheet: "Judgment delivered. Accused acquitted. Enter false sections 147 and 379, Indian Penal Code. Complainant to pay Rs. 50 compensation to each of the accused under section 250, Criminal Procedure Code, and show cause why he should not pay. Subans Singh is absent. His brother verbally shows cause which is insufficient. Order made absolute." On this we think that the complainant was in fact given no opportunity of showing cause, and we, therefore, set aside the order as recommended by the Sessions Judge of Patna.

We do not consider it necessary, as prayed for by the other side, to send the case back in order that the complainant may be now given an opportunity to show cause.

Order set aside.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

LETTERS PATENT APPEAL No. 287 OF 1914.

October 27, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Hannay.

VAITHIANATHA AIYAR AND ANOTHER—FIRST PARTY—APPELLANTS

versus

SUPPALU AMMAL AND ANOTHER—SECOND PARTY—RESPONDENTS.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 145, inquiry under—Magistrate, duty of.

In an inquiry under section 145, Criminal Procedure Code, it is the duty of the Magistrate to determine who is in actual possession of the property at the time of his preliminary order.

Quaere—Whether proceedings under section 145 of the Code of Criminal Procedure can be taken where the two parties are in the position of principal and agent?

In the matter of the petition of Behari Lal, 24 A. 443; A. W. N. (1902) 111; Dhondhai Singh v. Follet, 31 C. 48; 7 C. W. N. 825 (F. B.); 1 Cr. L. J. 49, referred to.

Letters Patent Appeal against the judgment of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Spencer, in Criminal Revision Case No. 212 of 1914, reported in 25 Ind. Cas. 997, preferred against that of the first Class Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Kumbakonam, in Miscellaneous Case No. 3 of 1914.

FACTS.—The dispute in this case is with reference to the properties which belonged to one Suri Aiyar, deceased, the first party claiming to be in possession as the executor or devisee of the deceased and the second party claiming to be in possession as the widow of the deceased. Proceedings having been initiated under section 145, Criminal Procedure Code, both the parties appeared before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Kumbakonam and filed written statements of their respective claims. The said Magistrate, thereupon, without inquiry as to who was in actual possession on the date of the preliminary order, held that the first party as agent could not claim possession against the second party, the principal, and relying upon the decision in In the matter of the petition of Behari Lal (1) passed an order "in the usual form in favour of the second party." The first party then preferred Criminal Revision Petition No. 212 of 1914* to the High Court and that petition having been dismissed by Spencer, J., this appeal was filed under the Letters Patent.

Messrs. T. Rangachariar and S. Muthia Mudaliar, for the Appellants:—The order passed by the Magistrate is clearly illegal and without jurisdiction. The question of actual possession has to be decided and not the right to possession. When the dispute arises as between principal and agent the dispute has to be decided, as it cannot be said that the possession of the latter is the possession of the former. The case of In the matter of the petition of Behari Lal (1), relied upon by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, has no application and has been dissented from in Dhondhai Singh v. Follet(2). Further, according to the contention of the opposite party, the agency terminated with the death of Suri Aiyar.

Mr. T. Narasimha Iyenger, for the Respondents:—There is no question of jurisdiction. The High Court will interfere only in such cases [Kamal Kutty v. Udayavarma Raja Valia Raja of Chirakkal(3)]. The Magistrate has decided that the second party is in possession.

JUDGMENT.—On a careful consideration of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate's order it seems clear to us that he has declined to exercise the jurisdiction, vested in him by section 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code, of determining which of the two parties was in actual possession of the disputed property—a jurisdiction which, on the averments in the written statements filed by the parties, it was his duty to exercise.

He has done so on the ground that the first party, as agent, cannot claim to be in possession as against the second party, his principal. The ruling on which he relies, In the matter of the petitton of Behari Lal (1), has no application; and Dhondhai

(1) 24 A. 443; A. W. N. (1902) 111.

(2) 31 C. 48; 7 C. W. N 825; 1 Cr. L. J. 49 (F. B.).

(3) 17 Ind. Cas. 65; 12 M. L. T. 439; 23 M L. J. 499; 13 Cr. L. J. 753; (1912) M W. N 1154; 36 M. 275.

*See 25 Ind. Cas. 997; (1914) M. W. N. 795; 15 Cr. L. J. 669. -Ed.

Singh v. Follet (2) is clear authority to the contrary. But it is not necessary for us to consider the point, because this is, on the pleadings, no case of agent and principal. The second party does not recognise the first party as her agent, and the first party clearly alleges that since the death of the late Suri Aiyar, he has been in possession of the property as the latter's executor or devisee.

It was the duty of the Magistrate to determine, who was in actual possession of the property at the time of his preliminary order. The learned Judge who disposed of the revision petition refers to "the order in the usual form in favour of the second party." This order, not being based on an inquiry and decision on the above point as required by section 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code, must in my opinion be treated as an order without jurisdiction. We must accordingly set it aside and remand the case to the Magistrate for disposal according to law.

Order set aside.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REFERENCE No. 19 OF 1914.

July 21, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY

versus

DALU SARDAR—ACCUSED.

Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), ss. 302, 325—Murder—Hanging up unconscious body believing it to be dead—Death due to hanging—Intention—Offence—Grievous hurt.

The accused assaulted his wife, who became unconscious and was thought to be dead. Then in order to create an appearance that she had committed suicide, he took up her unconscious body and hung it up by a rope, thinking it to be a dead body, but the medical evidence showed that most probably she had died of hanging:

Held, that there could be no intention to kill the woman when he thought that she was already dead and that, therefore, the offence committed was not of murder under section 302 but only an offence under section 325, Indian Penal Code.

Criminal reference under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code, by the Sessions Judge, Rajshahi, dated 17th June 1914.

Babu Birbhusan Dutt, for the Accused.

Mr. D. N. Sirkar, for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.—This is a reference made by the Sessions Judge of Rajshahi under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code. The accused was tried by jury on a charge under section 302, Indian Penal Code, of the murder of his own wife on the 29th of April 1914. Out of the five jurors, four were of opinion that the accused was not guilty and one of them was of opinion that the accused was guilty. The learned Sessions Judge, not finding himself in a position to accept the verdict of the majority of the jury and thinking that for the ends of justice the matter should be referred to this Court, has done so under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code.

The facts of the case are these. On the date of the occurrence the accused was seen assaulting his wife outside his house and pushing her inside the house. The neighbour witnesses say that they actually heard the woman crying from inside the house that she was being killed. When the people arrived, they wanted to rescue the woman and at last the husbaud was separated from the wife. They found the wife in an unconscious state. They tried to give her water, but the woman could not drink. The people thought that she was dead. Then it appears that the accused again went inside the house, turned out one or two persons who were inside the house and shut the door. Before this the woman was lying on the ground, but after the accused re-entered the house, people discovered that this woman was hanging by the neck by a piece of string tied to the roof of the house. On this the accused was sent up for trial.

It appears that soon after the occurrence the accused admitted to one Sharafat, a witness for the prosecution, that he had killed his wife, because she was carrying on an intrigue with one Madari. It also appears that the accused made a statement before a Judicial Officer some days later. Therein also he made a similar statement.

The question now is what offence he has committed.

But before we come to answer that question, it is necessary to ascertain from the medical evidence the probable cause of the death of this woman. The medical evidence shows that she most probably died of hanging. There can be no doubt that her body was suspended by a rope by the husband, the present accused. The question is whether he at the time intended to kill her. The people thought her dead when she was slapped and kicked in the region of the abdomen and, no doubt, the accused also thought that she was dead. When for the second time he entered into the house, most likely in order to create an appearance that the woman had committed suicide, he took up the unconscious body of his wife, thinking it to be a dead body, and hung it up by a rope. Therefore, he could not have intended to kill her, if he thought that the woman was already dead. We have, therefore, to fall back on what happened at the earlier stage of the occurrence when the accused gave the deceased kicks, blows and slaps. No doubt the kicks were given below the navel, a place it is most especially dangerous to kick a woman. She fell down and became unconscious. The offence, therefore, that the accused committed was an offence under section 325, Indian Penal Code. Under the circumstances of the case we are of opinion that he cannot be convicted of murder, but of an offence under section 325, Indian Penal Code, only. We, therefore, convict him under that section and sentence him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for four years.

In re PACHAI GOUNDEN.

Accused convicted.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 105 OF 1914.

CRIMINAL REVISION PETITION No. 92 OF 1914.

November 5, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Kumarasawmy Sastri.

In re PACHAI GOUNDEN AND OTHERS—ACCUSED—PETITIONERS.

Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), ss. 99, 100—Right of private defence of person—Plea need not be set up when shown by circumstances—Right, when to be exercised—Persons aiding in such defence, whether commit offence.

If the circumstances show that the right of private defence was legitimately exercised, the Court should take it into consideration even though self-defence was not specifically pleaded.

Veerana Nadan v. Emperor, 15 Ind. Cas. 310; (1912) M. W. N. 404; 13 Cr. L. J. 470; 11 M. L. T. 251, referred to.

Where danger to the person of the accused was imminent and where the evidence shows that he had no time to seek the aid of the public authorities;

Held that he was entitled to use all force necessary to repel the attack, even to the extent of firing a gun at his assailants. Such acts for repelling the attack do not amount to a criminal offence nor are the persons aiding him in such acts, guilty of being members of an unlawful assembly.

Fateh Singh v. Emperor, 20 Ind. Cas. 140; 14 Cr.L.J. 380; 41 C. 43, Pachakauri v. Queen-Empress, 24 C. 686; 1 C. W. N. 423, Silajit Mahoto v. Emperor, 4 Ind. Cas. 19; 36 C. 865; 13 C. W. N. 80; 10 Cr. L. J. 471, followed.

Petition, under sections 435 and 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, praying the High Court to revise the judgment of the Sessions Court of South Arcot, in Criminal Appeal No. 42 of 1913, preferred against that of the Sub-Divisional first Class Magistrate of Tirukkoiyelur, in C. C. No. 193 of 1912.

Mr. T. R. Krishnasawmi Aiyar, for the Petitioners.

The Public Prosecutor, forthe Government.

ORDER.—The facts of the case are fully set out in the judgment of the Sessions Judge and the only question is whether the petitioners were acting within their rights and in the exercise of the right of private defence.

It is common ground that there were disputes between P. W. No. 1 and the 1st accused about the succession to the Ariya Gownden Jagir in the South Arcot Districts. The 1st accused claimed to succeed and he also had his son installed as the Elavarasu or heir-apparent. The prosecution 1st witness filed a criminal complaint against 1st accused and others, but withdrew it. The 1st accused, therefore, filed a petition praying for sanction to prosecute prosecution witness No. 1 for having preferred a false charge. Feelings seem to have been bitter between the parties and having regard to the fact that the people of the Jagir are according to the Sessions Judge an ignorant and primitive race, there can be little doubt that prosecution witness No. 1 and his party were in no mood to deal gently with the 1st accused and his adherents, as they had not only defied the authority of the Jagirdar (prosecution witness No. 1) but had installed an heir-apparent and had ventured to charge P. W. No. 1 in a Criminal Court.

The Sessions Judge finds that P. W. No. 1 sent his men to the accused's village, with the object of seizing the 1st accused and taking him by force to Podur in order that he might explain his conduct, and the short question is whether having regard to the avowedly unlawful attempt of P. W. No. 1 and his party and the apprehension that 1st accused had, of ill-treatment if he was taken to the village of P. W. No. 1, the accused acted within their rights in resisting the complainant's party.

In re PACHAI GOUNDEN.

The evidence does not justify the remark of the Sessions Judge that the accused got timely warnings and could have had resort to the Police for protection. On the contrary, the evidence is all the other way. The nearest Police station (Sankarapuram) was about 17 or 18 miles away and takes six hours to reach, as appears from the evidence of the Sub-Inspector of Police (P. W. No. 16). All that appears from the evidence of P. Ws. Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 is that as the party which was sent to seize 1st accused were coming along, a man saw them and went in advance. The learned Public Prosecutor is unable to point to a single line in the evidence which supports the view that the accused had timely warning. If the nearest Police station was 17 or 18 miles away and took six hours to reach, it is impossible to see how the accused can have had reasonable warning when all that is proved is that one of their party, seeing a strong force coming to the village, ran in advance and warned them of the danger.

Having regard to the fact that P. W. No. 1 without any authority or justification sent a number of men to use force and seize the 1st accused and bring him to the village of P. W. No. 1, I have no doubt that the 1st accused had a reasonable apprehension of personal danger at the hands of P. W. No. 1, his enemy, and that he was justified in using force to resist the unlawful seizure of his person. The medical evidence shows that the force used was not unreasonable. It is found that the party of P. W. No. 1 inflicted injuries on the accused's party and the fact that they were trivial does not take away the right of the accused to resist force by force. It is difficult to expect that a blow given would be returned with just the same degree of violence. The Sessions Judge finds that the 1st accused fired a gun at random to frighten away the party of P. W. No. 1 who were coming to seize him and that he had no intention of injuring anybody. Under the circumstances disclosed by the evidence in the present case I do not think 1st accused was not justified in doing so.

The Sessions Judge finds that the party of P. W. No. 1 consisting of several persons came to accused's village with the avowed object of using force and dragging him to the village of P. W, No. 1.

The accused, who assembled to resist the unlawful seizure of 1st accused and who had resonable apprehension that if 1st accused were to be taken to the village of P. W. No. 1 he would suffer harm, would not be guilty of being members of an unlawful assembly. I need only refer to Fateh Singh v. Emperor (1), Pachkauri v. Queen-Empress (2), Silajit Mahoto v. Emperor (3).

It is not necessary for the accused to plead in so many words that they acted in self-defence. If the circumstances how that the right of private defence was legitimately exercised, the Court should take it into consideration even though self-defence was not specifically pleaded [Veerana Nadan v. Emperor (4)].

I am of opinion that the accused were acting legitimately in the exercise of the right of private defence, and set aside the conviction and sentences passed on them. The fines, if paid, will be refunded. In the view I take of the case it is unnecessary to consider whether the sentences passed by the Sessions Judge are illegal as amounting to an enhancement of the sentences passed by the Divisional Magistrate. The order of acquittal will be without prejudice to any proceedings that the authorities might think it desirable to take to prevent a breach of the peace by either or both the parties.

Petition allowed;
Conviction set aside.

(1) 20 Ind. Cas. 140; 14 Cr. L. J. 380; 14 C. 43.
(2) 24 C. 686; 1 C. W. N. 423.
(3) 4 Ind. Cas 19; 36 C. 865; 13 C. W. N. 801; 10 Cr. L. J. 471.
(4) 15 Ind. Cas. 310; 11 M. L. T. 251; (1912) M. W. N. 404; 13 Cr. L. J. 470.

NATHU MISTRY v. NARI LAL MISTRY.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.
CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 1177 OF 1914.
August 14, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.
NATHU MISTRY alias NRITYA LAL PATTO—PETITIONER
versus
NARI LAL MISTRY—COMPLAINANT—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 552, order under—Custody of wife, application for—No allegation of girl's wish in complaint—Order of restoring wife, passed without inquiry, illegal—Complainant, remedy of.

Where a husband complained to the District Magistrate that his father-in-law was wrongfully detaining his wife and refused to send her to his house, without alleging that she was being so detained contrary to her own wish, and the District Magistrate passed an order under section 552, Criminal Procedure Code, directing her restoration to the husband without making any inquiry into the matter of the complaint:

Held, that on the facts the case was not one to which the provisions of section 552, Criminal Procedure Code, should be applied and that, if the husband had any grievance, he should seek his remedy in the Civil Court.

Criminal revision against an order of the District Magistrate, Alipur, dated 29th June 1914.

Babu Monmatha Nath Mukkerji, for the Petitioner.

Mr. Rasul, Counsel, with Babu Haradhone Chatterji, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—In this case it appears that one Nari Lal Mistry on the 10th June complained to the District Magistrate of Alipur to the effect that his father-in-law, one Nathu Mistry, was wrongfully detaining his wife and refused to send her to his, the husband's house. Thereupon the Magistrate issued a notice upon Nathu Mistry requiring him to show cause why the girl should not be restored to the custody of the petitioner before him. On the 29th June, no cause having been shown, he made an order directing the restoration of the girl to her husband, purporting to make that order under section 552, Criminal Procedure Code. In pursuance of this order he directed the issue of a warrant, with a provision for the taking of security in the sum of Rs. 100 for the production of the girl in his Court on the 8th of July in order that she might be made over to the husband. The father-in-law, Nathu Mistry, thereupon applied to this Court and obtained the present Rule calling upon the District Magistrate of Alipur to show cause why the order should not be set aside and further inquiry directed.

There is some difference of opinion between the parties as to the age of this girl. The father says that she is eleven years of age and the husband says that she is over thirteen and has attained the age of puberty. We further observe that though the complainant in the Court of the District Magistrate has asserted that the father refused to send the girl to the husband's house, there is no allegation in his petition that the girl was being detained contrary to her own wish. We further find that the District Magistrate has made no inquiry whatever into the matter of the complaint. He has examined no witness either as to the age of the girl or as to the reason why the father does not think it fit to send the girl to her husband. On all these facts we are clearly of opinion that this is not a case to which the provisions of section 552, Criminal Procedure Code, should be applied and that if the husband has a grievance, he ought to seek his remedy in the Civil Court. We, therefore, do not think it necessary to direct any further inquiry and without doing so, we set aside the order complained of.

Order set aside.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REFERENCE No. 30 OF 1905.
September 18, 1905.
Present:—Mr. Justice Woodroffe and Mr. Justice Mookerjee.
EMPEROR—PROSECUTOR
versus
KANGAL MALI—ACCUSED.

Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 25, 33—Confession to Police Officer—Statements made by accused in order to exculpate himself—Test of admissibility—Admission of deposition when witness not found, when allowed—Circumstantial evidence.

Section 25 of the Evidence Act does not say, that all statements made to the Police are inadmissible but it excludes only confessions made to them: there being a distinction between mere admissions and confessions which are statements either directly admitting the guilt of the accused or statements which suggest the inference that he committed the crime with which he is charged. Further, the general rule is subject to that which admits statements leading to discovery whether such statements amount to a confession or not.

Statements put forward by the accused by way of his defence are admissible notwithstanding that they are shown by other evidence to be inconsistent with truth.

A useful test as to the admissibility of statements made to the Police is to ascertain the purpose to which they are put by the prosecution. Such statements are admissible if they are relied on, not because of their truth, but because of their falsity.

Sufficient ground for the admission of the previous deposition of a witness under section 33 of the Evidence Act is not established where the only evidence is the statement of a Police Officer that the witness is a man of another district and cannot be found, but where there is no evidence to show what was done to find the man.

In order to justify the inference of guilt the prosecution must show that the inculpating facts are incompatible with the innocence of the accused and incapable of explanation upon any other reasonable hypothesis than that of his guilt.

Criminal reference by the Sessions Judge of the Assam Valley Districts, dated August 1st, 1905.

Babu Bhujagendra Mustafi, for the Accused.

Babu Hari Bhushan Mookerjee, for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.—The accused Kangal Mali, a boatman, is charged with the murder, on the evening of the 13th December 1904, of one Mahabir who had left a place named Kalachera on the day previous by boat for Sealtek Bazar on the Barak river. The majority of the jury have returned a verdict of not guilty. One juryman, however, and the Sessions Judge are of opinion that the accused is guilty of the offence with which he has been charged.

The Sessions Judge has, therefore, referred the case to this Court.

The facts as to which there is practically no doubt are these. The deceased Mahabir, a trader at Kalachera, had in his employ a boatman, named Labhan. The latter fell ill and sent as his substitute his brother, the accused, who is a young man of about 25 years of age. The deceased was both an older man and, according to the evidence given by his brother-in-law, a strong, stout man, a man of greater strength than the accused. Mahabir intended to go to Sealtek Bazar to buy goods for his shop. He left Kalachera with the accused, no one else being in their company, on the afternoon or evening of Monday the 12th of December 1904. The boat in which they went was a 35-maund boat, about 18 or 19 cubits long and about 4 cubits wide. It was covered with a bamboo roof for its whole length except for about $2\frac{1}{2}$ cubits in the bow and in the stern. The roof was about $2\frac{1}{2}$ cubits high and the evidence is that a man could not stand up in the boat under its roof. The deceased took with him some cooking utensils, some other articles and Rs. 100 in a bag and a cloth-belt which he wore and in which, to use the language of his widow who has given evidence, there was a sum of "less than Rs. 80." The boat moored at Kuchila Garden at 11 or 12 o'clock at night and the accused and the deceased passed the night of the 12th of December apparently alone together on the river. On Tuesday morning the 13th of December, the deceased bought some parched rice from one Siv Gopal Singh at Kuchila. So far as the evidence for the prosecution goes, this is the last place and the last time at which the deceased was seen alive. From this time until the afternoon of the 14th December the facts which we now state rest upon the statements of the accused. He says that at 10 or 11 o'clock he and the deceased passed the Matijuri Ghat, and the deceased told the Ghat Babu (who has not been called to give evidence) that he was taking the boat empty to Sealtek for goods. At 12 o'clock the deceased and the accused passed Bandukmara, and then they cooked and ate rice and reached Sadar garden at about 4 o'clock. There, it is said, three persons of the names of Noyan Mali, Narayan Mali and Sibram Mali, who were going in a boat, were met. They asked the deceased where he was going and were informed that he was going to Sealtek Bazar. The accused's statement then runs as follows :—" Thereupon they said, 'let both our boats proceed together.' Noyan and Sibram came on our boat, smoked tobacco and went away. Then Narayan came and smoked tobacco. At 7 or 8 in the evening those three men came and told me to be an accomplice of theirs. I declined. I said, 'take his money but do not take his life.' I made a sign to Mahabir by a wink. Mahabir did not understand it. Thereupon Narayan caught hold of me, and the other two, Sibram and Noyan, killed Mahabir, with what I cannot say." In the statement made by the accused before the Magistrate, on the 29th December 1904, he says that he was threatened by the dacoits, who told him to inform the deceased's widow that a dacoity occurred in this way otherwise they would go one night and take his life. He says in his statement before the Sessions Judge that while he was held by Narayan he, on the excuse that he wanted to make water, went to the side of the boat. Narayan held him by the arm, but he jumped into the water. He then says that he swam to the bank of the river and raised a hue and cry. He then went to the village and asked the inmates of the first house for help, but they drove him away as a mad man. He further says that he walked through the public road to Rup Charan's house and some one gave him a mat and he slept on it. This was on the night of the 13th December. The next day he proceeded on his journey home and reached Hailakandi in the afternoon of the 14th December (Wednesday), and there he took a pice from a relation of his, Ratan Mali, who has deposed that he saw the accused. He asked for this pice to enable him to cross the Matijuri ghat. Ratan Mali gave the accused a pice as requested. After that the accused states that his brother's friend, Rasa Mali, gave him a fish for his (the accused's) brother's wife, that he went home by the Matijuri road and reached his brother's house at a late hour of the night, that he wished to lodge an information with the Police, but he was unable to do so as he had no pice with him. As it was apparently very late at night, the accused took his food and went to sleep immediately after his return home. His brother Labhan and the latter's wife have been called to speak to what took place on the accused's arrival and on the following day. Admittedly, on the morning of the 15th December, Thursday, the accused gave out that there had been a dacoity although, it is said, that he did not mention the names of the dacoits until, according to the evidence of the Police, sometime between the 22nd and the 24th December. On the evening of the 15th (Thursday), the accused was taken into custody by the Police on suspicion and thereafter he remained in such custody. On the 16th his house was searched, but none of the missing properties were discovered. A search was then made for the boat and for Mahabir and both were found on Sunday the 18th of December. There were marks of blood inside but not outside the boat. The inside of the bamboo roof and the mat in the boat were found splashed with blood. The things inside the boat were in such disorder as if, as was stated by the deceased's brother-in-law, a struggle had taken place in the boat. A certain number of articles were found, including the deceased's cloth-belt in which were Rs. 75-8, a sum in all probability representing the whole or nearly the whole amount taken by the accused in that belt. About a quarter of a mile from the boat the dead body of Mahabir was found floating in the water. It bore a number of wounds. There were four cuts through the skull, two through the bone on the right side of the chest, two through the bone on the right shoulder, one on the surface of the right wrist and another on the fleshy part of the left forearm. The frontal bone, the right parietal and the occipital were cut through. The second and third ribs were cut through and the scapula was also cut through. These were the wounds which were discovered by the Hospital Assistant who has given evidence. But in addition to these, the brother-in-law of the deceased stated that he found that the fingers of the left hand of the deceased had been cut off. The medical witness states that in his opinion the wounds which he spoke of were inflicted with some sharp heavy instrument like a dao.

On the 29th of December the accused made to the Magistrate a statement implicating three persons namely, Narayan, Sibram and Noyan, as the authors of the crime, and which statement is substantially the same as that made by him subsequently to the Sessions Judge. There is no doubt upon these facts that Mahabir was murdered, and in all probability the motive for such a crime was robbery as, amongst other things, the bag which he carried with him containing the Rs. 100 had disappeared. The real question, however, to be determined is, who committed the cirme? There is no direct evidence on this point, the evidence being entirely of a circumstantial character. There is no question that the accused and the deceased were together and were apparently last seen together. They, however, as was stated, admittedly passed the night of the 12th December together alone, and the crime did not take place until the following day. It is upon the fact of the accused last being seen with the deceased and upon the subsequent conduct of, and statements made by, the accused, to which we will refer, that the Sessions Judge is of opinion that the accused should be found guilty.

The prosecution evidence is of three kinds. In the first place it is said that no mention was made by the accused, on the 14th December, of any dacoity having occurred to the witnesses Ratan Mali, Abbas Ali, his (the accused's) brother Labhan and the latter's wife Maya. Further, if we are to believe the evidence of Abbas Ali, the accused gave a false account of himself, stating that he had come from Badarpur, whether he had gone carrying the cloths of a bairagi whose name he said was Padma Lochan. Though it was late in the evening when Ratan and Abbas are said to have been met by the accused and then the accused arrived home, and though his not giving out until the next morning that a dacoity had been committed makes the matter a delay of a few hours only, still this evidence, if true, does raise a suspicion against the accused as also (allowing for any fear caused by the alleged threat of dacoits) the fact, if true, that the names of the dacoits were not given until some days later.

Nextly, it is said that certain previous statements made by the accused are inconsistent with the story which he told the Magistrate and the Sessions Judge. These statements were made both to the Police and to third parties. In so far as the statements made to the Police are concerned, it has been contended that they are inadmissible in evidence. The law, however, does not say that all statements made to the Police are inadmissible, but it excludes only confessions made to them : there being a distinction between mere admissions and confessions which are statements either directly admitting the guilt of the accused or statements which suggest the inference that he committed the crime with which he is charged. Further, the general rule is subject to that which admits statements leading to discovery, whether such statements amount to a confession or not. Applying these principles before us, we find that they divide themselves into two classes, first, there is the evidence of statements made by the accused to the Police pointing out the place where the alleged dacoity was committed, the place where after the dacoity he concealed himself in the paddy field, and also the houses where, he said, he went for assistance. As regards these statements, whether they be regarded as information leading to discovery or as statements made by the accused as part of his defence, it does not appear to us that any objection can successfully be taken. Then there are statements which were made by the accused as to what, according to his case, had actually happened,—statements exculpating himself and put forward by way of his defence. These statements also are admissible notwithstanding that by other evidence it may be shown that such statements are inconsistent with truth. In fact a useful test as to admissibility of statements made to the Police is to ascertain the purpose to which they are put by the prosecution. If the prosecution rely on the statements of the accused to the Police as being true then they may, and probably in many cases will, be found to amount to confessions. If, on the other hand, as in the case of the statements to which we have just referred, the statements of the accused are relied on, not because of their truth, but because of their falsity, they are admissible. They are in such cases brought forward to show what the defence of the accused is, and that, as the defence is untrue, this is a circumstance tending to prove the guilt of the accused.

EMPEROR v. KANGAL MALI.

We are, however, inclined to think that there is one statement which was made to the Police and which should have been excluded. That is a statement which the accused is alleged to have made with reference to the mark on his dhoti which is said to be the mark of blood. The Police Inspector, Ambica Charan Sen, says: "My attention was drawn to the accused's cloth by a constable. On my asking accused what the marks were, he first said they were tobacco stains, then he said they were stains of betel nut and then he said it was blood." We are inclined to think that this statement is, under the circumstances, (if it was in fact made) of an incriminating character, from which an inference might, though not necessarily, be drawn as to the accused's guilt. No doubt the statement is not absolutely inconsistent with the accused's innocence, for it may be that his dhoti was stained (if it was in fact stained) in an attack made by others. Still the fact that the attack was probably made under the bamboo roof at some distance from the accused who, according to his account, must have been standing in the open part of the boat, and the prevaricating character of the alleged statements, render it of at least doubtful admissibility, if not, as we are disposed to think, inadmissible. Further, for the reasons which we shall state, we are not able to accept the evidence that there was any mark of blood on the dhoti. On these grounds, therefore, we think that the statement should have been excluded as we exclude it from our consideration. The discrepancies which are alleged between these previous statements of the accused and the statements made to the Magistrate and the Sessions Judge are these. It is said that the case of the accused as originally made was that the boat was moored, whereas in his statements before the Magistrate and the Sessions Judge he says that the boat was at the time of the attack proceeding down the river. Then he is said to have previously stated that the dacoits came from the east by land, whereas his case in the statements before the Court is that they were in a boat and had come from their boat into his. Then there is a discrepancy as to the time of the alleged dacoity which in the previous statement is alleged to be 3 A. M. in the morning of the 14th December instead of about 7 or 8 o'clock of the 13th December as alleged in his statement before the Court. Nextly, there are some discrepancies also as to the number of the dacoits. The accused stated in Court that they were three in number, but in his previous statements on the point mention is made of a large number of men. An attempt has lastly been made to show that these statements, which the accused is said to have made, were in fact false. It has been shown that the place, said to have been pointed out by the accused as that where his boat was, is a place at which the bank is steep and high and where the current is strong, and, therefore, a position at which the boat could not have been moored. It is said that the dhan field, which the accused pointed out as the place in which he concealed himself, showed no signs of damage whatever, and the persons, to whom he is reported to have said that he went for assistance on the night of the dacoity, have been called to show that he did not come to them. The evidence, however, of these persons cannot, in our opinion, be relied upon to establish this point. The first witness, Rup Charan Mali, states that he does not know the accused which is also the case of the latter. He says the accused never came to his house, but he does not state in any portion of his deposition, whether in examination or in cross-examination, that he was in his house on the night in which the accused is alleged to have committed the dacoity. It is true that the witness Dhanu Ram, father of the witness Rup Charan, states that the accused never came to his bari and that he always remains at home, but the third witness, a man of the name of Golak Ram Deb, while stating that tht accused never came to his bari, also distinctly says that he was not at home on the day in question. Then, it is also said that if a dacoity had occurred, as alleged by the accused, no noise or cries were heard by persons who were in a position to have heard them. On this point the evidence of the two witnesses, Santi Ram Namsudra and Abdul Bepari, was relied upon. But what the first witness says in his cross-examination is this: "No cries could be heard at my house from the place pointed out by the accused." The other witness, Abdul Bepari, gave his evidence before the Magistrate at Hailakandi, but he was not called before the Sessions Judge and his former deposition was put in evidence. In our opinion, sufficient foundation was not laid for the reception of this deposition. The only evidence in support of the allegation that this witness could not be found is that of the head constable, Chandra Nath Sarma. He says he recorded Abdul's statement and that the latter was examined before the Magistrate of Hailakandi. He further says: "Search has been made for Abdul to summon him to attend this Court but he could not be found. A warrant was also issued. He is a man of Dacca District."

It appears to us that this evidence is clearly insufficient. No warrant was produced. There is no evidence on the record to show that an attempt was made to serve the warrant, or, if so, what was done for this purpose. There is no evidence to show what was done to find this man. It is quite clear that the witness said that a search was made, but he does not say that he himself made the search. If he did, he does not state what steps he took, and if he was not the person who made the search, his evidence on the point is, if based on report, inadmissible.

Under these circumstances, we think that no sufficient ground was made for the admission of the deposition of this witness under section 33 of the Indian Evidence Act; we think it should have been excluded as we exclude it from our consideration. On a review of the matters to which we have referred we find that a portion of the evidence is inadmissible, and other facts relied on have not been sufficiently proved or are at least inconclusive. As to the remainder of the evidence, even if we were disposed (as we are not) to accept it as reliable in its entirety, we do not consider that it outweighs the circumstances favourable to the accused, to which we shall now refer, or is sufficient to establish his guilt.

In order to justify the inference of guilt, the prosecution must show that the inculpating facts are incompatible with the innocence of the accused and incapable of explanation upon any other reasonable hypothesis than that of his guilt. The hypothesis in the present case, which the prosecution have to exclude, is that the crime was the deed of dacoits as is in fact alleged by the accused. He has stated in detail the circumstances under which the dacoity and murder took place and has implicated by name the authors of the crime. No reason has been given why he should falsely implicate these three particular persons. This being so, the fact that he names them tends to show that he at least met them. These persons were apparently present at an inquiry conducted by the Police. They should have been, but have not been, examined as witnesses, and no explanation has been offered as to why they were not so examined. They have themselves not been called to deny the allegations which the accused has made against them of being concerned in this murder. Though the prosecution has omitted to call these three persons who are directly implicated, it has put forward one Durga Ram, a pan-seller who says that these three persons, Narayan, Noyan and Shibram, are also pan-sellers and go to Sealtek Bazar for pan. But he cannot say where they were at the time in question.

Another witness, Prokash Chandra Mazumdar, was also called, apparently to establish the alibi of these three persons. He says that on the last Tuesday of Agrahayan, which apparently corresponds to the 13th December, he saw them at Sealtek Bazar until 11 o'clock at night only. He speaks, moreover, even as to this period from unaided recollection, and he says that there was no special occurrence connected with these three men which would make him recollect their presence on that particular day at Sealtek Bazar. Another apparently remarkable fact is that the Police-papers, to which we have been referred, show that, on the 24th December, some cooking utensils were found in the house of the man Noyan, whom with the other two men the accused charged with the crime. According to the same papers those cooking utensils (and it is to be observed that some cooking utensils were admittedly carried in the boat) were identified by the widow of the deceased as her late husband's property.

It is true that the Police Officer says, in his report of the 25th December, to which we have been also referred, that he did not give credence to the identification. It may be that the identification cannot be relied upon and that there is in fact nothing in the point which is not capable of explanation. In our opinion, however, it was the duty of the prosecution to have brought out this matter, and to have explained it if necessary. Were it not for the view which we take of the other facts given in evidence, we should have considered it necessary to have remanded the case to take further evidnce upon this point. As we have already observed, the deceased was admittedly an older and a stronger man than the accused. Except for a short space at the bow and stern the boat was closed in. The marks of blood show that the crime was committed inside the boat and under the bamboo roof under which, according to the evidence, a man cannot stand. There was no one else but the accused in the boat and, therefore, no one to manage it during the commission of the crime. The wounds were, as the evidence shows, most severe and numerous. The body was found floating in the water. It does not appear to us to be probable, having regard to the circumstances proved, that a single man and a weaker man than the deceased (as the accused was) could have been able to overpower the deceased and to come off without any wound or mark upon himself, even assuming that he had with him a dao in the boat as is alleged by the deceased's widow. Her evidence, however, upon this point does not appear to us to be reliable. In cross-examination she said that she had given evidence twice previously in the case and that she had previously mentioned that the accused took a dao. As a matter of fact, as pointed out by the Sessions Judge, there is no mention to be found of this statement in her previous depositions. This being so and there being no other evidence on the point to show that the dao was taken by the accused, we cannot accept the fact. Nor can, in our opinion, the evidence that some marks which were found on the dhoti of the accused and which appeared to the witnesses to be like marks of blood, be accepted. We have already dealt with the question of the admissibility of the accused's alleged statement to the Police Officer. There is nothing to show that the mark, supposed to be that of blood, is in fact the mark of blood as the cloth was not sent for chemical examination. Further, the so-called marks of blood were not discovered admittedly until the 18th of December and after the accused had been in the custody of the Police for three days. Unless, therefore, these so-called marks of blood were so insignificant as to have been seen with difficulty, it is wholly unexplained why it was not discovered before the expiration of this period.

Nextly, the accused was alone with the deceased at night of the 12th December at which time, so far as we can see, if the accused had been so disposed, the robbery and the murder could have been committed. According to the prosecution witness, the deceased's widow Sanjharia, the accused knew that the deceased had money in his cloth-belt, yet that belt and money were left in the boat and, so far as we can see, the contents of that belt were intact. This, we need hardly say, is not likely to have happened, had the accused been the person who committed the crime, but it is what we might expect to have occurred, had the robbery and murder been committed by third parties, who, unless they carefully searched the accused or the boat, would have been unaware of the fact that he carried on his person in a cloth-belt a sum of about Rs. 80.

It is further the case for the prosecution that the accused must have stolen the money, which is alleged as the motive of the murder, yet we are also asked to believe that the accused who had so stolen the money was obliged to request the witness, Ratan Mali, shortly after the alleged murder and robbery, to lend him a pice to enable him to cross the Matijuri ghat. Even supposing that the accused had committed the robbery and had not taken all the money with him, it seems to us in the highest degree unlikely that he should not have kept even a pice about him.

Then we have the circumstance to take into our consideration that none of the missing properties were discovered with the accused, though his house was searched on the 16th December. We are, on these facts, disposed to think that the dacoity and murder were committed by several persons and not by a single man as alleged; and we think that some of these facts, so far as they go, tend to exculpate the accused from having taken any part in the crime. There are certainly, if all the admissible evidence be true, which we must not be understood to hold, circumstances which threw some suspicion on the accused and which demanded a careful judicial inquiry. But they are insufficient to establish his guilt, and are, moreover, in our opinion, outweighed by the general considerations, to which we have just referred, which tell in his favour. We, therefore, agree with the verdict of the majority of the jury and acquit the accused and direct that he be released from jail and set at liberty.

We desire to express our obligations to the learned Vakil, Babu Bhujagendra Mustafi, who has kindly appeared on behalf of the accused (who was previously unrepresented) and who has carefully laid before us the questions of both fact and law which required our consideration in the case.

Accused acquitted.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION No. 448 OF 1914.

June 24, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Piggott.

YUSUF ALI—ACCUSED—APPLICANT

versus

WAHAJUDDIN—COMPLAINANT—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 179—Criminal breach of trust—Cheating—Jurisdiction.

The complainant ordered and received a consignment of matches from a firm at Calcutta and found the consignment so seriously damaged as not to be marketable. But he had already sent in advance currency notes by registered cover from the Moradabad post office. The complainant filed a complaint at Moradabad, charging the accused with criminal breach of trust and cheating:

Held, that the criminal breach of trust, if committed at all, was committed in Calcutta and was not triable in Moradabad.

Held, further, that the entire offence of cheating, if committed at all, was completed at Moradabad and the Magistrate of Moradabad had the jurisdiction to try the case.

Criminal revision from an order of the Magistrate of Moradabad.

Mr. Nehal Chand, for the Applicant.

Mr. Sital Prasad Ghosh, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—Wahajuddin, the complainant in this case, is a shop-keeper at Moradabad. He ordered a consignment of matches from a firm of Calcutta, which describes itself as A. M. Essobhoy of Calcutta, and he received a consignment which, according to his allegations, was so seriously damaged as not to be marketable, and was in any case not of the quality of goods which he had ordered and for which he had been made to pay in advance. He brought a complaint before a Magistrate at Moradabad in which the accused was specified as being "A. M. Essobhoy", resident at a certain address at Calcutta. The complaint was made under sections 417 and 409, Indian Penal Code. A warrant issued against the accused as described in the complaint was eventually executed on the person of one Usuf Ali in Calcutta, who was brought before the Magistrate who had issued the warrant. He was there bound over to appear and answer the charge.

The said Usuf Ali has applied to this Court in revision to have the whole proceedings taken against him quashed. There is, first of all, a question of jurisdiction. In so far as the complainant alleges an offence under section 409, Indian Penal Code, to have been committed, I feel no hesitation in holding that that offence, if committed at all, was committed in Calcutta and is not triable in Moradabad either by reason of the provisions of section 179 or of section 182 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

The case is otherwise, in my opinion, with regard to the alleged offence of cheating. The complainant's case is that he was deceived by means of certain letters received from Calcutta; this took place, if at all, when he read those letters, and, therefore, took place at Moradabad. The complainant alleges that by reason of this deception he was induced to do that which he would not otherwise have done, that is to say, he handed over to the post office at Moradabad for delivery to a certain address in Calcutta a certain registered cover containing Government currency notes. It seems fairly arguable that the entire offence of cheating, if committed at all, was completed in Moradabad. Even if there be room for the argument that the offence was not completed until the registered covers containing the currency notes were delivered to the addressee in Calcutta, the provisions of section 182, Criminal Procedure Code, would apply so as to make the offence triable in Moradabad. I hold, therefore, that the Magistrate at Moradabad had jurisdiction to take cognizance of this complaint.

SADASIB MANDAL v. EMPEROR.

His subsequent proceedings I am unable to endorse. The examination of the complainant was conducted without any reference to those ingredients in the offence of cheating as defined in section 415, Indian Penal Code, which distinguish the offence of cheating from a mere breach of contract. The examination of the complainant Wahajuddin, which is recorded on the back of his complaint does not seem to me to disclose any adequate ground for holding that an offence punishable under section 417, Indian Penal Code, had been committed by any person. Apart from this there is nothing in the complaint, or in the deposition of Wahajuddin, to warrant any action being taken against the accused Usuf Ali. If it be the complainant's case that it was Usuf Ali who, masking himself under the name of A. M. Essobhoy, obtained delivery of those currency notes, that fact should have been made clear in the complaint and in the complainant's deposition, before action was taken against this accused. It has been urged before me in argument that the complainant desires an opportunity of proceeding further in this matter and believes himself to be in a position to produce evidence such as to satisfy the Court that a criminal offence punishable under section 417, Indian Penal Code, as distinguished from an actionable breach of contract, was in fact committed upon him, and that it was committed by the accused Usuf Ali. The order which I propose to pass in the present case should not be held to debar Wahajuddin from filing a fresh complaint on proper materials if he is so advised.

The case as it stands before me now does not warrant the action which has been taken, or the taking of any further action, as against the accused Usuf Ali. I quash all the proceedings in this case and direct that the record be returned to the Court of the Magistrate to be there consigned to the record room.

Proceedings quashed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 1723 OF 1913.

December 5, 1913.

Present:—Mr. Justice Imam and Mr. Justice Chapman.

SADASIB MANDAL—ACCUSED—PETITIONER

versus

EMPEROR, ON THE COMPLAINT OF PURNA CHANDRA NAG—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 522—Violence against fencing, not against any individual—Order under s. 522, whether competent—Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), s. 349, applicability of.

The term "force", as defined in section 349 of the Penal Code, applies to force when used in connection with the human body.

Therefore, where an accused is convicted of the offence of rioting for causing violence to a fencing, and not to any person, an order under section 522, Criminal Procedure Code, should not be passed inasmuch as there is no use of criminal force to any individual.

Application for revision against the order, dated 18th September 1913, of the Assistant Magistrate, Dacca.

Babu Surendra Nath Guha, for the Petitioner.

Babu Heramba Chandra Guha, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—The petitioner was convicted of the offence of rioting under section 147, Indian Penal Code, and of abetment of theft under section 379 read with section 114, Indian Penal Code, and sentenced on each count to three months' rigorous imprisonment. The charge under section 147, Indian Penal Code, set out the common object of the rioters to be destruction of the complainant's fencing and raising of a new fencing on the complainant's land. The conviction under section 379 read with section 114 was set aside on appeal. There was further order passed under section 522, Criminal Procedure Code, directing delivery to the complainant of the piece of land that had been taken possession of by the petitioner unlawfully.

The findings of the lower Courts clearly show that though there was the conviction under section 147, Indian Penal Code, it was not for the use of criminal force but for causing violence in prosecution of the common object. In section 349, Indian Penal Code, the term "force" is defined as being applicable to force when used in connection with the human body; and under section 522, Criminal Procedure Code, delivery of immoveable property may be made to the person who had been dispossessed of it when the accused is convicted of an offence attended by criminal force. In the present instance violence was caused to the fencing and not to any person. Under the circumstances the order under section 522, Criminal Procedure Code, should not have been passed inasmuch as there was no use of criminal force to any individual. This Rule, therefore, must be made absolute and the order directing delivery of possession of the land in question to the opposite party is set aside.

Rule made absolute.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

CRIMINAL APPLICATION No. 183 OF 1914.

October 22, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Lindsay, J. C.

Thakur SHEO SINGH—ACCUSED—APPLICANT

versus

EMPEROR—COMPLAINANT—RESPONDENT.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 107, 125—Security for keeping peace—Bond for keeping peace, cancellation of—District Magistrate, jurisdiction of—Admission of case, wrong, effect of—Revision, High Court's power in—Questions of fact, when to be considered in revision.

Section 125, Criminal Procedure Code, does not confer upon a District Magistrate either an appellate or revisional jurisdiction, but it confers an original jurisdiction in respect of orders binding down persons to keep the peace. A person so bound down has no remedy by way of appeal to the District Magistrate. The proper course for him is to bring his case in revision before the Sessions Judge.

Barka Chandra Dey v. Janmejoy Dutt, 32 C. 948; 9 C. W. N. 860; 2 Cr. L. J. 550, followed.

A High Court, having once admitted a case in revision and having fixed a date for the hearing thereof, ought to dispose of it on the merits after hearing the applicant for revision.

In criminal revisions, the High Court does not ordinarily consider questions of fact, except where the matter has been before only one Court below.

Application against the order of the District Magistrate, dated 5th August 1914, upholding that of the Deputy Magistrate, Kheri, dated 2nd July 1914.

Mr. St. J. Jackson, for the Applicant.

The Government Pleader, for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.—This is a somewhat curious case. The applicant, Thakur Sheo Singh, has been bound over by a Deputy Magistrate under section 107 to keep the peace. The proceedings were initiated against Thakur Sheo Singh by the Patwari of the village of which Thakur Sheo Singh had been the thekadar for some five years. It is common ground that his theka expired some months ago. After the order had been made, the applicant here went to the District Magistrate and made an application under section 125 for cancellation of the bond. The grounds on which cancellation was sought were not that any facts had come into existence, since the date of making the order, which made the order no longer necessary. The petition was by way of an appeal or revision, and the District Magistrate was invited to consider the merits of the case in which the order had been passed. So far as I can see there is no warrant for the application of this kind under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The law has, in my opinion, been rightly laid down in the case reported as Barka Chandra Dey v. Janmejoy Dutt (1), in which it was held that this section of the Code of Criminal Procedure does not confer upon a District Magistrate either an appellate or revisional jurisdiction in respect of orders binding down persons to keep the peace. It confers only an original jurisdiction. The proper course which ought to have been pursued by this applicant was to have the case brought in revision before the Sessions Judge. So far as I can see there is no remedy by way of appeal. The case, however, has been admitted here by one of the Judges of this Court and this being so, I think I had better dispose of it once for all. Ordinarily I do not enter into the merits of cases in revision, that is to say, I refuse to consider questions of fact. However in the present case the matter has been before only one Court and I have, therefore, examined the record and considered the evidence which was produced in support of the application made by the Patwari. The principal witness is the Patwari himself and he is certainly in the best position to explain what apprehension he had against the accused Sheo Singh. It appears that Sheo Singh had been dealing oppressively with some of the tenants of this village, that the Patwari had taken the part of the tenants and a complaint had been made to the District Officer in consequence of which an inquiry was made. It is also admitted that in this inquiry the Patwari gave evidence against Sheo Singh. This is alleged to be the origin of the bad feeling between the parties. As for the evidence of any exhibition of bad feeling between them, all that the Patwari deposed was that on a certain date the accused used threats saying that he would kill him. The patwari in cross-examination admitted that he had met the accused a number of times after this occasion and that no further threats had been used towards him. Reading the evidence of the Patwari I am disposed to think that the case is a very thin one and I doubt very much whether such evidence, as I have before me, justifies the binding over of the accused Sheo Singh to keep the peace. I also take into consideration the fact that Sheo Singh's connection with this village as thekadar has now come to an end. He is no longer in a position, I imagine, to harass the tenants of the village and this being so it seems unlikely that there should be any further occasion for ill-feeling between himself and the Patwari. The result, therefore, is that I allow this application and set aside the order of the Magistrate directing Sheo Singh to file security to keep the peace. The security bond will be cancelled.

(1) 32 C. 948; 9 C. W. N. 860; 2 Cr. L. J. 550.

Application accepted.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE NO. 493 OF 1914.

May 14, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sharfuddin and Mr. Justice Teunon.

Shaikh BAZU—COMPLAINANT—PETITIONER

versus

RAIKA SINGH—ACCUSED—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 258, 439 - Revision - Acquittal, when can be set aside - Transfer of case.

A Magistrate fails to deal with a case before him with judicial care and impartiality if he lays great stress on all considerations that might affect the credibility of the several prosecution witnesses and omits to take into consideration what might be advanced in their favour, e. g., fails to appreciate or even to correctly cite in his judgment the evidence of an important witness.

Such circumstances fully justify a High Court to set aside an order of acquittal passed by the Magistrate and transfer the case to another district.

Criminal revision against an order of the Deputy Magistrate of Singhbhum, dated the 6th of March 1914.

Mr. P. K. Majumdar and Babu Hari Bhusan Mukerjee, for the Petitioner.

Mr. Sultan Ahmed, for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.—In this case it appears that the petitioner complained against a Police constable, one Raika Singh, his complaint being to the effect that while the constable was employed in impressing carts for certain purposes, he voluntarily caused grievous hurt to one Sheikh Tajoo. The constable was placed on his trial before a Deputy Magistrate of Chaibassa and after a trial extending over a month and a half, he was acquitted under section 258, Criminal Procedure Code. The petitioner thereupon obtained this Rule from this Court calling upon the Deputy Commissioner of Chaibassa and upon the accused to show cause why this order of acquittal complained of should not be set aside practically on the merits.

We have read and considered the judgment of the trying Magistrate and we are forced to the conclusion that he has failed to deal with the case before him with judicial care and impartiality. While laying great stress on all considerations that might affect the credibility of the several prosecution witnesses, it would seem that he has omitted to take into consideration what might be advanced in their favour. In particular we find that he has failed to appreciate or even to correctly cite in his judgment the evidence given by a Deputy Magistrate named Babu Bhaba Deb Sarkar. This witness says that as he was passing by, he saw the accused constable running away followed by a number of men who were shouting, some apparently "maro shalako", some apparently "mar dia."

Amongst the men pursuing the constable was the petitioner Sheikh Bazu. The Deputy Magistrate proceeds to say that he stopped the petitioner and questioned him and that the petitioner thereupon informed him that the constable had broken the leg or knee of some one of his relatives. The trying Magistrate has wholly omitted from his judgment this portion of the evidence. He has, therefore, failed apparently to consider the corroborative value of that evidence. What value in fact should be given to that evidence is not for us now to say, and we desire to say nothing that may prejudice the accused in the re-trial that we are now about to direct.

For the reasons we have given, we set aside the order of acquittal passed on the 6th March 1914 and direct that the accused Raika Singh be re-tried. Having regard to all the facts of this case we are further of opinion that the re-trial should take place at the headquarters of another district. We direct accordingly that the case be now re-tried at the headquarters of the District of Manbhum by some competent Magistrate to be appointed by the District Magistrate of that District.

Order set aside.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION CASE No. 457 OF 1914.

CRIMINAL REVISION PETITION No. 385 OF 1914.

October 15, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar.

In re DHARMALINGA MUDALI AND OTHERS—ACCUSED—PETITIONERS.

Penal Code Act (XLV of 1860), ss. 426, 447—Mischief—Trespass—Trespasser's entry, whether gives him judicial possession—Removal of obstruction, whether offence—Pathway—Obstruction.

A mere trespasser cannot obtain what is known in law as possession by the act of entry, or by the continuance of that act, so long as the act is disputed and resisted.

Therefore, if a person takes possession of the site of a public road and builds upon it to the obstruction of the public, it is no offence for a member of the public to pull down that obstruction and exercise his right of way.

Petition, under sections 435 and 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, praying the High Court to revise the order of the District Magistrate of North Arcot, in Criminal Revision Case No. 19 of 1914, against that of the 2nd Class Magistrate of Arkonam, in C. C. Nos. 78 and 79 of 1914.

Mr. A. Sundaram, for the Petitioners.

The Acting Public Prosecutor, for Government.

ORDER.—The Sub-Magistrate discharged the accused because he held that, in pulling down the wall built by the complainant, the accused acted in the assertion of a bona fide public right to the site on which the wall was built, that site being a public way

The accused was charged under sections 147, 426 and 447, Indian Penal Code. Section 426 relates to mischief and mischief includes an intent to cause wrongful loss. If the site was a public path and if the complainant obstructed it wrongfully by a wall, the loss caused to him by the members of the public, who pull it down in order to exercise their right of way through the site, cannot be considered wrongful loss. As regards section 447, that again depends on the question whether the site was a public path and, even if it was not, whether it was in complainant's effective possession. As soon as the complainant began to build and obstruct the path, the accused remonstrated and took steps to have the obstruction removed and it cannot be held that, in these circumstances, the complainant had taken such effective possession as would make the act of the public who pulled down the obstruction (caused by the complainant) to constitute criminal trespass. In Browne v. Dawson (1) Lord Denman, C.J., said: "A mere trespasser cannot, by the very act of trespass, immediately and without acquiescence, give himself what the law understands by possession against the person whom he ejects." As Mr. Mayne says: "A mere trespasser cannot obtain what is known in law as possession, by the act of entry, or even by the continuance of the act, so long as the act is disputed and resisted." It is on this ground that in section 145, Criminal Procedure Code, clause 4, proviso (1), it is stated that possession within two months before the date of the Magistrate's order might be treated as a continuing peaceable and juridical possession, even though there was a subsequent and very recent forcible dispossession by the opposite party. This shows that the Legislature held that a mere trespasser need not be considered as having acquired peaceable and juridical possession till his possession is acquiesced in for two months. A person who takes possession of the site of a public road and builds upon it to the obstruction of the public cannot by his very act of creating a public nuisance be held to have acquired peaceable and effective possession of that site so as to prevent a member of the public from pulling down that obstruction and exercising his right of way. If, of course, peaceable and effective possession has been acquired by the wrongful act and has been in a manner acquiesced in for a reasonable period, private persons cannot afterwards be allowed to assemble in force and commit trespass upon the site, so effectively and peaceably taken possession of by the person, without their being guilty of the offence of being members of an unlawful assembly, though the person who had obstructed the road might be liable to punishment on criminal indictment and may be dispossessed by the public authorities under section 133 of the Criminal Procedure Code and under section 6 of the Madras Land Encroachment Act III of 1905. But it is only where a trespasser's possession has been acquiesced in, and hence he has acquired juridical possession, that the person entitled to possession cannot dispossess him by force without making himself liable under the criminal law [See Kailash Ghose v. Jugal Lohar (2)].

(1) (1840) 12 A. & E. 624; 4 P. & D. 355; 10 L. J. Q. B. 7; 113 E. R. 950.

CHURAMAN v. EMPEROR.

In the present case, the accused had been exercising their right of way through the site in question till the complainant began to build upon it. Before he could acquire effective peaceable and juridicial possession and without acquiescing in his possession, they dispossessed him and removed the obstruction caused by him. Hence I think that the Sub-Magistrate was justified in discharging them and the learned District Magistrate ought not to have ordered further enquiry. The District Magistrate's order is set aside and the proceedings against the accused (petitioners) will be dropped.

Order set aside.

(2) 1 C. L. J. 104; 2 Cr. L. J. 161.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REFERENCE No. 405 OF 1914.

June 24, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Piggott.

CHURAMAN—APPLICANT

versus

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 133—Way or public place—Obstruction, removal of—Magistrate, power of.

Section 133 of the Code of Criminal Procedure empowers a Magistrate to order the removal of an obstruction from any way or from any public place, and before the section can be applied there must be a finding that the obstruction in question is situated on a way which may be lawfully used by the public or on a public place.

Criminal reference made by the Sessions Judge of Muttra.

Mr. Satya Chandra Mukerji, for the Applicant.

JUDGMENT.—This is a reference by the Sessions Judge of Muttra asking this Court to set aside an order purporting to have been passed under section 133, Criminal Procedure Code, by a first Class Magistrate of that district. The facts as they appear to me from an examination of the record are that one Churaman, the owner of a corner shop, proceeded to make certain additions to the same, the result of which according to the Magistrate has been that whereas previously the tazias carried in procession by Muhammadans in connection with the Muharram festival had been able to pass through a certain lane on one side of Churaman's shop, they were no longer able to do so in consequence of the new constructions made by Churaman. The order passed has been one requiring Churaman to demolish so much of a certain wall as will leave a sufficient space for tazias to pass along the whole length of the front of his shop. The Sessions Judge is of opinion that the inquiry conducted by the Magistrate prior to passing this order was irregular and that on this ground the order should be set aside. The explanation offered by the Magistrate shows that he himself had some doubts whether the obstruction which Churaman has been ordered to remove was in fact an obstruction situated on any way which may be used by the public, or any public place, or was in reality a construction on land of which Churaman was the owner,

There will have to be a finding on this point before any final order under section 133 of the Code of Criminal Procedure can be passed. That section empowers a Magistrate to order the removal of an obstruction from any way or from any public place, and before it can be applied there must be a finding that the obstruction in question is situated on a way which may be lawfully used by the public or on a public place. The Magistrate's explanation suggests that he felt he had strong reasons for interfering with Churaman's proceedings, even though it might have been made to appear on inquiry that Churaman had only been building upon his own land. It is possible that further inquiry may show that the case in question was not one for action under section 133, Criminal Proceduce Code, but one to which the provisions of section 144, Criminal Procedure Code, were applicable. The latter section undoubtedly gives a Magistrate, under certain circumstances, power to dircet a person to take certain order with certain property in his possession. I accept the reference of the Sessions Judge, set aside the order complained of and direct that the record be returned to the Magistrate for further inquiry and decision in accordance with law.

Order set aside.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.
CRIMINAL RULE No. 83 OF 1914.
February 13, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Holmwood and Mr. Justice Sharfuddin.
REAJADDIN MOLLA AND OTHERS—ACCUSED—PETITIONERS
versus
EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), ss. 143, 447—Criminal trespass—Bona fide assertion of grazing right – Unlawful assembly.

A person cannot be convicted of criminal trespass because he asserts a grazing right which has never been declared against him and which he bona fide believes he has, nor can he be said to be a member of an unlawful assembly because he went with his party and protested against the land being ploughed up.

Criminal revision against the order of the Deputy Magistrate of Comilla, dated the 19th of November 1913.

Mr. Norton and Babus Manmatha Nath Mukerjee and Jatindra Mohan Ghose, for the Petitioners.

Mr. Orr, for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.—This Rule arises out of an unfortunate dispute between two landlords in consequence of which, in a proceeding under section 145, an order attaching the property has been passed under section 146, Criminal Procedure Code, and a Receiver appointed. Unfortunately it appears that the Magistrate who appointed the Receiver has omitted to give any direction as to how the property should be managed and still more unfortunately, the tenants on both sides appear to be at loggerheads as regards the grazing rights over the property; but one thing appears to be admitted that the zemindar of the present accused gave them the grazing rights over this land, and that they objected to one Amjad Ali, who was a leading tenant of the rival zemindar, ploughing up a portion of the land, over which they allege they have grazing rights, under colour of a lease from the Receiver.

It appears to us that the Receiver should not have granted the lease to Amjad Ali entitling him to cultivate the whole of this land without making proper provision for the grazing rights. The trying Magistrate assumes that he did make such provision, but it is clear from the judgment that he had been given no authority to make such provision and that he had not, as a matter of fact, determined what the grazing rights were, to what extent they required the land and to what amount of land Amjad Ali might be entitled for cultivating purposes. The result is, as is too frequently the case in this country, that the peasants left to themselves and finding their grazing rights interfered with fell out, but fortunately owing to the presence of the Police on the spot no harm was done. But we think that it is not right that these cultivators should be convicted of criminal trespass when they were asserting a right which had never been declared against them, which they bona fide believed they had, and for the same reason we think that they cannot be said to have formed an unlawful assembly, because they went and protested against the land being ploughed up. The Receiver should now receive proper instructions from the Magistrate with regard to the management of the property attached, and when such instructions have been given, this Court, as has always been held, would not interfere with such an order of management; and if the orders are duly promulgated and the raiyats know what their rights are under the Receiver and then by show of force do anything contrary to the Receiver's authority, there would be ground for proceeding against them. But at present we think that there is no such ground and that it would be extremely unfortunate to allow this conviction to stand.

The conviction and sentence are, therefore, set aside and the fine, if paid, will be refunded. The Rule is made absolute.

Rule made absolute.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL RULE No. 466 OF 1914.

April 23, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Holmwood and Mr. Justice Sharfuddin.

MADHO CHOWDHURY—COMPLAINANT—PETITIONER

versus

TURAB MIAN AND OTHERS—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 247, 403 Previous acquittal without jurisdiction, whether bar to second complaint.

A previous acquittal wholly without jurisdiction is no bar to a Magistrate taking cognizance of a second complaint.

Therefore, a Magistrate, who on a complaint made by a servant of a zemindar for maiming his master's elephant issues process under section 426, Indian Penal Code, to the accused but acquits the accused under section 247, Criminal Procedure Code, on the ground that the complainant is dead, acts without jurisdiction and is not debarred from hearing a second complaint by another servant.

Rule against the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer of Beguserai, dated the 12th of February 1914.

Babu Abani Bhusan Mukerjee, for the Petitioner.

Babu Harihar Proshad Singh, for Dr. Sarat Chandra Bysak, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—This was a Rule calling upon the District Magistrate of Monghyr and also upon the opposite party to show cause why the order of acquittal under section 247 and the order of dismissal of the complaint of the petitioner, Madho Chowdhury, under section 203 should not be set aside and the case proceeded with.

It appears that an elephant of the zemindar got loose into a chilli field belonging to one Turab Mian. The accused are then said to have attacked the elephant with spears and lathis and maimed the animal. Apparently, the learned Magistrate who heard the complaint did not think that the animal had been maimed, but he issued process under section 426. When the day came for disposal, the servant of the zemindar, who had made the complaint, was dead, and the Magistrate adopted the rather extraordinary course, although he knew that the servant was dead, of acquitting the accused under section 247, Criminal Procedure Code. In the meantime another servant of the zemindar, the present petitioner, had complained to the Sub-Divisional Officer of the same offence of maiming his master's elephant. The Sub-Divisional Officer dismissed this case under section 203, Criminal Procedure Code, on the ground that the previous acquittal was a bar to his taking cognizance of it.

We must point out in the first place that the previous acquittal can be no bar, because it was wholly without jurisdiction, and if it is a bar, it is now going to be removed.

We make the Rule absolute.

We set aside the order of acquittal under section 247 and the order of dismissal under section 203 and direct that there should be a further inquiry and in making that inquiry, it should be ascertained before process is issued what the nature of the injury to the elephant is, for it will largely depend upon that whether the jurisdiction falls under section 426, 427 or 429, and that would affect the course of the proceedings at the trial.

Rule made bsolute.

BAIRAGI v. EMPEROR.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL REVISION No. 758 OF 1914.

November 7, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Piggott.

BAIRAGI—APPLICANT

versus

EMPEROR—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 109, 122—Magistrate's power to reject surety—Sufficient ground—Defence witness, whether can stand surety—Revision.

Sureties for good behaviour should not be rejected merely on the strength of the report of a Tahsildar and a Sub-Inspector of Police. without some further proceedings or at any rate without giving the sureties an opportunity of meeting any allegations that may be made against them. The fact that a person offering himself as surety for the good behaviour of another has given evidence in favour of that person in a proceeding under section 109 or 110 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which resulted in the passing of an order requiring security, would not be at all a good reason for refusing to accept the surety.

The discretion conferred on a Magistrate by section 122 of the Code is a wide one and the High Court should not lightly interfere with any reasonable exercise of the same.

Criminal revision against an order of the Magistrate of Benares.

Mr. G. L. Agarwala, for the Applicant.

The Assistant Government Advocate, for the Crown.

JUDGMENT.—This application is connected with Criminal Revision No. 757 of 1914 which I have just disposed of. The applicant had been required to furnish security to be of good behaviour and when two security bonds were produced on his behalf executed by two men Parmeshwar Din and Raghubir, these sureties were rejected by the Magistrate in the exercise of the discretion vested in him by section 122, Criminal Procedure Code.

The Magistrate purports to act in part on reports received by him from the Tahsildar and the Sub-Inspector of Police. There is abundant authority in this Court for the proposition that sureties should not be rejected on the strength of such reports without some further proceedings, or at any rate without giving the sureties in question an opportunity of meeting any allegations that may be made against them. In the present case the Tahsildar's report really discloses nothing against the sureties in question. It is not denied that they have means sufficient to meet the liability undertaken by them in standing sureties and one of them, Parmeshwar Din, appears to be a village headman. The Magistrate has, however, been considerably influenced by the fact that Parmeshwar Din and Raghubir gave certain evidence in Bairagi's defence in the course of the proceedings against him under section 109 of the Criminal Procedure Code, which evidence was disbelieved. It seems to me to be fairly obvious that the fact that a person offering himself as surety for the good behaviour of another has given evidence in favour of that person in a proceeding under section 109 or 110 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which resulted in the passing of the order requiring security, would not be at all a good reason for refusing to accept the surety. A person is quite entitled to say that the Police have been misled in believing a certain friend of his to be a bad character, and that in any case he is prepared to back his opinion as to the harmlessness of the person in whose favour he has given evidence by standing surety for his good behaviour. I suppose that, although the Magistrate does not go into detail on the point, the fact which impressed him in the present case was that Parmeshwar Din and Raghubir had contradicted the evidence given by the Sub-Inspector on certain questions of fact. They have not been prosecuted for perjury, and it is one thing to decline to rely upon their evidence in the teeth of that given by the Sub-Inspector and other witnesses in the case, and quite another to deal with their offer to stand surety for Bairagi on the assumption that they have certainly perjured themselves on his behalf. Even then the Magistrate does not seem to me to draw any definite inference from this circumstance, or to explain why the fact, that Parmeshwar Din and Raghubir gave evidence in Bairagi's defence upon which the Court refused to act, should satisfy him that they are necessarily unfit persons to stand surety for him. I do not, therefore, know whether, in the Magistrate's opinion, the facts on the record before him were such as to justify the inference that Parmeshwar Din and Raghubir were offering to stand surety for Bairagi, not with any purpose of exercising proper control over him, but in order to assist him in pursuing under cover of their surety a career of crime. I would not draw this inference myself from the circumstances on the record, but I am disposed to lay more stress on the fact that the Magistrate himself has not drawn any such inference. I have stated elsewhere that the discretion conferred upon a Magistrate by section 122 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is a wide one and that this Court should not lightly interfere with any reasonable exercise of the same. In the present case, however, it does not seem to me that the Magistrate has given any substantial reason for supposing that, if Parmeshwar Din and Raghubir had been permitted to stand sureties for this man, they would not have exercised proper control over him and kept him from injuring the public during the period covered by their bonds. It is unfortunate that there has been so much delay in bringing this matter to the notice of this Court, and in dealing with it here, that the greater part of the period covered by the Magistrate's order has already expired. This, however, seems no adequate reason for further detaining Bairagi under sentence of rigorous imprisonment. I set aside the order rejecting the security offered by Parmeshwar Din and Raghubir and direct the District Magistrate of Jaunpur to take suitable action to permit the release of Bairagi on his own bond and on those of the sureties in question.

ADHAR CHANDRA DEY v. SUBODH CHANDRA GHOSH.

Order set aside.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

CRIMINAL RULE NOS. 490 AND 491 OF 1914.

April 23, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Holmwood and Mr. Justice Sharfuddin.

ADHAR CHANDRA DEY—PETITIONER

versus

SUBODH CHANDRA GHOSH—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 345—Compromise out of Court—High Court, whether can give effect to, on revisional side.

The parties to a criminal case have no locus standi to ask the High Court sitting on the revisional side to treat the compromise which they have made of their own free will out of Court as one coming under section 345, Criminal Procedure Code.

Rule against the order of the Fourth Presidency Magistrate, Calcutta, dated the 13th of March 1914.

Mr. P. N. Dutt, Babu Dijendra Kumar Ghosh and Haripada Chatterji, for the Petitioner.

Babu Manmatha Nath Mukerji and Mritunjoy Chatterji, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.—Two Rules come before us on behalf of Adhar Chandra Dey, one to show cause why the sentence passed upon him should not be reduced and the other on behalf of the same man in the capacity of complainant to show cause why the order of dismissal of his case should not be set aside and a further inquiry ordered. Upon the parties coming before us and stating that they have compromised the matter out of Court, we can give effect to this compromise, as far as we can, by reducing the sentence to a mere nominal fine of one rupee and directing that no further inquiry be made into the counter-charge. The parties certainly have no locus standi to ask us, sitting here neither as a Court of original jurisdiction nor as a Court of appeal, to treat the compromise which they have made of their own free will as one coming under section 345, Criminal Procedure Code. No stigma can possibly attach to the petitioner on account of this petty fine for an equally petty assault.

The Rule No. 490 is made absolute in the terms we have indicated and the Rule No. 491 is discharged.

Rule No. 490 made absolute;
Rule No. 491 discharged.

ALLAHABAD BANK v. SURAJ KUAR.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL NO. 85 OF 1913.

October 13, 1914.

Present: —Mr. Lindsay, J. C.

THE ALLAHABAD BANK, LIMITED, LUCKNOW—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

Rani SURAJ KUAR AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Interest, penal rate of—Mortgage suits—Contract rate of interest - Court rate of interest, meaning of—Interest, rate of, from date fixed for payment till date of realisation—Discretion of Court—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 34—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 104.

The rate of simple interest at 7½ per cent. per annum is a moderate one, in view of the general rate prevailing in this part of the country, and cannot be said to be oppressive and unconscionable.

In mortgage suits a Court may, in the absence of any rules framed by the High Court in this respect under the provisions of section 104 of the Transfer of Property Act, award interest at the contract rate even after the date fixed for payment till the date of realisation, provided that the rate is reasonable. The Court has, under section 34, Civil Procedure Code, full discretion to do so.

Allahabad Bank, Ld. v. Syed Mohammad Jawad, 2 O. C. 37 and Lal Sheopartab Bahadur Singh v. Allahabad Bank, Limited, 3 O. C. 130, referred to.

Appeal from the decree of the Subordinate Judge, Kheri, dated 25th May 1913.

Pandit Gokaran Nath Misra, for the Appellant.

Babu Lachman Parshad, for Respondents Nos. 1 and 2.

Babu Sita Ram, for Respondent No 4.

JUDGMENT.—The only question raised in this appeal relates to the rate of interest allowed in the decree passed by the Court below.

The suit was one for sale on three mortgages executed by the late Raja Gobardhan Singh. There were five defendants to the suit of whom the first, second and third were the widows of the deceased under a Will executed by the mortgagor. These ladies have a life-interest in the mortgaged property. The fourth defendant is the remainder-man entitled to succeed to the property on the death of the life-tenants. The fifth defendant was interested in one of the villages mortgaged by reason of a provision made in the Will for payment to him of maintenance out of the revenues of the village. The first and second defendants filed a defence to the suit but subsequently admitted the plaintiff's claim. The third defendant (one of the widows) failed to enter any appearance and as against her the proceedings were ex parte. The fourth defendant contested the claim and pleaded inter alia that the rate of interest in the bonds was penal. The fifth defendant also made answer to the claim upon grounds which it is not necessary to consider here. The result of the suit was that the claim was decreed as against the first and second defendants in accordance with the admissions made by them in their petition of compromise. As against the other defendants the claim was decreed, interest at the contract rate being allowed up to the date fixed for payment and thereafter till the date of realization at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum only. It is this last term of the decree which has led to this appeal, the contention for the appellant being that the contract rate of interest should have been allowed till the date of realization.

The appeal has been contested only on behalf of the fourth respondent who was the fourth defendant in the Court below.

The rate of interest provided for in the bonds is 7½ per cent. per annum simple. There was a further condition that the plaintiff Bank would accept the lower rate of 6½ per cent. in case the interest was promptly paid, but the mortgagor never availed himself of this concession and no interest was ever paid at all.

There can be no ground for arguing that the rate of 7½ per cent. claimed by the Bank is oppressive or unconscionable per se. On the contrary the rate is a moderate one, having regard to the terms which are usually to be found in mortgage contracts in this part of the country. There can be no doubt that according to the practice of this Court interest at the contract rate can be awarded in cases of this kind up till the date of realization provided the rate is deemed to be a reasonable one. [Cf. Allahabad Bank, Ld. v. Syed Mohammad Jawad (1) and Lal Sheopartab Bahadur Singh v. Allahabad Bank, Limited (2).] But it has been argued that the ruling of their Lordships of the Privy Council in Sundar Koer v. Rai Sham Krishen (3) must be taken to have overruled the authorities of this Court just referred to and to lay down that although interest may be allowed up till the date of realization, the rate should not exceed what is styled the Court rate of interest. It would appear from the language of the judgment that what was meant by the Court rate was the rate sanctioned by the Calcutta High Court in rules made by that Court under the provisions of section 104 of the Transfer of Property Act—a rate of 6 per cent. per annum.

(1) 2 O. C. 37.
(2) 3 O. C. 130.

It will be observed that this judgment of their Lordships was delivered in the year 1906 before the enactment of the new Code of Civil Procedure and at a time when the application of the sections of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to interest to the case of mortgage decrees was a debatable point. This matter has been set at rest by the inclusion in the new Code of sections 85 to 90 of the Transfer of Property Act. Those sections, as they stood in the Act, were repeated and were re-enacted in Order XXXIV of the first Schedule to the new Code of Civil Procedure, the result being that decrees passed in suits for sale and foreclosure are now amenable to the general provisions of the Code.

Under section 34 of the Code the Court is empowered to award interest at such rate as it deems reasonable from the date of the decree till the date of payment. There is no limitation placed upon the discretion of the Court in this respect, no definite rate is mentioned as being the limit up to which interest should be allowed. This is quite clear from a reference to the provisions of section 35 which deals with the award of interest on costs. There the Court is debarred from awarding interest in excess of 6 per cent. per annum. So far as I am aware no rules have been framed by this Court under the provisions of section 104 of the Transfer of Property Act and accordingly there is here no "Court rate" such as is referred to in the judgment of the Privy Council above mentioned, and the case is governed by the terms of section 34 of the Code of Civil Procedure according to which the Court rate is any rate which is deemed reasonable in the circumstances of the particular case.

It follows, therefore, that in a case like the present the Court may award interest at the contract rate even up till the date of realization provided that the rate is reasonable, as I hold it to be. The Subordinate Judge has given no reasons for reduction of the rate of interest; he probably thought on the authority of the Privy Council ruling above mentioned that 6 per cent. per annum was the limit up to which he could allow interest till the date of realization. In my opinion the rate of $7\frac{1}{2}$ per rent. should have been allowed and I accept the appeal to the extent of declaring that interest from the date fixed for payment till the date of realization shall accrue upon the sum found by the lower Court to be due on the 20th of November 1913 at the rate of $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum, except as regards the portion of such sum which represents costs.

On this latter amount the interest from the date fixed till the date of realization will run at 6 per cent. only (vide section 35 of the Code of Civil Procedure). The decree of the lower Court will be modified accordingly and the decree of this Court will provide a period of three months for payment to run from the date of the decree.

The appellant's costs of this appeal will be borne by the respondent No. 4.

Appeal allowed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 1429 OF 1912.

October 21, 1913.

Present:—Mr. Justice Miller and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

THALAGARA RAMANNE AND OTHERS—APPELLANTS

versus

KALAGARE GANGAYYA AND OTHERS—RESPONDENTS.

Hindu Law—Sale by widow—Bona fide transaction—Reversioners, right of.

(3) 34 C. 150 (P. C.); 4 A. L. J. 109; 11 C. W. N. 249; 5 C. L. J. 106; 17 M. L. J. 43; 9 Bom. L. R. 304; 2 M. L. T. 75; 34 I. A. 9.

THAYAMMAL v. KUPPANNA KOUNDAN.

A bona fide sale by a Hindu widow of her husband's estate, when a greater portion of the consideration is for legal necessity and the price paid is not unreasonably low, is binding on the reversioners and the purchaser for value is entitled to retain the property.

Second appeal from the decree of the District Court of Kistna at Masulipatam, in Appeal Suit No. 222 of 1910, preferred against that of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Kistna at Ellore, in Original Suit No. 42 of 1908.

Messrs. T. V. Seshagiri Aiyar and T. Ramachandra Rao, for the Appellants.

Mr. Narayana Rao, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The District Judge finds that out of the sum of Rs. 1,300, the price paid for the property, Rs. 1,022 was to pay off a debt or debts which the widow was legally justified in paying out of the corpus of her son's estate and that as regards the balance of Rs. 278, there was no justification for obtaining that money by sale of the land. The District Judge also finds that both sales were bona fide transactions and that the prices paid were not unreasonably low. These findings we accept, but we do not think they justify the decree which the District Judge has made.

The sale Exhibit IV for Rs. 700 is clearly wholly good as found by the District Judge and the reversioners have no claim to recover the property. The only ground suggested in support of the decree is inadequacy of price, but the District Judge's finding is that the price was not unreasonable.

As regards the sale for Rs. 600 the sum of Rs. 322 is binding, so to phrase it, on the reversion and Rs. 278 is not binding; but the sale was bona fide and the purchaser is, we think, entitled to retain the land.

We accept the view taken of this question in Felaram Roy v. Bagalanand Banerjee (1) and think that the right decree as regards the second sale will be one which permits the purchaser to retain the land. We need not consider the question whether the reversioners have a right to recover the sum of Rs. 278, because that question was not argued and it was stated by Mr. Seshagiri Aiyar if we accept the District Judge's finding, his clients were willing to pay that amount to retain the land.

(1) 6 Ind. Cas. 207; 14 C. W. N. 895.

We leave that question open for further consideration should it arise.

The decree will, therefore, be that the suit be dismissed with costs throughout as against defendants Nos. 1 to 14 and 17 and 18 and that if the 15th defendant do not within three months pay the amount of Rs. 278 with interest at 6 per cent. per annum from the date of the death of the widow, i.e., on 24th January 1900, the plaintiff be at liberty to sell the property covered by Exhibit III for the amount; but if the payment is made within three months, the plaintiff's suit will stand dismissed against the 15th and 16th defendants also. The 15th defendant will pay his own costs but not the plaintiff's. The memorandum of objections is dismissed with costs.

Memorandum of objections dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 2497 OF 1912.

July 17, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Tyabji.

THAYAMMAL AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS Nos. 3 AND 4—APPELLANTS

versus

KUPPANNA KOUNDAN—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Hindu Law—Right of guardianship—Paternal aunt, whether natural guardian—Alienation by de facto guardian—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 44.

Under the Hindu Law no body else than the father and mother of a minor (with probable exceptions in favour of the elder brother and the direct male and female ancestors of the minor) is entitled as a matter of natural right to be and to act as guardian of a minor's person and properties.

Therefore, under the Hindu Law a paternal aunt is not a natural guardian of a minor.

An alienation by a de facto guardian for no necessity need not be set aside.

Article 44 of the Limitation Act does not apply to alienations by unauthorised guardians.

Second appeal from the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Coimbatore, in Appeal Suit No. 174 of 1911, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Udumalpet.

Mr. T. Ramachandra Rao, for the Appellants.

Messrs. T. M. Krishnaswami Aiyar and A. Anantharama Aiyar, for the Respondents.

THAYAMMAL v. KUPPANNA KOUNDAN.

JUDGMENT.

SADASIVA AIYAR, J.—Following Kristo Kissor Neoghy v. Kader Moye Dossee (1) and Bhikuo Koer v. Chamela Koer (2) I hold that under Hindu Law, nobody else than the father and mother of a minor (with probable exceptions in favour of the elder brother and the direct male and female ancestors of the minor) is entitled as a matter of natural right to be and to act as guardian of a minor's person and properties. Recourse must be had to the Court representing the rights of the King, which are paramount to even the rights of the parents, where there is no natural guardian alive.

The paternal aunt was, therefore, not the natural guardian of the plaintiff when she made the unauthorised alienation.

Assuming that she was the de facto guardian, her alienation for no necessity need not be set aside. Article 44 of the Limitation Act does not apply to alienations by unauthorised. guardians [See Mata Din v. Ahmad Ali (3)] The judgment of the lower Appellate Court is right in the main but in the decretal portion, it decrees possession of the entire lands covered by Exhibit III forgetting that so far as the portions covered by Exhibit II are concerned the claim had been held to be barred by limitation.

The lower Court's decree will be modified accordingly, that is, by providing that the plaintiff's suit shall be decreed only as regards the portion or fraction of the lands covered by Exhibit III, which is not included in Exhibit II, and it will be confirmed in other respects. The appellants will pay half of respondent's costs in this Court and bear their own.

TYABJI, J.—No direct authority is cited to us showing that a paternal aunt is a natural guardian (as distinguished from a testamentary guardian or a guardian appointed by Court) of a minor under the Hindu Law.

Mohammad Mondul v. Nafur Mondul (4) is, however, cited in which it is said that "it was not questioned and it would not very well be questioned" that a paternal grandmother of the minor who has acted as the manager of the minor's property, "answered to the description of natural guardian in this case." It is argued for the appellants that this is a ruling that a paternal grandmother is a natural guardian and that, therefore, a paternal aunt may also be such and may, therefore, be clothed with the powers of a guardian without being appointed to do so by competent authority. It may be that the remarks just preceding the statements I have cited may require reconsideration in view of what was said by their Lordships of the Privy Council in Mir Sarwarjan v. Fakhruddin Mahomed Chowdhuri (5). Apart from this, however, as my learned brother has said in his judgment (which I have had the benefit of reading), a female in the direct line of ascent stands in Hindu Law on a totally different footing as regards rights of guardianship from a collateral like paternal aunt. The only other authorities cited for the appellant consist of passages from MacNaughten's Hindu Law and similar text-books where it is said that paternal kinsmen have the right of guardianship. It is not quite clear whether female paternal kinsmen (not being in the direct line of ascent) are intended to be included amongst those relations who have the 'natural' right of guardianship. Mayne in his Hindu Law (8th Edition), page 278, paragraph 211, on the other hand expressly refers to male kinsmen alone as having this right. And this view is supported by the decision of Kristo Kissor Neoghy v. Kader Moye Dossee (1) and by the view expressed by my learned brother in his judgment.

I, therefore, agree in the order proposed by my learned brother.

The memorandum of objections is allowed with costs, as Exhibit III was not executed for purposes binding on the plaintiff and it is not proved that Rs. 50 (the money recovered by plaintiff's aunt) was spent for the plaintiff's benefit.

Memorandum of objections allowed.

(1) 2 C. L. R. 583.

(2) 2 C. W. N. 191.

(3) 13 Ind. Cas. 976; 16 C. W. N. 338; 11 M. L. T. 145; (1912) M. W. N. 183; 9 A. L. J. 215; 15 C. L. J. 270; 14 Bom. L. R. 192; 15 O. C. 49; 23 M. L. J. 6; 39 I. A. 49; 34 A. 230 (P. C.).

(4) 26 C. 820 at p. 825; 3 C. W. N. 770.

(5) 13 Ind. Cas. 331; 21 M. L. J. 1156; 39 I. A. 1; 16 C. W. N. 74; (1912) M. W. N. 22; 9 A. L. J. 33; 15 C. L. J. 69; 14 Bom. L. R. 5; 39 C. 232 (P. C.).

MOTTAI REDDY v. THANAPPA REDDY.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL REVISION PETITION No. 646 OF 1910.

January 18, 1912.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sundara Aiyar.

MOTTAI REDDY alias RAMASAMI REDDY AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—PETITIONERS

versus

THANAPPA REDDY (DIED) AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Contract—Agreement to compound offence, promissory note executed in consideration of, whether legal—Necessary condition—Revision—High Court's power of interference—Mere errors of procedure, effect of.

As the offence of causing grievous hurt cannot be legally compromised except with the consent of the person to whom grievous hurt is caused, a promissory note executed as consideration for compounding such an offence committed against a person who had died previous to the complaint, is illegal and cannot be enforced. Such an agreement to pay money in consideration of compounding a criminal offence cannot be supported even on the ground that the party who executes the agreement would also be liable for damages.

The High Court as a Court of Revision has no power to consider justice apart from such justice as the law requires and cannot refuse to interfere on the ground that moral, as opposed to legal, justice, is a ground for refusing to interfere in revision.

Mere errors of procedure or technical defects not affecting the legal justice of a case will not be encouraged by a Court of Revision.

Petition, under section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (IX of 1887), praying the High Court to revise the decree of the District Munsif of Sholinghur, dated the 19th April 1910, in Small Cause Suit No. 195 of 1910.

Mr. V. V. Srinivasa Aiyangar, for the Petitioners.

The Hon'ble Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Ayyar, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The plaintiff is the endorsee of a promissory note executed by the defendants in favour of two persons, Muthammal and Chenga Reddi. The defendants denied that the plaintiff paid any consideration for the promissosy note. It does not appear that the plaintiff claimed in the lower Court to be a holder in due course. No issue was framed to try that question.

The promissory note, Exhibit A, states that it was executed in pursuance of the razinamah presented by the parties in Calendar Case No. 121 of 1909. That razinamah, Exhibit B, states that the amount for which the promissory note was executed was due as consideration for compounding Calendar Case No. 121. In that case the executants of the promissory note were charged with grievous hurt caused to one Gopal Reddi who had died previous to the complaint. It is not denied that the offence could not have been legally compromised except with the consent of the person to whom grievous hurt was caused, and the agreement to compound was, therefore, one prohibited by law. It was not contended in the lower Court that the consideration for the promissory note was anything different from what is stated in Exhibits A and B. The agreement to pay money evidenced by the promissory note appears, therefore, to be clearly illegal. The learned Vakil for the respondents contends that, as the complainant would also in law be entitled to claim damages for the injury caused to Gopala Reddi, the claim to damages must also be taken to be at least part of the consideration for the promissory note. But this case was not set up in the lower Court, and no evidence was given in support of any such allegation; I must take it, therefore, that the consideration was merely the compounding of the criminal offence. Mr. Govindaraghava Ayyar has drawn my attention to Sheikh Nubee Buksh v. Musammat Bebbee Hingon (1). Whether in that case the claim to damages was also part of the consideration for the document in question, I cannot say; but if the learned Judges meant to lay down that, even though it may not be proved that such was the case, an agreement to pay money in consideration of compounding a criminal offence could be supported on the ground that the party who executes the agreement would also be liable for damages, I am unable with all deference to follow that judgment. It is also argued that, as the executants of the promissory note would be liable in a Civil Court for damages, the ends of justice do not require that this Court should interfere. I do not think that this Court as a Court of Revision has any power to consider justice apart from such justice as the law recognises. I believe there are some cases where Courts have gone to the extent contended for by Mr. Govindaraghava Ayyar, but, in the absence of any decision of this

(1) 8 W. R 412

Court binding on me, I am not prepared to hold that I can refuse to interfere on the ground that moral, as opposed to legal, justice is a ground for refusing to interfere in revision. No doubt, mere errors of procedure or technical defects not affecting the legal justice of a case will not be encouraged by a Court of Revision; but when the law prohibits an agreement and requires that effect should not be given to it, I am of opinion that I am bound to interfere.

The order of the lower Court must be set aside and the plaintiff's suit dismisssd. There will be no order as to costs.

Order set aside.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEALS NOS. 609, 610 & 633 TO 635 OF 1911.

June 1, 1914.

Present:—Justice Sir Asutosh Mookerjee, KT., and Mr. Justice Beachcroft.

UMA CHARAN MANDAL AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

MIDNAPORE ZEMINDARY COMPANY—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Bengal Sales of Under-tenures Act (VIII B. C. of 1865), s. 16—Intermediate landlord, obligations of—Agreement with another person to get rid of under-tenure, whether fraud—Under-tenure, annulment of—Wilful default by tenure-holder in payment of rent—Decree under Rent Law—Sale—Pre-arranged terms.

An intermediate landlord is bound to protect his own tenant from all paramount claims and may be deemed to have committed an act of fraud against his under-lessee, when he enters into an agreement with another person to get rid of the under-tenure by means of a fraud and fictitious sale for arrears of rent.

Srinath Ghose Chowdhry v. Haronath Dutt Chowdhry, 18 W. R. 240; 9 B. L. R. 220; Graham v. Allsopp, (1843) 3 Ex. 186; 77 R. R. 592; 18 L. J. Ex. 85; Kishore Chunder Sein v. Kally Kinkur Paul Chowdhry, 20 W. R. 333, followed.

Appeals against the decrees of the District Judge of Manbhum, dated the 30th September 1910, affirming those of the Subordinate Judge of Purulia, dated the 21st March, 1910.

Mr. S. P. Sinha, Babus Khetra Mohan Sen, Biraj Mohan Majumdar and Panchanan Ghose, for the Appellants.

Dr. Rash Behary Ghose, Babus Joges Chunder Roy and Sitaram Banerjee, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

S. A. No. 609 OF 1911.

MOOKERJEE, J.—This is an appeal by the defendants in a suit for annulment of an under-tenure and for possession thereof by a purchaser at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent under the Bengal Sales of Under-tenures Act of 1865. The circumstances under which the sale took place may be briefly narrated. The plaintiffs-Company are the successors-in-interest of Robert Watson & Co., who obtained on the 8th March 1885 a putni taluk in Barohabhum from Raja Brojo Kishore Singh Deo, the then zemindar. Under the putni, there was a tenure, originally held by one Sarup Ganjan Singha, which had subsequently passed into the hands of Raja Jugabandhu Singh. The defendants are in occupation of the disputed lands as under-tenure-holders under the latter. The tenure-holder made default in payment of rent, with the result that the Company, as putnidars, brought a suit against him for arrears and obtained a decree. At the sale which was held in execution of the decree, the Company became the purchasers of the defaulting tenure on the 7th December 1908. The sale was confirmed on the 16th December 1908 and the Company commenced this action on the 28th May 1909 for recovery of possession on declaration that the under-tenure held by the defendants had been extinguished as the result of the rent sale. The defendants resisted the claim substantially on two grounds, namely, first, that the plaintiffs were not the purchasers of an entire tenure sold for its own arrears and were consequently not entitled to treat the under-tenure as cancelled under section 16 of Act VIII of 1865 (B. C.); and secondly, that the sale had been brought about and accomplished under circumstances which made it in essence a private sale and disentitled the purchaser to claim the privileges accorded by law to a purchaser of an entire tenure at a rent sale held under the provisions of the Bengal Rent Law. The first of these grounds raises a question of considerable nicety by no means free from difficulty, namely, did Sarup Ganjan Singha hold one or two tenures and what was the legal effect of the deed of compromise, dated the 6th March 1884, on his title? But it is not necessary to examine this aspect of the matter, because the appellants are entitled, in our opinion, to succeed in their second contention.

The District Judge has in concurrence with the Subordinate Judge found that the tenure-holder Raja Jugabandhu Singh was determined to get rid of the property and was anxious to make the best possible bargain for it. The Company were ready to take the property by private purchase for Rs. 36,000. This was not acceptable to the Raja, who had fixed the minimum price at Rs. 40,000. This the Company would not pay, unless they could get a clear title by purchase at a rent sale, that is, a title free from the encumbrances of the under-tenure-holders. It was finally agreed on the day of sale that the Company should bid up to Rs. 40,000 and that the Raja should allow the sale to proceed, although he was well able to save the property from sale by deposit of the small sum of Rs. 200 for which the rent decree had been made. It was also arranged that at the sale a Pleader of the Court, Babu Satis Chandra Singh should offer bids up to Rs. 39,000 so as to lead up to the pre-arranged bid of Rs. 40,000 on behalf of the Company. The bid by Satis Chandra Singh was wholly fictitious; he never intended to buy the property, but offered the bid of Rs. 39,000 so that the Company might at once follow up with a bid for Rs. 40,000. The arrangement as made antecedent to the sale was carried out in every detail and the Company became the purchasers of the tenure at the sale. The question arises, whether in the events which have happened, they are entitled to claim the privileges of a purchaser at a rent sale or whether they are not in the position of private purchasers of the property.

The principles applicable to cases of this description have been laid down in cases of the highest authority. In Srinath Ghose Chowdhry v. Haronath Dutt Chowdhry (1) this Court was called upon to consider the effect of a sale of a tenure under the Rent Law brought about designedly to get rid of an under-lessee. There the tenure-holder had deliberately defaulted to pay the superior landlord his just dues, with the intention that a decree might be obtained against him and his tenure sold, so that the under-tenure might be extinguished. The plan succeeded; the decree was made and was executed. The purchaser was settled from before the sale and the price also was fixed beforehand. Under the circumstance, the Court held that although the sale was held under the provisions of the Rent Law, it had no higher effect than a private alienation, because it was in essence a transfer under pre-arranged conditions to a purchaser who was a party to the arrangement. Mr. Justice Markby accepted the principle recognised in Graham v. Allsopp (2) that an intermediate landlord is bound to protect his own tenant from all paramount claims, and held that he may be deemed to have committed an act of fraud against his under-lessee when he entered into an agreement with another person to get rid of the under-tenure by means of a fraud and fictitious sale for arrears of rent. The same principle was applied in the case of Kishore Chunder Sein v. Kally Kinkur Paul Chowdhry (3) where default was wilfully made by the recorded tenant and the tenure sold to a pre-arranged purchaser, with a view to get rid of unrecorded co-sharers in the property. The Court held that as the sale was not in essence a public sale, but only a device to give to what was really a private transaction the incident of a public sale, it must be treated as a private sale only. It is worthy of note that in the cases of Srinath Ghose Chowdhry v. Haronath Dutt Chowdhry (1) and Kishore Chunder Sein v. Kally Kinkur Paul Chowdhry (3), this Court merely applied the doctrine laid down by their Lordships of the Judicial Committee in Nawab Sidhee Nuzur Ali Khan v. Rajah Ojoodhyaram Khan (4), where an attempt was made to destroy the right of a mortgagee by recourse to the device of a sale for arrears of revenue, at which the purchase was to be made by a purchaser with whom the terms had been settled in advance. It was held that the Court would strip off all disguises from a case of this character, look at the transaction as it really is and treat the sale as a private sale, because it was a mere device for the achievement of an ulterior

(1) 18 W. R. 240; 9 B. L. R. 220.

(2) (1843) 3 Ex. 186; 77 R. R. 592; 18 L. J. Ex. 85

(3) 20 W. R. 333.

(4) 10 M. I. A. 540; 5 W. R. 83 (P. C.); 1 Suth. P. C. J. 675; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 198; 19 Eng. Rep. 1075.

purpose and never really meant to be a sale under the revenue laws for realization of arrears of revenue. Whatever may be the forms gone through, no one will be allowed, by means of a fictitious auction-sale, to cause loss to another and benefit to himself. The same principle was recently applied in the case of Harendra Lal Roy Chowdhry v. Nawab Salimullah Bahadur (5) where an attempt was made to destroy the rights of under-tenure-holders by means of a sale for arrears of revenue: the proprietor carefully defaulted to pay the Government revenue and arranged to have the property purchased by a person with whom all the terms were carefully pre-arranged and who agreed on those terms to offer bids at the sale which would inevitably follow the defaults. An analogous principle has been applied in the cases of Harendra Lal Roy v. Purna Chandra Chatterjee(6), Chowdhury Ram Prosad Singh v. Chowdhury Pawan Singh (7), Janki Singh v. Debi Nandan Prasad (8) and Faizar Rahman v. Maimuna Khatun (9).

In the case before us, the default was wilfully made; the sale was deliberately brought about though the judgment-debtor was able to pay the judgment-debt; the purchaser and the price to be paid by them were settled in advance. Here we have all the characteristics of a private sale. It was clearly an abuse of statutory provisions for sale of tenures in execution of decrees for rent, to bring about designedly a sale under such circumstances so that the right of under-tenure-holders might be destroyed, an unencumbered title conveyed to the purchaser, and the maximum of benefit conferred upon the defaulter. The transaction in all its characteristics was a private sale and if we were to regard it as a real rent sale, we would have to hold that an unscrupulous tenure-holder may successfully avail himself of the stringent provisions of the rent law, solely with a view to injure subordinate tenure-holders and to profit by their detriment, while providing, by means of a secret arrangement with the intending purchaser ample safe-guards against any possible loss to himself by the transaction. The conclusion appears to be irresistible that the plaintiffs must be treated as in no better position than a purchaser by a private transfer. In this view, their claim for annulment of the under-tenure of the defendants cannot be sustained. The result is that this appeal is allowed and the suit dismissed with costs in all the Courts.

S. A. Nos. 610—633 to No. 635 OF 1911.

It is conceded that the above judgment will govern these appeals. They will consequently be allowed and the suits from which they arise will stand dismissed with costs throughout.

BEACHCROFT, J.—I agree.

Appeals allowed.

(5) 7 Ind. Cas. 21; 12 C. L. J. 336.
(6) 14 Ind. Cas. 368; 15 C. L. J. 132.
(7) 21 Ind. Cas. 354; 18 C. L. J. 97.
(8) 7 Ind. Cas. 772; 15 C. W. N. 776.
(9) 20 Ind. Cas. 510; 18 C. L. J. 111; 17 C. W. N. 1233.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.
CIVIL SUIT No. 31 OF 1914.
July 31, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Bakewell.
VARADARAJULU CHETTY—PLAINTIFF
versus
DHANALAKSHMI AMMAL—DEFENDANT.

Mortgagor and mortgagee—Redemption Costs of unsuccessful redemption suit, whether mortgagee can add to his security—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), ss. 58, 60, 92—'Mortgage money', meaning of—Tender—Validity of conditional tender.

A mortgagee is entitled to add to his mortgage security the costs incurred by him in defending an unsuccessful redemption suit by the mortgagor and the mortgagor is bound to pay the same before redemption.

It is an undoubted rule of equity that in taking an account between a mortgagee and a mortgagor, the former is entitled to be reimbursed all moneys properly and reasonably expended by him with reference to the mortgaged property. The payment of such expenses may be regarded as an implied term of the mortgage contract or as a condition imposed by a Court of equity upon the party who has invoked its assistance and the amount is added to the sum due on the security.

National Provincial Bank of England v. Games, (1886) 31 Ch. D. 582; 55 L. J. Ch. 576; 54 L. T. 696; 34 W. R. 600, referred to.

The term mortgage money in sections 58, 60 and 92 of the Transfer of Property Act includes all moneys which, on taking an account between the parties, may be properly allowed to the mortgagee.

The Transfer of Property Act is not a consolidating Statute and the right of a mortgagee to a general account of the moneys due to him under the mortgage contract is saved by the provision of section 2 (b) of the Act and his right has not been cut down to an account merely of the principal sum and interest by the said sections. A tender of money admitted to be due by a mortgagor is not valid pro tanto, if a larger sum is in fact due, if the tender is accompanied by a demand for cancellation and delivery of the mortgage-deed.

A tender by a person who has entered into a contract for purchasing the equity of redemption is not valid if conditional on the delivery to him of the title-deeds.

FACTS.—The plaintiff filed this suit for redemption. The plaint recited that one Papammal mortgaged the suit house on the 25th October 1908 to the defendant, that on the 9th November 1913 the said Papammal agreed to sell the house to the plaintiff and it was then agreed that the plaintiff should discharge the mortgage-debt due to the defendant, that on the 29th November 1913 the plaintiff tendered to the defendant Rs. 3,011-5-4, being the amount of principal and interest then due to the defendant, but the defendant refused to receive the same, that by a sale-deed, dated 1st December 1913, the plaintiff purchased the house from the said Papammal and obtained possssion thereof, and that the defendant is not entitled to interest after the 29th November 1913.

The defendant denied the tender and stated that the tender was invalid, even if true, as the amount tendered was less than the amount due, that Papammal had instituted Civil Suit No. 88 of 1910 on the file of the High Court for the redemption of the suit mortgage on the ground that the mortgage-debt had already been discharged, that on the 3rd May 1912 the said Papammal withdrew the suit and was directed to pay the defendant her costs of the suit, which were taxed on the 25th October 1912 at Rs. 96-4-0, that the defendant is in law entitled to add the amount of the said costs to the mortgage security and the plaintiff was bound to tender the amount of the said costs in addition to the principal and interest due on the mortgage, and that the defendant is also entitled to interest from the date of the alleged tender.

An issue raised in the case related to the right of the defendant to add the costs of Civil Suit No. 88 of 1910 to the mortgage moneys.

Mr. M. Venkatasubba Rao, for the Defendant:—Defendant is entitled to add the costs of the previous suit to the mortgage moneys. They were costs that the mortgagee properly incurred in defending her security. If Papammal succeeded in the previous suit, the defendant would be entitled to add the costs to her security.

Why should the defendant be in a worse position because Papammal withdrew the suit?

English authorities have uniformly held that in these circumstances the defendant would be entitled to add costs.

Ramsden v. Langley (1), Lomax v. Hide (2), Webb v. Crosse (3), Eardley v. Knight (4), National Provincial Bank of England v. Games (5); Seton on Decrees, 4th Edition, page 1059.

Section 72, Transfer of Property Act, gives this right to the mortgagee in possession. This does not by implication negative the right of a mortgagee who is not in possession.

The Transfer of Property Act is not a consolidating Act. The preamble states: "Whereas it is expedient to define certain parts of the law." Section 2 (b) provides that nothing in the Act shall affect any incidents of any contract which are consistent with the provisions of the Act.

The preamble of the Contract Act and section 1 of the said Act are similar to the above provisions of the Transfer of Property Act.

In In the matter of McCorkindale (6) it was held that as in section 171 of the Contract Act there is nothing inconsistent with the rule of English Law, the English Law applied and that where the Attorney discharges himself he has no lien.

Again in Irrawaddy Flotilla Company v. Bugwan Das (7) it was held that sections

(1) 2 Vern. 536; 23 Eng. Rep. 947.
(2) 2 Vern. 185; 23 Eng. Rep. 721.
(3) (1912) 1 Ch. 323; 81 L. J. Ch. 259; 105 L. T. 867; 56 S. J. 177.
(4) 41 Ch. D. 537; 58 L. J. Ch. 622; 60 L. T. 780; 37 W. R. 704.
(5) (1886) 31 Ch. D. 582; 55 L. J. Ch. 576; 54 L. T. 696; 34 W. R. 600.
(6) 6 C. 1; 6 C. L. R. 406; 5 Ind. Jur. 520.
(7) 18 C. 620; 18 I. A. 121 (P. C.).

relating to bailment do not affect either the written or the unwritten law relating to carriers.

Contrast the preamble of the Evidence Act.

In Nogenderchunder Ghose v. Sreemutty Kaminee Dossee (8) English rule of costs was held applicable to India.

In Upendra Chandra Mitter v. Tara Prosanna Mukerjee (9) the right is recognised as one based on general principles. This was a case of a mortgagee not in possession.

It was followed in Rakhohari Chatta Raj v. Bipra Das Dey (10).

Girdhar Lal v. Bhola Nath (11) is a case of a mortgagee in possession; but the general principles of law are referred to,—see page 614.

Mr. V. Raghunatha Sastri, for the Plaintiff:—Section 88 of the Transfer of Property Act refers only to principal and interest and costs of the suit.

While providing for mortgagee in possession in section 72 the Act does not give a right to other mortgagees.

Mortgagor is personally liable for costs.

In Mohunga Ojha v. Ram Bahadur Singh (12) it was held that the mortgagor being personally liable, section 90, Transfer of Property Act, has no application.

Bansgopal Singh v. Rup Narain Singh (13) takes the same view.

In Pokree Saheb Beary v. Pokree Beary (14) the mortgagee was not allowed the costs incurrred in a previous suit.

I rely on Upendra Chandra Mitter v. Tara Prosanna Mookerjee (9) cited by the other side.

I also contend that my tender is valid, even if it should be held that it did not include the entire amount due.

Haji Abdul Rahman v. Haji Noor Muhammad (15) Digambar Das v. Harendra Narain Panday (16).

(8) 11 M. I. A. 241; 8 W. R. 17 (P. C.); 2 Suth. P. C. J. 77; 2 Sar. P. C. J. 275; 20 E. R. 92.
(9) 30 C. 794; 7 C. W. N. 609.
(10) 31 C. 975.
(11) 10 A. 611; A. W. N. (1888) 238.
(12) 15 Ind. Cas. 23; 16 C. W. N. 731.
(13) 19 Ind. Cas. 384.
(14) 21 M 32.
(15) 16 B. 141.
(16) 5 Ind. Cas. 165; 14 C. W. N. 617 at p. 624; 11 C. L. J. 226.

Mr. M. Venkatasubba Rao, in reply:—Assuming the propostion regarding tender enunciated by the other side to be correct, which I do not admit, the tender here is clearly bad. It was a conditional tender. The plaintiff had no right to demand the return of the mortgage-deed and the title-deeds. If I parted with them I lost my security for the costs. If I did not part with them the money would not be paid to me.

JUDGMENT.—The plaintiff is the owner of a house subject to a mortgage in favour of the defendant executed by the plaintiff's assignor. The plaintiff's assignment is dated the 1st December 1913, and he alleges that on the 29th November 1913 he tendered to the defendant the amount of principal and balance of interest then due to her under her mortgage and brings this suit for redemption of the mortgaged property.

The plaintiff's assignor brought a previous suit, No. 88 of 1910, for redemption and by an order therein, dated the 3rd May 1910, it was directed that upon payment by her to the defendants therein of their respective costs the plaintiff "do have leave to withdraw from this suit." These costs have not been paid, and the 2nd issue in this case raises the question whether the defendant is entitled to add the amount thereof to the mortgage moneys. The order of the 3rd May 1910 is conditional upon the payment of costs, and since the condition remains unfulfilled it might be argued that the former suit is still pending and that the present suit does not lie; but this point has not been raised by the defendant. The order does not direct payment of the costs by the mortgagor personally, and, therefore, has not in any way affected the liability, if any, of the mortgagor; and the cases cited on behalf of the plaintiff may be distinguished on this ground.

It is an undoubted rule of equity that in taking the account between a mortgagee and mortgagor the former is entitled to be reimbursed all moneys properly and reasonably expended by him with reference to the mortgaged property. The payment of such expenses may be regarded as an implied term of the mortgage contract, or as a condition imposed by a Court of equity upon the party who has invoked its assistance, and the amount is added to the sum due on the security. [See National Provincial Bank of England v. Games (5).] It is obvious that if a decree for redemption were made without taking such expenses into account and the mortgagee were driven to proceed against the mortgagor personally for the amount, the result might be to diminish pro tanto the amount of principal and interest which the mortgagee is entitled to receive under his security.

For these reasons I think that the term mortgage money in sections 58, 60 and 92 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, must be taken to include all moneys which, on taking an account between the parties, may be properly allowed to the mortgagee.

It has been argued on behalf of the plaintiff that section 72 provides for the allowance of certain moneys expended by a mortgagee in possession and their addition to the mortgage security and that the absence of a similar provision with respect to other mortgagees indicates the intention of the Legislatures that the latter should not have the same right. The preamble of the Act shows that it is not a consolidating Statute, and I am of opinion that the right of a mortgagee to a general account of the moneys due to him under the mortgage contract is saved by the provisions of section 2 (b) and that his right has not been cut down to an account merely of the principal sum and interest by the section to which I have already referred.

The costs in question were caused by proceedings taken by the mortgagor and would have been added to the defendant's security if those proceedings had been brought to their proper conclusion; and I, therefore, hold that the mortgagee is entitled to include them in her account and answer the 2nd issue in the affirmative.

The first issue is whether the plaintiff tendered a sum mentioned in the plaint. The evidence is that this sum and the letter, Exhibit B, were offered to the defendant by an apprentice of the plaintiff's Vakil on 29th November 1913 and that she refused to receive both the money and the letter. Exhibit B and the form of receipt enclosed therewith contemplate that the receipt of this sum should be endorsed upon the mortgage-deed, and, therefore, that the deed so endorsed should be delivered to the plaintiff. P. W. No. 1 states that he told the defendant that he would be satisfied with the receipt without the papers and did not ask for any papers to be returned; but his instructions clearly were to obtain an endorsed receipt and he could not obtain the receipt which he demanded without the mortgage-deed.

The tender was accordingly conditional upon the endorsement, cancellation and delivery of the mortgage deed. Since the defendant was entitled to retain the deed uncancelled as security for payment of her costs and since the plaintiff had not at that time obtained an assignment of the property from his vendor and was not entitled to possession of the title-deeds, the plaintiff had no right to impose this condition upon his offer and I, therefore, hold that there was no valid tender and answer the first issue in the negative.

This sum has been paid by the plaintiff since the institution of the suit and, therefore, there will be the usual decree for redemption upon payment of the sum of Rs. 96-4-0 with interest at 6 per cent. from 24th January 1913 and also the costs of this suit, within one month.

[As owing to a slip, the judgment did not give interest from date of tender to payment into Court, an application for review was made and granted. The interest claimed was accordingly decreed.—Ed.]

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL No. 188 OF 1911.

September 24, 1914.

Present:—Sir John Edward Power Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

PAPACHAR SETHUMATHAVACHARIAR AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS Nos. 1, 28, 30 AND 32—APPELLANTS

versus

THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL, REPRESENTED BY THE COLLECTOR OF SOUTH ARCOT, AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS Nos. 1 TO 51 AND PLAINTIFFS Nos. 2 TO 35—RESPONDENTS.

Madras Irrigation Cess Act (VII of 1865*), s.* 1—Shrotriemdar—Engagement—Irrigation, free of charge—Enjoyment for 60 years, if confers right to exemption —Kassar, meaning of—Inam title-deed, scope of—Recitals in inam title-deed, if conclusive as to enjoy- ment—Evidence aliunde, admissibility of, to disprove such recitals.

The term kassar means excess water-rate.

Ordinarily mere abstinence on the part of the Government from imposing water-cess for 40 years after the grant of an inam title-deed, does not debar the exercise of their right to levy the same.

An inam title-deed is not conclusive of the question of an engagement to exempt the lands from the liability to pay cess and evidence aliunde is admissible to prove that the enjoyment contended for was either anterior or subsequent to the Inam Settlement.

Chidambara Rao v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 26 M. 66; Lutchmee Doss v. Secretary of State for India, 3 Ind. Cas. 456; 6 M. L. T. 242; 32 M. 456 and Kandukuri Mahalakshmiamma Garu v. The Secretary of State for India, 8 Ind. Cas. 67; 8 M. L. T. 389; (1910) M. W. N. 595; 20 M. L. J. 823; 34 M. 295, explained.

Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannidhi, 8 Ind. Cas. 357; 9 M. L. T. 47; (1910) M. W. N. 119; 34 M. 366; Kandalam Rajagopalacharyulu v. Secretary of State for India, 22 Ind. Cas. 107; 14 M. L. T. 454; (1913) M. W. N. 937 and Marra Susai Mudaliar v. Secretary of State for India in Council, 14 M. L. J. 350, followed.

A grant of land by the Government implies an undertaking on its part to supply water free of charge to the extent of the accustomed flow at the time of the grant, and where the customary flow cannot be ascertained, the area irrigated will be presumed as the measure of the quantity of water used at the time of the grant.

In the absence of anything to show that the Inam Commissioner was not authorised to deal with a question, his decision will bind the Government.

Appeal against the decree of the District Court of South Arcot, in Original Suit No. 27 of 1908.

FACTS.—More than two centuries ago the suit villages were granted as hereditary shrotriem to the ancestors of the plaintiffs and defendants Nos. 2 to 41 by the Nawab of Bijapur. The grant was subsequently confirmed by the Nawab of the Carnatic, subject to the payment of a jodi of Rs. 827. The lands in these villages were classified in paimaish accounts as mostly punjai and the rest as tottakkal. There was no tarawari Settlement of these lands. In 1840 the Government wanted to construct a channel, called Punjai Vaikal, for bringing certain dry lands in some ayan villages under wet cultivation. As the proposed channel had to run part of its course through the plaint shrotriem villages, the Collector of South Arcot directed the Taluk Sheristadar to ascertain from the shrotriemdars of the said villages if, in consideration of their being allowed to use the water of the said channel to convert their dry lands into wet, they would contribute towards the cost of construction of the said channel and consent to pay kassar thereafter. The latter officer reported (Exhibit B) that the shrotriemdars were willing to contribute towards the cost of construction but not to pay kassar. The Collector by his order (Exhibit B1) dated 29th June 1840 directed that one-fourth of the estimated cost of excavating the channel should be recovered from the shrotriemdars and this was accordingly done. The channel was constructed in due course and the shrotriemdars converted some of their dry lands into nunja and continued to bear a portion of the expenses incurred for the upkeep and repair of the channel. From 1840 up to 1906 no attempt was made on the part of the Government to levy any water rate on the shrotriemdars. In 1857 a survey was made by Government which classed these lands to be nunjas. The inam title-deed granted to the shrotriemdars did not expressly exempt the grantees from their liability to pay the water-cess. In calculating the beriz for the purpose of levying quit-rent the extents of dry and wet lands shown in the account of 1827 were taken as the basis of calculation, the conversion of dry into wet lands being ignored apparently under Inam Rules. It also appeared that no compensation had been paid by the Government for the lands taken up for the channel and no deduction was made in the jodi payable by the plaintiffs. In 1906 the Government levied a sum of Rs. 1,187-10-0 as water-cess upon the suit lands. The present suit is for a declaration that the Government is not entitled to levy any cess upon the lands in suit, for an injunction against future levy of the same and for the refund of the amount of cess already collected on the ground that at the time of the excavation of the said channel, there was an undertaking by the Government not to levy cess upon such of the dry lands belonging to the shrotriemdars as may be brought under wet cultivation by the aid of the water of the new channel and that in consequence the levy of the same was illegal. The first defendant, the Secretary of State for India in Council, denied that there was any such undertaking on the part of the Government and contended that the Government was entitled to levy the cess in question under Madras Act VII of 1865. The District Judge of South Arcot dismissed the suit on the ground that the engagement set up by the plaintiffs was not proved. Against the said decree the plaintiffs Nos. 1, 28, 30 and 32 appealed to the High Court.

PAPACHAR SETHUMATHAVACHARIAR v. SECRETARY OF STATE.

Messrs. P. R. Ganapathy Aiyar and R. Rangaswami Iyengar, for the Appellants:—The appellants had been enjoying the use of the water in question free of charge ever since 1840. Exhibit B makes it quite clear that the shrotriemdars refused to pay kassar, and this was accepted by the Collector who ordered the collection of one-fourth of the cost of excavating the channel from the shrotriemdars. There has thus been an engagement on the part of the Government not to charge anything for the water used. The subsequent conduct of the Government is in keeping with this. In 1857 the villages were surveyed and in the Survey Registers the lands are shown as nunja. Even in the Inam Settlement, the conversion of dry into wet lands had been ignored. The inam title-deed did not reserve any right in the Government to levy water-rate. Ever since 1840 the shrotriemdars were in the habit of bearing every year a portion of the amount necessary for the upkeep and repair of the channel in dispute. The enjoyment of the shrotriemdars must, therefore, be referred to a legal origin and be deemed as of right. Rajrup Koer v. Syed Abdul Hossein (1) and Sirnivasa Rau Sahib, Jagirdar of Arni v. Secretary of State for India (2).

Dr. S. Swaminadhan and Mr. S. Pandalay, for the Respondents:—The Government is entitled to levy the cess, as admittedly the water came from a Government source. According to Exhibit BB, the inam title-deed, the plaintiffs are entitledto irrigate free of charge 533 acres of nunja and that entry is conclusive against the plaintiffs [Chidambara Rao v. The Secretary of State for India in Council (3), Lutchmee Doss v. Secretary of State for India (4)]. There is no express undertaking in the inam title-deed to exempt these lands from the liability to pay the cess. It is the inam title-deed which constitutes the appellants' engagement with the Government, and is the foundation of their rights. They are liable to be rated for any excess water they may take. Exhibit BI does not evince any intention on the part of the Government to give up their rights.

Mr. P. R. Ganapathy Aiyar in reply referred to the following cases: Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannidhi (5); Kundukuri Mahalakshmamma Garu v. The Secretary of State for India (6); Maria Susai Mudaliar v. Secretary of State for India in Council (7).

JUDGMENT.

WALLIS, OFFG. C. J.—The question in this appeal is, to what extent the shrotriemdars (appellants) are entitled to irrigation free of charge for their villages by virtue of an engagement with Government within the meaning of Act VII of 1865. The appellants enjoyed the irrigation free of charge without question for about 66 years from 1840 to 1906 and the question is whether such enjoyment must now be deemed to be as of right. The facts proved are fairly clear and the only question is as to the inference to be drawn from them. In 1840 the authorities were desirous of constructing a channel, now known as Punjai Vaikal, taking off from the Raja Vaikal, which again takes off from the Coleroon river. The channel was to pass first through certain ayan or Government villages, then through these shrotriem lands and finally into certain other ayan villages, in all of which lands till then dry would be irrigated from the channel. Exhibit B, dated 24th June 1840, is a report from the Taluq Sheristadar to the Collector of South Arcot in answer to a reference as to the extent of the dry lands in the above villages likely to be irrigated from the channel and the amount of kassar or excess charge that would accrue to Government, and also as to whether the shrotriemdars were prepared to contribute to the cost of construction at a certain rate per cawny to be irrigated. The Sheristadar reported that the shrotriemdars said they would not pay kassar but would contribute to the cost according to the extent to be irrigated. He also enclosed a statement as to the extent and the kassar, which as appears from the Collector's order, Exhibit B1, dated 29th June 1840, showed 124 cawnies as irrigable in the ayan and 40 cawnies in the shrotriem villages, yielding in the shape of kassar Rs. 746 inthe ayan and Rs. 240 in the shrotriem villages. The estimated cost of the work

(1) 7 I. A. 240 at p. 247; 7 C. L. R. 529; 6 C. 394; 4 Shome L. R. 7; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 199; 3 Suth P. C. J. 816; 4 Ind. Jur. 530.
(2) 5 M. 226.
(3) 26 M. 66.
(4) 3 Ind. Cas. 456; 6 M. L. T. 242; 32 M. 456.
(5) 8 Ind. Cas. 357; 34 M. 366; 9 M. L. T. 47 (1910) M. W. N. 119.
(6) 8 Ind. Cas. 67; 34 M. 295; 8 M. L. T. 389; (1910) M. W. N. 595; 20 M. L. J. 823.
(7) 14 M. L. J. 350.

was Rs. 697-3-6. The Collector observed that the whole cost of the work would be made good in the first year, and from this the District Judge has, in more than one passage of his judgment, drawn the inference that it was the intention of the Collector to impose kassar on the shrotriem villages in spite of their objection. As, however, the ayan villages were to yield Rs. 746 and the total cost was only to be Rs. 697-3-6, it is obvious that no such inference arises. The Collector says nothing about levying kassar on the shrotriem villages and merely directs that one-quarter of the cost of construction, Rs. 174-5-0, should be levied from them, which was done. From this letter and the further fact that no attempt was made to levy cesses for sixty years the inference arises that the Collector accepted the terms of the shrotriemdars who, it must be remembered, were allowing the channel to be constructed in their lands for an extent of over two miles; and the further question arises whether Government must not be presumed to have ratified his action. There was a survey in 1857 and in one of the villages the extent of dry and wet is shown and it is admittedly the same as at present. In the other villages the extent of dry and wet was not shown because, as explained in the evidence, it was thought unnecessary to record them in the survey as the villages were shrotriem. Then we come to the evidence relating to the Inam Commission of 1861-62, which it may be noted, was some years before the passing of Act VII of 1865. According to the report of the Deputy Collector, dated 1st January 1861, the villages had been held from the time of former Rulers on hereditary tenure in the grantee's family, though the grant was registered in 1815 as including power to alienate, and a jodi of Rs. 827 had been imposed by the Carnatic Government. The Deputy Collector reported that there had been a simple paimaish or survey of the villages, but no taravari Settlement or classification of the lands, and that in the paimaish the villages of Kunjimedu and Karuperi were almost all classed as punja or dry and the wet as tottakkal or garden. "Such punja lands," the report proceeds, "have since been converted by shrotriemdars into nunja and the proper quota of the expenses of keeping up the irrigation channel which supplies water to these villages, in common with certain ayan villages is levied by Government. These particular lands are, therefore, now valued as dry according to the rates prevailing in the neighbouring villages, and the lands which have always been wet in the villages of Adur and Karuperi have been similarly assessed, that is, with reference to the wet rates in the adjoining Government villages." The beriz was then calculated for the purpose of fixing the additional quit-rent to be imposed at these dry and wet rates on the extents of dry and wet shown in the old accounts of the year 1827, which were apparently to be followed according to the Inam Rules, and the conversion of dry into wet was ignored for the purposes of the calculation. Thus calculated the beriz came to Rs. 4,653-4-7 as against Rs. 2,615, the registered beriz after deducting the jodi was Rs. 3,327-11-11 and a quit-rent of $\frac{1}{8}$th of this, or roughly Rs. 416, was imposed in addition to the jodi, making 1,741-7-8 in all. The title-deed, of which BB is a copy, acknowledged the title of the inamdars to shrotriems claimed to be of 290·40 acres of dry and 530 acres of wet and 9·76 of garden land besides poramboke, and in consideration of the additional quit-rent of Rs. 416 released the reversionary right of Government and enfranchised the inam.

It is contended on behalf of Government that the title-deed constitutes the appellants' engagement with Government under which they are entitled to water free of separate charge and that they are liable under the Act to be rated for any excess water taken, as this water is, from a Government source. Ordinarily this would be so and the mere fact that for more than forty years after the inam-deed Government had not exercised their statutory right of imposing water-cess, would be no bar to their doing so now. In this case, however, there is evidence that the question of extra water-cess was raised in 1840 at the time of the construction of the channel and decided in the plaintiffs' favour, that no attempt had been made to levy it before the time of Inam Commission and that in the Deputy Collector's report to the Commissioner, Exhibit A, the conversion of dry into wet in consequence of the construction of the channel was referred to in terms which suggest that it had been done in pursuance of an arrangement with Government, under which the shrotriemdars contributed to its upkeeping and with which the Commission were not directly concerned, and though the beriz was calculated on the basis that the converted lands were dry as shown in the account of Fasli 1237, apparently under the rules passed for the guidance of the Commissioner (and the extent was shown as dry in the title-deed, Exhibit BB,) it is not clear that it was intended to affect the arrangement come to in 1840 and observed since that time. There are also the facts that the villages were allowed exemption for more than forty years subsequently under the impression, as appears abundantly from the correspondence exhibited, that their exemption was of right and that contributions for the repair of the channel have been levied on them under colour of the arrangement already referred to. Altogether, therefore, the plaintiffs have enjoyed exemption as of right for more than 60 years after the construction of the channel through their lands, when they stipulated for such exemption and were apparently granted it.

In these circumstances it seems to me, to borrow the language of their Lordships of the Judicial Committee in a somewhat similar case, Rajrup Koer v. Syed Abdul Hossein (1), "that any Court which has to deal with the subject might, and indeed ought, to refer such a long enjoyment to a legal origin, and, under the circumstances which have been indicated, to presume a grant or an agreement.....by which the right was created". See also Srinivasa Rau Saheb, Jagirdar of Arni v. Secretary of State for India (2) where that case is followed and applied. For these reasons I think the appeal must be allowed and the decree will be modified as proposed in the judgment of my learned brother. In the view I have taken of the case it is unnecessary to refer to the cases which were cited at the Bar.

SESHAGIRI AIYAR, J.—The plaint villages were granted as inam more than 200 years ago by the then Nabob of Bijapur. They were subsequently confirmed by the Nabob of the Carnatic and were finally recognized by the British Government. The grant was to the ancestors of the plaintiffs and of defendants Nos. 2 to 51. In the year 1840 the Government opened their branch channel, known as Punjai Vaikkal, from the main channel, called Raja Vaikkal. This branch channel passes through a Government village at its commencement, then through the plaint villages and finally irrigates other Government villages.

The plaintiffs' case is that at the time of the excavation of the branch channel there was an undertaking by the Government not to levy water-cess upon their dry lands which may be brought under wet cultivation by the use of this channel water, that this agreement was in force till the year 1906 and that the Government in that year unlawfully levied water-cess from them. They, therefore, sue for a declaration that the 1st defendant is not entitled to impose extra cess upon their dry lands which have, since the excavation of that channel, been converted into wet, for an injunction against future levy and for the refund of the cess already collected from them. The Secretary of State, who is the first defendant, denied the alleged agreement and contended that under Act VII of 1865 he was entitled to levy the water-cess. The learned District Judge came to the conclusion that the agreement has not been proved and dismissed the suit.

The main question for decision is, whether there was an engagement as mentioned in the proviso to section 1 of Act VII of 1865 which exempts the plaintiffs from the payment of the water-cess. A few undisputed facts may be stated here:—

(a) When the excavation began in 1840 the Government paid no compensation for the lands taken up for the construction of the channel.

(b) No deduction in the amount of jodi payable by the plaintiffs was made for the lands which have ceased to belong to them in consequence of their being taken up for the channel-bed.

(c) The Government obtained from the inamdars in 1840 a fourth share of the expenses incurred in the excavation of the channel.

(d) Since that year the inamdars have been and are paying a certain amount of money for keeping the channel in good repair.

(e) For 66 years since the channel was dug (and for 40 years after the enactment of Act VII of 1865) no water-cess was levied from the plaintiffs for their having converted dry lands into wet.

On the other hand, it is admitted that the water comes from a Government source and consequently it belongs to Government. Secondly: in the Inam Settlement of 1862 (Exhibit BB) the dry lands which had been converted into wet were still entered as "dry" and there is no express undertaking in that title-deed to exempt such lands from water-cess.

I shall now proceed to consider some of the documents which have been filed in this case to ascertain whether the engagement pleaded by the plaintiffs has been established. There is no doubt that the burden is upon the plaintiffs to prove this exemption. The earliest document on record is Exhibit B, dated 24th June 1840, in which the Sheristadar of Mannargudi, writing to the Collector of South Arcot, says: "The shrotriemdars say that they will not pay kassar but that they are willing to contribute a portion of the estimate proportionately to the total extent to be irrigated in all the said five villages." I may remark that the term "kassar" admittedly means "excess water rate." Exhibit B1 is the reply of the Collector to the Sheristadar, in which he says: "The shrotriem villages must contribute one-fourth of the actual expenditure as their proportionate share. As, if the work is carried out, the whole of the estimated expenditure will be made good in the first year, the Treasurer has been ordered to send you Rs. 350, being about half of the estimate. * * * You will demand and collect from the shrotriemdars one-fourth of the estimate, viz. Rs. 174-5-0, and report its having been remitted to the Treasury." The learned District Judge is of opinion that by this document the Collector did not intend to give up the right of levying water-cess from the inamdars and that the reference to the expenditure being made good in the first year indicates that the water-cess was to be levied as soon as the channel was opened. I am of opinion that this interpretation of Exhibit B1 is not correct. The Collector in the sentence commented upon by the District Judge was considering the probability of the Government recouping the expenditure incurred by it. He refers to the estimate of the Civil Engineer and comes to the conclusion that the undertaking would be advantageous to the Government inasmuch as the very first year will be able to bring to the exchequer from Government lands the whole of the expenditure incurred in excavating the channel. It has reference to the levy of water-cess from the ayan lands belonging to the Government and not to an intention to hold the plaintiffs responsible for the payment of such cess. I regard the statement of the Sheristadar in Exhibit B as the proposal of the inamdars and the answer of the Collector as the acceptance of the terms proposed. There is no suggestion that the Collector was doing anything illegal in thus coming to terms with the inamdars. If it can be argued with reference to the observations of the learned Judges in Chidambara Rao v. The Secretary of State for India in Council (3) that the Collector exceeded his powers, I am prepared to hold that the action of the Government in acquiescing in this agreement for 66 years amounts to ratification of the original agreement.

The next document to which I shall refer is Exhibit EE. It is a report to the Government of the survey operations carried on in the villages in question. In it the extent of the dry lands is entered as 21 acres and 93 cents in one of the villages. Exhibit FF is for another village and the extent of dry land is there entered as 34 acres and 86 cents in extent. Thus in these two villages, at the time of the survey, the only dry lands which had not been converted into wet came to about 56 acres.

Then we come to Exhibit A, the Inam Register for these villages and the third village Adur. It preceded the actual grant and was on the 28th March 1862. The Deputy Collector, who made the recommendation for the enfranchisement of the villages, points out "that in the paimaish the villages of Kunjimedu and Karuperi were almost all classed as punja and the rest as tottakkal. Such punja lands have been since converted by the shrotriemdars into nunja and the proper quota of the expenses of keeping up the irrigation channel, which supplies water to those villages in common with certain ayan villages, is levied by the Government. These particular lands are, therefore, now valued as dry according to the rates prevailing in neighbouring villages; and such lands as have been always wet in the villages of Adur and Karuperi have also been assessed similarly, that is with reference to the wet rates in the adjoining Government villages", and he recommended that the classification and extent of the lands which had existed before the survey should be continued thereafter. This may have been in pursuance of the Government Order No. 919, dated 11th July 1859, to which our attention was drawn on behalf of the Government Pleader, which directs the continuation of the original classification even after the survey. There is no doubt that at the time of the date of Exhibit A, all but 56 acres of the lands entered as dry had been converted into wet lands. Lastly, we have Exhibit BB, the inam title-deed. It was on the 9th April 1862. In this inam title-deed, Exhibit BB, 290·40 acres are entered as dry land and 533 acres as wet and 9·76 as garden land. There is no reference to water-cess in this document. It is in the usual form of inam title-deeds and confers a freehold upon the inamdars on certain conditions.

The documents to which I have referred at length convince me that the plaintiffs have established that there has been an engagement by the Government with them not to collect water-cess upon the lands which may be converted into wet lands by the use of the Punjai Vaikkal flowing within their limits.

It was argued for the Government that the entry in Exhibit BB is conclusive against the plaintiffs and that they are entitled to free irrigation only in respect of the 533 acres of nunja land. The argument was that other evidence is not admissible to show that there was an undertaking beyond what is contained in Exhibit BB. This argument cannot be accepted. It is now well settled that it is open to the parties to prove that the enjoyment contended for was either anterior to, or subsequent to, the Inam Settlement. See per Ayling, J., Kandalam Rajagopalacharyulu v. Secretary of State for India (8). No direct authority has been cited for the position that the inam title-deed is conclusive on the question of engagement. The decision in Chidambara Rao v. Secretary of State for India in Council (3) was greatly relied upon on behalf of the Government. It was contended that the observation of the learned Judge viz., that "it was the duty of the Inam Commissioner to ascertain and record in the title-deed, not the extent of land which was actually under wet cultivation at the time of the Inam Settlement, but only the extent to which the inamdar was entitled to supply of water free of charge," shows that the parties are bound by the actual entry made in the title-deed. In an earlier passage they point out that it was not contended that the figures given were erroneous and that it had not been proved before them that there was any engagement subsequent to the grant. I take the observations of the learned Judges to mean no more than this, that if there is no other proof of an undertaking by the Governmet, the entry of the extent in the title-deed will conclude the parties. I do not take the learned Judges to lay down that evidence aliunde of an engagement is inadmissible. The case in Lutchmee Doss v. Secretary of State for India (4) was also relied upon. In that case the learned Judges point out that if at the time of the enfranchisement the Government levied quit-rent on the footing that certain lands had been either cultivated as wet or that upon certain lands double crop had been raised, to that extent at least the Government are bound to allow the inamdar supply of water free of water-cess. It is not an authority for the position that the entry in the inam title-deed is conclusive of the rights of the parties. The decision in Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannidhi (5) is a distinct authority for the position contended for by the plaintiffs. The learned Judges say that "the only undertaking which may be implied from a grant of land by Government is an undertaking to supply water free of charge to the extent of the accustomed flow at the time of the grant. Where the quantity of the customary flow cannot be ascertained, the area irrigated will be presumed to be the measure of the quantity of water used at the time of the grant." Applying this test to the present case, the plaintiffs are entitled to the accustomed flow of water which existed at the time of their grant in April 1862; and in order to ascertain this flow of water, the extent of wet cultivation at that time will furnish the required data; and looking back to the survey operations in the year 1857 we are in a position to arrive at the exact area of cultivation at the time of the Inam Sannad. In this appeal all that is claimed is exemption for the cultivation of the area which was under wet cultivation at the time of the inam grant. There can be no question that if the principle enunciated in Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannidhi (5) is applied to the facts of this case, the plaintiffs are entitled to succeed. The case in Kandukuri Mahalakshmamma Garu v. Secretary of State for India (6) is not against this view. The decision in Maria Susai Mudaliar v. Secretary of State for India in Council (7) is in accordance with the later decision in Secretary of State for India v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannidhi (5).

(8) 22 Ind. Cas. 107; (1913) M. W. N. 937; 14 M. L. T. 454.

Applying to the facts proved in this case the rules of construction adopted in regard to contracts between private parties, I must hold that there was an offer by the shrotriemdars to allow the channel to be cut across their fields on condition that they are allowed to irrigate cess-free such portion of their dry lands as could be brought under wet cultivation in the exercise of their ordinary rights, that the Collector accepted this proposal and that his action was ratified by the Government. I am also of opinion that there was an implied undertaking at the time of the Inam Sannad in 1862 that the plaintiffs should thenceforward be allowed the use of the accustomed flow of water which then irrigated their fields. The Inam Commissioner was aware from the report of the Deputy Collector of the extent of the wet cultivation. He knew that the entry of the extent of the dry and wet lands in the title-deed did not represent the actual state of affairs. He must be deemed, therefore, to have accepted the recommendation of the Deputy Collector to allow the classification to continue to keep up uniformity. As he did not specifically provide for excluding the converted dry lands for the use of the accustomed flow of water, I infer that he upheld the plaintiffs' right in that respect. It is not shown that the Inam Commissioner was not authorised to deal with this question. It is binding on the Government. My finding is that an engagement which precludes the levy of water-cess as indicated by me has been proved in this case. The appeal must be allowed. The decree of the District Judge will be modified by declaring the rights of the appellants and respondents Nos. 2 to 45 and 47 to 77 to irrigate free from the payment of water-cess, in addition to the wet lands entered in the inam title-deed, 233·61 acres of dry lands and by directing the refund of Rs. 1,187-15-0 out of the amount collected in Fasli 1317. There will be no injunction. Proportionate costs throughout. The Secretary of State will have three months' time to pay the amount to the appellants.

Appeal allowed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 521 OF 1913.

October 14, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Hannay.

PANCHANADAM PILLAI—DEFENDANT No. 1—APPELLANT

versus

SELLA PILLAI AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFF AND DEFENDANT No. 2—RESPONDENTS.

Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), ss. 60, 82—Partial redemption—Suit to redeem one item of mortgaged properties, maintainability of—Different items purchased by several persons at auction sale, effect of.

Where several items of property are covered by a single mortgage, there cannot be a separate redemption of each of those items. Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act cannot be read subject to section 82 and the fact that the several items were purchased piecemeal by different persons in Court auction cannot authorize a partial redemption by each of those purchasers.

Narayan v. Ganpat, 21 B. 619, dissented from.

MUNIA KONAN v. PERUMAL KONAN.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Mayavaram, in Appeal Suit No. 355 of 1911, preferred against that of the Court of the District Munsif of Shiyali, in Original Suit No. 107 of 1910.

Mr. S. Muthiah Mudaliar, for the Appellant.

Mr. R. Kuppusawmy Aiyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—Appellant contends that the suit should be dismissed as one of partial redemption, which is not permissible under section 60, Transfer of Property Act. In our opinion this contention must be allowed. The point has not been dealt with in the judgment of the lower Appellate Court, though raised in the memorandum of grounds of appeal, but the District Munsif has decided against appellant, relying on Narayan v. Ganpat (1). The learned Judges therein say at page 626 that there can be no objection to allowing rateable distribution of the mortgage-debts, inter alia, "where the original contract itself recites that the mortgagors join together in mortgaging their separate shares." No reasons or authorities are quoted for this: and it seems to be at variance with section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act, which regulates the mortgagor's right of redemption and is not referred to by the learned Judges. With all respect we are not prepared to follow this decision, which apparently stands alone: and we may add that even if it applied, the suit must be for redemption of all the properties mortgaged by plaintiff's vendor.

We cannot admit respondents' contention that section 60, Transfer of Property Act, should be read subject to section 82 or that the fact that the various items of property mortgaged have been purchased through process of Court by different persons, makes any difference.

We must allow the appeal and dismiss the suit with costs.

Appeal allowed: Suit dismissed.

(1) 21 B. 619.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 499 OF 1910.

October 20, 1911.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sundara Aiyar and Mr. Justice Spencer.

MUNIA KONAN—DEFENDANT NO. 1—APPELLANT

versus

PERUMAL KONAN AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFF AND DEFENDANTS NOS. 2 AND 3—RESPONDENTS.

Contract Act (IX of 1872), s. 11—Contract by minor—Minor, right of,—Property purchased for minor by some one else, minor's rights in—Sale of property by father, whether valid.

A contract by a minor is void and not merely voidable. Therefore, when a minor enters into a transaction where a contract by him is an essential condition preliminary to the transaction or contractual obligations on his part flow from the transaction, it must be regarded as void.

But where a contract by a minor is not a necessary condition for upholding the rights of the minor in property, his rights should be maintained.

Mohri Bibee v. Dharmodas Ghose, 30 C. 539; 5 Bom. L. R. 421; 7 C. W. N. 441; 30 I. A. 114 (P. C.) Navakotti Narayana Chetty v. Loyalinga Chetty, 4 Ind. Cas. 383; 19 M. L. J. 752; 7 M. L. T. 233; 33 M. 312; Kamta Prasad v. Sheo Gopal Lal, 26 A. 342; A.W.N. (1904) 41; Ulfat Rai v. Gauri Shankar, 11 Ind. Cas. 20; 33 A. 657; 8 A. L. J. 670; Meghan Dube v. Pran Singh, 30 A. 63; at p. 65; 5 A. L. J. 14; A. W. N. (1908) 10, referred to.

Therefore, a purchase of property for the benefit of a minor by his maternal uncle is valid, and if the property is alienated by the minor's father, the minor is entitled to recover.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Judge of South Arcot, in Appeal No. 104 of 1909, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Tiruvannamalai in Original Suit No. 6 of 1909.

Mr. K. R. Subramania Sastri, for the Appellant.

Mr. T. Rangachariar, for Respondent No. 1.

JUDGMENT.—The facts found in this case are that certain immoveable property was purchased for the benefit of the plaintiff in the suit by one Ramaswami Konan, his maternal uncle, and that it was subsequently sold by the third defendant, the plaintiff's father, as if it belonged to the family of which he and the plaintiff were members. Defendants Nos. 1 and 2 claim under the sale by the third defendant. The contention on the merits in the lower Courts was that the parchase in the name of the minor was really benami for the third defendant or the family, and that, therefore, the plaintiff has no exclusive right to the property, and the sale by the third defendant was valid.

On the finding of the District Court that the purchase was made by the maternal uncle for the benefit of the minor, the sale by the third defendant cannot be upheld and defendants Nos. 1 and 2 have no title. It is contended that on the finding that the sale was for the benefit of the minor, it must be held to be a void transaction, as a minor is incompetent to purchase property. The answer to this is substantially what is given by the District Judge, viz., that the minor was not a contracting party in the transaction of purchase by Ramaswami Konan, although the minor became the beneficiary owner under the deed of purchase. This case is on all fours with Kulla Pandithan v. Ramayi, Second Appeal No. 881 of 1909 decided by Munro and Sankaran Nair, JJ. In that case a person executed a deed of sale of certain property in the name of his wife and when she sued for the recovery of the property, it was contended that the sale was void. The learned Judges answered this contention thus: "The decree is right, the contract being found to have been between the plaintiff's father (i.e., father of the wife) and the appellant (i.e., her husband)." We might be content to rest ourselves on the authority of this case, but out of deference to the arguments that have been urged on behalf of the appellant we shall state our reasons a little more fully.

According to the Indian Contract Act, a minor is incompetent to make a contract. The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council decided in Mohri Bibee v. Dharmodas Ghose (1) that a contract by a minor must, according to the Contract Act, be regarded as void and not merely voidable. The case before their Lordships was one of a mortgage made by a minor. Of course a mortgage by a minor is a contract by him to pay a sum of money which he borrows on the security of certain property. Many transactions resulting in the creation of rights over property arise out of contracts; and when a minor enters into any such transactions where a contract by him is an essential condition preliminary to the transaction or contractual obligations on his part flow from the transaction, it must be regarded as void.

In Kamta Prasad v. Sheo Gopal Lal (2) the decision of the Privy Council was followed and a mortgage by a minor was held to be void. On the other hand in Ulfat Rai v. Gauri Shankar (3) it was held that, where money is already due to a minor beneficiary by his trustee on accounts between them, a conveyance by the trustee in favour of the minor for the amount so due was valid. That case perhaps is not quite reconcilable with the decision of this Court in Navakoti Narayana Chetty v. Loyalinga Chetty (4). There in answer to a suit for possession of certain property the defendant, a minor, set up a claim to the right obtained under a sale-deed. Benson and Krishnaswami Aiyar, JJ., held that the sale was void. It is there pointed out that the creation of a right in the property by a sale must necessarily be proceeded by an agreement between the minor and the vendor and the minor being incapable of entering into the agreement, the resulting transaction, the sale, must also be held void. Krishnaswami Aiyar, J., points out that even where the consideration money is already due to the minor and is used as consideration for the sale, it is necessary, in order that the sale may be upheld, that the minor should enter into an agreement that the debt already due to him should be appropriated as consideration for the sale and he being incompetent to enter into such an agreement, the sale must be void. But in all these cases where a transaction by a minor has been held to be void, the essential fact which rendered it void was that some agreement by the minor was necessarily an essential part of the transaction. Now it cannot be denied that a person may purchase property and hold it as a trustee for a minor. There is no reason why he should not create a trust by purchasing it in the name of the minor. No contractual obligations are undertaken by the minor in such a case. Any personal obligations arising as between the vendor and the vendee would have to be discharged by the party contracting with the vendor, i.e., by Ramaswami

(1) 30 C. 539 (P. C.); 5 Bom. L. R. 421; 7 C. W. N. 441; 30 I. A. 114.

(2) 26 A. 342; A. W. N. (1904) 41.

(3) 11 Ind. Cas. 20; 8 A. L. J. 670; 33 A. 657.

(4) 4 Ind. Cas. 383; 33 M. 312; 19 M. L. J. 752; 7 M. L. T. 233.

Konan in this case. If there are obligations enforceable against the property purchased, no doubt the property in the hands of the minor would be liable for the satisfaction of such obligations. We can see no reason for holding that when a contract by the minor is not a necessary condition for upholding the rights of the minor in the property, his right should not be maintained. In Meghan Dube v. Pran Singh (5) where a mortgage was taken in the name of a minor but for the benefit of the joint family of which he was a member, Banerji and Richards, JJ., observed that "the contract in this case was made by persons of full age (i.e., adult members of the joint family), but the person in whose favour the mortgage-deed was executed was a minor. The question of the validity of the mortgage does not, in our opinion, arise."

For the reasons mentioned above we are of opinion that the decision of the lower Appellate Court is right.

The finding of the lower Appellate Court on the merits was also attacked by the learned Vakil for the appellant, but we are unable to see any legal objection to it.

The second appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(5) 30 A. 63 at p. 65; 5 A. L. J. 14; A. W. N. (1908) 10.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 2227 OF 1911.

April 3, 1914.

Present:—Justice Sir Asutosh Mookerjee, KT., and Mr. Justice Beachcroft.

BASANT KUMAR BOSE AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

KHULNA LOAN COMPANY—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Putni tenure—Rent, whether first charge—Sale in execution of decree for arrears of rent—Rights of purchaser—Priority between landlord and mortgagee—Bengal Putni Talukdars Regulation (VIII of 1819).

The rent payable by the putnidar to the zemindar for which a decree has already been obtained, is a first charge upon the tenure and takes precedence over all other charges even though they be prior in point of time.

A sale under such a decree passes the tenure to the purchaser who acquires it with liberty to annul all encumbrances.

Jog Narain Singh v. Badri Das, 13 Ind. Cas. 144; 16 C. L. J. 156, followed.

Where property has been sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent, the mortgagee has a charge upon the surplus sale-proceeds, notwithstanding the fact that the mortgage-debt has been transformed into a judgment-debt as the security subsists till the mortgage-decree has been satisfied.

Surjiram Marwari v. Barhamdeo Persad, 2 C. L. J. 202 at p. 215; Lowry v. Williams, (1895) 1 I. R. 274; 29 I. L. T. R. 52; 1 Irish Law Reports 741; Economic Life Assurance Society v. Usborne, (1902) A. C. 147; 71 L. J. P. C. 34; 85 L. T. 587; In re Jenning's Estate, (1885) 15 L. R. Ir. 277, referred to.

Where a sale of a putni tenure takes place under the Putni Regulation and the sale-proceeds are deposited with the Collector, the landlord is entitled in the first place to appropriate a sufficient portion of the sale-proceeds before the mortgagee can proceed to realise his dues.

A tenure which has been lawfully sold for its own arrears cannot be again put to sale for the arrears due on account of a previous period.

Musammat Luteefun v. Mean Jan, 6 W. R. 112 and Prangour Mozoomdar v. Himanta Kumari Debya, 12 C. 597, followed.

Obiter dictum.—Section 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not contradict section 17 of the Putni Regulation.

Appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Khulna, dated the 17th May 1911, confirming that of the Munsif of Khulna, dated the 16th September 1909.

Babus Dwarka Nath Chuckerbutty and Kali Kinkar Chuckerbutty, for the Appellants.

Babu Surendra Chunder Sen, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The subject-matter of the litigation which has culminated in this appeal is a sum of money, the surplus proceeds of a putni taluk sold under the Putni Regulation of 1819. The rival claimants are the mortgagees from the putnidar and the landlords-zemindars who have obtained a decree for arrears of putni rent. The circumstances under which this conflict of claims has arisen may be briefly stated.

The mortgagees took a mortgage of the putni taluk on the 13th September 1897 and obtained a decree thereon on the 3rd November 1906. Meanwhile the putnidar had defaulted to pay rent to the zemindars and on the 19th January 1906 the latter obtained a decree for arrears of rent for the years 1308 to 1311 (B. S.). Default was subsequently made in the payment of rent for 1313, with the result that the landlords took proceedings under the Regulation and the putni was sol on the 15th May 1907. After satisfaction of the dues of the zemindars, a sum of about Rs. 1,350 remained in deposit with the Collector. The zemindars proceeded against this sum to satisfy the rent decree they had previously obtained. The mortgagees also sought to avail themselves of this sum in satisfaction of the mortgage-decree they had obtained. A summary order was made on the 9th March 1908 in favour of the zemindars with the result that they took away the money in deposit with the Collector. On the 8th March 1909 the mortgagees instituted the present action for a declaration that they were lawfully entitled to the money taken away by the zemindars. The first three defendants to the suit are the landlords, the fourth defendant is the putnidar and the fifth defendant is the purchaser of the putni at the sale held under Regulation VIII of 1819. The question for determination is whether the mortgagees of the zemindars are entitled to preference in respect of the surplus sale-proceeds. The Courts below have concurrently decided in favour of the mortgagees and the present appeal has been preferred by the zemindars.

Before we deal with the question in controversy, it is necessary to advert for a moment to a preliminary argument addressed to us on behalf of the plaintiffs-respondents. It has been contended that there is no evidence to show that the putni taluk was of such a character as to be subject to the operation of the Bengal Tenancy Act; in other words, that as there is no evidence to show that the putni was granted for realisation of rent from agricultural tenants, the tenure is not governed by the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act. In support of this view, reliance has been placed upon the decisions in Promotho Nath Mitter v. Kali Prosanna Chowdhry (1); Umrao Bibi v. Mahomed Rojabi (2). In our opinion, the plaintiffs-respondents are not entitled to urge this ground for the first time in second appeal, as it involves the determination of a question of fact. The case proceeded in both the Courts below on the assumption that the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act were applicable to the particular tenure; and a reference to the description of the property given in the schedule to the plaint indicates that the property is situated in various villages which prima facie would contain agricultural lands. The respondents are, besides, not even able to assure us that there is a real foundation for the theory that this putni does not include any agricultural land at all. Under these circumstances, this appeal must be decided on the assumption on which the case was tried in both the Courts below.

As regards the question of priority of title between the two contesting claimants, the first point for determination is whether the rent payable to the zemindars by the putnidar, in respect of which a decree had already been obtained, was a first charge upon the tenure. Section 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act provides that where a tenant is a permanent tenure-holder, he shall not be liable to ejectment for arrears of rent but his tenure shall be liable to sale in execution of a decree for the rent thereof and the rent shall be a first charge thereon. Reliance, however, has been placed upon section 195, clause (e), of the Bengal Tenancy Act to support the argument that section 65 has no application to putni tenures. Section 195, clause (e), provides that nothing in the Act shall affect any enactment relating to putni tenures in so far as it relates to those tenures. To exclude the operation of section 65 in the case of a putni tenure, which is a permanent tenure, it must be shown consequently that section 65 affects any provision of the Putni Regulation. Our attention, however, has not been drawn to any such provision, except section 17 to which we shall presently refer. On the other hand, there are indications in the Putni Regulation to show that the rent payable by the putnidar to the zemindar is a first charge upon the tenure. Section 11 provides that any taluk or saleable tenure that may be disposed of at a public sale, under the rules of the Regulation, for arrears of rent due on account of it, is sold free of all incumbrances that may have accrued upon it by acts of the defaulting proprietor, his representatives or assignees, unless the right of making such incumbrances shall have been expressly vested in the holder by a stipulation to that effect in the written engagement under which the said taluk may have been held. The section further provides that no transfer by sale, gift or otherwise, nor mortgage or other limited assignment shall be permitted to bar the indefeasible right of the zemindar to hold the tenure of his creation answerable, in the state in which he created it, for the rent, which is in fact his reserved property in the tenure, except that the transfer or assignment should have been made with a condition to that effect under express authority obtained from such zemindar. A similar provision finds a place in section 15, which states that the purchaser acquires the entire rights and privileges attached to this tenure of the late putnidar in the state in which it was originally derived by him from the zemindar. The status of the purchaser, thus described in the Regulation can be supported only on the theory that the rent payable by the putnidar to the zemindar is a first charge upon the property. We must hold consequently that not only is there nothing in the Putni Regulation contrary to the principle which underlies section 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, but that the Putni Regulation does in essence recognise that principle. We start then with the position that the rent payable by the putnidar to his zemindar, for which advance had already been obtained, is a first charge upon the tenure.

(1) 28 C 744.
(2) 27 C. 205; 4 C. W. N. 76.

The next question for determination is, whether the rent which the zemindars now seek to realise from the surplus sale-proceeds constitutes a charge upon the putni taluk. Our attention has, in this connection, been drawn to section 17 of the Putni Regulation, which lays down rules for the disposal of the proceeds of a sale held under the Regulation. It is first provided that one per cent. shall be deducted and carried to the account of the Government. It is next provided that the balance due to the zemindar, either for the year immediately expired or for the current year, as the case may be, and also the expenses of sale are to be made good. The reason why the zemindar is restricted to the realization of the arrears for the year immediately expired or for the current year, as the case may be, is found in section 8 of the Regulation, which provides that the zemindar is entitled to have recourse to a summary sale in the beginning of the year for the realization of arrears due for the year immediately expired or in the middle of the year for the realization of the arrears of the current year. Section 17 next states explicitly that the former balance, that is the balance due for a period earlier than the year immediately expired, or the current year as the case may be, is not to be included, in the demands to be satisfied from the sale-proceeds. The reason for this exclusion is stated in the second paragraph of the third clause of section 17 in the following terms: "Such antecedent balances, if the zemindar shall have omitted to avail himself of the process within his reach for having them satisfied at the time, will have become in fact mere personal debts of the individual talukdar, and must be recovered in the same way as other debts by a regular suit in the Court." With reference to this statement of the reason for the exclusion of the former balances from the process of summary realization, it has been argued that the Legislature intended that the antecedent balances should, after the Regulation sale, be relegated to the position of mere personal debts and should be capable of realization only in the same way as other debts by a regular suit in the Courts, in other words, that the Legislature intended that such balances should not be deemed a charge upon the property or the sale-proceeds, which represent the property after the sale has taken place. On this assumption it has been argued that there is a conflict between section 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and the second paragraph of the third clause of section 17 of the Putni Regulation and that consequently in view of section 195 (e) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, antecedent balances cannot be treated as constituting a charge either upon the property or upon the surplus sale-proceeds; in other words, that the effect of the Regulation sale is to destroy the charge which the zemindar previously had upon the property in respect of all arrears of rent. We are not impressed by the soundness of this argument. But we observe that there is a divergence of judicial opinion upon this question. In the case of Peary Mohan Mukhopadhya v. v. Sreeram Chandra Bose (3) the opinion was expressed that there is no conflict between section 65 of the Bengal Tenancy

(3) 6 C. W. N. 794.

Act and section 17 of the Putni Regulation. The contrary position, however, was adopted in the case of Jogonath v. Mohi-ud-din Mirza (4). In the view we propose to take, it is not necessary for us to pronounce a final opinion upon this matter. But we may state that our present inclination is in favour of the view that section 65 does not contradict section 17 of the Putni Regulation. The Legislature appears merely to have intended by section 17 to lay down that the zemindar cannot, by the summary method on his own ex parte statement, realise what is called the "former balances" and must sue in the ordinary Courts to establish his claim and to realize the arrears. But there is no intelligible reason why the zemindar should not have a charge for the realization of those balances, in addition to the personal remedy which he possesses under section 17. It is plain, however, that section 17 of the Regulation, even if it were construed in the way suggested by the respondents and were treated as contradictory to section 65, would have no possible application to the circumstances of the present case. The second paragraph of the third clause of section 17 contemplates a case in which a regular suit has to be brought for the recovery of the antecedent balances as the personal debt of the putnidar. In the case before us, the zemindar did obtain a rent decree against the putnidar on the 19th January 1906. The putni sale took place on the 15th May 1907. We are not prepared to accede to the contention of the respondents that the effect of the putni sale was to destroy the character of the decree previously obtained as a rent decree. That argument could prevail only if we were to ignore the clear language of the second paragraph of the third clause of section 17. The zemindar could not, after he had obtained a decree on the 19th January 1906, proceed, in terms of section 17, to institute a fresh regular suit for recovery of the antecedent balances as a personal debt of the putnidar. The second paragraph of the third clause of section 17 has clearly no application to the circumstances of the present case, and the rights of the parties must be determined independently thereof upon fairly elementary principles.

Let us now consider the relative situation of the two contestants. Before the 15th May 1907 the mortgagees held their decree obtained on the 3rd November 1906, and the zemindars held their rent decree made on the 19th January 1906. If the zemindars had executed their decree for rent, which was a first charge on the tenure, and brought it to sale, the purchaser would have taken the property with power to annul the mortgage encumbrance, though it had been already transformed into a judgment-debt: Jog Narain Singh v. Badri Das (5). The question consequently arises: was this relative situation altered as the result of the sale under Regulation VIII of 1819? Three alternative answers are possible, one of which must be accepted; first, that the parties retained their relative positions notwithstanding the sale under the Regulation; secondly, that as on the sale under the Regulation it had become impossible for both the decree-holders to realise their decrees by sale of the tenure, which could not be followed in the hands of the purchaser, both of them were relegated to the position of money decree-holders; or thirdly, that the Regulation sale placed the zemindar in the position of a money decree-holder, but did not affect the position of the mortgagee decree-holder. The third alternative has been, as might be expected, most strenuously pressed upon us by the respondents. It has been contended that under section 73 of the Transfer of Property Act where mortgaged property is sold through failure to pay arrears of revenue or rent due in respect thereof, the mortgagee has a charge on the surplus, if any, of the proceeds, after payment thereout of the arrears for the amount remaining due on the mortgage, unless the sale has been occasioned by some default on his part: Gosto Behary v. Shib Nath Dut (6). There is nothing to indicate in this case that the sale under the Regulation was occasioned by any default on the part of the mortgagees. Consequently it may be assumed that the mortgagees had a charge on the surplus sale-proceeds, notwithstanding the fact that the mortgage-debt had been transformed into a judgment-debt, because, as was pointed out in the cases of Surjiram Marwari v. Barhamdeo Persad (7); Lowry v. Williams (8); Economic Life Assurance Society v. Usborne (9) and In re Jenning's Estate (10), the security subsists till the mortgage-decree has been satisfied. We may take it then that the mortgagee decree-holder has a lien upon the surplus sale-proceeds. But what is the position of the zemindars who hold the rent decree? It has been tenaciously argued on behalf of the respondents that even if it be assumed that the rent payable to the zemindars, for which a decree had already been obtained, is a first charge upon the tenure under section 65, that charge can be enforced only in the manner prescribed by the Bengal Tenancy Act; and in support of this view, reliance has been placed upon a passage from the judgment of Mr. Justice Banerjee in the case of Soshi Bhusun Guha v. Gogun Chunder Shaha(11). It may be conceded that if the landlord seeks to enforce his rent charge, the only method by which he can enforce that charge is by way of execution of a decree for rent with the resultant consequences set out in the Bengal Tenancy Act. But that is not the contingency which has happened in this case. The landlords have obtained a decree for rent. They are unable to execute that decree in the manner specified in the Bengal Tenancy Act because, as was pointed out in the cases of Musammat Luteefun v. Mean Jan (12) and Prangour Mozoomdar v. Himanta Kumari Debya (13), the tenure which has been lawfully sold for its own arrears cannot be again put up to sale for the arrears due on account of a previous period. The landlords, consequently, are not in a position to execute their decree against the tenure which has passed into the hands of a person entitled to hold the same free, not only from incumbrances, but also from the rent charge under a decree for arrears of any antecedent period. But it has been argued that if the landlords are in this position, the difficulty is entirely of their own creation and that they might have escaped from this situation if they had, year after year, taken recourse to summary proceedings under the Regulation. We are of opinion, however, that it was open to the landlords, as was pointed out by their Lordships of the Judicial Committee in the case of Brindabun Chunder Sircar v. Brindabun Chunder Dey (14), to seek their remedy by way of a suit in the Civil Court without repeated recourse to the summary procedure laid down in the Regulation. The decree which the landlords have obtained is a decree of a peculiar character. It is in one sense a money-decree, inasmuch as the landlords are not restricted to their remedy by sale of the defaulting tenure: they are also entitled to proceed personally against the judgment-debtors. But, notwithstanding this circumstance, the Legislature has provided that if the decree is executed as a rent-decree, the property will pass into the hands of the purchaser free from all encumbrances imposed thereon by any act of the defaulter. The question, consequently, arises, have the landlords lost this advantage, has the decree obtained by them been deprived of its fundamental character by reason of the circumstance that it can no longer be executed by a sale of the tenure? We are clearly of opinion that this question should be answered in the negative. In a case of this description, we must look to the substantial rights of the parties and not merely to forms of procedure. The landlords, under section 65 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, are in this position of advantage, namely, that the rent for which a decree has been made is a first charge on the tenure, and thereby takes precedence over all other charges, though they be prior in point of time. The landlords have, in essence, been awarded a decree which, though in form a decree for money, possesses a peculiar quality, namely, the sale thereunder passes the tenure to the purchaser who acquires it with liberty to annul all encumbrances. If the sale had taken place, not in execution of their decree, but in some other proceeding, there is no intelligible reason assigned why the landlords should, in respect of the sale-proceeds which essentially represent the tenure, be placed in

(4) 6 Ind. Cas. 371; 37 C. 747.

(5) 13 Ind. Cas. 144; 16 C. L. J. 156.

(6) 20 C. 241.

(7) 2 C. L. J. 202 at p. 215.
(8) (1895) 1 I. R. 274: 29 I. L. T. R. 52; 1 Irish Law Reports 741.
(9) (1902) A. C. 147; 71 L. J. P. C. 34; 85 L. T. 587.
(10) (1885) 15 L. R. Ir. 277.
(11) 22 C. 364 at p. 374.
(12) 6 W. R. 112.
(13) 12 C. 597.
(14) 1 I. A 178, 13 B.L.R. 403; 21 W.R. 324 (P. C.).

a worse position than what they would have unquestionably occupied if the sale had been held at their instance in execution of their decree. The parties may well be deemed to occupy the same relative situation as they would have occupied if the sale had taken place at the instance of either of them in execution of their respective decrees. There is thus no room for controversy that the landlords were entitled in the first place to appropriate a sufficient portion of the sale-proceeds before the mortgagees could proceed to realize their dues. This conclusion is not only based on sound legal principles, but also accords with rules of justice, equity and good conscience.

In the view we take, it becomes unnecessary for us to discuss another question which was argued before us at some length, namely, whether this suit is barred by limitation. Reliance was placed on behalf of the appellants on the fifth paragraph of section 17 of the Putni Regulation and it was argued that the suit should have been brought within two months from the date of the sale. This position was supported by reference to the case of Surnomoye Dassya v. Land Mortgage Bank of India, Ltd. (15). As the suit fails on the merits, it is needless to decide the question of limitation. But we may add that we are not satisfied with the expression of opinion in the case cited. We are rather inclined to adopt the view that the limitation of two months applies to a suit for compensation, as stated in section 17, and that this suit instituted by the mortgagees for declaration of their right to appropriate the surplus sale-proceeds in satisfaction of their decree is not a suit of that description.

The result is that this appeal is allowed, the decrees of the Courts below discharged and the suit dismissed with costs in all the Courts.

Appeal allowed.

(15) 7 C. 173; 8 C. L. R. 341.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL APPEAL No. 132 OF 1910.

July 28, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sankaran Nair and Mr. Justice Spencer.

VENKATESHA MALLIA—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

BAMMAMPALLI RAMAYYA HEGADE AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Religious Endowments Act (XX of 1863), s. 18—Sanction to institute suit—Sanction, object of—Construction—Suit by one while sanction given to two.

Sanctions for instituting suits against trustees of religious establishments should be construed strictly without enlarging their scope, the object of requiring sanction being to protect managers from vexatious suits.

Where sanction is given to two persons, one of them alone cannot sue without getting the sanction amended, the sanction being a condition precedent to the exercise of the right of suit.

Appeal from the decree of the District Court of South Canara, in Original Suit No. 62 of 1906.

Mr. K. Ramanatha Shenai, for the Appellant.

Messrs. K. Narain Rao, B. Sitaram Rao and K. Y. Adiga, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—Under section 18 of Act XX of 1863 the District Judge gave sanction to two individuals to sue for the removal of the respondents, who are the Mokhassors of the Shri Anantha Padmanabha temple of Pudur, for misfeasance, breach of trust or neglect of duty.

Although the sanction was given jointly to both, only one of the individuals took action thereon and sued the trustees.

When the suit came on for trial before the same Judge who gave the original sanction, a preliminary objection was taken that the suit was bad because the joint sanction-holder had not joined in the suit. The Judge upheld this objection and dismissed the suit, holding that the plaintiff could not prosecute it alone. He further expressed a doubt as to the plaintiff's bona fides. The question before us, therefore, is whether one man should be allowed to sue under section 14 of this Act upon the strength of a sanction given to two men. Such sanctions are a condition precedent to the exercise of the right of suit [In re Venkateswara (1)] and it is open to the Court to amend the order of sanction at any time [Srinivasa v. Venkata (2)], but the plaintiff seems to have made no attempt to move the Court to alter the sanction by getting it granted in his name only. In the case of Mahomed Athar v. Ramjan Khan (3) this point was considered and the learned Judges held that when sanction had been granted to three persons and two of them withdrew, and one of the three joining with him two new persons brought a suit under section 14 of the Act, the suit was not defective by reason of two of the three plaintiffs being persons to whom leave to sue had not been awarded. There, no objection was taken at the trial and no issue framed as to the maintainability of the suit.

(1) 10 M. 98.

It was observed by the High Court that as the same Judge who gave the leave under section 18 also entertained the suit, he must have tacitly given permission to the two new men to become plaintiffs along with Ranjakhan. So here as Mr. Hardinge granted sanction to two petitioners in his order of January 8th, 1906, and subsequently on March 1st, 1908, he himself dismissed the plaintiff's suit because the Shivalli Brahmins had not been joined as a party and at the same time doubted the bona fides of the plaintiff, it may be taken that he refused to allow the plaintiff to sue singly.

Such sanctions for instituting suits against trustees have to be construed strictly without enlarging their scope [Sayad Hussein Miyan v. Collector of Kaira (4)], the object of requiring sanction being to protect managers from vexatious suits.

The words in section 14 of the Act "any person or persons interested in any mosque, etc., may without joining as plaintiff with any other person interested therein sue before the Civil Court the trustee, manager, etc.," seem to be enabling words intended to give individuals a right to sue individually without the necessity of all the worshippers of the particular temple or religious institution joining as plaintiffs. With all respect to the learned Judges who decided Mahomed Athar v. Ramjan Khan (3), we do not consider that these words are intended to refer to the persons who hold the sanction granted under section 18.

Cases may occur in which it must be inadmissible to grant sanction to a particular individual, either on account of his character, personal motives or his solvency, and yet if he joined with some one whose very name would be a guarantee against the suit being improperly conducted, a Court would be justified in granting a joint sanction where it would have refused leave to the single applicant.

We are, therefore, of opinion that this suit was rightly dismissed.

The appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(2) 11 M. 148.
(3) 34 C. 587.
(4) 21 B. 257.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.
CIVIL RULE No. 907 OF 1913.
November 25, 1913.

Present:—Mr. Justice Coxe and Mr. Justice D. Chatterjee.

BANSI SINGH—DEFENDANT—PETITIONER

versus

KISHUN LALL THAKUR—PLAINTIFF—OPPOSITE PARTY.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 115—Revision—Withdrawal of suit with liberty to bring freshsuit, order of—High Court, whether can interfere—Charter Act (24 & 25 Vic. c. 104), s. 15—Material irregularity.

To allow a suit to be withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit is not deciding a case and therefore a High Court is not empowered either under section 115, Civil Procedure Code, or under the Charter Act to interfere with such an order of the lower Court.

Civil Rule against the order of the Subordinate Judge, Darbhanga, dated April 1st, 1913.

Babu Lachmi Narain Singh, for the Petitioner.

Babus Umakali Mukerjee and Naresh Chandra Singha, for the Opposite Party.

JUDGMENT.

COXE, J.—This is an application against an order allowing a suit to be withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit. It must be conceded that the order against which complaint is made is hardly defensible. The suit was fought out to the bitter end, arguments of both sides had been heard and a few days previously the plaintiffs had been given an opportunity of amending their plaint. In their petition for leave to withdraw the suit they said that many legal defects in the preparation of the plaint had occurred and certain documents had not been filed. They did not, however, specify what defects there were and what documents had not been filed. The learned Subordinate Judge only mentioned one defect, which does not appear to me to be a formal defect at all, and, moreover, he did not find that the suit must fail by reason of it.

Finally, the granting of application was not made conditional on the payment of the defendant's costs. This omission, in my opinion, was a grave injustice. But, however, irregular this order may be it appears to me very doubtful whether we have any right to interfere with it. Under section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code we may call for the record of any case which has been decided by a Subordinate Court and pass such order as we may think fit. It does not appear to me that this can be regarded as a case which has been decided. To allow a suit to be withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit is not deciding a case. No doubt cases of this kind have been dealt with in revision under the Civil Procedure Code, but in none of the cases which have been shown to us was the question whether this Court has power to deal with such cases under section 115 fully considered. In Kharda Co. Ltd. v. Durga Charan Chandra (1) it was remarked that it was competent to this Court to interfere by way of revision. No reasons, however, were given and the proposition was rested on the authority of the cases of Mary Dick v. Louisa Dick (2) and Tirupati v. Muthu (3). But in neither of these cases, in my opinion, was this particular question really considered and decided. Also the case of Kharda Co. Ltd., v. Durga Charan Chandra(1) was decided under section 622 of the Civil Procedure Code of 1882, the terms of which are not identical with the terms of section 115 of the present Code. Under the terms of the present Code the powers of this Court are, in my opinion, confined more expressly to cases which have been decided by the subordinate Courts.

It has been argued that we have power to interfere under the Charter. The Charter gives us the power of general superintendence over the subordinate Courts. But certainly I doubt whether that authorizes us to set aside a specific order of this nature, though I am aware that jurisdiction, at least as wide as this, has often been exercised by this Court.

Another point against the petition is that it was not presented until the 30th June 1913. The order complained of had been passed on the 1st April and we are informed, and it is not disputed, that at that time a fresh suit had been instituted against the present petitioners.

Having regard to these circumstances and also to the fact that I am very doubtful whether we have power to deal with this order, I am not prepared to grant this application. The Rule is accordingly discharged.

D. CHATTERJEE, J.—I agree in discharging the Rule on the ground that in this case there are not sufficient reasons for the exercise of our extraordinary jurisdiction. This was a case for setting aside a sale on the ground of fraud by an agent of the co-sharers and I think that these are cases in which every reasonable opportunity should be given to the plaintiff to prove the fraud that he alleges. Besides in this case the present application was made after the suit had been actually filed and summons served on the defendant. I also agree that in this case there is no decision in the Court below and that the case does not come within section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code.

Rule discharged.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 451 OF 1912.

June 24, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Kanhaiya Lal, A. J. C.

LALJI AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

GANGA PRASAD AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Process-fee, filing of—Service of order, proof of—Attachment of immoveable property—Alienation, private,

(1) 5 Ind. Cas. 187; 11 C. L. J. 45.
(2) 15 A. 169; A. W. N (1893) 78.
(3) 11 M. 322.

LALJI v. GANGA PRASAD.

of immoveable property ordered to be attached—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 274—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXI, r. 54—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 114—Presumption—Judicial acts, regularity of, to be presumed—Proceedings, presumption in respect of.

The filing of process-fee for the issue of an order of attachment of an immoveable property is not sufficient proof of service of that order.

A private alienation of an immoveable property effected after the passing of an order for its attachment not actually carried into effect, cannot be treated as invalid, unless proof is offered that all the preliminaries required by section 274, Civil Procedure Code (1882), i.e., Order XXI, rule 54, Civil Procedure Code (1908), have been complied with.

Ganga Din v. Khushali, 7 A. 702; A. W. N. (1885) 179, referred to.

Section 114 of the Evidence Act authorises presumptions to be raised as to the regularity of judicial acts, but a presumption can be made in regard to the proceedings that may follow it.

Appeal from the decree of the District Judge, Hardoi, dated 1st August 1912, confirming that of the Subordinate Judge, Hardoi, dated 16th August 1911.

Babu Basdev Lal, for the Appellants.

Pandit Gokaran Nath Misra, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—These three appeals arise out of certain suits brought by the plaintiffs-respondents for the recovery of money due on mortgages executed by Mohammad Husain and Ali Mazhar, in some of which Musammat Fatima, their mother, was also a co-executant. The mortgaged property was sold in execution of a simple money-decree held by Puttoo Lal against Mohammad Husain, Ali Mazhar and Musammat Fatima on the 20th March 1895 and was purchased by the decree-holder himself. The defendants-appellants are the sons and heirs of Puttoo Lal. Their defence was that the mortgages in question were effected after the attachment of the mortgaged property in the suit in which Puttoo Lal had obtained the above-mentioned decree, that the mortgagors were not fully competent to mortgage the entire property and that the widow and the daughters of Badal Khan were necessary parties to the suit filed in respect of the mortgage held by Badal Khan deceased.

The Courts below found that the defendants-appellants had failed to establish a previous attachment of the mortgaged property, that the sisters of Mohammad Husain and Ali Mazhar had no right to or interest in the mortgaged property as they were excluded by custom from inheritance, and that the widow and daughters of Badal Khan had similarly no right by reason of a custom excluding them from inheritance to the estate of Badal Khan deceased. These findings are contested in second appeal.

It appears that in 1890 Puttoo Lal filed a suit against Mohammad Husain, Ali Mazhar and Musammat Fatima for the recovery of a simple money debt and applied for the attachment of the defendants' zemindari share in village Paendapore and town Bilgram. The Court ordered an attachment to issue, but there is no trace on the record that an attachment was actually effected in the manner provided by section 274 of the old Code of Civil Procedure. The papers relating to the attachment ought to have been entered in the fly-index of the record of the suit in which the attachment was made. But beyond paper No. 17 bearing the application for attachment before judgment, dated the 13th September 1890, and paper No. 18 containing the injunction against alienation, dated the 19th September 1890, there is no mention in the fly-index of any other papers relevant to the attachment having been brought on the record. Section 274 of the Code of Civil Procedure then in force required, in addition to the service of an injunction on the judgment-debtor prohibiting him from transferring or charging the property in any way, that the order of attachment should be proclaimed at some place at or adjacent to the property attached by beat of drum or other customary mode and that a copy of the said order should be fixed up in a conspicuous part of the property and of the Court-house, and, where the property attached was land paying revenue to Government, in the office of the Collector of the District in which the property was situate. There is no proof in this case that the injunction was actually served. The filing of process-fee for the issue of an order of attachment is not sufficient proof of such service, because it is within the common experience of every Court that injunctions are very frequently returned unserved.

The mention of an injunction in the fly-index has been cited as proof of the fact that service of the said injunction had been duly effected, for it is argued that in case of non-service the duplicates would have been returned unserved by the process-server and placed on the file. This argument does not take into account the possibility of the duplicates having been mislaid or placed by mistake on some other file. The omission of all reference in the fly-index to a report of the attaching officer certifying that the order of attachment had been proclaimed at some place at or adjacent to the property attached and that copies of the said order had been fixed in a conspicuous part of the property and of the Court-house and office of the Collector, has not been satisfactorily accounted for, and unless proof is offered that all the preliminaries required by section 274 had been complied with, an alienation effected after the passing of an order for attachment not actually carried into effect cannot be treated as invalid. In Ganga Din v. Khushali (1) Oldfield and Mahmood, JJ., held that it was necessary in order to set aside any private alienation to show that all the conditions mentioned in that section applicable to the case had been fulfilled. Section 256 of the old Code of Civil Procedure required that the attachment should be made by a written order, duly intimated and made known in the manner specified in section 274 of the Code, to be effective against a subsequent alienation of the property attached. The learned Counsel for the defendants-appellants has asked the Court to presume that the necessary preliminaries had been gone through; but, in the absence of any order showing that an attachment had been made, no inference as to the regularity of antecedent proceedings can legally be made. Section 114 of the Indian Evidence Act authorises presumptions to be raised as to the regularity of judicial acts performed, but a presumption can be made in regard to the proceedings that may follow it. In the application for execution of his decree Puttoo Lal did not mention that he had got an attachment effected before judgment. He asked for a fresh attachment and on the Sub-Registrar reporting the existence of the encumbrances now sought to be enforced, the Pleader for Puttoo Lal stated that he was unable to make any statement without consulting his client in regard to the same. The judgment-debtors were then summoned, and time was granted to the Pleader who appeared for Puttoo Lal to consult his client. Puttoo Lal meanwhile applied for a copy of the application for attachment made by him in the suit and of the injunction issued in response to that application, but the only statement, which the Pleader for Puttoo Lal made after consulting his client and presumably after examining those copies, was that the mortgages reported by the Sub-Registrar were correct. If an attachment before judgment had been duly effected, it is unlikely that the decree-holder or his Pleader would have omitted to mention that attachment or failed to impugn the mortgages said to have been made after the attachment. There is no reason, therefore, for questioning the propriety of the finding arrived at by the Courts below.

The sisters of Muhammed Husain and Ali Mazhar were found to have assented to the entry of the names of their brothers in the revenue papers in respect of the estate left by their father, Muhammad Mir, and to have renounced their interest in the said property. The mortgagors have been in possession of the property as ostensible owners thereof from more than 12 years, and the rights, if any, of the daughters of Muhammad Mir can no longer be enforced. The widow and daughters of Badal Khan have been examined. They disclaim any share in the mortgage-deed in suit.

The appeals, therefore, fail and are dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

ALLAHABAD HIGH COURT.

FIRST CIVIL APPEAL No. 268 OF 1912.

July 6, 1914.

Present:—Sir Henry Richards, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Tudball.

MUNICIPAL BOARD OF AGRA AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

SUDARSHAN DAS SHASTRI—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Public way, right of—Metalled or unmetalled parts of public road, whether public road.

(1) 7 A. 702; A. W. N. (1885) 179.

All the ground, forming part of a road, whether metalled or not, over which the public have the right of way is the public road.

First appeal from a decree of the Subordinate Judge of Agra.

Mr. A. E. Ryves, for the Appellants.

Dr. Satish Chandra Banerji and Mr. Pearey Lal Banerji, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The Court below framed an issue in the following terms:

"Is the plaintiff the owner and in possession of the lands in suit, or do the lands form part of the road belonging to the Board? If road, then what is its extent?"

The Court below has found on this issue that the place on which the plaintiff alleged that hawkers were accustomed to sit was no part of the road, at least this is what we understand the finding to be. The Court seems to have thought that the only part of the road which could be said to be the public road was the part that was actually metalled. In our opinion this is clearly wrong. We are unable from the maps, and from any information either party can give us, to ascertain with any accuracy the places in which the hawkers sit; but, in our opinion, all the ground, whether metalled or not, over which the public had a right of way is just as much the public road as the metalled part. The Court would be entitled to draw the inference that any land over which the public from time immemorial had been accustomed to travel was a public street or road, and the mere fact that a special part of it was metalled for the greater convenience of the traffic would not render the unmetalled portion on each side any the less a public road or street. With this explanation we refer an issue to the Court below, namely, whether or not the land in dispute is part of the public road.

The Court may take any additional evidence relevant to the above issues that the parties may adduce. On return of the finding the usual ten days will be allowed for filing objections. We direct the Court below in returning its finding to send a proper map marking distinctly the lands in dispute and their surroundings. The stand-pipes complained of may also be indicated in this map.

We need hardly say that we think it very desirable that the parties should, if possible, settle the question without spending their money in useless litigation.

Case remanded.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 2203 OF 1912.

August 26, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

CHERUKAT MADATHIL EDAKRAMANCHERI ILLOTH DAMODARAM NAMBUDRI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

MANGATHAYA DAMODARAM NAMBUDRI AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Trust – Suit by trustee to eject tenant—Co-trustees, party defendants — Suit filed without previous consultation, maintainability of.

Where a trustee of a temple sued to eject a tenant of the temple whom his co-trustees had granted a renewal of lease without consulting him sometime before suit and impleaded the co-trustees as defendants after giving them notice calling upon them to join him in the plaint:

Held, that the suit was maintainable and the fact that the plaintiff had not held a consultation with his co-trustees before suing would not vitiate it.

Kumban v. Moorthi, 7 Ind. Cas. 422; 34 M. 406 at p. 415; (1910) M. W. N. 359; 8 M. L. T. 208; 20 M. L. J. 951, referred to.

Parameshwaran v. Shangaran, 14 M. 489; Paramathan Somayajipad v. Sankara Menon, 23 M. 82, distinguished.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of South Malabar, in Appeal Suit No. 141 of 1912, preferred against that of the Court of the Principal District Munsif of Calicut, in Original Suit No. 803 of 1910.

Mr. C. V. Ananthakrishna Iyer, for the Appellant.

Mr. K. P. M. Menon, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—In this case it is admitted that plaintiff is an uralar (trustee) suing (as he alleges) on behalf of the devaswom and that his co-uralars, who have been impleaded as defendants Nos. 4 to 9, had without consulting him a few days before suit granted a renewal of lease to 1st defendant, whom plaintiff sues to eject. It is further admitted that prior to filing suit plaintiff gave a notice to those co-uralars calling on them to join him in the plaint.

Under those circumstances we think the lower Courts were wrong in holding the suit to be not maintainable merely because plaintiff had not held a consultation with defendants Nos. 4 to 9 before suing. The distinction drawn by the District Judge between redemption suits and other suits is not well founded. Vide the remarks of the learned Judges in Kumban v. Moorthi (1). The facts set out above differentiate this suit from those disposed of in Parameshwaran v. Shangaran (2) and Paramathan Somayajipad v. Sankara Menon (3).

It will be for the lower Appellate Court to decide whether the renewal of the lease to the 1st defendant (Exhibit II) was for the benefit of the institution.

We set aside the decree of the District Judge and remand the appeal to him for disposal according to law. The District Judge will provide for costs in his ultimate decree.

Decree set aside.

(1) 7 Ind. Cas. 422; 34 M. 406 at p. 415; (1910) M. W. N. 359; 8 M.L. T. 208; 20 M. L. J. 951.

(2) 14 M. 489.

(3) 23 M. 82.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 1279 OF 1904.

September 19, 1907.

Present:—Mr. Justice Wallis and Mr. Justice Miller.

ARUNACHALA PILLAI alias MASILAMANI PILLAI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

SAMPURNA THACHI—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Hindu Law—Alienation by grandfather—Consent by guardians of minor—Benefit of minor—Alienation, validity of.

If for the benefit of a minor the guardians of the minor consent to an alienation of a portion of his undivided family properties with the object of avoiding a partition of those properties the alienation is binding on the minor.

Second appeal from the decree of the District Court of Tanjore, in Appeal Suit No. 1030 of 1903, presented against that of the Court of the Distrit Munsif of Valangiman, in Original Suit No. 8 of 1902.

Mr. P. S. Sivaswami Aiyar, for the Appellant.

Messrs. P. R. Sundara Aiyar and T. V. Gopalasami Mudaliar, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The appellant and his grandfather were members of a joint family and the grandfather had a third wife who had borne him three daughters. Exhibit I is an alienation by the grandfather of a portion of the family properties in favour of the third wife reserving the income to himself for life, and is expressed in the deed to be made out of the grandfather's share and excluding the plaintiff's share. The properties covered by Exhibit I were worth about Rs. 3,000 and the remaining properties which are now in the possession of the plaintiff are worth Rs. 7,000 or 8,000. According to the finding of both the lower Courts the deed, Exhibit I, was executed by the grandfather with the consent both of the mother and the maternal uncle of the plaintiff who was then a minor. There has been a good deal of argument before us as to whether Exhibit I itself effects a partition between the grandfather and the plaintiff but, in our opinion, it is unnecessary to consider this question. It is clear that it was open to the grandfather, if he had so chosen and without anyone's consent, to effect a partition and leave the whole of his half share to his 3rd wife and her daughters, and it was, in our opinion, clearly for the benefit of the minor for his guardians to avoid an eventuality so injurious to his interests by consenting to the alienation effected by Exhibit I. If the plaintiff had been of full age his consent would undoubtedly have been sufficient to validate Exhibit I and in the circumstances, we think his guardians were competent to consent for him. This is in effect the conclusion at which the District Judge has arrived and the second appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MANDAL & CO v. FAZUL ELLAHIE.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

SMALL CAUSE COURT REFERENCE NO. 2 OF 1912.

February 3, 1914.

Present:—Sir Lawrence Jenkins, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Woodroffe.

MANDAL & CO.—PLAINTIFFS

versus

FAZUL ELLAHIE—DEFENDANT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. II, r. 2, object of—Cause of action, whether claims upon several contracts included in one—Contract for supply of goods by monthly instalment, breach of—Intention of parties —Damages, whether separate suits maintainable.

Order II, rule 2, is framed to avoid the splitting of claims and remedies and does not apply where there are several causes of action. The object of the rule is to protect the defendant from being twice vexed for one and the same cause.

A cause of action is not limited to claims arising upon one contract, but might include claims upon several contracts provided they form part of a continuous cause of dealing. This, however, can only be done where there is nothing to show that the transactions were intended to be kept distinct.

Where a contract for the supply of goods by monthly instalments expressly provides that each monthly instalment and item is to be treated as a separate contract, the plaintiff is entitled to bring separate suits for damages.

Reference to the High Court under section 69 of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act made by the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes of Calcutta.

Mr. Sircar (with him Mr. Surita), for the Plaintiffs.

Mr. S. P. Sinha (with him Mr. A. K. Sinha), for the Defendants.

JUDGMENT.

WOODROFFE, J.—Under Order II, rule 2, that which is required to be included in the suit is the whole of the claim which the plaintiff is entitled to make in respect of the cause of action; that is one and the same cause of action. The rule is framed to avoid the splitting of claims and remedies and does not apply where there are several causes of action. The object of the rule is to protect the defendant from being twice vexed for one and the same cause. But the parties themselves by the form of their convention determine whether the rule is applicable to them. The rule may operate to defeat a plaintiff with whom, as in the present case, the merits have been held to rest. I agree, therefore, with what Garth, C. J., said that care must be taken to give the section no wider construction than it would reasonably bear: Pramada Dasi v. Lakhi Narain Mitter (1). The words of the section are easier to understand than some of the cases decided under it. We need not, however, inquire into them as each case must depend on its own facts, and the reasons which Judges have assigned for their opinions have not the same degree of authority as the decisions themselves: Caledonian Railway Co. v. Walker's Trustees (2). I make these preliminary observations, for I do not regard any of the decisions cited as binding on us except in a case involving the same set of facts. The old section 43 as incorporated in Order II, rule 2, of the Code has been amended so as to include in the explanation the following words italicised: "For the purposes of this rule successive claims arising under the same obligation shall be deemed to constitute but one cause of action." Whatever meaning, therefore, may be given to the latter term (and on this matter varying views have been taken) the section expressly provides that the circumstances italicised shall be deemed to be but one cause of action, whatever might be the case in the absence of such enactment. Now if we exclude clause 13 of the contract to which I next refer, there can, I think, be no question that the case would fall within the words of the section quoted, for the case is then merely one of several instalments under one and the same contract without anything else to indicate that the rule should not apply. It is argued, however, that there were in fact in this case two contracts by virtue of the provisions of clause 13 of the contract which ran as follows: "Except as above stated this indent is to be deemed and construed as a separate indent in respect of each item and instalment of goods and your rights and liabilities and ours respectively shall be the same as though a separate indent had been made out and signed in respect of each instalment." The learned Chief Judge in a former case held that this clause did not bring the case within the operation of the section, but being, he says, in considerable doubt whether his decision was correct he has made the present reference. It may be assumed to be a general rule that parties cannot by consent abrogate what is the law, but what they can do is to indicate their intention and it is on this that the law operates variously according as that intention may be expressed. In such cases it is not the law which is directly affected, but the materials on which it operates.

(1) 12 C. 60 at p. 63.

(2) (1882) 7 A. C. 259; 46 L. T. 826; 30 W. R. 569 46 J. P. 676.

The parties may express their intention as they choose, and if they express it in such a way that the effect is that two contracts are made where otherwise there would have been one, the Court should give effect thereto. In Sesha Ayyar v. Krishna Ayyangar (3) the learned Judges say: "We do not think that when parties, for whatever reason, choose to agree that there should be two instruments and two obligations, the Courts are justified in saying that there is only one obligation." Then what is the effect of the words of clause 13? It is argued that they are inserted not for the purpose of creating two contracts but to declare that the breach of one part of a single contract is not to be deemed a breach of the entire contract. But I see nothing which warrants us in so restricting the sense of words which naturally bear a wider meaning. It seems to me that by these words the parties say in effect as follows:—"Here is what, but for our statement, would be regarded as one contract with successive claims thereunder. We desire to say that as regards each instalment we are contracting by separate contracts and in lieu of actually signing separate contracts we agree by this clause that each instalment shall be treated as such." The result of this is, in my opinion, that there are separate contracts in respect of the July and August shipments. But then it is said that even if that is the effect of the clause and even if two separate contracts had been in fact passed, still the order is a bar, as it has been held in Anderson Wright & Co. v. Kalagarla Surjinarain (4) that even where there are different contracts, yet if they form part of one transaction (whatever that may be) a breach of all of such contracts is only one cause of action. This was held in reliance upon the English cases establishing that a cause of action was not limited to claims arising upon one contract, but might include claims upon several contracts provided they formed a part of a continuous course of dealing. This has been held broadly in some cases, but as was argued before us this is now only so (according to the cases) where there is nothing to show that the transactions were intended to be kept distinct. The clause in question appears to me to evidence such an intention. Moreover, apart from the question whether the English decisions are appropriate authorities upon the construction of the section before us or not, it is to be noted that the case Anderson, Wright & Co. v. Kalagarla Surjinarain (4) was a case of several breaches under one contract and the question of several contracts as part of one continuous transaction was not in issue. So also Duncan Brothers & Co. v. Jeetmull Greedharee Lall (5) was a case of breach of one and the same contract. In Yashvant Narayan Kamat v. Vithal Divakar Parulekar (6), Farran, C. J., pointed out that these two cases which showed that all existing breaches of the same contract must be joined in the same suit although they may have arisen at different times, did not apply to the case before him, as there were then two separate contracts contained in the same instrument. As regards separate contracts Umed Dholchand v. Pir Saheb Jiva Miya (7) may be referr d to. In Volkart v. Sabju Saheb (8) the contract did expressly provide that each monthly shipment and item was to be treated as a separate contract and it was held that the terms of the contract being clear, the plaintiff was entitled to bring separate suits for damages. This case seems to me in point.

The learned Chief Judge appears, however, to have doubted whether they established the plaintiffs' contention having regard to the explanation appended to the rule. It is true that the scope of the identity of the cause of action has been extended by the addition of this explanation, but only in so far as it supersedes those cases in which it was held that a suit on a collateral security given for a debt would not bar a suit for the debt itself. This is generally not the case now. The added words to the explanation do not affect the case before us or alter the law from what it was, as appears from the illustration which is (subject to verbal alterations) the same now as it was under the Code of 1882. The added words only give express recognition to the law as it previously was.

(3) 24 M. 96 at p. 109; 12 M. L. J. 383.
(4) 12 C. 339.
(5) 19 C. 372 (F. B.).
(6) 21 B 267 at p. 271.
(7) 7 B. 134.
(8) 19 M. 304.

I would, therefore, answer the question put to us in the negative and would hold that the plaintiff is not, under the circumstances stated, debarred from bringing two suits. The result, in my opinion, is that the plaintiff is entitled to a decree and should be awarded the costs of this reference.

JENKINS, C. J.—Uniformity on questions of procedure under the Code is of such importance that I think I ought to follow the decision in the Madras High Court in Volkart v. Sabju Saheb (8), and more especially as it meets with the approval of my learned colleague. In deference, therefere, to that authority I agree with Woodroffe, J., as to the answer that should be returned to the reference.

Attorneys for the Plaintiffs: Messrs. Fox and Mandal.

Attorneys for the Defendants: Messrs. Alum and Nan.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEALS NOS. 1512 AND 2229 OF 1912.

August 10, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Napier.

IN SECOND APPEAL NO. 1512 OF 1912.

THANGAVELU PILLAI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

IN SECOND APPEAL NO. 2229 OF 1912.

PURSHOTTAM REDDI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

DORAISAMI PILLAI AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS IN BOTH.

Hindu Law—Assignment, right of—Gift of family property by father to son—Consideration—Natural love—Relinquishment by co-parcener, right of.

It is only a transfer to a stranger of natural rights which carry with them obligations to third parties that could not be assigned under the law, but every man is perfectly entitled to waive or release any rights in property belonging to himself.

Therefore a gift-deed, whereby a father relinquishes all his rights in the family property in favour of his only son, is valid and binding as it is supported by the consideration of natural love and affection.

A co-parcener can not only relinquish his share in favour of all the remaining co-parceners as a body, but he can do it in favour of even one of the several remaining co-parceners.

Second appeals from the decrees of the District Court of South Arcot, in Appeal Suits Nos. 176 and 175 of 1911 respectively, preferred against those of the District Munsif of Villipuram, in Original Suits Nos. 401 and 410 of 1909.

Messrs. T. R. Ramachandra Aiyar and A. S. Venku Aiyar, for the Appellants.

Mr. R. Subramania Aiyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

SADASIVA AIYAR, J.—The plaintiff is the appellant in both these appeals. The suit out of which Second Appeal No. 2229 arose was brought on a mortgage document executed in the plaintiff's favour by the defendants Nos. 1 and 2 on the 13th February 1905. The 2nd defendant is the son of 1st defendant. The lower Appellate Court finds (a) that the 2nd defendant was a minor when the 1st defendant induced him to join the 1st defendant in executing the mortgage document; (b) that the mortgaged property belonged solely to the son, the 2nd defendant, on the date of the mortgage-deed in 1905 as it had been gifted away by the father, the 1st defendant, to the 2nd defendant under the registered gift-deed, Exhibit IV, dated 1892; and (c) that the money which formed the consideration for the mortgage, Exhibit A, was not borrowed for the benefit of the 2nd defendant.

On these findings the plaintiff's suit was dismissed with the 2nd defendant's costs so far as it prayed for the sale of the mortgaged property though there was a personal decree passed against the 1st defendant.

The only contention argued in this second appeal is that the gift-deed dated 1892 by the 1st defendant to the 2nd defendant was not legally effective to transfer the 1st defendant's undivided half share in the plaint properties to his only son, the 2nd defendant, and that, therefore, the mortgage under Exhibit A affected at least the 1st defendant's said undivided half share and that a decree ought to have been passed by the lower Courts for the sale of the said moiety. One of the grounds on which the gift-deed is attacked is that the gift was not accepted by anybody on behalf of the 2nd defendant. The District Judge clearly finds that the defendants' witness No. 2 accepted the deed on behalf of the 2nd defendant and that he subsequently handed the document over to the 2nd defendant's mother. This finding is supported by the evidence of the said 2nd witness which proves that he acted as the agent of the 2nd defendant's mother and received the gift-deed from the 1st defendant on her behalf. This indicates her acceptance of the gift-deed on behalf of the 2nd defendant.

The only other ground on which the gift-deed is attacked is that under the Hindu Law, an undivided co-parcener cannot validly make a gift of his share in the property so as to be binding even on himself. For this proposition reliance is placed on certain observations in Appa Pillai v. Ranga Pillai (1). In that case it was held on the facts appearing therein that plaintiff, a member of an undivided Hindu family, got no consideration for the agreement by which he relinquished his rights in the family property in favour of the remaining co-parceners, that his release, therefore, having been by an agreement without consideration, was not binding upon him and that he was, notwithstanding the agreement, entitled to sue for his share in the family properties. Thus the decision turned on the sole ground that there was no consideration for the relinquishment agreement relied upon by the defence. In that same case it is observed that if the relinquishment was in favour of persons who stood in such a relationship with the executant that natural love and affect on was evidently the motive of the transaction (See section 25 of the Contract Act), the relinquishment would be valid. The learned Judges in the particular case held, however, that the terms of the document clearly showed that natural love and affection was not the motive for the relinquishment and that, therefore, there was not even the consideration of natural love and affection and hence the agreement was not valid. In the present case, the gift is made by a father to his only son and the circumstances clearly show that if the gift-deed is treated as an agreement by which the father relinquished his rights in favour of his son, it would be a valid agreement supported by the consideration of natural love. It was then argued that the case in Appa Pillai v. Ranga Pillai (1) was really decided on the ground that a co-parcener cannot relinquish his share unless something trifling at least was given to him as consideration. Having carefully read that judgment I do not find that the learned Judges expressed any such view. They only refer to the contention of the respondent in that case that there could be no valid partition of the property without such a trifling present, because the law as laid down in Manu requires that even a co-parcener who does not desire to take a share must have something given him at the time of the partition, and then the learned Judges refer to the reply of the appellant to this contention put forward on behalf of the respondent. The learned Judges nowhere state that they accept the said contention of the respondent. In Peddayya v. Ramalingam (2) it has been held that a co-parcener can not only relinquish his share in favour of all the remaining co-parceners as a body, but he can do it in favour of even one of the several remaining co-parceners. The texts of Manu and Yagnavalkya which refer to the giving of some trifle to the person who so relinquished his share, were not considered as making the receipt of such trifle as a condition precedent to the validity of such relinquishment. In that case, two out of four co-parceners gave up their interest in favour of one of the remaining two co-parceners, merely in order to give effect to what they believed to be the wishes of their father and Muthusami Aiyar and Shephard, JJ., held that such a relinquishment was perfectly valid, following the decision in an unreported case (Regular Appeal No. 58 of 1884) where a gift made by an undivided son in fulfilment of a natural obligation founded upon the consent of the father to the severance of the alienor's interest in the co-parcenary was upheld. The reference in the texts to the giving of a trifle to the relinquishing co-parcener must be treated rather as an antiquated formality which was prescribed as conclusive evidence of the deliberate and final character of the relinquishment than as forming an indispensable condition to the validity of such a relinquishment.

It is only a transfer to a stranger of natural rights which carry with them obligations to third parties that could not be assigned under the law, but every man is perfectly entitled to waive or release any rights in property belonging to himself. I do not think that there is anything in the judgment in the case of Appa Pillai v. Ranga Pillai (1) which throws doubt upon the existence of such a power of relinquishment and if there are any, those observations must be held to have been not followed in the later case in Peddayya v. Ramalingam (2).

(1) 6 M. 71.

(2) 11 M. 406.

Lastly, it is clear in the present case that the gift by the 1st defendant to his only son was part of an arrangement brought about by mediators to effect a division between the 1st defendant (who was squandering his ancestral property in evil ways) and his minor son, the 2nd defendant. Though Exhibit A is in form a gift, it was really an allotment of the plaint properties for the son's share, the father taking the other properties for his share, which properties on the same date were conveyed by him to a friend of his in trust to discharge his debts and to re-pay the balance left to himself (the father). Such an arrangement is clearly binding on the 1st defendant. In the result the Second Appeal No. 2229 fails and is dismissed with costs. For similar reasons Second Appeal No. 1512 is also dimissed with costs.

NAPIER, J.—I concur.

Appeals dismissed.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 3840 OF 1912.

May 26, 1914.

Present:—Justice Sir Asutosh Mookerjee, KT., and Mr. Justice Beachcroft.

JIBANANDA CHAKRABARTI AND OTHERS —DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

KALIDAS MALLIK AND ANOTHER—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Easement—Prescription—Right to take water—Servient owner, whether can change the path—Right of way, how exercised—User—Extent—Motive.

When a right of way by a particular tract has been caquired by a dominant owner, the servient owner acnnot force upon him, in lieu thereof, a different track, any more than the dominant owner himself can, at his discretion, take recourse to a different path.

The extent of a right acquired by prescription is measured by the extent of the use and enjoyment thereof during the prescriptive period.

Therefore a prescriptive right to take water in a particular way and at a particular place infers no right to take the supply of water in any other way and at any other place.

Obiter dicta.—Water, as it issues on excavation of a well or a tank, is not to be considered as produce of the soil and a right to enter on land and to take such water may be acquired as an easement. The elements of this right are: a right to go on the land of the servient owner; and a right to take the water.

In so far as a right of way is concerned, it is necessary to establish a private right of way by prescription that in going across the lands to any particular point or for any particular purpose, a particular route must be used.

The owner of a private right of way is entitled to enter the way at one and the same place only, and not at any other.

No use of property, which would be legal if due to a proper motive, can become illegal because it is prompted by a motive which is improper or even malicious.

Appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Burdwan, dated 2nd September 1912, affirming that of the Munsif of Burdwan, dated the 8th April 1911.

Babus Bepin Behary Ghose and Ramoni Mohan Chatterjee, for the Appellants.

Babu Gaur Chandra Pal, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

MOOKERJEE, J.—This is an appeal by the defendants in a suit for declaration of the prescriptive right of the plaintiffs to take water from a tank, for removal of the obstruction erected by the defendants to the exercise of such right, and for an injunction to restrain interference in future. The facts are not in controversy at this stage and may be briefly narrated. The defendants are the owners of a tank which stands on their land. The plaintiffs are neighbours and have their residence at some distance towards the east of the tank. They and the members of their family have, for more than 20 years peaceably and openly as of right, and without interruption, used the water of the tank, claiming title thereto as an easement. They used to obtain access to the water by a path across the east bank and down a flight of steps on the eastern slope of the bank. In 1908, the defendants re-excavated the tank, repaired the slopes on all sides and built a flight of masonry steps on the northern slope. Since then, the defendants have prevented the plaintiffs from access to the water in the accustomed manner by what has been described as the eastern ghat. The defendants, however, do not deny that the plaintiffs have acquired a right of easement in the water of the tank, and they are agreeable to the use of the water by them by means of the new flight of steps built on the northern slope. But the plaintiffs are not satisfied with this and insist on their right to reach the water by what formed the eastern ghat and has now been obliterated by the defendants. The question, consequently, arises, whether when the owner of a dominant tenement has acquired a prescriptive right to take water from a tank on the servient tenement, and has for this purpose used a particular means of access for the statutory period, he has acquired a right to reach the water by means of such definite mode of access, or may the servient owner, at his own discretion, substitute for his use some other means of access. No authority directly in point has been placed before us by either the appellants or the respondents in support of their respective contentions. But we are of opinion that on principle the question must be answered in favour of the dominant owner.

It is plain, as was pointed out by Lord Campbell, C. J., in Race v. Ward (1), that water, as it issues on excavation of a well or a tank, is not to be considered as produce of the soil and that a right to enter on land and to take such water may be acquired as an easement: Manning v. Wasdale (2), Constable v. Nicholson (3), Macnaughten v. Baird (4) and Gardner v. Hodgson's Kingston Brewery Co. Ltd. (5). This right, it is obvious, may be analysed into two constituent elements, namely, a right to go on the land of the servient owner and a right to take the water which stands on his land and so long as it stands there is his property. The two constituent rights are acquired simultaneously, but each must nevertheless be acquired in conformity with the Statute. Now, in so far as a right of way is concerned, it is clear that to establish a private right of way by prescription, it is necessary that in going across the lands to any particular point or for any particular purpose, a particular route must be used. As Morton, J., puts it on behalf of the Full Bench in Hyot v. Kennedy(6), "to establish a way by prescription, the use must be not only open, adverse, uninterrupted, peaceable, continuous and under a claim of right, but must be confined substantially to the same route and to substantially the same purpose for which the way was designed originally, unless the way is one for all purposes." This is plain, for a way imports of necessity a right of passing along a particular route between certain termini: Jones v. Percival (7), Holmes v. Seely (8) and Rogers v. Duncan (9). On this principle, it has been ruled that the owner of a private right of way is entitled to enter the way at one and the same place only, and not at any other; for instance, if a way to a field runs by the side of the field, the dominant owner is not entitled to alter the position of the gate through which he has been accustomed to pass from the field to the way and to make a new entrance at a fresh place: Woolyer v. Hadden (10), Berridge v. Ward (11) and Marshall v. Ulleswater S. N. Coy (12). The rule is based on obvious good sense, for though the servient owner may not object to a person entering his land at a particular spot—for that may not cause him any inconvenience—it may be very much against his inclination, and it may be detrimental to his property that the dominant owner should enter it at any other place. But the position is clearly mutual, and if the right of way has been acquired from one point to another in a particular direction, the servient owner cannot, at his choice, substitute another way between the same points but by a different route which might be less convenient to the dominant owner. It is for the protection as well of the dominant as of the servient owner that the right acquired should be limited to the part of the area of the servient tenement over which it has been actually exercised: Clifford v. Hoare (13), Wood v. Stourbridge Ry. Co. (14) and Strick v. City Offices Coy. (15). To put the matter briefly, the extent of a right acquired by prescription is measured by the extent of the use and enjoyment thereof during the prescriptive period: or, as Lord

(1) (1855) 4 El. & Bl. 702; 99 R. R. 702; 3 C. L. R. 744; 24 L. J. Q. B. 153; 1 Jur. (N.S.) 704; 53 W. R. 240; 24 L. T. (O. S.) 270; 119 E. R. 259.

(2) (1836) 1 N. & P. 172; 5 A. & E. 758; 2 H. & W. 431; 6 L.J.K.B. 59; 44 R. R. 576; 111 Eng. Rep. 1353.

(3) (1863) 14 C. B. (N. S.) 230; 32 L. J. C. P. 240; 11 W. R. 698; 143 E. R. 434; 135 R. R. 672.

(4) (1903) 2 I. R. 731; 37 I. L. T. R. 80; 7 Irish Law Reports 595.

(5) (1901) 2 Ch. 198; 70 L. J. Ch. 504; 84 L. T. 373; 17 T. L. R. 380; 49 W. R. 421.

(6) (1898) 170 Mass. 54.

(7) (1827) 5 Pic. 485; 16 Am. Dec. 415.

(8) (1828) 19 Wendell 507.

(9) (1890) 18 Can. Sup. Ct. 710

(10) (1813) 5 Taunton 125 at p. 132; 14 R. R. 706; 128 Eng. Rep. 634; 14 R. R. 706.

(11) (1860) 2 Fos. & Fin. 208; 10 C. B. (N. S.) 400; 30 L. J. C. P. 218; 7 Jur. (N. S.) 876; 142 E. R. 507; 128 R. R. 764

(12) (1871) 7 Q. B. 166; 41 L. J. Q. B. 41; 25 L. T. 793; 20 W. R. 144.

(13) (1874) 9 C. P. 362; 43 L. J. C. P. 225; 30 L. T. 465; 22 W. R. 828.

(14) (1864) 16 C. B. (N. S.) 222; 143 Eng. Rep. 1111; 139 R. R. 473.

(15) (1906) 22 T. L. R. 667.

Watson stated it in McIntyre v. MacGavin (16), a prescriptive right to take water in a particular way and at a particular place infers no right to take the supply of water in any other way and at any other place: Blackburne v. Somer (17) and Muhamad Husain Rowther v. Muhamad Abubakar Rowther (18). We are not here concerned with the question of the alteration of the mode of enjoyment of a right of easement by mutual consent of parties, nor are we called upon to examine the question of the right of the dominant owner to deviate from the way acquired by prescription, when such way has been obstructed by the servient owner himself: Selby v. Nettlefold (19) and Hawkins v. Carbines (20). The general rule is that when a right of way by a particular track has been acquired by a dominant owner, the servient owner cannot force upon him, in lieu thereof, a different track, any more than the dominant owner himself can, at his discretion, take recourse to a different path. Tested in the light of this principle, the claim of the plaintiffs is unanswerable. They have proved to the satisfaction of the Courts below, that, for much longer than the statutory period, they have had free access to the water of the tank of the defendants by a track across the eastern bank and by a flight of steps down the eastern slope. The prescriptive right they have acquired has become indefeasible, and the defendants were not entitled to improve the tank so as to interrupt and make impossible the exercise of the right of the defendants in the particular mode they had adopted for many years. The position might have been different if the plaintiffs had merely proved that they had appropriated the water of the tank for the statutory period and had failed to show that they had used a definite means of access to reach the water; in such a contingency, while the plaintiffs would have acquired a prescriptive right to use the water, they could not have claimed access to the tank by a particular path, they would have had no ground for complaint so long as the defendants allowed them reasonable facilities of approach to the tank. In the case before us, however the plaintiffs, as we have seen, stand in a position of much greater advantage: they have acquired a right to reach the water by a definite path and also a right to use the water. We may add that the conduct of the plaintiffs is really not quite so unreasonable as has been characterised by the defendants. The access to the water of the tank by way of the flight of new masonry steps on the northern slope involves the use of a longer and more circuitous way and, what is more important, a loss of privacy, to which so much importance is attached by females in this country. But it is immaterial what motive animates the plaintiffs, for as Lord Halsubry, L.C., said in Mayor of Bradford v. Pickles (21) no use of property, which would be legal if due to a proper motive, can become illegal, because it is prompted by a motive which is improper or even malicious. We are of opinion that as the plaintiffs have acquired a right, not merely to the use of the water of the tank of the defendants but also to have access to the water in a particular mode, the Court of first instance rightly decreed the suit; and as that decree has been confirmed by the Subordinate Judge, this appeal must be dismissed with costs.

BEACHCROFT, J.—I agree.

Appeal dismissed.

(16) (1893) A. C. 268 at p. 277; 1 R. 246; 69 L. T. 389; 57 J. P. 548.

(17) (1879) 5 Ir. 1.

(18) 2 Ind. Cas. 427; 20 M. L. J. 699; 8 M L. T. 399

(19) (1873) 9 Ch. App. 111 at p. 114; 43 L. J. Ch 359; 29 L. T. 661; 22 W. R. 142.

(20) (1857) 27 L. J. Ex. 44; 114 R. R. 1002.

(21) (1895) A. C. 587; 64 L. J. Ch. 759; 11 R. 286; 73 L. T. 353; 44 W. R. 190; 60 J. P. 3.

CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 1765 OF 1909.

January 29, 1914.

Present:—Justice Sir Asutosh Mookerjee, KT., and Mr. Justice Beachcroft.

MUKTAKESHI DASI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

SRINATH DAS—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Bengal Alluvial Land Settlement Act (XXXI of 1858), ss. 1, 2- -Alluvial Land—Resumption by Government—Settlement with one of original proprietors—New tenure—Pre-existing contract of lease—Suit for recovery of rent—Necessary parties—Fair rate, determination of—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 103.

Alluvial lands formed by the recession of a river were resumed by the Government and settled with one of the original proprietors, who was a co-sharer to the extent of two-thirds and who had along with the other co-sharers executed a lease before resumption in favour of the defendant. He sued for the recovery of arrears of rent for the whole land without making the original co-sharers parties to the suit;

MUKTAKESHI DASI v. SRINATH DAS.

Held, that the plaintiff was bound by the terms of the pre-existing contract to the extent of a two-thirds share, of which he was a proprietor, of the original estate, but that in respect of the remaining one-third he was in the position of a stranger and was entitled to realise rent at the rate assessed by the Settlement Authorities as payable by the under-tenure-holder of the original estate;

that the co-sharers of the plaintiff were not necessary parties to the suit; and that since the rent payable by the under-tenure-holder was not determined by the Settlement Authorities, the High Court had power to do so under section 103, Civil Procedure Code.

Appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Khulna, dated the 18th May 1909, reversing that of the Munsif of Khulna, dated the 7th May 1908.

Dr. Rash Behary Ghose, Babus Haribhusan Mookerjee and Surendra Nath Das Gupta, for the Appellant.

Babus Tarakishore Chowdhry and Bepin Chandra Mullick, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—This is an appeal by the plaintiff in a suit for recovery of arrears of rent in respect of 170 bighas 19 cottahs and 8 chittaks of alluvial land at an annual rate of Rs. 296-8 together with cesses, interest and costs. The case for the plaintiff is that these lands were formed by gradual accretion, by recession of the river Jumna, that the Government resumed these lands and on the 9th April 1903 settled them with the plaintiff and that the defendant, who is in occupation of these lands, is consequently liable to pay rent at the rate assessed by the Settlement Authorities. The defendant, who has died during the pendency of this litigation and is now represented by his successors-in-interest, denied the title of the plaintiff. His case substantially was that he held the lands under a lease granted to him by the plaintiff and her co-sharers on the 19th February 1884 and that the suit is accordingly not maintainable in the absence of those co-sharers. The defendant also contended that under the lease he was bound to pay rent only at the rate of 15 annas per Bigha. The Court of first instance held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover rent, but not at the rate claimed by her. In this view the Court made a decree in favour of the plaintiff for rent at the rate of 15 annas per bigha. Both parties were dissatisfied with this decision and preferred appeals to the Subordinate Judge, who has dismissed the appeal of the plaintiff and allowed the appeal of the defendant, with the result that the suit has been dismissed in its entirety. The view taken by the Subordinate Judge is that the lands are covered by the lease of the 19th February 1884 and that the plaintiff is not entitled to claim rent in respect thereof, until she joins her co-sharers as parties plaintiffs or defendants to the suit. In support of this view, the Subordinate Judge has placed reliance upon the case of Assanullah Bahadur v. Mohini Mohan Das (1). In the present appeal, it has been contended on behalf of the plaintiff that the view taken by the Subordinate Judge is erroneous and the case upon which he relies is distinguishable. The argument on behalf of the plaintiff in substance is that the effect of the resumption by the Government of these alluvial lands and their settlement with the plaintiff was to constitute a new tenure and that the plaintiff as tenure-holder under the Government is alone entitled to collect rent, in the suit as framed, from the defendant. On behalf of the respondent it has been argued that as the plaintiff, before resumption by the Government, was one of the persons who had granted settlement to the defendant, the resumption and the settlement with the plaintiff did not affect the pre-existing contract between the parties. In support of this view reliance has been placed upon the decision already mentioned, while on behalf of the appellant reference has been made to the observation of the Judicial Committee in the case of Pria Nath Das v. Ramtaran Chatterjee (2). In our opinion, the extreme contention put forward by each of the parties is unsound and cannot prevail.

To determine the fundamental question in the case, namely, the effect of the resumption by the Government and the settlement of the lands with the plaintiff, reference must be made to the provisions of the Land Settlement Act of 1858. The first section, which provides for the addition of revenue assessed upon alluvial land to the jama of the original estate, is in these terms: "When land added by alluvial accession to an estate paying revenue to Government becomes liable to assessment, if it be so agreed on between the Revenue Authorities and the proprietor or proprietors, the revenue assessed upon the alluvial land may be added to the jama of the original estate; and in such a case, a new engagement shall be executed for the payment of the aggregate amount, and that amount shall be substituted in the Collector's rent-roll for the former jama of the original estate." The second part of the section deals with the case when a separate settlement is made and is in these terms: "If the proprietor or proprietors object to such an arrangement, or if the Revenue Authorities are of opinion that a settlement of the alluvial land cannot properly be made for the same term as the existing settlement of the original estate, the alluvial land shall be assessed and settled as a separate estate with a separate jama and shall thenceforward be regarded and treated as in all respects separate from and independent of the original estate, whether the separate settlement be made with the proprietor or proprietors or the land be let in farm in consequence of the refusal of the proprietor or proprietors to accept the terms of settlement. The separate Settlement may be permanent if the Settlement of the original estate is permanent." The second section of the Act deals with the question of the rights of under-tenants in alluvial land. The first part provides that: "Nothing contained in the first section shall affect the rights of any under-tenant in any alluvial land under the provisions of clause I, section 4, of Regulation XI of 1825." The second part lays down that "it shall be the duty of all officers making settlements of such land, whether the land be settled separately or incorporated with the original estate, to ascertain and record all such rights according to the rules prescribed in Regulation VII of 1822, and to determine whether any and what additional rent shall be payable in respect of the alluvial land by the person or persons entitled to any under-tenure in the original estate."

(1) 26 C. 739.

(2) 30 C. 811; 7 C. W. N. 601 (P. C.).

In the case before us the alluvial land has not been settled with the entire body of proprietors of the original estate, but with only one of them. This is the feature which differentiates the present case from the cases of Assanullah Bahadur v. Mohini Mohan Das (1), Pria Nath Das v. Ramtaran Chatterji (2) and Mohendra Nath Biswas v. Shyamlal Banerjee (3). In each of these cases, the settlement was with the original proprietors. It has been contended before us, on the one hand, that as the settlement has been made with one only of the entire body of persons who had proprietorship of the original estate, he is in the same position as an entire stranger. It has been contended, on the other hand, that the fact that the settlement has been made with a part proprietor, places him in the same position as if he had been the sole proprietor of the original estate. We are not prepared to accept either of these contentions as well-founded. The plaintiff was a proprietor of the original estate to the extent of a two-thirds share. To that extent, she is bound by the terms of the pre-existing contract. But to the extent that she was a stranger to the original estate, namely, to the extent of one-third share, she is in the same position as a stranger would have been, if the stranger had taken the settlement from Government in respect of that particular share. This view is supported to some extent by the observation of the Judicial Committee in the case of Pria Nath Das v. Ramtaran Chatterjee (2). The passage to which we refer is in these terms: "If it had seemed good to the Government to take the land into their own khas possession, or to settle it on strangers to the contract with the respondent Chatterjee, then the recorded rent would have been the rate of payment by that respondent. But the lands having been settled on the heirs of the Raja who granted the pattah, the Act does not interfere with the contractual rights of the subordinate holder," because "the resumption by Government did not disturb the possession either of the Raja's heirs or of Chatterjee. The mere fact of resumption cannot be held to have brought to an end the rights of the respondent Chatterjee under the pattah, for the pattah itself recognises the precarious nature of the grantor's title, and provides against the loss of possession should that be the result." Consequently, the true position is that in respect of a two-thirds share, the plaintiff is bound by the terms of the contract, that is, she is entitled to realise rent at the rate of 15 annas a bigha, while in respect of the remaining one-third share, she is in the position of a stranger and is entitled to realise rent at the rate assessed by the Settlement Authorities as payable by the under-tenure-holder of the original estate.

(3) 23 Ind. Cas. 16; 19 C. L. J. 308; 18 C.W. N. 907.

MUKTAKESHI DASI v. SRINATH DAS.

Before we deal with the question of the actual amount of rent payable by the defendant to the plaintiff, one contention of the respondent requires consideration, namely, that the plaintiff is not entitled to maintain the present suit in the absence of her co-sharers. In the Court of first instance, the objection was taken that the co-sharers of the plaintiff were necessary parties to the litigation, but in the written statement no reason was assigned why their presence was necessary. The objection appears to have been based on the ground that notwithstanding the resumption, the defendant was entitled to hold this land as an accretion to the land of the original estate granted to him by the lease of the 19th February 1884. That contention, as we have already held, cannot be maintained: the land in respect of which settlement was made by the Government formed a separate tenure. From this point of view, the co-sharers of the plainitff are not necessary parties to this suit. It has been argued, however, that the co-sharers are necessary parties from a different standpoint. Our attention has been invited to a passage in the judgment of the Subordinate Judge in which he states that the evidence on both sides shows that the process of accretion has been in operation since a quarter of a century back and even earlier, and reference has been made to the deposition of a witness who stated that accretion had already commenced when the lease of the 19th February 1884 was granted. It has been argued that from this point of view the presence of the co-sharers of the plaintiff would be necessary, in order to determine the boundary between the land gained before 1884 and the land gained subsequently. But this objection is clearly not available to the respondent at this stage. The objection was undoubtedly not contemplated by the written statement and if it were now entertained, a remand to the Court of first instance for investigation of a question of fact would be needed.

We hold that the plaintiff is entitled to rent from the defendant at the rate of 15 annas a bigha in respect of two-thirds of the land and at the rate determined by the Settlement Authorities under section 2 of Act XXXI of 1858 for the remaining one-third. Here, however, the plaintiff has to face a difficulty for which she alone is responsible. The plaintiff stated in the plaint that the rate as determined by the Settlement Authorities was Rs. 296-8 for 182 bighas 19 cottahs and 8 chittaks of land. An examination of the materials on the record indicates that this statement was erroneous. The papers, in so far as they have been produced, show that Rs. 296-8 is the fair rent payable by the actual cultivators of the soil in respect of the lands held by them. The plaintiff consequently is not entitled to realise rent from the defendant at this rate. The plaintiff has thus failed to prove the rate determined as fair by the Settlement Authorities. We are consequently obliged to deal with the matter under section 103 of the Code of Civil Procedure and investigate what would be the fair rate payable by the defendant to the plaintiff in respect of an one-third share of the land in dispute. If we make an allowance of 10 per cent. for collection charges and reserve to the defendant a profit of 10 per cent. on the remainder as contemplated by section 7 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the rent payable by the defendant as tenure-holder would be approximately at the rate of Re. 1-6-0 per bigha.

The result is that this appeal is allowed and the decree of the Subordinate Judge set aside. We hold that the plaintiff is entitled to rent in respect of two-thirds of the land at the rate of annas 15 per bigha, and in respect of the remaining one-third at the rate of Re. 1-6-0 per bigha. She will further be entitled to cesses and interest on the amount decreed as rent, as also costs in proportion to her success in all the Courts. The defendant must bear his own costs throughout the litigation. A self-contained decree will be drawn up in this Court for the amount allowed.

We desire to make one reservation with regard to the one-third share of the land in respect whereof the plaintiff is not bound by the terms of the contract of 1884. We leave it open to the parties to show in a future litigation what is the rent, if any, settled by the Settlement Authorities under section 2 of Act XXXI of 1858. The fact that we have in this suit allowed the plaintiff rent at the rate of Re. 1-6-0 in respect of that one-third share, will not affect the determination of this question between the parties hereafter.

Appeal allowed.

BAIZNATH LALA v. RAMADOSS.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 2026 OF 1912.

October 21, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Ayling and Mr. Justice Hannay.

BAIZNATH LALA—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

RAMADOSS—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 73—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 14, Sch. I, Arts. 62, 120—Suit to recover money paid to defendant under s. 73, Code of Civil Procedure—Limitation—Revision when other remedy open, time taken in, whether excluded to save limitation.

A suit by a plaintiff to recover from a defendant money paid to him under section 73 of the Code of Civil Procedure is a suit to recover from the defendant money paid to him for plaintiff's use and should, therefore, be brought within three years from the date when the defendant received the money, and not within six years under Article 120 of the Limitation Act.

Vishnu Bhikaji Phadke v. Achut Jagannath Ghati, 15 B. 438; Shankar Sarup v. Mejo Mal, 23 A. 313; 3 Bom. L. R. 713; 5 C. W. N. 649; 28 I. A. 203 (P. C.); Mahomed Wahib v. Mahomed Ameer, 32 C. 527; 1 C. L. J. 167; Shanmuga Vela Pillai v. Govindasami 30 M. 459; 17 M. L. J. 452 at p. 453, Bhagwan Das v. Karam Husain, 11 Ind. Cas. 145; 33 A. 708 at p. 719; 8 A. L. J. 854; Sankunni Menon v. Govinda Menon, 14 Ind. Cas. 254, 22 M. L. J. 485; 11 M. L. T. 325; (1912) M. W. N 516; 37 M. 381, followed.

Moses v. Macpherlan, 97 Eng. Rep. 676; 2 Burr. 1005; 1 W. Bl. 219, referred to.

Gurudas Pyne v. Ram Narain Sahu, 10 C. 860; at p. 864 (P. C.); 11 I. A. 59; 8 Ind. Jur. 322; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 548, Ramasawmy Chettiar v. Hari Krishna Chettiar, 10 Ind. Cas. 658; 21 M. L. J. 705; 9 M. L. T. 465; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 220; distinguished.

Where a person files a revision petition to the High Court against an order of a Subordinate Court when he had another remedy open to him, he is not entitled to a deduction of the time occupied in prosecuting the revision petition under section 14 of the Limitation Act.

Raj Krishto Roy v. Beer Chunder Joobraj, 6 W. R. 308, distinguished.

Second appeal against the decree of the District Court of North Arcot, in Appeal Suit No. 255 of 1911, preferred against that of the Court of the District Munsif of Tirupathi, in Original Suit No. 402 of 1910.

FACTS.—The plaintiff and the defendant are both judgment-creditors of the same debtor. The latter having deposited a certain sum of money in Court the plaintiff applied for rateable distribution of the said sum. The District Judge of North Arcot dismissed the plaintiff's application on 18th October 1905 and the money in Court was paid to the defendant on 19th October 1905. The plaintiff thereupon applied to the High Court on 21st December 1905 to revise the said order of the District Court, but the civil revision petition was dismissed on 12th December 1906, on the ground that the plaintiff's remedy was by suit. The plaintiff filed the present suit on 11th December 1909 for a refund of the amount wrongfully paid to the defendant on the 19th October 1905. Both the lower Courts held that the suit was barred by Article 62 of the Limitation Act and dismissed the suit. The plaintiff thereupon preferred this second appeal.

Mr. C. V. Ananthakirshna Aiyar, for the Appellant:—The suit is governed by Article 120, and not by Article 62, and the period of limitation is six years. In none of the cases referred to by the Court below is the question considered whether Article 62 or Article 120 applied. The learned Judges had not to consider that question. Vishnu Bhikaji Phadke v. Achut Jagannath Ghati (1) only holds that Article 13 is inapplicable.

[AYLING, J.—It does not hold that Article 62 is applicable.]

Shankar Sarup v. Mejo Mal (2) also considers the applicability of Article 13 Gurudas Pyne v. Ram Narain Sahu (3) throws light on the effect of Article 62.

[AYLING, J.—It is not natural to speak of a person, to whom a sum is paid by an order of Court as against a person who claims it, as one who receives money for the use of his rival claimant within the meaning of Article 62.]

There was no provision for a suit in the Code of 1859. It was introduced for the first time in that of 1871. But the Article had been in the Limitation Act even before that. Hence the suit by an unsuccessful applicant for rateable distribution cannot be said to be one covered by Article 62 Ramasawmy Chettiar v. Hari Krishna Chettiar (4) and Bhagwan Das v. Karam Husain (5). Even if Article 120 is held inapplicable, the appellant is entitled to a deduction of the period between 18th October 1905 (the date

(1) 15 B. 438.

(2) 23 A. 313; 3 Bom. L. R. 713; 5 C. W. N. 649; 28 I. A. 203 (P. C.).

(3) 10 C. 860 at p. 864 (P. C.); 11 I. A. 59; 8 Ind. Jur. 322; 4 Sar. P. C. J. 548.

(4) 10 Ind. Cas. 658; 21 M. L. J. 705; 9 M. L. T. 465; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 220.

(5) 11 Ind. Cas. 145; 33 A. 708 at p. 719; 8 A. L. J. 854.

of the District Judge's order dismissing his petition) and 12th December 1906 (the date of the High Court order dismissing the civil revision petition): section 14 of the Limitation Act and Raj Krishto Roy v. Beer Chunder Joobraj (6). Appeal in section 14 of the Limitation Act includes revision. The appellant is entitled to a deduction of the time between 18th October 1905 and 21st December 1905, as that was necessary for obtaining a copy of the order of the Court below for taking proceedings in revision in this Court. Provided that appellant was diligent in applying for copies that period must be deducted. In cases where a suit was wrongly instituted and wrongly prosecuted in appeal, it has been held that the plaintiff is entitled to a deduction not merely of the time during which the suit and the appeal were actually pending but also the time taken up for obtaining copies. The principle of those cases is applicable to the present case. Raghu Nath Bhagat v. Syed Samad Shah (7) is authority for the position that the mere fact that the deduction of time is not claimed in the plaint is not a ground for disallowing it.

Mr. L. A. Govindraghava Aiyar, for the Respondent:—The lower Courts are right in holding that Article 62 is applicable. Article 120 is not applicable if any of the specific Articles mentioned before is applicable. Vishnu Bhikaji Phadke v. Achut Jagannath Ghati (1) is an express decision on the applicability of Article 62. The test is, is the defendant entitled in equity to keep the money with him in safe conscience, though by positive law the other party is barred from recovering it? Moses v. Macpherlan (8). The nature of action is for money "had and received." Smith v. Lewis (9), Shanmuga Vela Pillai v. Govindasami (10) and Mahomed Wahib v. Mahomed Ameer (11) hold that Article 62 and not Article 120 is applicable.

[AYLING, J.—It is very funny that if the Legislature intended in Article 62 to provide for the case of "had and received", it should not have introduced the whole of the expression "had and received".]

(6) 6 W. R. 308.
(7) 7 C. L. J. 560; 12 C. W. N. 617.
(8) 2 Bur. 1005; 1 W. Bl. 219; 97 Eng. Rep. 676 at p. 680.
(9) (1902) 2 Ch. 667; 71 L. J. Ch. 885; 51 W. R. 11.
(10) 17 M. L. J. 452 at p. 453; 30 M. 459.
(11) 32 C. 527; 1 C. L. J. 167.

Hanuman Kamat v. Hanuman Vandur (12) interprets "received" in Article 62 as "had and received." It is not the defendant's intention and the nature of the claim set up by him that determine the applicability of Article 62. The case of Mahomed Wahib v. Mahomed Ameer (11), which is exactly in point, explains the decision of the Privy Council in Gurudas Pyne v. Ram Narain Sahu (3) referred to on the other side. Shankar Sarup v. Mejo Mal (2) approves of Vishnu Bhikaji Phadke v. Achut Jagannath Ghati (1). In Bhagwan Das v. Karam Husain (5) the majority of the Full Bench applied Article 62, though Richards, C.J., was doubtful as to the Article which was applicable. See also Bithal Das v. Nand Kishore (13); Rajputana Malwa Railway Co-operative Stores, Ltd. v. Ajmer Municipal Board (14); Vaidyanath Aiyar v. Aiyasamy Aiyar (15); Sankunni Menon v. Govinda Menon (16); Avancha Lakshminarasamma v. Avancha Lakshamma (17); Ramaswamy Chettiah v. Hari Krishna Chettiar (4) and Nilakanta v. Imam Sahib (18). No revision lies where another remedy is open. Subramanya Chettiar v. Arunachelam Chettiar (19). A suit is always open to the plaintiff. Hence the time taken up in revision cannot be deducted. Further, the language of section 14 of the Limitation Act is not unrestricted.

[AYLING, J.—Section 14 speaks of "prosecuting" and not of thinking to prosecute.]

Raj Krishto Roy v Beer Chunder Joobraj (6) cannot be held to be good law now. In the old law, there was no explanation.

Mr. C. V. Ananthakrishna Aiyar, in reply:—Most of the cases quoted on Article 62 are cases in which there was some circumstance or other to show that the defendant was acting improperly in withholding the money, such as dishonesty. In none of them was there an adjudication by a Court in pursuance of which the defendant received the money. There is plenty of authority to show that (12) 19 C. 123 at p. 126 (P. C.); 18 I. A. 158.

(13) 23 A. 106 at p. 110; A. W. N. (1901) 4.
(14) 6 Ind. Cas. 401; 32 A. 491; 7 A. L. J. 496.
(15) 1 Ind. Cas. 408; 32 M. 191; 5 M. L. T. 49; 19 M. L. J. 94.
(16) 14 Ind. Cas. 254; 22 M. L. J. 485; 11 M. L. T. 325; (1912) M. W. N. 516; 37 M. 381.
(17) 21 Ind. Cas. 394; 14 M. L. T. 325; (1913) M. W. N. 836; 25 M. L. J. 531.
(18) 16 M. 361; 3 M. L. J. 364.
(19) 16 Ind. Cas. 692; (1912) M. W. N. 956.

when a right of suit is given by a Statute, Article 62 is inapplicable to it. Nilakanta v. Imam Sahib (18) is in my favour. Mitra on Limitation, Volume 2, p. 1061. Suit for the recovery of money paid for a consideration which has subsequently failed, is a suit for "money received." The present case is not like that. Barhamdeo Prasad v. Tarachand (20).

JUDGMENT.—The questions for decision in this second appeal are (1) whether the lower Courts are right in holding that Article 62, and not Article 120, of the Schedule to the Limitation Act applies to the facts of this case, (2) whether even if Article 62 applies, the suit is still in time by virtue of a deduction to which the plaintiff claims to be entitled with reference to section 14 of the Limitation Act, and (3) whether the lower Courts should have allowed the plaint to be amended so as to enable plaintiff to raise the second point.

The plaintiff, who is the appellant before us, brought the suit from which this second appeal arises under section 73 of the Code of Civil Procedure, his application for rateable distribution as against the defendant in respect of certain assets in Court deposited by a third party, against whom plaintiff and defendant had obtained decrees, having been refused by the District Court of North Arcot on 18th October 1905. The defendant drew the money in question from Court on 19th October 1905. The plaintiff filed a revision petition in the High Court to set aside the order of the District Court on 21st December 1905. That petition was dismissed on 12th December 1906. The present suit was filed on 11th December 1909. If Article 120 applies to the case the suit is in time in any view, but if Article 62 is to be applied it will be barred unless the plaintiff can show he is entitled to deduct the excess period by virtue of section 14 of the Limitation Act.

Now, Article 120 can only be applied when there is no other Article of the Limitation Act applicable. In support of the view that Article 62 is the proper one to apply, the cases of Vishnu Bhikaji Phadke v. Achut Jagannath Ghati (1); Shankar Sarup v. Mejo Mal (2) Mahomed Wahib v. Mahomed Ameer (11) and Shanmuga Vela Pillay v. Govindasami (10) have been relied on both here and in the lower Court. The first case is direct authority on the point. The suit in that case was brought under section 295 of the Code of 1882, which corresponds to section 73 of the present Code, and it was held that such a suit falls under Article 62, the case of Moses v. Macfarlane (8) being referred to evidently as authority for the position that the suit was one for money received for the plaintiff's use. The decision in Vishnu Bhikaji v. Achut Jagannath Ghati (1) is referred to with approval by the Privy Council in Shankar Sarup v. Mejo Mal (2) upon the question whether a suit under section 295 is a suit to set aside the order of the Court passed under that section, and it was held that it was not such a suit and that, therefore, Article 13 of the Limitation Act would not apply. It was only upon that point that the case was referred to and the decision of that point was sufficient for the purposes of the case. Their Lordships expressed no opinion as to whether the proper Article to apply was Article 62 or Article 120 and the case (though so far as it goes it supports the lower Courts' view) cannot be regarded as direct authority upon that point.

The cases of Mahomed Wahib v. Mahomed Ameer (11) and Shanmuga Vela Pillai v. Govindasami (10) were not cases of suits under section 73 of the Code. But the true nature of the class of suits described in Article 62 of the Limitation Act is considered in the former decision and Sir Subramania Iyer in the latter case expresses his agreement with the views laid down by the learned Judges of the Calcutta High Court. The conclusion arrived at in the Calcutta case was that the description of the suits mentioned in Article 62 as suits for money received by the defendant for the plaintiff's use pointed to the well-known English action in that form and that consequently, the Article ought to apply wherever the defendant has received money, which in justice and equity belongs to the plaintiff, in circumstances which in law render the receipt of it by the defendant a receipt for the use of the plaintiff. This view has been followed by the Allahabad High Court in Bhagwan Das v. Karam Husain (5) and by this Court in Sankunni Menon v. Govinda Menon (16). We agree with the opinion of Mr. Justice Mookerjee in the Calcutta case that the intention of the defendant at the time of receipt of the money to receive it for himself and not for the plaintiff is not the test by which the question, whether the money was in fact received for the plaintiff's use, has to be decided. As observed by the Privy Council in Shankar Sarup v. Mejo Mal (2): "The scheme of section 295 is rather to enable the Judge as a matter of administration to distribute the price according to what seems at the time to be the rights of parties without this distribution importing a conclusive adjudication on those rights, which may be subsequently re-adjusted by a suit such as the present." If on such a re-adjustment being made the plaintiff in a suit under section 73 is found to be entitled to a portion of the assets which have been paid to the defendant, we are of opinion that the latter must be regarded as having received the portion so paid to him "for the use of the plaintiff." In this connection we may refer to the extract from Blackstone's Commentaries cited by Mr. Justice Harrington in Mahomed Wahib v. Mahomed Ameer (11): "This species of action lies when one has had and received money belonging to another without any valuable consideration given on the Receiver's part; for the law construes this to be money had and received for the use of the owner only." We think these words fitly apply to the facts of the present case.

(20) 21 Ind. Cas. 961; 15 M. L. T. 62 at p. 65; (1914) M W. N. 38; 12 A. L. J. 82; 18 C. W. N. 345; 19 C. L. J. 132; 16 Bom. L. R. 89; 26 M. L. J. 243 41 C. 654.

The appellant relies upon the cases of Gurudas Pyne v. Ram Narain Sahu (3) and Ramasawmy Chettiar v. Hari Krishna Chettiar (4). As regards the former, it had been pointed out both in Mahomed Wahib v. Mahomed Ameer (11) and Bhagwan Das v. Karam Husain (5) that the money received by the defendant in that case did not belong to the plaintiff, but a third party, and that the plaintiff had a mere equitable claim to follow that money in the hands of the defendant. It was in these circumstances that Article 62 was held inapplicable by the Privy Council. It is plain that the facts of that case were, therefore, quite different from the present. In the second case [Ramasawmy Chettiar v. Hari Krishna Chettiar (4)] the plaintiff claimed as assignee of a decree but at the time when the money claimed by him was realized by the defendant, the plaintiff's suit to establish his right as assignee had been dismissed. The Court in these circumstances held that as at the time when the defendant realized the money, the plaintiff could not himself have collected the amount by reason of the dismissal of his suit to establish his title as assignee, the defendant could not be said to have received the money for his use in any sense. With all respect we are unable to follow that decision. The plaintiff in this case was eventually found entitled to share in the assets realized by the defendant and that being so, we do not see why the mere fact that the plaintiff's suit to establish his rights as assignee had been dismissed at the time when the money was realized by the defendant, should suffice to take the case out of the purview of Article 62.

In the result, therefore, we think the lower Court was right in holding that Article 62 should be applied to the facts of the present case.

The second point depends upon the question whether the plaintiff would be entitled, by virtue of section 14 of the Limitation Act, to deduct the time between the order of the District Court disallowing his petition for rateable distribution and the disposal of his revision petition by the High Court (i.e., from 19th October 1905 till 12th December 1906) or only the time from the presentation of the revision petition until its disposal (i. e., from 21st December 1905 till 12th December 1906). The plaintiff relies upon the decision in Raj Krishto Roy v. Beer Chunder Joobraj (6) in support of the first alternative. We think that case is not in point here. It was a case where the plaintiff's suit was dismissed for want of jurisdiction and the plaintiff then tried unsuccessfully to remedy his failure by appeal. In these circumstances, it was held that as the law allows a fixed time for appeal in order to allow the unsuccessful party to consider whether he will appeal or not, if a party appeals within the time so fixed, he ought to be considered as proceeding with due diligence between the decision of the suit and the filing of the appeal. Here, there was no question of appeal. Though the plaintiff had a right of suit under section 73 of the Code, he elected to proceed by revision in the High Court and the law does not fix any period within which petitions for revision are required to be brought. In these circumstances it seems to us that the case cited is not in point and that it cannot be said that the plaintiff was prosecuting a proceeding at all while he was merely making up his mind to apply for revision. In this view the time which expired between the order of the District Court and the filing of the revision petition in the High Court (viz., from 19th October 1905 till 21st December 1905) cannot be excluded, as the plaintiff contends, under section 14 of the Limitation Act. It is conceded that if this period be not excluded, the suit is still out of time. We think, further, that the respondent is entitled to rely upon the contention that in any event plaintiff cannot be said to have prosecuted the revision petition in good faith, within the meaning of section 14 of the Limitation Act, inasmuch as it has been frequenty held by this and other High Courts that the High Court will not exercise its revisional powers when there is any other remedy open. Here the plaintiff had his remedy by suit.

It is unnecessary in these circumstances to consider the third point raised regarding amendment of the plaint.

The second appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 2610 OF 1913.

November 5, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Hannay.

GOPALA AIYAR—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

RAMA VENKATASUBBA IYER AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 64 - Attachment of mortgagee's rights—Subsequent alienation by mortgagee of his mortgage rights—Money reserved with alienee to pay off attaching creditors Attachment by another creditor of moneys in assignee's hands—Payment by alienee to prior attaching creditors Subsequent attachment, effect of, on such payment Assignor and assignee—Direction in assignment deed to pay debt, if can be revoked before payment - Revocation, power of, how affected by character of debt, secured or unsecured.

A direction in an assignment-deed that the assignee should discharge certain debts due by the assignor to third parties, out of the moneys forming the consideration for the assignment, may be revoked by the assignor at any time before the debts are actually paid by the assignee if the debts are unsecured, but it cannot be so revoked if the debts are secured.

Where, pending attachment by two creditors of his rights under certain mortgages, the mortgagee assigned his rights therein to the 1st defendant and directed him to pay the consideration for the assignment to the attaching creditors and the assignee afterwards paid them off, but not before the money in his hands had been attached at the instance of the plaintiff, another creditor of the assignor:

Held, that the assignee was entitled to protect himself by paying off the prior attaching creditors, and that such payment did not offend against the provisions of section 64 of the Civil Procedure Code and could not be impeached by the plaintiff.

Raghunatha Chariar v. Sadagopa Chariar, 12 Ind. Cas 353; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 227; 10 M. L. T. 300; 36 M. 348; 21 M. L. J. 983 at p. 987, followed.

Second appeal against the decree of the Subordinate Judge of Tinnevelly, in Appeal Suit No. 111 of 1912, preferred against that of the Additional District Munsif of Tinnevelly, in Original Suit No. 298 of 1910.

FACTS.—The rights possessed by the 2nd defendant in two mortgage-deeds standing in his name having been attached by two of his creditors, N and S, under decrees obtained by them, he assigned his rights under the said mortgages in favour of the 1st defendant, on the latter undertaking to pay the decree-debts of N and S. Before, however, the 1st defendant paid the sum reserved with him to N and S, plaintiff had it attached in execution of a decree he had obtained against the 2nd defendant. Subsequent to the plaintiff's attachment, 1st defendant paid N and S the moneys reserved with him as per assignment-deed and due to N and S under their decrees. The plaintiff, thereupon, got himself appointed as Receiver in the proceedings in execution of the decree which he had obtained against the 2nd defendant and filed the present suit against the defendants to recover the sum for which he had effected the attachment, on the ground that the 2nd defendant had fraudulently executed the assignments in question after he had notice of the prohibitory order issued in execution of plaintiff's decree and that the assignments were void under section 64 of the Civil Procedure Code and could not prevail as against his rights under the attachment. The 1st defendant contended that as under the assignment the sum which had been reserved for payment to N and S ceased to be the property of the 2nd defendant, the attachment by the plaintiff was ineffectual and that he was entitled to protect himself by paying off N and S, in spite of the plaintiff's attachment. The Court of first instance found that the 1st defendant did not pay off N and S and gave the plaintiff a decree for Rs. 750. On appeal the Subordinate Judge found that N and S had been paid by the 1st defendant, and that notwithstanding that the payments had been made after notice of the prohibitory order issued at the instance of the plaintiff, the said payments were valid and binding on the plaintiff. He, therefore, dismissed the plaintiff's suit. Plaintiff, thereupon, preferred this second appeal to the High Court.

Mr. T. R. Krishnaswamy Aiyar, for the Appellant:—The finding is that the 1st defendant paid the amount reserved with him under the assignment after receipt of notice of the prohibitory order issued at the instance of the plaintiff. The payments are, therefore, invalid and cannot prevail against the right of the plaintiff under his attachment. See section 64, Civil Procedure Code. Notwithstanding the conditions of the assignment the amount reserved continued to belong to the 2nd defendant, the assignor.

Mr. C. V. Ananthkrishna Aiyar, for the Respondents:—Under the assignment the amount was directed to be paid to the attaching creditors. The assignor could not, therefore, revoke the direction and the 1st defendant was entitled to protect himself by paying them off. See Raghunatha Chariar v. Sadagopa Chariar (1). Section 64 of the Code of Civil Procedure does not apply to this case. On the date of service on the 1st defendant of the prohibitory order, he had no money of the assignor in his hands.

JUDGMENT.—The plaintiff is the appellant in this second appeal. He attached in January 1908 the balance of the purchase-money due by the 1st defendant to the 2nd defendant who had sold to the 1st defendant his (2nd defendant's) rights as mortgagee under two mortgage-deeds. The sales by the 2nd defendant of the said mortgage rights were in November 1907. On the date of the sale of the said mortgage rights of the 2nd defendant to the 1st defendant, those rights were under attachment in execution of two other decrees of the District Munsif's Court of Ambasamudram passed against the 2nd defendant, the decree-holders in those two suits being Narasier and Subramania Pandaram. The sale-deed, therefore, by the 2nd defendant directed portions of the purchase money to be paid by the 1st defendant to those two decree-holders. The 1st defendant did not pay those portions to those two decree-holders till the plaintiff attached those moneys in January 1908 and he paid them in February and June 1908.

The question is whether the 1st defendant was so entitled to pay up those sums to the decree-holders who had attached his vendor's mortgage rights after those sums had been attached by the plaintiff.

The learned Subordinate Judge in appeal held that as those sums were mentioned in the sale-deeds (or assignment-deeds), Exhibit I and Exhibit I (a), as payable to those two decree-holders, those decree-holders themselves obtained title to those sums and that the 2nd defendant lost his title to those sums. We shall assume without deciding that the learned Subordinate Judge's said view is erroneous. See Iswaram Pillai v. Taregan (2). It is contended by the appellant's learned Vakil on that basis that as the purchase-moneys retained by the 1st defendant still belonged to the 2nd defendant, the plaintiff's attachment of those moneys in the 1st defendant's hands cannot be defeated by the 1st defendant paying them up to the former decree-holders.

The answer to this contention seems to be that the 2nd defendant had not an absolute title to the moneys left in the hands of the 1st defendant. In the ordinary cases, where the vendor leaves the purchase-money in the hands of the purchaser to be paid to the vendor's simple creditors (who have got no incumbrance over the property sold), it may be that the vendor can revoke the direction to pay to his creditors and claim the unpaid purchase-money himself. He cannot, of course, do it if the creditors to be paid have incumbrances on the property sold. [See section 55, clause 5 (b), of the Transfer of Property Act].

In this case, it seems to us that where the purchaser (1st defendant) has purchased the property (in this case, the 2nd defendant's mortgage rights) while under attachment and he cannot get a clear title to the property free from the claims enforceable under the attachments unless the amounts of the purchase-money retained by him were paid up in satisfaction of the decrees for which the attachments were issued (see section 64 of the Code of Civil Procedure), the vendor cannot claim an absolute right to the amounts retained by the vendee to be paid to the said decree-holders.

(1) 12 Ind. Cas. 353; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 227; 10 M. L. T. 300; 36 M. 348; 21 M. L. J. 983 at p. 987.

(2) 23 Ind. Cas. 951; 26 M. L. J. 127.

If then the 2nd defendant had no right to prevent the 1st defendant from paying up Narasier's and Subramania Pandaram's debts, in other words, if his right to those moneys could, at the 1st defendant's pleasure, be defeated by the 1st defendant's exercising the rights which he has, as against the 2nd defendant, to pay up those moneys to the former decree-holders in order to obtain a clear title to the property which he purchased [See Raghunatha Chariar v. Sadagopa Chariar (1)], the plaintiff's attachment of the 2nd defendant's rights in those moneys must also be subject to the same paramount right of the 1st defendant to protect his title as vendee by paying up the amounts for which the property sold to him was under attachment at the time of his purchase.

This is the only point of law arising in the case and as we decide it against the appellant, we dismiss the second appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

CIVIL MISCELLANEOUS APPEAL No. 20 OF 1914.
August 4, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Kanhaiya Lal, A. J. C.

PREM NARAIN—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

RAM LAL AND ANOTHER—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Jurisdiction—Partnership business—Accounts, rendition of, suit for—Cause of action, meaning of Proper Court—Place of suing—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 20.

The term "cause of action" comprises every fact which is material to be proved to entitle the plaintiff to succeed and includes an assertion of the right infringed, and of the manner in which the infringement is made.

The carrying on of a partnership business being, as a material part of the cause of action for a suit for rendition of the partnership accounts, sufficient to give the plaintiff a right to sue at the place where the business is carried on, the mere fact that the consolidated accounts of the business are kept at another place would not by itself, in view of the provisions of section 20, Civil Procedure Code, oust the Court at the former place of the jurisdiction.

Luckmee Chund v. Zorawur Mull, 8 M. I. A. 291; 1 W. R. 35 (P. C.); 1 Suth. P. C. J. 425; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 763; 19 E. R. 541, referred to.

A suit for the adjustment of partnership accounts can conveniently lie at any of the places where the partnership business is substantially carried on although the contract of partnership took place somewhere else, for the place where an obligation is to be performed is its main seat and place of jurisdiction.

Barah Meah Saib v. Khajee Meah Saib, 4 M. H. C. R. 218, referred to.

Appeal against the order of the Subordinate Judge, Lucknow, dated 1st June 1914.

Mr. A. P. Sen, Babu Salig Ram and Syed Shahinshah Husain, for the Appellant.

Babu Bisheshwar Nath, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—This is an appeal from an order passed by the Subordinate Judge of Lucknow, returning a plaint for presentation to the proper Court. The suit related to a partnership, the business of which was carried on partly at Lucknow and partly at other places. The allegation of the plaintiff was that the contract of partnership was entered into at Lucknow between Ram Prasad, the father of the plaintiff, and Jagan Nath, the Manager of the family to which the defendants belong, for dealing in the import and export of kattha, that a shop was started at Lucknow for the said purpose, that the accounts of the actual dealings which took place at Lucknow used to be entered in the account-books kept at the Lucknow shop and that the accounts of the profit and loss of the entire business used to be kept by Jagan Nath at Cawnpore. The partnership came to an end on the 15th February 1911 owing to the death of Ram Prasad, one of the partners.

The present suit was filed by the plaintiff on the 2nd January 1913 for rendition of accounts. The defendants denied that the contract of partnership took place at Lucknow and pleaded that the suit was not cognizable by the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Lucknow. The learned Subordinate

Judge held that the contract of partnership was entered into at Cawnpore and returned the plaint for presentation to the proper Court.

It is admitted by Ram Lal, defendant, in his evidence that a shop was maintained at Lucknow for carrying on the partnership business and that no shop appertaining to the partnership was opened at Cawnpore. The cause of action for a suit for the adjustment of accounts of a partnership arises at the place where the contract of partnership is entered into or where the business of the partnership is carried on, unless there is a special agreement that the accounts would be rendered only at a particular place. The term "cause of action" comprises every fact which is material to be proved to entitle the plaintiff to succeed and includes an assertion of the right infringed and of the manner in which the infringement is made. A cause of action may thus be composed of several parts, and if one material part, namely, the carrying on of the partnership business which gives rise to a claim for accounts, is sufficient to give the plaintiff a right to sue at the place where the business is carried on, the mere fact that the consolidated accounts of the business are kept at another place would not by itself oust the Court at the former place of its jurisdiction. Section 20 of the Code of Civil Procedure accordingly permits a suit to be instituted in a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction a cause of action wholly or in part arises. In Luckmee Chund v. Zorawur Mull (1) their Lordships of the Privy Council, in dealing with a case in which the contract of partnership was entered into at Rutlam for the purchase and sale of opium principally at Muthra, observed: "Now, where can it be said that the cause of action, supposing it exists for that balance, properly arose? Muthra was, undoubtedly, the central place of business; at Muthra the partnership books were kept; at Muthra the partners would have recourse to those books for the purpose of ascertaining the state of the transaction between them; and if, in the result, a balance was due to the appellants, Muthra would be the place where the payment of that balance would have to be made. It, therefore, appears clear to their Lordships that if there is a cause of action arising out of the balance resulting from these partnership tranactions, that cause of action arose at Muthra." The adjustment of partnership accounts involves an examination of the credits, property and effects due and belonging to the partnership, and in some cases the appointment of a Receiver to collect the outstanding debts and assets. The outstanding debts in this case are mostly recoverable at Lucknow or through the Courts situated here. The accounts of the dealings at the Lucknow shop and the residue of the partnership property are also at Lucknow and, as pointed out in Barah Meah Saib v. Khajee Meah Saib (2), a suit for the adjustment of the partnership accounts can conveniently lie at any of the places where the business of partnership is substantially carried on. It is immaterial to inquire where the contract of partnership took place, for the place where an obligation is to be performed is its main seat and place of jurisdiction. The accounts were probably kept in this case both at Lucknow and Cawnpore, as found by the learned Subordinate Judge, but each partner now wishes to throw the responsibility of rendering the accounts on the other. The defendants do not allege that the agreement was to render the accounts only at Cawnpore. The contract, according to them, was that the father of the plaintiff was to keep the accounts of the entire partnership business and was alone to be responsible therefor.

We allow the appeal accordingly, set aside the order of the Court below and direct that the plaint be restored to its original number in the register and proceeded with according to law.

The costs will abide the result.

Appeal allowed.

(1) 8 M. I. A. 291; 1 W. R. 35 (P. C.); 1 Suth. P. C. J. 425; 1 Sar. P. C. J. 763; 19 E. R. 541.

(2) 4 M. H. C. R. 218.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

FULL BENCH.

LETTERS PATENT APPEAL No. 37 OF 1914.

September 24, 1914.

Present:—Sir John Edward Power Wallis, Offg. Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Aiyling and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

VELLORE TALUQ BOARD BY ITS PRESIDENT—PETITIONER—APPELLANT

versus

GOPALASAMI NAIDU—RESPONDENT.

Contract Act (IX of 1872), s. 74—Earnest money—

VELLORE TALUQ BOARD v. GOPALASAMI NAIDU.

Breach of contract—Damages, in excess of earnest money.

Where a clause is entered in a contract providing for the forfeiture of a deposit made by the contractor, and the person for whose benefit the clause is entered in the contract does not content himself with retaining the deposit as a forfeiture but sues for actual loss incurred by him through the default of the other party, on the ground that the deposit amount is insufficient to cover such a loss or on the ground that the contract provides for both the forfeiture of the deposit and also for the right to recover the loss, he cannot recover more than the difference between the loss incurred by him and the deposit money.

Ockenden v. Henley, (1858) E. B. & E. 485; 27 L. J. Q. B. 361; 4 Jur. (N. S.) 999; 120 Eng. Rep. 590; 113 R. R. 740, Essex v. Daniell, 10 C. P. 538; 38 L. T. 476, Howe v. Smith, 27 Ch. D. 89; 53 L. J. Ch. 1055; 50 L. T. 573; 32 W. R. 802; 48 J. P. 773, Shuttleworth v. Clews, (1910) 1 Ch. 176; 79 L. J. Ch. 121; 101 L. T. 708, followed.

Appeal under section 15 of the Letters Patent against the order of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar in Civil Revision Petition No. 596 of 1909 (reported in 21 Ind. Cas. 759), preferred against that of the Court of the District Munsif of Vellore in Small Cause Suit No. 133 of 1909.

FACTS.—The facts of the case appear fully from the judgments of Spencer and Sadasiva Iyer, JJ., reported in 21 Ind. Cas. 759. The appellant was the President of the Taluq Board of Vellore. The respondent was a contractor under the said Board of the right to collect market fees at the weekly fairs held at Karadigudi. As an earnest of his intention to perform the contract, he deposited a sum of Rs. 36-2-8, being two months' rent in advance. In case of default he agreed, "not only shall I (the defaulter) be deprived of the lease for the remaining months, but there shall be a re-sale at my risk and any loss resulting therefrom shall be made good from the moveable or immoveable properties belonging to me, and I shall also forfeit the aforesaid deposit of Rs. 36-2-8 paid by me." He did make default in the regular payment of the monthly rents on the due dates, and acting on the terms of the contract, the Taluq Board re-sold the right at his risk and sued to enforce the contract. The District Munsif before whom the suit was brought allowed the plaintiff's claim for loss less the deposit amount. On revision by the Taluq Board Spencer, J., found that the suit was to enforce two of the stipulations in the contract, viz., (1) "that any loss resulting from a re-sale held in consequence of the defendant's default should be recovered from his properties, (2) the defendant should forfeit his deposit of Rs. 36-2-8", and held that the person suffering loss on default is entitled to recover the actual loss over and above the amount of deposit forfeited, while Sadasiva Aiyar, J., found that the suit was not to enforce both the stipulations in the contrace referred to above but to enforce only the first of those stipulations, the plaintiff Board having, before bringing the suit, treated the deposit of Rs. 35-2-8 which was with it as already forfeited, and held that plaintiff could not recover more than the difference between the loss incurred by him and the deposit money. In the result the petition was dismissed and the plaintiff Board appealed under clause 15, Letters Patent.

Mr. S. Varadachariar for Mr. L. A. Govinda Raghava Iyer, for the Appellant:—According to the view of his Lordship Justice Sadasiva Aiyar, no difference is made between the cases where the date of payment is expressly provided for and where no date is fixed. Essex v. Daniell (1) is clear on that point.

[Sir JOHN WALLIS., OFFG. C. J.—Was that case cited below?]

Mr. S. Varadachariar.—No, it was not. In the English case, there is a distinct provision that the deficiency should be paid out of the re-sale.

In the present case, also, there is a reference to the re-sale.

Cornwall v. Henson (2).

[Sir JOHN WALLIS, OFFG. C.J. – Where is the rule that when property is deposited it becomes the property of the depositee?]

Mr. S. Varadachariar.—I say by reason of the breach.

[Mr. AYLING, J.—Do you mean to say that by reason of the breach, it becomes his?]

[Sir JOHN WALLIS, OFFG. C. J.—How does Howe v. Smith (3) decide the case? It only concerns itself whether the amount deposited could be recovered back.]

Mr. S. Varadachariar.—Fry, J., makes special reference to Howe v. Smith (3). The basis of Ockenden v. Henley (4) is inconsistent with Howe v. Smith (3).

(1) L. R. 10 C. P. 538; 38 L. T. 476.

(2) (1899) 2 Ch. D. 710; 68 L. J. Ch. 749; 48 W. R. 42; 81 L. T. 113; 15 T. L. R. 544.

(3) 27 Ch. D. 89; 53 L. J. Ch. 1055; 50 L. T. 573; 32 W. R. 802; 48 J. P. 773.

(4) (1858) E. B. & E. 485; 27 L. J. Q. B. 361; 4 Jur. (N. S.) 999; 120 Eng. Rep. 590; 113 R. R. 740.

[Sir JOHN WALLIS, OFFG. C. J.—Sometimes the earnest takes the form of a plate, something which will not give anything.]

Mr. S. Varadachariar.—At bottom of page 104, he refers to the same observations.

[Sir WALLIS, OFFG. C. J.—How do you explain Fry, J.'s observations?]

Mr. S. Varadachariar.—There are two other cases, Griffiths v. Vezey (5) and Shuttleworth v. Clews (6). Both of them are inconsistent with each other. The second case is a judgment of Joyce, J. In the argument, reference is made to Ockenden v. Henley (4).

[Sir JOHN WALLIS, OFFG. C. J.—Payment of deposit is a part payment of purchase-money.]

Mr. C. R. Subramania Aiyer, for the Respondent, was not called upon.

JUDGMENT.—We think the case is covered by the authority of Ockenden v. Henley (4), which was distinguished in Essex v. Daniell (1), and referred to with approval by Fry, J., in Howe v. Smith (3) and was apparently followed by Joyce, J., in the most recent case of Shuttleworth v. Clews (6).

We accordingly agree with Sadasiva Aiyar, J., and dismiss the appeal with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

(5) (1906) 1 Ch. D. 796; 75 L. J. Ch. 462.

(6) (1910) 1 Ch. 176; 79 L. J. Ch. 121; 101 L. T. 708.

PRIVY COUNCIL.

APPEAL FROM THE SUPREME COURT OF CEYLON.

December 16, 1913.

Present:—Lord Dunedin, Lord Shaw and Lord Moulton.

SAMINATHAN CHETTY AND ANOTHER —APPELLANTS

versus

PLANAIAPPA CHETTY—RESPONDENT.

Ceylon Civil Procedure Code, s. 34—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. II, r. 2—Causes of action—Arbitration, dispute between two partners of money lending firm settled by—Award—"Receipt"—Accord and satisfaction by substituted agreement—Pro-notes in lieu of "receipt"—Pro-notes altered—Suit on pro-note dismissed—Fresh suit for amount in receipt, whether maintainable—Causes of action, inclusion of.

A dispute between the two partners of a money-lending firm was referred to arbitrators, who after the completion of the investigation drew up a "receipt" which the appellant signed, the arbitrators witnessed and the respondent accepted and acted upon. In accordance with the "receipt" the appellant paid to the respondent Rs. 224-5/32 and handed to him two promissary notes for Rs. 14,000 each in which no rate of interest was inserted by an oversight, although the parties intended that they should bear Chetty interest. The respondent thereupon went to one of the arbitrators and persuaded him to alter the pro-notes by inserting therein 9 per cent. as the rate of interest. He then sued on the two notes, but his suit was dismissed on the ground that a material alteration had been made in them. He then brought another suit for two items referred to in the "receipt" which with other items were the basis of the two pro-notes:

Held, (1) that the proceedings of the arbitrators, though informally conducted, were in the nature of an arbitration, that the so-called "receipt" expressed the finding of the arbitrators and the mode in which it was to be performed and that the case was a clear example of "accord and satisfaction by a substituted agreement" by which the prior rights of the parties were extinguished; and

(2) that the form of the claim was faulty, inasmuch as the sole existing liability was under the agreement set out in the receipts, while the arrangement for the discharge of the amount found due by means of the promissory notes only expressed the mode of payment contemplated and arranged for at the time, and that the respondent could bring an action for the unpaid balance of the sum found due.

Section 24 of the Ceylon Civil Procedure Code, which corresponds to Order II, rule 2, of the Indian Civil Procedure Code, 1908, is directed to securing the exhaustion of the relief in respect of a cause of action and not to the inclusion in one and the same action different causes of action, even though they arise from the same transaction. The first part of the clause makes it incumbent on the plaintiff to include the whole of his claim in his action. The second portion makes it incumbent on him to ask for the whole of his remedies. The final paragraph is not intended to be an illustration of the foregoing provisions, but a substantive enactment making an obligation and a collateral security for its performance one cause of action for the purposes of the section.

Therefore, a claim on the bills and a claim for the amount found due under the award and for which payment was provided by the agreement are not the same cause of action, but are inconsistent and mutually exclusive causes of action, and thus the sum sued for is recoverable by the respondent but he cannot bring a fresh action for the remainder.

Appeal from a judgment of the Supreme Court of Ceylon (reported in 15 New Law Reports 161) reversing that of the District Court of Colombo.

Messrs. P. O. Lawrence, K. C., Harace E. Miller and E. J. Samerawickerame (of the Ceylon Bar), for the Appellants.

Messrs. F. Dornhurst, K. C. (of the Ceylon Bar) and R. W. Lee, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT

LORD MOULTON.—The respondent is a money-lender carrying on business in Colombo, and the first appellant was for a time his agent and manager. He was at the same time carrying on business as a money-lender in partnership with the second appellant.

For about 3½ years prior to June 1909 the respondent was absent from Ceylon and the first appellant carried on his business during his absence. On his return serious disputes arose between them. The respondent alleged that there was a large balance due to him from the first appellant and also that the first appellant had not credited the respondent with certain profits made by discounting promissory notes at the Banks for firms in which the second appellant was a partner. Ultimately all the parties to the present suit agreed that these disputes should be referred to two other money-lenders named Ramanathan Chetty and Muturaman Chetty, who after the completion of the investigation drew up, on the 30th August 1909, what has been termed "a receipt," which the appellants signed, the arbitrators witnessed and the respondent accepted and acted upon. This document deals seriatim with seven sums thereby admitted to be due from the appellants to the respondent amounting in all to Rs. 28,224-5/32, and it then proceeds as follows:—

"And this sum of Rs. 28,224-5/32 we have this day settled with you in the following manner: Rupees 224-5/32 paid to you by us this day in cash, Rs. 14,000 by an on-demand promissory note, payable with interest on 15th September, and Rs. 14,000 by another on-demand promissory note given on the same date payable with interest on 30th November, all aggregating to Rs. 28,224-5/32.

"And this matter having been thus arranged and settled in respect of all the accounts between us, this receipt shall be the witness that there is no other claim against us by you or by us against you."

Accordingly Rs. 224-5/32 were thereupon paid by the appellants to the respondent, and two promissory notes, each for a sum of Rs. 14,000, were handed to him. Their Lordships entertain no doubt that, although informally conducted, the proceeding was in the nature of an arbitration, and the so-called "receipt" expresses the finding of the arbitrators, and the mode in which it was to be performed. But the question, whether or not it should so be regarded, is immaterial for the decision of the present appeal. The "receipt" given by the appellants, and accepted by the respondent, and acted on by both parties proves conclusively that all the parties agreed to a settlement of all their existing disputes by the arrangement formulated in the "receipt." It is a clear example of what used to be well known in Common Law Pleading as "accord and satisfaction by a substituted agreement." No matter what were the respective rights of the parties inter se, they are abandoned in consideration of the acceptance by all of a new agreement. The consequence is that when such an accord and satisfaction takes place, the prior rights of the parties are extinguished. They have in fact been exchanged for the new rights; and the new agreement becomes a new departure, and the rights of all the parties are fully represented by it.

There appears to be no doubt that it was the intention of all the parties that the sums for which the promissory notes were given should bear what is known as Chetty interest, which is at a rate dependent on the current Bank rate, and would in the present case have been between 6 per cent. and 7 per. cent. But, probably by an oversight, no rate of interest was inserted in the promissory notes, and the respondent, without communication with the appellants, went to one of the arbitrators and persuaded him to alter both promissory-notes by inserting therein 9 per cent. as the rate of interest. Though this was an irregularity of a grave kind, their Lordships do not understand that it was done with bad faith either on the part of the arbitrator or the respondent. It appears to have been the result of a misunderstanding, and accordingly their Lordships treat it as a material alteration innocently made.

On the 18th October 1909, the respondent commenced an action in the District Court of Colombo upon the two promissory notes so given to him. The appellants raised as a defence that a material alteration had been made in them, and on this ground the action was dismissed on February 8th, 1910.

On the 20th April 1910, the respondent commenced the present action for the two sums of Rs. 11,526-7-32 and Rs. 771. These were two out of six items referred to in the receipt, all going towards making up the total of Rs. 28,224-5-32 which was the basis of the new agreement. The form of the plaint is such that it is clear that the respondent was attempting to assert in the action two of the claims which were included in the award and settled by the new agreement. This he was not entitled to do since they had been extinguished by the acceptance of the new agreement.

At the trial of the action, the District Judge found in favour of the appellants, on the ground that the two promissory notes were given in absolute payment of the debt, and that, therefore, no remedy remained to the respondent excepting upon those notes. On appeal, the Judges of the Supreme Court held that the notes were only accepted as a conditional discharge, so that they only amounted to payment if paid, and that, inasmuch as they had not been paid, the original debt of Rs. 28,000 remained. They accordingly allowed the appeal. It is from this decision that the present appeal is brought.

Their Lordships are of opinion, as has already been stated, that the form of the claim was faulty, inasmuch as the sole existing liability was under the agreement set out in the receipt. But they are also of opinion that the arrangement for the discharge of the amount found due by means of the promissory notes only expressed the mode of payment contemplated and arranged for at the time. This was essentially a matter of form only, the substance of the award being that the specified amount was actually due from the appellants to the respondent. Through an innocent act the promissory notes have become incapable of being enforced, and the appellants have availed themselves of this and have refused to pay the notes so that payment in the form contemplated has failed. But this does not affect the substance of the award or the basis of the arrangement which was liability, and, therefore, it was open to the respondent to bring an action for the unpaid balance of the sum found due, i. e., for the amount of the promissory notes. He has brought his action for an amount less than this and based it on wrong grounds, but, on the other hand, the appellants omitted to raise their true defence in their pleadings, when there would have been an opportunity for the respondent to correct the grounds of his claim.

The learned Judge at the trial held that this action was barred by section 34 of the Ceylon Civil Procedure Act and Counsel for the appellants relied strongly upon this section in the argument before us. On account of the importance of the point it is desirable to cite the section in full:—

"Every action shall include the whole of the claim which the plaintiff is entitled to make in respect of the cause of action; but a plaintiff may relinquish any portion of his claim in order to bring the action within the jurisdiction of any Court.

"If a plaintiff omits to sue in respect of or intentionally relinquishes any portion of his claim, he shall not afterwards sue in respect of the portion so omitted or relinquished. A person entitled to more than one remedy in respect of the same cause of action may sue for all or any of his remedies: but if he omits (except with the leave of the Court obtained before the hearing) to sue for any of such remedies, he shall not afterwards sue for the remedy so omitted.

"For the purpose of this section an obligation and a collateral security for its performance shall be deemed to constitute but one cause of action."

Their Lordships are of opinion that the learned Judge took an erroneous view of the object and meaning of this section. It is directed to securing the exhaustion of the relief in respect of a cause of action, and not to the inclusion in one and the same action of different causes of action, even though they arise from the same transaction. The first part of the clause makes it incumbent on the plaintiff to include the whole of his claim in his action. The second portion makes it incumbent on him to ask for the whole of his remedies. The final paragragh, in their Lordships' opinion, is not intended to be an illustration of the foregoing provisions, but a substantive enactment, making an obligation and a collateral security for its performance (which would otherwise be two independent causes of action) one cause of action for the purposes of the section.

Viewed thus, it is evident that a claim on the bills and a claim for the amount found due under the award and for which payment was provided by the agreement are not the same cause of action, but are in truth inconsistent and mutually exclusive causes of action. So long as the bills were outstanding there was no right of action otherwise than upon the bills. It is, therefore, impossible, in their Lordships' opinion, to hold that the claim for the amount due was the same cause of action as the claim upon the bills and ought to have been included in the prior action.

Their Lordships, therefore, think that justice will be done by treating the sum sued for as being part of the amount found due by the arbitrators, the payment of which was provided for by the agreement and in respect of which the promissory notes were given. They hold that, as such, it is recoverable by the respondent, and that the appeal should be dismissed. But this amendment will entail the consequence that inasmuch as the respondent has sued for a part only of the total sum due, he cannot bring a fresh action for the remainder

Their Lordships will, therefore, humbly advise His Majesty that the appeal should be dismissed but without costs.

Appeal dismissed.

Solicitors for the Appellants: Messrs. Blyth, Dutton, Hartley & Blyth.

Solicitors for the Respondents: Messrs. Holman, Birdwood & Co.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

CIVIL MISCELLANEOUS APPEAL NO. 18 OF 1914.

August 11, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Kendall, A. J. C.

SAHEB DIN—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

JANG BAHADUR SINGH—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Ejectment—Possession—Graveyard.

The plaintiff succeeded in ejecting the defendant through the Rent Court from 5 out of 13 biswas of land, and was referred to the Civil Court in respect of the remaining 8 biswas which were found to be a graveyard as alleged by the defendant. Subsequently on the plaintiff's suing the defendant in the Civil Court for possession of these 8 biswas, the defendant pleaded that the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit, inasmuch as he was the plaintiff's tenant in respect of the 13 biswas and as in respect of these 8 biswas all that remained to be determined was the nature of the tenancy:

Held, that the defendant not having admitted his tenancy with respect to the 8 biswas in suit, no question of the determination of tenancy was involved in the case, and that the real question for decision being the existence or non-existence of a custom of burying bodies in the 8 biswas, interfering with the exercise of the plaintiff's proprietary rights, the suit was properly brought in the Civil Court.

Appeal against the order of the Subordinate Judge, Bara Banki, dated 16th April 1914, reversing that of the Munsif, Fatehpur, District Bara Banki, dated 14th November 1913.

Babu Rajeshwari Prasad, for the Appellant.

Pandit Gokaran Nath Misra and Babu Sarju Prasad holding brief of Mr. E. Manual, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The plaintiff, now respondent, attempted to eject the defendant, now appellant, in the Rent Court from 13 biswas of land. To the extent of 5 biswas he was successful. As for the other 8 biswas the defendant pleaded that it was a graveyard in possession of himself and his ancestors from the time they were themselves zemindars of the village, and the Revenue Courts declined to eject him but referred the plaintiff to the Civil Court. The view which the Revenue Courts took will be clearly seen from the copy of the Commissioner's judgment, which is upon this record. The plaintiff then brought this suit in the Civil Court for possession. The defendant has replied that he was a tenant of the plaintiff in respect of the 13 biswas and that in respect of these 8 biswas all that remains to be determined is the nature of the tenancy which he alleges is a matter for the Revenue Courts. The Court of first instance upheld his contention, and dismissed the suit. The lower Appellate Court found that the suit was properly brought in the Civil Court and remanded the case for trial on the merits. Hence this appeal.

The finding at which the lower Appellate Court has arrived is correct. It is a mere perversion of words to say that the defendant admits his tenancy and that a declaration at to the nature of that tenancy alone is called for. What the defendant has in effect pleaded is the existence of a custom by which he and his ancestors from the time when they were proprietors themselves have had the right to bury bodies in this piece of land in the village, and the existence or non-existence of such a custom, interfering with the exercise of proprietary rights by the zemindar, is the question which is before the Court to determine in this suit.

The appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dimissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 372 OF 1913.

September 2, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Oldfield and Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar.

GANDLA PEDDA NAGANNA AND OTHERS—PLAINTIFFS—APPELLANTS

versus

SIVANAPPA AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), s. 42, object of—Declaratory decree, when granted—Discretion—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. II, r. 2—Cause of action for declaratory suits Suits based on different titles, if separately maintainable.

It is a matter entirely within the discretion of the Court to grant or refuse declarations under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act.

The object of the section is merely to perpetuate and strengthen testimony regarding the title of the plaintiff so that adverse attacks on it may not weaken it.

Whenever evidence is being created which might ultimately result in disturbing the title of the plaintiff, he will have a cause of action to sue under section 42.

Where a suit with regard to certain property is based on a certain title, the plaintiff is not debarred by Order II, r. 2, from suing to recover some other property on some other ground.

Thakurain Jaipal Kunwar v. Bhaiya Indar Bahadur Singh, 31 I. A. 67; 8 C. W. N. 465; 14 M. L. J. 149; 6 Bom. L.R. 495; 26 A. 238(P.C.); Kathama Natchiar v. Dorasinga Tevar, 2 I. A. 169; 23 W. R. 314; 15 B.L.R. 83 (P.C.); Chinnasawmy Mudaliar v. Ambalavana Mudaliar, 29 M. 48; Harendra Lal Roy Chowdhry v. Nawab Salim-ul-lah Bahadur, 7 Ind. Cas. 21; 12 C. L. J. 336, Shiv Ram Chintaman v. Jiru, 13 B. 34, Gray v. Mathias, (1800) 31 Eng. Rep. 591; 5 Ves. Jr.) 286; 5 R. R. 48, Bromley v. Holland, (1802) 7 Ves. (Jr.) 3 at pp. 21, 22; 32 Eng. Rep. 2 at p. 9; 6 R. R. 58 at p. 65, followed.

Raja Nilmony Singh Deo Bahadur v. Kalee Churn Bhattacharjee, 4 B. L. R. 382 (P.C.); 23 W. R. 150; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 447; 3 Suth P. C. J. 77; 2 I. A. 83; Deokali Koer v. Kedar Nath, 15 Ind. Cas. 427; 16 C. W. N. 838; 39 C. 704; Vijiasamy Tevar v. Sasivarma Tevar, 28 M. 560; 15 M. L. J. 469, Nurdin v. Allardin, 12 M. 134; Pirthi Pal Kunwar v. Guman Kunwar, 17 C. 933 (P. C.); 17 I. A. 107, distinguished.

Bhujendro Bushan Chatterjee v. Trigunanath Mookerjee, 8 C. 761; Sheo Singh Rai v. Dakho, 5 I. A. 87; 1 A. 688; 2 C. L. R. 193; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 529; 3 Saraswati's P. C. J. 807, Sree Narain Mitter v. Srimutty Kishen Sundari Dassee, 11 B. L. R. 171 (P. C.); 19 W. R. 133; Supp. I. A. 149, referred to.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the District Judge of Kurnool, in Appeal Suit No. 162 of 1912, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Kurnool, in Original Suit No. 1041 of 1911.

Mr. M. O. Parthasarathy Aiyangar, for the Appellants.

Mr. N. A. Vaidyanatha Aiyar for Mr. C. V. Ananthakrishna Aiyar, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

OLDFIELD, J.—The lower Appellate Court has dismissed this suit on the pleadings on the grounds that (1) it is barred under Order II, rule 2, of the Code of Civil Procedure, (2) that it is not maintainable as framed.

The material facts are as follows: The plaintiffs claim the suit property and are in possession of it as reversioners of Nagisetti. The (1st and 2nd) defendants' husband and wife have also been claiming it as reversioners, but under a different title derived from one Veeranna. In Original Suit No. 651 of 1910 the 1st defendant obtained a decree against the 2nd defendant for a declaration of his title as Veeranna's reversioner, her mother having been the last person in possession of the property. In Original Suit No. 298 of 1911 the present plaintiffs obtained a decree against the present defendants, declaring their right as reversioners of Nagisetti to certain properties other than those now in suit. Original Suit 651 was pending when Original Suit No. 298 was filed, but was decided before it.

The objection to the suit with reference to Order II, rule 2, is based on the fact that the properties now sued for were in the defendants' possession when Original Suit No. 298 was filed, but have, as the plaintiffs allege, come into their own possession subsequently. The plaintiffs' suit is for a declaration that the decree in Original Suit No. 651 was collusive and has no effect so far as they and the suit properties in their hands are concerned; and the contention is that they should have asked for this relief in Orignial Suit No. 298 of 1911 and, therefore, cannot ask for it now. The learned District Judge argued that, because they were out of possession of these as well as the other properties, for which they did sue, their cause of action was available for both, and they should have sued for possession of the whole estate. But they are not suing now on any cause of action directly connected with possession, since they have succeeded in enforcing their right to it otherwise. Their present cause of action, the alleged cloud on their title created by the decree in Original Suit No. 651, is a distinct grievance, which moreover arose after Original Suit No. 298 was filed, and, therefore, could not have been pleaded in it. In these circumstances there can be no objection to the plaintiffs claiming now what they could not have claimed before. This objection accordingly is invalid.

This conclusion affects the learned District Judge's argument regarding the maintainability of the suit, because he explained plaintiffs' failure to ask for what he considered the appropriate relief, a general declaration of their title, by reference to his finding that Order II, rule 2, debarred them from doing so. This explanation would, however, have in any case been useless, because their suit, as brought, must necessarily have involved their establishing (1) their title, since their right to sue must be conditional on their establishing it, and (2) other particular facts entitling them to have the decree declared of no effect.

The more serious objection to the suit is stated by the learned District Judge as being that the "decree in Original Suit No. 651 cannot and does not purport to bind the plaintiffs and that they cannot ask the Court to grant a bootless declaration in respect of a matter which is self-evident." Before dealing with the correctness of this conclusion, I observe that no authority has been shown for treating it, as the learned District Judge has done, as negativing the right to sue directly and not merely as ground for the exercise of the Court's discretion to refuse the declaratory relief asked for. It is in fact relevant only as the latter.

That the decree in Original Suit No. 651 binds only the parties to it, the defendants, is, of course, self-evident. But it does not follow that the declaration asked for by the plaintiffs regarding it will be without effect. For it will enable them, if they obtain it, to frustrate the efforts which the 1st defendant may be expected to make to obtain delivery of the property in execution against the 2nd defendant and prevent their being left, if the 1st defendant is successful, to regain possession by an application under Order XXI, rule 100, of the Code of Civil Procedure, or perhaps eventually by a suit. It is relevant that the 1st defendant's pleading in no way disclaims his right to take such action. Vide Thakurain Jaipal Kunwar v. Bhaiya Indar Bahadur Singh (1). For he alleged the validity of his decree and of his title under Veeranna, denying the validity of the plaintiffs' title under Nagisetti. And apart from this indication of the defendants' intentions, the presumption must be against them, since they are in no better position than the holder of an instrument alleged to be void, of whom it has been said, "if an instrument ought not to be used or enforced, it is against conscience for the party holding it to retain it, since he can only retain it for some sinister purpose." (Vide Story's Equity Jurisprudence, 13th Edition, I, 10.) And this is not to be restricted to transactions to which the plaintiff is a party. For the learned author proceeds: "If it is a negotiable instrument, it may be used for a fraudulent and improper purpose to the injury of a third party."

Most of the decisions relating to declarations deal with claims to relief in that form in order to the protection of an existing title against repetition of direct denials of it, which have already taken place, and turn on the plaintiff's possession of an interest entitling him to sue or on the possibility of his asking for consequential relief; and they are not of assistance here, where it must be assumed that the plaintiffs have title and possession and there can be no question of their duty to ask for the latter. Here the sole question is whether the possible danger to be averted by the declaration asked for is so clear and immediate that the Court should use its discretion to grant it. The cases do not suggest any test of general application, but have been decided on the particular circumstances of each; and it is natural that this should be so. It is then possible only to consider how the Court's discretion was exercised in those the circumstances of which resemble most closely those before us.

(1) 31 I. A. 67; 8 C. W. N. 465; 14 M. L. J. 149; 6 Bom. L. R. 495; 26 A. 238 (P. C.).

In the case of Raja Nilmony Singh Deo Bahadur v. Kalee Churn Bhuttacharjee (2) it was observed that plaintiff could not have a declaration for future use in consequence of a mere assertion, which might (for all that appeared) have been oral, but that one might have been granted if he had been applying for the cancellation of a deed impugning his title; and in Kathama Natchiar v. Dorasinga Tevar (3) the Court, whilst refusing a declaration, when the defendant had merely evinced hostility by granting power-of-attorney to an agent in order that he might assist in frustrating the plaintiff's claim to a zemindari, said that its decision would not preclude his impeaching any actual diversion of the succession to his prejudice. In Chinnasawmy Mudaliar v. Ambalavana Mudaliar (4) a declaration was granted regarding an adoption, though it had not been alleged by any party to it in any proceedings by or against the plaintiff. In Harendra Lal Roy Chowdhry v. Nawab Salimullah Bahadur (5) the Court made a declaration re- garding a revenue sale, though the plaintiff was not the defaulter, and observed: "It has been suggested that the plaintiff . . . might have waitedtill his title was challenged. In our opinion the plaintiff was not bound to wait till he actually found himself in jeopardy.....It is perfectly true that . . . . . the cloud (on his title) must be cast, before he can ask for its removal; he must allege and prove hostility on the part of the defendant, for no Court will move on purely speculative grounds," and held that the sale had been brought about to annul the encumbrances of the tenure-holders, of whom the plaintiff was one, and that he was, therefore, entitled to relief. None of these cases, in which the Court interfered or would have interfered, was stronger than the present.

I refer next to two cases, in which the facts were very similar to those now in question. The defendants in each were the persons responsible for a sale under a mortgage decree, to which the plaintiff was not a party, of property which he claimed and of which he was in possession. It is not a valid ground of distinction that in those cases the danger apprehended was a delivery after a sale, whilst here it is one under a decree. For in them also the delivery would be made without notice to the plaintiff. In one of these cases, Deokali Koer v. Kedar Nath (6), it was said that "none of the declarations claimed were expressed as declarations of the plaintiff's right to property and that, though the proposition, at which he aimed, might be in some measure involved in those declarations, that was not what is sanctioned by section 42." This would, it might have been supposed, have been reason for dismissing the suit for declaration alone. It was, however, treated only as entailing only that the plaintiff had implicitly asked for an injunction and must pay Court-fee for that relief. In these circumstances it is not clear what the Court intended to lay down in the statement quoted, and I, therefore, prefer to follow Shivram Chintaman v. Jivu (7) in which it was held that, when the plaintiff's title was denied in proceedings to which he was a stranger, he was entitled to sue and need not wait till he was dispossessed.

Lastly Vijiasamy Tevar v. Sasivarma Tevar (8) has been much relied on by the defendants for the position that a declaration should not be granted when the transaction to be declared invalid would on plaintiff's own allegations be but a brutum fulmen against him. That decision turned mainly on the vexatious nature of the plaintiff's suit and the Court's inherent right to prevent abuse of its process by dismissing it. But, so far as it proceeded on the ground referred to, it is distinguishable from the case before us. There the Court recognized that if the party alleging an adoption pretended that the conditions, which would validate it, existed, the person affected by it should be allowed to impeach it; but it held that the adoption attacked by the plaintiff was so totally nugatory from his point of view that it would be futile to make it the subject of judicial investigation. Here the decree

(2) 2 I. A. 83; 14 B. L. R. 382 (P.C.); 23 W. R. 150; 3 Sar. P. C. J. 447; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 77.
(3) 2 I. A. 169; 23 W. R. 314; 15 B. L. R. 83(P. C.).
(4) 29 M. 48.
(5) 7 Ind. Cas. 21; 12 C. L. J. 336.
(6) 15 Ind. Cas. 427; 16 C. W. N. 838; 39 C. 704.
(7) 13 B. 34.
(8) 28 M. 560; 15 M. L. J. 469.

between the defendants will be in no way nugatory with reference to the plaintiffs' right, notwithstanding that they were not parties to it. For, as already pointed out, the Court will have no choice but to order a delivery under it, and will have no right to hear the plaintiffs' objection before doing so. In the one class of cases it cannot be supposed that the Court would act on the transaction at all; in the other it is clear that it would be able and likely to do so to the prejudice of a third party, the plaintiff, until it could hear him. I may point the distinction by reference to Gray v. Mathias (9) and Bromley v. Holland (10), the Court observing in the latter: "It is not just to consider the instrument, merely having regard to the question, whether the demand can be directly founded on it; for an instrument, which apparently, though not really, (which must be shown by circumstances, dehors) creates an incumbrance, may by being produced defeat the ends of justice.....I do not go to the length, that if it is clear that no use can be made of the instrument, that is ground enough for the equitable jurisdiction to take it out of the possession of the party who can make no use of it beneficial to himself: but if a use may be made of it prejudicial to another, I should have an inclination to support the jurisdiction transfer the possession of it."

The law standing thus I hold that the lower Court might properly, on proof of the plaintiffs' allegations, use its discretion to grant the declaration they claim. The appeal must, therefore, be allowed and the lower Courts' decree set aside, the appeal being remanded for re-admission and disposal on the merits in the light of the foregoing.

Costs in this Court will be costs in the case.

SESHAGIRI AIYAR, J.—The facts in this second appeal are fully stated in the judgment of my learned colleague which I have had the advantage of reading. I shall deal very briefly with the two questions of law which were argued before us.

The first suit was based on the title of the plaintiffs to succeed as reversioners and it admittedly did not include the present property. If the plaintiffs sued upon the same title to recover possession of the plaint property, there is no doubt that Order II, rule 2, would be a bar. But they got possession afterwards and their present complaint is that the defendants are setting up a false title to it which has necessitated their seeking the aid of the Court. If the contention of the respondents were to prevail, it would involve this, namely, that a plaintiff claiming to recover possession of the property must also pray that he should be protected against all possible violations of his right in future in respect of that property. It would be futile to file a suit of that nature and the Court would have rejected it at once. The lower Appellate Court was, therefore, wrong in holding that the suit was barred by Order II, rule 2.

The more important question which the Judge has dealt with in less detail relates to the maintainability of the suit under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act. I do not agree with his view of the averments in the plaint. He is apparently inclined to hold that if the plaintiffs sued for a declaration regarding their title, the suit would lie; but he reads the plaint as not asking for such a declaration. Reading prayers (1) and (2) of the plaint, I have no doubt that the plaintiffs asked for declarations that the property in suit belongs to them as the reversioners of Nagi Setti, that the defendants have no manner of title thereto, and that the decree collusively obtained behind their backs by the 1st defendant against defendants Nos. 2 and 3 is not binding on them. The real point for decision is whether a suit of this nature is competent. I shall refer very briefly to the history of the legislation which resulted in the enactment of section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, as that will show what classes of cases the Legislature intended to bring within its operation.

As was pointed out by Wilson, J., in Bhujendro Bushan Chatterjee v. Trigunanath Mookerjee (11), under the English Law a suit for a bare declaration did not lie, unless the party suing could show that he was entitled to some further relief as a result of the declaration. The rule of English Law was in force as a rule of equity and good conscience in this country, until the enactment of section 15 of Act VIII of 1859; that section ran thus:—"No suit shall be open to objection on the ground that a merely declaratory decree or order is sought thereby: and it shall be lawful for the Civil Courts to make binding declarations of right without granting consequential relief." Even after this section the earlier decisions were to the effect, following the principle of English Law already referred to that unless there was a right to some consequential relief which if asked for might have been given by the same Court or unless it was required as a preliminary to obtaining reliefs in some other Court, the Courts should refuse to grant a bare declaration. See Kathama Natchiar v. Dorasinga Tevar (3); Sheo Singh Rai v. Dakho (12); Sree Narain Mitter v. Sreemutty Kishen Sundari Dassee (13).

(9) (1800) 5 Ves. (Jr.) 286; 5 R. R. 48; 31 Eng. Rep. 591.

(10) (1802) 7 Ves. (Jr.) 3 atpp. 21, 22; 32 Eng. Rep. 2 at p. 9; 6 R. R. 58 at p. 65.

(11) 8 C. 761.

The Specific Relief Act was afterwards passed which undoubtedly widened the scope of the remedy. Under section 42 of that Act the plaintiff has only to show that he has some legal character or some right to property and that his opponent is either denying or interested in denying such legal character or title. The object of the section is really to perpetuate and strengthen testimony regarding the title of the plaintiff so that adverse attacks upon it may not weaken it. The policy of the Legislature is not only to secure to a wronged party possession of the property taken away from him, but also to see that he is allowed to enjoy that property peacefully. In other words, if a cloud is cast upon his title or legal character, he is entitled to seek the aid of the Court to dispel that cloud.

What we have to consider in this case is whether the decree obtained by the 1st defendant against the 2nd defendant denies the plaintiff's title to his property. It has been said that it is not the function of the Court to enunciate abstract truisms of law. Following that reasoning it may be argued that as the fraudulent decree can in no way affect plaintiffs' rights, the Court should not lend itself to the task of declaring what is obviously indisputable. But although the decree may not affect plaintiffs' rights in præsenti, it is evidence which, if allowed to stand, may result at some future time in disturbing plaintiffs' title. I think that is a sufficient grievance which the Courts should remedy under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act.

Coming to decided cases, in Nurdin v. Allardin (14) a patta was antedated and affixed to the plaintiff's house. The learned Judges held this was not an infringement of the plaintiff's title and that he had no cause of action to sue. This case sounds as if it were an echo of the rulings under section 15 of Act VIII of 1859. The decision in Vijiasamy Tevar v. Sasivarma Tevar (8) cannot be explained away on the same ground. It lays down that it is not every fabrication of evidence that would enable a plaintiff to come before a Court of Law to claim a declaration. But the learned Judges who decided this case were parties to the decision reported as Chinnasawmy Mudaliar v. Ambalavana Mudaliar (4). In the latter case, an adoption was set up which had not the immediate effect of injuring the plaintiff's title. The adoptee was creating evidence which might at some future time throw doubts upon the plaintiff's title. The learned Judges held that that was a proper case for granting a declaration under the Specific Relief Act. Thus, so far as Madras is concerned, the latest authority is in favour of the position that wherever evidence is being created which might ultimately result in disturbing the title of the plaintiff, he will have a cause of action to sue under section 42. The decision of the Judicial Committee in Pirthi Pal Kunwar v. Guman Kunwar (15) looks on the face of it as if it is opposed to the view taken in Chinnasawmy Mudaliar v. Ambalavana Mudaliar(4). In that case a Talukdar died leaving a son and widow, this son afterwards died leaving a widow who succeeded to the estate. It was held by the Privy Council that the suit of the widow in possession for declaration that an adoption made by her mother-in-law was invalid, should be dismissed. Sir Barnes Peacock in delivering the judgment of the Committee referred with approval to the statement of law contained in Sree Narain Mitter v. Sreemutty Kishen Sundari Dassee (13) and stated that "all that is suggested by the learned Counsel on (12) 5 I. A. 87; 1 A. 688; 2 C. L. R. 193; 3 Suth. P. C. J. 529; 3 Saraswati's P. C. J. 807.

(13) 11 B. L. R 171; 19 W. R. 133 (P. C.); Supp. I. A. 149.

(14) 12 M. 134.

(15) 17 C. 933 (P. C.); 17 I. A. 107.

the part of the appellant in support of a declaratory decree is this: that at some time or other after the death of the present plaintiff the person, who according to the plaintiff's contention is not an adopted son, may by some means, either by an act of the Government or otherwise, obtain possession as an adopted son." This was held not to be a sufficient ground for granting the declaration prayed for. Reading the judgment carefully I am of opinion that what the Judicial Committee intended to lay down was that it was a matter of discretion in such cases whether a declaration should be granted or not. The decision cannot be regarded as laying down that a suit to avert a possible apprehended danger will not lie.

I, therefore, agree in the conclusion of my learned colleague that the suit is maintainable.

Appeal allowed; Suit remanded.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

RENT APPEALS NOS. 6 TO 48 OF 1914.

June 25, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Kanhaiya Lal, A. J. C.

Musammat MAHADEI KUAR—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

SANT BAKHSH SINGH AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Oudh Rent Act (XXII of 1886), ss. 126, 138—Intervenor—Good faith—Rent, payment of—Joint tenants—Co-sharer, right of, to collect his share of rent separately—Recovery of co-sharer's fractional share of rent, suit for, not maintainable—Division of joint lands or tenants necessary—Tenant paying rent to one co-sharer alone, released from further liability.

In cases under section 138 of the Oudh Rent Act the main question for consideration is, whether the tenants paid the rents for the period in suit to the intervenor in good faith and whether the intervenor was in actual receipt and enjoyment of the rents from the tenants previous to the receipt of the rents sued for.

In the case of joint tenants, it is not open to a co-sharer to collect his share of the rents separately till the lands or tenants are divided. A suit by a co-sharer to recover his fractional share of rents is not maintainable under section 126 of the Oudh Rent Act.

Mahadeo Singh v. Bachu Singh, 11 A. 224; A. W. N. (1889) 87, referred to.

Unless an arrangement between the co-sharers of a village amounts to a division of the joint lands or of the tenants concerned, the payment of rents by the tenants to any of the co-sharers, on whose behalf they are cultivating the joint lands, is sufficient to release them from further liability.

Appeals from the decrees of the District Judge, Lucknow, dated 23rd December 1913, reversing the orders of the Assistant Collector, Bara Banki, dated 26th September 1913.

Pandit Gokaran Nath Misra and Mr. Mohammad Wasim, for the Appellant.

Mr. Mumtaz Husain, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—These appeals arise out of certain suits brought by Musammat Mahadei Kuar for her half share of the rents due by certain tenants of Mauza Sardaha for 1317 to 1319 Fasli. The tenants pleaded payment to Musammat Bahu Rani, who was impleaded under section 138 of the Oudh Rent Act. The Court of first instance found that the rents of seven tenants used to be realized by Musammat Mahadei Kuar and of the rest by Musammat Bahu Rani. It gave a decree to the plaintiff for the rents claimed as against the remainder. Both the parties appealed to the District Judge of Lucknow, who came to the finding that Musammat Mahadei Kuar had no interest in the village and no right to collect the rents and dismissed her suits.

He found that there were indications of an arrangement having been at one time arrived at between the ladies, informally permitting each of them to collect half the rents of the village, but there was nothing to prevent Musammat Bahu Rani from asserting her exclusive right afterwards in defiance of that arrangement. Musammat Mahadei Kuar appeals.

In cases under section 138 of the Oudh Rent Act the main question for consideration is, whether the tenants paid the rents for the periods in suit to the intervenor in good faith and whether the intervenor was in actual receipt and enjoyment of the rents from the tenants previous to the receipt of the rents sued for.

The finding of the learned District Judge on the point is not quite clear, but it is not necessary to remand the case, for there is no allegation that the tenants or plots were divided.

The history of this family dates from as far back as 1857, when the estate of Raja Hardat

Singh of Bandi was confiscated by the British Government for complicity in the Mutiny.

The Raja died shortly afterwards leaving two sons, Mahesh Bakhsh Singh and Mahabir Bakhsh Singh, who left Bahraich and settled in Fyzabad. In 1880, Raja Sarabjit Singh, Taluqdar of Ramnagar, who was related to the Raja of Bandi, took pity on them and invited them to live in Mauza Sardaha, District Bahraich, and made a grant of that village to Raja Mahesh Bakhsh Singh, the eldest member of the family, for the purpose of maintenance. Whether that grant was personal to Raja Mahesh Bakhsh Singh or to the members of the family is a matter on which the parties are now at contest. Mahesh Bakhsh Singh and Mahabir Singh were then living jointly and it is not disputed that they continued to do so till their deaths. Mahesh Bakhsh Singh died in 1896, leaving a widow Musammat Bahu Rani and a son Swami Bakhsh Singh, who was then a minor. The management of the estate was carried on, after the death of Mahesh Bakhsh Singh, by Mahabir Bakhsh Singh. Swami Bakhsh Singh died shortly afterwards in 1309 Fasli, and Mahabir Bakhsh Singh died four years later. For some time Musammat Bahu Rani, the mother of Swami Bakhsh Singh, and widow of Mahabir Bakhsh Singh jointly carried on the management of the estate and co-operated in filing suits for arrears of rent against defaulting tenants and applying for their ejectment in their joint names. Some disputes appear, however, to have cropped up between them afterwards, and each of these ladies tried to collect rents separately from such tenants as each could influence. Criminal proceedings were then started under section 107 of the Code of Criminal Procedure by the tenants, supporting the claims of each of the ladies, against the agents and servants of the other, charging them with making forcible attempts to collect rents.

On the 22nd May 1907 the servants of Musammat Mahadei Kuar were bound over to prevent a breach of the peace and a certain amount of quietude was restored. The nature of claims, which each of these ladies was then setting up, is not quite clear, but it seems probable that each of them was claiming the whole estate, Musammat Bahu Rani claiming it as the mother of her deceased son Swami Bakhsh Singh, and Musammat Mahadei Kuar as the widow of the last surviving male member of the family. The arrangement referred to by the learned District Judge is said to have been made at or about that time with the object of settling the dispute by permitting each of these ladies to collect a half share of the rents or to divide the collections in equal shares. But the arrangement does not appear to have been afterwards adhered to. The learned District Judge observed that Musammat Bahu Rani collected her half share of the rents for 1317 Fasli to 1319 Fasli, but attempts by Musammat Mahadei Kuar to collect her half share for those years were resisted. Musammat Bahu Rani now professes to have collected that share herself. It is significant that the tenants in the village did not receive their holding either from Musammat Mahadei Kuar or from Musammat Bahu Rani. They were cultivating the lands from before, and in view of the disputed rights of inheritance as between the ladies, it is extremely undesirable that they should be allowed to suffer or made to pay the rent twice over. One of these tenants, Sant Bakhsh Singh, had, by a compromise filed by him in an ejectment proceeding taken out by Musammat Bahu Rani and Musammat Mahadei Kuar, expressly agreed that he would hold the land on behalf of the said ladies in the same way as he originally held on behalf of Raja Sarabjit Singh, and his disavowal of the rights of Musammat Mahadei Kuar, under the circumstances, appears to be inexcusable. In the case of joint tenants, it is not, however, open to a co-sharer to collect his share of the rents separately till the land or tenants are divided. A suit by a co-sharer to recover his fractional share of rent is not maintainable under section 126 of the Oudh Rent Act. In Mahadeo Singh v. Bachu Singh (1), a suit by some of the co-sharers in a joint and undivided mahal for a declaration of their title to receive a proportionate share of the rent payable by the tenants and for the recovery of such proportionate share of rent was held to be barred by the provisions of section 106 of the N. W. P. Rent Act, in the absence of a local custom or express contract authorising such suits. The arrangement of which the learned District Judge found indications, was an arrangement made by the ladies themselves, to which the tenants were no parties, and, unless such an arrangement amounted to a division of the joint lands or of the tenants concerned, the payment of rents by tenants to any of the co-sharers, on whose behalf they were cultivating the joint land, was sufficient to release them from further liability. The tenants pleaded payment of the rents claimed to Musammat Bahu Rani who admitted their receipt. The remedy of the plaintiff under the circumstances is to sue Musammat Bahu Rani for her share of the rents.

(1) 11 A. 224; A. W. N. (1889) 87.

The appeals are, therefore, dismissed with costs.

Appeals dismissed.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 2669 OF 1913.

November 5, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Hannay.

KUTTAYAKATH VIRA VARMA VALIA RAJAH AVERGAL—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

ERINHAL KARUVANTA VALAPPIL AYISOUMMA, BY HER Muktiarnamadar KUNHI MAYAN, AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS Nos. 1 TO 8 AND 11 TO 14—RESPONDENTS.

Religious trust Trustee, power of, to alienate corpus of trust fund for repairs—Manager of joint Hindu family and trustee, powers of, if similar.

There is no difference between the rights of the alienee from the manager of a joint Hindu family and one from the trustee of a religious trust. Though ordinarily a trustee of a temple should not alienate the corpus of the trust fund by way of mortgage or sale, but should try his best to raise the sum required for the necessary purposes of the temple, such as repairs, by public subscriptions or by curtailment of other expenditure, yet an alienation made by the trustee for such a purpose is perfectly valid, if the alienee advances the money after making bona fide inquiries and satisfying himself as to the necessity for raising the funds required by the alienation in question.

Nallayappa Pillian v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi, 27 M. 465 at p. 472 (F. B.); 14 M. L. J. 81, referred to.

Konwar Doorganath Roy v. Ram Chunder Sen, 4 I. A. 52 at pp. 62, 63; 2 C. 341 (P. C.), followed.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinte Judge of North Malabar, in Appeal Suit No. 25 of 1912, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Cannanore, in Original Suit No. 526 of 1910.

FACTS.—The suit was instituted by the Valia Raja and manager of the Kattayam Kizhake Kovilagam to set aside a kanom-deed executed by plaintiff's predecessor to defendants Nos. 1 to 8 in respect of the plaint properties which belonged to the Kuzhimbil, devasom owned by the plaintiff's Kovilagam and to recover possession of the same. The question in the case was whether the kanom demise was for proper devasom purposes and binding on the properties of the devasom. The first Court held that no proper necessity had been made out and gave the plaintiff a decree as sued for. On appeal, the Subordinate Judge found that the Kuzhimbil temple stood in need of urgent repairs and that the kanom was executed for raising the amount required for effecting such repairs and held that it was binding on the temple. He further held that, even if the amount so raised was utilised by plaintiff's predecessor for his own private purposes, yet inasmuch as the defendants believed in good faith that the amount was required for repairing the temple and advanced the same in that belief, the kanom was binding on the temple. He, therefore, dismissed the suit. From this latter decree the plaintiff preferred the above second appeal.

Mr. C. V. Ananthakrishna Aiyar, for the Appellant:—According to Malabar Law, the corpus of the property belonging to a devasom cannot be encumbered at all. Even such pressing necessity as repairs to the temple is no excuse, as the same must be met from the current income. Nallayappa Pillian v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi (1).

Mr. J. L. Rosario, for the Respondents:—The observations in Nallayappa Pillian v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannadhi (1) are very wide. The alienee from the trustee or manager of a temple stands in exactly the same position as an alienee from the manager of a joint Hindu family. The only requisite is that bona fide enquiries should have been made by the alienee and he must have satisfied himself as to the existence of necessity. Kanwar

(1) 27 M. 465 at p. 472 (F. B.); 14 M. L. J. 81.

Doorganath Roy v. Ram Chunder Sen (2). The lower Appellate Court has found the existence of necessity. The alienation must, therefore, be upheld.

JUDGMENT.—While the observations in Nalliyappa Pillian v. Ambalavana Pandara Sannadi (1) are entitled to very great respect and while trustees of religious temple trust property should not ordinarily alienate by mortgage or sale any portion of the corpus of the properties belonging to the temple, but ought to try their best to raise public subscriptions or to curtail expenditure in order to obtain moneys required for repairs of the temple, we think that we are bound by the observations of their Lordships of the Privy Council in Kanwar Doorganath Roy v. Ram Chunder Sen (2) that there is no difference between the rights of the alienee from the manager of a Hindu joint family and the alienee from the trustee of a religious trust, and that provided bona fide inquiries as to the necessity of the repairs of the temple were made by the alienee and he was satisfied on such inquiries as to the necessity for raising money for such repairs by the alienation proposed to him, the alienation in his favour must be upheld.

The second appeal is dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed

(2) 4 I. A. 52 at pp. 62, 63; 2 C. 341 (P. C.).

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 99 OF 1913.

November 13, 1914.

Present:—Sir Charles Fox, KT., Chief Judge.

MA THA AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

P. L. M. M. CHETTY FIRM—PLAINTIFFS—RESPONDENTS.

Appeal, second—Concurrent findings of Lower Courts based on no evidence—High Court, power of interference—Plaint, signing and verification of—Practice—Parties not getting summons served on witnesses—Court, power of—Procedure.

Where the lower Appellate Court gives a decree not based on evidence, it is a substantial defect or error in the procedure of that Court which entitles the High Court to interfere in second appeal.

Hamanta Kumari Debi v. Brojendra Kishore Roy Chowdhry, 17 C. 875; 17 I. A. 65 (P. C.), followed.

Judges are bound to see that plaints are signed by persons authorised to sign them and that verifications are not treated as mere formalities.

When parties do not get summonses served on their witnesses in time for them to appear on the day of hearing, the Judge should proceed to deal with the case on the materials at the time before him.

Mr. Anklesaria, for the Appellant.

Mr. Chari, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.—The suit was for Rs. 950 due on a promissory note for Rs. 500, dated the 20th November 1905, and was filed on the 20th July 1910. It is prima facie time-barred, but two sums of interest were alleged to have been paid by the defendants viz., Rs. 60 on the 19th May 1906 and Rs. 50 on the 21st July 1907, the latter of which saved the bar of limitation.

Much carelessness in procedure is displayed by the record. In the plaint, the plaintiff or plaintiffs is or are described as P. L. M. M. Muthayah Chetty, a firm carrying on business of money-lender in partnership at Pyapon by the managing partner Sattappah Chetty, residing in Dedaye now at Pyapon.

Sattappah Chetty was not examined at any stage of the case. He signed the plaint as "Power-holder" and he alone signed the verification which is as follows:—

"We the plaintiffs declare that what is stated in the plaint paragraphs Nos. 1, 2, 3 are true to our knowledge and paragraphs Nos. 4 and 5 true to our belief." If this was correct he must have been called as a witness, but he was not; he was not even called upon to produce the power-of-attorney which his signature be-tokened he held. Judges are bound to see that plaints are signed by persons authorized to sign them, and that verifications are not treated as mere formalities.

The promissory note sued on was not produced in Court until nearly eleven months after the suit was filed; this was another non-observance of prescribed procedure which should not have been allowed by the Judge if he had been careful. Many postponements and adjournments were allowed which should not have been allowed. Most of them were because witnesses had not appeared. When the parties had not taken the trouble to get summonses served on their witnesses in time for them to appear on the day of hearing, the Judge should have proceeded to deal with the case on the materials at the time before him. One long adjournment was granted to suit the convenience of the parties and witnesses and because the plaintiff (presumably Sattappa) was going to India on businsss. Three witnesses were examined for the plaintiff on the 9th June 1911. One was examined as to the Burmese handwriting on the promissory note. He said that he did not think the handwriting and signature on the note were those of the male defendant; yet the note was admitted in evidence. The 2nd witness knows nothing about the case. The 3rd said he had made a translation from some account books produced before the Court. No one was called to say what these books were or whose they were, or whether they were books kept in the ordinary course of business, yet the translations were admitted in evidence. Another witness was examined on the 1st November 1911. He spoke not to the execution of the promissory note, but to the later payment of interest. At the time of payment he was a clerk in another Chetty firm and had been shown the promissory note by the plaintiff's Pleader shortly before he was called to give evidence. He professed to remember that the male defendant had written an endorsement on the note about the payment of the sum and that one of the female defendants had touched the pen. This man's evidence was obviously worthless.

On the 1st November 1911, that is nearly sixteen months after the suit was filed, a petition by one Chona Tamby, described as agent of P. L. M. M. Sattappa Chetty, was presented asking that a commission might be issued to Sivagunga District in Madras to take the evidence of P. L. M. M. Moothayah Chetty, the man who was alleged to have lent the money and taken the promissory note from the defendants, and of Murgappah Chetty, the man who wrote the note. Perhaps the strongest occurrence in the case is that the Advocate for the defendants did not object to the issue of the commission at that stage. The promissory note was not sent with the commission. There is no record of its having left the Court and neither Muthayah nor Moorgappah in the evidence said that the defendants signed or in any other way executed this promissory note then before them. No evidence has been given in the case proving the execution by the defendants of the particular note sued upon entitling it to admission in evidence. Yet both Courts have given a decree for the amount sued for on it.

This very simple suit in the Sub-Divisional Court dragged on from the 20th July 1910 until the 14th May 1912 or for nearly two years. The Divisional Judge confirmed the decree of the Sub-Divisional Judge. The course of thought of the Divisional Judge in his consideration of the case is difficult to follow. Most of his remarks tend to a conclusion that the suit should be dismissed, but finally he dismissed the appeal on the ground that he considered forgery of the note unlikely. He did not deal directly with the 2nd ground of appeal, which was that the lower Court erred in holding that the plaintiff had discharged the burden lying on him of proving that the promissory note had been executed by the defendants.

The defendants have filed an appeal to this Court from the decree of the Divisional Court only on the limited grounds set out in section 100. The defendants' Pleader relies on those stated in clause (c) viz:— "Substantial error or defect in the procedure provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force which may possibly have produced error or defect in the decision of the case on the merits." In my view there was no evidence given in the case which justified a Court in giving a decree for the amount due in the note; because execution of the note sued on was not spoken to or proved by any one.

In Hemanta Kumari Debi v. Brojendro Kishore Roy Chowdhry (1) their Lordships of the Privy Council held that where the lower Appellate Court had given a decree not based on evidence, this was a substantial error or defect in the procedure of that Court which entitled the High Court to interfere in second appeal under the provision in the Code of 1882 corresponding to section 100 of the present Code. This view of the scope of the provision justifies me in holding that where as in this case, there is absence of necessary evidence of execution of a document sued on and not admitted, clause (c) of section 100 of the Code justifies interference with the decrees of the lower Courts.

(1) 17 C. 575; 17 I. A. 65 (P. C.).

LALA SINGH v. HAZARI SINGH.

For these reasons I allow the appeal and reverse the decrees of both the lower Courts and dismiss the suit with costs.

The plaintiff firm must pay the defendants' costs in all the Courts.

Appeal allowed.

OUDH JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

RENT APPEAL NO. 4 OF 1914.

June 16, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Kanhaiya Lal, A. J. C., and Mr. Kendall, A. J. C.

LALA SINGH—DEFENDANT – APPELLANT

versus

HAZARI SINGH—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Oudh Rent Act (XXII of 1886), ss. 108 (2), 127 —Consent of landlord to tenant's occupation, absence of —Occupation, unauthorised—Rent, recovery of, suit for —Fair and equitable rent to be determined—Lawful occupation subsequently becoming unlawful, effect of—Withdrawal of consent previously given, effect of—Landlord's impossibility to have given consent at commencement of tenant's occupation, effect of—"Occupied," interpretation of—Suit for determination and recovery of rent, maintainability of.

In section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act the absence of consent refers to the period for which the rent is claimed, but where the occupation was by previous consent or was otherwise lawful, a mere withdrawal of the consent by the landlord does not bring the case within the purview of that section.

The object of section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act is to give a landlord the option of suing a trespasser in the Civil Court for possession and damages, or treating him for the period of his unauthorised occupation as a tenant and suing him for the recovery of rent at such rate as the Rent Court may consider fair and equitable.

An occupation which was lawful in its inception is not excluded from the operation of section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act if it subsequently became unlawful, in the same way as an occupation which began by consent cannot be included in it merely by the spasmodic withdrawal of that consent.

The defendant, while a co-sharer in a village, himself cultivated some land, and continued to do so without payment of any rent after his share was sold to the plaintiff, the land being such as could not have become an ex-proprietary holding. The plaintiff sued the defendant for arrears of rent for the period subsequent to the sale, under sections 127 and 108 of the Oudh Rent Act. It was not alleged that the plaintiff had given his consent to the defendant's occupation at or after the purchase:

Held, that, as the defendant's right as against the plaintiff to use and occupy the land and the plaintiff's right to claim rent therefor came into existence for the first time after the sale and as there was no occasion for the plaintiff to have given his consent to the defendant's occupation at its commencement, the plaintiff was entitled to have the rent determined under section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act and claim its recovery under section 108 (2) of that Act in one and the same suit.

Deputy Commissioner of Pertab Garh, Manager of Baragaon v. Sheoambar, 1 O. C. 28; Rani Jaibans Kuar v. Girdhari Tewari, 1 O. C. 40; and Deputy Commissioner of Fyzabad for Nanemau Estate v. Gur Dayal Singh, 17 Ind. Cas. 464; 15 O. C. 311, distinguished from.

Bhabhuti v. Kuar Sumer Singh, Select Decision No. 20 of 1892, referred to.

Appeal from the decree of the District Judge, Hardoi, dated 21st January 1914, upholding that of the Assistant Collector, Hardoi.

Babu Salig Ram, for the Appellant.

Babu Basdev Lal, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.

KANHAIYA LAL, A. J. C. The defendant was co-sharer of Mouza Bhadaicha. His share of the village was sold by auction prior to 1910 and was purchased by the plaintiff. At the time of the auction-sale he was cultivating some land from 1903 and he continued to cultivate the same thereafter without payment of any rent. His cultivation not having been of 12 years' standing, ex-proprietary rights could not have been acquired in respect of it. The present suit was brought by the plaintiff for arrears of rent for 1317 to 1319 Fasli in respect of that land under sections 108 and 127 of the Oudh Rent Act. The Courts below decreed the claims, holding that the defendant was in occupation of the land without the consent of the landlord. In appeal it is contended that the possession of the defendant dated from before the auction sale and, therefore, section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act was not applicable, and reliance is placed in support of the contention on Deputy Commissioner of Pertab Garh, Manager of Baragaon Estate v. Sheoambar (1), which was followed in Rani Jaibans Kuar v. Girdhari Tewari (2). Section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act provides for assessment of rent on persons occupying land without the consent of the landlord. The absence of consent refers to the period for which the rent is claimed, but where the occupation was by previous consent, or was otherwise lawful, a mere withdrawal of the consent by the landlord would not bring the case within the purview of section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act.

(1) 1 O. C. 28.
(2) 1 O. C. 40.

There might be cases where an occupation which originated by consent may lose its character as such and become unlawful, as by ejectment in the manner provided by law, but in such a case the resumption of possession after ejectment constitutes a re-entry and gives rise to a fresh cause of action.

The object of section 127 is to give a landlord the option of suing a trespasser in the Civil Court for possession and damages or treating him for the period of his unauthorized occupation as a tenant and suing him for the recovery of rent at such rate as the Rent Court may consider fair and equitable. There was no occasion in this case for the plaintiff to have given his consent to the occupation of the defendant at its commencement, because he was not then the owner of the land, and it is not alleged that he gave his consent to the defendant's occupation after the purchase.

In Deputy Commissioner of Pertab Garh, Manager of Baragaon Estate v. Sheoambar (1), Spankie, A. J. C., observed that section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act was not intended to meet the case of a person entering upon the land with the landlord's consent but remaining on it as against his will. But qua the plaintiff, the occupation of the defendant began from the date on which the property was sold and the sale confirmed, and if on that date or on any date subsequent to it, no consent was given by the landlord to the occupation of the defendant, rent could be claimed against him for the use and occupation of the land under section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act. An occupation which was lawful in its inception is not excluded from the operation of section 127 of the Act if it subsequently became unlawful, in the same way as an occupation which began by consent cannot be included in it merely by the spasmodic withdrawal of that consent.

In Rani Jaibans Kuar v. Girdhari Tewari (2) the defendant had been for years in the possession of certain plots in excess of those to which he was entitled, and on its being afterwards discovered by an Assistant Settlement Officer that he was in possession of more than he was entitled to, the landlord sought to treat him as a trespasser in regard to the portion of the land of which he was in possession in excess. Those plots having by long association and treatment became a part of the tenant's holding, section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act was held not to apply. In Deputy Commissioner of Fyzabad, for Nanemau Estate v. Gur Dayal Singh (3) negotiations were going on during the ejectment proceedings between the land-holder and the tenants for settling terms on which the tenants could be allowed to continue in occupation and counter-parts of leases were actually taken by the landlord from the tenants on the faith of which the tenants had withdrawn their objections to the ejectment, while formal leases were also prepared, though not signed, by the landlord. An ejectment taken out under those circumstances by the landlord was held to be a mere formality, which did not alter the character of the tenants' possession or make them a trespasser so as to bring the case within section 127 of the Oudh Rent Act.

The circumstances of the present case are entirely different and none of the above decisions, therefore, apply.

The right of the landlord to claim rent for the use and occupation of the land came into existence for the first time after the sale was confirmed, and as no consent was given by him at that time or afterwards, he is entitled to have the rent determined under section 127 and claim its recovery under section 108 of the Rent Act in one and the same suit. The appeal is, therefore, dismissed with costs.

KENDALL, A. J. C.—I agree. Considering the wording of the section, it cannot be said that "occupied" means merely "held" or "retained." If such a meaning were contemplated for it, it would be superfluous. But the occupation of the appellant, as against a landlord, commenced after the confirmation of the sale, and it so commenced without the landlord's consent. Section 127 has been properly applied.

(3) 17 Ind. Cas. 464; 15 O. C. 311.

VENKATAMMA v. MANIKKAM NAYANI VARU.

There are two other grounds remaining for disposal. It is argued that the Courts below were wrong in treating an order in mutation as a final adjudication upon the question of whether or not appellant had acquired ex-proprietary rights in these plots. They have not done so. The lower Appellate Court, emphasizing the existence of the mutation order of the 27th October 1911, upheld the finding of the Court of first instance, and that finding was based upon evidence recorded.

It is also argued that a suit for determination of rent must have preceded this suit for arrears of rent. This is concluded by our finding on the first ground, that section 127 does apply to the case. For we agree with the view taken in Bhabhuti v. Kuar Sumer Singh (4) that the fair and equitable rent payable under this section is to be determined in the course of a suit for arrears of rent under section 108 (2) of the Act.

Appeal dismissed.

(4) Select Decision No. 20 of 1892.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

APPEAL AGAINST ORDER No. 251 OF 1912.

August 19, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Napier.

VENKATAMMA—PETITIONER—APPELLANT

versus

MANIKKAM NAYANI VARU AND OTHERS—COUNTER-PETITIONERS—RESPONDENTS.

*Execution—Application more than 12 years from date of decree—Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), s. 48—Decree directing execution of conveyance—Undisposed of execution petition considered as pending—Fresh execution application—Continuation of old application—Res judicata—Particular construction of decree—Records of Court lost—Court's power to construct lost records.*

Barring the decrees granting injunctions section 48, Civil Procedure Code, applies to all other decrees.

A decree directing the execution of a conveyance might come under the expression "directs the delivery of any property" in section 48, Civil Procedure Code.

An application for execution is to be taken as pending until it is validly disposed of.

Therefore where there was nothing to show that an execution petition praying for the execution of a conveyance was either dismissed, or struck off, or otherwise disposed of:

Held, that the application was still pending and that a subsequent execution petition containing the same prayer was only a petition to continue proceedings under the old petition.

A particular construction of a decree operates as res judicata in subsequent proceedings between the same parties.

A Court has inherent power to construct its lost records.

Appeal against the order of the District Court of North Arcot, in Execution Petition No. 11 of 1910, in Original Suit No. 3 of 1895 (Sub-Court of North Arcot.)

Mr. T. Narasimha Aiyangar, for the Appellant.

Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar (with him Mr. N. S. Narasimhachari), for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

SADASIVA AIYAR, J.—This is an appeal against an order passed by the District Court of North Arcot in execution proceedings. The decree sought to be executed is a compromise decree, dated the 25th March 1895. The execution petition which was dismissed by the learned District Judge as barred by section 48 of the Civil Procedure Code was filed on the 10th December 1909, more than 12 years from the date of the decree. The decree-holder put forward several arguments in support of his contention that section 48 does not bar his claim. Those arguments might be formulated thus:—

(1) Though the decree is dated in 1895, it became executable only in 1898 and according to the true construction of section 48, clause 1 (a), Civil Procedure Code, the twelve years beyond which execution should be refused commenced from 1898 when the decree became executable, and not from 1895 when the decree was passed.

(2) If, however, such is not the true construction of section 48, clause 1 (a), then it must be held that section 48 does not cover all kinds of decrees and that its provisions do not apply at all to a decree which is not executable on the date of its passing and that, therefore, the disability to execute after 12 years does not apply to such a decree.

(3) If contentions (1) and (2) above are both unsustainable, the decree in this case might be treated as one "directing the delivery" of a property "at a certain date," thus to come under section 48, clause 1 (b), the 12 years having then to be counted from 1898.

(4) If all the above three contentions are unsustainable, it is lastly argued that the present execution petition of December 1909 might be treated as a mere application to continue the proceedings in the former Execution Petition No. 74 of 1899, which was granted but which has not yet been finally disposed of, in which case section 48, Civil Procedure Code, which prohibits only a fresh application after 12 years does not call for consideration at all.

These four contentions put forward on behalf of the decree-holder (appellant) have been met by various counter-arguments advanced by Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar who appeared for the judgment-debtor (respondent). Very numerous authorities were quoted and discussed on both sides. I think it necessary to refer only to the more important of them in this judgment, an exhaustive consideration of all the cases being not likely to lead to greater celerity of expression on my part.

As regards the first contention, the case in Narhar Raghunath Naphad v. Krishnaji Govind (1) is direct authority in support of the appellant's arguments. That decision, however, was critically analysed by Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar who asked us not to follow it. It must be admitted that the construction placed by Chandavarkar and Batchelor, JJ., in that case on the words in section 48, clause 1 (a), is prima facie a little forced. While that clause provides that no fresh application presented after the expiration of 12 years "from the date of the decree sought to be executed" shall be granted, the learned Judges of the Bombay High Court expand that clause as if it stood thus:—

(*a*1) "the date of the decree sought to be executed" where the decree is at once capable of execution, and (*a*2) where the decree becomes executable only on a subsequent date, the date when it so becomes executable.

Whether the clause 1 (a) as it stands is logically capable of this rather wide extension, is not free from doubt,—such an extension may carry out the real intentions of the Legislature, or it may be that the Legislature lost sight of the contingency of the date of the decree not being always the date when it becomes executable and the learned Judges supplied the omission carrying out what would have been the provision made by the Legislature if they had not forgotten that contingency. The Legislature probably committed a similar oversight when enacting the provision contained in the present Article 182 of the Limitation Act (old Article 179). That Article provides generally a period of three years for the limitation of execution proceedings; and the first paragraph of the third column which relates to the commencing period of limitation mentions "the date of the decree" as the starting date. It seems to me clear that the Legislature assumed without warrant that all the decrees without exception are capable of immediate execution.

However, the Courts found in the Limitation Act, Second Schedule, itself a prior Article 181 (old Article 178), which relates to "applications for which no period of limitation is provided elsewhere" and the time from which the period begins to run is mentioned in the third column of that Article as "when the right to apply accrues." The Courts accordingly held that Article 182, third column, clause (1), did not apply to the execution of a decree which is not executable on the date of its passing, but that Article 181 applied to the execution of such a decree though the first column of Article 182 refers generally to "a decree of any Civil Court," that is, in any and every decree or order of all Civil Courts. The learned Judges who decided the case in Narhar Raghunath Naphad v. Krishnaji Govind (1) fortified their rather forced interpretation of section 48 of the Civil Procedure Code by referring to the interpretation of Article 182 of the Limitation Act (old Article 179) by the Allahabad High Court in Muhammad Suleman Khan v. Muhammad Yar Khan (2). Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar contends that the harsh provisions of Article 182 (Schedule II, Limitation Act) could be and were more easly got over by the Courts, because in that same Limitation Act another Article 181 could be made to cover those hard cases which would be affected if the provisions of Article 182 were applied literally, whereas there is no other section in the Civil Procedure Code which could be resorted to to save decrees which fall under section 48, clause 1 (a). This, of course, assumes that just as the Limitation Act was intended to provide exhaustively periods of limitation for the execution of all kinds of decrees, the Civil Procedure Code wished to bar all decrees after a period of 12 years calculated from some date or other. This question, whether section 48 was intended to apply exhaustively to all decrees (except, of course, to decrees for injunctions expressly excluded from its provisions under the new Code of 1908), has also to be considered when discussing the second contention on behalf of the appellant. I need only say that the development of the law by judicial decisions does not always follow an entirely logical course, and as the decision in Narhar Raghunath Naphad v. Krishnaji Govind (1) seems to be an equitable decision, whether it can be based upon a strict logical construction of section 48, clause 1 (a), or not, I would feel inclined to follow it if it was necessary to do so in this case. I do not think, however, having regard to my opinion about the fourth contention of the appellant (which opinion of mine is in his favour), that it is necessary that I should express a decided view in this case as to whether the decision in Narhar Raghunath Naphad v. Krishnaji Govind (1) should be followed or not.

(1) 15 Ind. Cas 822; 36 B. 368; 14 Bom. L. R. 381.

(2) 17 A. 39; A. W. N. (1894) 191.

Before leaving this subject, I might shortly notice the contention of Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar that according to the true construction of the decree in this case, it did not become executable even in 1898, that it is still unexecutable and that the execution petition is, therefore, premature. The particular provisions of the very complicated decree (now sought to be executed) which are material to be stated for the decision of this appeal are to the following effect :—

"That the first defendant do execute a deed in favour of the second plaintiff empowering the second plaintiff to enjoy ¼th share in certain villages within a month from the date of demand by the second plaintiff, that the right to make the demand shall accrue to the second plaintiff as soon as the Original Suit No. 14 of 1894 on the file of the District Court of North Arcot is disposed of and as soon as a sacred tank (named in the decree) is provided with steps on four sides to be constructed by the first defendant and that the construction of the said steps should be completed by the first defendant within three years from the date of the decree."

The first defendant's contention is that the steps of the tank have not yet been completed and that the execution petition is, therefore, premature. It may be that on a strict construction of the decree, it is really unexecutable till the first defendant chooses to complete the construction of the steps of the sacred tank. But in the order on a previous Execution Petition, No. 74 of 1899, between these same parties, it has been decided by the High Court (confirming the lower Court's decision) that the first defendant cannot prevent the decree becoming executable by delaying to complete the construction of the steps of the tank and that on the true construction of the decree, (a) that decree became executable when the Suit No. 14 of 1894 was decided, if the decision in that suit took place after three years from the date of the passing of the decree, (b) that it became executable within those three years if both the decisions in Suit No. 14 of 1894 and the construction of the steps took place within three years, on the date when the later of the said two events took place, and (c) that if the decision of Original Suit No. 14 of 1894 took place within three years but the construction of the steps did not take place within three years, the decree became executable on the expiry of the three years. At least that is how I understand the reasoning on which Execution Petition No. 74 of 1899 was decided by the High Court. If so, that decision has adjudicated the dispute between the parties on this question and that adjudication being res judicata, Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar's contention on this point cannot, therefore, be accepted [See Subba Chariar v. Muthuveeram Pillai (3) on the question of res judicata in interpreting decrees].

The second contention is based on the argument that section 48, Civil Procedure Code, which excludes from the effect of its provisions only decrees granting injunctions, should not be treated as intended to affect exhaustively all other kinds of decrees, and just as the words in the first column of Article 182 of the second Schedule of the Limitation Act were held not to include decrees not capable of execution on the dates of their being passed, so section 48, Civil Procedure Code, should also be held not to include such decrees. It seems to me, however, to be very difficult to hold that when decrees granting the relief of injunction are expressly excluded in section 48, Civil Procedure Code, any other kinds of decrees not so expressly excluded were intended to be left out of consideration in enacting the twelve years' rule. It seems easier to hold that all other decrees were intended to be affected by the Legislature, but the period for the commencement of twelve years was to be calculated in the case of a decree not immediately executable from the date when it became executable, as was held in Narhar Raghunath Naphad v. Krishnaji Govind (1), than to hold that no period of twelve years calculated from any date could bar fresh applications for execution of such a decree.

(3) 14 Ind. Cas. 264; 36 M. 553; 24 M. L. J. 545.

The third contention is that the direction in the decree ordering the first defendant to execute a transfer document for the $\frac{1}{4}$th share in the villages in the 2nd plaintiff's favour might be treated as a decree directing the "delivery of property" (the property being the transfer-deed) and that in that case clause 1 (b) of section 48 might apply; that the "certain date" referred to in that clause is in this case the expiry of three years from the date of the decree and that the date from which the twelve years' period runs is, therefore, 1898.

I was at first inclined to the view that a decree directing execution of a conveyance might come under the expression "directs...the delivery of any property" found in section 48, clause 1 (b); and though on a further consideration, I feel some doubts as to whether a decree for specific relief relating to execution of a document was intended by the Legislature to be included in the phrase "directs... the delivery of any property," I am not satisfied that my opinion first formed is erroneous. Assuming then that section 48 clause 1 (b) can be applied, was the delivery of property directed to be made "at a certain date" in this case, that is, was the delivery of the conveyance directed to be made "at a certain date" within the meaning of section 48, clause 1 (b)? I have already set out the relevant provisions of the decree according to the construction put upon those provisions in Execution Petition No. 74 of 1899. Those provisions show that far from "a certain date" being mentioned in the decree, the execution of the transfer-deed might have taken place within three years of the decree in certain contingencies, that it might take place on some date more than three years after the decree in certain other contingencies (that is, if Original Suit No. 14 of 1894 was decided more than three years after the date of the decree), and that on a third set of contingencies, the transfer-deed was to be executed just one month after the expiry of three years from the date of the decree. I do not think, therefore, that section 48, clause 1 (b), can be applied in this case.

The final contention on the appellant's side is that the present application, so far as it seeks to obtain a conveyance of the Dasabhandam income of share in the villages, is only an application to continue the proceedings in an old Application No. 74 of 1899. As I intimated already, my opinion is in favour of the appellant on this contention. In Chalavadi Kotiah v. Paloori Alimelammah (4) it was decided that where an execution petition was dismissed by the Munsif (even though the District Judge had ordered the Munsif only to stay execution) and where such a dismissal order was passed without notice and in the absence of both parties, such an order of dismissal cannot be regarded as an order passed between the parties at all, that it amounted to no more than a direction to the officers of the Court to remove the proceedings from the pending list and that the order of dismissal had not got the effect of closing the proceedings and they must be considered to have been still pending. On this view, it was held that notwithstanding the dismissal of the prior execution petition in December 1891, an application made in 1905 might be treated as one to continue the proceedings in the prior application of 1899 so far as the application of 1905 contained the same prayer (namely, the sale of attached property) as was contained in the previous application of 1899. I think the case which we are now deciding is a stronger case for the decree-holder than that in Chaloradi Kotiah v. Poloori Mimelammah (4) In that case the former execution petition of 1899 had been wrongly dismissed and yet it was held to be pending because the dismissal was unauthorized by law. Here, so far as the records go, the prayers in the prior Execution Application No. 74 of 1899 were fully granted both by the District Court and the High Court. Then there is an entry on the 21st September 1900 that the 1st defendant was arrested at the instance of the decree-holder's representative (2nd plaintiff's widow) for the recovery of moneys (about 6,000 and odd rupees) due to her under the decree; and that he was afterwards released. There is no order dismissing the petition. As regards the prayer for the execution of the transfer-deed, the learned District Judge says in his order under appeal: "Apparently, a draft transfer-deed on a stamped paper was filed by the petitioner in Court. It cannot be ascertained from the records in Execution Petition No. 74 of 1899 whether the petitioner abandoned her application for the execution of a transfer-deed by respondent or why the transfer-deed was not executed by the Court." Apparently also, there is nothing to show that the execution petition was dismissed, struck off or otherwise disposed of. In Subba Chariar v. Muthuveeram Pillai (3) it was held that an application "intended to revive and carry through a pending execution is not covered by Article 179 of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) as it is not an application to initiate a new execution" and that "the right to apply to continue execution in such cases accrues from day to day and will not be barred until three years have elapsed after the proceedings have ceased to be pending." See also Venkatappiah v. Jagannadha Row (5) where it was held that an application for execution is pending until it is validly disposed of. I am prepared to follow the dicta in these cases and I, therefore, hold that so far as the present execution petition of 1909 relates to the carrying out of the order passed in Execution Petition No. 74 of 1899 directing the 1st defendant to execute a deed of transfer in respect of ¼th share of the Dasabhandam in certain villages in favour of the 2nd plaintiff's widow, it is not a fresh application and the provisions of section 48, Civil Procedure Code, do not, therefore, apply to it. So far, however, as the present execution prays for the recovery of the amount due as mesne profits for 10 Faslis (fasli 1309 to 1318) to the 2nd plaintiff's widow on the said ¼th share, I would dismiss it as the decree does not give any such relief to the 2nd plaintiff. In this view, it is unnecessary to go into the question whether the application for such relief is a fresh application in execution to which the provisions of section 48 of the Civil Precedure Code become attracted.

(4) 31 M. 71; 18 M. L. J. 46; 3 M. L. T. 328.

It was argued by Mr. S. Srinivasa Aiyangar that as the records in Execution Petition No. 74 of 1899 may not be now forthcoming, it may be difficult to find out what the terms of the draft transfer-deed filed by the appellant in Execution Petition No. 74 of 1899 were and hence the Courts would find it impossible to continue these proceedings. I have held in Kamakshamma v. Emperor (6) that a Court has inherent power to construct records which had disappeared from its custody. The stamp paper already filed by the second plaintiff's widow might be re-placed by a new stamp paper and the terms of the draft transfer-deed then filed by her might be re-constructed on the evidence and affidavits, adduced and filed by the parties.

In the result while confirming the lower Court's decision so far as it dismisses the prayer for the recovery of mesne profits, I would set it aside so far as it refuses the relief for the execution of a transfer-deed by the first defendant and I would direct the learned District Judge to hear and dispose of that prayer, treating it as a continuation of the corresponding portion of the proceedings in Execution Petition No. 74 of 1899.

The parties will bear their respective costs in this appeal.

NAPIER, J.—I concur with my learned brother in the order proposed for the reason given in the latter part of his judgment. Speaking for myself I have still greater doubts than he has of the correctness of the construction of section 48 in Narhar Raghunath Naphad v. Krishnaji Govind (1) and of the Article 182 (old Article 179) in Muhammad Suleman Khan v. Muhammad Yar Khan (2).

(5) 12 M. L. J. 24.

(6) 21 Ind. Cas. 467; (1913) M. W. N. 862; 14 M. L. T. 317; 25 M. L. J. 445; 14 Cr. L. J. 595.

Appeal allowed in part.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 2106 OF 1913.

October 28, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Sadasiva Aiyar and Mr. Justice Napier.

AIYASAMI UDAYAN AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS NOS. 1 TO 4—APPELLANTS

versus

APPASAMI UDAYAN—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Hindu Law - Husband and wife—Joint Will—Devise of ancestral properties of husband and separate property of wife—Subsequent adoption by husband—Validity of Will—Construction of deed—Will or settlement—Revocability—Will for consideration.

Where a document styles itself a Will in more places than one and is not written on a stamp paper and where according to the provisions of the document the beneficiaries are to take only after the death of its executants, who do not use any expression therein restricting their rights in the properties dealt with thereunder to mere life-interests:

Held, that the document is a Will and not a settlement.

A Will speaks only from the date of death of the testator.

Bodi v. Venkatasami Naida, 21 Ind. Cas. 73; 14 M. L. T. 181; 25 M. L. J. 363; (1913) M. W. N. 779; and Shib Sabitri Prasad v. Collector of Meerut, 29 A. 82; 3 A. L. J. 747; A. W. N. (1906) 295, referred to.

A Hindu husband and wife executed a joint Will whereby it was provided that the husband of their junior daughter, who was then living with them and managing their affairs, should continue to do so along with his wife, and that after the death of the executants of the Will, their younger daughter or, if she should have a son, that son should inherit their properties, which consisted of the ancestral property of the testator and the absolute property of the testatrix. The son-in-law acted up to the terms of the said Will by residing with the executants thereof and managing their affairs until their death. Subsequent to the execution of the Will, the testator adopted a boy who survived him and died unmarried. In a suit by the reversioner of the adopted boy after the death of the adoptive mother to recover the property from the junior daughter and her husband:

Held, that the above provision in the Will did not amount to a contract to bequeath the property to the junior daughter or her son, that the continued residence of the son-in-law with the father-in-law and the performance by the former of the acts required of him as per terms of the Will did not amount to a consideration for a contract to leave the property by Will and make the Will executed by the testator irrevocable and that so far as the ancestral property of the testator was concerned, it passed to the heirs of the adopted boy but that as regards the separate property of the testatrix, the Will was perfectly valid.

Maddison v. Alderson, 8 App. Cas. 467; 52 L. J. Q. B. 737; 49 L. T. 303, 31 W. R. 820; 47 J. P. 821; Venkata Narasimha Appa Row v. Lakshmi Venkayamma Row, 2 Ind. Cas. 316; 5 M. L. T. 108; 19 M. L. J. 106 and Venkata Narasinha v. Lakshmi Venkayamma, 5 Ind. Cas. 102; 7 M. L. T. 296, followed.

Synge v. Synge, (1894) 1 Q. B. 466; 63 L. J. Q. B. 202; 70 L. T. 221; 42 W. R. 309; 9 R. 265; 58 J. P. 396, explained.

Second appeal against the decree of the Court of the Subordinate Judge of North Arcot, in Appeal Suit No. 56 of 1912, preferred against that of the District Munsif of Tiruvannamalai, in Original Suit No. 536 of 1910.

FACTS.—The properties in suit were partly the ancestral properties of one Ramaswami Udayan and partly the absolute properties of his wife Amritham. These two persons had two daughters, the elder married and without issue, and the younger (the 2nd defendant) just married to the 1st defendant. Ever since his marriage the 1st defendant had been living with his parents-in-law and was looking after the cultivation of their lands and managing their affairs. On 14th February 1889 Ramaswami and Amritham executed a document which ran as follows :—

"Will which we two (1) Ramaswami Udayan and (2) Amrithammal, wife of the said person, executed on the 14th February 1889 in full possession of our senses is as follows :—As Ramaswami Udayan among us is 60 years old and as Amrithammal is 50 years old and as we are weak and infirm and have no male issues, considering that man's age is uncertain and as our senior daughter Poongavanam, aged about 20, has been given in marriage and as she also has no issue and as we have given our junior daughter Bhagiam, aged about 11, in marriage to Aiyaswami Udayan, aged about 22, son of Lakshmana Udayan, elder brother of Amrithammal among us, residing in Kovalavadi, as we have been keeping him with his family in our house and as he is looking after our cultivation business and protecting us, the said Aiyaswami Udayan and our junior daughter Bhagiam should protect both of us until our death and the said Bhagiam or the son that may be born to her should perform the funeral rites of both of us. After the death of both of us the said Bhagiam or, if a son be born to her, that son must inherit and enjoy the immoveable and moveable properties mentioned hereunder and belonging to us with the right of alienating the same by gift, sale or otherwise. None else except the said Bhagiam has any right to the said properties..... Will which we executed to this effect with our consent and in full possession of our senses."

Subsequent to the execution of the said instrument, Ramaswami adopted a boy named Pavadai, who survived Ramaswami. Amritham then died. The 1st and 2nd defendants, however, continued to live with Ramaswami and Amritham and protected them till their death, and finally got into possession of the suit properties. The plaintiff, claiming to be a reversioner of Pavadai, then filed a suit for the recovery of the suit properties from the defendants Nos. 1 and 2 and their sons. The defences, so far as they are material to the second appeal, were that by the instrument of the 14th February 1889 (Exhibit IV in the case), Bhagiam became absolutely entitled to all the properties of Ramaswami and Amritham, that the said document came into operation at once, though the interest created thereby in favour of Bhagiam was in futuro, that the disposition under Exhibit IV, even if testamentary, was one made for legal consideration and as such was binding on Pavadai, the adopted son, and that in any event the disposition was good to the extent of the share of Ramaswami, the adoptive father. The District Munsif held that Exhibit IV was a Will and not a deed of settlement creating a present interest in the donee, that it was supported by consideration, and, as a contract, would have been enforceable against Ramaswami and persons claiming under him as volunteers, but that the Will was invalid as against the adopted son, Pavadai, inasmuch as it took effect only on the death of the testator and as such could not prevail against the prior right of the adopted son, viz., the right of survivorship. He, therefore, decreed the suit in respect of the properties of Ramaswami dealt with by the Will, but dismissed the suit as regards the properties of Amritham, which he held validly passed to the legatees under the Will. On appeal the Sub-Judge agreed with the District Munsif in holding that the instrument in question was a Will, but, without recording a finding on the question whether or not the Will was supported by consideration, held that, even if it amounted to a contract for consideration to leave a legacy and could be enforced against persons claiming from the testator as volunteers, it could not be enforced against the adopted son, who claimed the properties by survivorship, which right took precedence over a right created by the devise. He accordingly confirmed the decree of the Court below with certain modifications which are not relevant to the second appeal. From this decree the defendants preferred the above second appeal.

Mr. S. Varadachariar, for the Appellants:—Exhibit IV is not a Will, but is a settlement. Under it the legatees got a vested interest, only the time of enjoyment being postponed. The instrument provides for things being done during the life-time of the testator, such as the devisee's living together with him, etc., Vide Thakur Umrao Singh v. Thakur Lachhman Singh (1), Rajammal v. Authiammal (2) and In the goods of Robinson (3). Even if Exhibit IV is construed as a Will it is irrevocable, because it was executed for consideration and had been acted upon. The recitals in Exhibit IV support the position. Bhagiam's husband did live with the testator for the rest of his life-time,

(1) 10 Ind. Cas. 285; 15 C. W. N. 497; 8 A. L. J. 465; 13 C. L. J. 519; 9 M. L. T. 507; 13 Bom. L. R. 404; 14 O. C 133; 21 M. L. J. 637; (1911) 2 M. W. N. 242; 33 A. 344 (P. C.).

(2) 7 Ind. Cas. 357; 8 M. L. T. 139; 33 M. 304; 20 M. L. J. 519.

(3) (1867) 1 P. and D. 384 at p. 386; 36 L. J. P. 93; 17 L. T. 19.

looked after his affairs and protected him. Bhala Nahana v. Prabhu Hari (4) and Shunmngaroya Mudaliar v. Manika Mudaliar (5) show that there can be a valid Will for consideration. In any event Exhibit IV is good to the extent of Ramaswami's share in the properties dealt with by it. Exhibit IV evidences a contract by Ramaswami to leave properties by a Will and that contract can be specifically enforced. Bhala Nahana v. Prabhu Hari (4) and Synge v. Synge (6). The fact that Pavadai claimed by right of survivorship would not defeat the demise. See Specific Relief Act, section 27 (c).

Messrs. T. R. Venkatrama Sastri and A. S. Visvanatha Aiyar, for the Respondent:—It is admitted there was no contract apart from Exhibit IV. The recitals relied upon are simply the motives inducing Ramaswami to execute Exhibit IV. They do not amount to proposal and acceptance so as to constitute a binding contract. See Maddison v. Alderson (7), Venkata Narasimha Appa Row v. Lakshmi Venkayamma Row (8) and Venkata Narasinha v. Lakshmi Venkayamma (9). The cases cited for the appellant are not cases of Wills at all. Further there was no competition in them between the right of survivorship and the right by devise. Section 27, clause (c), of the Specific Relief Act, even if applicable to alienations for value by a member of a joint Hindu family, does not apply to a Will executed by such a member.

JUDGMENT.

NAPIER, J.—The sole point argued in this appeal is whether the appellants claiming under their mother, a legatee of one Ramasami Udayan, are entitled to claim joint family property left to her under a Will executed prior to the adoption by the testator of the person under whom the plaintiff (respondent) claims. It was admitted that apart from the Will the property would have passed to the adopted son by survivorship on the death of the testator.

It was first argued that the document was not a Will, but on its terms we are clear that it is a Will. The point that was strenuously urged was, however, that as its terms indicate the expectation of the testator that the legatee would support him (the testator) in his old age, and as it was admitted that the legatee had lived with the testator and taken charge of him and his property, the legatee had acquired a right to have the terms of the Will carried out; in other words, that the Will was irrevocable. It was admitted that there was no authority for this proposition, but it was sought to be supported on the analogy of contracts made between two persons, the consideration on one side being a promise to provide for the other party by Will. During the course of the argument it was put to the learned Vakil who appeared for the appellants whether he claimed on a contract outside the Will and he admitted that he could not do so. In my opinion, on that admission, the case became unarguable, for the simple reason that a Will speaks from the date of the death and is of its nature revocable by the testator at any moment. The cases are collected in Theobald's Law of Wills (6th Edition), Chapter X, and no case can be found where the language relied on is to be found in the Will. The case relied upon by the appellants, Synge v. Synge (6), is a case of contract and it only establishes the proposition that if there is a contract to make a testamentary gift of a particular property, that contract can be specifically enforced against persons claiming under the testator as volunteers. This, of course, does not help the appellants. The case of Maddison v. Alderson (7) is strongly against the appellants. There a woman who had lived as house-keeper with the testator for many years alleged an oral agreement with him that she would serve him without wages and give up other prospects of establishment in life, he undertaking to make a Will leaving her life-estate in land. He actually had such a Will drawn for him, but died without signing it. Admittedly the alleged contract could not be proved for want of writing under the Statute of Frauds, but it was urged that there was part performance. The House of Lords held that there was no performance and that the fact that the master designed and strove to give her the interest which, it was alleged, he had promised, could not be taken to establish

(4) 2 B. 67.

(5) 3 Ind. Cas. 799; 19 M. L. J. 640; 11 Bom. L. R. 1206 (P. C.); 10 C. L. J. 276; 6 M. L. T. 304; 32 M. 400; 36 I. A. 185.

(6) (1894) 1 Q. B. 466; 63 L J. Q. B. 202; 70 L. T. 221; 42 W. R. 309; 9 R. 265; 58 J. P. 396.

(7) 8 App. Cas. 467; 52 L. J. Q. B. 737; 49 L.T. 303; 31 W. R. 820; 47 J. P. 821.

(8) 2 Ind. Cas. 316; 5 M. L. T. 108; 19 M. L. J. 106.

(9) 5 Ind. Cas. 102; 7 M. L. T. 296.

the existence of such an agreement several years before. Now it is obvious that if any equity could arise apart from a contract, it would have been urged by the very eminent Counsel who appeared in this case. The fact that the Will was made in this case cannot, as already pointed out, make any difference. To hold otherwise would be to open the door to contentions which could be easily raised in a very large number of Wills made by Hindus who are particularly prone to recite existing facts and future arrangements as motives for making the testamentary disposition. In this view it is, in my opinion, unnecessary to consider the further question, whether any such arrangement would have any effect as against the doctrine of survivorship even in respect of the tesator's undivided share during his life-time.

SADASIVA AIYAR, J.— I agree with my learned brother in his conclusions and I shall state my reasons shortly. I feel myself unable to accept the contention of the appellants' learned Vakil that the document, Exhibit IV, was not a Will but a deed of settlement. The document calls itself a Will in more than one place, it is not written on a stamp paper, the beneficiaries were to take only after the death of the executants and the latter do not use any expression in the deed by which they restricted their own rights in the properties till their death to mere life-interests.

As regards the next contention of the appellants' Vakil it seems to me (so far as I was able to understand it) that even if Exhibit IV was not a deed of settlement, there was a proposal made in it by the executant to the 1st defendant and his wife (the 2nd daughter's husband and the second daughter of the executants) to leave the properties by Will if the second daughter of the executants and her husband, the 1st defendant, protected the executants till their death and that that proposal was accepted by the 1st defendant and his wife, that accordingly a sort of binding contract was entered into by the executants to give a vested reversionary interest in the plaint properties by Will to the 1st defendant and his wife and that the Will, therefore, became irrevocable so far as the grant of such an interest was provided for in that Will. Having carefully considered the terms of the Will, I am unable to spell out therefrom any such proposal made by the testator or the testatrix to the beneficiary. It only recites the motive for the making of the bequest, such motive being based on the facts that the son-in-law had been living with his parents-in-law and assisting them in the cultivation of the lands and was expected to protect them till their death, which events were expected to take place soon. That a Will is to be understood as speaking only from the death of the testator and that it has only the same effect as if it was executed at the time of the testator's death cannot be controverted. See Bodi v. Venkatasami Naidu (10) and Shib Sabitri Prasad v. Collector of Meerut (11). As the 1st defendant's father-in-law had adopted a boy before his death, and as that boy survived the 1st defendant's father-in-law, that is, the boy's adoptive father, the Will became infructuous as regards the father-in-law's ancestral properties, he having become incapable of bequeathing the properties so as to defeat the adopted son's right of survivorship. That the mere raising of expectations in the mind of a person that a bounty in the shape of a legacy would be left by Will does not amount to a contract, and that even if some acts are performed by that person owing to the raising of such expectations such acts will be referable to the expectations and not to a contract, have been decided by the House of Lords in Maddison v. Alderson (7), which was followed by Abdur Rahim, J., in the case reported as Venkata Narasimha Appa Row v. Lakshmi Venkayamma Row (8), the judgement of Abdur Rahim, J., having been confirmed in Venkata Narasinha v. Lakshmi Venkayamma (9). I would, therefore, dismiss the second appeal with costs.

As regards the memorandum of objections, I see no reason not to accept the finding of fact by the lower Appellate Court that the properties to which the memorandum relates belonged to the 1st defendant's mother-in-law absolutely in her own right. In that view her Will was valid and the plaintiff cannot claim these properties as her adopted son's heir. The memorandum of objections will also be dismissed with costs.

(10) 21 Ind. Cas. 73; 14 M. L. T. 181; 25 M. L. J. 363; (1913) M. W. N. 779.

(11) 29 A. 82; 3 A. L. J. 747; A. W. N. (1906) 295.

NAPIER, J.—I concur that the memorandum of objections should be dismissed with costs.

Appeal dismissed.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.
FIRST CIVIL APPEAL No. 90 OF 1911.
July 30 1914.
Present:—Justice Sir Henry Hartnoll and Mr. Justice Twomey.
THE BANK OF RANGOON, LTD.,—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT
versus
SOMASUNDARAM CHETTY AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—RESPONDENTS.

Power-of-attorney, construction of—Practice of Chetties—Two Chetties signing joint promissory notes—Liability—Burden of proof—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 102, 103.

Powers-of attorney are to be construed strictly, that is to say, where an act purporting to be done under a power-of-attorney is challenged as being in excess of the authority conferred by the power, it is necessary to show that, on a fair construction of the whole instrument, the authority in question is to be found within the four corners of the instrument, either in express terms or by necessary implication.

When two Chetty firms sign joint and several promissory notes, they are both jointly interested in the moneys borrowed.

If one of the joint executants desires to escape liability, the burden of proof lies on him to prove that the payee had notice and knowledge that he signed merely as a surety for the other.

Bryant v. La Banque du Peuple, (1893) A. C. 170; 1 R. 336; 62 L. J. P. C. 68; 68 L. T. 546; 41 W. R. 600, referred to.

Twomey, J.—A power to sign accommodation notes may well be inferred from a power to sign promissory notes jointly with others.

Mr. Lentaigne (Senior), for the Appellant.

Mr. N. M. Cowasjee, for the Respondents.

JUDGMENT.

TWOMEY, J.—The plaintiff-appellant Bank advanced Rs. 60,000 to two Chetty agents, Kaderasan and Lutchmanan, on a joint promissory note signed by them on behalf of their respective Firms, A. S. P. L. S. and A.A. The principal question in this case is whether the A. S. P. L. S. Firm is liable to the Bank on the promissory note signed by its agent, K. K.'s powers were limited by a formal power-of-attorney which the Bank had seen and noted. The Bank, therefore, was fully congnizant of the extent of his authority.

The A. S. P. L. S. Firm repudiate the transaction as being beyond the scope of the agent's authority. They plead that the firm received no benefit from the transaction and that K. in signing the pro-note was merely acting as surety for the co-signatory A. A. Lutchmanan. The power-of-attorney contains no express authority to sign pro-notes for the accommodation of strangers to the firm. It is agreed that as the power-of-attorney authorizes the agent to make, draw and sign pro-notes "in his absolute discretion," this includes the power of making, drawing and signing even as surety for another. But it is a well-established principle that general words in a power-of-attorney cannot be construed as conferring general unrestricted powers. They are limited by the purpose for which the power is given and must be restricted by the context. In the present case the main purpose of the power was that the agent should manage and conduct the business of the principal as a "banker, money-lender and general trader." The authority to make, draw and sign pro-notes, etc., must be construed with reference to this general purpose and so as to exclude the exercise of any power which is not warranted either by the terms used or as a necessary means of executing the authority with effect. It cannot be contended that a business such as that for which this power was given, namely the business of a Chetty money-lender, necessarily involves the drawing of pro-notes as surety for strangers. It may be that Chetties do frequently sign joint pro-notes as sureties, but that does not make it a necessary incident of a Chetty's business. It is plain that a money-lending business can be effectually carried on without entering into such accommodation transactions. The only kind of borrowing expressly authorized by this power is that of borrowing money from Banks, etc. with or without pledge of securities for moneys advanced to various persons.

The plaintiff-appellant Bank, however, pleaded that the respondent firm is liable for its agent's act, because the agent did not ostensibly sign merely as a surety and because to all appearances it was a joint transaction in which each signatory was partaking as principal (i.e., principal as distinguished from surety). The learned Judge on the original side placed on the plaintiff-appellant Bank the burden of showing that the respondent firm was substantially interested in the transaction, that is to say, of proving that the agent K. did not sign merely as a surety for the co-signatory. And the learned Judge found, as a matter of evidence, that the respondent firm was not interested at all and that K. signed merely as a surety. We are asked to hold that the learned Judge erred in thus laying the onus of proof on the plaintiff Bank and that the respondent firm should have been required to show that the Bank had notice of the alleged fact that K. was signing merely as a surety.

My learned colleague has accepted this contention and has found after a careful examination of the evidence that the respondent firm failed to discharge the burden of proving knowledge on the part of the Bank that Kaderasan was signing the promissory note merely as a surety for the Firm A. A.

But it seems to me that any detailed examination of the evidence is unnecessary in view of the admission made before the learned Judge on the original side and the admissions made before us at the hearing of the appeal.

It was admitted on behalf of the respondents on the original side that if the Bank did not know that the agent K. signed merely as a surety, then K.'s Firm A. S. P. L. S. would be liable. Now K. did not sign merely as a surety if the A. A. Firm took a moiety or indeed any share of the money. On the joint note K. would be still signing as a surety in respect of the share taken by the A. A. firm. K.'s firm would be interested in the transaction to the extent of the share taken by K. for them and K. would be signing as principal in respect of this share. If K.'s firm got any share in the loan, K. would not be signing merely as a surety. From the pleadings, therefore, it would appear that the respondents admitted by implication that the Bank would be justified in lending on the joint pro-note provided that K. was receiving some of the money for his firm. This inference was fully borne out at the hearing of the appeal when the respondent's Counsel expressly admitted that Kaderasan could borrow jointly with another Chetty. Mainly the respondents' contention was that K exceeded his authority as agent, not by signing a promissory note jointly with another Chetty, but by signing a joint note when the other Chetty was getting the whole of the money. It was perhaps open to the respondents to go further and contend that under the power K. had no authority to sign a promissory note jointly with another Chetty in any circumstances whatever. But they never advanced this contention and whatever our opinion may be as to the construction of the power, I do not think it would be right for us at this stage of the case to say that the respondents have admitted too much and that they should not be held to their admissions.

The effect of these admissions. express and implied, is to my mind conclusive. If the agent was authorized to sign a promissory note jointly with another Chetty, then he was acting within the scope of his authority in signing the note in suit and the Bank need not concern itself at all with the ultimate destination of the money advanced.

In the circumstances I am unable to share my learned colleague's view that the Bank would fail if the respondents could prove that Kaderasan to the knowledge of the Bank signed merely as a surety for the A. A. Firm for a power to sign accommodation notes may well be inferred from a power to sign pro-notes jointly with others. For these reasons, I concur in the orders which my learned colleague proposes to pass varying the decree of the original side.

HARTNOLL, J.—The Bank of Rangoon has sued Ramsawmy Chetty carrying on business under the style of Firm of A.A. Subramanian Chetty and Somasundaram Chetty carrying on business under the style of Firm of A. S. P. L. S. and Ismail Burrabhoy to recover the principal sum of Rs. 60,000 due on a promissory note signed by Lutchmanan Chetty on behalf of the A. A. Firm and by Kaderasan Chetty on behalf of the A. S. P. L. S. Firm and dated the 12th August 1907, together with the interest that has accrued thereon. Ismail Burrabhoy was sued, as it is stated that at the time the promissory note was executed there was deposited with the Bank a mortgage-deed executed by him in favour of the A. A. Firm as collateral security. The principal sum secured by the mortgage-deed was Rs. 65,000. Subaramanian Chetty and Somasundaram Chetty were alleged to be partners. Somasundaram contested the suit by stating that he was not a partner in the A. S. P. L.S. Firm. The learned Judge on the original side found that it was not proved that Somasundaram Chetty was a partner and so the suit was dismissed against him. The suit was also dismissed against Subramanian as it was found that the power which he gave his agent Kaderasan Chetty did not authorize him to sign as surety for another firm, that he did sign the promissory note in question in such capacity, that no part of the money borrowed on the promissory note was taken either by Kaderasan Chetty or by Subramanian and that the Bank through their Shroff, Pasupathi Iyer, had notice that Kaderasan was signing the name of Subramanian simply as surety for a loan advanced solely for the benefit of the A. A. Firm. As regards the other defendants, the Bank was given the relief asked for. The learned Judge gave Subramanian and Somasundaram separate costs as regards Counsel's fees. This appeal has been laid on the ground that the suit was wrongly dismissed against Subramanian and that the learned Judge erred in awarding Somasundaram his full costs. They still maintain that he is a partner in the A. S. P. L. S. Firm, but do not desire to appeal against the finding that he was not. It must be taken, therefore, for the purpose of this appeal that the Firm of A. S. P. L. S. consisted of Subramanian only. Subramanian Chetty gave a power-of-attorney, dated the 10th June 1903, to Somasundaram to transact his affairs. The power authorized Somasundaram to appoint a substitute in his place, such substitute to have the same powers as he had. In pursuance of such authority Somasundaram appointed one Kaderasan as his substitute on the 2nd November 1905. It is admitted that Kaderasan while acting in Somasundaram's place had the same powers as he had. The plaintiff Bank saw and noted the power-of-attorney given by Subramanian to Somasundaram or the deed of appointment by Somasundaram in favour of Kaderasan on the 6th January 1906. The Bank, therefore, must be held to have knowledge of both deeds.

The first point for consideration is whether Kaderasan had power as the agent of the A. S. P. L. S. Firm to sign a promissory note merely for the accommodation of another firm and in order to determine whether he had such power or not, the power-of-attorney granted by Subramanian to Somasundaram must be scrutinized and construed. As was enunciated in the case of Bryant, Powis and Bryant, Ld. v. La Banque du Peuple (1) powers-of-attorney are to be construed strictly, that is to say, where an act purporting to be done under a power-of-attorney is challenged as being in excess of the authority conferred by the power, it is necessary to show that on a fair construction of the whole instrument the authority in question is to be found within the four corners of the instrument, either in express terms or by necessary implication. Learned Counsel for the Bank relies on the following words in the power: "To make, draw, sign, accept, endorse, negotiate and transfer all and every or any bills of exchange, promissory notes, hundis, cheques, drafts, bills of lading and all and every other negotiable securities whatsoever to which my signature or endorsement may be required or which my said attorney may in his absolute discretion think fit to make, draw, sign, accept, endorse, negotiate and transfer in my name and on my behalf." Great stress is laid on the words which I have underlined. But it seems to me that to arrive at a decision on the point at issue the instrument must be looked at as a whole. Subramanian begins by describing himself as a banker, money-lender and general trader and then he goes on to appoint Somasundaram as his attorney to do various acts. The first is to transact, conduct and manage all and every or any of the affairs, concerns, matters and things in which he is now or may hereafter in any wise be interested and concerned and for that purpose to use and sign his name to all and every or any documents or document, writings or writing whatsoever. Then follows a power to borrow money from any Bank, etc., either with or without pledge of securities for moneys advanced to various persons. Then follows the clause which I first set out and which is relied on by the Bank. Then follow clauses to examine and settle accounts, to demand and sue for debts, dues, goods, effects and things belonging to Subramanian, etc., and to give, sign and execute receipts, etc., to represent Subramanian in Court to act for him in actions, to compound or compromise for the payment of debts, etc., to enter on immoveable properties in which Subramanian may be interested, etc., to pay rents and taxes, etc., to let lands in which he may be interested to recover rents, etc., to transfer and assign sales and mortgages in which he may be interested to sign all deeds of sale, etc., to appear before the Sub-Registrar and to deal with all moneys received by him under and by virtue of these presents. Then follow the words: "To sign my name, to make and execute on my behalf cheques, contracts, agreements, deeds, transfer and assignments and instruments whatsoever requisite or necessary for all or any of the purposes aforesaid and generally in and about the said premises to execute and do every deed and thing requisite and necessary for all or any of the purposes aforesaid as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes aforesaid as I myself could do if personally present." The power appears to me to be one constituting an agent to conduct Subramanian's business of banker, money-lender and general trader and although taken by itself the clause relied on by the Bank is in the widest possible terms, I am of opinion that it should not be given the widest possible meaning and that it should only be held to authorize the making and assigning of promissory notes, etc., which would be made and signed in the ordinary course of transacting Subramanian's business, and that it should not be held to authorize any transaction outside the scope of such business. Construing the clause in this manner, is there any evidence on the record to show that it was an ordinary part of Subramanian's business to sign promissory notes merely for the accomodation of another firm? There is nothing from which such an inference can be drawn. On the other hand the evidence goes to show that when two Chetty Firms sign joint and several promissory notes, they are both jointly interested in the moneys borrowed. I would, therefore, hold that it is not proved that the power authorized Kaderasan to sign his principal's name merely for the accommodation of another, so that this ground of appeal fails.

(1) (1893) A. C. 170; 1 R. 336; 62 L. J. P. C. 68; 68 L. T. 546; 41 W. R. 600.

It becomes now necessary to go into the facts. There is no doubt that Lutchmanan on behalf of the A. A. Firm and Kaderasan on behalf of A. S. P. L. S. Firm did execute Exhibit D, a joint and several promissory note, for Rs. 60,000 on the 12th August 1907 and that the consideration for it was the renewal of a debt of Rs. 30,000 incurred by both of them on behalf of their firms on a joint and several promissory note, dated the 8th July 1907, a cheque on the Bank of Bengal for Rs. 2,000 in favour of A. A. Lutchmanan and Rs. 10,000, in cash. The manager of the Bank, Churchward, says that he had no knowledge when the loan was given, that Kaderasan was signing as a surety and after studying his evidence and considering the other facts of the case and the form of the promissory note, I can see no reason to doubt this statement. The respondents allege that the Shroff of the Bank, one Pasupathi Iyer, knew that Kaderasan signed merely as surety and claim that this was notice to the Bank that he was doing so. On the original side this burden of proof showing that the A. S. P. L. S. Firm was interested in the consideration for the note was placed on the Bank, but I am ofopinion that this was wrong. In the case of Bryant, Powis, and Bryant, Ld. v. La Banque du Peuple (1) the following passage, which occurs in the case of President, etc., of the Westfield Bank v. Cohen (2), which was delivered by the Court of Appeal of the State of New York, was approved of by their Lordships as well stating the law. It is as follows:—

"Whenever the very act of the agent is authorized by the terms of the power, that is, whenever by comparing the act done by the agent with the words of the power, the act is in itself warranted by the terms used, such act is binding on constituent, as to all persons dealing in good faith with the agent, such persons are not bound to inquire into facts aliunde. The apparent authority is the real authority."

During the course of the trial before the learned Judge on the original side, it was admitted by the Counsel of A. S. P. L. S. that, if the Bank did not know that Kaderasan signed merely as surety, the A.S.P.L.S. Firm would be liable. This admission seems to me to amount to an admission that the appellant Bank was justified in advancing to the A. S. P. L. S. and A. A. Firms money on a joint and several promissory note signed by their agents and that the A. S. P. L. S. Firm would be liable for the money so borrowed if the Bank did not know that their agent signed merely as surety. This was the position taken by the Counsel of the A. S. P. L. S. Firm at the hearing of the appeal when it was again admitted that the agent of the firm had power to borrow jointly with another firm. It may be said that when two persons jointly and severally borrow money on a promissory note and each takes a share in the money so borrowed, each stands security for the other for the amount taken by him. The A. S. P. L. S. Firm might have contested its liability to the Bank on such a ground, but it did not do so. On the contrary it admitted its liabiliaty in such a case. It, therefore, seems to me that such an aspect of the case should not be considered. Taking the admission with the extract from the judgment I have just quoted, it seems to me that the position is that prima facie the Bank was justified in advancing the money as it did, since it is allowed that the agent of the A. S. P. L. S. Firm could borrow jointly with another firm and that is what he purported to do when he signed the promissory note of the 12th August 1907. If the A. S. P.L. S. Firm desires to escape liability, it is for them to show that their agent signed merely as a surety to the knowledge of the Bank. The case seems to fall within both section 102 and section 103 of the Evidence Act. Now has Subramanian proved that the Bank had such notice? He calls Lutchmanan Chetty to prove that the Shroff of the Bank, Pasupathi Iyer, knew that the money was wanted by the A. A. Firm only, that in fact it was Pasupathi Iyer himself who told Lutchmanan to get another man to stand as surety. He also calls Subbia, who was a clerk in the employ of the A. S. P. L. S. Firm from 1905 to 1908, to produce certain books of the firm and prove that the firm did not get any of the Rs. 60,000. He also relies on the fact that the mortgage deposited as collateral security when the note was signed, was one in favour of the A. A. Firm and had nothing to do with the firm of A. S. P. L. S. The sum secured by the mortgage was Rs. 65,000. In the face of the promissory note itself the argument as to the deposit and ownership of the mortgage does not carry us very far, Churchward cannot be expected to know the mutual arrangements between borrowers from the Bank. As a matter of fact Subbia's evidence shows that the two firms were constantly having transactions with each other and if both firms were interested in this promissory note for Rs. 60,000, it is not improbable that the A. A. Firm would have deposited the mortgage as security for the mutual benefit of themselves and the A. S. P. L. S. Firm. The most important witness is Lutchmanan Chetty, as he is the only one who can give direct evidence that Pasupathi Iyer knew that Kaderasan Chetty signed as surety. Is he trustworthy and credible? It may possibly be that Kaderasan did sign as a surety merely and that his firm did not participate in the loan and even if so, it may also possibly be that nothing was said to the Bank officials, to Pasupathi Iyer or any one else when the note was signed that Kaderasan was signing as a surety. If nothing was said then to the effect that he was a surety even if he was, he would bind his principal for the reasons which I have already given since the Bank would not have had notice. The credibility of Lutchmanan Chetty or otherwise, therefore, becomes very important. As I have already stated he, says that Pasupathi Iyer asked him to get another man to stand as surety and that he got Kaderasan. He says that the money was taken by his firm and that interest was paid by his firm, but he produces no books to show this. When cross-examined he allows that Kaderasan told him that his principal had not permitted him to sign and borrow for another and that he had given express directions not to borrow for another and that he (Kaderasan) signed the promissory note to oblige his (Lutchmanan's) master. He allowed that Kaderasan was wrong in signing without his principal's permission. He also said that Kaderasan used his principal's name in signing the promissory note at their request to oblige them. That he should allow Kaderasan to do a wrongful act of this nature is an important fact in considering his credibility as a witness. If he could acquiesce in Kaderasan doing such a wrongful act, is it probable that, if it suit his purpose, he would hesitate to tell a lie in the witness-box? His evidence is not satisfactory in other ways. He said: "I do not remember if Rs. 30,000 out of the sum of Rs. 60,000 was withheld by the Bank and taken towards a debt due by me already." So his recollection of the details of the transaction was not very vivid. If he could not recollect that Rs. 30,000 of the consideration was on account of the renewal of an old debt, how does he recollect that Kaderasan signed as a surety? He went on to say: "Kaderasan Chetty and I had jointly borrowed Rs. 30,000 before that. I took that money. It was money got in cash. I have borrowed money in the National Bank of India, Chartered Bank of India and Bank of Burma. I might have borrowed jointly from these Banks with Kaderasan Chetty. In some cases he would have stood surety for me and in some cases we might both have taken the money. In the Bank of Rangoon also we have borrowed money for both of us together. I do not remember if we both borrowed Rs. 30,000 from the Bank for both of us." In re-examination he said: "I paid back the sum of Rs. 30,000 borrowed by me with the joint signature of Kaderasan from the Bank." Now Churchward, the manager, says, and there is no reason to disbelieve him, that except for the two loans of the 8th July and 12th August he has never given any other loans to the two Firms of A.A. and A.S.P.L.S. together and that he has never received any other promissory notes from them together. When, therefore, Lutchmanan Chetty allowed that in the Bank of Rangoon he and Kaderasan had borrowed money for both of them together, what loan was he referring to? Or was the statement a loose and random one? If it was a loose and random one, the fact that he should make it goes to impair his credibility. If it was a true statement, it must refer to either the loan on the 8th July or that of the 12th August. His evidence as regards the loan of Rs. 30,000 is unsatisfactory. He first said he took the money, then that he did not remember if they both borrowed Rs. 30,000 from the Bank for both of them and then in re-examination said that he paid back the sum of Rs. 30,000 borrowed by him with the joint signature of Kaderasan from the Bank. The learned Judge on the original side has remarked that as regards Lutchmanan's interest, it is more in favour of the Bank's case in that if his accounts were passed on the footing that the A.A. Firm got only a share of the loan, which would be the case if the story he told in the witness-box was false, and at the time of their being passed he had suppressed the fact that he really had got all the money himself, clearly that would entitle his late employers or their creditors to re-open the account and to recover from him in respect of the balance. He says that he pays income-tax to the extent of Rs. 700 a year and if that is so, he has means. He says that he was agent of the A.A. Firm from 1904 to 1908. So at the time of his giving evidence he was presumably not in their employ. The A.A. Firm did not appear to defend the suit. According to Subbia the A.A. Firm got in two difficulties in 1908, and it may, therefore, have been insolvent when the suit was brought. If so, nothing more could be recovered from them in this suit than could be recovered by the sale of the collateral security deposited at the time. The promissory note was filed, and this would be recoverable from them in any case. Assuming that the full amount due on the promissory note would not be recovered by the sale of such security and that nothing more could be recovered from the A.A. Firm, the question arises whether Lutchmanan would have anything to fear from the A.A. Firm from going into the box and telling a story that, if believed, would free the A.S.P.L.S. Firm from liability. The books of the A.A. Firm may show that they only got half of the Rs. 60,000 and they may know that they only got half. If they are in difficulties or insolvent, they may have nothing to gain by bringing a suit to enforce from the A.S.P.L.S. Firm a half-contribution of what has been recovered from them or by bringing a claim against Lutchmanan, which they may know to be false, simply to take advantage of his giving false evidence. It may even be possible that knowing the only tangible property of theirs that can be proceeded against is the mortgage deposited, they have connived with the A.S.P.L.S. Firm to reduce their joint liability to the Bank. I do not think that due weight can be given to any such considerations as to what was Lutchmanan's interest. His evidence must be taken, analysed and pronounced on as it stands. The evidence of Subbia remains. He states that he was a clerk in the employ of the A. S. P. L. S. Firm from 1905 to 1908. He produced the following books of the Firm:—(1) a ledger account for the period from November 1905 to November 1907, the ledger containing the account of the Bank of Rangoon, (2) a day book beginning from the 14th March 1907 upto the time he gave his evidence, (3) two current account books. He says that between 1905 and 1907 there is no entry of a debt on the joint signatures of A. A. and A. S. P. L. S. and it is clear that there is no note of such a transaction in the book produced. The point is whether the books can be relied on as correct and trustworthy for the entries made in them in Kaderasan's time. It must be remembered that the A. S P. L. S. Firm allows that Kaderasan was a bad servant to them and did not conduct their business properly. Subbia says that he was prosecuted for a defalcation in Rangoon. A study of Subbia's evidence leads me to note as follows: The two current accounts give ledger accounts with the different persons with whom A. S. P. L. S. had dealings. Exhibit P contains accounts with two people other than Chetty Firms. No such ledgeraccount was produced in regard to transactions with the A. A. Firm, though looking at the evidence of joint transactions between the two firms it would be expected that one would be in existence. If separate ledger accounts were kept for dealings with others, why was not one kept for dealings with the A. A. Firm? Towards the commencement of his cross-examination Subbia said that the accounts of his firm with the A. A. Firm were not in the ledger he produced, but in another ledger which he had at his house and that they had with the A. A. Firm the current account ever since his firm started up to the time their firm got into difficulties in January 1908. The next day he brought two current account books, and at first said that he would have to find out where A. A's account was and that he had not looked into it at home. He then said that the account was not in the two books. His explanation as to the variance between his evidence does not seem to me to be satisfactory. He distinctly said at first there was a separate current account with the Firm of A. A. As there were such for transactions with others, why was there not one with A. A.? The impression left on my mind is that there may be such an one with A. A. and that it may have been suppressed.

(2) 37 N. Y. R. (10 Tiff.) 322.

BANK OF RANGOON, LTD. v. SOMASUNDARAM CHETTY.[1]

Then looking at the ledger account produced (P. 173) there is a note under date the 7th October 1907 of a joint transaction with A. A. in respect of borrowing Rs. 30,000 from the Chartered Bank. The entry runs: "7th October 1907. Credit as on this date in respect of our share out of a demand loan of Rs. 30,000 taken jointly with A. A. on the 27th August deducting half (of it) to the above, Rs. 15,000."

The entry goes on to show that the loan was taken on the 27th August and yet it was not entered till the 7th October. If this was so, it would tend to show that the books may not have been kept correctly and carefully. It must be that the books would in 1907 be under the charge of Kaderasan, a man who did not conduct the business properly and was subsequently prosecuted for defalcation. Subbia on being asked to explain the entry said: "The loan was raised on the 27th August, but it was entered on the 7th October. The reason why it appears on the 7th October though money was borrowed on the 27th August is that the loan was renewed on that day. Entry in the ledger shows that our firm got the money on the 27th August. There is nothing in the day book re the loan of Rs. 30,000 (he means under date 27th August as I have verified from the day book). It is also possible that on paper was 27th August but the money was actually taken on the 7th October." Such evidence does not explain satisfactorily how a loan apparently recorded as taken on the 27th August was not entered till the 7th October. If omission on due date to enter could occur once, is it possible the transactions in question were omitted to be entered on due date and subsequently not entered at all? There is another item of account that does not seem to me to be very satisfactory, and that is the item marked as Ik. under date the 29th May 1906. It says: "Credit in respect of a two months' term (thavenai) loan 'signed' by C. V. C. T. bearing 9 per cent. interest--Rs. 30,000." Subbia says that it does not appear that the C. V. C. T. got everything out of this amount. The loan was from the Bank of Rangoon. The voucher of the Bank showing particulars with regard to it is Exhibt G3. That voucher shows that the Rs. 30,000 were paid by cash Rs. 19,000 and by a cheque in favour of the C. V. C. T. Rs. 11,000. There is no reason to doubt the genuineness of Exhibit G3. Looking at the C. V. C. T.'s ledger account it does not help us to explain how a cheque for Rs. 11,000 was given to them, if they did not participate in the loan. Subbia does not satisfactorily explain the Rs. 431-8 in Exhibit 4, the Rs. 438-4 in Exhibit H2 and the Rs. 451-3-6 in Exhibit K2. When Subbia comes to give evidence as to transactions between his A. A. Firm he says: "I cannot say what the state of account was between A. A. Firm and our firm on 8th July 1907. I shall have to work it out. I cannot say whether a balance of Rs. 50,000 might have been owing from one firm to another. 1907 August 12th. I cannot say what was the state of accounts between A. A. Firm and our firm. I cannot say whether a balance of Rs. 60,000 might have been owing from the one to another. . . . . Though I conduct the case now on behalf of the defendant I have not looked in to the state of affairs in August 1907 for the purposes of the suit. As we have no current account between the two firms, I shall have to examine all books of Bank loan transactions to find that out. Bank loan transactions if carried into another, then that must be looked into. I will have to work out from Exhibit I. I think the account has not been carried into any other book. I think their account must appear only in the book." He is then taken through entries in the ledger beginning from the 8th July 1907, the date of the first promissory note. It would have been more satisfactory if Subbia had been able to give more definite evidence about the state of the account between the two firms on 8th July 1907. As regards the transactions of the 8th July and 12th August 1907 it is impossible to say from the entries as they stand that the A. S. P. L. S. Firm benefited from the loans taken from the Bank of Rangoon on that day. Rupees 30,000 were taken from the A. A. Firm on the 12th August, Rs. 28,000 being re-paid on the 13th August; but this does not show that both firms benefited equally from the extra Rs. 30,000 taken on that day.

If the books can be believed and trusted, they may be said to show that the A. S. P. L. S. Firm did not jointly borrow the Rs. 60,000 from the Bank of Rangoon; but in the face of my analysis of Subbia's evidence can they be trusted? There is the fact of Kaderasan's character, the non-explanation of an entry of a loan apparently taken on the 27th August 1907 till the 7th October, the giving of a cheque for Rs. 11,000 to the C. V. C. T. as part of consideration for a loan which, according to the books, the Firm C. V. C. T. did not participate in and the non-explanation of some minor sums. There is further the fact that no separate current account with the A. A. Firm has been produced though such an account seems to have been kept in respect to transactions with others and the fact that Subbia does not give definite evidence as to the state of the account between the two firms on the 8th July 1907, the date of the first loan. I think that special stress should be laid on the non-production of a separate current account with the A. A. Firm and the suspicion which arises that there may be such an account, the fact that it is possible that a loan taken on the 27th August was not entered into the ledger till the 7th October and the fact that a cheque for Rs. 11,000 was given to the C. V. C. T. Firm when a loan was being disbursed by the Bank on the joint liability of the A. S. P. L. S. books, showing apparently that the C. V. C. T. Firm did not participate in it. I do not think that under the circumstances the books can be implicitly relied on.

Respondent's Counsel comments strongly on the fact that Pasupathi Iyer has not been called by the Bank, and from Churchward's evidence it would appear that effective steps could have been taken to examine him. It is explained in paragraph 11 of the appeal why it was not thought necessary to examine him, and the Bank's Counsel said at the hearing that it was too late to examine Pasupathi Iyer on commission after Lutchmanan's evidence had come back as the case had been in the warning list. The witnesses were not examined till long after Lutchmanan had been examined and I am of opinion that it was a grave omission on the part of the Bank to have taken no steps to secure Pasupathi Iyer's evidence. It must be, however, remembered that according to Churchward's evidence, at the time of the hearing Pasupathi Iyer does not seem to have been in the service of the Bank, and if this is so, one of the main reasons for thinking that he might depose untruly in favour of the Bank had ceased to exist. In the circumstances why did not the A. S. P. L. S. firm take steps to secure his evidence?

But in any case the burden of proof lay on the A. S. P. L. S. firm to prove that the Bank had notice that their firm was not interested in the loan evidenced by the promissory note for Rs. 60,000 and on the evidence produced, I am unable to find that they have proved that the Bank had such notice. In the first place, it does not seem to me that they have proved that they were not interested in either of the sums of Rs. 30,000 and in the second, even assuming that they were not interested in either of such sums and that it is a fact that Kaderasan signed both notes merely as a surety, I am unable to hold that on the unsatisfactory evidence of Lutchmanan Chetty it is proved that Pasupathi Iyer knew or had notice that Kaderasan signed merely as a surety. If he did sign merely as a surety, it may possibly have been that he did do so without anything being said about it to Pasupathi Iyer. All parties may have then been of opinion that the power gave Kaderasan authority to sign his principal's name as surety, and if so there would be no special reason for any talk as to the capacity in which Kaderasan signed, and in considering whether this is what actually took place the credibility of that part of Lutchmanan's evidence, in which he says that Kaderasan told him that his principal had not permitted him to sign and borrow for another and that he had given express instructions not to borrow for another and that he had signed to oblige him, comes into question. Is such a story likely to be true?

In this view it is unnecessary to discuss whether if Pasupathi Iyer knew that Kaderasan signed merely as a surety, such knowledge would be notice to, and would bind, the Bank.

One further point remains, and that is whether Subramanian and Somasundaram should have been each allowed Counsel's fees. I would not interfere with the order of the learned Judge on the point, as Somasundaram had to meet quite a different case to the case Subramanian had to meet.

In the result, I would vary the decree passed by the learned Judge on the original side by ordering that the names of the legal representatives of Subramanian now deceased, namely Somasundaram Chetty and Shenmugam Chetty, be added to that of Ramaswamy Chetty as being liable to the Bank in the sum of Rs. 78,744-10-6 for principal and interest and that the same decree be passed against them all three as was passed against Ramaswamy Chetty. I would also give the Bank costs against the firm of A. S. P. L. S., i. e., now Somasundaram Chetty and Shenmugam Chetty in their capacity as legal representatives of Subramanian Chetty on the original side and in this appeal.

I would not allow Somasundaram costs as an individual respondent in this appeal.

Decree varied.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

CIVIL REVISION PETITION No. 891 OF 1914.

November 13, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Kumaraswamy Sastri.

SIVAGAMI AMMAL—PLAINTIFF—PETITIONER

versus

LOUIS GNANA PRAKASA MUDALIAR—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XVII, r. 1—Case once begun—Court bound to go on from day to day—Case part-heard before Subordinate Judge—Subordinate Judge proper officer to adjourn it and not District Judge.

When the hearing of a suit has once begun, the Court is bound to go on, under Order XVII, rule 1, of the Civil Procedure Code, from day to day, unless for special reasons it is necessary to adjourn it to some future day.

Where a Subordinate Judge, before whom a suit was part-heard, adjourned it from 7th October 1914 to 18th January 1915 in obedience to the order of the District Judge to whom he applied for directions:

Held, that the order of the District Judge must be set aside and that the Subordinate Judge was the proper officer to decide when a part-heard case before him was to be adjourned and the District Judge had no voice in the matter.

LAXMIRAM LALLUBHAI JOSHI v. BHALASHANKAR VENIRAM MEHTA.

Petition, under section 115 of Act V of 1908, praying the High Court to revise the order of the Court of the Temporary Subordinate Judge of Cuddalore, in Original Suit No. 48 of 1913.

Mr. T. V. Venkatarama Iyer, for the Petitioner.

Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The suit was part-heard by the Subordinate Judge and he was under Order XVII, rule 1, Civil Procedure Code, bound to go on from day to day unless for special reasons it was necessary to adjourn the case to some future day. The Subordinate Judge has adjourned the case from the 7th October 1914 to 18th January 1915 in obedience to the orders of the District Judge to whom he seems to have applied for directions.

I have perused the proceedings of the District Judge and find it difficult to see on what grounds it can be supported. The Subordinate Judge was the proper officer to decide when a part-heard case before him was to be adjourned and the District Judge had no voice in the matter. Even assuming that he has, it is difficult to follow his reasoning. He seems to assume that the Vakils were unnecessarily prolonging the case before the Subordinate Judge and that as the Subordinate Court was sanctioned for a short time, the Subordinate Judge should show larger disposals by adjourning the present case and taking up other suits. I cannot but express my emphatic dissent to the procedure and the reasoning adopted by the District Judge.

I set aside the order of the Subordinate Judge and direct him to take up the case and proceed with it according to law. He will exercise his own discretion in adjourning the case. I make no order as to costs.

Order set aside.

BOMBAY HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 929 OF 1913.

July 7, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Beaman and Mr. Justice Heaton.

LAXMIRAM LALLUBHAI JOSHI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

BHALASHANKAR VENIRAM MEHTA—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Limitation Act (IX of 1908), Sch. I, Art. 182—Execution—Judgment-debtor declared insolvent—Appeal by decree-holder – Step-in-aid of execution.

An appeal by the decree-holder against an order declaring the judgment-debtor an insolvent is "an application to take a step-in-aid of execution" within the meaning of Article 182 of the first Schedule of the Limitation Act, and, therefore, an application for execution filed within three years of such an appeal is not barred.

Second appeal from the decision of the District Judge of Ahmedabad, in Appeal No. 68 of 1912, reversing the order passed by the Subordinate Judge of Umreth, in Darkhast No. 462 of 1911.

Mr. H. V. Divatia, for the Appellant.

Mr. Manubhai Nanabhai, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The facts in this case are somewhat unusual. There was an ordinary mortgage-decree of the year 1903. The mortgagee applied for execution in due course on the 8th of August 1905. In January 1906 the mortgagor applied under the old Code of Civil Procedure to be declared an insolvent. In his application of August 1905 the mortgagee asked that the property might be sold, but did not seek any further relief against the mortgagor. Accordingly in June 1906 the property was sold under this Darkhast. In September of the same year the Court declared the mortgagor an insolvent, although under section 351 it did not discharge him. In December of the same year the Court struck off the Darkhast of August the 8th, 1905, for two reasons: (1) that it had been satisfied, (2) that the judgment-debtor was now an adjudicated insolvent. The mortgagee appeared from the first in the insolvency proceedings as the sole opposing creditor.

We might find some difficulty, more, speaking for myself I think, a verbal than a real difficulty, in bringing such appearance within the meaning of the words "application to take some step-in-aid of execution" under Article 179 (old), now Article 182. But as the result of those proceedings was against him, the creditor, appellant here, appealed to the District Court and succeeded. We think that it is not putting too great a strain upon ordinary language to say that an appeal in such circumstances fairly falls within the meaning of the words "an application to take a step-in-aid of execution." It is clear that as long as the insolvency proceedings went in favour of the debtor, the creditor could not have presented any application in ordinary course for the further execution of his decree with the least hope of success. Two at least of the High Courts in India had already put so liberal a construction upon the insolvency provisions of the old Civil Procedure Code that an executing creditor must have foreseen that no application for the execution of the decree, either by sale of property or arrest of the person of the judgment-debtor, could have the least chance of success so long as the judgment-debtor had been declared an insolvent under section 351, even although he had not been actually discharged within the meaning of section 357. So that we think that in view of the Court's finding that this judgment-debtor was an insolvent early in 1906, the present appellant had no other course open to him than in the first instance to get this bar to the further execution of his decree removed, and the only way in which he could hope to obtain that result would be by first opposing the insolvency petition in the first Court, and, if he failed there, by appealing to higher authority. This he did, and although it is unnecessary to trace the subsequent tedious proceedings, it is sufficient to say that his last appeal could not have been made earlier than January 1909, that is to say, well within three years of his present Darkhast.

Adopting that view, it is unnecessary to enter into any of the other nice and difficult questions which have been raised and adequately argued in the course of this appeal. We do not seek to lay down any general principle upon any of those questions, but we desire to confine our judgment to the rather unusual facts before us, and we think that we do no violence to the meaning of Article 179 (old), now Article 182, by holding that the present Darkhast is within three years of the last application made by the judgment-creditor to a Court to take some step-in-aid of the execution of his decree. For these reasons we think that the appeal ought to be allowed and the judgment of the Court below reversed. We direct, therefore, that the Darkhast be restored and that execution do proceed upon it according to law. We think that this appeal must be allowed with all costs.

Appeal allowed.

COURT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE, UNITED PROVINCES.

REVENUE REVISION PETITION No. 9 OF 1913-14, OF GONDA DISTRICT.

April 9, 1914.

Present:—Sir Duncan Colvin Baillie, S. M.

Maharajah Sir BHAGWATI PRASAD SINGH—DEFENDANT—APPELLANT

versus

SURAJ BALI—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Ejectment, power of, not absolutely reserved under lease—Thekadar not authorised to eject tenants without landlord's consent—Notice of ejectment signed by landlord alone, whether sufficient—Signature of thekadar, whether necessary.

Where the power of ejecting tenants is not absolutely reserved under the lease but it is simply provided that it should not be exercised without the consent of the landlord, a notice of ejectment signed by the landlord alone is insufficient and must bear the signature of the thekadar.

Appeal from the decree of the Officiating Commissioner, Fyzabad, dated 1st October 1913, reversing that of the Assistant Collector, Gonda, dated 7th March 1913.

FACTS.—The defendant Maharajah gave one of his villages on lease to a thekadar. The lease provided that the thekadar would not be entitled to issue notices of ejectment on tenants without having had previously obtained written consent of the Maharajah.

Subsequently a notice of ejectment signed by the Maharajah alone was served upon the plaintiff tenant, who contested it on the ground that it was invalid as it did not bear the thekadar's signature. The defendant pleaded that the notice was valid, inasmuch as the thekadar had not been given the power of ejectment and thus it was not necessary that the notice should have been signed by him.

The Court of first instance, relying upon the decision of the Board of Revenue in In re

MG. HYIN BA v. MG. PE U KIN.

Maharajah of Balrampur v. Bhajan (Petition No. 16 of 1904-05, of Gonda District), which held in that case that the thekadar's signature on the notice was not required, upheld the notice and dismissed the suit. The Commissioner, on appeal, finding that the Maharajah had transferred by lease his right of collection of rent to the thekadar in whose favour mutation was effected, and had merely restricted the thekadar from issuing notices without his consent, and that there was thus no complete reservation by the Maharajah of the power of ejectment, held that the notice ought not to have been issued by the Maharajah alone but by the thekadar with the Maharajah's consent. The notice having thus been cancelled by the first Appellate Court, the matter was further contested in appeal before the Board.

The Hon'ble Shaikh Shahid Husain, for the Appellant.

Mr. S. P. Kain, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The objection to the notice upheld by the Commissioner was essentially of a technical character and if the Commissioner had overruled it, I should have had no fault to find with his doing so. It is impossible, however, to say that according to the strict letter of the law, the decision of the Commissioner is not correct. The power of ejectment was not under the thekadar's lease absolutely reserved. It was simply provided that it should not be exercised without the consent of the Maharajah. In these circumstances, to fully comply with the law the notice should bear the signature of the thekadar.

The appeal is dismissed with costs on appellant.

Appeal dismissed.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL NO. 117 OF 1913.

August 24, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Parlett.

MG. HYIN BA AND ANOTHER—APPELLANTS

versus

MG. PE U KIN AND A OTHER—RESPONDENTS.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), ss. 64, 73—Execution proceedings Attachment of property by two decree-holders—Sale ordered under first attachment—Private alienation of property after attachment—Deposit of decretal amount of first decree-holder—Assets, rateable distribution of—Second decree-holder, right of.

Where a judgment-debtor's property was attached in execution of a certain decree and another decree-holder applied for attachment of the same property in execution of his decree against the same judgment-debtor, and the judgment-debtor paid into the Court the decretal amount with costs of the first decree-holder a day before the sale and meanwhile sold it privately to another person:

Held, that, whether the second decree-holder's attachment was actually effected or not, he was entitled under section 73, Civil Procedure Code, to a rateable distribution of the assets received by the Court and the private transfer of the property was, under section 64, Civil Procedure Code, void as against his claim to the extent of his share.

Mr. Villa, for the Appellant.

Mr. Ba Dun, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—On 8th February 1912 Mg. Kya Ban attached a house and site in execution of a money-decree against Ma Sein and two others and the sale was eventually fixed for the 4th May. On that day the judgment-debtors deposited the decretal amount and costs in Court and the attachment was on 6th May withdrawn and the next day the money was paid to Mg. Kya Ban. It appears that on 18th of April the judgment-debtors had privately transferred the attached property to the present respondents for Rs. 200 a part of which money the judgment-debtors paid into Court on 4th May.

Meanwhile on 15th March Mg. Kyin Bu applied in execution of a money-decree against the same judgment-debtors to attach the same property, and on 16th March the Judge ordered a warrant of attachment to issue. On 19th March some one, apparently a clerk, noted that it had been issued and on 27th April the Judge recorded a statement that it had been; no warrant is, however, forthcoming nor is it proved that attachment was in fact effected until the 8th May. On 15th July the present respondents got the attachment removed. Mg. Kyin Bu then filed this suit for a declaration that the property was liable to attachment as being his judgment-debtors' and got a decree. It was, however, reversed on appeal on the ground that section 64 of the Civil Procedure Code did not apply, as at the time of the sale Mg. Kyin Bu had not obtained an effectual attachment of the property. The District Judge appears to have overlooked the explanation to that section, which was enacted to set at rest conflicting views held as to the scope of the law as it previously stood. Whether Kyin Bu's attachment was actually effected before the sale or not, he had clearly made application to the Court for the execution of a decree for the payment of money passed against the same judgment-debtors, and, therefore, immediately assets were received by the Court, as they were on 4th May, Mg. Kyin Bu was entitled under section 73 to a rateable share thereof and the private transfer of the property was void as against his claim to such share, and to that extent it must be declared void.

I find that the decretal amount with costs due to Mg. Kya Ban was Rs. 153-13-7 and that due to Mg. Kyin Bu is Rs. 166-4, their rateable shares, therefore, were 154/320 and 166/320, i.e., 77/160 and 83/160 respectively, i.e., they were almost exactly equal, and it will be sufficiently near to take Kyin Bu's share as one-half.

I, therefore, reverse the decree of the District Court and declare that the sale of the property to the respondents was void to the extent of one-half and that one-half of that property is liable to attachment and sale by Kyin Bu in execution of his decree in Civil Revision No. 52 of 1912. Respondents will pay appellants' costs in all Courts, Advocate's fee in this Court two gold mohurs.

Decree reversed.

BOMBAY HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEAL No. 640 OF 1913.

July 20, 1914.

Present:—Sir Basil Scott, KT., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Shah.

HARCHAND PANAJI—PLAINTIFF—APPELLANT

versus

GULABCHAND KANJI—DEFENDANT—RESPONDENT.

Execution—Decree in foreign Court—Voluntary submission to jurisdiction—Transfer of execution proceedings to British Court, where judgment-debtor resides—Decree, whether can be executed.

A decree passed against a person who voluntarily submits to the jurisdiction of a foreign Court can, on transfer, be executed in the Court within whose jurisdiction he resides.

Second appeal from the decision of the First Class Subordinate Judge, Surat, in Appeal No. 27 of 1912, confirming the order passed by the Second Class Subordinate Judge at Surat, in Darkhast No. 242 of 1911.

Mr. T. R. Desai, for the Appellant.

Mr. G. N. Thakore, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—The lower Courts have declined to execute a decree of a Baroda Court against the respondent's father, Kanji Kapura, which had been transferred for execution against his estate to the Court of the Second Class Subordinate Judge of Surat.

The learned Judge of the lower Appellate Court states that it was conceded that, on the principles of International Law as laid down in Sirdar Gurdyal Singh v. Raja of Faridkot (1), the decree would have been a nullity had the defendant not appeared and defended the suit in the Baroda Court, and that it was argued before him that the defendant had voluntarily submitted to the jurisdiction by employing a Pleader to defend the suits. As to this the learned Judge of the lower Appellate Court says that the defendant protested against the right of the Baroda Court to entertain the suit at the earliest opportunity and did not make any other defence.

We have referred to the statement of the pleadings and issues in the Baroda Court and find that the statement of the lower Appellate Court is incorrect.

The defendant pleaded, first, that the plaintiff had no right to sue as the sum claimed was vested in him by inheritance as the brother of the plaintiff's father's deceased brother's widow. Secondly, that, if not, the suit was defective for want of parties as the other brothers of the plaintiff's father were not joined. Thirdly, that the plaintiff's suit could not be entertained as the money dealings relied on took place outside the jurisdiction of the Court. Fourthly, that the plaintiff's suit would not lie in that Court as the defendant had no property and did not reside or carry on business in Baroda territory. Fifthly, that the suit was time-barred.

Upon this defence four issues were raised :

1. Is the suit defective for want of parties ?

2. Is the suit barred by time ?

(1) 22 C. 222; 21 I. A. 171 (P. C.); 4 M. L. J. 267 (1894) A. C. 670; 11 R. 340.

ARJUN RAGHU NAROLE v. KRISHNAJI VENIMADHAV VALIMBE.

3. Does the suit lie in this Court ?

4. What relief should be granted to the plaintiff ?

All the issues were decided in the plaintiff's favour after evidence had been adduced by both sides.

The case appears to us to be clearly one of voluntary submission to the jurisdiction, the defendant taking his chance of getting a decree in his favour : see Boissiere & Co. v. Brockner & Co. (2) and Voinet v. Barrett (3). The case is a stronger one in favour of the appellant than that of Parry & Co. v. Appasami Pillai (4), relied on in the lower Courts, for there was no preliminary decision of the question of jurisdiction on the protest of the defendant and no circumstance of pressure such as the Madras Court thought existed in Parry & Co. v. Appasami Pillai (3).

We set aside the decree of the lower Appellate Court and return the Darkhast for execution of the Baroda Court's decree in the Court of the Second Class Subordinate Judge of Surat.

The respondent must pay the costs of his opposition to the Darkhast up to date.

Decree set aside.

(2) (1889) 6 T. L. R. 85.
(3) (1885) 55 L. J. Q. B. 39; 34 W. R. 161.
(4) 2 M. 407; 5 Ind. Jur. 188.

BOMBAY HIGH COURT.
CIVIL APPLICATION No. 147 OF 1913.
June 16, 1914.
Present:—Mr. Justice Beaman and Mr. Justice Hayward.

ARJUN RAGHU NAROLE—APPLICANT
versus
KRISHNAJI VENIMADHAV VALIMBE—OPPONENT.

Civil Procedure Code (Act V of 1908), O. XXI, r. 101—Execution—Decree transferred to Collector—Court which passed decree, powres of—Jurisdiction.

When a decree is transferred to a Collector the Court which passed the decree is for the time being functus officio for all purposes of execution; but as soon as the Collector has exhausted all the powers of execution conferred upon him, any matters requiring to be done, and usually regarded as in execution, must be done by the Court which made the decree.

Civil application, under extraordinary jurisdiction, from an order passed by the First Class Subordinate Judge at Satara, in Miscellaneous Application No. 2 of 1913.

Mr. Jayakar (with him Mr. K. N. Koyajee), for the Applicant.

Mr. Gadgil (with him Mr. D. R. Patwardhan), for the Opponent.

JUDGMENT.

BEAMAN, J.—A decree was sent to the Collector for execution under section 68 of the Civil Procedure Code. The Collector appears to have put up the property of the judgment-debtor for sale, to have sold it, and given the purchaser a sale-certificate. Thereafter the present opponent, claiming to be in possession in his own right, appears to have obstructed the auction-purchaser, and the Collector removed him, as he has power to do, under rule 14 (1) made under section 70 of the Civil Procedure Code. Thereupon the opponent went to the Court which passed the decree and obtained from it an order under rule 101 of Order XXI. Against this the present applicant, the auction-purchaser, has moved this Court in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction to declare that the Subordinate Judge's order under Order XXI, rule 101, was made, in the circumstances stated, without jurisdiction. I think that the true answer to the question which arises here, a question which must frequently arise in similar cases, is that the execution entrusted to the Collector was completed and must have been completed before the Court which made the decree, could properly be invited to make, or certainly before it could properly have made, any order under rule 101. I agree that in principle there could not be two Courts executing the same decree at the same time, and this appears to me to have been the reason underlying Burkitt, J.'s decision in Muhammad Said Khan v. Payag Sahu (1). But when we examine the rules framed under section 70, and it is under those rules alone that the Collector exercises his powers, it will be seen that in the execution of the decree he is authorized to do a certain number of necessary acts, while, on the other hand, his powers are much less extensive than those conferred upon an ordinary Court executing its own decree under Order XXI. So that while I do not demur to the principle I have stated, namely that after a decree has been transferred to a Collector the Court which passed that decree is for the time being functus officio for all purposes of execution, I also say that as soon as the Collector has exhausted all the power of execution conferred upon him by rule 14 framed under section 70, then any matters requiring to be done, and usually regarded as in execution, such as those provided for in rules 97 to 103, for example, of Order XXI, must be done by the Court which made the decree. Otherwise there might certainly arise situations in which parties have suffered wrong at the hands of a Collector tied down by the rules conferring upon him very restricted powers, and yet be entirely without redress. This can never have been the intention of the Legislature, and were authority needed, I might refer to a decision by Sir Lawrance Jenkins to which I myself was a party in Pita Moti v. Chunilal (2). There again, I think, the reason is precisely and accurately stated by the learned Chief Justice and that reason will certainly cover the present case. We are, therefore, of opinion that the order complained of was not ultra vires but made in the exercise of jurisdiction vested in the learned Judge who made it, and was very properly made. The Rule must, therefore, be discharged with all costs.

(1) 16 A. 228; A. W. N. (1894) 55.

HAYWARD, J.—This application raises the question whether a Collector's order dispossessing a third party in execution under rule 14 of the rules in force under section 70 of the Civil Procedure Code can be called in question by that third party by application to the Court under rules 100 and 101 of Order XXI of the Civil Procedure Code.

The powers of the Collector in execution must be looked for either in Schedule III or in the rules in force or framed under section 70 of the Code. Where powers are conferred on the Collector, the effect is to oust the jurisdiction to that extent of the Court as provided by sub-section 2 of section 70 of the Code. Now the Collector has been granted power to dispossess third parties in execution under rule 95 of Order XXI of the Code by the inclusion of that provision in rule 14 in force under section 70 of the Code. But the Collector has not been granted power to hear the grievances of third parties after being so dispossessed in execution under rules 100 and 101 of Order XXI of the Code. This power must, therefore, be deemed to have been left with the Court and not to have been taken away under sub-section 2 of section 70 of the Code. "If the power has by rules been vested in the Collector, then it is exercisable by him and not by the Court. If that power has not been conferred on him, then ..... the power must continue still to be exercisable by the Court," as was stated by Jenkins, C. J., in the case of Pita Moti v. Chunilal (2).

The Rule on this application must, therefore, in my opinion also, be discharged with costs, inasmuch as it proceeds on the alleged want of jurisdiction of the lower Court.

Rule discharged.

(2) 9 Bom. L. R. 15; 31 B. 207.

MADRAS HIGH COURT.

SECOND CIVIL APPEALS NOS. 529 TO 536, 538, 539, 854 AND 988 OF 1913.

August 11, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Seshagiri Aiyar and Mr. Justice Kumarasawmy Sastri.

DORAISAMI REDDI AND OTHERS—DEFENDANTS—APPELLANTS

versus

VENKATACHALLAM PILLAI—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908), Sch. Part A, Art. 8—"Ascertainment of rent," meaning of—Interpleader suit as to who is entitled to water-cess, whether suit for ascertainment of rent—Limitation Act (IX of 1908), s. 15—Stay by injunction—Injunction order set aside—Time, whether excluded.

In order to entitle a landlord in a suit for arrears of rent to deduct the time taken in prosecution of a previous suit between himself and the tenant, the suit must be one relating to the ascertainment of rent within the meaning of Article 8, Part I, of the Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908).

An interpleader suit by tenant against landlord and Government merely to determine which party is entitled to collect water-cess from the tenants, is not a suit for ascertainment of rent within the meaning of Article 8, Part I, of the Estates Land Act,

DORAISAMI REDDI v. VENKATACHALLAM PILLAI.

A party cannot claim to exclude, under section 15 of the Limitation Act, 1908, the time during which no injunction staying a suit was in force against him.

Raja Rangayya Appa Rao v. Bobba Sriramulu, 27 M. 143 (P. C.); 6 Bom. L. R. 241; 14 M. L. J. 1; 8 C. W. N. 162; 31 I. A. 17; Ramayyar v. Vadachalla, 14 M. 441 (F. B.); 1 M. L. J. 661; Velachala Gramani v. Boomiappa Mudliar, 27 M. 65; Kidambi Venkatachariar v. Lakshmi Doss, 31 M. 62; 14 M. L. J. 601; 3 M. L. T. 106; Syed Ghulam Ghouse Shah Sahib v. Shunmugam Pillai, 8 Ind. Cas. 491; 8 M. L. T. 345; 34 M. 438; Singaram Pillai v. Syed Ghulam Ghouse Shah Sahib Kadir, 8 Ind. Cas. 1091; 9 M. L. T. 82; 20 M. L. J. 927; 36 M. 438; Arunachellam Chettiar v. Kadir Rowthan, 29 M. 556; 16 M. L. J. 486; 1 M. L. T. 315; Upendra Nath Nag Chowdhury v. Surya Kanta Roy, 20 Ind. Cas. 205; Ghulam Nasiruddin v. Herdo Prasad, 14 Ind. Cas. 343; 9 A. L. J. 540; 34 A. 436, referred to.

Second appeals respectively against the decree of the District Court of South Arcot, in Appeal Suits Nos. 101 and 127, 102 and 128, 100 and 120, 105 and 132, 66 and 134, 85 and 118, 67 and 149, 129, 138, 124, 113, 202 and 114 of 1912 respectively preferred against those of the Deputy Collector, Cuddalore Division, in Revenue Suits Nos. 107, 115, 64, 130, 148, 59, 25, 117, 153, 94, 33 and 35 of 1911, respectively.

IN S. A. NOS. 529 TO 536, 538 AND 539 OF 1913.

Mr. C. Padmanabha Aiyangar, for the Appellants.

Messrs. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar and A. Ramachandra Aiyar, for the Respondent.

IN S. A. NO. 854 OF 1913.

Mr. C. Padmanabha Aiyangar, for the Appellants.

Mr. C. Venkatachallam Pillai, for the Respondent.

IN S. A. NO. 988 OF 1913.

Mr. C. Padmanabha Aiyangar, for the Appellants.

Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar, for the Respondent.

JUDGMENT.—These second appeals are from suits for arrears of rent by the shrotriemdar, the plaintiff, against his tenants for eight faslis (Fasli 1312 to Fasli 1319). The main defence is that the claim up to Fasli 1316 is barred by limitation. As regards Fasli 1317, the plea is that as the arrears were due in February it was not open to the plaintiff to stipulate in the patta that they shall be paid at the end of April and as the suit was brought on the 1st of May 1911, the claim for that fasli also is barred by limitation. There is a further defence applicable to all the faslis, that the plaintiff agreed to forego his claim for water cess, in case the Government collected it from the defendant; and as the defendant paid it to Government, he is not liable to pay it over again to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff in answer to the plea of limitation sets up two answers: (1) There were proceedings to ascertain the arrears of rent which terminated only in April 1910, and that those proceedings saved the bar; (2) that the plaintiff was prevented by injunction from collecting the rent, and if the time during which the injunction was in force were excluded, the plaintiff's suit will be in time. In order to understand these arguments, the history of the previous litigation has to be shortly stated.

The defendant, the tenant, instituted an interpleader suit (Original Suit No. 38 of 1904 in the District Munsif's Court of Panruti), to which he made the plaintiff and the Government parties, for determining which of them was entitled to collect the water-cess from him. He also prayed for an injunction restraining the plaintiff from collecting it from him till the rights of the rival claimants were settled. The District Munsif held that the Government alone was entitled to collect the cess and restrained the plaintiff by injunction from collecting it. This was on the 5th May 1906. On appeal Mr. Hamnett, the District Judge, held that the suit was bad for misjoinder of parties and of causes of action and dismissed the suit on the 3rd of November 1906. On the 22nd of October 1909, the High Court in second appeal reversed this decision and remanded the suit for disposal on the merits. After remand, Mr. Moberly, the then District Judge, held that both the Government and the plaintiff were entitled to collect the cess. This was on the 4th April 1910. Finally the High Court held on the 18th October 1912 that the plaintiff alone was entitled to collect it. It may be mentioned in passing that the plaintiff instituted the suit on the 1st May 1911 on the strength of the judgment of the District Judge on remand.

The first question for our consideration is whether the litigation ending with the judgment of the District Judge in April 1910 is a "suit or proceeding for the purpose of ascertaining the rent" under Article 18,

Part A, of the Schedule to the Madras Estates Land Act. Prior to the Act, claims of this nature were governed by Article 110 of the General Limitation Act. It was in consequence of the decisionof the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in Raja Rangayya Appa Rao v. Bobba Sriramulu (1) that the Article in the Madras Estates Land Act was inserted. A large part of the claim in the suit arose before the Madras Estates Land Act became law. On a careful consideration of the grounds of the decision in Raja Rangayya Appa Rao v. Bobba Sriramulu (1), we are unable to hold that the previous litigation related to the ascertainment of rent. Before their Lordships of the Privy Council it was argued that as under section 14 of the Act rent remaining unpaid at the end of the year became an arrear of rent, it must be deemed to have been ascertained at the end of the fasli year. The answer of their Lordships is: "In their Lordships' opinion this whole series of sections (referring to section 14 and onwards) applies to ascertained rents, not to rents at rates which have yet to be determined". It is clear from this language that in the opinion of their Lordships it is only when the rate has to be determined under sections 7 to 10 and there are proceedings in that behalf, that rent remains unascertained. Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar argued that when the right to the cess is in dispute between rival claimants, the amount of rent is not an ascertained sum. If this argument is accepted, whenever the rent is claimed by two members of the same family in opposition to each other, and although the question may arise incidentally or by two rival landholders each claiming the right in himself, the period of limitation will not commence until their dispute is finally adjudicated upon. We think this would be straining the language too far. Their Lordships observe: "The object of a Limitation Act is presumably to compel people who have actionable claims to sue upon them with due promptitude or to forfeit the right to do so at all." Therefore, pleas of extenuation of the bar of limitation have to be strictly construed. Consequently the only permissible plea must be found within the Article itself. In another passage, it is said: "Under this procedure it seems clear that as long as proceedings are pending before the Collector and, on appeal from him, before the Civil Courts, the rate of rent is in suspense, for no one can say what it will prove to be, and that, therefore, no arrear of rent can be said to have become due within the meaning of the Limitation Act." Thus, in the opinion of their Lordships, the rate of rent must be in suspense, and there must be proceedings to settle it. In this case, there has never been any dispute regarding the rate of rent; and there were no proceedings to ascertain that rate. In the Article under reference the cause of action is made to commence from "the date of the decree or order by which the rent is finally ascertained." In this case there has been no such decree or order, and we are, therefore, constrained to hold that this plea will not avail the plaintiff. The decisions to which our attention has been drawn do not directly relate to the point we have to determine. It was pressed on us by the Vakil for the appellant that as the interpleader suit was in a Civil Court, even if it related to the ascertainment of rent, it will not save limitation. We cannot agree with this contention. It is settled law that the ordinary jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is not taken away in regard to claims for rent, except in so far as there is a special exclusion contained in any enactment. This was laid down in Ramayyar v. Vedachalla (2), vide also Vedachala Gramani v. Boomiappa Mudaliar (3) and Kidambi Venkatachariar v. Lakshmi Doss (4). Therefore, if there is a claim to settle the rate of rent pending in a Civil Court, the time taken up by its prosecution will count in favour of the landlord. The observations of the learned Chief Justice in Syed Ghulam Ghouse Sha Sahib v. Shunmugam Pillai (5) were relied on for the proposition that proceedings in Civil Courts are outside the scope of the Article in the Limitation Act. There is no foundation for such a conclusion from that judgment. The only question before his Lordship in that case was whether certain revenue proceedings saved limitation and the

(1) 27 M 143 (P. C.); 8 C. W. N. 162; 14 M. L. J. 1; 6 Bom. L. R. 241; 31 I. A. 17.

(2) 14 M. 441 (F. B.); 1 M. L. J. 661.

(3) 27 M. 65.

(4) 31 M. 62; 7 M. L. J. 601; 3 M. L. T. 106.

(5) 8 Ind. Cas 491; 34 M. 438; 8 M. L. T. 345.

judgment deals with that question alone. The conclusion arrived at by the learned Judges in Singaram Pillai v. Hazarath Kibulari Syed Ghulam Ghouse Sha Sahib Kadir (6) [on appeal from Syed Ghulam Ghouse Sha Sahib v. Shammugam Pillai (5)] shows that the question of starting the cause of action from the termination of proceedings in Civil Courts was not in issue in that case. In Arunachellam Chettiar v. Kadir Rowthan (7), there was no question regarding proceedings in Courts. The decision in Upendra Nath Nag Chowdhury v. Surya Kanta Roy (8) distinguishes the Privy Council case on the ground that an alternative claim for rent could have been added. Whether this view is consistent with the answer given by their Lordships of the Judicial Committee at page 152 to the second objection raised by the Counsel for the respondent, is doubtful. The decision may be correct with reference to the special rent law obtaining in Bengal. On the whole, our conclusion is that the litigation relied upon was not a suit or proceeding to ascertain the rent.

Mr. L. A. Govindaraghava Aiyar, the learned Vakil for the respondent, argued that section 15 of the Limitation Act saved the bar of limitation. The injunction was issued, as stated by us already, on the 5th May 1906. It was withdrawn by the decree of the Appellate Court on the 3rd of November 1906. The High Court reversed this decision on the 22nd of October 1909. The learned Vakil contended that on this latter date, the order of the District Munsif was revived, and that the injunction must be deemed to have been in force between the date of the District Munsif's decree and that of the order of the High Court. In the first place, the order of remand by the High Court is not tantamount to the issue of an injunction. In the second place, there was nothing to prevent the plaintiff from suing between May 1906 and October 1909. He cannot claim to exclude in his favour the time during which no injunction was in force against him. The case of Ghulam Nasiruddin v. Herdo Prasad (9) is only authority for the position that where a portion of the decree is stayed by injunction, the exclusion operates in favour of the entire decree. We, therefore, hold that section 15 of the Limitation Act is not available to the respondent.

As regards Fasli 1317, we find that when the patta was tendered giving the tenant the privilege of paying the kist two months after it became due, he raised no objection to that term in the patta. It is also in evidence that similar terms were contained in the earlier pattas. It is clear that there was a contract between the parties that the rent should be claimed only at the end of April. The claim for Fasli 1317 is not barred by limitation.

Only the patta for Fasli 1314 stipulates not to claim from the defendant the water-cess in case he is obliged to pay it to Government. There is no such undertaking in the other pattas, nor is any claim made for the water-cess of Fasli 1314 in the suit. We cannot uphold the contention of the defendants that the plaintiff is precluded from recovering water-cess because he paid it to Government.

In the result we dismiss with costs Second Appeals Nos. 529, 531, 533, 534, 538, 539 and 988 of 1913. As regards Second Appeals Nos. 530, 532, 535, 536 and 854 of 1913, the decrees will be modified by dismissing the suit as regards the claim up to Fasli 1316 (inclusive) and the decree will stand as regards the rest of the claim and proportionate costs will be allowed to both parties in this and in the Lower Appellate Court.

Appeals partly allowed and partly dismissed.

(6) 8 Ind. Cas. 1091; 36 M. 438; 9 M. L. T. 82; 20 M. L. J. 927.
(7) 29 M. 556; 16 M. L. J. 486; 1 M. L. T 315.
(8) 20 Ind. Cas. 205.
(9) 14 Ind. Cas. 343; 34 A. 436; 9 A. L. J. 540.

LOWER BURMA CHIEF COURT.

CIVIL REVISION APPLICATION No. 110 OF 1913.

November 25, 1914.

Present:—Mr. Justice Young.

P. H. RIPLEY—DEFENDANT—APPLICANT

versus

R. VAITHENATHA IYER—PLAINTIFF—RESPONDENT.

Master and servant—Monthly servant leaving without notice, whether entitled to wages—Notice Damage—Set-off.

Default of a servant after the day on which a periodical payment of wages accrued due would not deprive him of his right to recover such periodical payment. A master is entitled to reasonable notice and reasonable damages if such notice were not given, but such a plea must be raised by way of set-off and should be stamped.

Mahomed Nassoruddin v. Oppenheimer & Co. 9 Bur. L. R. 285, referred to.

Mr. Villa, for the Applicant.

Mr. Israil Khan, for the Respondent.

